RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXV.

Thoughts may be random thoughts and disconnected, following no observable order unless it be the subtle one of association, and perhaps not even that, and yet not be altogether worthless; the "burly, dozing bumble-bee" wings its flight from flower to flower in a seemingly aimless way, but this "zig-zag steerer" comes home at last laden with sweets.

The "Guesses at Truth" of two gifted brothers of a former literary generation contained more food for thought than the labored folios of many a scriptorium. The seeds of time which we lightly scatter may hold a harvest that shall come both late and long.

A kindly word to a servant, a courteous recognition of a laborer, these are little things, "trifles light as air;" but they may help if only by a feather's weight to lessen the distrust, jealousy and dislike between the masses and the classes, which is so potent a factor among the causes that threaten the very existence of society itself.

There is an order in the moral as well as the physical world, in mind, as well as matter, in ethics as well as the seasons; June always comes before September, the sowing before the harvest, the good before the beautiful; as the individual is made better, the mass is made better; as men are lifted out of their selfishness, society is reformed; we do not reach the real root of the trouble, by working simply at social reconstruction; this is beginning at the top rather than the foundation; here is something for socialists to think of. No mere eight-hour law, or economic legislation, or sanitary engineering, will bring in the universal and longed-for reign of righteousness, so long as human hearts are not made better.

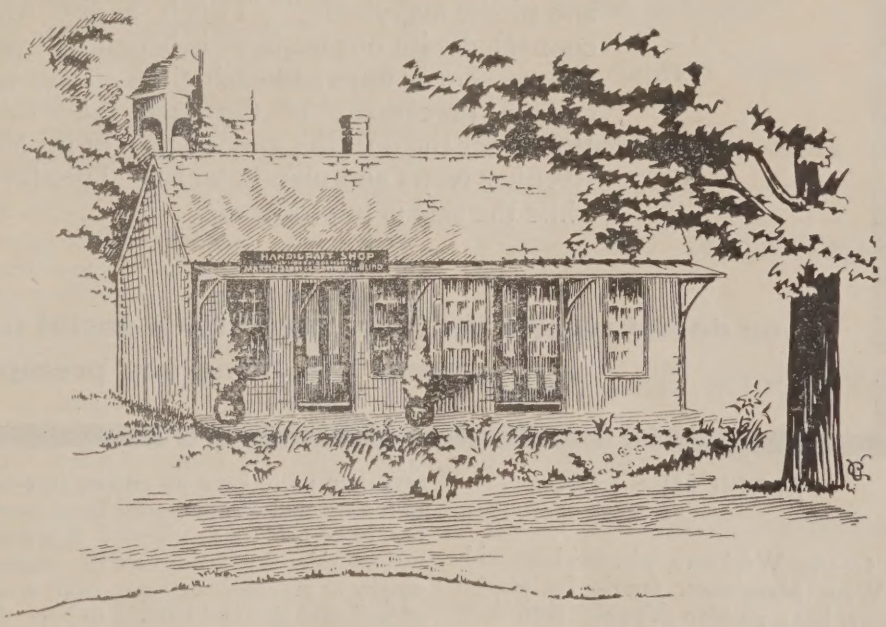

A small man may give himself out, like Simon Magus, to be some great one and deceive many, and after a brief reign of popularity, like a certain king of Israel depart without being desired; while another who owes nothing to newspaper puffs and self advertising, and receives no ovations in his lifetime, is remembered with respect and affection after he is gone and builds himself "a livelong monument."

A HANDICRAFT SHOP FOR THE BLIND

First of its Kind in America Established at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Miss Helen Keller and Other Distinguished Guests to be Present at the Opening Ceremonies Next Tuesday.

A novel enterprise, a Handicraft Shop for the Blind, so far as we know, the first of its kind in America, has been established on the village green at Manchester and at 3.15 next Tuesday afternoon the public is to have an opportunity of passing judgment upon it. The establishment of the Handicraft Shop is largely due to the generosity and kindly interest of one of Manchester's most esteemed residents, Mrs. William Hooper, and the opening promises to be a highly interesting occasion.

Handicraft Shop for the Blind at Manchester-by-the-Sea

Among those who are expected to play a prominent part in introducing the Handicraft Shop to the North Shore are: Miss Helen Keller, one of the original members of the State Commission for the Blind, who will be accompanied by her former teacher Mrs. Annie Sullivan Macy and Mr. Macy; Chairman Edward M. Hartwell, Secretary James P. Munroe, and Miss Annette P. Rogers of the State Commission; Supt. Edward E. Allen of the Perkins Institution, Supt. Charles F. F. Campbell of the Industrial Department, State Commission, and Miss Rand who recently left Lynn to enter the services of the Commission and who will have general oversight of the Handicraft Shop during the summer.

It is most gratifying to state that both the official and business interests of the town have cooperated in launching the enterprise and undoubtedly scores will avail themselves of the opportunity to inspect the work which it embraces.

Two blind Manchester girls will be constantly employed at the shop and will give practical demonstrations of hand weaving, machine sewing, basket making and typewriting. There will be also a large and interesting exhibit of handiwork of the blind.

Well said the great master of the pruned and artifical style,

"True wit is nature to advantage dressed,
What oft was thought, but, ne'er so well expressed;"

it requires a peculiar genius to put a common-place into such words as will be remembered and quoted for their appositeness and force; this, even more than its humorous dialect, is the merit of the "Biglow Papers," which had such a quaint literary flavor and did such political execution a half-century ago; the same may be said, despite its coarseness, of Butler's "Hudibras," and without

SPECIAL NOTICE

Our Eighth Department Managers' Sale opens Tuesday morning July 7th---a 5 days' event where the management is turned over to the department managers with only one instruction and that is "to make prices that will astonish and please everybody." This is a sale where everybody connected with our business is benefited from the buyers to the messenger boys and cash girls. They will all receive a certain percentage of the cash sales during this sale. Watch for the opening announcement in Monday's Salem Evening News and plan to be here Tuesday and every day while the sale is in progress.

If you do not receive the News regularly a postal to our Mail Order Department will bring one promptly.

MANCHESTER

George Workman, who has been with a West Manchester family for several years, has a position this year with Mr. Ames at Pride's Crossing.

The State Scouts' dance in the Town hall on Monday evening drew one of the largest and best crowds of the season. Barges were run to Essex and Beverly after the dance.

Early Wednesday morning as R. & L. Baker's milk wagon was coming down Vine street, the horse stumbled and fell, breaking the shafts. C. W. Sawyer was on hand and assisted in freeing the horse from its predicament. Another wagon had to be procured.

During last week 237 bathers were recorded as having used the Public bath house at Singing Beach. This is an increase of 54 over last year for the corresponding week. With the exception of Thursday, the temperature of the water was over 60 and averaged 64 or 65. On Thursday, the temperature lowered to 58. Many of the summer residents have begun to go in and this week they put their raft into the water, which affords considerable pleasure to the bathers in general, permitting them to dive off into deep water and making things pleasant for all. A petition is being gotten up to have an article inserted in the warrant of the special Town meeting, to be held soon, whereby the town will consider the laying out of enough money to purchase, or have built, a raft of sufficient size and stability to hold the crowd of bathers that will enjoy its pleasures.

Leonard Crowell was in town Monday renewing acquaintances. He is also here over the Fourth.

The summer school opens at the G. A. Priest school on Monday, July 13, and will continue five weeks, until August 14. The school will be in charge of Misses Lila Goldsmith and Myrtle Fenderson, and is intended primarily to give backward pupils an opportunity to "catch up" and go on with their classes at the beginning of the fall term.

Dr. J. DeSouza Bettencourt of San Francisco has been for the past week a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Sheehan.

The gross receipts of the recent art exhibit held at the Price primary school hall was $135, and after the expenses were paid $127 was left. This made an average of about $18 for each of the grades of the Priest school to be devoted to buying pictures for the various rooms.

Mrs. Nehemiah C. Marshall is quite ill at her home on Bridge street.

Prof. W. S. C. Russell was in town over the week-end a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning, Church street.

J. H. Blaisdell of Winchester was a guest the early part of the week of his uncle, Dr. G. W. Blaisdell, and family, Union street. Mr. Blaisdell is studying medicine.

The mowing of the grass along the sidewalks, on Beach street between the railroad and Masconomo street, gives a decidedly improved appearance to that portion of the town.

Painters' and Decorators' local, 797, elected officers at their meeting Monday evening as follows: Granville Crombie, president; Charles W. Fritz, vice president; James Murray, conductor; Frank Perry, warden.

Ernest Howe returned last Sunday from a week in camp with Co. G of Gloucester, at Pine Plains, N. Y. Another Manchester young man, Otis Lee goes to Pine Plains the middle of this month, with the 2d Corps Cadets of Salem of which he is a member.

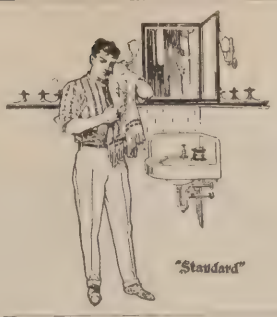

Burley Smith of Utica, New York, with his nephew, Joe Rudd, has been spending the week at Salem where he is visiting relatives. He has been spending a great deal of his time at Manchester with relatives on Smith's Point, and enjoying the bathing at Singing Beach.

Iver Johnson revolvers and air guns at Beaton's. *

Among recent births we record the following: A daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wiggin, Lincoln street, the 29th; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bullock, Washington street, the 24th; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Corkum, at the Cove, the 22d; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Timothy White, the 21st; a son to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Towle, 96 School street, the 27th.

The continued dry spell is again placing the watet supply in Manchester in a bad condition, and so low is the supply getting that the commissioners are urging all users of water to prevent all waste in any manner whatever on premises. "It is absolutely necessary that we curtail the consumption," says the notice which the board has in this week's issue. It will be remembered that a similar notice was sent out last year, but it was much later in the season,--fifty-one days later, to be exact. It is urged that the most rigid economy be practiced in the use of water.

The water board has advertised for bids on pipes for the new supply, and bids are to be in by July 10. Specifications are now practically completed and bids on the work will be called for very shortly.

Personal Attention Given to all Work. Estimates cheerfully given.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McMillan are on from Rye, N. Y., for a visit with Mr. McMillan's mother, Mrs. James McMillan, at Eaglehead, Manchester.

Among the many notable guests at the Oceanside this week, has been Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), who was the guest of the Hon. E. M. House, of Austin, Texas.

The Misses Edwards of Boston, are again occupying the Tibbitts cottage at West Manchester. Mr. and Mrs Tibbitts have been spending the spring and early summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, together with their daughters, the Misses Rosamond, Leslie and Frances Bradley, returned to Pride's Crossing, Sunday after spending the winter in Europe.

Among those who have taken apartments at the Seacrest cottage, Magnolia, are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Chandler, of Cleveland, Ohio, who are accompanied by Miss Katherine Chandler, Miss Marrette, and Master Chandler.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, who have been at their Manchester Cove estate for a fortnight or more, will not have either of their sons with them for the summer. David N. Bigelow and his bride will go direct to Chicago on returning from Europe, and Prescott Bigelow, jr., and his bride are sailing the 15th of this month to spend the summer in Europe. They will return in the early fall and may then come to the shore for a few weeks before going to town. Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow had as guests the first of this week Horatio Nevins of Boston and Miss Redfield of Philadelphia.

The week has been a busy one at Huyler's, as has been evinced by the numerous automobile parties that have stopped there for ice cream and cooling drinks. The round tables in front, under the trees, are very popular, particularly amongst motorists and carriage parties.

AT THE HOTELS

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Crocker of Fitchburg, and their family have arrived at Magnolia this week, where they have taken the Gables cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, jr., Miss Isabella Wadsworth, and Master Charles Wadsworth, of Philadelphia, are at the Wadsworth cottage for the season, as is Mrs. Thomas Wood also of Philadelphia.

Miss Shaw and Miss Eleanor Shaw, of Milton, who have formerly spent the summer at the Shaw cottage, Magnolia, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. S. C. Davis at the Oceanside, where Mrs. Davis is registered for the season.

D. C. Nugent, jr., of St. Louis, Mo., spent the week-end at the West Flume cottage with Russell Lord, of Chicago. Mr. Nugent, although he has been accustomed to spend the summer in Magnolia, will go to Poland Springs this season.

The Oceanside has been chosen by at least one newly married couple as the spot most suited for their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Lawrence, of Chicago, are at the hotel for a week's stay, and without doubt, find it a very pleasant spot from which to start on their life's journey.

Commencing Thursday evening the Oceanside began their usual summer dances held three times a week in the Casino. Every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings the Oceanside orchestra will play there for the benefit of those who wish to enjoy themselves in this manner.

Among the late arrivals last week, at the Aborn was Mrs. Arabella Howe of Boston. Mrs. Helen H. White and her son Russell White took lunch at the hotel the latter part of last week and engaged rooms for the season, which they are to occupy tomorrow or Monday. Miss Carney had as guest over the week-end, Prof. G. H. Matthews and Mrs. Matthews of New Britain, Conn.

Frank G. Curtis has just returned to Pride's from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carr and Miss Carr have just moved down to their cottage at West Manchester in time to spend the holiday.

Miss Evelyn Sears lost her title as women's national tennis champion at the Philadelphia cricket grounds last Saturday, being defeated by Mrs. Barger-Wallach of Newport, challenger, 6—2, 1—6, 6—3.

The opening golf event of the season at the Essex County club was a members' handicap, played last Saturday. There were eighteen players. The best net score was made by C. P. Sampson, who played in 99, with a handicap of 24, thus netting 75. R. L. Mackey, who played at scratch, made the best gross score,—81.

Mrs. Rockwood Hoar of Washington and Worcester is to spend the summer at Beverly Farms, having sub-rented from Mr. Denegre, the small cottage which he has been occupying while waiting for his own house at West Manchester to be completed. Mrs. Hoar will arrive about the middle of July, at which time Mr. Denegre and family will move into their house, though the big addition which has been in the course of construction since last fall, will not be entirely completed at that time. Mr. Denegre has had with him for a short visit his nephew, John Kennard of New Orleans, who is attending school at Philadelphia, preparatory to entering West Point.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Aspinwall of Chestnut Hill, Boston, opened up their summer cottage on Coolidge's Point, Tuesday, where they will remain for the season.

Mrs. E. C. Swift, who has been spending several months in Europe, sailed for home Wednesday and is expected at Pride's Crossing next week.

Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge has returned to Manchester this week from an auto tour of Europe, being a passenger on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which arrived in New York early in the week.

Senator Beveridge of Indiana, who is now settled at Manchester for the summer, was the chief speaker at last Saturday night's session of the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, in Boston. His subject was "National Legislation on Child Labor," and he made an earnest appeal to the assemblage of women before him to use every iota of their influence to secure the passage of a national law against this evil, which he said, state laws alone could never reach with entire success.

MYOPIA'S NEW PACK OF HOUNDS.

Fine Lot Secured Abroad by Mr. Mandell to Take the Place of Those Killed.

George S. Mandell of the Beverly Cove summer colony, and master of hounds at the Myopia club, was abroad when the Myopia pack was killed recently for fear of a spread of rabies. The day the hounds were killed President S. Dacre Bush of the Myopia club cabled to Mr. Mandell telling him of the killing and asking him to see what could be done about securing the nucleus for a new pack. Mr. Mandell was in France and was preparing to return to America. He hurried to England, and after considerable looking around procured from the Dumfrieshire kennels a pack of 18 couples. Sixty couples were offered from which to make a selection and the pack which was brought to America this week gives every indication of developing into splendid followers of the trail of the anise seed. Myopia has a number of experts who make a business of this work and when the dogs are taken to Hamilton by the first of September they will be well broken to the anise scent.

Some of the dogs have splendid pedigrees. Waverly has for his sire Carlow and Island Sportsman and for his dam Kilkenny Waton. Gameboy is the son of Westmeath Furrier and Their Glory. These dogs, with Telltale, Whimsical, Cheerful, Beauty, Fervent and Perfect, come from the kennels of Lord Dundonald at Meath, Ireland, and are said to have splendid records in that country.

Of the other dogs, Watchman is the son of Lord Galway's Watchman and Bramham Moor Dainty; Napper, the son of Belvoir Nailer and Warwickshire Racy; Gallant, the son of Oakley Gordon and Hopetown Waspish; Sheriff, the son of Hertfordshire Sappler and South Cheshire Victory; Volume, the son of Belvoir Statesman and South Cheshire Testy, and Windsor, the son of Hertfordshire Sergeant and Hertfordshire Welcome. The other dogs in the pack are Rasselas, Liverpool, Dashaway, Anchor and Alderman.

Of the 23 bitches, the pedigreed are Venus, sire Belvoir Vaulter, Duke of Buccleugh's Portress; Hasty, Glendale Ramrod and Glendale Harpy; Beauty, Westmeath Duster and Westmeath Bluebell; Banquet, Dartmoor Banker and Stevenstone Trifle; Winifred, V. W. H., Waldsman and Vale of White Horse Winifred; Bonnylass, H. H. Bellman and H. H. Shrewdness; Handy, Rebblesdale Hamlet and Rebblesdale Bauble; Virgin, Morpeth Solomon and Morpeth Vauban; Telltale, Westmeath Tara and Westmeath Tattle; Woodbine, Lord Tregedar's Windsor and Lord Tregedar's Sophy; Stainless, Dartmoor Statesman and South Devon Captive; Bluecap, Pytchley Hamlet and Exmoor Bondsmaid; Lavendar, Tivyside Conqueror and Kilkenny Woeful; Cheerful, Kilkenny Plunker and Kilkenny Playful; Fervent, Tynedale Adjutant and Kilkenny Fiery; Prospect, Dumfrieshire Sparkler and Dumfrieshire Playful. Of the bitches, only Restless, Crafty, Vanity and Variety have unregistered pedigrees.

The dogs were two weeks in crossing the Atlantic, but stood the voyage well and are today in tiptop condition. From Boston the pack was taken to Mr. Mandell's farm at the Cove, where a special kennel was constructed for it. Here the dogs have plenty of run, are given the best of care and are rounding out into prime form.

Many changes are being made at the kennels of the Myopia Club at Hamilton for the reception of the new pack. The kennel house is being practically rebuilt. Concrete floors will be laid and a fine run built.—(From the Boston Sunday Herald.

Society Notes.

Miss Clara Winthrop is sailing for Europe next Tuesday.

The Ernest W. Longfellows arrived at their estate at Coolidge's Point a few days ago.

George N. Wigglesworth and family arrived at their cottage at Old Neck, Manchester, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnbull and two daughters of Baltimore are among the week's arrivals at Brownland cottages, Manchester.

Joseph Leiter and his bride left Manchester Monday for Chicago, whence they go to Denver in time for the Democratic Convention next week. They return to Manchester the latter part of the month.

Another diplomatic representative is to spend the summer at Beverly Farms, E. F. Chermont, secretary of the Brazilian embassy, having leased for the balance of the summer the Apple Orchard cottage from Otis H. Luke. The Brazilian Ambassador, Joaquin Nabuce, is occupying a cottage at Hamilton.

The first concert of the season on the North Shore is announced for next Friday afternoon, July 10, at 3.30 at Mrs. Amory Eliot's, on Sea street, Manchester, by Miss Edith Thompson, pianist, and Miss Lilla Ormond, contralto. Tickets at $1.50 each can be had of Mrs. Eliot.

Walter Kimball, having just returned from Europe, will open a branch of the art galleries of Walter Kimball & Co., 31 Beacon street, Boston, at the North Shore Grill, Magnolia, on Monday, July 6. The opening exhibition will be the well known set of colored prints, the "Cries of London," from Wheatley's famous set of paintings done over one hundred years ago. These have been beautifully engraved and printed in color by T. G. Appleton of London and in complete sets are now extremely rare. Other art objects, as pictures, mirrors, furniture, bric-a-brac, etc., etc., will be found of interest to all visitors.

AT THE HOTELS

The Masconomo House at Manchester opens next Monday for the season under the management of Ryland Hamilton. Mr. Hamilton is a hotel man of many years experience. For the past few years he has been at Pittsfield, Mass., managing the Wendell Hotel.

Mrs. J. E. Hudson, of Boston, is at the Highland cottage, Magnolia, for the season.

Mrs. J. E. Pillsbury, wife of Admiral Pillsbury, head of the Naval Board at Washington, D. C., is at the Oceanside hotel, for the season.

At the Lawton cottage, Magnolia, are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Bushnell of Buffalo, N. Y. The Bushnells are accompanied by their three children, Misses Edwine and Carolyn B. Bushnell, and Clarence Bushnell.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Rees, of Cleveland, toured from Boston to Magnolia, Friday, where they arrived about noon and opened the Joslyn cottage, where they will remain for the summer. The Reeses would undoubtedly have arrived much earlier in the season but for the fact that the young people did not finish their schoolwork for the year until late.

Bathing at Crescent Beach is now made all the more enjoyable by the music, rendered by the orchestra, between twelve and one every day.

Tuesday was indeed a record breaker for warm weather. At five o'clock the thermometer at the Magnolia station registered 115 degrees. If it was as warm at that time of the day what must it have been during the noon hour. The shower at two, although for the moment it cooled the air, did not have a very lasting effect and only made it warmer if anything.

The first dance of the season which took place at the Oceanside Wednesday evening was a decided success. To the accompaniment of the delightful music rendered by the Oceanside orchestra, some one hundred and fifty couples circled about the Casino.

Perkins & Corliss have secured for the season a large six cylinder National touring car, which, with a competent chauffeur who thoroughly understands his business, is stationed on Lexington avenue directly before the Oceanside hotel, where it is at the disposal of any who may desire it.

The E. T. Slattery company of Boston opened their branch store in the Colonnade, Magnolia, last week. Here the ladies of the summer colony can find everything that they need in French millinery, and imported novelties of the season. Miss Holman of the Boston store, will have charge of the establishment this season.

A Chain and its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distinctly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

AT THE HOTELS

Brigadier-General and Mrs. George S. Andrews, of Washington, D. C., have taken apartments in the Highland cottage, Magnolia, for the season.

Miss L. C. Neville of New York is at the Overlook, one of the cottages connected with the Oceanside hotel, for the season.

Mrs. J. B. M. Kehlor, of St. Louis, Mrs. P. T. Carr, of St. Louis, and Miss Catherine Smith, also of St. Louis, have taken rooms in the Tennis cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hatfield, jr., of New York, with their baby and its nurse have taken apartments at the Highland cottage, Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Harned of New York, are at the Oceanside for the season. Mr. Harned is the private secretary of Frank Gould of New York, and is an enthusiastic motorist. The past winter he covered 12,000 miles in his Mercedes, through Egypt and on the continent. He also plans to motor extensively along the North Shore, during his stay here.

Registered at the Oceanside for a few days this week are S. H. Cox and J. D. Cox, jr., who came here from Newport in their yacht and plan to return to Cleveland, their home town, in their automobile, leaving their yacht here.

Miss Gladys Winner has been spending a few days with her chum, Miss Beatrice Smith at the latter's home on Lexington avenue. Miss Winner is enjoying the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Winner of Philadelphia, at the Hesperus.

The tennis courts of the New Magnolia hotel, which was destroyed by fire last October, have been remodelled and will be used this summer by the guests of the Hesperus.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wetherby, who have been touring from their home in Burlington, Vt., spent a few days this week at the Hesperus. They are planning to motor through the White Mountains and Maine this summer, returning home by the way of Lake Champlain.

Other guests at the Hesperus this week are: F. C. Stratton, of New York; and Frank Stratton, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., Mrs. M. V. Packard, Mrs. E. L. Barry and E. B. Van Brunt, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; A. Roy Camp, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Julius M. Wile of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Tiffany and Miss Burch of Baltimore, and Mrs. Emma B. Bowden, of Boston.

Miss Gusten Anderson will make appointments for giving massage treatment and Swedish movement at your own home. Give her a trial. Women's club, Magnolia. Tel. Magnolia 99-5. *

AT THE HOTELS

At the Aborn this week are: Mrs. J. K. B. Wade and child of New York; Mrs. J. P. Putnam of Boston with her son and daughter; Miss Harriet Robbins and Miss Warren, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. James Thorne Harper, of New York; D. C. Peirce of Boston; and Mrs. McLean Blair of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Johnson of Roanoke, Va., stopped for lunch at the Hesperus early this week after touring the North Shore in their Packard. They were accompanied by their son E. L. Johnson and his wife, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Johnson is president of the Norfolk & Western railroad.

After driving from Summit, N. J., through the Berkshires and Western Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Briggs registered at the Oceanside hotel this week, from whence they will drive along the North Shore, enjoying the many pleasant drives along the coast and through the woods.

Touring by easy stages from Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Wood of Santa Barbara, Cal., arrived early in the week in their White steamer and registered at the Oceanside. They were accompanied by Miss Ruth G. Wood, Miss E. R. Wood, and Master V. P. Wood, and plan to do a great deal of motoring during their stay on the North Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hulick of New York, have taken rooms in the Overlook cottage, Magnolia, for the season. They are accompanied by their sons William H. Hulick, jr., and Charles Vinal Hulick and his nurse. This is the seventh summer that the Hulicks have been here and speaks well for the popularity of Magnolia.

Miss Anne Abbott, who has been connected with the Arts and Craft Studio in Boston plans to open her Craft Shop and Wood Carving Studio, in the Library Building, Magnolia, on Tuesday of next week. Here one may find Russian and Japanese novelties of all descriptions, side by side with specimens of the Marblehead pottery, and the Arts and Crafts pewter. But the gift shop is only a side issue despite the value and beauty of the many articles distributed about the room. The real object of the Craft Shop, is the teaching of wood carving and hand gilding, many examples of which may be seen about the room, and in which art Miss Abbott is exceedingly skilled.

A charming little salesroom has been opened at the Oceanside hotel by Mrs. Wilson, who represents the Guild of International Needle craft of Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The accounts from all quarters of the United States show that the Fourth of July has been celebrated this year with uncommon spirit. The manner in which the celebrations have been conducted, prove, that a strong principle of patriotism, and a high sense of independence, pervade the country. It was not a mere day of festivity: it was distinguished by a cordial union of hearts, a manly avowal of federal sentiments, and, above all, useful military exercises, necessary to give energy to these sentiments."

The above was copied from the issue of the old Salem Gazette, of July 17th, 1798,—almost 110 years ago, and to us of today it is of interest inasmuch as it shows that the "Glorious Fourth," had become a day of universal celebration even twenty-two years after the "days of '76." It is a question, however, whether the celebration today will be "distinguished by a cordial union of hearts, a manly avowal of federal sentiments," as it was 110 years ago; nor are "useful military exercises, necessary to give energy to these sentiments," distinguishing features of the celebration of today.

It has been suggested that the fixtures for illuminating the Town Common for the Fourth be left up the rest of the summer, to be used particularly on band concert nights. There are to be two more concerts this month and two in August by the Salem Cadet band and it would be a matter of no great expense to "light up" on these four nights, a couple of hours each night. Furthermore there is to be a harbor illumination on the night of August 10, under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club, and perhaps it would work in handy on that occasion.

First Class Sanitarium.

We take this time to call the attention of the large number of people from all parts of the country, who are spending the season on the North Shore, to the fact that the property known as the Masconomo house, Manchester-by-the-Sea, will be enlarged and modernized into a first class sanitarium, which, when completed will be one of the most up to date institutions of its kind in the United States, for the reception of invalids. The roof will be utilized as a sun parlor and will be a model affair. It is estimated that improvements will cost from $50,000.00 to $75,000.00. The superintendent will be one of Boston's well known physicans and his large acquaintance in all sections of the country warrants a large influence in making the institution a financial success. Many doctors, especially in the large cities, realize the necessity of an institution near Boston, where such excellent climatic conditions are to be had, a place to which they may send the overworked business and social men as well as tired out society people.

Mrs. Mortimer B. Mason.

The sudden death early last Sunday morning of Mrs. Mortimer B. Mason came as a severe shock to residents of Manchester, and along the North Shore. Mrs. Mason was in her usual good health on Saturday and was out in her garden, at her summer estate on Smith's Point in the late afternoon. She went into the house and was taken suddenly ill. Physicians were called in, but all that medical skill could do was unavailing and she passed away early Sunday morning. The cause of death was hemorrhage of the brain.

Mrs. Mason was one of the best known women of the Manchester summer colony, the family having spent their summers here for many years. Besides her husband she leaves five sons,—M. Phillips, Herbert Warren, Harold F., Charles E. and Austin B., all graduates of Harvard. There is also a daughter, the youngest member of the family, Marian T.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at eleven at the summer residence of the family in Manchester, Rev. Allen E. Cross, assistant pastor of the New Old South Church, Boston, officiating. Interment was in the family lot at Forest Hills cemetery.

WANTED--A RIDER AGENT IN EACH TOWN

and district to ride and exhibit a sample Latest Model "Ranger" bicycle furnished by us. Our agents everywhere are making money fast. Write for full particulars and special offer at once.

NO MONEY REQUIRED until you receive and approve of your bicycle. We ship to anyone, anywhere in the U. S. without a cent deposit in advance, prepay freight, and allow TEN DAYS' FREE TRIAL during which time you may ride the bicycle and put it to any test you wish. If you are then not perfectly satisfied or do not wish to keep the bicycle ship it back to us at our expense and you will not be out one cent.

FACTORY PRICES We furnish the highest grade bicycles it is possible to make at one small profit above actual factory cost. You save $10 to $25 middlemen's profits by buying direct of us and have the manufacturer's guarantee behind your bicycle. DO NOT BUY a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone at any price until you receive our catalogues and learn our unheard of factory prices and remarkable special offers to rider agents.

YOU WILL BE ASTONISHED when you receive our beautiful catalogue and study our superb models at the wonderfully low prices we can make you this year. We sell the highest grade bicycles for less money than any other factory. We are satisfied with $1.00 profit above factory cost.

BICYCLE DEALERS, you can sell our bicycles under your own name plate at double our prices. Orders filled the day received.

SECOND HAND BICYCLES. We do not regularly handle second hand bicycles, but usually have a number on hand taken in trade by our Chicago retail stores. These we clear out promptly at prices ranging from $3 to $8 or $10. Descriptive bargain lists mailed free.

$8.50 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF SELF-HEALING TIRES $4.80 A SAMPLE PAIR TO INTRODUCE, ONLY

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 (cash with order $4.55).

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

North Shore Breeze

MANCHESTER

Mrs. O. M. Sawyer of Springfield is visiting her mother, Mrs. Manuel Silva, Summer street.

The much needed rain certainly reached us Thursday afternoon. Almost without warning the storm was upon us, the lightning flashing incessantly and the heavy thunder vibrated and revibrated directly overhead. Rain and hail fell with terrific force, verily washing everything before it and turning the streets into rivers. After the hot weather the storm was delightful, cooling the air. Although no serious damage was done many freaks were played by the lightning. At the home of John L. Thorndike the telephone was blown from the wall as cleanly as though it had been cut away. The lightning struck the stable of Henry S. Grew at Manchester and travelling along the telephone wire entered the house, where it tore off considerable plaster and caused several pictures to fall from the wall. It did some slight damage at the Charles Head house and Mrs. R. C. Winthrop's.

Cook-Smith.

Miss Barbara Ellerton Smith, daughter of Mrs. Nellie M. Smith, and Loring Nelson Cook, both well known Manchester young people, were united in marriage Tuesday evening, June 30, at 8.30 at the parsonage, by Rev. L. H. Ruge, pastor of the Congregational church. Miss Olive R. Cook, sister of the groom, was the only attendant.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cook went to their newly furnished apartments in the Culbert house on Brook street, and a short informal reception was held, at which were present only the immediate families of the bride and groom and a very few close friends of the couple.

The bride wore a gown of white and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley. The decorations at the house were simple, but pretty.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

Society Notes

The week has indeed been a busy one at the North Shore Grill. Automobile parties have been arriving from all directions, and many interesting people may be found there at all times. Among the many who have either lunched or taken tea at the Grill the past week are Mrs. Grant Walker of Beacon street, Boston, who came in her Royal Tourist with a party of three; Mr. and Mrs. Whitman of Brookline with a party of four Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Whitman of New York, Mrs. Bullard of Brookline, and Mrs. H. H. Whitman, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bell and Mr. and Mrs. G A. Daggert of Boston; Mrs. F. W. Robinson of Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis and Miss Mary Green of Philadelphia, and Miss Florence Stillman, Elizabeth, N. J., Miss Jessie Phyfe, Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hinckly together with Mrs. R. W. Comstock, and Miss L. A. Ingraham, came in their touring car from Providence, R. I.

In connection with the Magnolia Tea House it has been decided to run a cafe, where a luncheon or dinner will be served a la carte. This will doubtless prove to be an addition of no little merit, and will without doubt, be appreciated by many, as will be the delightful musical selections, which will be rendered every afternoon and evening.

One of the most delightful little salesrooms to be found on the North Shore is that of Miss Swift at the North Shore Grill. Dainty little novelties attractively arranged about the room afford a picture very pleasing for the eye. At the left of the door, as one enters, is a large old fashioned fire-place banked with sofa pillows. Suspended from the walls are brocades, embroideries, church vestments and altar laces, and in between them are French mirrors of various sizes and styles. In the centre of the room is a large table on which are arranged antique fans, bridge prizes, desk sets and bric-a-brac of all description. About the room are lamps and lamp shades, of which Miss Swift makes quite a specialty. All in all a more attractive little spot would be hard to find.

The graduation exercises of the Gloucester schools were held at the City Hall on Wednesday of last week. The graduates of the Blynman school were Ruth Scott, Mary Lycett, Leo Chane, Timothy McCarthy and William Knowles. Miss Ruth Scott was chosen for a recitation, representing the Magnolia school.

The Postal Telegraph and Cable office at Magnolia opened up Monday in their old quarters on Lexington avenue in the Library building. Miss Kelly, formerly of the main office, Boston, and for a time in charge of the Postal Telegraph at the Touraine, is in charge.

The atmosphere of Magnolia seems to have a very taming effect on the wild creatures in the woods that border so many of the roads. This week the chipmunks have been particularly tame and bold. At almost any time they may be seen running hither and thither across the roads and scampering about among the trees. Already have they begun to lay up their winter store of nuts and frequently are seen with their food supply in their mouths, making for their nests or hiding places.

The men's club opened last week for the summer. The club is situated at its usual site on Raymond street, under the telephone office. Although the Rev. Frederick J. Libby is really behind the club, Theodore D. Martin, of Utah, a student at Hamilton College, is practically in charge, and will try to make things as pleasant as possible for the young men of Magnolia and those who are working here during the season. The pool tables have been recovered and put into commission, tables for checkers and chess have been arranged about the room, and on the large tables may be found all the daily papers and current magazines. Later in the season pool and chess tournments will be arranged and possibly something in the line of a water contest may be gotten up.

The Indian store, conducted by G. A. Paul on Raymond street, opened last week for business. The usual line of Indian novelties may be found there, such as basket work, Indian relics, etc. Cold tonics will also be sold, where one may wash down the dust of travel.

MANCHESTER'S PART IN THE WAR OF 1812

By Edward L. Wheaton.

If the causes of the individual cities and towns for war in 1812 were considered, certainly Manchester's cause would be among the foremost. The Embargo Act prohibited ships from leaving harbor and as Manchester relied chiefly on her fisheries for her support, the people of this town were particularly hard pressed.

The chief grievance and general cause of the war was the impressment of seamen. Many Manchester sailors, some as high in rank as captains, were seized by the British, and made to serve on their men-of-war. If protest were made the captives were thrown into prison, and one Manchester man on his return from Dartmoor prison, where he had been detained by the English, made his son solemnly swear to always hate the British. However, in spite of such harsh treatment, Manchester's citizens at first were rather opposed to the war, as they thought it would only prolong the hard times. But when the struggle was no longer inevitable they were not slow in coming forward.

During the war of 1812 our ancestors won particular honor through their navy, and in this branch Manchester was well represented by her sons. Four took part in the battles on the lakes, and at the end of the war two were reported missing. It is difficult to say how many were on privateers, but it is known that three Manchester men, who shipped on the privateer "Sword Fish" of Gloucester, were killed in one of the skirmishes between their ship and two British vessels. Then, too, there were many of our heroes on the government frigates. One Lambert Flowers is said to have been on board the "Constitution" when she captured the "Guerriere," and he alone boarded the enemy's vessel, but, being unsupported by his comrades, returned to his own ship. He and Paul Leach, a ship carpenter, are known for their deeds of prodigous strength. Tradition affirms that in one fight Flowers picked up a cannon, which required four ordinary men to even lift, and carried it across the deck.

While some of our townsmen were abroad winning fame for themselves and their country, others, more greedy and thoughtful only of their own welfare remained disgracefully at home, and privately supplied the British frigates, off in the bay, with provisions. To one citizen of Manchester and his wife we may even lay the defeat of the gallant ship Cheasapeake. The English frigate Shannon, while a little way off shore, had picked up the man, who was out fishing in a dory, and he agreed to give forty sheep for his release. So at twilight a messenger came ashore and notified the wife of her husband's predicament, and that night she drove the forty sheep to Singing Beach, where they were given over to the British in return for her husband. Had it not been for this fresh supply of provisions Captain Brooks must necessarily have left our waters, and the fight would never have taken place. When the battle was on between the two vessels, all the people in Manchester went up on Town Hill and looked on eagerly. It is not pleasant to imagine the thoughts of the guilty pair during this fight. The people, however, on account of the distance, could not tell who was winning until they saw the Shannon take the Cheasapeake in tow and start out for Halifax.

While such deeds were going on at sea, proper precautions were being taken at home. The women were ever ready, at the approach of the British frigates, to seize their children and household silver, and to rush up on to the hills. The little brick powder house, which is still standing on Powder House Hill, was then erected. A breastwork was thrown up at Norton's Point and the spot is still called "The Old Fort."

Manchester, too, had its own land force, whose deeds, if not quite as important were fully as romantic as those performed upon the seas. This company was known as "Captain Joseph Hooper's Company of Foot." The names of the officers were as follows: Joseph Hooper, captain; Daniel Friend, lieutenant; Ebenezer Tappan, jr., and Amos Knight, sergeants. The men, rank and file, numbered eighty. Although this little band made but few expeditions during the war, it was drilled with never failing regularity. After maneuvres leaders and men were of equal standing, and would together bend their way toward the tavern, especially if the morning had been hot and the drill long.

This company made two noteworthy expeditions. The first of these, though it seems rather ludicrous, nevertheless served its purpose. One day a report came from the Cove that the enemy were landing. The troops were quickly collected and their only cannon loaded with the only cannon ball there was in town.

Then they set out on their two mile march to Kettle Cove. On arriving the soldiers concealed themselves behind "Crow Island" and awaited the invasion. Soon the barges came in sight, filled with British soldiers. Hereupon the drummers and fifers played their loudest, from behind the hedges and wherever they could find concealment. The British, taking alarm lest a great land force should be concealed there, turned about and fled. On the triumphant march homeward the troops discovered that the only cannon ball had rolled out of the only cannon during the march up "Craft's Hill" and there they found it lying peacefully in the gutter at the foot of the slope.

The second march of this remarkable company was less ludicrous but not less useful. Mr. Ebenezer Tappan attempted to bring a load of provisions in his vessel from Boston to Manchester, but off the Beverly shore he was pursued by the British. In order to escape with his life he was compelled to run his boat ashore on Mingo Beach. The militia from Beverly and our Manchester company were soon upon the scene, however, and after a few rounds of musket balls, put the British to flight, before the ship had been badly injured.

At the beginning of the year 1815 our citizens began to long for peace, and when the news finally did come, the event was celebrated by a great dinner in the tavern. This feast was continued until early the next morning, being prolonged by patriotic songs, shouts of merriment, and the stories of martial exploits, told and retold to the delight and glory of the returning heroes.

any such exception of the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" who beamed so genially upon us in the late 'fifties.

Some great truths are slow in gaining recognition; so it was with the Copernican theory; so it was with inoculation as a remedy for the small-pox; so it was with Harvey's great discovery; as Aubrey in his "Lives" tells us, "after his booke of the Circulation of the Blood came out [1628], he fell mightily in his practice, and 'twas believed by the vulgar that he was crack-brained; and all the physicians were against his opinion and envyed him." Some beliefs that are now universally accepted came near being hooted out of the world at their first appearance. But any one who has a true message for his fellows can afford to wait.

Egotism is to altruism in respect to the satisfaction that it gives, and the ennobling and beautifying of character, as a negative term to a positive; the one is the spirit of selfishness and narrowness, the other of moral greatness and nobility, the one is the spirit of earth, the other is the spirit of heaven, the one is from beneath, the other is from above. There is a world-wide difference between the heartlessness of Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper," and the tenderness of the great apostle, "Bear ye one another's burdens."

War for national honor and existence s one thing, and war for national greatness and glory is another thing, a difference which many of this generation seem in danger of forgetting. The men who fought for Union and Liberty knew that war was in itself an evil and a curse, they knew the awful strain and horror of it; but many of their children who have had no experience of war, who have only seen the glitter and parade and heard the fanfare of it, seem to think it a fine game to play at. If we are wise, we shall heed the lesson that History teaches us,—that the spirit of militarism, such as that which intoxicated France in the times of Napoleon, is one of the greatest evils that can come upon a people.

It is no new thing, though many seem to think so, that medicine and prayer are in perfect agreement, that man's skill and God's power may work together in perfect harmony, and that sometimes one cannot be spared more than the other. Sometimes new names are given to things that are as old as the race, and many think that they are new things, especially when they are heralded with a considerable flourish of trumpets; but if truths have been forgotten and buried, to bring them to the light is as great a service as their first discovery.

High-sounding names of Greek or Roman fame may give an air of novelty to what is as ancient as the knowledge of mind itself; the newest of sciences may be but a rediscovery, or a shifting of the emphasis or a deduction from long-known and familiar premises that have been allowed to fall into neglect. Of the truth which is at the foundation of many a modern fad, the wise man might say, "Is there anything whereof it may be said, See, this is new? it hath been already of old time, which was before us."

The contract for building a large greenhouse for A. W. Preston, of the United Fruit Co., at Phillips Beach, Swampscott, has been awarded to Howard A. Doane of Beverly Farms. Mr. Doane has the contract for the whole work. The buildings are really three in number,—a work room 25 feet long, and two greenhouses about 38 feet long each.

Mr. Doane also has the contract for building an addition of substantial size to Dr. Geo. H. Washburn's summer residence on Masconomo street, Manchester. The addition will be 18x25 feet, three stories, giving an office down stairs and chambers above.

Repairs and alterations to the Pierce studio at Manchester are also to be made by Mr. Doane, the new work including a dormer window the whole length of the back of the studio.

Godfrey L. Cabot, of Cambridge, this week purchased of J. Sumner Draper of Milton, the land and buildings recently belonging to Charles E. Hubbard of Boston, on Oak street, Beverly Farms, 138 feet, by 203 feet. Mr. Cabot will occupy the property as a summer residence.

MANCHESTER

The Boston papers of Thursday had a heading something like this: "Manchester boat Towed by Cruiser." In explanation we are told that as the Mickey II, owned by R. C. Hooper of the West Manchester colony, was on its return rrip from New London, the boat run out of gasoline off Boston light, and one of the men was sent in shore in a small boat to procure some of the very necessary liquid. Meanwhile the new Cruiser Salem came along and seeing the small boat so far out to sea, in a seemingly helpless condition, hove to and proffered assistance. They had proceeded but a short distance, however, when the returning boat with the gasoline was met and the tow line was thrown overboard.

"Never Say Die"

Is an old motto, but our advice is "if you have anything worth dyeing, have it dyed." And there are so many supposedly worthless things in the way of clothing, curtains, feathers, etc., that are worth dyeing and cleaning that we would ask you to think it over seriously before throwing or giving them away, and see how nice and new-looking we can make garments that now appear to be old and shabby. And the cost is but trifling.

Misses Myra Williams and Jennie Bolam have been at Pawtucket, R. I., visiting Miss Marguerite Mitchell, but they returned home for the Fourth.

A large number of outing parties have been occupying the cottages along West Beach the past week and a great many have enjoyed the warmth of the water.

Marble work has been installed in the market of Daniels-Gleason Co. in Central Square in preparation for the fish market which will be opened there early next week.

A smouldering fire in the woods back of William P. Day's residence on Hart street, broke into a brisk blaze Tuesday evening and before the flames could be extinguished had burnt over an area of seven acres.

A party of friends joined Mrs. Lewis Hardy in celebrating her birthday on Tuesday, and many pleasantries were exchanged. Many tokens of esteem were presented her and a merry time was had by all both in the afternoon and in the evening.

A lawn party is to be given on the grounds of St. Margaret's Rectory on Wednesday evening, July 15. There will be an illustrated lecture on the Passion Play of Prof. Timothy Drake. Refreshments will be for sale and dancing will be enjoyed. Tickets are 50 cents. On the afternoon of the same day at 2.30 a children's lawn party will be held. Articles will be for sale and dancing will be enjoyed. Tickets are 15 cents.

The committee, in whose hands the arrangements for the annual celebration of the Fourth were laid, have done all in their power to make the celebration a success, and it now rests in the hands of the people at large to carry out their part of the work and make this Fourth the most enjoyable on record. To add to the zest of the sports, George Chipchase presented the committee with a handsome silver cup, which he put up as first prize in a half mile horse race on West Beach. To assist in the evening illumination, the owners of bath houses along the beach are requested to decorate their houses with Japanese lanterns in order that the light effects may be made more pleasant.

Ralph Peirce has a new motor cycle.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Kearns, of Rockland, Maine, are visiting relatives here over the Fourth.

Mrs. Thomas J. McDonnell has gone to Wellesley to improve her health, which has been very poor of late.

John Garvey, who was injured by an automobile last week, is improving rapidly, although he still suffers considerably from his injuries.

Cold drinks may be had of Thomas Gauld on the Fourth, either at Marshall's Field or at West Beach where he will have a stand in the afternoon and evening.

The new wood drive, "Pole Swamp Lane," from Valley street to the Chebacco road, near Preston Place, is now open and affords a very beautiful drive through the woods.

The breaking and subduing of Mrs. Thomas Peirce's gray mule, which ran away with her recently, has afforded considerable sport for those who have watched the proceedings. An open lot on Hart street was used for the purpose, and, although the mule was as stubborn as animals of that kind are apt to be, it was finally conquered.

"Oh, My, It Is So Hot, Don't Seem as Though I Ever Suffered so from the Heat"

Suppose you said this yesterday same as lots of other people did—probably will say it a good many times before this summer's over. Better plan to keep outdoors

It's going to be a hot one, just you wait and see! Then, too, the Jolly 4th will be here in a few days and of course you expect to do some entertaining then. Don't for goodness sake have to resort to the "inside" furniture to provide outside comfort, it's so hot and stuffy, and it looks so sort of peculiar to have one do that, and, too, we never had such an assortment of summer Requisites to please every taste, so there's no real good reason for it; never so low priced, either, regular cold weather prices.

Driver Fred Woodbury has completed his vacation at Poor Farm Point, Essex, and returned to his duties Wednesday.

The teachers at the Farms schools have returned to their homes for the summer, Miss Williams going to Orange, Miss Bruerton to Reading, and Miss Carpenter to Foxboro.

Mrs. James E. Lee, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Standley on West street, returned this week to her home in West Manchester where she will spend the balance of the summer.

Michael Derrigan, one of our former residents, has been revisiting friends here the past week.

The "municipal" dump on Beach street still continues to give the fire department considerable trouble, and has begun to be quite a joke to all except those who have to extinguish the fires.

The drama given in Neighbor's Hall, Wednesday evening, by the Beverly Farms Gymnastic class, Miss May D. Connolly, instructor, was attended by a crowded house. The program as presented in last issue was carried out. A number from out of town attended the performance. Everyone taking part are to be heartily congratulated on their work. A feature of the performance was the reading, between the acts, by Master Richard Craven of two selections, "A-Hunting" and "A Colored Lochinvar." Master Craven's reading of "A Colored Lochinvar" has been making a great hit recently and he is quite in demand. Following the performance the seats were cleared from the floor and the balance of the evening spent in dancing.

Band Concert Next Week.

The next concert in the series, given on the Common in Manchester, by the Salem Cadet Band, will be given next Wednesday evening. Added to the usual attraction of such a fine band, the concert next week will be enlivened by the brilliancy of over 1000 electric lights, for the fixtures for the Fourth of July electrical illumination will be used again on that night.

Crowds are planning to come to Manchester from out of town, and if it is a good night there will be a big crowd on hand to hear the music. The program to be presented is as follows:

1. March, Imperial, Bagley
2. Overture, Morning, Noon and Night, Suppe
3. Solo for Cornet, Bride of the Waves, Clark
   MR. NELSON BERNIER.
4. Grand Selection, Carmen, Bizet
5. Selection, Popular Songs, Morse
6. Waltz, Jolly Fellows, Vollstedt
7. Solo for Trombone, La Favorite, Hartman
8. Selection, The Parisian Model, Hoffman
9. Selection, Lohengrin, Wagner
10. March, I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark, Alstyne

Special Town Meeting.

At their meeting Thursday evening the Manchester Board of Selectmen acted upon a petition calling for a special town meeting on Wednesday evening, July 22, at 8 o'clock, to see what action the town will take relative to purchase of the Manchester Electric Co., and the board voted to call a special meeting on the date given above. The warrant will be posted the first of next week.

The option which the town has of purchasing this plant expires in September. The law in such a case as this requires that another meeting be held about two months after the first meeting to vote on the matter a second time, and on which occasion the check list must be used and a two thirds vote obtained in order to carry the vote.

The Barbecue.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Taft will not be able to be present at the Barbecue which was to be held at the Point of Pines, July 16th, the committee having charge of the arrangements, decided to postpone the event to a day which would be suitable to Mr. Taft's convenience. As soon as that date is ascertained it will be announced.

HELEN KELLER AT MANCHESTER

And took part in the Opening of the Handicraft Shop for the Blind

Picturesque and impressive were the exercises held on the edge of the Common, at Manchester, Tuesday afternoon, when the little handicraft shop for the blind was formally opened. The presons, including members of the summer colony. Those who saw Miss Keller deliver her address from the porch of the little shop, will not soon forget the expressive face of the blind girl as she sence of Miss Helen Keller, the wonderful blind girl, and her very choice little address, added to the interest in the exercise.

The handicraft shop, the first of its kind in the state, and said to be the first of its kind in the country, is located in one half of the little building next to the Congregational church, and is one of the oldest buildings in town.

There were present besides a number of men and women connected with the commission for the blind, some 200 persons, including members of the summer colony. Those who saw Miss Keller deliver her address from the porch of the little shop, will not soon forget the expressive face of the blind girl as she spoke, nor the joy with which her features were lighted. She fairly quivered as she proceeded, for she was highly sensible of the importance of the moment and she probably felt that her words would bring somewhat of joy to the 4000 blind persons in the state as well as those who are blind elsewhere.

The gathering was called to order by Town Clerk A. S. Jewett, who spoke briefly of the work of the commission. He said that the commission is appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Council and organized under Chapter 385 of the Acts of 1906. It is authorized to provide a bureau of information and industrial aid, to assist blind persons in marketing their products, to provide workshops and industrial training, and in general to ameliorate the condition of the blind "by such other methods as it may deem expedient; provided that the Commission shall not undertake the permanent support or maintenance of any blind person."

He then introduced the chairman of the commission, Dr. Edward M. Hartwell, who gave a brief outline of the appointment of the commission by the governor through an act of the state legislature in 1906, and the appropriating of money to carry forward the work. He told of the work which the commission had been doing and was doing at present among the blind people all over the state, of whom there were 4000.

Of these but a small number were born blind; most of them were overtaken by blindness after 30 years of age. Many of those who are blind can do some kind of work. There are some 60 blind women throughout the state who send consignments of their work regularly to the commission. Two shops have been established by the commission in Cambridge and one in Boston. One blind man has set up in business as a cobbler in Swampscott and another in Manchester. Of course much had always been done by the Perkins institute, but the commission intended to supplement and enlarge the scope of this good work. Massachusetts is doing more for its blind today than any other government in the world.

Dr. Hartwell wished it understood that the work which is to be offered for sale in the shop and the work which is being generally done for the blind, was offered on its merits as work. Interest and sympathy were required in the movement, but the aim was to make the blind self-supporting if possible.

James P. Munroe said he regretted, as did others, that Mrs. Hooper could not be present. He congratulated the people of Manchester on the deep interest they had taken in this work of the commission for the blind.

Helen Keller was then introduced and beside her stood Mrs. Macy, just touching with ner right hand the blind girl's left arm. Miss Keller said:

"I cannot express my delight at the opening of this new craft-shop. It gives a heartening sense of progress in a cause that I hold dear, and we all feel repaid for the effort that it has cost to start the industries of the blind on a practical basis. I hope this will be the first of many shops for the sales of articles produced by skilled blind workers, and that the beautiful fabrics which they produce at Cambridge will be more widely known, not only in Massachusetts, but also in other parts of the country.

"If the shops should not pay in the material sense this summer, I trust none of you will feel that the effort is lost. It will warm the hearts of the blind everywhere to know that a generous friend like Mrs. William Hooper has appreciated their ability. It will encourage other workers for the blind to see that the sightless can make articles fine enough to be admired by the cultivated and sold in this beautiful place.

"You have come here full of pleasant thoughts of rest and recreation. You have left behind many weary cares, responsibilities and good works in the city; but responsibilities and good works have followed you here and set up this little shop. They follow you not in the gray garb of charity and social problems, but as purveyors of beauty to charm the eye and light the intellect.

"The money which you spend here will bring you something better than fine fabrics. It will bring glad thoughts, and the satisfaction that you have helped to render other lives useful and happy. If the economic mind dismisses as of no value the sentiments of brotherly love which the shop represents, will it not be satisfied with the thought that two blind girls who live in Manchester can work all summer and earn their own living? Think how the news of their success will spread from town to town, and how more and more people will desire to share in the beneficent work of giving the blind profitable employment. I rejoice in your power to incaease the happiness of the sightless. It is true that some can give much and others only a little; but the large kindness behind that little makes it mean a great deal. I rejoice with you that it is your portion to carry encouragement and light to those who dwell in the dark."

Miss Keller's words could not be heard more than a dozen feet away, but at the end of each sentence Mrs. Macy, who held the blind girl's arm, repeated the words so that all could hear them.

The aim and object of the commission is to help the blind to help themselves, and become self supporting. Massachusetts is the first state to undertake such a work, and the results here in Manchester are being carefully watched by all interested in the blind everywhere. In the little shop Tuesday, and every day since, sat a blind girl,---Miss Etta Knowlton of Manchester---working at a loom as skilfully as if she had sight. Miss McClintock is also at the shop, and among her work she is prepared to do typewriting. There was much else displayed at the shop, but most everything was sold on the opening day, so that a new and fresh supply had to be procured at once. There are such articles as towels, table coverings, napkins and various other fabrics with original designs woven into them that give them a distinctive character; there are knitted and machine work, hand woven rugs and art fabrics, etc., etc. Hair mattresses, feather pillows, hair pillows, and many other useful things are offered for sale.

The shop is under the immediate supervision of Charles F. F. Campbell, who is superintendent of the industrial department of the state commission. To his sympathetic work, in which he has been aided by Mrs. Campbell, much of the success of this department is due. Miss Lotta Rand, assistant superintendent of the department of registration, was also present, as was Charles W. Holmes, deputy superintendent of the industrial department. Three members of the commission were present: Dr. Edward M. Hartwell, chairman of the board; Annette P. Rogers and James P. Munroe.

The little shop, as has been said, is an old, one-story wooden building, which has been very tastefully fitted up inside. although all of the weather beaten evidences of antiquity have been permitted to remain on the outside, except that a little sign over the porch tells of the present uses to which the old residence is being put, reading:

"Handicraft shop for the blind, under the direction of the state commission and Perkins institute."

While the shop was established here largely through the beneficence of Mrs. William Hooper, others are to be praised for their interest, such as L. W. Floyd, who gives free rent of the shop for the summer, Roberts & Hoare, who fitted up the shop, and E. A. Lane, who donated the painting.

Mrs. Oliver Ames entertained a small house party over the Fourth including Misses Susan and Sallie Thayer, Miss Stackpole and Mr. Dalton.

The first band concert in the series to be given weekly at the Essex County club was given Wednesday afternoon of this week, on which occasion the club house was alive with people from all along the shore.

Theodore Shonts, who left the Panama canal work to accept the presidency of the Interuban Railway Co., New York City, was a guest over the Fourth of the Frank P. Fraziers, at the Caswell estate, Pride's.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan and Miss Dorothy Jordan arrived in New York on the Adriatic Thursday and came at once to their West Manchester summer home. They have been abroad since the early winter.

Mrs. Ezra C. Fitch entertained a party of twelve at luncheon at her cottage, Riverhouse, Manchester, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Fitch also entertained a small party at luncheon at the Essex County club, Monday.

It is welcome news for the North Shore summer colony that a series of parlor musicales are being arranged by Mrs. McAllister to be given later in the season. For the first Mrs. Oliver Ames will open her house on Hale street at Pride's Crossing. The second will be at Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell's, Manchester, and for the third and last Mrs. E. C. Swift has offered her fine villa, Swiftmoor, at Pride's. Mrs. McAllister has engaged for these musicales, among other prominent artists, Mme. Louise Homer, Nathan Fryer, recently from Vienna and a brilliant pianist; Prof. Willie Hess, Miss Lilla Ormond, and Francis Robinson. This subscription series will be distinctly smart, fashioned much after those which Mrs. McAllister has made such a success of in the winter at the Somerset.

Fern-Croft Inn—as it is today.

A MOST

Interesting Spot

Just off the famous Newburyport Turnpike, on a quiet shady lane, in a region rich in historic interest, is FERN-CROFT INN, a charming resting place for the tired traveler in auto or carriage, a most comfortable dining resort patronized by the best sort of people. The new Fern-Croft Inn is in every way the counterpart of the old, which was destroyed by fire last year. The specialty of Fern-Croft Inn, that has made its fame almost world-wide, is its chicken dinners, consisting of a whole broiled chicken to each person, served at $1.50 per plate. Afternoon teas daily 4 to 6.—Telephone: Danvers 45-2.

AT THE HOTELS

The Masconomo hotel at Manchester has opened for the season under the efficient management of R. Hamilton, an hotel man of considerable experience. Not many years ago the Masconomo was the leading resort along the North Shore, and Mr. Hamilton will do his best to give the best service at his command. It was feared the hotel would not open this year, and it will be a pleasing bit of news to know that it is now open for business. The location is par excellence and commands an extended view of the water, while in the foreground are the spacious lawns of the hotel. The entrance is a most delightful one, passing through the shade trees and flower beds to the low veranda encircling the hotel. From the rear a charming walk extends through rows of maples to Singing Beach passing the several cottages connected with the hotel.

Mrs. B. B. Hale of Boston has registered at the Masconomo, in Manchester for the season.

Another member of the diplomatic corps has chosen the North Shore as his summer headquarters. The latest to arrive is Senor G. de Viaimi Kelsch, first secretary of the Brazilian legation, who has taken apartments at the Masconomo for the summer. The embassy headquarters is at Hamilton.

The Miami cottage, one of those connected with the Masconomo has been taken for the summer by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Sullivan of Boston, who arrived Wednesday accompanied by their daughters, the Misses Mary B., C. Elizabeth, Genevieve and Dorothy Sullivan, and Master D. A. Sullivan, jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Murchie of Ipswich, together with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Briggs and C. D. Daly stopped at the Masconomo, in Manchester, for dinner on the Fourth.

Philip C. Kauffman was the guest Sunday of his father J. V. Kauffman at the Oceanside where he has taken rooms in the Tennis cottage for the summer. Mr. Kauffman left again Wednesday.

AT THE HOTELS

At the concert tomorrow night, held in the parlors of the Hesperus, Ralph Smalley will introduce as soloist, Percy Baker, an eminent baritone of Boston. Mr. Smalley will also render several solos and plans to make the concert the event of the season thus far.

H. S. Rand, jr., has been entertaining at the Oceanside during the week his chum and class-mate at Harvard, H. Benjamin Peirce of Cambridge and with true Harvard spirit the young men have been skylarking around the hotel and Magnolia. One of the jokes played by Mr. Peirce was that of registering as coming from Kristiania, Norway.

The children of the Dorothy Dix hall, Boston, are expected at the Hesperus the 13th of this month, when they will give their annual entertainment. This consists largely of singing and recitations in appropriate costumes and is always enjoyed by those who witness the performance.

L. F. Gordon, a prominent manufacturer of Worcester, registered at the Hesperus late last week, where he will remain for the summer. With him were Mrs. Gordon and their sons Winfield and Forrest Gordon and Rufus Robinson. The Gordons came in their White Steamer from Worcester and plan to do a great deal of motoring along the shore.

H. G. Sargent, a prominent lawyer of Concord, N. H., has taken apartments at the Hesperus for the season and is accompanied by Mrs. Sargent, Miss Sargent, and William T. Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Phillips of Chicago, and Miss H. G. Phillips have engaged rooms in the Villa, one of the cottages connected with the Hesperus hotel, for the summer.

William G. Ward of Boston, who is connected with the Federation Bulletin, the official paper of the Federation of Women's clubs, is at the Hesperus for the summer months.

Society Notes

The Hon. Lewis Morris Reddings, consul general at Cairo, has been the guest of Mrs. Franklin Haven at Beverly Farms, the past week. In the Consul's absence from Cario, the affairs are in charge of F. Munroe Endicott, the vice consul general.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Dana have with them for the summer at their summer residence at Dana's Beach, Manchester, their son and his bride, Mr. and Mrs. Allston Dana. Mr. and Mrs. Dana were married in June. In the autumn they go west as far as Montana, where Mr. Dana will be engaged at his profession as civil engineer.

At the Essex County club today a members' handicap competition is being played. The first open event of the season will be played next week, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 16, 17, 18. This will be open to members and associates of the United States Golf association. On Thursday the qualifying round, 36 holes, will be played, three sixteens to qualify for match play for cups. Gold medal for best gross score. (36 holes.) On Friday morning, first round; afternoon, second round; Saturday morning, semi-finals; afternoon, finals. Pairs will be drawn by lot immediately after conclusion of qualifying round Thursday. Silver medal to runner-up in each class. Entrance fee, $1.00. Post entries. To competitors who have previously entered, the privileges of the club are extended during the entire week. A similar competition will be given Aug. 20, 21 and 22.

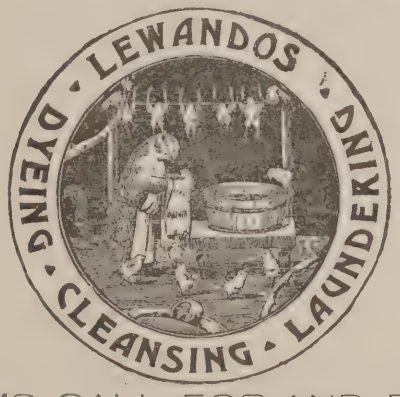

A very pleasant little party at the Grill, Sunday, was that of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. House, who entertained friends from Manchester, including Mr. and Mrs. William A. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fitch, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Tucker and Miss Marion Tucker. The Houses, who are from Austin, Texas, are spending the summer at the Oceanside, but are sailing soon for Europe.

Mrs. Nellie Mathes Horne, a well known portrait painter of Boston is cozily settled in her new studio at the North Shore Grill. She is showing several portraits of well known men in Boston and New England. A most remarkable likeness is that of Edward Everett Hale, showing his wonderful vigor and kindly expression. To one having seen him only once, the result in drawing and coloring is evident. The portrait of ex-Gov. Long is almost real. One sees the strong virile qualities of this man, who possesses both literary and executive ability. Mrs. Horne first painted Mr. Long's portrait in Washington, where it hangs in the Navy building, and later for the library at Buckfield, Me. The studio contains many other interesting pictures and numerous visitors have testified their appreciation. One that attracts all eyes is that of her two little children, painted with all her skill and inspired by her mother's love.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse entertained a party at the Slater cottage, which they are occupying at Beverly Cove, one evening recently with a real old fashioned Rhode Island clambake. The bake was served on the lawn in front of the cottage, facing the ocean. Japanese lanterns and colored incandescents strung through the trees added to the picturesqueness of the scene.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Perrin of New Orleans arrived at Magnolia, Wednesday, where they will spend the summer in the Shore View cottage belonging to F. K. M. Rehn of New York.

The Storey cottage at Magnolia has been taken for the season by A. F. Emmonds, who arrived, the middle of the week from his home in Boston.

Mrs. A. S. Upson, who has been accustomed to spend the season at the Aborn, Magnolia, has arrived from her home in London, England, and will spend the summer months here.

Mrs. W. I. Hamilton, accompanied by Miss Leonora Hamilton, R. J. Hamilton and Mrs. James Briscoe, all of Hagerstown, Md., have taken rooms in the Hesperus Villa for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Faunce of Boston were guests at the Aborn, Magnolia, over the Fourth. It is expected that the Faunces will return later for a prolonged stay.

The work of making portraits in photography at the present time is worth more than passing notice, for its place is established as one of the fine arts of the twentieth century. We therefore take pleasure in calling attention to the exhibition of Mr. Garo's photographs now being held at the art rooms of Walter Kimball & Co. at the North Shore Grill. One reason for Mr. Garo's great success is that, before taking up photography, he was an artist by profession. The knowledge and experience thus gained in this branch of his art prove to be an excellent foundation for the fame he has gained in his present specialty. To understand composition, the effect of lights and shadows, in a picture, and the ensemble, as it were, is not to be obtained from the average photographer because he does not possess the necessary ability to see results from an artist's standpoint. The present exhibit, in which are many faces of well known people, is the finest from a high class standard that has ever been seen here. Mr. Garo will be in Magnolia and vicinity about July 20th for a limited period and will be prepared to take photographs, of those who desire them, in their own homes. Application for appointments may be made at his exhibition now being held in the North Shore Grill.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Benshimol of Boston, and Miss C. M. Farren of the same city, are among the week's arrivals at the Hesperus. Mr. Benshimol is a lawyer of no little prominence in Boston.

Mrs. Prentiss H. Manning has closed her studio on Boylston street, Boston, and will be found at the New Magnolia Tea House, where she has taken the unique Delft Studio again for the season. She is a well known student of psychology and her study of the science of hand reading is most interesting and wonderful. Mrs. Manning, nee Curtis, is of the old Curtis family of Braintree and Concord, Mass., and is a cousin of the famous landscape architect, Joseph H. Curtis, of Boston. Mrs. Manning is a sister-in-law of the beautiful and fascinating Mrs. Robert S. Minot of Dover, Mass., formerly owner of the Andrew Carnegie, 2d, house "Seawold," Manchester. Mrs. Manning had the "Anchorage Studio" at East Gloucester two summers ago and was the fashion there.

The Ladies' Missionary society will meet with Mrs. J. F. Rabardy at her cottage in Annisquam next Tuesday, July 14. If stormy the meeting will be held next day.

Prof. Drake, the well known lecturer, will deliver his illustrated lecture on the Passion Play a week from tomorrow at the New Sacred Heart church, at 8.30 in the evening.

Rev. Fr. Powers has begun his annual house to house call through out his parish.

Rev. D. W. Hearn, S. J., vice president of Boston College and formerly president of St. Francis Xavier's College, New York City, will preach at the 10.30 Mass at the Sacred Heart church tomorrow and will hear the confessions of the men of the Holy Name Society this Sunday evening.

Rev. W. B. Tilden of Tenants Harbor, Me., will preach at the Baptist church tomorrow.

Rev. C. Arthur Lincoln of St. Louis, assistant pastor at Dr. Campbell's large church, and formerly pastor here, took part in the services at the Congregational church last Sunday. He assisted in the devotional exercises and preached a short sermon prior to the Communion services. He preached from the text: "If thou canst, all things are possible to him that believeth." (Mark 9:23, revised version.) Mr. Lincoln's sermon dealt with the exercise of faith in Man's creative part, which he took up under these three considerations: (1) The freedom in which creative faith operates; (2) the nature of creative faith; and (3) method of introducing faith into its nature field so as to insure successful results.

At the morning service, at the Congregational church four new members were admitted to membership,—three by confession of faith and one by letter. A novel feature in extending the hand of fellowship to the new members was the presence of Rev. Mr. Lincoln of St. Louis, who welcomed the new members into the church universal as well as into the local society.

Rebecca Frances May.

Rebecca Frances, wife of Nehemiah C. Marshall, passed away at her home on Bridge street, Manchester, Thursday morning at the age of 74 years, 7 months.

Though Mrs. Marshall had not been in good health for several years, she had been seriously ill less than a fortnight.

Born in Manchester on Dec. 11, 1833, Mrs. Marshall was the daughter of Isaac and Pamelia (Leach) May, and her ancestry dates back to before Revolutionary days, so that it may be said she came from the "old stock." Born in the May house at West Manchester, along side the present Marshall house, and which has recently been remodelled into a summer cottage, Mrs. Marshall had spent all her days here.

She was of a loving and genial disposition, and in her younger days was active in the social life of the village. Though not a member of the church she always took an active interest in church work and was for a number of years a member of the Congregational church choir.

Her death removes the last of a large family, there having been five sisters. The end came peacefully and she passed away with the feeling that she was to meet friends on the other side.

Besides one son, Isaac M. Marshall, editor of the Manchester Cricket, she leaves a husband, to whom she was married on May 12, 1853, by the Rev. Mr. Taylor, then pastor of the Congregational church.

Funeral services will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. L. H. Ruge officiating. Burial will be in the family lot at Rosedale cemetery.

The Land and Water Sports.

A coming event that is sure to be of great interest to the summer residents and guests at the hotels, is the land and water sports to be held on Crescent Beach, Magnolia, Tuesday, July 28. The sports will be carried on under the management of the Oceanside hotel, and great pains are being taken to make it a complete success in every way. Many interesting events are in the program both on land and in the water. This is the seventh annual land and water sports' event and this year will differ greatly from those of previous years. The sports in brief will be as follows:

On land: A 100-yd dash for men open to all; a 50-yd dash for boys; potato race; relay race 300 ft relays, between the "bell hops" of the Oceanside and Hesperus. This last is already causing considerable interest and the boys have begun their training in preparation for the event. Another of the land sports that is sure to attract no little attention is the Marathon race to be run through the streets of Magnolia beginning and ending on the beach over a course of two and a quarter miles. The last on the list of land sports is the pillow fight in which the contestants straddle a pole and strike at each other with a pillow. The one who loses his balance first is beaten.

In the water a 100-yd race for men will be the first event. Following that will be a 50-yd race for boys; a rowboat race, one man in a boat for men; and a ladies race of 50-yd, for which Miss O'Brien, the winner of last year, has already arrived in Magnolia to contest her right as winner. It is expected that some fancy exhibits of swimming will be made by members of the Brookline Swimming club, many of whom have been here in past years to partake in the sports and the gymkhana. Entries may be made with T. F. O'Connor at the Bathing Beach Co. Bathhouse, Magnolia.

E. Preble Motley.

The death at Pride's Crossing last Friday, July 3, of E. Preble Motley removes another member of the North Shore summer colony,—the third within a fortnight and the sixth since June 1. Mr. Motley's death, however, was not unexpected, as his illness had been a long and painful one.

Mr. Motley was a brother of Mrs. Dudley Pickman of Beverly Cove and of Thomas Motley. He leaves besides a widow, three sons,—J. Lothrop, Harvard '02, Warren, '04, and Edward Motley.

Mr. Motley belonged to the Somerset, the Automobile, the Myopia Hunt, the Riding and the Country clubs. The funeral was on Monday at the Motley summer home at Pride's Crossing and the remains were taken to town on the 11.43 train from Pride's.

Mrs. A. D. Kinne of Washington was the guest of Mrs. A. C. Bliss at the Oceanside, Monday.

TOWN OF MANCHESTER

BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS

Sealed proposals for laying water pipes in Manchester and Hamilton, for the additional Water Supply for the Town of Manchester, addressed to the Board of Water Commissioners, endorsed "Proposal for laying Water Pipes; additional Supply" will be received at the office of said Board of Water Commissioners, in the Town Hall Building, until eight o'clock P. M. of Thursday, the twenty-third day of July, 1908, and then and there publicly opened and read.

For the convenience of bidders, arrrangements will be made to have an employee of the Board go over the route of the proposed pipe line with bidders who so desire; one day's notice being given to the Engineer.

Proposed blanks together with complete specifications can be obtained from Raymond C. Allen, Manchester, Mass., Engineer.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $1000.00 payable to the Board of Water Commissioners of the Town of Manchester.

Should any bid be rejected, such check shall be forthwith returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such check shall be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract.

The Board of Water Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to accept any bid, if the best interest of the Town of Manchester may thereby be conserved.

FREDERICK J. MERRILL,
Chairman, Water Commissioners.
RAYMOND C. ALLEN, Engineer.

THE Beverly Board of Health, acting on many complaints, have issued an edict, compelling all owners of motor boats to have them muffled before July 10. Last year the Manchester Board of Health took similar action and the growing nuisance to those along the water front, at least, seemed to lessen. This year complains have been made again to the Board of Health and a meeting will be called very soon to take action on the matter.

It appears to us that if the continual "sputterings" of motor boats going out and in the harbor at all hours of the night and early morning is causing unrest and complaints to come from those living near the water, it is nothing more than fair than an effort should be made to put a stop to such noises. Under-water mufflers deaden the noise. If there are motor boats in the harbor without the under water mufflers they should be forced to comply with this regulation.

Manchester has many cottages almost on the water's edge, and their owners come here to live the greater part of the year because they like the place, and enjoy quiet and rest. They pay big taxes to the town. Surely such objectionable features as noisy launches and motor boats puffing about the harbor all hours of the night and day are not attractive features.

It is true that there are not many of these "un-muffled" boats in the harbor, and sometimes the noise is made by boats from outside, but if there are such boats in the harbor they should be made to comply with the regulations such as were made last year, and such as are now being enforced elsewhere.

THE records of the Safe Roads Automobile Association show that they have done good work and that it should be continued another year, as in our estimation there is need of the utmost caution and using all the safeguards possible until many who have charge of automobiles get the idea out of their heads that they can do as they please without regard to the rights or safety of the public.

During the year 313 cases were examined, of which 103 seemed to require full investigation.

Of these, 35 cases were prosecuted before the Massachusetts highway commission, with the following results:—Licenses revoked, 13; suspended, nine; complaints dismissed, four; dismissed with caution, two; placed on file, three; placed on file with a caution, one; hearing indefinitely postponed, one; not heard, one; decision reserved, one. There were nine cases prosecuted in courts, one of which was for driving a machine while intoxicated. In these cases, six defendants were fined, one defaulted, one appealed and one was indicted by the Essex county grand jury.

There is no intention on the part of the officers of this association to annoy the owners or chauffeurs, but merely to see that the law is observed in regard to speeding the machines and that proper safeguards are noted. There is a much needed reform in the way of driving and it is hoped ere long the public may feel relieved of being obliged to run the fearful risks which the speeding of automobiles on the public roads brings in its train. We have had sufficient of this and there must be a let up.

The advent of Oklahoma into the Union marks the addition of another star to the blue field of our flag,—the 46th. It is interesting to note that every State in the Union flew the new flag on the Fourth with the exception of Massachusetts. This fact, however, should not reflect on the honor of the Commonwealth in as much as the demand exceeded the supply and the State could obtain none of the new flags. Another fact of no little interest is that the flags for the army and navy are made under the supervision of the government and as far as possible the widows of the soldiers and sailors, or those dependent upon them, are employed.

WHISPERINGS

Snow shoes made to order! Yes, snow shoes. The idea of suggesting such a thing to North Shore people this kind of weather. And yet, Paul, the Indian basket maker at Magnolia, is advertising this fact. It makes us feel like the passengers on the "L" train did the other day when the following episode occured:

SCENE—An "L" train stopped before a slate-roofed house on which the snow guards are blistering in the sun.

First Urchin—What are those wires for?

Second Urchin—To keep the snow from sliding off the roof.

Whereupon everyone cranes his neck to see the snow.

WANTED--A RIDER AGENT IN EACH TOWN and district to ride and exhibit a sample Latest Model "Ranger" bicycle furnished by us. Our agents everywhere are making money fast. Write for full particulars and special offer at once.

NO MONEY REQUIRED until you receive and approve of your bicycle. We ship to anyone, anywhere in the U. S. without a cent deposit in advance, prepay freight, and allow TEN DAYS' FREE TRIAL during which time you may ride the bicycle and put it to any test you wish. If you are then not perfectly satisfied or do not wish to keep the bicycle ship it back to us at our expense and you will not be out one cent.

FACTORY PRICES We furnish the highest grade bicycles it is possible to make at one small profit above actual factory cost. You save $10 to $25 middlemen's profits by buying direct of us and have the manufacturer's guarantee behind your bicycle. DO NOT BUY a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone at any price until you receive our catalogues and learn our unheard of factory prices and remarkable special offers to rider agents.

YOU WILL BE ASTONISHED when you receive our beautiful catalogue and study our superb models at the wonderfully low prices we can make you this year. We sell the highest grade bicycles for less money than any other factory. We are satisfied with $1.00 profit above factory cost.

BICYCLE DEALERS, you can sell our bicycles under your own name plate at double our prices. Orders filled the day received.

SECOND HAND BICYCLES. We do not regularly handle second hand bicycles, but usually have a number on hand taken in trade by our Chicago retail stores. These we clear out promptly at prices ranging from $3 to $8 or $10. Descriptive bargain lists mailed free.

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 (cash with order $4.55).

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

MANCHESTER

Miss Annabelle Lodge left Thursday for an extended visit with her cousin, Mrs. Josesh Gullage of Somerville.

Frank Sinnicks went to the Beverly hospital, Tuesday and was operated on for appendicitis, Wednesday.

Miss Annie L. Knight of Dorchester was a guest over the Fourth of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Knight and family. Miss Knight will spend her vacation at New Boston, N. H.

Prof. W. S. C. Russell of Springfield, and Miss Grace Rie Lillibridge, also of that city, were united in marriage at Springfield on Tuesday, July 7. They spent part of a short honeymoon trip with Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning, Church street. Mr. Russell is well known in Manchester, having been formerly principal of the Story High school.

At a speciel meeting Tuesday evening the selectmen opened the bids for building fence along Summer street, from the McMillan estate to the railroad. Two bids were received: $473.50, Albert Haraden, and $421, Chester L. Crafts. The contract was awarded Mr. Crafts. The sidewalk will also be extended at this point as far as the railroad, the work to be done by the town. $700 was appropriated for these improvements at the March meeting.

Mrs. Patrick Mulvey was in Roxbury the first of the week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolan. On the Fourth Mr. and Mrs. Mulvey had as guest Kieran Mulvey of Brookline.

Miss Janet Harvey is at D. T. Beaton's, Manchester, for the summer. Miss Harvey wishes to call attention of doctors to the fact that she has made a thorough study of respiration and makes a specialty of deep breathing exercises with her work of massage and home gymnastics. A noted physician is credited with the saying that if the human race would breathe correctly for one year sickness would be eliminated for a time, at least.

Narrow Escape.

George Duncan, one of the gardeners at the Lester Leland estate, West Manchester, had a close call from drowning last Monday afternoon. So close, in fact, that it was necessary for physician to work over him almost an hour before he was resuscitated.

Eric Wetterlow, head gardener at the same estate, is the hero in the case. He rescued Duncan after a hard tussle and after being carried under twice by the drowning man. He grabbed Duncan as he (Duncan) was going down the third time. Mr. Wetterlow was seen by the Breeze man and gave the following account:

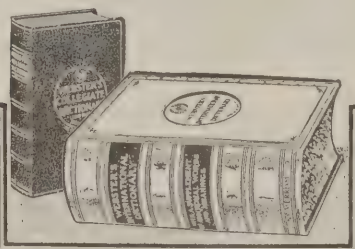

"As soon as Mr. Duncan was through work at 5 o'clock he and Philip Anderson started to go in bathing. Pretty soon I came down myself to have a swim. Mr. Duncan was in a boat and I got in with him. We rowed out a way, I should say 200 yards, and then I jumped overboard and started to swim out toward the yachts as I usually do. I had gone by a short way and was floating, resting, when I was startled by hearing George call me. He had jumped over, too. He seemed to be struggling in the water going round and round.

"I swam toward him as fast as I could. He was trying hard to keep afloat, but he was taking in water all the time. Just as I reached him he started to go down and as I made a grab for him he grabbed my wrist. It was just like putting my arm into a vice. I never realized such a small man could have such a grip, and I will never forget how it felt. He pulled me down with him. We came to the surface, and he started down again and this time he grabbed my other hand and pulled me down with him. I freed myself. When I reached the surface I called to those on shore to telephone for the doctor. I don't know how I should have thought of such a thing, as I now think of it.

"As he started down the third time I made up my mind I would grab him by the hair and make a final desperate effort to save him. He was fully three or four feet under water when I caught him by the back. He was then lifeless and stiff. I dragged him to the shore, about 100 yards off

"I did simply what anybody else would have done. But I was pretty well all in myself. I couldn't stand on my feet. I felt sure he was dead when I pulled him ashore."

Persons who saw the rescue say that Mr Wetterlow is deserving of a Carnegie medal for his act. Drs. Blaisdell and Fitz, the latter just arriving on the train, worked over Duncan and finally brought him back to life He will be able to return to work in a few days.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

THE FOURTH IN MANCHESTER.

Program as Announced Carried Out Successfully.

The Fourth of July in Manchester passed off according to schedule and from early morning until late at night there was something of interest going on. The official program as prepared by the committee and printed in this paper last week was carried out to the letter.

Though the day was hot it was not exceedingly so, and but for the light shower in the afternoon between three and four there would have been nothing to mar the day's pleasure.

There was plenty of noise all day, and this feature of the celebration began the night before, in fact. Floyd's was the mecca for "young America" all day.

The result of the various games and sports follows:

Broad jump, won by John Dillion, 19 ft.; Revere Pulsifer, 2d.

High jump, won by Willard Rust, 4 ft. 10 in.; Walter Fleming, 2d.

Pole vault, won by Joseph Floyd, 7 ft.; Willard Rust, 2d.

Shot put, won by George Dean, 41 ft. 6 in.; Hugh Burke, 2d.

Throwing baseball, won by Otis Lee, 259 feet, umbrella; George Chadwick, 2d, 219 feet, stick pin.

Quoits, Charles Chadwick and Otis Lee won, defeating George Chadwick and Archie Gillis, 21 to 17.

100 yard dash, won by Daniel Sheehan; Revere Pulsifer, 2d.

220 yard dash, won by Revere Pulsifer; Daniel Sheehan, 2d.

Men's potato race, won by John Dillon, box cigars; Arthur Smothers, cuff links, 2d.

Potato race for boys, won by Herbert Lampron, watch; William Slade, 2d, base ball.

Swimming race, won by Albert Sinnicks, medal; Alex Sjolund, 2d, medal.

Tub race, won by Alex Sjolund; M. Coughlin, 2d.

Walking pole, won by Herbert Lampron; Alex Sjolund, 2d.

The ball game between the Crickets and the Red Men was won by the former, 16 to 9. The line up was:

Crickets: Rust c, H Bell 2b, Standley 3b, Walsh 1b, Robbins lf, Gray ss, Jones p, Dillon rf, Riordon cf.

Red Men: Morrison cf, Knight rf, Standley c, Gould 3b, Wade 1b, Dechene 2b, W. Bell lf, Dougherty ss, Gay p.

The band concerts given by Teel's band of Boston, both afternoon and evening were of first class order. In the evening it is estimated 1500 people were in the square and took in the electrical illumination. This was a very pretty feature of the day, fully 1200 lights being used in the illumination. Clark & Mills Electric Co., Harry J. Gay, local manager, were in charge of the illumination.

Dancing, free to all, was a feature which attracted many from 8.30 to 11.30.

L. Albert Killam and family were home from Needham for over the Fourth, and Mr. Killam had with him for the day, his friend, Mr. Southwick, editor of the Needham Chronicle. They were guests of Mr. Killam's parents, Desmond ave.

Eugenie, the bay mare shown by Miss Eleanora Sears at the Chestnut Hill show recently, when she won six blue ribbons, is being trained for the horse shows held in the fall at Myopia and Brockton and from there at the Madison Square Gardens, New York, by Joseph H. Collins at Magnolia. Eugenie comes from the old Denmark stock, and was shown by Miss Sears in three classes, a combination class and two classes for ladies, in all of which she captured the first prize. Mr. Collins has also the training of a new chestnut mare, Blaze of Glory, that will make her debut in the fall shows and from which great things are expected. Both are highly finished saddle horses.

Miss Marion Symonds of South Gardiner, Me., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. John Symonds.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler started Wednesday for Somersworth, N. H., where they will spend a short time with Ernest E. Allen.

A very successful dance was held on Thursday evening at the Library hall. Music was rendered by Blithe's orchestra of Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Abbott are the guests of Mrs. Abbott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crispin.

Miss Christine McLellan was the guest of Mrs. Delia Barter the first of the week.

On Tuesday evening a very interesting Stereopticon lecture was given at the Village church, by Prof. A. H. Pearson of Oberlin, Ohio, the subject being "Yankee and Turk."

Henry Heindrick has accepted a position with Lafayette Hunt, at the Magnolia market, for the season.

The Men's club at Magnolia has had a good start and is increasing its membership constantly. Over thirty members are now enrolled among whom are several musicians and it is expected that many musical programs will be arranged during the summer. Located below the telephone office, the club room afforded a cool spot very pleasant, indeed, during the warm weather of the past week.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the Breeze. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

To Consider Incorporation.

At the regular meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society to be held on next Friday evening, July 17, the subject of incorporation will be fully discussed. The society has been considering this matter for some time, but this will be the first real move made toward action. Members of the summer colony, who are interested in the society, are urging this move, it is understood.

The Original Boston Food Fair.

As an evidence of the grand scale on which the Boston Food Fair, is to be held under the auspices and management of the Boston Retail Grocers' Association this year in the Park Square Coliseum, one need only consider the magnitude of the arrangements in providing the music. The first move made was to secure the most popular band in the country, Sousa's, with the famous bandmaster himself wielding the baton. But this is not all. There will be still another band introduced during the run of the Boston Food Fair. It will be under the direction of one of the most famous musical conductors in the country and is well equipped to carry out the purpose of the management to make the Boston Food Fair distinctive for its high class music.

Wonderland.

Frank L. Sylvis' way of earning a living is to be dragged prostrate around the arena and then be hanged twice a day by the Pawnee Bill cowboys at Wonderland. How he survives the ordeal is a source of ceaseless wonder to the crowds that witness the proceeding. Sylvis is the luckless victim who impersonates a horse thief in the performance, and to whom summary justice is meted out. Jose Bararo, Mexican man of the plains, is at the head of the band of vigilantes who swoop down upon the marauder. A lasso descends upon him and he is dragged from his stolen mount. Away gallops the captor, Sylvis flat on his body at the end of the rope. Round the big arena Bararo and his men dash, their prisoner struggling vainly with his bonds, and his person the target of a continuous round of ammunition. The rope is looped over the cross piece; Sylvis, half strangled and choking with smoke and dust, is hauled high in the air. His life seems to go out with a last few spasmodic kicks, and he hangs limp and inert until cut down by Sheriff Pawnee Bill and posse who appear.

"I fear every time I feel that lasso around me and am jerked off my feet that it may be my last hanging," Sylvis says, "but love of reckless adventure keeps me at it. I've been in the circus business for eight years and have performed all manner of so-called death-defying exploits, but my present job beats them all for taking chances."

A Chain and its Links

In telephoning there are three links in the chain that constitutes "good service": 1. The person calling. 2. The operator. 3. The person called.

No matter how much any one or any two of these links do to develop good service, the result is determined by the measure of co-operation of the third. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

If the person calling fails to consult the catalogue and gives a wrong number, the operator inevitably repeats the error. If the person called fails to answer promptly and the caller leaves the telephone, naturally "there is no one on the line."

Being human, the operator—the third link—is liable to err occasionally, but careful analysis demonstrates that she is not fairly chargeable with many of the difficulties frequently ascribed to her.

If Link No. 1 Gives the Right Number and Calls Distincly, and Link No. 3 Answers Promptly, the Telephone Company will be responsible for its part of the chain. If no higher motive actuated it, the motive of economy, or self-interest, would suffice.

From any Pay Station you can speak to any one of 300,000 telephones in the territory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Even if he is not a subscriber, you can arrange to have the person desired called to a Pay Station to talk to you.

A North Shore Horse Show to be Held on Beach at Magnolia?

There is talk of holding a horse show at Magnolia this summer on Crescent Beach, to take the place of the Gymkhana sports which have been one of the attractions for the past few years. If it is held it will be under the direction of Captain F. de Jony, the well known instructor, who will act for the Oceanside hotel.

Those who are interested in the matter and are talking it up, think that the gymkhana sports are not so popular as at first and that a general all round horse show on the beach, in which only amateurs,---members of the North Shore colony and hotel guests,---would compete would meet with general favor and success would be assured.

Furthermore, if there is not a horse show along the lines suggested it is very likely that this feature at Magnolia will be omitted this year, as it is very, very doubtful if another gymkhana will be held.

A regular horse show on the North Shore in mid-summer---say about the middle of August, ought to be quite an event and we hope to see it carried through.

Barn Burned.

During the severe thunder shower of Thursday afternoon of last week, the lightning struck the barn of the old Chebacco house at Hamilton, but fortunately the wind blew the flames away from the house itself, although the barn was completely destroyed. The Chebacco house is a famous old hotel situated on the banks of the beautiful Chebacco lake, but for the past few years has remained unoccupied, as the property was bought by Frederick Prince, whose summer estate, Princemere, is nearby.

In Yachting Circles.

Thornton K. Lothrop, jr., of the Corinthian Yacht Club entered his sloop, the Little Hope in the ocean race of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, in order to meet the yawls Lila and Hyperion, which were entered for the race to Bermuda, but withdrew. The Little Hope had entered for that contest, but her owner did not want to sail in class D alone, and so withdrew. Massachusetts yachtsmen will await the result of the Brooklyn Yacht Club's race with interest on account of the entry of the Little Hope.

There were only two starters in the tender class race at the Manchester Yacht club last Saturday forenoon, the first in the series. The breeze was very light, and it died out at times to almost a flat calm. Richard Wigglesworth won, Robert Storer, second. The next race will be next Saturday, July 18, at 2.30.

How to Tell the Disease of Dogs.

Here are the symptoms of progressive stages of rabies, given by Dr. George G. Rambaud of the Pasteur Institute, by which owners of dogs may know the disease in their pets. The symptoms appear in this order:

1. Change in the disposition of the dog.
2. Unusual show of attachment to its master.
3. Disappearance from its home for from several hours to two days.
4. Change in the bark, or total absence of barking, even on provocation.
5. Lack of appetite, difficulty in chewing and swallowing solid food.
6. Excitement and hallucinations. The dog snaps at imaginary objects, and may attack its master. It is excited by the sight of another dog, though this stage may be absent in the dumb form of the disease.
7. The dog eats its own bedding, tears cushions, carpets, etc.
8. It seems to be unable to eat. The dog takes food into the mouth, but the food drops out after the dog has made one or two attempts to swallow it. Drinking, however, is interfered with very little, or not at all, and there is no hydrophobia ("water fear") in the stricter sense of the word.
9. Unsteady gait, which shows the beginning of paralysis in the hind quarters. The pupils of the eyes are dilated.
10. Later, there are paralysis of the lower jaw, shown by a dropping of the jaw, general paralysis, and death.

The Sarcophagus is the most popular form of cemetery memorial at this time. The name comes from the Greeks, but the style of the modern Sarcophagii is quite different from their coffin-shaped stone boxes in which they place their dead. No other style of monument gives more assurance of permanance than this. They are low and massive and may be ornate in design or severely plain. The most beautiful designs may be executed in either marble or granite. We also have the most modern machinery in which to execute this work. We have made the granite business our life study. Call and see us any time.

Society Notes

Touring in their large Packard from their home in Rockford, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Wait Salcott accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Salcott and Miss Elizabeth Salcott, arrived in Magnolia, Sunday, in time to have dinner at the Grill and then to continue on their tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Hubbard entertained a charming party of friends at the North Shore Grill early this week and enjoyed the refreshing breezes on the Corridor garden over looking the ocean.

J. Reed Whipple, the well known hotel man of Boston, motored to Magnolia, Sunday, accompanied by M. A. Merrill, also of Boston, and stopped at the North Shore Grill for dinner.

William A. Burnham, who is at Pride's Crossing for the season, entertained a party of gentlemen at the Grill for tea Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mitchell of Cadillac, Mich., entertained early in the week a party of seven at the Grill. The party consisted of Miss E. Yost, Miss Marie E. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Cobbs, and Charles T. Mitchell of Cadillac and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Belcher of Portland, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Storer of Waltham entertained a party of guests at the Grill, Sunday, composed of Miss A. L. Sears and R. F. N. Storer, and Miss Edith Codman of Boston. The Storers are spending the summer at Smith's Point, Manchester.

Among other guests at the Grill this week were, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Campbell, of Manchester; Mrs. George Crocker and party of friends; Mrs. Austin Hecsher and the Misses Hecsher of Philadelphia; Mrs. A. Winslow Peirce of Franklin and party of guests; Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Hodgman, of Malden and Miss Mildred Hodgman; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Woods, Arlington, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Norton, and Miss Leslie Norton, also of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Edson J. Hill, of Concord, N. H., and John C. Burke and George Burke of Lowell, together with Mr. and Mrs. Laforest Beals and Miss Mildred A. Beals of the same city.

Mrs. A. J. MacHale of the Berkeley building, Boston, has established a branch in the North Shore Grill. It would be difficult for one to name any class of work that improves the contour of the face and throat, falling and thinning of the hair that can not be done here, as well as manicuring, ondulations, etc. A choice line of imported hair goods, combs, and all toilet requisites may be found at Mrs. MacHale's, on the second floor of the Grill.

Short Breath

Palpitation, feeble pulse, indicate weak heart action. You can make it strong with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Chronic heart troubles, with attending suffering may also be greatly relieved by its use. It is invaluable in all cases where the heart is involved.

"I was suffering with heart trouble and had been for two years. I had pain in my heart, back and left side, and had not been able to draw a deep breath for two years. Any little exertion would cause palpitation, and I could not lie on my left side, without suffering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine with the result that I am in better health than I ever was before, having gained 14 pounds since I commenced taking it." MRS. LILLIE THOMAS. A marriage that will be of interest to the Farms people in general, will be that of Miss Elizabeth Slavin and Michael Condon, on Wednesdav evening of next week. After a brief honeymoon in New York the young couple will settle down to house keeping in Beverly.

G. P. Connolly while diving from the float at West Beach Sunday threw his shoulder out of joint, and although very painful at first the injured part is improving rapidly.

The John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, at their meeting last evening, appointed a committee to arrange the plans for their annual outing, a feature of the year looked forward to by the members with much pleasure.

One of the amusing features of the July 4th celebration was the boys' obstacle race in which there was a large entry list. The hit of the race was made when the two Carr boys,---Alfred and Richard, attempted to crawl through the same barrel, in consequence of which they got stuck and in their effort to secure freedom they set the barrel in motion. Through the aid of a member of the committee they were finally set free, too late, however, to be reckoned as winners, but in view of the fact that the affair created so much amusement they were both awarded special prizes by the committee.

Members of the Beverly Farms Gymnastic class, who have not returned their tickets for the drama, "Brass Buttons," will please return them at once to Mrs. L. T. B. Wyatt or Miss M. D. Connolly, that the management may settle up affairs.

John Bresnahan, while returning from his duties at the B. J. Allen estate, Tuesday, was caught between two automobiles on Mingo Beach hill and had his elbow dislocated.

A very successful and pretty "rainbow" fair was held by the Ladies' Sewing circle in the chapel of the Baptist church on Thursday.

A. Campion has moved from the Patrich O'Hearn cottage, corner of Webster street and Greenwood avenue, and has taken up his residence in Beverly.

Ezra K. Preston, one of our former residents, but now liying in Newton Center, has been superintending the erection of a monument at the family lot in the Farms cemetery the past week, and also renewing his many acquaintances here.

On Friday evening, July 24th, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Woods will celebrate the 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home on Hart street, and will receive between 7.30 and 10 on that evening.

An unusually large number of bathers enjoyed the warmth of the water at West Beach, the past week, and their antics and stunts as they dove off the pier or off the floats have been a source of much interest to the many spectators.

Miss Florence McDonald plans to enter a convent at Cape Breton the latter part of August, that she may complete her education in music.

"Never Say Die"

Is an old motto, but our advice is "if you have anything worth dyeing, have it dyed." And there are so many supposedly worthless things in the way of clothing, curtains, feathers, etc., that are worth dyeing and cleaning that we would ask you to think it over seriously before throwing or giving them away, and see how nice and new-looking we can make garments that now appear to be old and shabby. And the cost is but trifling.

THE FOURTH AT THE FARMS.

Celebration Carried off Successfully. Lively Interest Taken. Fireworks and Illumination at Beach.

As is usually the case the Fourth of July celebration at Beverly Farms was of first-class order, thanks to the efforts of a wide awake committee and the general interest taken by the people at large. Like former years the Farms was the mecca for hundreds of people from outside,—Manchester, Gloucester, Beverly, etc.

The celebration started in, unofficially, the night before. There was plenty of noise, and it did not abate in volume as the "Glorious Fourth," dawned, either. In the early forenoon when the committee took things in charge the official program was started. The program as announced in last week's BREEZE was carried out to the letter. As usual great interest centered in the horse events. Mrs. Thomas Pierce was a star performer.

Contrary to the usual custom, the horse and pony events, with the exception of the three half-mile races in the morning, were held at Marshall's Field rather than at West Beach. Considerable excitement attended the horse events in the afternoon owing to the spirited actions of the horses, that reared and plunged about in close proximity to the crowd.

The pole vault for boys although last on the list attracted a great deal of interest, owing to the fact the contest narrowed down to the three Hull boys, Rex, Fred and Bert. Fred, although only a little chap, stuck it out with his bigger brothers until the very last, and the rail was nearly twice his height. At the end of the contest a collection was taken up among the spectators who enjoyed the stubborn fight the little chap put up for the prize and a special one was given him.

The shower of the afternoon did not mar the celebration in the least. In the evening the fireworks drew a big crowd to the beach, which was brilliantly illuminated.

The winners in the various events were as follows:

Throwing the baseball, won by James Malone, 330 feet.

Half mile pony race at West Beach won by Comstock, owned by J. Linehan.

Miss Ethel Culbert spent the Fourth in Providence, R. I., visiting friends. She returned home Tuesday.

A large party of poor children, and their attendants from Boston, enjoyed a very pleasant outing on West Beach, Wednesday. Many out of town parties, also, have made the Farms a place for outing excurions this week.

If one doubted that the Fourth had been celebrated at the Farms he had only to pay a visit to the Square the "morning after." The streets were completely covered with the relics of fire-crackers, etc., etc. The street cleaning force did good work in cleaning up the street Monday morning.

Percy Noyes left Wednesday for the School for Boys, located on Thompson's Island, Boston Harbor, for training, education and to learn some trade. This institution has the best of reputations for bringing out and making the most of all that is good in a boy.

At the lawn party to be given on the grounds of St. Margaret's rectory next Wednesday evening an interesting feature will be the illustrated lecture by Prof. Drake on the Passion Play.

The Misses Ellen Lyons of Dorchester and Mary Hill of Brookline were the guests of friends over the Fourth and part of this week.

Commencing last Sunday, a police officer will be stationed at West Beach evenings throughout the summer. This was brought about by the directors of the West Beach Corporation, and Officer Moines is on duty there.

Having sold her house, Mrs. Mary Bailey has moved to Manchester with her family owing to the scarcity of tenements here.

Mrs. William Pike left Thursday for a visit among relatives near Sebago lake, Maine, and on Monday, Mr. Pike, driver at the Farms fire station, will take the boat to Portland and will spend his vacation with her.

Among the interested spectators at the Farms Fourth of July celebration were Mayor Dow and a number of city officials from Beverly.

Howard P. Williams and Arhtur Davis had a rather unexpected bath off Misery Island Wednesday, as a result of their sail boat capsizing. They were quickly picked up, however, and the overturned boat towed back to West Beach.

The Preston W. R. C. are very busy preparing for their lawn party to be held July 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Warren of Bath, Me., spent the Fourth and the past week at the Farms the guests of friends. They plan to return Monday.

They are keeping lots of kitchens cool and doing the work of the range at that.

The repairing and resurfacing, done by Connolly Bros., on Valley street, the past week, is a marked improvement.

The agency for "Quaker" stoves and ranges has been taken by Wilbur J. Peirce, the Central Square plumber, who plans to keep in his store samples of the stock.

A large number of young people enjoyed the cool evening and good music that attended the dance of the North Shore club in Neighbor's hall Wednesday evening.

The annual picnic of the Baptist church and Sunday School will be held next week, on Thursday, at Centennial Grove, Essex. The train leaves at 8.45.

Much interest centered in the base ball game on the Fourth between the Red Sox and the Yannigans, which was won by the Red Sox, 7 to 1. Arthur Crocker pitched for the Red Sox and Raymond Crocker for the Yannigans. Capt. Gaudreau made four splendid "muffs," which have been the cause of no little "jollying" the past week. A. Crocker tried to lay out the umpire for the boys' game by sending a long fly out in the field.

Joseph Ryan, much to the regret of his many friends here has concluded his duties as Mrs. Littleton's chauffeur and returned to his home in Philadelphia the first of the week.

Herman Macdonald and Irwin Davis are having a month's vacation, part of which they will spend in New Hampshire. Frank Preston will accompany them.

Harry Mitchell, formerly of the Farms, now of Springfield, spent the Fourth here with friends.

Rev. Clarence Strong Pond will preach, tomorrow morning at the Baptist church, on "Isolation," and will use as his subject for the evening service, "The Real Life and Life of the Romans."

The committee on the Fourth of July celebration wish to extend their thanks through the BREEZE to the public for the hearty co-operation, and financial aid which went a great ways in making the celebration the success it was.

The prizes put up for the Fourth of July sports were given out Monday night at Wilbur J. Pierce's store in Central Square, and the winners were generously applauded by the many spectators. The prizes were well worth striving for and will, without doubt, be long treasured by the winners.

Miss Marjorie Cohoon, a former resident of the Farms, was the guest of her aunt Mrs. Frank McCoy, over the holiday, and remained during the week. Miss Cohoon is now living in Needham.

The Sarah W. Whitman club enjoyed an outing, Wednesday, at the boat house of their president, Mrs. William C. Webster at West Beach.

Thomas Fay, of Roxbury, is spending his vacation here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan on West street.

James Barry has purchased, for his own occupancy, the Watson house known, as the "White House," on Pickett court.

Miss Mary Dwyer, representing the horse shoeing business of her father, the late John Dwyer, was the only representative of the local horse shoers, at the Master's association meeting held in the headquarters in Salem, last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wyman are receiving congratulations on the birth of an 11-pound boy, who was born the first of the week at their home on Haskell street.

Miss Gertrude H. Connolly has accepted a position as instructor of gymnastics at the Broad street play grounds, Salem.

Mrs. Peter Ward was a passenger on the Cedric which arrived in New York yesterday afternoon. For the past few months Mrs. Ward has been visiting her former home in Latham, Lanceshire, England. Mrs. Ward reports a very pleasant trip but is pleased to be at the Farms again. During her absence she received a copy of the Breeze each week and it seemed like a visitor from home to get the paper, so much so that its arrival was eagerly awaited each week.

The firemen of the West Street engine house held their regular monthly meeting Monday evening and voted to conduct a social and dance in Neighbor's hall in August.

A Scottish dance will be held under the auspices of Clan Wallace, 127, in Neighbor's hall, Friday evening. A special feature will be the bag-pipe playing and the Highland costumes. A large attendance is expected.

The fourth annual ball of the Beverly Farms base ball club will be held in Neighbor's hall on Thursday evening, August 6. Dancing 8 to 2. Heaphy's orchestra.

Miss Honora O'Brien, one of the teachers at the Farms school, is doing private tutoring this summer and has a number of pupils here.

It is estimated that over 100 tickets to Gloucester were sold at the Farms station on the evening of July third, evidence, no doubt, of July Fourth "shopping."

Edward Ober spent Friday with Joseph Coen at Manchester, where he enjoyed the bathing at Singing Beach and the ices at Cheever's drug store.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1908.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

If we consider the writers of the Period under notice in chronological order, we shall avoid all appearances of invidious comparison between them. Although Dryden died in 1700, he may be said in style, in spirit, and in literary influence, to belong to the coterie of 18th century writers rather than to those of the 17th. For nearly thirty years he was contemporary with Addison and Steele, and he may be called the literary father of Pope. He was born of good stock, of a family with Puritan leanings and connections, in which there was a certain tradition of scholarship. He was educated at Westminister school under the famous Dr. Busby, and at Trinity college, Cambridge. He early showed a taste for letters, and before his thirtieth year gained something of a name as a poet. His Heroic Stanzas, in memory of Cromwell, evinced genius and power as well as his decided republican tastes. But he did not long hold to this high ideal: we soon find him hailing the return of the Stuarts, and condescending to court the favor of a frivolous and corrupt age. Cultivating dramatic literature for a time as his main pursuit, he produced a great number of tragedies and comedies of very unequal merit, some of them having a great success at the time, but none of them of a character to achieve lasting fame. Much that he wrote at this time was marked by a looseness of moral tone which caused more than one of his plays to be prohibited, in an age when public taste and the censorship did not err on the side of Puritanic strictness. Evelyn thought much of his writing at this time "foolish and profane." He lacked "the art to blot," and in his later life, like Chaucer and Herrick, deplored his "profligate Muse."

Some of Dryden's earlier works, and the ease with which he turned from praising the Protector to worshipping the Stuarts, gives point to the charge that "he had no higher ambition than to make some money by his pen;" his chief endeavors, too, he admitted, were to delight the age in which he lived; and the age demanded farcical incident, low comedy, intrique and indecency. He claimed that his own plays were an improvement upon the coarseness and mechanical humor of the Elizabethan drama; and in a sense this was true, but his ribaldry and indelicacy were more Twilight.

Fraught with rich memories oh, church so gray
Art thou, with solemn rooks and starling too;
The gorgeous poppies at thy feet oft sway,
While above all the dome of Heaven so blue.
Door yards with choicest marigolds are gay,
And fleecy sheep are grazing near the stream,
Where horses sleek and comely cattle feed
In the rich pasture, while of thee I dream.

Thy lofty tower is pencilled 'gainst the sun,
Thy stately belfry covered o'er with vines.
In beauty picturesque long hast thou stood
Defying the fierce gales, the stormy winds.
Fast sped the years o'er hallowed battlements
While ivy clad amid the march of time
Serene and changeless standest thou alone,
And n'er a rival lures me from thy shrine.

Thatched cottages a pretty picture make.
Here lads and lassies bear thee oft in mind,
While maids and matrons tell of marriage fetes
For at thy altar high their lives they bind.
Slumbering about thee lies the velvet plain,
And silken oat-grass dotted here and there
With the blue corn-flower bright, its eyes so deep,
Nods to thee from the meadows, fresh and fair.

A windmill now I see of goodly sight,
And golden hay to me its fragrance lends,
While on the soft wind comes the sickles' whir;
And the sweet note of song birds with it blends.
To me it is an hour with memories fraught
With thoughts and visions n'er to be forgot,
The swirl and strife and chatter are at rest,
Peace reigns supreme in this secluded spot.

So mute the castle on the hillside stands,
The graveyard gleams beneath the setting sun;
Yet can be seen the high cliffs far and near.
E'er the light fades betokening day is done,
The shades are falling o'er the stately elms,
And rich with harvest all the landscape blends;
Soft shadows creep across the silent lea,
Peace reigns o'er all as sombre night descends.

—Margaret L. Corlies.

APPEAL MADE TO SUMMER RESIDENTS

To Co-operate in Carrying on the Campaign to Preserve our Beautiful Woodland. Subscriptions called for.

The report of the Summer Residents' committee on Gypsy Moth Work on the North Shore has been prepared by Col. Wm. D. Sohier and has either been mailed or will be mailed within a few days both to those who have subscribed their money for this work, and to those who have not as yet subscribed. The circular besides telling of what has been done makes an urgent appeal for further subscriptions.

With the circular is a map showing the woodland on the North Shore, a little beyond the Gloucester line, that is infested with gypsy moths,—the map published in this paper several weeks ago.

The circular tells that roughly speaking, over 1000 acres of woodland have already been cleared, the poorer trees cut down, the brush burned, and the remaining trees sprayed. It shows also 1500 more acres that are infested, but have not as yet been cared for.

This work has all been done under the direction of State Superintendent Kirkland and his Assistant Superintendent, L. H. Worthley, and with two extremely competent superintendents in charge of the work on the ground,—Saul Phillips and W. A. Hatch. The cost has been practically $50,000. This sum includes the purchase of four large spraying machines and many necessary tools. The circular further states:

"It is evident that if we are to attempt to save all of the woods along our wooded drives in Beverly and Manchester that a great deal more money must be spent this year, in order to clear up and thin the 1500 acres which are infested in the back woods, but which we were unable to care for this year.

"For instance--there is a colony of 105 acres back of Preston Place, and another colony of 200 acres back of West Manchester, extending from Bookwood Road to Crooked Lane. At least $15,000 will have to be spent in these two localities in order to do any sort of a thorough job, and the work must be done this fall and winter, so that we can spray next summer."

Why Many Trees were Defoliated

"We had this year four large power spraying machines, each capable of spraying the tops of the tallest trees and of covering fifteen acres a day, providing they were in working order. They cost from $800 to $900 each, and the cost of spraying was about $360 per day for the four. Naturally, it was impossible to spray the whole thousand acres that had been cleared, at one time, and consequently, as the caterpillars hatched out they ate all the leaves upon many trees. The spraying machines were used first upon the land near the shore, in order to save the valuable shore estates and woods, and we had to let the back woods go until we could get around to them."

Needs for the Future

"To protect the woods we shall need four to six more spraying machines next year.

"For the fall and winter work, preparatory to next year's campaign, if we are to attempt to take care of the woods back of Manchester as well as the woods back of Beverly, there must be at least $20,000 available for work before January 1. If enough money is not forthcoming to care for all the woods shown on the map, it will be necessary for the Committee to draw a line somewhere, and only take care of as many acres as can be thoroughly treated with the money available."

The Work Accomplished.

"Roughly speaking, again, there have been about 600 acres cleared, treated and sprayed in Beverly, and something over 500 acres have been cleared, treated or sprayed in Manchester. About 50 acres have been treated in Essex, on the Manchester road, and some 40 more on the south side of Chebacco Pond."

Necessary Future Work

"What the Committee would like to do, and believes should be done, is to adopt Mr. Kirkland's suggestion of keeping a small force at work continuously, thereby retaining our most skilful and efficient workers all through the fall and winter, using them in locating all the small colonies in the woods, and also an efficient corps of woodmen in thinning out and clearing the colonies like those at West Manchester and Preston Place, and some in Manchester, Beverly Commons and Essex, which have not yet been cared for.

"Then, next season, if the money is available we could procure enough spraying outfits to reasonably take care of all the land which has been cleared within three weeks or so from the time the caterpillars hatch out. This will not prevent all defoliation, but will preserve the woods, and will prevent the caterpillars from spreading upon other land that is not yet infested."

What the Committee Hopes to Do

"We shall endeavor in the future, as in the past, to use our money as economically as possible. We hope to obtain substantial contributions from Beverly and Manchester, as well as from the State, to enable us to continue the work next year, but the summer residents must realize that with the large sum of money that will be needed to do thorough work, it is necessary for the Committee to be in a position to offer better terms than are provided by the present law, which provides that after the minimum has been spent by any city or town they can have fifty per cent of the balance of any money that they may spend for moth work refunded by the State."

Necessity for Subscriptions and State Control

"In order to get the work done under State control and supervision, and to secure efficient work without regard to town lines, it is necessary for us to make a somewhat better proposition than is provided by the general law, as otherwise the whole moth work will be left to be done by city and town labor and without system, and all work will be strictly limited by the town and city boundaries. to which the caterpillars pay no attention."

The report further gives a summary of the work accomplished, colony by colony, and a list of those who have subscribed, with amounts, is appended. Summer residents of Beverly have subscribed $17,375, and of Manchester $8,790,—a total of $26,165. Manchester gave $5000, Beverly $5000, and the state has given $20,000 for the work on the North Shore.

The committee, which is composed of Oliver Ames, Charles H. Tyler and Wm. D. Sohier, closes its report by making the following urgent appeal:

"Anyone who is interested in cooperating and carrying on the campaign in the future, and helping to preserve our beautiful woodland, will please send a check to Wm. D. Sohier, 15 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass."

George W. Kittredge of New York, chief engineer of the New York Central railroad, came to Magnolia in his private car, Wednesday, and, with his wife and two children, have taken apartments at the Oceanside. Mr. Kittredge, owing to his business duties, will be unable to stay here any length of time, but plans to come down in his car over Sunday each week.

Mrs. Rockwood Hoare of Worcester arrived at Beverly Farms this week and is occupying the Knowlton "Brook Cottage" for the balance of the season. The W. D. Denegres, who have been occupying the cottage awaiting the completion of the addition to their own house at West Manchester are now at "Villa Crest," though the work on the house is yet far from completed.

Col. and Mrs. George Andrews of Washington have taken apartments in the Highland cottage, Magnolia, being among the late arrivals of last week. Col. Andrews is a son of Brig. Gen. George S. Andrews, who with Mrs. Andrews are also at the Highland's for the summer having arrived there some time ago. With the General, are his two daughters, the Misses Alice and Katherine Andrews.

Society Notes

Miss Margaret Thomas returned Monday from a visit to New London, Conn.

T. G. Stevenson returned from Europe on the Ivernia last week and is at Beverly Farms for the balance of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer entertained a small house party at their Pride's Crossing summer home, Avalon, over the week-end. Among their guests was Mrs. Max Bachert, who returned to her New York home early in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore are in Germany at the present time where they will remain a few weeks before returning home. Last week Mr. Moore was presented to King Edward by Ambassador Reid at a special levee at Buckingham Palace Monday afternoon.

Charles M. Amory won the members' handicap competition at the Essex County club last Saturday, playing in 83, with a handicap of 10, thus netting a 73. A. Carnegie, 2d, Paul Moore and Lucius J. Knowles tied for second honors, each with a net score of 78. Mr. Carnegie's 81 was the best gross score of the day.

Polo attracted many people over to the Myopia Hunt club last Saturday. It was the second game of the season, played by members of the Myopia polo teams, for a cup given by F. B. Fay. The Salem Cadet Band played during the afternoon. After the game members assembled at the club house where they enjoyed a dinner, covers being spread for 50.

J. Grant Forbes who has been in Europe, returned last week and is with Mrs. Forbes at West Manchester for the balance of the summer.

The date of the marriage of Miss Helen Prince and J. A. Lowell Blake is announced for Tuesday, Aug. 4, at Noirmoutier, Vendee, France, which is the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Prince. They will return to America in October, making their home in Boston, at 37 Beacon street.

Orders have been given by Henry Clay Frick of Pride's Crossing, that electrical apparatus and other requirements, that are necessary for the equipment of a first class scientific labratory, be installed at his expense in the Beverly High school. A first class scientific department was included in the plans for the new High school but owing to lack of funds could not be completed. Mr. Frick's generosity, however, now makes this possible and gives Beverly one of the best scientific departments in this part of the country.

A MOST

Interesting Spot

Just off the famous Newburyport Turnpike, on a quiet shady lane, in a region rich in historic interest, is FERN-CROFT INN, a charming resting place for the tired traveler in auto or carriage, a most comfortable dining resort patronized by the best sort of people. The new Fern-Croft Inn is in every way the counterpart of the old, which was destroyed by fire last year. The specialty of Fern-Croft Inn, that has made its fame almost world-wide, is its chicken dinners, consisting of a whole broiled chicken to each person, served at $1.50 per plate. Afternoon teas daily 4 to 6.—Telephone: Danvers 45-2.

Who's Who Along the North Shore

Who's Who Along the North Shore is the leading exponent and compendium of reliable information concerning summer life on the Shore.

Here is gathered more information than can be found any where else, under one cover.

It gives arrival and departure of trains
It gives arrival and departure of mails
" " churches in each town
" " hotels on the shore
" " population of each locality
" " names of post-masters
" " names of selectmen
" " public telephone stations in each locality
" " officers of all the prominent yacht clubs
" " members of all the prominent clubs
" " list of yachts owned on the shore
" " list of launches owned
" " list of season guests at hotels and boarding houses
" " residents — complete information

When we say complete information about residents we mean that we tell you what street and what cottage a man lives in at the shore, and at what street and number he resides in the city, also at what street and number his business can be found, and what his business is.

For instance, instead of giving the following information about Congressman A. P. Gardner, (which we copy from our good blue contemporary), we tell you about Mr. Gardner as follows:

Gardner A. P. Mr. and Mrs., off Main, Hamilton.

Gardner, Hon. Augustus P.
Hamilton, "Sagamore Farm."
w. r. Hamilton.
b. a. Boston, 22 Congress st.; Congressman U. S.

[w. r. means winter address.]
[b. a. means business address.]

Instead of the following about Mr. Jordan

Jordan Eben D. Mr. and Mrs.,

we give you the following interesting facts:

Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Eben D.
W. Manchester, Harbor st.
w. r. Boston, 46 Beacon st.
b. a. 450 Washington st.; Pres. Jordan Marsh Co.

These are representative examples that show the comparisons to be found all through the book, in dozens of cases on every page.

Besides our book is the only one that is reliable and complete. In Manchester alone last year we gave 40 prominent residents not listed in any other publication. In all several hundred on the whole shore. And there were no dead and "moved away" names in our list, which cannot be said of any other

You ought to have a copy of this book for your guests to read, and one on your desk for reference.

For Sale at the Breeze office. $2.

AT THE HOTELS

Mr. and Mrs. John Moorhead, of Pittsburg, motored to Magnolia and stopped for dinner, Monday, at the North Shore Grill. They spent the night at the Oceanside and were accompanied by Miss Moorhead, F. D. Moorhead, Mr. Ferguson and Miss Patterson. The Moorheads have been accustomed to spend the summer at Magnolia for a number of years, but this season plan to motor about the country, rather than stop in any one place.

Other well known guests at the Grill this week were, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hodge of Hartford, Conn., who entertained Mr. and Mrs. Lupton of N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert, Miss Herbert of Detroit, and George Dana, of New Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gilmore of Chestnut Hill, Dr. George C. Williams and H. E. Slayton of Manchester, N. H.

Dr. Freeman W. MacDonald, a well known osteopath of Boston, has opened an office at the North Shore Grill, where he may be found three days a week,—Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from ten to four. Dr. MacDonald, while a young man, is a physician of no little experience and is perfectly reliable.

Society Notes.

Mrs. Woodhouse, wife of the governor of Bermuda is a guest of the Dr. Charles Thorndike Parkers at their summer home in Wenham. Dr. Parker spent a great part of last winter in Bermuda.

Count Herman von Hatzfeldt, the German counsellor, who is spending the summer at the Farms, left Thursday for a visit at Bar Harbor. Baron Sturman of the German legation has also gone to Bar Harbor where he will visit the Austrian ambassador.

The eighth annual Magnolia Carnival will be held on Crescent Beach, Saturday, July 25, at three o'clock. A very pleasing musical program has been arranged, and everything will be done to make the affair as complete a success as possible. Two prizes will be awarded in each event with the exception of the canoe race and the relay, for which four will be put up, one for each man in the winning team. The prizes will consist of cups, very attractively gotten up.

Miss Mary Charlotte Frances Stuart, who is a passenger sailing on the Saxonia from Liverpool the 14th., and coming from England to visit the Misses Jessie and Mary Colby at their Beverly Farms cottage, is a daughter of the late Col. William Stuart of Tempsford Hall, Beds., and a sister of William Dugald Stuart and cousin to the Earl of Bute. The Misses Colby are daughters of the late Robert Colby of New York and grand daughters of the late Anthony Colby of New Hampshire. Three summers ago Miss Stuart came to this country as the guest of the Misses Colby in New Hampshire at the old Colby homestead on Lake Sunapee.

Among recent arrivals at the Hesperus this week are: A. J. Osgood of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hewett of Boston, E. A. Lovejoy of Brookline, Thomas Carson and his son from New York, and G. N. and J. S. Proctor of Fitchburg.

Crescent Beach at Magnolia is the mecca for the summer people in and about Magnolia. Carriages and automobiles may be seen in any number at the rear of the pavilion every day at the fashionable hour of noon. Anywhere from five to six hundred people are to be found bathing in the water, lolling about on the beach, or viewing the water and the bathers from the pavilion. Between the hours of twelve and one the Oceanside orchestra renders a musical program which adds to the attraction of the beach and gliding in and out of the little harbor, are canoes, their occupants in their bathing suits and ever and anon landing at one of the two floats, where they dive off and after swimming about for a time re-enter their canoes and once more resume their paddling. The scene is indeed a pretty one, and under the efficient management of T. F. O'Connor, the beach is in better condition than ever before.

Miss Grace O'Brien, winner of the swimming race for ladies last summer, entertained at the Oceanside, this week, Miss Newell of Gloucester.

J. Somers Smith and C. Howell of Philadelphia, stopped at the Hesperus, Sunday night. The young men are coasting in their motor boat along the shore to Maine.

Miss Elizabeth Wharton of Philadelphia is a recent arrival at the Hesperus where she will spend the summer. P. F. Baker of Boston is another of the week's arrivals.

J. W. Gummey of Boston, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside, had as guest over the week-end, Lawrence B. Fletcher, also of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith have been entertaining recently, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Wheelock, of Philadelphia, at the Hesperus.

One of the most delightful displays along the North Shore is that of the Grande Maison de Blanc in the Colonnade, Magnolia. Arranged about the sales-room are artistic and delicate specimens of needlecraft, most attractive to the feminine eye. The household linens, sheer embroidered bed spreads, centre-pieces, doylies, lingerie and other attractive articles are well worth seeing, and no woman would consider the time ill spent. Delightfully located, and open to every breeze, the Grande Maison de Blanc is one of the coolest spots to be found in Magnolia or on the North Shore.

Mrs. William E. Page of Boston who made her headquarters at the North Shore Grill last season, is again in Magnolia and has located her studio at the New Magnolia Tea house. Mrs. Page is one of the recognized teachers of bridge and skat in this section of the country although she has many pupils all over the states, and came here again, this year, only upon the persuasion of her many friends and pupils.

AT THE HOTELS

A lecture and entertainment that afforded the guests of the Oceanside and other hotels in Magnolia considerable interest Tuesday evening was that of Mr. Gregory, a man, himself blind, who gave a very interesting discourse on the life of Helen Keller and the power of the mind as exercised by the blind. Following his talk, he rendered several selections on the piano. Mr. Gregory, himself, is a man of wonderful mind-power and is indeed, well qualified to speak upon the subjects chosen by him. After leaving Magnolia, Mr. Gregory went to Swampscott where he delivered his lecture at the Lincoln house, Wednesday evening. He will be at the Hesperus next Monday evening.

George N. Chandler, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is spending the season at the Oceanside, had his shoulder dislocated, as the result of a collision with an electric car, while motoring through Ipswich last week Thursday. Mr. Chandler was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who, although badly shaken up, were not seriously injured. After Mr. Chandler's shoulder had been attended to by Dr. Tucker, of Ipswich, the party was taken back to the hotel by D. A. Grady, in his auto.

Among the late arrivals at the Hesperus last week were Mrs. Taylor, of Albany, N. Y., and her two daughters, the Misses Esther and Anna Taylor.

Isaac Lombard of Chicago, was on to Magnolia recently and spend a few days with Mrs. Lombard, at the Hesperus. Mr. Lombard was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. K. L. Haass, also of Chicago, who will remain at the Hesperus with her mother the balance of the summer. On Saturday the Lombards were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Robinson of Chicago, at a dinner party at the North Shore Grill.

A very pretty little entertainment was rendered by the children of the Dorothea Dix Hall, of Boston, at the Hesperus, Monday evening and was greatly appreciated by the guests of the hotel. The program in substance was composed of recitation and songs in appropriate costumes, pantomine, and a short sketch. The children participating are by no means amateures, but have taken a long course of training in this line of work, and in some cases have played child parts with many of the leading stars, and with the stock companies of Boston. On Friday evening the entertainment was repeated at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Foster of Kansas City, Mo., accompanied by her two little children have taken apartments at the Highland cottage, Magnolia, where they will remain for the summer months.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

TOWN OF MANCHESTER

BOARD OF WATER COMMISSIONERS

Sealed proposals for laying water pipes in Manchester and Hamilton, for the additional Water Supply for the Town of Manchester, addressed to the Board of Water Commissioners, endorsed "Proposal for laying Water Pipes; additional Supply" will be received at the office of said Board of Water Commissioners, in the Town Hall Building, until eight o'clock P. M. of Thursday, the twenty-third day of July, 1908, and then and there publicly opened and read.

For the convenience of bidders, arrrangements will be made to have an employee of the Board go over the route of the proposed pipe line with bidders who so desire; one day's notice being given to the Engineer.

Proposed blanks together with complete specifications can be obtained from Raymond C. Allen, Manchester, Mass., Engineer.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $1000.00 payable to the Board of Water Commissioners of the Town of Manchester.

Should any bid be rejected, such check shall be forthwith returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted, such check shall be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract.

The Board of Water Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to accept any bid, if the best interest of the Town of Manchester may thereby be conserved.

FREDERICK J. MERRILL,
Chairman, Water Commissioners.
RAYMOND C. ALLEN, Engineer.

Contract for Pipe Awarded.

The bids for furnishing pipe for the additional water supply system for the Town of Manchester were opened last Friday evening at a meeting of the Water Commissioners at the Town hall building and the contract was awarded to the United States Pipe Co., of New York. All the bids were close, but the figures were much under the estimate for this part of the work,—some $8000.

The number of tons needed of the several sizes of pipe, and the price per ton is given in the following list of bids furnished:

Odd Fellows Installation.

The elected and appointed officers of Magnolia lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., were installed into office Thursday evening by District Deputy Grand Master Anthony C. Rogers and staff of Gloucester. The work was of especial interest to the large number of members who were out, and to the visitors from Gloucester, from the fact that the new ritual was used for the first time. It was with much regret, however, that the announcement was made by the Grand Master that he had resigned his position as deputy over the Manchester and Gloucester lodges, owing to poor health and that this was the last time he would appear before the lodge, officially.

The officers installed were as follows: Howard M. Stanley, noble grand; Fred K. Swett, vice grand; S. Albert Sinnicks, warden; Geo. H. Hobbs, conductor; Edward Haraden, chaplain; Ellery H. Rogers, r. s. s.; J. A. Lodge, l. s. s.; Horace Standley, r. s. n. g.; George Dole, l. s. n. g.; James Hoare, r. s. v. g.; R. C. Allen, l. s. v. g.; Thomes Baker, inside guardian; Chas. E. Williams, outside guardian.

Following the installation remarks were made by the visiting brothers and members of the lodge, and after the meeting refreshments were served in the banquet room, consisting of raspberries and ice cream, and frozen pudding.

Our Classified Advertisements.

This department of the BREEZE is growing more and more popular each week, from the fact that for a very little money any one can make known their wants, and the best of it is these wants are met, as everybody reads the BREEZE advertisements. Do you want a girl, nurse, boy, chauffeur or any other help needed, make known your wants. Have you a piece of furniture, a boat, a house, or room to let, or anything which you wish to sell or exchange for something else, make it known with a want advertisement. The cost is trifling, and the returns are sure. Try it for your own satisfaction.

WHISPERINGS

"What is the next train to Boston?" asked a nervous old lady of the ticket agent, as she entered rather hurridly. Upon being informed of the departure of the next train she asked, "Will it call at Salem?" The ticket agent assured her that it would and she left the window happy, having purchased a ticket to that point.

After a delay in Buffalo, owing to the illness of their young child, who was sent to a hospital there Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scullin, of St. Louis, are at the Masconomo in Manchester, for the summer.

AT THE HOTELS

Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Hill, of Boston, were among the early arrivals this week at the Mascomono, in Manchester, where they will spend the summer. The Hills come here from the Wentworth hotel, Portsmouth, where they have been stopping for a short time.

Dr. J. E. Sheppard, a prominent eye and ear specialist of New York, spent the week-end at the Masconomo, where he plans to return later for the rest of the season. Dr. Sheppard was accompanied by his wife, and his daughter, Mrs. Minnie French.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Russell, of New York, also spent the week-end at the Masconomo, as did Mr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Edwards of Haddon Hall, Boston, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Florence Edwards.

G. A. McClellan of Dayton, Ohio, an intimate friend of Senator Beveridge, was a guest at the Masconomo, Monday.

Among those expected next week at the Masconomo, is Mrs. G. E. Strauss of Cedar Lawn, Irvington-on-the-Hudson, New York. Stanley Sinsheimer, of Boston, is another guest who is expected very shortly for the summer.

A. B. Averell of the Hotel Frontenac, New York, is expected at the Masconomo in the near future, to spend July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Barren, of Cleveland, Ohio, motored from their home there in their large touring car to Manchester where they have registered for the summer at the Masconomo. The Barrens were accompanied by their two sons, Harry B. and Kenneth Barren.

Miss A. A. Sullivan, of Rutland, Vt., and Miss Lillian Flaherty of Pittsfield, are among the week's arrivals at the Masconomo house, Manchester.

S. E. Thayer, of Boston, was among Thursday's arrivals at the Masconomo house, Manchester.

Mrs. William H. Scudder, of St. Louis, daughter of Samuel Coupples, the largest wooden-ware manufaturer of the west, is among Wednesday's arrivals at Magnolia. She is accompanied by her daughters, the Misses Martha C., Gladys, and Maude C. Scudder. They will remain at the Oceanside for the rest of the summer.

The week-end was spent by Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Porter, of Worcester, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Porter, of Auburndale, and Mrs. F. W. Preston of Worcester, at the Oceanside.

Interesting Statistics About Summer Social Register, 1908

Comparison of this Summer Social Register with that of last year illustrates the large number of American families who have returned to reside in their own country, owing probably to the money panic of last fall. The following statistics indicate a large increase in the number of country residences on this side of the water, 50 per cent. increase in the arrivals from Europe, and a large decrease in the number of families who have gone abroad since April 1.

The Summer Social Register, which has just been issued, is limited as usual to the country or foreign addresses of those families who have communicated the information. Those whose names do not appear therein have retained their city residences as a postoffice address for the summer months.

Of the 11,303 families or individuals belonging to New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Baltimore, St. Louis, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Providence, St. Paul and Minneapolis, San Francisco and the southern cities from Richmond to Atlanta, who have sent their summer address: 5768 are summering inland, an increase of 25 per cent. over last year; 2623 are at the seashore, a decrease of 15 per cent.; 1062 families have gone abroad since April 1, as compared with 778 last year; 717 foreign bankers' addresses are given as compared with 1308 last year, a decrease in foreign residences of some 45 per cent.; 380 families have arrived, as compared to only 209 last year, a very large increase of returns from abroad; 192 families are living on their yachts, as compared to 166 last year; 642 persons have married since April 1, as compared to 537 last year; 170 men and 132 women have died as compared with the deaths of 133 men and 113 women for the corresponding period last year.

The names, descriptions and illustrations of 799 yachts appear opposite the names of their owners, and are also to be found in the yacht index at the back of the book. Three hundred and ten of these are sloops, 93 are schooners, 391 are steamers. For the purpose of arranging this schedule, auxiliary yachts have been classified as either sloops or schooners.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

Society Notes

The first open golf tournament at the Essex County club has been in progress the past three days. The qualifying round was played Thursday, the first and second rounds at match play in three sets were played yesterday and today the semi-final and finals are being played.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. F. Slayton of Boston have taken apartments in the Flume cottage, one of the Oceanside connections.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hale and two children of Brookline have taken apartments at the Hesperus, Magnolia. The Hales came down in their auto and have also brought another car with them, and they will probably do considerable motoring about the North Shore. They were among the late arrivals last week and had visiting them Mr. Hale's mother, Mrs. H. N. Hale, who is spending the summer at the Moorland, at Bass Rocks.

Miss Gusten Anderson will make appointments for giving massage treatment and Swedish movement at your own home. Give her a trial. Women's club, Magnolia. Tel. Magnolia 99-5. *

Miss McNamara announces that she is at Manchester-by-the-Sea for the season, and that she has removed from the cottage at 39 School street to Friend's court (off School street). Treatment of the scalp, shampooing, marcel waving, manicure. Telephone 164 Manchester. *

Board of Health.

Ordinance.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, the following vote was passed and hereby becomes an ordinance:—

"That all boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester, shall be provided with an under water exhaust or muffler and such under water exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such under water exhaust or such muffler."

This regulation shall go into effect on August 1, 1908.

Society Notes

A merry little auto party that stopped at the North Shore Grill for dinner recently was that of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hayden of Bedford Springs, who were accompanied by Misses V. Pauline, Elsie E. and Rosaline Hayden, R. Hayden, jr., and Master Arthur W. Hayden.

One of the pleasant dinner parties at the Grill, Monday, was that of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Lasell of Whitensville, Mass. The other members of the party were Miss N. Keeler, and Mrs. J. M. Keeler, of Oakhurst, and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Keeler, of Boston.

Patrons of the North Shore Grill are pleased to find Eugene T. Ducharme in charge, long a familiar figure as head waiter in the American dining room of the Hotel Somerset, Boston. He has the distinction of having held one position in Boston for over twenty years, that of head waiter in the Parker House. Mr. Ducharme, who served his apprenticeship at Delmonico's in New York, came to Boston in 1873, and after filling various positions, finally entered the employ of J. Reed Whipple at the Parker House, where he remained a few months over twenty years. He came to the Somerset in 1903 and declares he is good for twenty more years. Always genial and pleasant, he is a great favorite with the patrons of the hotel and knows how to hold the respect of those under him.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell were over from West Manchester and entertained at the North Shore Grill, Monday, Mr. and Mrs. William Sutton, of North Andover.

After lunching at the North Shore Grill, it is very pleasant for one to step into the salesroom of Miss Swift on the ground floor of the Grill. The thing that catches the eye first is the unique collection of lamps and lamp-shades which are really well worth one's notice. The lamps, made in carved gilt, both after the French and Italian designs, are very unique and beautiful, particularly so is the Chinese vase, with its quaint designs and colorings, converted into a lamp. The most beautiful, however, are the shades of every size and shape from the large library lamp to the small candle or electric lamp. The painted shades are particularly beautiful and unusual. The designs are all new and consist of flowers and fruit in what is known as cut work and are very attractive for country houses. Another handsome shade is that on a tall library lamp trimmed with gold laces and fringes. The collection is indeed a very magnificent one and unlike anything else on the North Shore.

Self Reducing Corsets

The Nemo Self-Reducing Corset reduces a stout woman's figure so effectively that her skirts have to be taken in 3 to 4 ins. It "moulds" in and supports the abdomen, given health and strength to women who are physically weak. Your physician as well as your dressmaker will recommend it. Fully one million women now wear the Nemo Self Reducing Corset. There is no substitute—be sure you get the Nemo with the famous Self Reducing strap. No. 312 is for tall stout women and No. 314 is for short waisted stout women.

$3.00

These Corsets will outwear three ordinary $1.00 corsets.

La Vida Corsots

are really merchant tailored. The styles are at least a season earlier than the popular priced goods and are naturally very advanced. All the extreme Parisian ideas are shown vastly improved in La Vidas. Many of these models are never made into lower priced goods so that the exclusive woman can secure an individuality in her figure. All the fabrics in La Vidas are imported from France and England where the best corset materials in the world are produced. Domestic cloths are vastly inferior to the foreign fabrics in their class of materials as they stretch too easily and lack stability of body. Some of the finer qualities are hand embroidered in silk or linen. The trimmings (lace, plush steel linings, etc, are exquisitely qualified.

All Corsets Fitted by Experieced Corsetieres

Special Town Meeting.

The special town meeting called in Manchester to take action on the matter of purchase of the Manchester Electric Co., will be held next Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. The warrant was posted thefi rst of this week and bears the signatures of the three members of the board.

Art. 1. To choose a moderator.

Art. 2. To hear the report of the committee appointed at the adjourned town meeting in April to take in consideration the purchase of the Manchester Electric Co., all its rights, franchises, etc., at a sum not exceeding $150,000, and to act thereon.

Art. 3. To see if it is expedient for the town to exercise the authority conferred by section 1, chapter 34, R. L., as amended, etc., to construct, purchase or lease, etc., a plant for production of electric power, etc.

Art. 4. This article has to do with the $160,000 voted to be raised by bond issue to be used for an additional water supply. It is brought up at this time to have it pass through certain forms and technicalities made necessary by a statute passed in the closing weeks of the last legislature.

This question of purchase of the Manchester Electric Co. is an important one and should draw out a large attendance of voters. The town's option on the plant expires in September. The company desires to know if it is the town's desire to purchase the plant and if so they are willing to sell for $150,000 payable within two years without interest, or payable now less 5 per cent per annum, —or practically for $135,000. It is understood another company, from outside, will purchase the plant if the town does not. In as much as the company is made up of members of the summer colony, who went into the thing originally to help the town out, in a way, and who put their money into the company for the sake of establishing a plant, and as the plant has cost almost $200,000 to date, and is now on a basis where it is beginning to pay, it seems to us the town would make a mistake to let this opportunity go by. The plant is recognized as one of the best constructed in the state, for a small town, with wires underground, etc., and the construction work is now practically complete, so that the expense of establishing the plant is over.

MANCHESTER

The Drug Clerks' dance in the Town hall Thursday evening brought out the largest and most select party of the season. The hall was crowded. Longs' orchestra, 12 pieces, furnished the music, and prior to the dancing rendered a short musical program. The hall was prettily decoratd for the occasion with flowers and greenery. The grand march was started at 10 o'clock, over 100 couples being in line. Edward Walsh, the floor director, and Miss Bessie Dudley of Boston, lead the march, and Otto L. Derick, the assistant floor director, and Miss Burns, followed. The aids were Alfred Walen, chief aid, F. G. Cheever, B. L. Allen, F. L. Decker, Jos. W. Cawthorne, jr., Harry Slade and John Walsh.

At the meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society last evening the matter of incorporating the society was discussed and an informal vote was taken on the question. The vote was unanimously in favor of incorporating. This will come up latter for definite action. A committee composed of William Till, John Baker, A. E. Parsons, Herbert Shaw and Joseph Clarke was appointed to "sound" the members, who were not at the meeting, particularly owners of estates, as to their feeling in the matter.

The attractive line of souvenir china displayed at Allen's Drug store has been attracting no end of attention the past week. This has just been imported from Austria by Mr. Allen and is one of the prettiest lines ever displayed here.

Sergeant Andrews, of the local police force, went on a fishing trip down the river, Thursday, and returned with a large string of fine cunners and a dandy sun burn. This is the first time the Sergeant has been on the water for some years.

Greeting:

The annual gathering of the Elder Brethren will be held at Tuck's Point, West Manchester Station at high noon, Wednesday, July 29. If you live in Manchester, or were born there, or were lucky enough to marry a Manchester girl, and are fifty years of age, you are entitled to membership.

GEORGE F. ALLEN,
President.

If there is a storm on the 29th, the gathering will be held on Thursday, the 30th.

Mrs. Harriet Alberts.

Mrs. Harriet Alberts, widow of the late Joseph Alberts, passed away on Tuesday at the home of Mrs M. E. Lations, Union street, Manchester, at the age of 76 years, 9 months. Mrs. Alberts had been ill for a long time. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Original Boston Food Fair.

In planning for their Seventh Food Fair—the original Boston Food Fair—given by the Boston Retail Grocers' Association from September 28 to Oct. 31 in the Park Square Coliseum, the management took into account that the styles in expositions, and the buildings they are given in, change from time to time just as fashions do. They accordingly selected the mammoth Park Square Coliseum as the most advantageous in every particular for the Food Fair this year. If the Park Square Coliseum had been built specially for their purposes the Boston Retail Grocers' Association could not have had a more suitable exposition building for keeping abreast of the advancement in the public's taste. With the remodelling and new interior architectural decoration, the Park Square Coliseum will be ideal.

The concert on the Common Wednesday evening by the Salem Cadet Band attracted the largest crowd of any of the concerts this summer. Crowds came from Beverly, Salem, Beverly Farms, Magnolia and Gloucester. Fully 2000 people were in the square. The electrical illumination used on the Fourth was used again this week and there is some talk of raising a subscription to keep it here for the remaining three concerts. The band played its best and everybody proclaimed the concert the best thus far. The program was printed in last week's BREEZE. The trombone solos by Mr. Procter were of a very high order. As one of his encores Mr. Procter played two bars of America in four octaves. There was a notable lack of patriotism on the part of a great many when the band played as its closing number the Battle Hymn of the Republic. Not more than one man in ten uncovered his head.

The next band concert will be held on the Common a week from next Wednesday evening,—on July 29. There will be two concerts in August.

Manchester Roads Object of Study by Road Builders.

Members of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, the Division Engineers and several superintendents of s reets from various parts of the state paid a visit to Manchester Thursday to study the road construction.

In the party were Chairman Harold Parker of the commission, and Col. W. D. Sohier; Division Engineers F. C. Pillsbury, W. R. Farrington and C. M. Howes; Superintendent of Streets John Williams of Natick, Supt. Clare Draper of Hopedale, Chairman Gibney of the Hamilton board of selectmen, and others. The party left Boston and made the trip to Beverly, where the roads were looked over. They went to Wenham and Hamilton, and lunched at Lake Croft Inn.

They were greatly interested in the Kimball process, so-called, used on many of the Manchester streets, and as one of the visitors declared to the writer, the roads in Manchester are hard to beat. We have roads here that can stand automobile travel better than anything else used thus far.

Hamilton R. Squier et ux. Mary E. of New York convey to Oliver T. Roberts and Wm. Hoar of Manchester five acres of woodland in Manchester; also two acres of woodland; also land in Manchester 6 by 38.20 rods; also land in Manchester five rods 20 links by 45 rods; also five and one-half acres of woodland in Manchester; also one-third of an acre of woodland in Manchester; also two and one-half acres of woodland in Manchester; also 3.586 acres of land in Manchester.

Bryce J. Allen of Boston, conveys to Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd, of Beverly, land and buildings in Beverly and Wenham.

[In explanation of the above real estate transfer we might state that Mr. Shaw has bought from Mr. Allen the estate at Beverly Farms, on the Hamilton road, where Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have been living since their marriage two years ago, with the exception of the winter months.]

The contract for building a new reservoir in the town of Andover and laying 280 feet of 10-inch pipe connecting this with the old reservoir, has been awarded to D. Linehan & Son of Pride's Crossing, though this concern was not the lowest bidder. There was a difference of $137 between the lowest bidder and D. Linehan & Son. The contract is about $14,000.

A new macadam tennis court has just been completed on the R. S. Bradley estate at Pride's, the work being done by D. Linehan & Son. The court is one of the finest private courts on the shore.

F. M. Whitehouse is having an improvement made at his house at Manchester Cove whereby salt water baths will be provided. An electric motor is being installed to use in pumping the water from the ocean.

Three large stone statues arrived at the Farms on Wednesday of this week, on a flat car, to be used as part of the outlay at the beautiful gardens at the Spaulding estate. One of the statues is much larger than the other two and is estimated to weigh ten tons. The statues are the work of Martin Milmore, the sculptor, who did the work about 1866.

Charles E. Lowe of Essex, by mortgagee, conveys to Madaline M. Briggs of Danvers, and she to Ada R. Lowe of Essex, 22 acres land and buildings, County Road, Essex; also 77 square rods woodland, Manchester; also ½ acre land in Essex; also 40 square rods woodland in Essex; also ¼ of an acre woodland in Essex; also ½ acre 4 square rods woodland in Manchester; also 4 acres 1 rood 20 rods land marsh in Essex; all so 1¼ acres woodland in Essex.

Work on the automobile garage for Col. Cranmore Wallace at Beverly Cove is nearly completed. The concrete work, granolithic floors, etc., was done by D. Linehan & Son, and the plumbing by R. Robertson Co. The carpenter work was done by an outside concern.

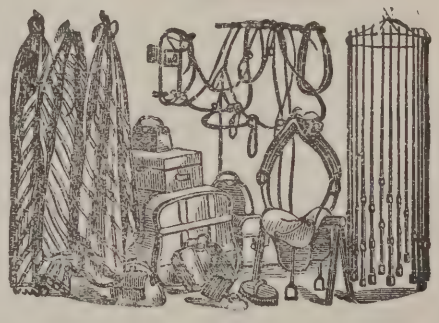

Building in summer homes promises to take a decided boom this fall and several fine new residences are being planned so as to be ready for accupancy in 1909. A well known local contractor said this morning that the outlook is very bright, which means considerable work this fall and winter. Money is little easier than it has been and many who had contemplated improvements and new homes for this year have put it off until then.—Gloucester Times.

The Sarcophagus is the most popular form of cemetery memorial at this time. The name comes from the Greeks, but the style of the modern Sarcophagii is quite different from their coffin-shaped stone boxes in which they place their dead. No other style of monument gives more assurance of permanance than this. They are low and massive and may be ornate in design or severely plain. The most beautiful designs may be executed in either marble or granite. We also have the most modern machinery in which to execute this work. We have made the granite business our life study. Call and see us any time.

ENGLISH LITERATURE

harmful because more alluring.

Dryden wrote much in the political and politico-religious vein, often with a satirical humor, that has outlined his stage compositions. In Absalom and Achitophel, he argues against democracy, urging that "The most may err as grossly as the few." The public keenly enjoyed seeing living statesmen held up to ridicule in the garb of Biblical story, and pilloried on the ancient stage. In the Hind and Panther, one of the most celebrated pieces of allegorical writing, the burning ecclesiastical questions of the age are treated under a very thin veil of fiction. His Religio Laici magnifies the authority of the church, making it little short of a religious despotism. It was aimed against both the Papists and the Puritans, or "fanatics," as they were generally called; it fitted in with Charles' policy and won for its author royal favor. Other works of Dryden which have procured him renown are his Translations of Virgil, and his Imitations of Ovid, Boccacio and Chaucer; nor should mention be omitted of his two Odes on St. Cecilia's Day, and Annus Mirabilis.

A good specimen of Dryden's verse, combining vigor with easy flow of language, are his lines on Milton:

"Three poets, in three distant ages born,
Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.
The first in loftiness of thought surpassed;
The next in majesty; in both the last.
The force of nature could no further go;
To make a third, she joined the other two."

Dryden's prose is superior to his poetry; it is clear, forcible, eloquent; it is seen at its best in some of his Prefaces and in his Discourses on Satire and Epic and Dramatic Poetry. As utterances of a poet upon poets, these Discourses are full of right suggestions from an artist's mind. Of the last, Dr. Johnson says, "it was the first regular and valuable treatise on the art of writing." In a few lines, he often draws the most admirable portraits, as in his picture of Shakespeare as a dramatist, of Ben Jonson, of Chaucer and Cowley. In genre painting he is without a peer. He professed to have learned his style from Tillotson, a master of prose, whom he resembled in clearness and force and whom he surpassed in ease and elegance.

It may be said that Dryden brought forth his best fruit in the autumn of life; had he died at the age of forty-five, he would have left but an inconsiderable name behind him. He was nearly seventy when though a cripple in his limbs, he tells us, he was conscious of no decay in the faculties of his mind, excepting that his memory was somewhat weaker; a signal instance of the fact often noticed that an intellectual life is not unfavorable to good health and prolonged days.

Dryden reigned supreme in the coffee-house world of London in his day—a world made up of the Wits of the town, gentlemen who were scholars and arbiters of taste and fashion in literature. As virtually dictator in this junto, "Glorious John," as he was dubbed by his admirers, obtained an almost imperial sway over his own age, and which he may be said to have retained, largely through his disciple and liegeman Pope, over the succeeding one. His life went out with the close of the 17th century, but his literary career was projected far into the 18th, leaving us to regret that he did not use his splendid powers to better purpose in producing works which would have been for the enlightenment and moral uplift of all time. Would, we may say, that he had more resembled the great Milton, so nearly his contemporary, in his zeal for the public good, in his fine scorn of the license of his time, in the faith which he so sternly kept with his country and his fame.

In Yachting Circles.

The final run in the cruise of the Eastern Yacht club to Bar Harbor was made last Saturday in a 20-knot northwester. S. Reed Anthony's sloop Doris finished second in the second division (sloops), while Gordon Abbott's Gloriana, and R. T. Paine, 2d's, Humma finished third and fourth, respectively, in the same class. Chas. K. Cumming's Sakuntala was the last boat to cross the finish line. Besides those mentioned above, Oliver Ames and H. M. Sears were present at the big banquet that night.

George Lee's Marie L. was the winner in the second class of the Boston yacht run to Portland, Tuesday. The Marie L. has done splendid work all through the cruise and will have several new cups for the owner's den.

"Muffle" Your Motor Boats!

In answer to the numerous complaints made about "un-muffled" motor boats in the harbor, that disturb the rest of those living near the water front at all hours of the night and day, the Manchester Board of Health passed the following ordinance at a meeting held Thursday evening:

"That all boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester, shall be provided with an under water exhaust or muffler and such under water exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such under water exhaust or such muffler."

This is the same as the order passed by the board last year. While the motor boats for the most part are complying with this regulation there are some that have not. It is said to be the intention of the board to force a compliance with this order.

The Mexican Band.

It is generally conceded that the finest of all Mexican Bands is the Bande De Policia, which is an organization of 97 musicians. It was to secure this band, which is considered by musicians who have traveled, to be the finest in the world, that Mr. Green journeyed to Mexico some months ago. The Bande De Policia is indeed, "Mexico's Pride" and she was loathe to lose it, even temporarily. But Mexico's loss is our gain for the Bande De Policia is to be the big musical feature of the New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition at Mechanics Building next October. Among the interesting things which the government will send will be a large model of the new National Opera House, now in process of construction in the City of Mexico.

The North Shore Grill has applied for a license, following the lead of the Hesperus.

Miss Tei Ninomiya, of Tokio, Japan, spoke very delightfully at the Oceanside last Wednesday evening on the Japanese people and their customs. Miss Ninomiya is a student at Smith's college, just entering on her junior year and is paying her expenses by her own efforts.

A series of organ recitals is to be given on the Catherine McManes Memorial organ at the Village church during the summer. They will be given through the beneficence of Mrs. Rebecca McM. Colfelt.

A club smoker will be one of the features of next week at the Men's club. The smoker will occur on Wednesday evening and a musical program will be rendered by the members talented in that line.

The Ladies Aid society will hold their annual fair for the aid of the Village church in the parlor of the Oceanside hotel, Wednesday, July 29, from one in the afternoon to eight in the evening. Useful and fancy articles, home-made candies, flowers, etc., will be for sale and as large a number as is possible are requested to attend. The proceeds of the fair will be used, as has been the custom the past three years, to help pay off the debt on the parsonage. This debt, originally amounting to $2750, has been reduced to $1450 in three years and bears no interest. Those who wish to contribute for the tables may do so by leaving the articles with Miss Wendell at the Oceanside, Miss Story at the library, or with Miss Lycett at the Postoffice.

The date of the fair for the Village church has been fixed for July 29. It will be held at the Oceanside as usual.

The gentlemen's night at the Women's club, Wednesday evening, was a decided success and enjoyed by all. About 250 were present and dancing was a feature of the evening. The program for next week will include a musicale on Tuesday evening; Wednesday afternoon the embroidery class; Thursday night will be the whist as usual; the sewing class on Friday afternoon, and on Saturday evening the customary dancing. New members are constantly coming in and the number has now passed the two hundred mark.

The Magnolia Library, with its array of up-to-date novels, conveniently arranged, affords the summer residents in that village an opportunity of obtaining at a nominal charge, reading material in almost every line. Most of the recent novels are here as well as a number of reference books and many stories for children. The library is open every morning from nine to twelve.

Cape Ann Local Union of Christian Endeavor held its quarterly meeting at Magnolia this year, on Thursday evening of last week. Rev. Frederick J. Libby of the village church was the speaker of the evening, and at the roll call the banner was awarded the society from the Rockport Baptist church. A very pleasing musical program was arranged by Ralph Smalley of the Boston Symphony and leader of the Hesperus Orchestra, and the meeting was of general interest to all.

Restore Strength

Dr. Miles' Nervine cures diseases brought on by mental and physical exhaustion. So many ailments are nervous affections that you can hardly miss it if you try it. In any event its strengthening influence upon the nerves will be of great value to you.

"I was very nervous, could not sleep, was tormented with nervous headaches, and it seemed that every malady was mine. My druggist told me that Dr. Miles' Nervine was good for nervous affections, so I purchased a bottle and a box of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I took the pills for headache and the Nervine regularly. In a week I felt much better. It seemed that I was living a new life. I do not feel that I can again relapse into the physical wreck that I was before taking them."

Capt. Frank Blaney has entertained the past week many of the Farms residents on his schooner, the "Governor Russell," lying off the point of Misery island.

Mr. and Mrs. Millet F. Spear and son Theodore on Thursday returned to Boston after a two weeks' visit at Beverly Farms. They leave shortly for an extended visit among relatives in Maine.

That portion of Marshall's field belonging to Mrs. A. O. Marshall has been enclosed by a new fence which has had the effect of cutting off several pathways heretofore used by many people for short cuts.

The board of directors of the West Beach corporation held a meeting the first of this week and elected William H. Gerrish, the popular agent at Pride's Crossing, to fill the vacancy on the board, taking the place of the late Andrew Standley.

The temperature of the water off West Beach during the past week has been quite low and has therefore put a damper on the bathing to a certain extent. The beach has, however, been the mecca for the whole people in this vicinity as a place of outings and there have been during the week numerous picnic parties.

A petition is in circulation, and so far has received the signatures of all to whom it has been presented. It reads as follows: "We the patrons of the Boston and Maine railroad at Beverly Farms respectfully remonstrate against the changing of the train leaving here at 6.49 p. m. for Boston to 6.27, and we petition that it be placed on the original time or later."

Mrs. W. L. Allen and daughter, Miss Beatrice L. Allen, are at Portland and North Berwick, Me., for a few weeks.

The Beverly City Directory and North Shore map, for 1908, by Messrs. Crowley and Lunt, was put in circulation at the Farms this week.

A very pleasant feature of the installation of officers of Bass River lodge, I. O. O. F., last Saturday evening was the presentation to Past Noble Grand Frank Williams of a beautiful Past Grand's collar. The presentation was a complete surprise to Mr. Williams, and was a token of the esteem in which Mr. Williams was held by the members of the lodge. The term under him has been one of the most successful in the history of the lodge in recent years. Over 20 new members have been taken in.

A stubborn little fire broke out on the roof of Otis Luke's stable in the rear of Pitch Pine hall, Thursday afternoon, and for a time the fire department had considerable difficulty in getting it under control. A stiff breeze was blowing and as soon as the fire could be put out in one place it would spring up again in another. The blaze was at length subdued after an hour's work, with comparatively little loss to the property.

A very pretty little entertainment was held in benefit of St. Margaret's church, Wednesday, on the grounds adjoining the church and parochial residence. The afternoon was given over to the children, who played games and ate refreshments to their hearts' content. In the evening the grounds were lighted by electric lights strung about among the trees. Between two trees a screen was hung, upon which pictures were thrown and a lecture on the Passion Play was delivered by Prof. A. B. Drake of Boston. After the lecture the young people enjoyed dancing and other amusements. There was a very large attendance and the whole affair was a very pleasant one as well as a financial success.

The summer days come and the summer days go and so do the crowds to Wonderland down by the sea at Revere Beach. The thousands of visitors find abundant material for a thoroughly enjoyable days outing in the great list of new and novel attractions this year, notable among which are the big free circus acts and the choice concerts by the best bands of New England. During the vacation days Pawnee Bill invites the children to see his great Wild West show for half price and all children under twelve years of age, accompanied by adults will be admitted free to Wonderland every day of the week.

Miss Annette Kellerman, the handsome young woman giving diving and swimming exhibitions at Wonderland, is to attempt what thirty of the crack swimmers hereabouts failed to accomplish last year in a spirited competition for a prize cup-swim from Charlestown bridge to Boston Light, a distance of nearly twelve miles in the harbor and out into the open sea.

Miss Kellermann is eager to do what no woman has yet done and only one man, Mr. Peter S. McNally, has succeeded in doing and her manager, Mr. James R. Sullivan, is confident that she will win.

Miss Kellermann will swim under the colors of the Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago, Ill., of which she is an honorary member. The attempt will be made in about two weeks.

The exact hour and day for this record breaking swim and the names of the committee who will supervise it and direct it, will be announced in a few days.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1908.

FOR PRESIDENT OF SENATE.

Senator Shaw's Supporters Planning an Aggressive Campaign.

Present indications point to the success of Senator James F. Shaw of Manchester in his candidacy for the presidency of the Massachusetts senate of 1909. There is but one other favored candidate for the high honor, Senator Elmer A. Stevens of Somerville, but he is not considered at all formidable by the Shaw forces.

A conference of Senator Shaw's friends was held yesterday at which were several senators who will be members of next year's senate. The latter have already pledged themselves to the candidacy of the Manchester man, and are planning an aggressive campaign for their candidate which will be carried into every senatorial district of the state.

Of the present senate, Senator Shaw has the assurance and support of fully two thirds of those who are candidates to succeed themselves. The new candidates in several of the districts have been canvassed and in almost every instance they have come out openly for Mr. Shaw. The senator has the support of some of the most influential business men of the state and all of the leaders in politics are active in his interest.

At yesterday's conference it was understood that the senator would have little if any opposition to his candidacy for a third term, it beiny assumed that Gloucester would return him in order to secure the honor of having the presiding officer of the Massachusetts senate.—Gloncester Daily Times.

SENATOR JAMES F. SHAW, OF MANCHESTER

Band Concert Next Wednesday.

Band concert next Wednesday evening! This is getting to be something which everyone looks forward to. Our Beverly Farms and Magnolia, as well as Manchester readers are interested in the announcement, for scores come from these places, as well as from Beverly, Salem and Gloucester to take in the concert every time one is given.

The Salem Cadet Band will be the attraction as usual. And the electrical illumination will be given as last week. Arrangement has been made, as was originally suggested in the BREEZE, whereby the electric display used on the Fourth will be kept up all summer and will be used on band concert nights. Last week this was paid for by L. W. Floyd, F. G. Cheever Co., and Benj. L. Allen. It is understood the cost of having the illumination three more nights will be $75. The matter having been brought to the attention of the selectmen, they deemed it proper and in keeping with the wishes of the public in general to subscribe the $34 left from the amount appropriated for band concerts to this amount. The Manchester Electric Co. are furnishing the "juice," and the three concerns mentioned above are paying the balance. Clark & Mills Electric Co., who own the outfit are letting the wire, lights, etc., practically at cost. The public ought to feel thankful that this arrangement has been made, for few towns can afford to have a band concert by such a fine organization as the Salem Cadet Band, throughout the summer, much less a beautiful electrical illumination thrown in.

The program for next Wednesday follows:

1. March, The Stein Song, Bullard
2. Overture, If I Were King, Adam
3. Duet for Cornets, Concert Polka, Losen
   Messrs. Bernier and Lietsinger
4. Selection, Il Trovatore, Verdi
5. Waltz, Espana, Waldtenfel
6. (a) The American Patrol, Meacham
   (b) Humoreske, Wheeler
7. Solo for Piccolo, Through the Air, Damm
   Mr. R. Hannible
8. Selection, Popular Songs, Morse
9. Selection, La Traviata, Verdi
10. March, Moonlight In Dixie, Clement

Notice!

The Student's Benefit Concert which was to have been given on July 8th at Town Hall, Manchester, was postponed on account of poor success. It will be given on Friday, July 31, at three o'clock p. m. Tickets for July 8, '08, will be good for July 31 *

REFUSED TO PURCHASE

Vote to Buy Manchester Electric Co. Lost by Small Margin of Three Votes.

At a special town meeting held Wednesday evening to consider the purchase of the Manchester Electric Co., the voters refused to accept the offer of the company by the narrow margin of three votes. One hundred and sixty-seven votes were cast, and as a two-thirds vote was required, 112 votes were necessary. The vote was 109 in favor to 58 against.

The result was a complete surprise to those present, many of whom were members of the summer colony. Several spoke in favor of the proposition, but no one spoke against it. It was another case of over-confidence, as everybody expected the proposition would be accepted.

It is understood this puts the matter aside for at least two years, and if so, it also means that the company will be purchased in the near future by a private corporation. The Manchester Electric Co. is made up of members of the summer colony for the most part, and as they started the company solely for the sake of having elecric lights in the town, with the idea that the town would probably take over the plant at the end of the five years, they do not care to continue their interest. An offer has already been received, it is understood.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Town Clerk A. S. Jewett, who read the warrant. R. C. Allen was chosen moderator, and in assuming the chair briefly thanked the voters for their expression of confidence. He appointed W. W. Hoare, J. N. Lipman and R. J. Baker tellers.

Under Article 2 E. S. Knight, chairman, submitted the report of the committee, copies of which had been distributed about town. The report showed the condition of the plant, its assets and other information.

In regard to the financial condition of the company the report had the following to say: "The earnings of the Company show a rapid increase. For the year ending June 30, 1906, which was the first full year of operation, they were $11,324. For the year ending June 30, 1907, they were $16,347, an increase of nearly $5000. For the year ending June 30 last, they were $18,910, an increase of $2500 over the preceding year and of $7500 over two years ago. The expenses exceeded the receipts in 1906 and 1907. In the year just closed

WELL KNOWN SWIMMING INSTRUCTOR AT MANCHESTER.

Among the recent arrivals, whose advent will arouse considerable interest in and about Manchester, is Prof. John F. Conroy, a well known athlete of Boston, where for nine years he filled the position of life guard and swimming instructor at the L street bath house. Prof. Conroy is here for the rest of the summer and will prove a decided addition at Singing Beach, where he will be on hand a good deal of the time and will make bathing much more safe, particularly for those who do not know how to swim. He has a most excellent record as a life saver and has over 130 lives to his credit. He is the possessor of four medals for bravery, one being presented by act of Congress.

An all around athlete, he has served as instructor in the Municipal gymnasiums of Boston and also as athletic coach at the Roxbury Latin school, where he was fencing master as well. Next year he goes to Mercersburg Academy, Mercersburg, Penn., where he will hold the position of physical instructor. While in Manchester he will give lessons in swimming and life saving, as well as private lessons in all kinds of athletic and gymnasium work.

Prof. Conroy has also been in great demand among the artists of Boston, who have had him pose for them as the type of the perfect muscular development in man. Prof. Dwight, too, has used him as a model in his lectures in the Harvard Medical School and told him that the development of his figure surpassed that of Eugene Sandow who is considered the strongest man in the world. Among the prominent artists for whom he has posed is Eric Pape, who conducts the well known Pape's School of Art on Massachusetts avenue, Boston, and who rides at Gloucester.

REFUSED TO PURCHASE

the expenses apparently exceeded the receipts by $800, but the amount due from customers, June 30, was $4,049.86, an increase of $1000 over the preceding year, so that it may fairly be said that the Company has earned somewhat more than its expenses during the past year. If the earnings should increase in the future as they have done in the past, they will very soon pay interest on the price at which the Town can buy the property. The foregoing figures are taken from the reports made by the Company to the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners.

"We found the Company perfectly willing to give us any and all information pertaining to the cost of construction, etc., and we submit the following schedules:

CONSTRUCTION TO JUNE 30, 1907.

Real Estate,	$ 14,793.76
Electric Plant,	8,090.00
" Lines,	134,251.10
Transformers,	6,625.85
Meters,	3,260.71
Misc. Equipment,	970.32
Service Construction,	10,195.00
	$178,186.74

SINCE JUNE 30, 1907, TO DATE.

Mains,	$132.78
Meters,	498.16
Transformers,	926.37
	$179,744.05

"In addition to the foregoing, the Company has on its books some $20,000 charged as additional cost, which represents the deficit necessarily arising during the working up of the business to its present point. This makes a total just under $200,000.00.

"Your committee is informed that the property can be purchased for $150,000.00 and that the company will be willing to postpone the date of payment for two years, without interest, or, if the town prefers to pay at an earlier date, the company will discount at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

"Considering that the plant was built some four years ago, we have investigated to some extent the matter of depreciation and find under the conditions that it would necessarily be small, owing to it being an under-ground service. The conduits are laid in cement and, therefore, are practically indestructable; the cables are warranted for five years; there has been no machinery to wear out and the building is of brick and fireproof construction. We therefore feel assured that whatever depreciation may have occurred, is more than offset by the increased cost of material and labor should the plant be constructed today."

The committee recommended: "That the town purchase the plant and property of the Manchester Electric Company," and should the town adopt the foregoing recommendation, "That the purchase be made for cash and advantage be taken of the discount, which would then amount to 10 per cent. off, or a flat price of $135,000.00."

E. P. Stanley said that there were a number of prominent property owners present, who were not voters in Manchester, and he moved that the courtesy of the floor be extended to any citizen who desired to speak on the question. Voted.

Major Henry L. Higginson, who has been a summer resident for many years, reviewed the growth of the town and its success, which, he said was due to competent management. He referred to the water system, the condition of the roads, shade trees and low taxation, our public library, and everything undertaken had been a great success. After the town had turned down the electric light question five years ago, the matter was taken up by the Manchester Electric Company with the result that a system of lighting has been installed in the town. The company lost money the first years, but last year it showed a slight gain, and the speaker believed no mistake would be made if the town accepted the plant. The success of a community depended on one helping the other, and a town should own its own privileges. That was his idea of American towns.

Manchester

Frank C. Knight spent the week-end visiting Mrs. Knight and two youngest children at Norway, Me.

Mrs. Arthur F. Giles, of Atlanta, Georgia, is a guest for the summer of Miss Mary D. Giles, School street.

W. C. Rust returned the first of the week from a very pleasant visit of a week or more in the New Hampshire hills.

Supt. Fish has accepted his reappointment as superintendent of schools of Amesbury, his term to begin August 1.

Miss Minna Doyle of Lewiston, Me., is spending part of her school vacation with Mrs. George Gould, School street.

Howard Catheron of Needham was in town Sunday a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Benj. L. Bullock, and family, School street.

Miss Rachel Hiscock of New York City is spending a fortnight a guest of her cousin, Mrs. Chas. A. Lodge, and family, Bennett street.

Ruth, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bell, was operated upon at the Beverly hospital by Dr. Johnson, Monday, for tonsil trouble.

Mrs. Percy A. Wheaton entertained several friends at her home on School street, Wednesday afternoon, in honor of her guests, Miss Bessell and Miss Logan of Scranton, Pa.

C. N. Taylor and family of Wellesley have hired the Furguson cottage on Allen Court for a month, and moved here on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Furguson have taken a small cottage on Wheeler's Point, Gloucester.

The new shed which was recently built in the rear of the Engine House was the cause of at least one "ducking." Fred Martin was in that vicinity Monday evening, and was trying to walk along the edge of the wall when he slipped into the Channel.

Tuck's Point is getting to be quite a picnicing center. From points outside Manchester people come to enjoy a days' outing occasionally. Among the out-of-town picnicers at the Point the past week was the the Ladies' Society of the Universalist church, Gloucester, who were here on Tuesday.

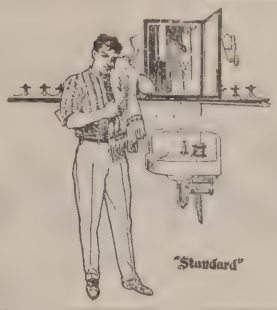

At their meeting on Friday night of last week the School Committee appointed as teacher in the Commercial department of the High school Miss Alice M. Brackett of Gorham, Me. Miss Brackett is a college graduate and has had supplementary training in commercial teaching work. She is leaving a very successful term as teacher at the Falmouth High school.

Grover Cleveland souvenir plates, 35 cents each, at Beaton's. *

George Anderson of Gloucester has been reappointed deputy of North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W.

Supt. Fish was at New London over Sunday visiting his daughter, Mrs. Campbell, and family. Mrs. Fish returned to Manchester with Mr. Fish the first of the week.

A number of Manchester and Beverly Farms people have seen some of the school of whales that are off these shores the past few weeks. The other day one came up almost under two fishermen's launches at Marblehead and from reports it would seem that the whale was as frightened as the two men, and hustled off in one direction as fast as the men did in the other. A. C. Needham was cruising in the outer harbor a few days ago in his auxiliary yawl, just off the end of Misery Island, when there was a commotion in the water just along side the boat. Soon the huge body of the whale arose out of the water and a stream of water was thrown forty feet into the air.

Society Notes

At the probate court in Salem Monday the will of the late Mrs. Emily S. Spaulding was probated, W. S. and John T. Spaulding, and Henry P. King, executors.

The will of Quincy A. Shaw, of the Pride's Crossing summer colony, who died June 12 at the age of 83, was made public yesterday. Regarding Mr. Shaw's investments, the will empowers the trustees to continue as long as they think wise to hold stocks in mining companies and other securieties which may be found in the estate at the time of his death, even though such stocks be unproductive of income or of a kind not usually thought suitable for a trustee to select or hold or be a larger proportion in one investment than the trust estate should hold. The widow, Pauline A. Shaw, is bequeathed $800,000 to be paid in such sums as she shall call for, while the unpaid portion is to be invested, with the profits reverting to the widow. She is also given all the real estate connected with the charities in which she is interested. The rest of the estate is given in trust to be held during the life of the widow and children, and upon the death of the longest liver the property is to be given to the lawful issue then living.

Mrs. Robert Hamilton, of Covington, Kentucky, and her daughter, Miss Annie Hamilton, and Miss Mary Bryant, are recent arrivals at the Hesperus.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, jr. (Marion Burdett), who have been stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow, sr., at Manchester since their marriage, sailed from Boston on the Cymric last Saturday for a few weeks' absence. Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow and daughter went up to see them off. Mrs. Bigelow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Burdett of Bay State road, Boston, have gone abroad with the young people. Mr. and Mrs. David Nevins Bigelow (Miss Rawn) are just returning from their honeymoon trip. They go direct to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. George Motley, of Rochester, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Morse and J. P. Morse, of the same city, stopped at the Masconomo Sunday, where they spent the night. The party is making the "Ideal Tour" and were supposed to have stopped at the Wentworth hotel in Portsmouth, Sunday night, but motored to the Masconomo instead. While here they visited their friends, the Thomas Cooks, of Pittsburg, on Sea street.

Who's Who Along the North Shore is the leading exponent and compendium of reliable information concerning summer life on the Shore.

Here is gathered more information than can be found any where else, under one cover.

It gives arrival and departure of trains
It gives arrival and departure of mails
" " churches in each town
" " hotels on the shore
" " population of each locality
" " names of post-masters
" " names of selectmen
" " public telephone stations in each locality
" " officers of all the prominent yacht clubs
" " members of all the prominent clubs
" " list of yachts owned on the shore
" " list of launches owned
" " list of season guests at hotels and boarding houses
" " residents — complete information

When we say complete information about residents we mean that we tell you what street and what cottage a man lives in at the shore, and at what street and number he resides in the city, also at what street and number his business can be found, and what his business is.

For instance, instead of giving the following information about Congressman A. P. Gardner, (which we copy from our good blue contemporary), we tell you about Mr. Gardner as follows:

Gardner A. P. Mr. and Mrs., off Main, Hamilton.

Gardner, Hon. Augustus P.
Hamilton, "Sagamore Farm."
w. r. Hamilton. [w. r. means winter address.]
b. a. Boston, 22 Congress st.; Congressman U. S. [b. a. means business address.]

Instead of the following about Mr. Jordan

Jordan Eben D. Mr. and Mrs.,

we give you the following interesting facts:

Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Eben D.
W. Manchester, Harbor st.
w. r. Boston, 46 Beacon st.
b. a. 450 Washington st.; Pres. Jordan Marsh Co.

These are representative examples that show the comparisons to be found all through the book, in dozens of cases on every page.

Besides our book is the only one that is reliable and complete. In Manchester alone last year we gave 40 prominent residents not listed in any other publication. In all several hundred on the whole shore. And there were no dead and "moved away" names in our list, which cannot be said of any other

You ought to have a copy of this book for your guests to read, and one on your desk for reference.

For Sale at the Breeze office. $2.

The first dance of the season at the Masconomo will be held tonight in the large dance hall. As the Masconomo orchestra has not yet arrived the music will be furnished by Long's orchestra.

The month of August will undoubtedly be a full one at the Masconomo. One of the events on the month's program will be a reproduction of one of Shakespeare's plays by the well known Ben Greet players. What the date of the production will be or what play will be staged has not yet been decided but it is very probable that "As You Like It" will be given.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Donnelly of Lowell came over in their auto and spent the week-end at the Masconomo.

Miss E. Smith was also a guest at the Masconomo on Sunday. Miss Smith, who is from Washington, is the private secretary of Joaquim Nabuco, Ambassador from Brazil, who is making his headquarters in Hamilton for the summer.

William A. Barnes, of Boston, who is stopping at the New Magnolia Tea House, will lecture at the Oceanside, Monday evening, July 27, on Psychotherapy, its meaning and the uses it may be put to and the results obtained. He will also touch upon psychotherapy as connected with the church.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Buzzell of Boston have taken apartments at the Hesperus hotel for the balance of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Thompson and Miss Virginia Dusten of St. Louis spent the week-end at the Hesperus.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Gardner of Charlotte, N. C., are recent arrivals at the Aborn.

Roger R. Hill of Saginaw, Mich., has joined his mother, Mrs. H. H. Hill and brother and sister, at the Oceanside. He will remain for the summer in the East Flume cottage, one of the connections of that hotel.

Mr. Trigg is the son of the late William R. Trigg one of the largest ship-builders in the United States, who up to the time of his death had been accustomed to spend the summers at that hotel.

Motoring from their pleasant home in Ogdenburgh, N. Y., Mrs. Hyde, accompanied by Miss Mathews, Miss Church, Miss Vilas and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kellog arrived at the Oceanside in time for dinner Sunday, where they will remain in the Underbrush cottage for the balance of the summer.

Benjamin F. Cable, one of the most prominent residents of Rock Island, Ill., was among the early arrivals of the week at the Oceanside, where he has taken apartments in the Lawton cottage.

Robert Allgeryer of New Orleans joined his family at the Oceanside, the first of the week, where they are spending the summer in the East cottage.

The Misses Annie F. and May E. McAleer, of Brookline, are among the week's arrivals at the Oceanside, where they will remain during the hot weather.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Thompson, of New York and Paris, were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Jones also of New York, in the Flume cottage, a connection of the Oceanside hotel.

James C. Auchincloss, of New York joined his mother and brothers for the week-end at the Oceanside, where they are spending the summer in the Centre cottage.

Mrs. H. F. Skinner of Boston is at the Oceanside again this season.

George B. and George S. Champlin with W. A. and A. A. Wilkinson, all of Providence, are at the Oceanside for the balance of the summer and have taken quarters in the Fuller cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Howard and Miss F. B. Farnsworth of Washington, D. C., have taken apartments in the Hesperus Villa, to remain for the balance of the hot weather.

The week-end was spent very pleasantly by Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Marr of Boston at the Hesperus.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lutz, of New York, are among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside. Mrs Lutz, before she was married, was accustomed to spend her summers at the Oceanside with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a little daughter in their family circle on Wednesday, the 22d. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are at the Knowles cottage in Magnolia for a few weeks.

James E. Keane, Mrs. S. Clarence Adams and Miss Jenkins all from New York motored from Boston to the Masconomo house, Sunday, returning that afternoon to Boston where they met Mrs. Keane and returned to New York in their auto.

Mr. and Mrs A. N. Edwards of Haddon hall, Boston, have taken apartments at the Masconomo house, where they will remain for the balance of the summer. The Edwards are accompanied by their daughter, Miss Florence Edwards.

Two new tennis courts have been laid out this week at the Masconomo house on the spacious lawn at the rear of the hotel, where, doubtless, many exciting games of tennis will be played.

Edgar S. Auchincloss of New York has joined his mother, Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss, and the rest of the family at the Oceanside for a couple of weeks. Mr. Auchincloss arrived Monday.

To see the display of mirrors now being held in the art rooms of Walter Kimball & Co., in the North Shore Grill is worth a visit. The collection includes some handsome hand-carved frames of various sizes, shapes and designs, selections having been made from different periods now in vogue for interior decorations. These have been especially prepared for exhibition in Magnolia and comprise a number of models that have never been put on exhibition before.

S. Walter Stern, of New Orleans, is at the Masconomo foi a few weeks, being among the late arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Skaats Wheeler, of Bernardville, N. J., accompanied by Mrs. John J. Sutton and the Misses Sutton of Rye, N. Y., motored to Magnolia Saturday and registered at the Oceanside, where they spent the week-end. Sunday the party took dinner at the North Shore Grill.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Jongers and Miss Louise Jongers of New York, were among the early arrivals this week at the Oceanside, where they will spend the balance of the summer.

H. M. Rees of Thomasville, Georgia, has joined the other members of his family at the Oceanside for a few weeks and is accompanied by Guy D. Haselton, and William D. Haselton, of Cleveland, Ohio. The young men will reside during their stay in the Joslyn cottage.

Mrs. D. S. Crosby and Miss Louise Crosby, of Chicago, have registercd at the Hesperus for the summer months.

John Scullin, of St. Louis, joined his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scullin at the Masconomo in Manchester, Friday, where he will remain for a brief stay.

The D. A. Sullivans of Boston have been entertaining at the Masconomo this week F. H. and R. Donovan of Lynn.

O. C. Barber of New York, president of the Diamond Match Co., Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Bevan, Mrs. Leroy Fuller, and her son, Master William Fuller, all of Chicago, are at the Masconomo house for a stay of a few days duration.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bond of Hartford, are also recent arrivals at the Oceanside. Mrs. J. J. Gannon, of New Orleans, arrived at the Oceanside the first of the week for the balance of the warm weather. Mrs. Gannon is accompanied by Miss J. Gannon and D. B. Gannon. They come here from Gloucester where they spent the first of the season.

One of the prettiest affairs at the North Shore Grill this week was the birthday party, Tuesday afternoon, of Master Jack Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Drake of Chicago, who are spending the summer at the Oceanside. Master Drake entertained seven of his young friends stopping at the hotel and about Magnolia and the feature of the party was a magnificent birthday cake. On the top of the cake were the dates '98 and 1908 and eleven pink candles, one for each year and one for luck. The children had a merry little time and many glances were turned towards their table by the other guests of the Grill. Mrs. Drake also entertained a party of ladies for tea at a nearby table. Covers were laid for eight.

Amory Austin, of Newport, R. I., spent a few days this week at the Hesperus hotel.

Several pretty little solos were rendered by Mrs. K. L. Haass, of Chicago, at the Sunday evening concert in the parlors of the Hesperus hotel, and were very well received by the large number who enjoyed the music. Mrs. Haass is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lombard also of Chicago, and are guests at the hotel. Mr. Fielder and Mr. Smalley, both members of the Boston Symphony, also rendered several delightful selections on the cello.

A very charming little musicale was rendered at the Aborn Sunday evening by Miss Anne Abbott. Miss Abbott is a most exquisite violinist and her rendering of "Annie Laurie" and "Home Sweet Home" was especially appealing. Mrs. Walker, a guest of the Oceanside, accompanied Miss Abbott on the piano and also rendered several vocal solos, which were received with enthusiasm.

Among visitors to Magnolia during the week were Mr. and Mrs Robert Rogers (Louise McIntosh) of Newton Center, now home after a long tour of the West and South. Mrs. Rogers was entertained by Mrs. Nellie M. Horne at the Grill and later by Miss Anne Abbott at the library. All three are members of the Professional Women's Club of Boston founded by Marion Howard Brazier, a club of 163 strictly professional workers with an established reputation. It has a large following of society people and holds all its functions in the exclusive Back Bay. Mrs. Rogers is a tall, handsome brunette, a sister of Bebe McIntosh, one of the belles of the Newtons.

Miss McNamara announces that she is at Manchester-by-the-Sea for the season, and that she has removed from the cottage at 39 School street to Friend's court (off School street). Treatment of the scalp, shampooing, marcel waving, manicure. Telephone 164 Manchester. *

G. H. Stanton, Lieut. of Engineers in the English army, was the guest recently of Mrs. Joshua Davis at the Aborn, where Mrs. Davis is spending the summer.

Mrs. A. A. Porter, of Niagara Falls is at the Aborn for an indefinate stay. Mrs. Porter is the mother of Mrs. Edwards wife of Gen. Edwards, who is spending the summer with the General in the lower MacDonald cottage.

A. Weller Case, Miss C. M. Case, Samuel W. Case, and A. Willard Case of South Manchester, Conn., are at the Oceanside hotel for an indefinite stay.

Frank G. Macomber of Boston, the well known insurance man, came over to Magnolia, from Marblehead, Sunday in his yacht the Chewink IV, where with a party of ten he dined at the Oceanside.

Saturday and Sunday were record breakers at the Oceanside for this time in the season. On Saturday night the high water mark was reached when there were 502 guests in the house and on Sunday there were 490 guests. This is the largest number of guests the Oceanside has ever known for the time of season.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter returned to Manchester last night after an absence of several weeks, during which they have been to Chicago and to the Democratic Convention at Denver. They will remain here now until late August. Mrs. Leiter's mother, Mrs Williams and sister, Miss Williams, have been guests of Mrs. Leiter, sr., the past week and will remain a week longer. Lt. Col. John R. Williams was here for a day recently.

G. L. Thurkow, attache to the Netherlands legation, spent a few days at the Masconomo this week leaving Thursday for the summer quarters of Mr. Royaard, secretary of the legation, on School street, where it is expected that he will remain for the balance of the summer.

The mid-summer ball at the Ocean-side tonight will, without a doubt, be the grandest affair of the season and is being looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by the guests of the hotel and the members of the summer colony. The main dining room of the hotel will be cleared and decorated for the purpose and the music will be furnished by the Salem Cadet Band orchestra.

This is the afternoon of the land and water carnival at Magnolia and the events are being looked forward to with no little interest. An event on the program which it is expected will afford no little excitement is the canoe race. The pillow fight is also expected to prove decidedly interesting. A detailed account of the sports and the results will be given in next week's issue of the BREEZE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. M. McAlman and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Woodward of Boston were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Sullivan at the Masconomo, Sunday where the Sullivans are spending the summer in the Miami cottage.

Important Notice

TO Water Takers.

Owing to the extreme drought, the shortage of water has reached a point that we consider dangerous. It is absolutely necessary that we curtail the consumption. You are therefore notified that the most rigid economy must be practiced and you are earnestly requested to prevent all waste of water in any manner whatever on your premises.

POLE SWAMP LANE OPENED.

Another woods road has just been opened and the following description on a postal being sent to subscribers, by Col. Wm. D. Sohier, is self-explanatory:

"POLE SWAMP LANE---This road leads from Valley street, Beverly Farms, to Preston Place, about one mile. It is passable for riding and driving, although there was no money available to finish it. It was grubbed out in order to save the rights of way and to be able to get the spraying machines in for gypsy moth work in the woods. Some slight repairs have been made in Valley street so that one can drive around the hill now, going into the woods opposite the Beverly Farms burying ground and coming out by Mr. Heaton's house."

We might add further that this road forms a connecting link from Beverly Farms to the series of wood roads in the Chebacco woods, which run to Chebacco, to Essex, to Manchester, and to West Manchester, and by turning in the opposite direction, one can go from Horse Hill Lane to Bowlder Lane and all the various roads through Beverly Commons down to Beverly Cove.

Automobiles are excluded from all these roads as they are narrow, crooked and extremely dangerous, but they are much used by riders and drivers.

Board of Health.

Ordinance.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, the following vote was passed and hereby becomes an ordinance:—

"That all boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester, shall be provided with an under water exhaust or muffler and such under water exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such under water exhaust or such muffler."

This regulation shall go into effect on August 1, 1908.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR HEALTH?

If so, you can find it at

The Dennis Magnetic Institute

For he possesses a Magnetic Power to cure Diseases not equalled by anyone.

There is no treatment in the World that resembles in any way the famous Dennis system of treatment. It can best be likened to the old-time method of the laying on of hands, but is better called the curing of disease by the application of the mighty natural forces of Vital Magnetism. After the form of ailment is located the magnetism is transferred by way of the nerves leading to the diseased centres and the force of Vital Magnetism is so great that it seems to draw the disease out of the system. In many cases cures of obstinate diseases of long standing have been made in one treatment, in other cases it takes several. While the cure is being made the magnetism is thoroughlp building up the system.

PLANS are already being made for the harbor illumination and boat parade to be held at Manchester on the evening of August 10th,—Monday. Shore residents and townspeople should unite in making this an event of general interest. While the Manchester Yacht club is taking the initiative, everybody is invited to join and make the event something that will be looked forward to every summer. A harbor illumination and boat parade ought to be a leading event of the summer in such a delightful watering place as Manchester. Now all join hands! Enthusiasm should not be lacking!

TAX rates seem to be taking mighty jumps all around us! In Marblehead the rates will be something over $20.00. In Newburyport the rate will take a jump of $2.20,—to $21.20. Meanwhile the Manchester assessors are putting in some hard work and tax-payers are wondering what sort of a surprise they will spring when they are ready to announce the rate. That it will be higher there is no question. The state and county taxes have been increased considerably, and expenses in the town have gone up something over what they were last year. These things, together with the fact that the condition of the stock market places a lower value on much taxable assets, will bring about a higher rate. But it will be in the vicinity of $10.00. In Beverly the rates will advance to the vicinity of $15.00. Wakefield will have a rate of $25.00, one of highest in the State. Gloucester's rate will be $19.00.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

My attention has been called to the bathing as enjoyed by the young men and boys at Beach Street Park or Masconomo Park, more properly. No one would object to the use of the float there by the bathers provided they behave properly and wear suits such as are used at the beach or any other public resort. The meagre shelter on the pier provides few accommodations for the number that use it, in fact, is almost unfit for any such service as a bath house. May we not have some improvements along these lines?

Magnolia Gymkhana.

August, the merriest of the summer months, will soon be here and will bring with it the annual Horse Events or Gymkhana Races on Crescent Beach, Magnolia, the most fashionable and interesting of the season's events. The races and events are being arranged under the management of the Oceanside hotel, and are under the personal supervision of Captain de Jony, a well known horseman. The plans for the Gymkhana place the date at Monday, August 10. The program will consist largely of races for ladies and gentlemen, hurdle races, and pony races for children. As far as is possible, the events are to be exclusively for the amateurs, with the exception of a flat race for professionals, and it is hoped that all, who are interested in horse events, will show their interest in the affair by entering with their horses in the events. Further particulars will be given in next week's issue of the BREEZE.

Nothing definite has been decided on the proposed horse show. But it will probably be held in late August.

EXOTICS.

(Tales From the Talmud.)

If one should tell thee thou hast asses ears,
It may not hence be true, so calm thy fears.

If two shall thus aver, Alas! Alack!
Go, get a saddle for thy beastly back.

The Pitcher.

If the pitcher strike the stone,
Woe to the pitcher.
If on the pitcher fall the stone,
Woe to the pitcher,
Alike in all, whate'er befall,
Woe to the pitcher!

Rabia.

Malik and Hassan, friends of Rabia, sped
To cheer her, lying sick upon her bed.

To whom thus Hassan: "He whose heart is pure,
God's chastening hand unmurmuring will endure."

And Malik: "He who loves the Lord will bring
A heart that doth rejoice in chastening."

Then Rabia, who their selfishness discerned,
Her face in anger and in pity turned;

"Why, friends, should Rabia be by you advised?
I was not conscious that I am chastised."

The Supreme Law.

Rabbi Hillel, wise to teach,
Framed his thought in golden speech.

To him came, upon a day,
One who said, "Good Master, pray

God's Law in brief measure put While I stand upon one foot."

Beckoning the man aside,
Rabbi Hillel thus replied:

"What is hateful unto thee,
Ne'er to others do nor be.

This, God's Law. (My words are chary),
All else is but commentary."

—Joseph A. Torrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Eldridge and young son are to spend the balance of the summer at Buzzards Bay.

Selectman G. Lockhart Allen and sister, Miss Caroline Allen, returned a few days ago from a week's trip to Islesboro and others points in Maine.

William H. Norie came on from Chicago the first of the week for a visit with his brother, George N. Norie and family, Bennett street. Mr. Norie is chief clerk in the office of the Michigan Central-Lackawanna fast freight line. His mother, Mrs. George H. Norie, came on East for a short visit also.

The many friends of John Desmond will be pleased to learn that he is doing nicely after being operated upon at the Massachusetts General Hospital Thursday. Mr. Desmond went to the hospital on Wednesday. His position as caretaker at Masconomo park has been filled temporarily by Patrick Cleary.

A beautiful dalnation hound, owned by Mrs. Herbert Shaw, Summer street, was killed by an automobile last Saturday. The dog was especially prized by Mr. and Mrs. Shaw as it had won two first prizes and a second a couple of years ago in dog shows at Boston and Beverly.

Another number was added this week to the long list of accidents caused by careless auto driving when A. C. Needham's valuable black cocker spaniel "Jap" was run over by a big car and injured so badly that he died a few days later. As is usually customary in these cases, the car sped right on without stopping to make inquiries, but as there were plenty of eye witnesses to the accident, it is hoped to get the number and the name of the owner, if not for satisfaction, at least for self-protection in future cases, in case the car is seen first.

The prize dance run by Thomas Baker, Alfred Walen and Arthur Smothers, in the Town hall on Thursday evening brought out the biggest crowd of the summer. Many came from Magnolia and Gloucester, as well as from Beverly Farms. It was almost 11 o'clock when the prize dance was started. There were over twenty couples competing. The judges were John Timmins and Curtis Stanley of Manchester, Mr. Garling of Gloucester, Mr. Linehan of Rockport, and Mr. Donovan of Magnolia. The prizes, $2.50 in gold for each, were awarded to Eddie McCaffy and Miss Mamie Williams of Gloucester, and William Newman and Miss Kelley of Beverly Farms.

Henry T. Bingham had the misfortune to cut his hand quite severely Thursday afternoon while returning from Gloucester from the Odd Fellows Encampment picnic. As the train was crossing the cut he waved his hand from the car window and in so doing his hand come in contact with something close to the car, cutting a bad gash.

Proposals Received.

The proposals for laying the water pipes in Manchester and Hamilton for Manchester's additional water supply were opened Thursday evening at a special meeting of the Water Board. Thirteen bids were received, the lowest being $17,713.00 and the highest $27,840.00,—a variance of over $10,000. The greater part of the bids, however, were in the vicinity of $21,000.

The board were not ready to award the contract Thursday night, but intended to do so last night. They were unable to have the contractor they wanted with them, and consequently held the thing over until tonight when they will probably be prepared to announce to whom the contract will be given.

Most of those furnishing bids were present Thursday evening when the proposals were opened and read. Following are the firms giving bids and their figures:

Manchester

John Baker has tendered his resignation as superintendent of grounds at the Essex County club, to take effect August 1. Mr. Baker has been in charge of the grounds since they were opened a little over 15 years ago.

A cut of the new residence of Austin Morley, corner Norwood avenue and Brook street, reached us from the engraver this morning too late to use in this week's issue. The house is of concrete, the first of its kind to be built in Manchester, and is attracting much attention.

Because of the rain Wednesday the Red Men's picnic had to be postponed until Thursday, but those who attended joined in one accord in saying that Thursday's pleasure made up for what was lost on Wednesday. It was a basket picnic and was attended by the Red Men and their families. Long's orchestra was at the house in the afternoon and added a pleasing feature to the days outing. Games of various sorts were indulged in during the day and a most enjoyable time was had by all. E. P. Stanley and Wade Brooks run their launches between Town wharf and the Point most all day.

THE LIQUOR POLICY FOR MAGNOLIA.

FREDERICK J. LIBBY.

Three policies may be pursued in a small community like Magnolia regarding the sale of liquor. First, the community may tolerate the illegal sale without license; secondly, it may license the sale; thirdly, it may allow no liquor to be sold within its precincts. The first is lawlessness. The second and third are license and no license respectively and come under the local option law of Massachusetts. Let us consider the three policies separately as they may be applied to our local situation.

First, Toleration of Illegal Sale.

This has been the policy of Magnolia in the past. It is based on grounds of expediency. Many have held and hold today that this is the best way to regulate a necessary evil. A license brings to the licensee a measure of independence. It is hard to convict him if he maintain a nuisance. An illegal seller is, on the other hand, at the mercy of the community. His business exists on sufferance. He will not dare maintain a nuisance and can be kept within strict limits. As liquor will be sold anyway, it is argued, this method of restricting the sale is the best that can be done.

My observation is, that we have no just cause in Magnolia for self complacency over our so-called "restriction" of the liquor-traffic, during the past three years at least.

A licensed hotel-bar would hardly have sold more liquor than was sold at the unlicensed bar of one of our hotels last summer, while six other places fashionable and otherwise, catered illegally to those not served with liquor there. There was no need of a license under such conditions. It is probably true that some restraint due to public sentiment was felt by the proprietors of these places. But that it was hard for anybody, even for minors and drunkards, to obtain all of the liquor they wanted in Magnolia I am inclined now to doubt.

Moreover, the inevitable result of this policy is a steady increase in the number of illegal places. On the one hand, idle or vicious persons see in the situation an opportunity to make money easily,—because the liquor-traffic is notoriously lucrative,—and on the other hand law-abiding competitors are placed at a disadvantage by having unscrupulous neighbors. If A serves wine while B does not, B will suffer financially for his good morals and his conscience will be severely strained in a bad season by the injustice of the situation. Both of these causes have been operative in Magnolia with the logical result and two new places were to have opened the present season to sell liquor illegally. Thus as a policy of restriction the toleration of illegal sale cannot fairly be called a success.

Moreover, in this state of open disregard of law the whole community is made particeps criminis. No one here has pretended not to know that the law was being violated. Everyone has winked at it and connived in it. This enforced connivance in crime is impossible for a healthy community long to endure. That is is demoralizing to every citizen and to the youth especially goes without saying.

As for the assertion that liquor will be sold in Magnolia anyway, I do not believe it. Liquor will be drunk here. Those who want it badly will get it. But I am perfectly certain that we can prevent its being sold here. Magnolia even in summer is too small and compact a community for much secrecy to exist in such a matter.

For these reasons, then: because the evil is not a "necessary" one; because the policy of toleration does not restrict it but rather increases it; and because the policy is lawless and therefore demoralizing, involving the whole community in moral obliquity, I believe that this is not the best of the three possible policies but on the whole the worst.

Secondly, Licensing the Sale.

This has in its favor its legality. The general arguments on the question of license pro and con are familiar to all or ought to be and will not be entered into here. But with regard to the granting of licenses in Magnolia there seems to be striking unanimity of opinion. No one wants it as his first choice. Some prefer license to no sale of liquor at all. And some prefer license to the violation of the law. But no one seems to prefer license to both of the other policies.

The reasons given are these: The independence of the licensee of much real public control; the likelihood of the multiplication of licenses as competition would require; the danger of the increase of drinking among chauffeurs who as a class need to be clear-headed beyond even railroad engineers; and the admittedly bad influence of open public bars in a small town.

These reasons are to my mind sufficient to close the case against license in a town like Magnolia The dangers indicated are realized by all thinking men to be no imaginary ones. Hence the unanimity of sentiment against license here. It is safe to predict that if the licensing policy were adopted by Magnolia and consistently pursued, it would in ten years' time completely change the character of the place. Many of our best people would have gone. A different set would have displaced them. There are those who would welcome such a change. In my judgment it would be a calamity.

Thirdly, No Liquor Sold In Magnolia.

If we adopt neither lawlessness nor license as our policy, there remains but one possible policy. It is the policy of No-License. As already explained, this does not mean that no liquor will be drunk in Magnolia but that none will be sold here. To the unthinking this means no gain to the community and some financial loss. The thoughtful man, however, appreciates the difference between the presence of saloons and their absence. He realizes the meaning of the constant temptation of an idle or a thoughtless man.

He knows that the atmosphere of a temperate town is felt to be different from that of a "wide open" town. He acknowledges a difference in the young men. If the place be a summer resort, he knows that there is bound to be a difference in all classes. The policy of a community is a large factor in determining who shall come to it. The liquor policy is an important part of the general policy. If we have No-License in Magnolia and stick to it, we shall attract not the fast but the best. We are standing at the parting of the ways. The next few years will determine the character of Magnolia for perhaps a hundred years to come.

Letters endorsing the purchase of the plant were read by Mr. Knight from W. L. Putnam, Gardiner M. Lane, S Parker Bremer, Francis M. Whitehouse, Charles Head, Stephen M. Crosby, William A. Tucker, Lester Leland, Eben D. Jordan and George R. White. Mr. White's letter follows:

JULY 20, 1909.

To the Board of Selectmen, Town of Manchester, Mass.

Dear Sirs:—

I regret that I cannot be present at the town meeting on Tuesday next, to express the hope that the town will approve the proposition to take over the electric lighting plant. I should feel great confidence in its operation by the town because of the able management of the water supply and because everything done by the town, appears to be well done. The joint ownership and operation of light and water seem to suggest more economies than is possible under separate management. The cost of the electricity is sure to decrease and the consumption to increase.

Manchester is the most delightful town on the coast—the coolest—the healthiest—with all the advantages of a town and the sweet restful simplicity of a village. No other town offers so much that appeals to the overworked man of affairs. The best water, the best roads, good government, low taxes, and above all an atmosphere conducive to health and longevity are the advantages presented by Manchester to men of wealth seeking an ideal summer home. Anything that may further add to the comfort and convenience of its inhabitants and summer residents, seems most desirable.

Very truly yours,

GEO. R. WHITE.

The report was laid on the table until after the consideration of Article 3. Under Art. 3 Mr. Knight offered the following motion:

"That it is expedient to exercise the authority conferred by Sec. 1, Chap. 34, of the Revised Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as amended by Sections 59 and 158 of Part III of Chapter 463 of the Acts of the year 1906, and that the Town construct or acquire within its limits a plant for the manufacture or distribution of electricity for furnishing light for municipal use, and light, heat, or power for the use of its inhabitants, except for furnishing light, heat, or power for the operation of the cars of a street railway company."

Mr. Knight stated that: "Under the statutes a town has not the authority to establish or maintain a plant until it has twice voted at meetings, not less than two or more than thirteen months apart, to acquire or establish such plant, such vote being in the nature of an acceptance of the act and should be general in character. This vote to be effectual must be 'of two-thirds of the voters taken by ballot with the use of the voting list.' At the second meeting upon the same vote being again passed, the town will be in a position to pass its specific votes for the acquirement of the plant under proper articles in the warrant. The vote at the first meeting cannot have any binding effect upon the town unless followed by a similar vote at the second meeting."

E. P. Stanley said in regard to the financial standing of the town at present that this year the town would have a bonded debt of $48,000. That the park and school house debt would be wiped out, leaving only $48,000 due on the water plant. This with the new issue of $160,000 for additional water supply and the $135,000 for electric light plant would leave the town only about $20,000 within the debt limit. Our borrowing capacity, based on last year's valuation, is about $356,000.

E. S. Knight agreed with Mr. Stanley, but thought the water loan was not counted in considering the debt limit.

F. K. Hooper thought the citizens should consider this proposition thoroughly. He had always believed in paying as you go, but he was in favor of purchasing the plant because he believed it would be a good thing for the town. He believed the town should own and control its electric light plant. We have no corporations and we should be careful to keep out of the hands of corporations. He sincerely hoped the question would be passed on favorably and strongly.

F. K. Swett thought the town should keep free from corporations and own its own plant. It had been said that we have no corporation, but he said that the telephone company had shown what corporations were. He didn't believe in granting franchises and being put under the grasp of any corporation.

O. T. Roberts thought the town was getting a good equivalent for the money and hoped the measure would pass by more than a two-thirds vote.

P. H. Boyle asked if this bound the town to manufacture.

The moderator said to "manufacture or distribute."

Mr. Boyle thought it a good proposition. Men of good judgment, and men it would be well to follow, were behind it.

The ballot was then taken. 167 votes were cast, 109 being in favor, 58 against. 112 were necessary to carry the measure.

On motion of W. C. Rust the report of the committee was accepted.

Art. 4. The matter of issuing the $160,000 in bonds and script for additional water plant extension.

A communication was received from town counsel explaining the new law regarding the payment of so many bonds each year. At the April meeting the town voted to issue 160 bonds of $1000 each, four to be paid the first year, and six each year thereafter. Inasmuch as there was a new law on retiring the smallest number of bonds last instead of first, he advised that former action be rescinded, and the record of voters be for the payment of six bonds the first year, and a like number each year thereafter, until the 27th year, when the remaining four should be paid.

The motion was made by Frank P. Knight and unanimously adopted, after which the meeting adjourned.

Handicap Shop for the Blind.

Manchester people, and in fact the entire North Shore summer colony, have responded most gratifyingly to the invitation of the State Commission and the Perkins Institution to patronize the unique little Handicraft Shop for the Blind on the village green. Sales of and special orders for the dainty fabrics and useful articles exhibited have been constantly increasing, and even at this early date, it is safe to prophecy that the close of the season will find a highly creditable showing on the right side of the ledger.

Of all those interested in this commendable enterprise none has shown more continued practical support than Mrs. William Hooper who so quickly recognized in the establishment of the Handicraft Shop not only the opportunity of assisting the two blind girls in whom she was personally interested but also the broader possibilities of extending similar aid to scores of sightless persons whose skilled fingers have created the many and varied articles placed on sale.

Among the new features to be installed during the season is one sure to arouse much interest among the patrons of the Handicraft Shop. Ever see a blind girl run a sewing machine? Well, drop in any day now and find out how it's done. Probably nothing like it was seen on the North Shore before and doubtless many will avail themselves of the chance to witness such a surprising example of what can be done by the blind.

In this connection it is pleasing to note that the industrial movement for those not blessed with vision is extending in all directions.

Light through work is the watchword everywhere. Give the sightless employment and let the broad light of happiness and content shed its effulgence upon the thousands hitherto leading lives of inactivity and depression.

In Yachting Circles.

The second in the series of races for sailing tenders, at the Manchester Yacht club, was sailed last Saturday in a stiff breeze from the south, but only two boats sailed around the course. Richard Wigglesworth finished first and Robert Storer second.

One of the largest yachts in Manchester harbor this summer is that owned by Mrs. Andrew C. Wheelwright, who is occupying the Bradley cottage on Smith's Point. The "Hesper" was formerly one of the fleet of pilot boats at Boston, and was considered the queen of the fleet, which gave way a few years ago to steam pilot boats. The late Mr. Wheelwright came into possession of the "Hesper" and fitted her into a pleasure yacht. While Mrs. Wheelwright and her daughter, Miss Mary Wheelwright, will not take any long cruises this summer they will spend more or less time on daily sails along the coast. They plan to remain at Manchester until the middle of October.

The Open Golf Tournament.

The open golf tournament at the Essex County club, Manchester, last week,—Thursday, Friday and Saturday,—developed some excellent golf. The finals were played Saturday afternoon, the star match being between John G. Anderson of the Woodlawn Golf club and H. H. Wilder, the Harvard champion. Anderson won, 5 up 4 to play, and in doing so made a new amateur mark in competion for nine holes, doing the nine holes in 34.

Col. M. Meehan of the Vesper Country won out in the second 16, defeating P. Grant of Nahant, 1 up. A. L. Spring won in the third 16, defeating A. McMillan, 1 up, 20 holes. The summary:

FIRST SET.

Semi-finals.

J. G. Anderson, Woodland, defeated H. R. Johnstone, Essex County, 1 up, 19 holes.

H. H. Wilder, Vesper Country, defeated A. Carnegie, 2d, Essex County, 3 up and 2 to play.

CREME ELCAYA

Is a scientifically prepared product and far superior for every purpose for which Toilet Creams are used. It is absolutely original and not a haphazard mixing of "This and That" to produce an imitation of something and called "a Cream." The ingredients in CREME ELCAYA have been studiously chosen from those which dermatologists have found to be best for the skin and tissue building. These ingredients are used in the correct proportion and so carefully compounded by improved and original methods as to produce the acme of efficiency and elegance. Even the physician therefore, may safely endorse it as the best application for the skin he can prescribe, as the ingredients are positively the Ye Elder Brethren!

Ye Elder Brethren picnic! This means a great deal to a great many of Manchester's "boys." It means that their annual outing is to be held next week at Tuck's Point. The day set for it is Wednesday, July 29, but if the weather is not fair on that day it will be held the following day.

The invitation to join in this gala event is limited only to age. Any male resident of the town who has attained the age of 50 may join in the outing. It is a unique affair and something Manchester is proud of, for the fame and name of the "elderlies" have traveled far and wide. President G. F. Allen wants it understood that anyone fifty years of age or over, whether a native of the town or not, may attend. The invitation is broad: "If you live in Manchester, or were born there, or were lucky enough to marry a Manchester girl." Barges will leave the square for the point shortly after ten o'clock. Chowder will be served about one. There will be some interesting speakers. Come!

No Objectionable Features.

From the Monthly Bulletin of the State Board of Health of Mass., we glean the following information, which ought to be of interest to Manchester folk, inasmuch as much is being said and done at the present time in the big cities about impure milk, etc. The report shows that during the month of April, 1908, 153 dairies supplying milk for public sale in Mass. were inspected. Five dairies in Manchester were inspected for the second time and no objectionable features were found in either of the five, the percentage given being 100. The names of the owners of dairies found to be worthy of commendation were: R. & L. Baker, the D. B. Kimball estate, A. J. Lucas, Town Farm and the Manuel Silva estate.

Paragon Park Attractions.

The hotter it is the more popular Paragon Park becomes—and quite properly too for Paragon is nothing if not a hot weather park. The sail down the harbor to Nantasket Beach is cool and delightful and puts one in a fine fettle to enjoy the pleasures of Paragon. Dinner in the Palm Garden is always a delight but it is especially attractive in hot weather. The Palm Garden is open on all four sides and no matter how sultry the day a cool breeze, fresh from the sea, always sweeps across the great hall. Mace Gay's Martland Concert Band of 30 pieces is the main musical attraction this week. The Ferari Jungle is doing an excellent business and is the best animal show the park has ever had.

In the Water for Two Years.

Floating in a quart flask on the waters off Boardman's Point, at West Manchester, Capt. Reuben Grush caretaker at the T. Dennie Boardman estate found a note penned nearly two years ago. The note had been in the water so long that the salt water had worked its way through the cork and much of the note is illegible.

The note is written in ink and at the top is the name of Capt. Alexander Hamilton, U. S. A., with an address given at 16 West 37th street, New York city.

The words Glasgow, Scotland, and the date Aug. 27, 1906, can be made out. At the bottom are the signatures of Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Hamilton. The bottle was probably dropped off some ocean liner and came safely ashore on the Massachusettes shore nearly two years after it was thrown overboard.

Original New England Food Fair.

Musically, the New England Food Fair of 1908 will surpass anything ever before attempted, for the management has secured a genuine novelty, the famous Bande De Policia, the national band of Mexico. This year the management has secured "The Greatest Animal Show on Earth," Frank C. Bostock, "The Animal King" and his trained wild animals and arena which he will bring here direct from Earl's Court, London. Supplementing last year's Passion Play in Paul Revere hall will this year be, quite appropriately, the colored motion pictures of "Paul Revere's Ride" which will then be shown for the first time in America. Food Fairs have been given at Mechanics Building since 1891 and they have been of all kinds and various degrees of success, but from a glance at the program for next October who shall deny that the New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition for 1908 at Mechanics Building—the original New England Food Fair—shall be even "Better than Last Year"--which is another way of saying "A world-beater."

Sousa Visits Coliseum.

John Phillip Sousa, the world's most famous band master, who with his famous band of 65 pieces, will be one of the leading musical features of the 7th Annual Original Boston Food Fair, is as particular about the acoustics of the building in which his musicians play as he is in regard to the prefection and care of their instruments. This explains why he left his pleasant summer home to visit Boston last week purposely to inspect the Park Square Coliseum and to determine what, if any, steps should be taken to make its acoustics perfect. The result of the trip was Sousa's enthusiastic report that The Coliseum's acoustic properties were ideal and that nothing whatever need be done. In respect to bands, musicians, leaders, vocal soloists, and music, the Boston Food Fair, as a musical event, will easily prove the most notable in New England, if not in this country, since the famous World's Peace Jubilee held in this city over thirty years ago.

Miss Christina McLellan is the guest of Mrs. Delia Barter this week.

George Story started on a fishing trip to the South Shore on Monday.

A very pleasant smoke talk was held at the Men's Summer club on Wednesday evening. Music was rendered and punch was served.

Theodore D. Martin gave a very interesting talk on Mormonism on Friday evening at the Village church. Mr. Martin has lived for some time in Utah, so was able to explain the subject from personal experience.

The fair held by the Village church will soon be here. It is hoped there will be a good attendance as usual.

Miss Mary Boyd left this week for Nashua, N. H., where she will spend a part of her vacation visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler returned home from a short trip to New Hampshire on Thursday.

Rev. F. J. Libby was the guest this week of Herman Staples, who is in Rutland, Mass., for the benefit of his health. Mr. Staples' condition is reported much improved.

A number of the young people of the village attended the Prize Dance held at Manchester Town hall on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Ballou gave a very pretty party to the young children of the village on Wednesdry afternoon in honor of the fourth birthday of their daughter Elinor. Refreshments were served, many pretty gifts were bestowed upon the little girl and all spent a very enjoyable afternoon.

J. A. Sherrard, manager of the Hesperus hotel, and president of the Hesperus club, has announced his intention not to take out the club license recently granted and he states, further, that no liquor will be sold illegally at the hotel this season.

An article by Rev. F. J. Libby on "The Liquor Policy for Magnolia," is printed on another page of this issue of the Breeze.

Why Your Head Aches

You do not endure headache because you want to. It is because you haven't a satisfactory remedy. You haven't tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They stop pain quickly, leave no bad after-effects, do not derange the stomach. That ought to be satisfactory—if so, try them. Your druggist has them.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for the past three years. They never failed to give me relief. They never leave any bad after-effects. Before I began taking them I had been a great sufferer from headache for years."

Miss Elmira Williams of Vine street has been visiting her friend Miss Frances Blake at Newton.

Station Agent W. L. Allen is taking a day's outing today with the other members of the B. and M. Agent's association, at the Oceanic, Isles of Shoals. The association is holding its annual meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Woodward, of Bradford, Vt., are the guests of friends here this week, arriving Tuesday. They are spending a great deal of their time on West Beach, which is something of a novelty to them.

The temperature of the water at West Beach the past week has been very warm and has been quite an inducement for the large parties of bathers, and many people have enjoyed the pleasures of the beach, either bathing in the water or sitting about on the sands.

The tar macadam surface which the Street Department have been at work on is nearly completed and, with the top dressing of blue crushed dust, makes new Vine street a splendid driveway and a credit to the city and those in whose charge the work has been placed.

If any one asks you to purchase a little green tag for 25 cents do so, for it will not only admit you to the coming lawn party to be given by the Preston Women's Relief Corps, 93, on Marshall's field, August 5, but will also help towards the fund for the proposed Memorial hall, a structure for the success of which these patriotic ladies are working hard. As to the lawn party there is to be good music by the Heaphy orchestra, refreshments, dancing and plenty of other attractions, while the grounds will be prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns.

The young ladies of the Farms are planning a minstrel show and dance to be held in Neighbor's hall in the early fall.

Mrs. Louise Larson recently fell down some steps while moving about in the dark and is now suffering from a broken arm as the result.

Miss Emily McDonnell is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leverett S. Ordway, former residents here, at their present residence in Topsfield, "Drumfire" farm.

George A. Bennett and family have returned to their home in Ashland after a pleasant visit with Mr. Bennett's sister, Mrs. James A. Culbert on Greenwood avenue.

From near Victorville, Col., where two of the Farms young men, John Trowt and John Woodbury, are located, comes the report that both young men are well and contented, and are working hard. Mr. Woodbury is at present running the motor that supplies the ranch buildings with water. On the Fourth the boys spent the day at Victorville, ten miles off, and took in a dance in the evening, an event rather different from such affairs at the Farms, inasmuch as they occur only at rare intervals.

W. B. Publicover, D. S. G., and a delegation representing the local John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, paid a visit to the John Humphrey colony, Swampscott, on Thursday evening. The affair was a mass Pilgrim meeting held in the Swampscott Odd Fellows hall and was attended by representatives from the colonies of the district. Speeches were made by the high officials of the order.

And a feeling likened to that which is said to have come over Jonah, came over four of our local fishermen the other day! They were by name, Smith, Gauld, Younger and Day. They were out for a day at deep sea fishing. It was yet early morn, and they had landed 15 to 20 good sized cod. Things were going along serenely when to their horror a huge whale appeared in the water before their vision. It was yet too early in the day to think that their eyes deceived them. Frightened as were the four men, the whale was more frightened, and with a splash of its huge tail it dashed off in another direction. The appearance of the monster put an end to the fishing, for after that not a bite was to be had.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fanning of High street are being congratulated on the recent birth of a twelve pound boy.

Miss Mildred Brewer of North Beverly, book-keeper at Brewer's market, is enjoying her vacation at North Woodstock, Vermont.

John Cunningham, one of the best known coachman along the North Shore, and who has for a long time made his home here, is spending his vacation in his old home in Ireland, where he expects to remain the next few months.

James Demano, an Americanized Italian, who has learned the blacksmith trade and has been a valued employee of Connolly Bros. for six or seven years, left their employ yesterday for a visit to his old home in Italy where he will remain until next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. David Coughlin have recently purchased from Jacob H. Woodbury, the land and buildings located at Beverly Cove on Hale street, near the North Shore Garage and Corning street. The Couglins plan to make their home here, and will soon move in.

The Bay State Oil Co., which is driving a large three horse tank wagon through the Farms, has a new rival in the field, an independent company, with headquarters in Somerville, and which has already built up quite a business along the Shore.

Coming events cast their shadows before them and the "Red Sox'' dance in Neighbor's hall Thursday evening casts an particularly large one. Under the management of Jeremiah Toomey great preparations have been made to insure the success of the coming event. But the "Red Sox'' dance is by no means the only approaching event that is arousing considerable interest in and about the Farms; on August 5 comes the lawn party of the W. R. Corps; the dance given by the Beverly Farms Base Ball club in Neighbor's hall Augusto; the La Barre Brothers' Minstrels in the same hall for the 13th, and the Big Three dance on the 14th.

Their 25th Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wood celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home on Hart street last evening. Friends and neighbors called and extended to the couple their hearty congratulations and many beautiful presents were also brought them as tokens of esteem, chief among which were those of the Preston R. C., 93, and the Sunday School class, of both of which Mrs. Wood is a valued member. The home was very prettily decorated for the occasion with cut flowers and plants and a generous variety of cakes and other refreshments were served. Mrs. Wood was assisted in serving by the Misses Carrie Davis, Fannie Williams, Esther Hill, Alice Williams, Lydia Peirce, Ruth Hardy, Jennie Bolam and Muriel Publicover. The wedding cake was served by Miss Violet Batchelder and the ice cream by Mrs. George D. Batchelder, assisted by Mrs. George Brown, of Paris, France; Mrs. Elmer Putnam, Danvers, Miss Lucy Putnam, Danvers; Mrs. Charles H. Hull, and Elizabeth Hull. Mr. and Mrs. Woods were assisted in the receiving by Mr. and Mrs. H. Irving Dyer.

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXVI.

The people of Manchester have before them this summer in the antique little building on the village green, and the work which it represents, a fine example of the noblesse oblige; the town may perhaps think that it gives in some sort an equavalent for additions to its valuation and tax lists, but such kindly deeds on the part of summer residents as here has concrete illustration, touch a deep chord of gratitude and promote a high regard for the thoughtful generosity that thus finds expression.

In the hot, still days of summer, we sometimes think that we could dispense with a few degrees of caloric; but all varieties of temperature have their place in the economy of nature; and if we could see all the adjustments and harmonies and interworkings that go to make up the great Plan, we should be amazed at their intricacy and necessity.

As we are often reminded, it is not what we receive, but what we give, that most enriches us; if I can be of the least comfort or help to one in need, if I can give a cup of cold water to a thirsty soul, it will do me more good than a draught of champagne.

There is very little real improvisation; what is often thought so may be the fruit of much thinking; the extempore is often that which is out of the whole time, the product of a life experience; of the glib performances of some fluent speakers who boast that they can do it and think nothing of it, their hearers might reply, "and we think nothing of it too."

Books that in Milton's phrase are the "life-blood of a master spirit" have a permanent place in the world's literature. Shakespeare, Bacon, Herbert, Fuller, Taylor, Bunyan, Addison, Johnson, Webster, Emerson, and how many more, are "destined to a life beyond life." But what shall be said of the books that just see the light, such as the great mass of "summer reading," and disappear like the ephemera that is born in the morning and dies before night, but that their life is of no worth to the world; they can be dispensed with as well as not.

We sometimes hear it said of a person that he has completed his education;

THE MID-SUMMER BALL.

Brilliant Affair at Oceanside Hotel Last Saturday.

The July, or mid-summer ball, held Saturday evening at the Oceanside is now a thing of the past, but its memory will remain as one of the most successful and enjoyable of its kind. The custom of previous years was departed from in several instances. Most noticable among them was the substitution of the Salem Cadet Band in place of the house orchestra, and the absence of decorations. In former seasons the main dining hall had been elaborately decorated with flags and bunting. The improvement was marked and commented upon more or less by those who in the past have attended the mid-summer balls. The plain severity and simplicity of the hall formed an excellent back ground for the brilliant gowns of the women and was relieved from absolute bareness by artistically arranged ferns and palms at the lower end of the hall.

A very pretty feature of the evening was the dancing of the little ones at the beginning of the ball and many smiles were sent in their direction. To see the children dancing sedately and taking it as much as a matter of course as the older ones was, indeed, a charming sight.

Every ball must have its belle and it was generally conceded that the honor lay with Miss Faithful Ames, who appeared late in the evening and was at once in demand. Miss Gertrude Tower, however, was also very popular and opinion was at first somewhat divided although the majority favored Miss Ames.

The most fashionable event of the season, society from all parts of the country and even foreign countries was represented. Despite the rain, many of the cottagers attended, among them being C. H. Bull of Quincy, Ill., and his granddaughter, Miss Evelyn McFadden; Dr. and Mrs. Percy Musgrave, of Boston; William Ruhl, of Brookline, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Chick.

Among the many hotel guests present the most prominent were: Gen. and Mrs. G. T. Andrews and their daughters of Washington; Miss Armsby of Chicago; Mrs. J. D. Cox, Miss Jeanette Cox, and J. D. Cox, jr., of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. William Scudder and the Misses Scudder from St. Louis; J. W. Gummey of Boston, and Miss Margaret Gummey; Wooster Lambert of St. Louis; the Auchinclosses from New York; Miss Alice Tapley of Boston; Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmage of New York; Miss Eleanor Bradley of Brookline; George H. Robinson of Cambridge; Reginald Kennard of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lord, Miss Lord, Russell Lord of Chicago; Mrs. A. J. Tower and the Misses Tower; Miss Grace E. O'Brien of Roxbury; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Potter and C. A. Potter, jr., of Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Miss M. A. Patterson, Boston; and Rear Admiral and Mrs. J. E. Pillsbury of Washington.

Charles Steck, a well known Boston man, and who in previous years has been a prominent guest at the Oceanside, came down from Boston in his handsome French touring car, Tuesday, and dined at the Grill.

but does a real scholar ever complete his education? Isaac Newton did not think that he had. Will a mind ever reach the limits of its powers or its growth, so long as it uses its opportunities? We trow not. When one speaks of completing his education, we must think that he had very little education to complete.

A man who will believe only what he understands must have a very short creed; the world in which we live is built on mysteries, is pillared and domed with mysteries; "the flower in the crannied wall," the smallest blade of grass, the moat that glistens in the sunbeam, contain wonders that no scientist can solve.

When our words only stir up strife and increase bitterness, it may be better to refrain our lips and show that "silence is golden."

By the way, is it not a little singular that the father—or was he the stepfather—of the famous saying above quoted, was always talking, and not always in the most amiable fashion either? Carlyle and silence in conjunction are hardly thinkable.

Office is not for pride, or power, or emolument; but for service. For the time, it was a high encomium that was paid by an old chronicler to one of the Normans: "Good man he was, and muckle awe was of him; durst no man misdoe with other in his time; great peace he made for man and deere." But such praise ought not to be excessive or out of place if applied to public officials of any age or any nation. There has been too much ridicule of the "big stick."

Good opinion of the law does not as a rule characterize evil-doers, whether of high or low degree, whether magnates in the stock market or house-breakers.

The inconsistencies and hypocrisies of church-members, which are so often dinned into our ears and exploited in the sensational press, no more disprove Christianity as many seem to think, than counterfeits disprove the existence of genuine currency; rather, we may say, there could be no hypocrites were there no such thing as true piety, as there could be no counterfeits were there no true currency; the false proves the existence of the true.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

Water Pageant.

The water pageant to be held at Manchester on Monday, August 10, at 8 p. m., is open to all yacht clubs and residents of the North Shore. Entries must be received by the entertainment committee of the Manchester Yacht club before noon of the day next preceding the pageant. Entries must give approximate size of boat or float in order that the committee may make adequate provision for towing. All boats should be provided with bow and stern lines for making fast to the main tow-line, and must be off the Fenton Company's wharf at 7 o'clock. Start will be made promptly at 8. Prizes will be awarded for the best designs as follows: First prize, $35.00; second, $25.00; third, $20.00; fourth, $15.00; fifth $10.00; sixth, $5.00. Cups if preferred will be given instead of money.

The judges will be Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and Mrs. Francis W. Fabyan. Residents on the water front of Manchester harbor and approaches are requested to illuminate the shore. A gun will be fired from the club house at 9 o'clock as a signal for the illumination. If unfavorable weather should necessitate postponement, three guns will be fired from the club house at 7 o'clock, in which case the program will be carried out the following evening. There will be music during the evening. The committee in charge is composed of: Charles E. Hodges, Alfred C. Needham, W. L. Putnam, John H. Storer and Arthur M. Merriam.

A son, Timothy Jerome, arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Cronin, Tuesday, July 21st.

A launch load of young people from Marblehead came over to Manchester for the band concert on Wednesday evening.

Sergeant Andrews and Patrolman Lee and Sheehan were on duty at the water sports, at Magnolia, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagar and son Francis are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Semons, Pine street. Miss Gladys Semons is spending the summer with her grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. Gregory in Middleton.

Members of Allen W. R. C., 119, are reminded that the next meeting of corps will be on Thursday evening. Aug. 6, when arrangements will be made for the annual picnic, and other business transacted. A full attendance is requested.

Dr. and Mrs. Blaisdell have had as guests a few days the past week the doctor's sister, Miss Alice Blaisdell of Haverhill, and his cousin, Miss Marjorie Wakefield of Hutchinson, Minn. To the latter the visit was one of much interest as it was her first visit to the East, and to the ocean. She spent much of her time at Singing Beach, and was charmed with the beauties of Manchester.

Mrs. McTagart and daughter, Miss E. McLogan, Mrs. Anna Bryne and grand-daughter, Marguerite Duffy from Chicago, are spending a month's vacation at Mrs. Thomas Sheehan's, Tappan street, Manchester, They have had an extended trip, stopping at Buffalo and spending a few days at Niagara Falls also. They are to be joined later hy friends, the Misses Lynch and O'Neill, who are to remain a few weeks.

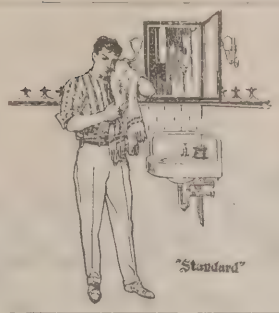

Early last Saturday evening a woman lost her watch while walking across the street in Central square, though she did not know at the time when or where she lost it. About one o'clock Sunday morning the keen eye of Night Officer Sheehan discovered the watch in the street, and the fact that it had stopped at 8.10 would indicate it was lost about that hour. The fact that the watch was lost and found is not so unusual, but that it had escaped the heavy wheels of scores of autos and the hoofs of horses, bicycles, etc., that had passed over it during that evening is almost miraculous. When the owner came to the police station Sunday to inquire if a watch had been found it was handed to her without a scratch upon it.

Miss Nellie A. Condon of Hopkinton is visiting the Misses Mary and Gertrude Manion, Tappan street.

Miss Anna Hickey of Beverly Farms has been spending her vacation with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Sheehan, Tappan street.

The band concert on Wednesday evening proved no less of interest than those preceding. The Salem Cadet Band has certainly won a warm place for itself in the hearts of Manchester folk and from many in the vicinity of Manchester, as there were in the vicinity of 2200 people in the square Wednesday evening to hear the music. The brilliant illumination was a pleasing feature. There are to be two more concerts,—on Wednesday evenings, August 12 and 19. The last two concerts had to be arranged for consecutive weeks because of other dates which the band has for Wednesday evenings. The concert program for the first of these concerts will be printed in next week's BREEZE.

Chaplain Travers of West Point is leaving Rev. and Mrs. William H. Dewart's at Manchester, where he has been visiting for two weeks, for Bar Harbor.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. G. O. Colby of West Manchester were on to Princeton, Mass., to spend the week-end guests of Hamilton Perkins and family.

Hamilton Hadden of Hemstead, L. I., has been visiting Harry Tweed at Beverly Farms. Mr. Tweed played on the Myopias at Narragansett Pier the first of the week.

Mrs. Ezra C. Fitch entertained a party of nine tables at whist at her beautiful summer residence, the River House, Manchester, Thursday afternoon. On Monday Mrs. Fitch gave a luncheon of twelve covers in honor of her house guest Mrs. Curtis Hussey of Pittsburg, who is still with Mrs. Fitch.

The display of mirrors being made by Walter Kimball & Co. at their art rooms in the North Shore Grill is one of the handsomest exhibitions that has ever been held in Magnolia, and should be seen to be appreciated. From a standpoint of decoration these mirrors have a quality that make them appropriate for the elaborate or simply furnished home as the case may be, owing to the fact that they have been carefully designed both as to line and proportion, to fit various spaces. Old Italian, German, and English originals have been made use of, in preparing this exhibition which is worth visiting.

Magnolia Gymkhana.

The Magnolia Gymkhana races and tournament of mounted sports to be held at Crescent Beach, Tuesday, August 11, are expected to prove a strong drawing card and a very interesting afternoon is anticipated. Capt. De Jony is spending a great deal of time on the preparations for the event and is doing all in his power to insure its success. The races this year are planned purely for amateurs and with that idea in view the program has been arranged. The affair will be under the auspices of the Oceanside Hotel.

The first event will be the Ladies' Riding Tandem, (for amateurs only), for which there will be offered three ribbons, special first cup and a special second cup.

The second event will be a Ladies' Jeu de bare,—in which three riders will enter the ring, one of them having a bow pinned on her left shoulder, the other riders trying to remove the ribbon, but it can be taken only by the rider being on the left side of the wearer of the ribbon. Each rider will defend ribbon. Time: three minutes.

Other events will include Gymkhana for gentlemen,—(amateurs only), in which each contestant will be presented with a doll at the quarter-mile start. At the finish a lady friend of the contestant will have to dress the doll; the rider then takes the dressed doll back to the start, dismounts, drinks a bottle of ginger ale, mounts, and finishes from there. Three ribbons, special first cup, special second cup.

Shetland Pony Race, one-eight mile flat, for children under 12 years of age.

Flat Race, one-quarter of a mile, open to all. First prize, $35.00, second prize, $15.00.

Flat race, one-quarter of a mile, for lady riders. Open to all amateurs.

Gymkhana for children under twelve years, in which the contestants will be started from the one-eighth mile start; at the finish they dismount, take off coats, mount and ride to the start again, dismount and dress in grotesque costume, mount and ride back to finish.

Hurdle race, one-quarter of a mile, three hurdles, open to all. First prize $35.00, second prize $15.00.

New Garage at Magnolia.

The addition which Gorham Davis has been building to his garage at the rear of his stable and with its entrance on Raymond street is now complete and provides Magnolia with a thoroughly up-to-date garage supplied with all the accessories for a successful establishment of this kind. Located in the central portion of the village it is destined to be popular owing to its easy access, and the excellent facilities offered for the storing of cars whether transient or for the season.

Society Notes

Mrs. A. Henry Higginson arrived home from Europe Thursday week and after a few days at West Manchester with Mr. Higginson, who was with his parents, Major and Mrs. H. L. Higginson, returned to Lincoln Monday. Mr. Higginson's young son had the misfortune to break his arm while at play recently.

A handsome new 35-45 Renault car is on water at the present time, coming over for E. D. Jordan, it having been purchased by Mr. Jordan during his recent visit to Paris. It has a landaulet body and will make the fifth car in the Jordan garage, while on the opposite side of the stable yard five horses are kept. Mr. Jordan is decreasing his stable as his garage increases.

G. McC. Sargent sailed on the Celtic Thursday for England were he will join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sargent, sr., for a visit with his sister, Baroness Ludwig Knoop. He will be away until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allan have been in Quebec for the Tercentenniary celebration and were guests while there of Mr. Allan's brother, Sir Montague and Lady Allan of Montreal. Miss Margaret Curtis and Miss S. R. Curtis were also in Quebec last week.

Joseph Grew, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Grew of West Manchester, formerly of the American embassy at St. Petersburg, has been appointed second secretary of the embassy in Berlin. Mrs. Grew and little child are to remain in St. Petersburg until later in the summer, though Mr. Grew has already gone to Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sinsheimer, of Boston, are spending their honeymoon at the Masconomo.

The first in the series of three afternoon subscription musicales was held yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Oliver Ames delightful villa at Pride's Crossing, and brought out the smartest gathering of North Shore society this season. Mrs. Ames' house is admirably adapted for such an affair, being one of the largest of the summer houses at Prides'. Mme. Louise Homer and Miss Jessie Davis were the artists. An especially interesting number was the group of songs by Mme. Homer, as composed by Mr. Homer, for which he played the accompaniments.

Mrs. Latham Bartlett of St. Louis, Mo., was among the late arrivals last week at the Oceanside where she will spend the remainder of the summer in the Gables cottage.

The pretty cretonne and brocade desk sets and the unusual scrap baskets shown at Miss Swift's salesroom at the Grill are well worth seeing. Many unique and unusual objects may be found there that are most attractive. Perhaps most unique among them is the stunning set of gilt hand-carved wood for the dressing table. The old laces and church vestments are also very attractive and would brighten some dark corner and add interest to any room.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. MacMasters and family of Jersey City are also among the arrivals of the week at the Aborn for the balance of the summer.

Miss Mulrey and Miss R. A. Mulrey of Boston are among the recent arrivals at the Masconomo, where they will remain for the balance of the season.

G. S. Appledorn of Philadelphia, one of the members of the capsized canoe in Tuesday's race, is among the late arrivals at the Aborn where he will spend the rest of the summer.

Mrs. James F. Gillette and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dempster of Chicago with their child and maid were also late arrivals of last week at the Aborn.

Mrs. A. G. Kent of Tonawanda was one of the early arrivals at the Aborn this week where she will remain for the balance of the summer. Mrs. Kent is accompanied by her two granddaughters, Miss Dorothy White of Buffalo, and Miss Alexandra Costikyan of Montclair, N. J.

J. C. Ernst, of Cincinnati, joined the rest of the family at the Aborn hotel for a few days last week. Miss Cora A. Young, also of Cincinnati spent a few days at the Aborn this week.

The cuisine arrangements and table service at the Masconomo house have attracted large numbers of auto and carriage parties for lunch and dinner. In addition to the out of town people, many of the cottagers find the hotel a pleasant spot and often stop to dine with friends after a drive or trip to the beach.

The Manchester Club outing at Tuck's Point, Tuesday was attended by about 50 members and so successful was the affair that it is likely to become an annual event. Everybody entered into the spirit of the occasion and joined in the sports after dinner with a vim. A chowder dinner was served at 1.30, the work of Frank Crombie, whose reputation as a chowder maker is growing with every chowder he prepares. There were also plenty boiled lobster. A ball game in the morning was the chief event, the principal feature of which were the decisions of Umpire Geo. S. Sinnicks. Another game was played in the afternoon captained by P. A. Wheaton and Frank G. Cheever, respectively. This was won after a rally in the ninth inning by Wheaton's nine, the score being 12 to 11 in favor of the latter. Everybody entered into the running races. There were six heats. C. E. Williams won out in the finals. One of the closest heats was that in which Chief Peabody and Selectman Knight were pitted against each other. R. C. Allen scored highest at high jumping. The rope pull was won by Sinnicks' team.

Board of Health.

Ordinance.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, the following vote was passed and hereby becomes an ordinance:—

"That all boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester, shall be provided with an under water exhaust or muffler and such under water exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such under water exhaust or such muffler."

This regulation shall go into effect on August 1, 1908.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR HEALTH?

If so, you can find it at

The Dennis Magnetic Institute

For he possesses a Magnetic Power to cure Diseases not equalled by anyone.

There is no treatment in the World that resembles in any way the famous Dennis system of treatment. It can best be likened to the old-time method of the laying on of hands, but is better called the curing of disease by the application of the mighty natural forces of Vital Magnetism. After the form of ailment is located the magnetism is transferred by way of the nerves leading to the diseased centres and the force of Vital Magnetism is so great that it seems to draw the disease out of the system. In many cases cures of obstinate diseases of long standing have been made in one treatment, in other cases it takes several. While the cure is being made the magnetism is thoroughlp building up the system.

LAST Sunday another accident befell two autoists, caused by the machinery in some way getting out of gear. Thus all control of the auto was lost, it was wrecked and they were killed.

A local chauffeur remarks that "It is always the unexpected that happens." Now, you may have noticed certain young men, (mail carriers and others) riding bicycles, who take delight in grasping the corner of the tonneau of car and holding tight so as to be assisted in making faster time on their way; or, if not so near as in the case sited, using the auto as a pace maker and blindly following directly behind it. Suppose that auto should stop suddenly or run into something, we fear the bicycle rider would suffer more serious injury than he is aware of. Sometimes when a warning is given no one heeds it until too late. This is to serve as a note of warning.

THE action of the Manchester Board of Health in ordering all motor boats in the harbor "muffled" was the subject of a bitter arraignment by one of the motor magazines in its last issue. The article was probably written, however, in the same manner many such articles are written, by persons who have very little, or no knowledge of the local conditions governing such action by a board.

As we have said many times before in this paper Manchester is a summer resort pure and simple. Take away the attractions which bring the wealth of the land to our shores, and you take away your bread and butter. Our summer people have protested vigorously against the noise of "un-muffled" motor boats passing in and out the harbor at all hours of the night and morning and our board of health, men of excellent judgment, have decreed that the public health demands that the noise be abated in some measure, at least. To this end they have ordered that the boats be equipped with under water mufflers and have instructed the harbor master to see that the order is inforced.

We believe that the wishes of our shore residents should be respected, in this matter. We understand that several of the shore residents stand ready to meet any expense that may have to be met by launch owners in complying with this requirement, and will furnish mufflers or the expense of buying them to any who may bring the matter to their attention.

RESIDENCE OF AUSTIN MORLEY, CORNER BROOK STREET AND NORWOOD AVENUE, MANCHESTER.

The above picture is of the new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Morley, on the corner of Brook street and Norwood avenue, Manchester. It is of interest not only to Manchester people, but to contractors and builders in general, inasmuch as it has the distinction of being the first residence in Manchester to be built of the new construction, cement block. In fact it is said to be the first residence of this construction in Essex County.

The architecture is of the Colonial type, the general dimensions being 29x40 feet, of two stories, and containing 13 rooms. The interior arrangement of the house compares favorably with the modern, up to date, well contsructed and planned house.

The cement blocks of which the exterior is constructed were made on the premises entirely of local material, with the exception of the cement. The composition is of crushed stone, bank sand and water, besides the cement.

The process by which the blocks were made is very simple. They were pressed in an iron mould, two faces being used, that for the main walls being pean hammered face and those for the corner tiers, and window jambs being rock faced. The blocks were 8x12x24 and 8x10x24 inches, with air spaces in center and in color resemble Indiana limestone. After making they were allowed to dry in the sun for 4 to 6 days when they were ready for use. The piazza walk, floor and balustrades are also all in cement.

Many advantages are claimed for this construction, among them the warmth in winter, which is noticeably greater than a frame house, and the coolness in summer, also the decreased cost of maintenance, which is very small after the first cost which Mr. Morley claims is no more than a frame house of the same character.

Mr. Baker will have charge of general improvements which Mr. Dexter is to have made on his property, such as opening up roads, laying pipes, etc.

The water board has awarded the contract for laying the water pipes in connection with the additional water supply to C. H. Taylor of Wellesley, whose figure was $20,265.00. While Mr. Taylor was not the lowest bidder, but the second lowest, the board did not consider it for the best interest of the town to award the contract to the lowest bidder. In fact Mr. McCourt, himself, asked to be released, knowing he had made an error in figuring. The board will next call for bids on building the new standpipe. They are also looking up the machinery to be installed and last Sunday they went to Hingham where a gas producing plant, generating its own power, is used in pumping the water into the reservoir. This mode of power has not been used very much on this side of the water, but in Hingham it is meeting with great success. The consumption of coal is about one fourth as much as in a plant such as we now have.

Edward Weems Sherman and wife and daughter from New York City are visiting at the Congregational parsonage. Mrs. Sherman is the sister of Mrs. Ruge and will continue her visit for some time.

Miss Gladys Verry has been speeding the week with Miss Beatrice Newhall of Salem.

THE ELDERLIES GATHERING

30th Annual Meeting Brings out 117 of the "Boys." A very Successful Time.

Fair skies, an excellent chowder and interesting speeches were features of the

Geo. Forster Allen

30th annual gathering of the Elder Brethren held at Tuck's Point on Wednesday of this week. There were 121 persons present, all but four of whom had reached the required age,—50, and just an even dozen of these had passed the 80th mile-stone.

It was one of the largest gatherings in the history of the organization and in many ways the most enjoyable.

The Nestor of the gathering was Manchester's beloved "old man," Delucena L. Bingham, the oldest librarian in the state, who is as active and interesting at 93 years as most men at 60. One other was present who has reached his 90th year,—William Johnson. The others above 80 were: Jacob Cheever 89, Thomas Appleton 88, Andrew J. Johnson 87, Amos F. Bennett 83, John Lendell 83, Jeffery T. Stanley 82, George Forster Allen 81, Daniel Allen 80, N. C. Marshall 80, and W. C. Rust 80.

It was a grand gathering. Long before noon they began to arrive and a delightful hour was spent in chatting, in renewing old acquaintances and reviving boyhood memories or relating reminiscences of the early days of the town.

Promptly at one o'clock the chowder was announced as ready, and soon steaming bowls of clam and fish chowder were upon the tables. The chowder was cooked this year by Frank Crombie, assisted by John F. Babcock, and everyone said it was the best chowder that had yet been served at one of these gatherings. Six Manchester boys,—Bert, Joseph and Harry Floyd, Bert Sinnicks, Willard Rust and Walter Howe acted as waiters and everyone was served generously.

After the dinner the tables were cleared away and the gathering was called to order by President G. F. Allen for the 30th time. Mr. Allen has been president of the organization since its start and has been present at every gathering.

The secretary, William J. Johnson, read the records of the last gathering, and reported that four of the original members of the association still survived and were present, George F. Allen, William C. Rust, Jacob Cheever and Arthur M. Merriam. The finances of the organization were reported in good condition, a balance of $47.43 being in the treasury with all bills paid.

Four deaths were reported as having occurred during the year, Aaron L. Thompson of Haverhill, Andrew Leach of Newburyport, John L. Story of Beverly and Samuel Knight of Manchester. The total number of deaths recorded since the formation of the association is 153.

On motion of William C. Rust, it was voted that the same officers be re-elected for another year, which was done by unanimous vote.

President Allen in opening the after dinner exercises extended his special greeting to all present in view of the fact that for 30 years he had attended the gatherings as the presiding officer, during which time the attendance and interest had continually increased. He hoped the association would live and grow in the future as in the past.

Mr. Bingham was the first one called upon, and despite his extreme age, he surprised all present by his remarkable agility and brightness of speech. He could be distinctly heard by all. Mr. Bingham said in his opening remarks that some people think because a man is a librarian he knows more than other folk; but as Emerson said, they don't know any more than anybody else.

He gave a brief history of the formation of the organization, which originated with the late Capt. Charles Fitz, who on the occasion of his birthday invited some friends from Rockport and Annisquam, where he formerly resided, to join him in celebrating the event, and George Hartley, a rare cook, was one of the party, also John Lee, for many years the town clerk. The celebration was repeated the following year with increased numbers each year, until at length the idea of forming an association to be composed of natives and residents of Manchester was suggested and was carried out. To Capt. Thomas Leach the organization is indebted for the inscription on the flag.

"The organization started without any formal action," he said, "it needed no promotors. It started with the spirit of brotherly love. It kept extending and extending and now it is pretty firmly established in the affections of the people.

"I like that word 'promotor,'" he said. "You know it is found in the Preamble to the Constitution: To promote the general welfare. We should all be interested in promoting the 'general welfare,' beginning in our own town, then the state, and the whole country. I like that idea of Garrison's 'My country is the world.' Let us all stand ready to do all we can to promote the general welfare, each in our separate sphere of action."

Mr. Bingham referred especially to his work in connection with the library, and said when a boy there were but few books in the town. Captain Larkin had 30 or 40, Rufus Loring had a pretty good assortment and John W. Allen had a good collection. Looking back over his work, he felt that in some things he had failed, but he was generally well satisfied with his selection of the 13,000 books now in the library.

"Our form of government does not necessarily make us safe. Rome went down, and so did Athens and other nations." He closed his remarks by repeating Longfellow's "Psalm of Life," so well exemplified in the venerable old gentleman, himself.

Hon. Robert S. Rantoul, ex-mayor of Salem, was next called on, and gave an interesting dissertation of the origin of the word chowder, which he claimed was of French origin. He was well acquainted with Capt. Fitz in Gloucester, where he lived as a boy from 1832 to 1839. After he was a boy eight years old, he was one of the captain's special favorites, and the captain on his foreign voyages would frequently take a small venture for him. He had often pondered why the French, who early made their impress on the Atlantic coast, naming the prominent bays and headlands, had not been able to maintain their supremacy, and influence the American civilization. He closed with an interesting description of an interview with Gen. Grant, while the later was in Paris on his trip around the world, Mr. Rantoul representing the American colony then at Stuttgart.

Mr. Bingham said as Mr. Rantoul concluded his remarks that Daniel Webster had once made a chowder over here on Smith's Point, out of fish he had bought from old Capt. Jones' son, a fisherman.

Mr. Rantoul remarked that it was worth something to be 94.

Mr. Allen, the president, also remarked at the conclusion of Mr. Rantoul's dessertation on the chowder that years ago at one of their chowder dinners out here under the big tree, before the picnic house was built, James T. Fields, had spoke on the same subject, and he had also attributed the origon of the word as coming from the French.

The next speaker called upon was Rev. Dr. Manchester of Salem. He was reminded of the grace once said by the old Dr. Bartol, "Oh, Lord, we're here!" "I'm here, and glad to be here," said Dr. Manchester. He was convinced as he heard Mr. Bingham speak, and looked around him, the "Elder Brethren" is a deceitful term. He was sure, too, that as long as the spirit he had noted today existed there would be no need of a "promotor" for these gatherings.

Rev. Dr. Clark also of Salem said he could "extend the hand of fellowship" to Mr. Rantoul for his remarks about the chowder. He paid a deserved compliment to Mr. Bingham.

Rev. E. Hersey Brewster of Norwood, former pastor here, was called upon as a representative of the young men. He spoke of what had grown out of small beginnings, and this organization had certainly grown out of a humble beginning, and was an organization unique in its character and had been beneficial not only to the members, but to the community. While he was not a native of Manchester, he had been lucky enough to marry a Manchester girl, and would accordingly be entitled to membership later on.

Francis M. Stanwood, a summer resident for many years, was the last speaker and said it was hard to realize that one was present who had heard the story of the battle of Bunker Hill from his grandmother, who was living at the time, and whose memory extended back to the time when there was no bridge between Salem and Beverly and in going to Boston it was necessary to be ferried across.

He had been coming to Manchester for 29 years, and congratulated those present on the excellent way in which the town affairs were administered, for no town excelled it in acumen, honesty and enterprise. It had a good library, good water, good schools and a good fire department, and the tone of the discussions in town meetings was on a much higher plane than the debates in the Boston common council. His early days in Manchester were spent at the Masconomo house, and his reminiscenses of the Booth family were of great interest.

He closed with a panegyric on Gen. Grant and deplored the attempts to elevate Gen. Lee as the greatest soldier of his time as being both untrue and unpatriotic. He gave some interesting war reminiscenses of Grant as related to him by Carleton, the famous Boston Journal war correspondent, who considered Grant the peer of Hannibal, Caesar, Napoleon and Marlborough, and closed with an apostrophe to Manchester, which had been described as "the beauty spot of the world."

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

It was somewhat of a curiosity, that stove in one end of a coach on the tail end of the 4.30 train from Boston for the North Shore Monday afternoon! What's the Boston & Maine thinking of! Sending their old, ante-deluvian coaches down here on the Gloucester Branch in mid-summer when the elite of all the land are here enjoying the beautiful North Shore. The car was numbered 126. And it certainly looked (and felt) as though it might have been one of the first cars built. One would think they would have removed the stove anyway. The idea of even suggesting "stove" on such a sweltering day as Monday! If such cars as these are sent down on this branch, summer residents would be justified in making a strenuous "kick."

* * * *

On the siding at the Magnolia station Thursday noon was a fire engine loaded on a freight car and tagged through to Gloucester from the Manchester Locomotive Works, Manchester, N. H. The engine was a two horse affair and although it did not have quite the antique appearance of one of the hand engines still looked as though it were an ante-bellum relic. Had it been there an hour later it might have been brought into use in extinguishing the fire in the building near the station.

Miss Abbie Floyd is at Dennisport, Cape Cod, for a visit with Captain and Mrs. W. C. Whelden.

Mrs. Anna Woodbury left Thursday for a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. Mead, at Wellesley Farms.

The doctors of Manchester, Beverly and Salem are to have their second annual outing at Tuck's Point next Thursday.

Prof. Ralph W. Allen of Brooklyn, who spent last week with his mother on Vine street, left the first of the week for Roslindale.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Hersey Brewster have been spending most of the week with Mrs. Brewster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dunn. They are to spend a greater part of this month at Northfield.

During the months of August and September Fraulein Wolters, a German teacher of recognized ability so well known along the North Shore, will give lessons in the language twice a week, on Mondays and Thursdays between the hours of eight and nine p. m. The object of Fraulein Wolters is to reach those who otherwise would have no opportunity to study the language and to whom the knowledge of German would be of practical use either in business or in their studies. No charge will be made for these lessons and those of the young people who feel that German will be of assistance to them are heartily invited to attend the classes. Further particulars may be obtained by addressing Fraulein Wolters, at Manchester.

Coming!

At the town hall, Manchester, Fritz & Curts, Comedians, supported by the Jolly Fun Makers in a repertoire of new plays. The dates: Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 4 and 5.

This company has been playing through Southern Vermont and New Hampshire and has been giving satisfaction in all places. John J. Fritz, comedian, is a former resident of Manchester, having spent his early life here. He has been with several large companies and is without an equal as a black face comedian. He is guaranteed to keep the audience laughing from the time he enters until he leaves and has many new gags as well as the old ones.

The Stilwells, magicians, are without equal. They have many astonishing acts and some very funny ones.

Walter H. Curtis is rightly called the mandolin king, as he does many wonderful stunts on the instrument.

Miss Isabel Fritz is a mezzo-soprano with an exceptional voice and never fails to please the audience with her singing.

Little Violet Stilwell age, six years, in singing and dancing, is a very clever artist.

Some of the plays produced by this company are, A Ragged Hero, Convict 999, Only a Farmer's Daughter, The Counterfeiters, Don Ceasar, Dr. Bezan, In the Shadows of the Law, and others.

The prices of admission are 15 and 25 cents. Reserved seats 35 cents. Reserved seats will be on sale at Allen's drug store at 10 a. m., Saturday. *

Senator Shaw entertained a party of co-workers in the State Senate Wednesday afternoon and evening at his cottage at West Manchester. They were Senators Wheatley, Faxon, Keith, Schuster and Johnson,—commonly called the "Big Six." They are the six senators who dredged out Manchester harbor,—or rather, who worked so hard for the bill making an appropriation for this purpose two years ago. In the evening the party attended the band concert on the common.

THE 7TH ORIGINAL AND ONLY BOSTON FOOD FAIR.

Rocky Mountain States Will Make Extensive and Important Government Exhibits at Park Square Coliseum.

Many elaborate and expensive attractions have been secured for the original and only Boston Food Fair conducted by the Boston Retail Grocers' Association. Arrangements have recently been made with the Government for extensive exhibits by some of the Rocky Mountain states. These will be of such a comprehensive nature as to give the Food Fair patron as adequate an idea of the products, industries, resources, scenic beauties, aad characteristics of the natives as if one actually took a trip out there and lived among them, and what they are doing to add to the wealth and resources of Uncle Sam's domain should be of interest to the average spectator.

Wonderland.

Wonderland will surely be crowded with thousands of visitors next week and the management has made elaborate plans for their reception and entertainment. There will be special electrical and flag, banner and bunting decorations in honor of the visit of the thousands of the Knights of Pythias who will be holding national convention in Boston during the entire week. Some of the most expensive aerial and comical acrobatic acts have been secured for the great free circus program and the Salem Cadet band will be heard in choice concerts afternoon and evening, while the board walk parades will be filled with spectacular and grotesque features and alone will be worth going to see.

MARVELOUS SKILL OF THE BLIND.

Daily Demonstrations Free to Visitors at the Manchester Handicraft Shop.

The expert and subtle skill of the blind in producing articles of ornament and utility at the Handicraft Shop at Manchester is a never failing source of wonder to visitors. In addition to the most artistic fashioning of fabrics by hand-weaving processes in which colors are blended with delightful harmony and the construction of household utensils and appliances, the coming week will witness daily demonstrations in basketry and rush-seating by James N. Hamilton of East Boston.

A large collection of photos will also be exhibited showing every variety of work executed at the Cambridge shops of the Commission including the making of brooms, mops, rugs and dainty fabrics for household use and also the more prosaic, but scarcely less practical accomplishment of shoe repairing.

A newly arrived sewing-machine is being operated by Miss McClintock, who turns out some of the dressmaker's art with the facility and skill which puts to the blush the work accomplished by many seamstresses blessed with the sight of which this talented young girl has been so long deprived.

The Handicraft Shop is open to the public without charge daily, mornings and afternoons, and all interested will be cordially welcomed.

The friend who so kindly stood sponsor for the affair is gratified to know of the success with which this unique enterprise is meeting, and the interest shown by townspeople and summer visitors in the work.

New England Food Fair.

The Frank C. Bostock Arena of Trained Wild Animals which is to be one of the free features of the great annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition at Mechanics Building, is the greatest animal show in the world. It has never before been shown except as a separate and distinct show to which the price of admission is seldom less than 50 cents. The complete show will be given free of charge to patrons of the New England Food Fair. Frank C. Bostock is in the animal show world, what P. T. Barnum was in the circus world and his name is synonymous with clean, up-to-date, entertaining animal exhibitions. The educational advantages of such an exhibition cannot be over estimated and it should prove a most attractive addition to the big fair at Mechanics Building. The Bostock show will occupy the entire basement of Grand Hall. There will be sixty cages of animals.

Land and Water Carnival.

The eighth annual land and water carnival at Crescent Beach, Magnolia, Tuesday, broke all previous records for its general success and promptness. The sports started promptly at three o'clock and were witnessed by over two thousand interested spectators. Summer residents and local people from Manchester to Gloucester came in large numbers and a big gathering filled the pavilion and overflowed onto the beach.

Great interest and enthusiasm was shown both by the spectators and the contestants in all the events. The Magnolia Marathon race aroused the greatest excitement and the runners were heartily applauded as they came in. From the start the race lay with Herman Walker, captain of the Dartmouth track team, and he finished easily fully a hundred yards in the lead. Hugh Bradley, of Andover, followed and then the other runners came straggling in one at a time most of them game to the last.

Another of the land events that aroused considerable enthusiasm was the relay race between the bell boys of the Oceanside and Hesperus hotels. At the start the race lay with the Oceanside runner but later Hesperus runners secured the advantage, and when H. W. Brown, of Monson Academy took the red handkerchief for the Oceanside, the Hesperus runner was some distances in the lead, Brown's long legs, howerer, quickly ate up the intervening distance and he crossed the tape several feet in advance.

The other races were well contested and some very good sport was provided. Great interest was shown by the contestants in the potato race and considerable laughter was raised.

The water sports were of no less interest than the land sports, and the audience thronged to the water's edge. At the shot from the starter's revolver the swimmers plunged into the water with a great splash and started for the goal with great speed. The crawl stroke was the most popular and the distance was rapidly covered. Carrol Robinson of Gloucester, was the winner of this event, and swam easily and swiftly. For a time it was feared that he would lose for although he was some little distance ahead he swam way to the left of the float with his head under water, and only touched it, as the requirements demanded, a second before the second swimmer.

Considerable amusement was caused in the canoe race by the capsizing of one of the canoes just after they had rounded the flag and were on the home stretch. Not knowing of the catastrophe of the other crew, the winners spurted ahead amid the jollying of the spectators who told them that the other canoe was close behind. The winners were all guests of the Oceanside as were also the members of the other crew. After the race was over another canoe put off to enter complaining that it had been started without sufficient notification and demanded a race with the winners. This was granted and although the winners of the preceding race were naturally somewhat tried they easily outstripped the other canoe.

In the swimming race for ladies considerable disappointment was caused by the failure of Miss O'Brien, the winner of last year's race, to enter. The race lay between two sisters, the Misses Inez and Laura Kenny and was won by the former.

The summary of events follows:

100-yard dash for men won by P. C. Irwin, University of Pennsylvania; H. W. Brown, second.

50-yard dash for boys, won by John Putnam; Fitz Sargent, second.

Potato race won by Russell R. Smith of Annisquam; S. H. Ayer, jr., of Bass Rocks and Boston, second.

300-yard relay race between the Oceanside and Hesperus bell boys, won by the Oceanside team. The members of the team were H. W. Brown, Harold Willis, Hugh Bradley and Crummon Johnson.

Magnolia Marathon race starting from the pavilion and running up through the village and ending at the pavilion, won by Herman Walker; Hugh Bradley second.

Pillow fight won by Russell R. Smith.

100-yard swimming race for men won by Carroll Robinson; Fitz Sargent, second.

30-yard swimming race for boys won by Fitz Sargent; Howard Barrows, second.

Canoe race, four men in a canoe, won by the members of the red canoe team; Gordon Auchincloss, J. B. Marsh, A. Gill and Pierpont Dutcher.

Ladies' swimming race won by Miss Inez Kenny; Miss Laura Kenny, second.

Adams Annual Reunion.

The descendants of Robert Adams, who settled in Newbury, Massachusetts, in 1640, will hold a reunion at the Town hall, Newbury, near the site of the first homestead, and on land formerly owned by said Robert Adams, on August 12, 1908. The gathering will take place at ten o'clock in the morning, and a basket lunch will be served at noon, after which there will be speaking and music. Electric cars pass the door from Newburyport, Ipswich, and Haverhill, and it is hoped that any and all descendants will feel a desire to attend this annual reunion.

The fair for the Village church held at the Oceanside on Wednesday was very successful in every way. The display of fancy articles, flowers and candy was unusually attractive.

The fancy table was in charge of Mrs. A. M. Lycett, Mrs. F. F. Story, Mrs. J. R. Crispin, Mrs. Edgar L. Story, Mrs. W. R. Boyd, Mrs. H. L. Hannaford and Misses Alice Story and Amy B. Lycett. The candy table was in charge of Misses Alice and Frances Libby and Miss Alice Sanborn. The flower table was in charge of eight young ladies from the Oceanside who made very sweet and pretty flower girls: Misses Isabelle Wadsworth, Margaret Crocker, Phoebe and Elizabeth Adams, Helen Wheelock, Alice Keating, Helen Johnson and Evwine Bushnell. The florists were Galvin of Boston, E. S. Knight and Magnuson & Hylen of Manchester, who sent beautiful displays, and many cottagers who have gardens also sent flowers. A feature of the fair was the auction of flowers in the evening by Miss Faithful Ames. The receipts from the fair thus far amount to $513. The Ladies' Aid society take this opportunity to thank the many generous friends who contributed to this success.

Mrs. W. R. Richardson and son Harold are in Peterboro, N. H., visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Sawyer of Winchendon, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Sanborn at Coolidge's Point.

Miss Gertrude H. Dick of Lawrence, is the guest of Miss Clara Butler. Mrs. Hugo Dick of Lawrence, Mrs. Steinert and son Herman of Holyoke, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler on Monday.

The "Dorothy Dix" children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown this week.

A party of young people from Magnolio attended the dance at Town hall, Manchester, on Wednesday evening.

Miss Marion Symonds of Gardiner, Maine, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Symonds.

Miss Alice Bushee returned to Gloucester the first of the week.

Rev. Albert Parker Fitch, pastor of Mt. Vernon church in Boston, spoke on Friday evening. He will also preach in the Village church the evening of Aug. 22, on which day he is to preach in the morning at the summer chapel.

Prof. Krumpeln, the blind organist of Jamaica Plain, who gave a very delightful organ recital at the Village church last year is to give another in the near future.

The "Pig Party" at the Young Women's club, Tuesday, was very popular with the members of the club and great merriment was aroused by the artistic results of some. The members were blindfolded and then requested to draw a pig. The results were extremely ludicrous. A booby prize, the only one given, was awarded the author of the worst likeness. Much interest has been shown by visitors at the club in the pictures which are tacked up on the wall for inspection. Next week's program will be the same in substance as that usually provided. The only alteration will be on Tuesday evening when a masquerade party will be given. A week from Tuesday the entertainment of the evening will be in the hands of the young ladies and it is expected that a great deal of pleasure will be the result.

At the Men's club a tournament in pool and checkers will commence on Saturday evening, August 8. Suitable prizes will be offered and a very interesting tournament is anticipated. The pool contest it is expected will be particularly close as there are a number of excellent players in the club who will doubtless put up a very interesting and exciting game. The preliminaries will be played off the first week and the finals the first of the second. Entries begin today and may be made with Mr. Martin at the club.

Miss Sophia Bennett, who has a position in Lynn, is having a fortnight's vacation beginning tonight, a week of which she will spend at Idlewood Lake. She will also spend a few days at Needham.

Thursday, August 27, is announced as the date of the fair fo be held at the Baptist church under the auspices of the Sarah W. Whitman club. The fair will open at 11 a. m. and will continue until 10 p. m. There will be an entertainment in the evening. Tickets 15 cents.

On Friday, the 24th, a daughter arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grady.

Through one of those typographical errors hard to overcome in any office at times, seemingly, we made our item of last week about the Bay State Oil Co. read that there was "a new rival in the field," instead of it being a "new arrival." We might repeat what we intened to say is that the Bay State Oil Co., an independent company, with headquarters in Swampscott, is doing a hustling good business through this section.

A cool evening and good music was the fortune of the large party who attended the dance of the "Red Sox" in Neighbor's hall, Thursday evening. Jeremiah Toomey, the manager, looked after the gathering with the same ability he gives his base ball team and all spent a very pleasant evening.

Broken Down

Over-work, worry, mental effort, sickness or any strain upon the nervous system affects the whole body. All the organs depend upon the nerves for strength. If they don't get it they can't do the work demanded of them. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores nervous energy, and builds up the broken down system.

"Two years ago my wife was almost at the point of death with nervous prostration. I shall never forget how she suffered, it was night and day, until we commenced to use Dr. Miles' Nervine and she speedily began to recover. Today she is enjoying as good health as she ever did.

James Naylor has entered the employ of James Sheldon at Misery island where he will run Mr. Sheldon's trim motor boat.

L. Carteret Fenno has purchased a large portable house which he has erected on his estate as a play-house for the children.

Some twenty or more members of the John West Colony of Pilgrim Fathers enjoyed "Pilgrim Day" at Wonderland Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Robert Smith has leased the Fenno (formerly the Elliott) cottage on Hart street, and will move into it shortly. The cottage has until recently been occupied by Alderman Hodgkins.

The dance of the Beverly Farms Base Ball club is booked for next Wednesday evening in Neighbor's hall and the management have planned to make the event a pleasant one for all.

Miss Nora Foley of Hoboken, N. J., who for several summers has been accustomed to spend her vacations at the Farms arrived here Wednesday and is the guest of the Misses Toomey, on Haskell street.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Eddy attended the picnic and reunion at Boxford Wednesday of Mr. Eddy's class in the "No. 1" school where he received his education thirty or forty years ago, and a very enjoyable time was had, meeting many of his old classmates whom he had not seen for years.

J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht the "Corsair," which has been off the West Beach pier a part of the week, has been an object of general interest and many have rowed out to and around her. At night she presented a very pretty picture lighted with electric lights.

All that now seems necessary to make the lawn party given by the Preston W. R. Corps at Marshall's field, Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week, is the continuation of the good weather that has favored us thus far. The proceeds are to be used towards the construction of the proposed Memorial hall, and plenty of attractions have been prepared. A feature that will prove of general interest to all will be the appearance of a member of the famous Stanley Gypsies, who will read the fortunes of all who desire. Dancing will also be a feature of the evening and will continue till midnight. Music will be furnished by the Heaphy orchestra and refreshments of all descriptions will be served.

An edict issued by the directors of the West Beach Corporation forbidding bathing off the floats and pier on Sundays after 1.30 p. m., went into effect last week. This order is not particularly pleasing to the large number of bathers who have been accustomed to enjoy this pleasure and they advance the claim that the pier and floats are plenty large enough to accommodate all, and that owing to the changes in tide and the scarcity of time, Sunday afternoon is the only convenient and available time.

The Oxford club of Beverly, under the management of P. J. Kennedy and others have engaged Neighbor's hall for a dance and social to be held Monday evening, Sept. 7.

Master Percy Leveen is becoming very popular about the vicinity as a violinist. Sunday he rendered two solos at the evening service of the Baptist church, which were greatly appreciated by a large congregation.

Favored by good weather and a large party of friends who gathered to see her off, Mrs. Duncan T. Smith sailed Tuesday, from Boston, for the Provinces, where she will visit relatives of Mr. Smith. She will be gone about two months and her first stop will be at Orangedale, Cape Breton.

Miss Elmira Williams returned home yesterday after a several weeks' visit with Miss Frances Blake at West Newton.

The band concert at Oceanside Park and the concert and illumination at Manchester attracted to each place a large gathering of Farms people Wednesday evening.

Miss Lida Peirce of Hart street is visiting her uncle at Topsfield.

Mrs. Clarence Strong Pond left Tuesday for a visit at her home in Pocasset.

Michael J. Connolly of Waltham and a former resident here has leased the lower suite of rooms in the Patrick O'Hearn cottage, corner of Greenwood avenue and Webster street, where he will move in today for the balance of the summer.

The many friends of Fred Stickney are sympathizing with him and his family over his serious accident as the result of which he lost one leg just below the knee. Mr. Stickney was performing his duties as brakeman on a work train at Salem, when he was run over at the Mill street crossing. He was taken to the Salem hospital where he is holding his own very comfortably.

Fred Cross, of Portsmouth, a former resident of the Farms, spent a few days here this week being called here by the serious accident of his brother-in-law, Fred Stickney.

Edwin Pride and Charles H. Day attended, on Wednesday, the annual gathering of the Elder Brethren at their old gathering grounds,—Tuck's Point.

S. A. Gwinn of Beverly has had men and teams at work during the week at the Beverly Farms play grounds, filling in and grading in accordance with a recent appropriation made from the city treasury for this purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Marsh, of Toronto, Canada, arrived at the Farms early this week where they are the guests of friends, and before their return home will visit the chief points of interest in this vicinity.

Mrs. George P. Davis and her two children, returned yesterday to their home in Randolph, Vt., after a ten days' visit among relatives here. The children during their stay have practically lived at the beach.

Ward 6 was represented at the annual picnic, Wednesday, of the Beverly City Government, past and present, at the Relay house, Nahant, by Alderman Robert E. Hodgkins, Councilman Charles H. Hull, Asst. Engineer J. M. Publicover, Assessor Theodore A. Holmes Driver William S. Pike, former councilman F. H. Peirce, Charles F. Butman, L. J. Watson, 2d, W. B. Publicover and George H. Bennett.

Wilbur J. Peirce and Howard E. Morgan have spent a portion of the week at their camp cottage on Briar Neck, Gloucester, and with their wives have entertained there a number of guests, among whom were Dr. and Mrs. E. T. McGourty of Beverly.

Mrs. Edwin L. Pride entertained a party of lady friends from Winter Hill yesterday at her summer home on Hale street, Beverly Farms. A portion of the day was spent at West Beach where lunch was served in the boat house.

Miss Joanna Toomey is enjoying a respite from her duties in a Boston office and is spending her vacation at the Farms and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. William DeCost of Beverly and formerly residents here, have the sympathy of their friends here over the loss of their five months' old son, Charles, who passed away at Beverly a week ago.

Mrs. Edward W. Pierce.

After an illness of over a year, Mary J. Pierce, wife of Edward W. Pierce, passed away at her home on Hale street, Pride's Crossing, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the age of 45. Mrs. Pierce was born in England but had made her home in this country for some time, living at Pride's, where she was beloved by the whole community.

Her death has made a loss that will be sorely felt, particularly by those who were fortunate enough to count her as a neighbor or an intimate friend. She leaves a husband and four daughters, Mary, Edith, Helen and Ethel.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at her late residence, the pastor of the St. John's Episcopal church, of which she was a regular attendant, officiating. Interment was in the Beverly Farms cemetery.

A Novel Idea

Nothing in the world so discouraging to a shopper as to hear the old refrain, "We're just out." Yet it is still the prevailing idea among the storekeepers that at mid-season stock should be at its lowest ebb. What for, to drive away customers? BLIND WORKERS OF MASSACHUSETTS WIN PRIZES

Awarded Three Firsts and One Second at the International Conference in Manchester, England.

New and Interesting Features at the Handicraft Shop on the North Shore arouse much Enthusiasm

Visitors to the Handicraft Shop on the Manchester Village Green, were this week afforded new evidence of what the blind can do in the way of practical industry, and the skill and cleverness exhibited have won for the workman, James N. Hamilton of East Boston, many words of commendation. Much interest, also, has been aroused by the numerous photographs showing the variety of work executed at the Cambridge workshop for the blind, including broom and mop making, rug weaving and shoe repairing, and, also showing lines of work carried on by blind operatives in factories and shops employing seeing help. Such work comprises box corner cutting, crate making, hair-pin stringing and tobacco stripping, also that of telephone switch-board operating as performed by a blind operator in a State department office. The photographs also give a very comprehensive idea of the useful and ornamental articles exhibited in salesrooms of the State Commission on Boylston street.

Right here, it is interesting to note that at the second triennial international conference on the blind, and exhibition held in Manchester, England, recently, the Massachusetts exhibition of art fabric work done in the work shop of the Commission in Cambridge, received three first prizes and one second prize, the largest number of awards to any single exhibit. Manchester-by-the-Sea, home of the dainty little Handicraft Shop for the Blind and Manchester, England, it is pleasant to note, have one great cause in common, the advancement of the welfare and interest of the blind.

In writing of the international conference, Charles F. F. Campbell, superintendent of the industrial department of the State Commission, says: "While our (American) exhibit of weaving has won much praise we must face the following facts: Out of nearly 34,000 blind persons in the United Kingdom about 8000 are earning a livelihood in workshops or institutions. According to the report of the New York Commission, it is estimated that there are 100,000 blind in the United States, and of that number not 600 are earning a livelihood in workshops. Even taking the United States census figures of 64,000 (which is acknowledged to be far below the actual number of blind) the contrast between the number employed at home and abroad is shocking. America has much to learn, but in four years Massachusetts has gone ahead so fast that our English friends are holding their breath. By the time of the next triennial we shall show much gain in the employment of the blind in our State."

Many Events Planned for Next Week.

The coming week will be the busiest of the season on the North Shore. Aside from the usual round of social affairs, little luncheons, dinners, etc., there will be a number of events of a general nature.

First comes the water pageant and parade of illuminated boats and floats at Manchester, on Monday night.

On Tuesday afternoon the annual Magnolia gymkhana and tournament of mounted sports will be held on the beach at Magnolia.

Wednesday morning the first in the series of five German readings by Fraulein Wolters will be given at the residence of Mrs. W. J. Boardman at Manchester.

Wednesday afternoon the weekly band concert at the Essex County club.

Wednesday evening concert by the Salem Cadet Band and electrical illumination in the square at Manchester.

Friday afternoon the second in the series of subscription musicales will be given at Mrs. W. J. Mitchell's at Manchester Cove.

Men's handicap singles tennis tournament starts at Essex County club on Monday.

Weekly golf tournament at the Essex County club Saturday.

The Water Pageant at Manchester Next Monday.

That the water pageant and parade of decorated boats at Manchester next Monday evening will be a success is already assured. Many entries have been received by the secretary of the Manchester Yacht club, and there will be many more in line on Monday night when the procession starts from the Fenton Co.'s boat yard at 8 o'clock.

Six prizes will be awarded for the best

The Colonnade, Lexington Avenue, Magnolia
Where North Shore People Go A-Shopping

The accompanying picture of the Colonnade, Magnolia, presents one of the busy spots of the North Shore. It is here that North Shore society do much of their shopping. In one end of the Colonnade is the North Shore branch of E. T. Slattery Co., the well known Tremont street, Boston, concern, ladies' goods. Next comes the attractively furnished store of Huyler's, where many a glass of soda or ice cream or boxes of delicious candies are passed out to the elite of the North Shore. Then comes the Grande Maison de Blanc, of New York and Paris, whose North Shore branch, opened two years ago, is meeting with the same popular favor as the branches in Newport and Bar Harbor.

designs: $35, $25, $20, $15, $10 and $5, respectively. The judges will be Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and Mrs. Francis W. Fabyan. In awarding the prizes the beauty of the illumination as seen from a distance will be an important consideration. Two or more boat owners may if they desire compete jointly, placing their boats one behind the other if they wish. The committee urge all persons interested to enter their boats however simply they are illuminated. Anybody may enter; there are absolutely no restrictions.

It is expected that the shore illumination will be beautiful. The signal to illuminate will be fired at 9 o'clock. Through the generosity of one of the members of the club a handsome display of fireworks will be given at the close of the water pageant. The club has secured a stock of colored lights which may be obtained at the club house at moderate price.

An orchestra will be stationed at the club house during the evening, and there may be informal dancing for members and friends.

If the weather is unfair on Monday the event will take place the following night.

Band Concert Next Week.

The next band concert on the square at Manchester will be given next Wednesday evening, on which occasion the Salem Cadet Band will furnish the music as usual. The square will be brilliantly lighted again, by the hundreds of incandescents strung and interwoven about.

If the night is fair there will be hundreds from Beverly Frams, Magnolia, Gloucester and Beverly to hear the music and see the illumination.

The program follows:

1. March, Salute to Uncle Sam, Hutt
2. Overture, Bohemian Girl, Balfe
3. Echoes from the Metropolitan Opera House, Tobani
4. Solo for Trombone. Selected
   MR. J. N. PROCTER.
5. Selection, Prince of Pilsen, Luders
6. Waltz, American Students, Missud
   (Old Cottage Songs.)
7. Selection, Solanthe, Sullivan
8. Mills Merry Melodies, Schulz
9. a. Pilgrims Chorus from Tannhauser, Wagner
   b. Bohemian Dance, Selika Logneder
10. March, Stars and Stripes, Sousa

JEAN MISSUD, Conductor.

Church Fair.

The fair to be held in the Town hall at Manchester on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 19 and 20, will no doubt attract a big crowd. The fair is held to raise funds for the Congregational society, though the specific object for which the Ladies' Social circle are working, is to purchase a heater for the Chapel. While the fair is given under the auspices of the circle the other auxiliary societies are helping out, and the people in general are contributing articles for the various tables. There will be many useful and fancy articles offered for sale, besides a generous assortment of home-made candies, cake, ice cream, etc. Contributions may be left with Mrs. E. S. Knight, 44 School street.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. G. A. Kitfield, Mrs. Fred M. Johnson, Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe, Mrs. David Bennett and Mrs. E. S. Knight.

Miss Annie Lane has with her for a visit of a fortnight or more her room-mate at Smith, Miss Alice Langford of Fall River.

Mrs. J. W. Carter and daughter Doris of Portland, Me., are visiting the former's brother, Frank R. Robbins, and family, School street.

At the probate court in Salem Monday Eliza F. Lambert was appointed administrator of the estate of the late Harriet Albert of Manchester.

The death of Mrs. Gertrude V. (Spaulding) David recently will be learned with regret by many Manchester people. Mrs. David, before her marriage was for several years teacher of music in the Manchester public schools.

John C. Mackin, the new superintendent of schools, was in town Monday ready to take up his year's work. He will move here with his family later, and will probably occupy one of G. E. Willmonton's houses in Windemere Park.

Roy B. Stanley is returning to New York today after spending a week's vacation with his parents here. Mrs. Stanley and little child have been here since early July and will remain a while longer. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley took a short trip to Portland by water the middle of the week.

"Fire! Fire! ! Fire! ! !" is the way in which the grand ball to be given in the Town hall on Friday evening, Aug. 21, under the auspices of Engine Company, No. 1, of the local fire department, is heralded. An efficient committee is in charge, of which W. W. Hoare is chairman, and Ralph Stanley, E. F. Preston, Curtis Stanley and Fred C. Dougherty, are the other members.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. G. Perkins left Tuesday for a visit to Mr. Perkins' boyhood home in Lamoine, Me., to be gone about a month. Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carter of Reading are occupying the Perkins cottage on Sea street for the month of August. Mrs. Carter is a sister of Mrs. John Baker of this town. Her son, Clarence Carter is well known here, having been engaged at his profession as civil engineer several years ago with R. C. Allen. Mr. Carter is now located at Salt Lake, and at the present time is on a vacation trip to the Pacific coast. He will return to Salt Lake by way of Portland, Ore.

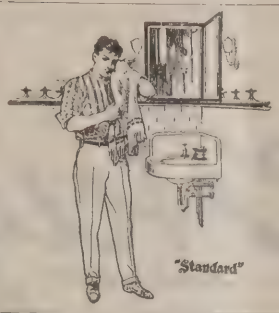

On Wednesday, August 5, a son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Bennett street.

Frank R. Robbins went to Waterville, Me., Saturday and bought a handsome driving horse for Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, to take the place of Mrs. Fitz' pet horse, which had to be shot some weeks ago. The horse is a thoroughbred, seal brown, ford riving in brougham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cromwell of Washington arrived at Manchester Tuesday for a ten days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Julius F. Rabardy, Central street. Miss Etta Rabardy is having a month's respite from her duties at the Boston Athenæum, which she is spending in Manchester.

Charles and Harry Hooper are members of the newly organized Wolf Hill Yacht club of Gloucester and like the other young men in the club, have built themselves a 15-foot boat, named Savorie, and it is fair to presume that they will do credit to themselves as amateur yachtsmen.

Society Notes

Morton Frewen of England has been the guest of Joseph Leiter at Manchester a few days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeder of Stonegap, Va., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Wentz at the summer home of the latter at Pride's.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., of Manchester, has chartered Edward W. Buxton's sloop Enole through H. A. Hawthorne.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Brooks left Manchester a few days ago for a week's auto tour to the mountains, as far as Jackson, in their large Royal Tourist.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth who spoke at the Oceanside Sunday evening was the guest over the week-end of Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, widow of the late Quincy Adams Shaw, at Pride's Crossing. Mrs. Shaw's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, jr., with her young son, Quincy Adams Shaw, 3d., have gone to Upper Dam, Me., where they will camp out for a few weeks. Mr. Shaw has gone to Calumet, Mich., to look after his mining interests there, as is his custom.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stockton, who have been spending the summer with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Head, at Westport, N. Y., arrived at Manchester the latter part of last week and are now getting comfortably settled in their attractive new cottage in Manchester woods, on the road to Gloucester. It will be remembered that the house was practically ready to be turned over to the owners last New Year's when it caught fire one Sunday and was almost entirely destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Head accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Stockton to Manchester and remained over the week-end, paying a short visit to their other daughter, Mrs. Wm. A. Russell, at West Manchester. They are returning to Manchester the last of this month.

MANCHESTER

The Masconomo House in Manchester is having a real good patronage, considering the time of season the hotel was opened, and the fact that the opening was not advertised in advance. There are now some forty people stopping there and many others are booked for the present month. Many of those stopping at the hotel now are people well known in the social circles of the country, and other distinguished people are arriving as the days advance. All of which goes to show that there is an opportunity in Manchester for a first-class hotel.

Mrs. Marshall Field of Chicago, who is at Dublin, N. H., for most of the summer, is coming to the Masconomo next week and will remain probably for the balance of August. Her brother-in-law, Augustus N. Eddy, will also probably come to Manchester with Mrs. Fields. Mrs. Fields is an aunt of Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge, who is at the Rockwell cottage on Smith's Point, not far distant.

Mrs. C. B. Roberts and children, with governess and maid, are among the recent arrivals at the Masconomo. They come from Baltimore. Mrs. Roberts was a Sloane, and is a sister of Mme. Chermont, whose husband is an attache of the Brazilian Embassy and has a cottage at Beverly Farms.

H. C. and R. Burghman of Pittsburg, who were at the Masconomo last week for a few days have returned again for the balance of the summer accompanied by C. S. Greeley of St. Louis.

Among other prominent people stopping at the hotel the past week were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McEldowning and children, Robert, Annabel and Hester. They stopped here the first of the week while touring the North Shore. Mr. McEldowning is president of Mr. Frick's bank, the Union Trust Co., of Pittsburg. Another prominent Pittsburg banker to stop here this week was J. H. Moore, who was accompanied by Mrs. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Du Puy, and Misses Eleanor and Amy Du Puy of Pittsburg stopped at the Masconomo Monday for a few days while touring through this section by auto.

Mrs. M. F. Donovan of Lynnfield and Mrs. M. R. Donovan of Lynn were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sullivan at the Miami cottage, one of the Masconomo connections, the first of the week.

A Buffalo party composed of Dr. and Mrs. Allen A. Jones and Mrs. Joseph L. King, registered the first of the week for a fortnight's stay.

Interesting Spot

Just off the famous Newburyport Turnpike, on a quiet shady lane, in a region rich in historic interest, is FERN-CROFT INN, a charming resting place for the tired traveler in auto or carriage, a most comfortable dining resort patronized by the best sort of people. The new Fern-Croft Inn is in every way the counterpart of the old, which was destroyed by fire last year. The specialty of Fern-Croft Inn, that has made its fame almost world-wide, is its chicken dinners, consisting of a whole broiled chicken to each person, served at $1.50 per plate. Mrs. William J. Boardman has been spending a few days the past week visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Walter Phelps of New York, at her country estate in Connecticut. Mrs. Boardman returned to Manchester Thursday evening.

The Misses Colby have with them at their cottage in Beverly Farms, Miss Mary Charlotte Frances Stuart of England, a daughter of the late William Stuart, Colonel in the English army. Miss Stuart is well known in the social circles of London where she devotes a great deal of her time to a work called the London School of Economics and Political Science, the only work of its kind in the world, a feature of which is the classification of all kinds of businesses and trades, populations and conditions of England under the various headings. This is Miss Stuart's second trip across the ocean and her stay this time will be prolonged until October. The Misses Colby also have as a week-end guest James Stokes of New York City, brother of W. E. D. Stokes, who built the famous Ansonia apartment hotel in New York, the largest apartment hotel in the world, at a cost of six millions.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Fisher, who are having a very pleasant summer at Manchester, where they are occupying the Chase cottage at Old Neck, have with them for a visit Miss Birdie Robertshaw of Greenville, Miss., who will remain until September. Miss Irene Robertshaw is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, and William Trigg of Greenville has also been a recent guest here.

The first in the series of five German readings by Fraulein Wolters will be given next Wednesday, at the residence of Mrs. W. J. Boaadman, Manchester. Fraulein Wotlers will take as her subject on Wednesday a Comedy from Sudermann. The other readings will be as follows: Selected German Poetry, August 19; Selections from the German Clsssics, August 26; A Drama from Sudermann, September 2; and Selected German Poetry, September 9.

A wedding in France Tuesday in which many people along the shore are interested, was that of John Amory Lowell Blake and Miss Helen Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert Prince, formerly of the North Shore and Boston, but who for many years have lived abroad. The wedding took place at Noirsmoutiers, an island in the department of Vendee, the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Blake is a Harvard man, class of '02, and is one of the most popular young clubmen. He is a member of the Tennis and Racquet clubs and the Boston Athletic Association, and he also belongs to the Myopia Hunt club. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Baty Blake who founded the oldtime banking house which today is well known as Blake Brothers, in State street. Miss Prince, although she has lived long abroad, is familiar to society folk. She is the granddaughter of the late Hon. Frederick O. Prince. Her mother was Miss Helen C. Pratt. Miss Prince was at Beverly Farms not long ago as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince of Princemere, and sailed for France a few weeks previous to Mr. Blake's departure for Europe, which was on July 21 from New York on the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II. He was accompanied abroad by his brother, Francis Stanton Blake, who went over to serve as best man. Mr. Blake and his bride are to remain on the other side until some time in October, when they will return to Boston to reside at 37 Beacon street, long the Blake family home, where Mr. Blake has kept bachelor's hall since the death of his mother, in 1899.

Godfrey L. Cabot has offered a cup for a members' handicap singles tennis tournament, beginning Monday, August 10th, to extend over a period of two weeks, and open to members, junior members, and their invited guests.

Beginning Monday, August 17, there will be two tennis tournaments on the courts at the Essex County club,—ladies' handicap singles, and mixed doubles (scratch). In the latter event, partners will be drawn by lot. Entries should be sent to the tennis committee on or before Wednesday, August 12. These tournaments are open to members of the club and their invitad guests, and also to members of the Montserrat, Myopia and Nahant clubs.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth's talk on her prison work in the casino of the Oceanside hotel Sunday night was listened to by a large and enthusiastic audience. Mrs. Booth spoke with a great deal of feeling and eloquence of the work done in Sing Sing and other prisons of New York arousing a ready sympathy in her audience, and when she asked those who desired to contribute toward a fund for the carrying on of the work a hearty response was accorded her and a very tidy little sum was realized. The audience that filled the large casino to overflowing was considerable of surprise to Mrs. Booth and those who are interested in her work. Summer people from all along the North Shore came in their autos to hear her and the guests of the hotels were out in force.

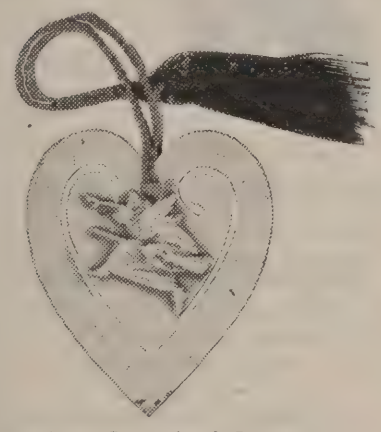

The fondness of the ladies for the bargain counter is often made the subject of jokes more or less pointed, but the fact that E. T. Slattery, Co., who have located a branch store in the Colonnade, Magnolia, again this season, have made a large reduction in the prices of the dainty line of summer wear now in stock, preparatory to getting in a new line of imported garments for fall use, is no joke and will no doubt be of no little interest to the women folk of Magnolia and the North Shore. The light, attractive establishment the company has opened again this summer is one that readily catches the eye of the passer-by and the tastefully displayed articles for feminine wear are very alluring to the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. George Swift of Chicago, who are visiting Mrs. E. C. Swift at Pride's Crossing entertained a party of friends at the Grill Sunday coming there in their large Packard touring car.

Among the many North Shore residents who dined at the Grill, Sunday, was a very select party from Manchester and Beverly Farms. Horatio Davis of Boston entertained there in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, of Manchester, Mrs. E. A. Boardman, of the Beverly Farms summer colony, and Miss Bigelow, of Manchester.

Miss Ethel Roosevelt, second daughter of the President, arrived at Manchester yesterday afternoon on the 5.15 train for a visit among her many friends along the North Shore. She is a house guest of Mrs. Charles Alexander Munn of Washington, who has a cottage on Beach street, not far from Singing Beach, where Theodore Roosevelt, jr., is also a guest for a week or ten days. Miss Roosevelt's visit will be marked by a round of social functions of a more or less informal nature, and many little parties will be given in her honor. The first of these was a dinner-dance at the Essex County club last night, given by Mrs. Munn. This afternoon Miss Roosevelt will be the guest of honor at a big clam-bake on the rocks in front of the residence of Mrs. James McMillan, at Eaglehead, Manchester. There were about forty guests at the dinner last night, composed wholly of members of the younger set along the North Shore. Dinner was served at eight o'clock and dancing followed, to which there were some twenty-five more guests. Among those at the dinner were: Francis Appleton, H. Fairfield Osborn, John Tucherman, Robert Breese, Francis Burke Roche, Theodore Roosevelt, jr., Charles Amory, Frank Sargent, John Thorndike, Roberto Centaro, Robert Grant, James Breese, jr., Seymour Blair, Reginald Boardman, Richard Lovering, C. Hutchins, Charles Appleton, Frederick Burnham, Reginald Fitz, Julia Tuckerman, Joan Tuckerman, Alice Thorndike, Helen Thomas, Catherine Barton, Miss Thayer, Dorothy Jordan, Lucy Blair, Rosamond Bradley, Grace Jarvis, Martha Cameron, Leslie Bradley, Ruth Appleton, Margaret Thomas, Molly Eliot, Martha Bacon, Katherine Tweed, Mary Astor Paul, Lucy Blair, and Ruth Windsor. About the same young people will attend the clambake this afternoon, which Mrs. McMillan gives for her granddaughter, Miss Grace Jarvis, in honor of Miss Roosevelt.

Theron Pierce and his bride sailed from New York Tuesday for Europe accompanied by Mrs. Pierce's brother and Mr. Pierce's sister, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Deering, who were on to Pride's Crossing last week for a short visit.

Cruising in his trim motor boat from Marblehead, Sunday, John J. Ward of Medford entertained a party of friends at dinner at the Hesperus. The members of the party were, Miss Alice Burke of Boston; James A. Fayne and Miss Agnes Flynn also from Boston; and Miss Katherine Lahey, of Stoneham.

Mrs. William McMillan and children are coming on from Detroit Monday for a visit with Mrs. James McMillan and Miss Jarvis at Eaglehead, Manchester. Miss Jarvis expects a visit from her friend, Miss Katherine H. Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins, the latter part of this month, in which event many pleasant lititle parties will be given in her honor.

Miss Helen Morton and Miss Elizabeth Elliot have joined the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliot of St. Louis, in the Sea Vista cottage, one of the connections of the Oceanside.

Oakleigh Thorne and Clarence Scrivner of New York motored to the Masconomo Sunday in their Packard racing car and took apartments there for a couple of weeks' stay. Mr. Thorne is a prominent business man of New York and is president of the Trust Co. of America.

Mrs. E. M. Campbell, dressmaker, of 126 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, is at "The Old Homestead," Shore Road, Magnolia. Gowns, fancy waists and shirt waists. Ball gowns a specialty. *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowden who are spending the summer at Nahant, and Mr. and Mrs. Hardy of Pittsburg were entertained at the Grill by Charles Steck of Boston, Monday.

Mrs. Adams Cricker and her daughters, the Misses Priscilla and Helen Cricker and her son Weyman Cricker of Fitchburg, have taken apartments at the Sea Vista cottage for the balance of the season.

Mrs. George P. Ide and her son, George P. Ide, jr., of Troy, N. Y., and Mrs. A. P. French, of Saratoga, have taken quarters in one of the annexes of the Oceanside, the Flume cottage.

The jewelry display now being held by Walter Kimball & Co. in their art rooms in the North Shore Grill, is attracting more than usual notice. The precious and semi-precious stones shown have been collected from time to time by Henry Atkins of San Francisco. Mr. Atkins as an artist and designer of the beautiful and unconventional in jewelry has a large reputation for this work in the West and has used such stones as the tourmaline, sapphires, opal, chrysacalla, and others in most attractive settings often combined with the native gold of California which makes interesting pieces very much out of the common. A very interesting stone on exhibition is the benitoite, the newly discovered gem stone which takes its name from San Benito county, California, where it has been recently discovered and which up to the present time is very rare. The exhibit comprises necklaces, broaches, pendants, rings, collarettes and other pieces and will be found of much interest to all visitors.

B. T. Wendell of Boston, arrived early in the week at the Oceanside where he is quartered in the Highland cottage.

Charles H. Babcock of Boston, who is spending the month of August at the Oceanside, took lunch at the Grill Tuesday.

Mrs. Alexander Lee of Binghampton, N. Y., an artist of no little note in the china and glass painting line, is spending the month at the Hesperus hotel, Magnolia, and has placed on exhibition there specimens of her artistic work. Some of them are really exquisite and are indeed worth seeing, particularly by those interested in the work. Among the numerous fancy and useful articles which she is exhibiting in the parlor of the hotel are several beer steins in oak leaves and acorn designs, as well as in rose hips. The collection is a very beautiful one and Mrs. Lee has every right to be proud of her art.

Mrs. C. M. Witsch, of Newark, N. J., was among the early arrivals this week at the Aborn. Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Birmey, of Philadelphia, are also recent guests at that hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chamberlain of Boston and their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Jenkins of New York have taken apartments at the Aborn for the balance of the summer.

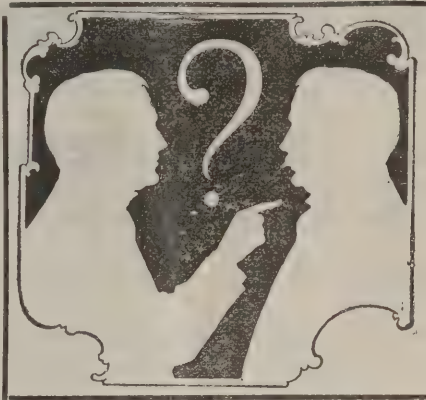

Kenneth Van Riper of New York has taken quarters in the Breakers cottage, belonging to the Oceanside, where he will remain the rest of August.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Swigart, of Chicago, and their daughter, Miss Mildred Swigart are enjoying the balance of the warm weather in the West Flume cottage, another of the Oceanside connections.

E. Ormonde Power, of New York, is at the Oceanside, coming here the first of the week, and will remain here until some time in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Armstrong of Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Florence Armstrong and Roger Armstrong, arrived at the Aborn the middle of the week, where they will spend the month of August.

Gen. Garretson has had as his guests in the Fox cottage, Magnolia, where he has been spending the summer, William and Guy Hazelton, of Cleveland, Ohio, who took a rather prominent part in the land and water sports last week, and who carried away some of the cups in that event.

Mrs. J. E. Raymond of New York, with her two children, has taken rooms in the Rhen cottage, Magnolia, for the remainder of August.

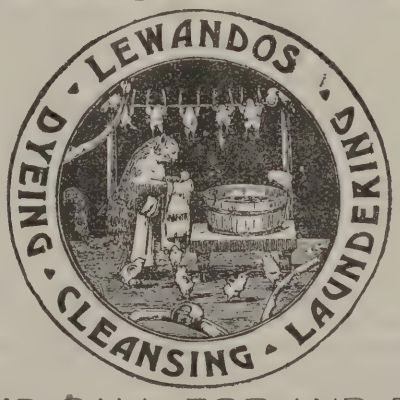

Mrs. R. C. Colt and her daughter, Miss Mary A. Colt of New York, together with Reginald Auchincloss, motored to Magnolia, the middle of the week, where they are the guests of Mr. Auchincloss' brother, Edgar S. Auchincloss.

Mrs. William A. Hitchcock of New York and her daughters, the Misses F. T. and A. T. Hitchcock, and her son, W. H. Hitchcock, are at the Aborn for the remainder of the season.

Apartments have been taken at the North Shore Grill, by Robert S. Brookings of St. Louis, who will probably remain for the rest of the month.

Claude Kilpatrick, of Magnolia and St. Louis, entertained at the Grill Wednesday a party of gentlemen for lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse of the Beverly Cove summer colony entertained a party of friends at dinner at the North Shore Grill early in the week. Among the guests was Freeman A. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Goodwin of the Hotel Somerset, Boston, entertained at the Grill early this week a party of ladies and gentlemen from Boston.

Barclay Tilton of Chestnut Hill also entertained a party of six at the Grill this week.

Ralph Merrill of Boston, where he has apartments in the Brimmer Chambers, was among the many guests at the Grill the first of the week.

George C. Brooks of the Hotel Somerset, Boston, gave a little dinner party at the Grill this week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hayden, also of the Somerset, and the parents of Col. Hayden.

Arthur Richmond with a party of friends motored from their home in Dedham to Magnolia Sunday where they had tea at the Original Magnolia Tea house.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Portella, ambassador from the Argentine Republic, who are stopping at the Oceanside, accompanied by their son Julan Portella and the first secretary of the embassy, A. Palacios Costa, dined at the Grill Sunday evening.

Louis R. Page, who is summering at York Harbor, was among the many guests for dinner at the Grill, Tuesday.

On Wednesday, the 5th, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Holoran.

Mrs. Emma Johnson is leaving Monday morning for Jackson, N. H., to be gone two weeks.

Miss Edith Northrup goes to Ayer Tuesday where she will remain for a two weeks' visit with Judge and Mrs. Atwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hersey are leaving Monday for a fortnight's visit at China, Me., with some of Mrs. Hersey's relatives.

Mrs. Charles McInnis and two children of Dorchester are at Manchester for the month of August, stopping at Mrs. John Dillon's, Brook street.

Mrs. George Evans of Brook street has had for her guests the past two weeks, Mrs. William Leary and Miss E. Loretta Conley of Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Donald S. Crafts returned to Stoneham with his uncle, George Graham last Sunday to spend the week. Today Mrs. R. E. Newman goes to Stoneham to remain over Sunday.

A genuine sur prise party was tendered Miss Emma F. Prest Tuesday evening on the occasion of her 22d birthday. About twenty-five friends were present and a very enjoyable time was spent. Games were played, songs sung and refreshments of ice cream, cake and fruit were served. During the evening a second surprise took place, when Robert Mitchell, in behalf of the company, presented Miss Prest with a beautiful silk umbrella. The guests departed at a late hour wishing the young lady many happy returns.

Officer Thomas Sheehan held up two autos last Friday evening on Beach street and a summons was issued the first of the week for the appearance of the chauffeurs in court on the charge of reckless driving. These were the initial hold-ups of the season. The two cars were owned by O. W. Mink and G. E. Cabot, both of Manchester, but in each case there was nobody in the car but the chauffeurs, Walter Perham and Myron B. Small, respectively. In court Wednesday the young men were represented by Attorney Hurtibus of Boston. M. L. Sullivan appeared for the government. Officer Sheehan claimed the two cars were racing and were going at an estimated speed of 30 miles an hour, though he did not have a stop watch to time them. Perham pleaded nolo and paid a fine of $10. Small pleaded not guilty, but he was fined $15 by the judge after the officer had told his story. He appealed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rogers and their neice, Miss May L. Rogers, are on a trip to Yarmouth, N. S.

Miss Emma Bullock is at White Face, L. I., for a visit with Lewis Bullock and family. She will remain until the autumn.

Tuck's Point is today occupied by the Nathaniel Morgan and George P. Dole families, who have with them guests from out of town. A gathering of this sort is held about every summer.

The first shipment of pipe for Manchester's additional water supply will be made next Monday and it is expected the work of laying the pipes will be started the latter part of next week. The members of the water board and their engineer are planning to go to New York today to examine into more plants prior to deciding on the new power to be installed. In Brooklyn is a plant used and recommended extensively in the west. The board has practically decided upon some form of gas producing plant, as it is conceded there is a great saving in a plant of this kind.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The contract for planting and for the rustic fences and avenues on the Quincy A. Shaw, 2d, estate at Beverly Farms, has been awarded to the Pierce Nurseries of Beverly Farms.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court has purchased the balance of the outstanding interest in the Marshall estate on Hale street, Beverly Farms, where he has made his home for many summers, and where his father, the poet, summered before him. Justice Holmes purchased a portion of the estate sometime ago and papers were passed last week giving him title to all the estate. It is beautifully located and is one of the most charming on the shore.

M. E. Gorman has sold to Frank P. Tenney the four house lots which he bought some time ago from Frank Bennett of Gloucester, located on Tenney avenue, near the greenhouses of Magnuson & Hylen.

Albert Cunningham of Manchester conveys to Augustus M. Killam of Manchester, land on Washington street, Manchester, 52.28 by 7.2 feet.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

The Dennis Magnetic Institute

For he possesses a Magnetic Power to cure Diseases not equalled by anyone.

There is no treatment in the World that resembles in any way the famous Dennis system of treatment. It can best be likened to the old-time method of the laying on of hands, but is better called the curing of disease by the application of the mighty natural forces of Vital Magnetism. After the form of ailment is located the magnetism is transferred by way of the nerves leading to the diseased centres and the force of Vital Magnetism is so great that it seems to draw the disease out of the system. In many cases cures of obstinate diseases of long standing have been made in one treatment, in other cases it takes several. While the cure is being made the magnetism is thoroughlp building up the system.

As to another town meeting on purchase of the Manchester Electric plant! It is not unlikely that another town meeting will be called in the near future to take action on the purchase of the Manchester electric plant. It was thought by many that the vote of two weeks ago put the matter aside for two years at least. In a letter to Chairman E. S. Knight of the Board of Selectmen, W. O. Underwood, the town counsel, says:

"In my opinion a town can call as many meetings and at such times to vote upon this question as it seems fit until the necessary two-thirds vote has been obtained, after which in order that it may become effectual there must be a second meeting held not less than two nor more than 13 months thereafter. If at such second meeting the necessary two-thirds affirmative vote is secured the vote becomes effectual, if not, then no new meeting can be held to consider the question within two years after the second vote. It therefore follows that the town of Manchester can now call one or more meetings at any time it desires to consider the question until it has secured the first affirmative vote, after which the statute applies."

ABOUT un-muffled motor boats! While the Manchester board of health have done all in their power to have boats equipped with mufflers and have asked the co-operation of the harbor master in this connection, Harbor Master Lations says he has not the legal power as harbor master to enforce the observance of the ordinance. He is willing to do all he can, and has done so in many instances, but he has no power to force anybody to equip their boats with mufflers. We make this statement in Mr. Lation's behalf, inasmuch as our article of last week might seem to suggest that Mr. Lations had full and complete power to enforce the regulations as made by the board.

PASSENGERS on the trains of the Boston & Maine R. R., in passing through Beverly Farms may notice the unsightly dump, which is so, seemingly, on account of lack of care on someone's part. In spite of recent fires, still much combustible stuff remains there which should be speedily reduced to ashes. The authorities at Manchester have ordered fire cages constructed especially to serve as a furnace for wooden boxes, barrels, paper, etc. This should be done in the case we are speaking about. Something should be done to lesson the untardy appearance the dump presents. While it is true that the trains of nearly every railroad pass just such places and we think little about it, yet, we cannot afford to have any pile of rubbish mar the landscape of our beautiful North Shore.

Correspondence

While our columns are always open for the discussion of any relevant subject, we do not necessarily indorse the opinions of contributors.

Correspondents will please give their names —not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

To the Editor of the BREEZE:

The statement was made in your columns last week that no one opposed the granting of a license to the North Shore Grill. This is not a fair statement of the case. It is well known that many letters and petitions were addressed to the Board of License Commissioners in opposition to the Hesperus license. Probably every one of these, certainly most of them stated distinctly that the writer was opposed to "any license in Magnolia." This means that there was the same opposition to the licensing of the Grill that there was to the licensing of the Hesperus.

The sentiment in the community has not changed. The only reason why people did not write again to the licensing board is because it seemed a hopeless task. Their wishes were ignored once. Why would they be considered the second time? The licensing board believes sincerely, I think, that it is fostering business and therefore increasing the prosperity of Magnolia. It regards those who oppose its policy on moral or other grounds as merely "temperance cranks," unworthy of consideration. The members of the board fail to see the possibility that they themselves may be the narrow minded men in their single eye for the property interests involved. They fail to see too that their policy will drive away some of our best people and that this may not be good "business."

An illustration of their short sightedness is to be seen when one steps from the train at the Gloucester station. Across the road from the station is a licensed barroom recently opened, out of which on a Saturday night a motly crowd issues to catch the last train home. A block farther along on Railroad avenue is another saloon standing on an important corner. The effect of these barrooms on the first impression formed of Gloucester by strangers is disastrous in the extreme.

Before the licenses were granted this year a petition signed by 700 people was presented to the license board asking that no license be granted the last named saloon---the other did not then exist---for obvious reasons. The result of this petition is two saloons instead of one! This is the "business" policy of our honorable licensing board.

The only hope under such conditions is a new board. One member of the board has completed his term within a fortnight and been replaced by, we hope, a broader minded man. The terms of the others will expire in the fulness of time. They will not be renewed. We must be patient.

THE PROPOSED NEW CLUBHOUSE AT MAGNOLIA.

Reasons Why it is Needed. The Plan Proposed. Possibility of improving, at the Same Time, the Unsightly Entrance to Magnolia.

FREDERICK J. LIBBY.

Two years ago last month the Magnolia Women's Clubhouse was opened to enter upon a beneficent career. It had been built to meet a recognized need. Magnolia contained no sufficient place of amusement for the women employed here. Except for the little cottage then hired for a women's club it contained no place of amusement for them at all. They were driven to resorting to the beach and the rocks.

Moreover the house which was used for a clubhouse was wholly inadequate and very expensive. It was a tiny cottage built to shelter cosily a small family and not adapted to club purposes in any respect. Yet because of its location on the Point it commanded a rent of $400 a season. This with the salary of a matron and the other necessary expenses of a club made a very large sum to raise annually.

Accordingly it was decided to build a Women's clubhouse which should overcome both of these obstacles to success. It should be adapted to the work required; and it should be self-supporting. There were some who doubted if it could be made self-supporting; there were others who doubted if there was a real demand for it. There were still others who did not believe it could be built.

All of these doubts have now been dispelled. The clubhouse is built and paid for except for a mortgage of $1500. It can carry this debt indefinitely as the income from room-rent and dues proves sufficient to pay all of the running expenses including the interest on the mortgage, insurance and an allowance of $50 a year for improvements and repairs. Thus the club is easily self-supporting. And that there is a real demand for its privileges 250 enthusiastic members testify daily. The only complaint thus far made comes from mistresses who have been ignominously hurried through dinner in order that their maids might get to some entertainment that it offered. No better proof of its success could be given.

It is a club's business to be interesting and attractive. It is the business of the mistresses then to put such check on their maids' movements as may become necessary. But let them be thankful that their maids are as happy in Magnolia as they are themselves and in honest ways.

The Need of a Men's Clubhouse.

Now to anyone familiar with conditions here it is plain that the same need exists for a Men's clubhouse in Magnolia that led up to the erection of the Women's clubhouse. In the first place, the men employed by the cottagers, the guests at the hotels and the hotels themselves have no adequate place of amusement. They are not wanted about the hotels when off duty. They are not wanted loafing in the public square. Yet where can they go?

There are no bowling alleys in Magnolia; no theatres; no gay streets. There is only a room, containing two pool tables and a piano, in a basement beneath the telephone exchange. Why is not a more attractive place found? There is none to be had. And for this basement with its uninviting entrance we are paying $200 rent. To maintain this clubroom between $300 and $400. has to be raised by subscription every year, over and above what is received in dues and from the pool. The club is reaching only a fraction of our men as the crowded appearance of the village square every evening reveals clearly. It has 75 members at present. This is not more than one-fifth of the number eligible for membership. And yet despite its inadequacy it is expensive to maintain. It is very useful to a few men. It is more or less useful to all of its members. It is infinitely better than nothing and cannot be discontinued. But the raising of $300 or $400 every summer to carry it on is a considerable burden on the pastor of the Village church as well as on the patient subscribers. An adequate and self-supporting clubhouse for men would be a great relief.

In the second place, it is remarbable that under these circumstances some enterprising promoter has not put up a cheap bowling alley or other place of amusement to become a nuisance to the community but to supply the natural demand for recreation. If forestalled by a building with which competition would be hopeless, this will not be likely to come to pass. Unless so forestalled it is practically inevitable because there is the prospect of money in it. A bowling alley is lucrative.

In the third place, the rapidly increasing class of chauffeurs demands more good accommodations than can be obtained in Magnolia at a reasonable price today. True, there are several boarding houses here, some of them good ones, that are not full. Some chauffeurs are fortunate enough to have obtained rooms in private houses. On the other hand, at least fifteen chauffeurs are being boarded at the Oceanside at a cost of eight dollars a week for room and eight dollars a week for table-board. Why are they there if they could obtain good rooms and board at a less figure in town? The hotel management is not anxious to keep them. Quite the contrary. If they felt able to recommend with perfect confidence rooms elsewhere, they would gladly do it and relieve themselves of a serious problem. If twenty-five more good rooms were added to the available accommodations for chauffeurs in Magnolia and an excellent restaurant were maintained, all at reasonable prices, it would be a distinct advantage to all concerned.

The Clubhouse Proposed.

The clubhouse that is needed, then, will be at once a kind of men's hotel and a place of amusement for all male employes. It will consist of three stories or two stories and a basement. In the basement there will be bowling alleys and pool tables and some shower baths. This means that the building will be about 120 ft. long by 40 ft. wide. The first floor will contain the restaurant and kitchen and a big social room which can be used for dances and entertainments when desired. It will contain twice the floor space of the corresponding room at at the Women's clubhouse and will be surrounded by a verandah. On the second floor will be twenty-four neat, big rooms to let to men.

Such a clubhouse as this would be as certainly self-supporting as the Women's clubhouse is. The rent from the rooms at $50 each would be $1200. The pool and bowling would bring in $500 more. The two pool tables in the present clubroom will bring in $125 this season at two cents a cue. Besides all this there would be the membership fees which at a dollar would amount to between $100 and $200 and swell the total income to at least more than $1800. The budget of the Women's clubhouse involves the expenditure of only one-third this sum. The Men's club would be more expensive to maintain, requiring the services of three people outside the restaurant: a manager, to have his office on the first floor; an assistant, to have charge of the basement; and a third person to take care of the bedrooms and keep the house clean. Extra help would be needed from time to time, of course.

The restaurant should be made self-supporting, either being let to responsible parties at a nominal rent or run on the club plan.

Such a house as this furnished would cost between $10,000 and $12,000 exclusive of the lot. This is about twice the cost of the Women's clubhouse. It is safe to say that it could at the same time carry a considerable mortgage, much larger if necessary than that on its sister institution, and still be self-supporting.

It should be incorporated as a charity and become exempt from taxation like the Women's club. It should be owned by those who subscribe to it, the stock being in twenty-five dollar shares. It should be built by Magnolia men this winter working by the day.

The Women's clubhouse built in this way cost $1500 less than the lowest bid made by a contractor.

Can We Improve the Entrance to Magnolia?

The lot where this building ought to stand, if the lot could be bought at a reasonable figure is the big corner lot opposite the Postoffice and Telephone Exchange. The unsightly entrance to Magnolia has long been an eyesore to its citizens. It is too late now to improve the opposite corner which has become a nest of stables and stores. It may be possible to save the corner towards the sea. The buildings now standing on this lot are of little value. If they could be razed to the ground; the lot graded and sown with grass seed and planted with trees; Raymond street widened at this point twenty feet and the corner rounded; a good carriage road and sidewalk to the beach laid out; and near the back of the lot this clubhouse built among the trees: we should have accomplished much for the good of Magnolia and from a great many points of view.

If we cannot get this lot at a figure that is reasonable, there are two other lots near the square that will suit the purpose almost as well and we shall have to build on one of them and renounce for the present the attractive dream of improving the entrance to Magnolia. John J. Stanwood of Gloucester is the owner of the lot in question and he values it at sixty-five cents a foot! The lot contains about 42,000 square feet. It is assessed, however, at ten cents a foot or less and the real value lies somewhere between these figures. Unless it can be bought for $10,000 or thereabouts, we shall build on the next best lot obtainable and fit our garment to the probable amount of cloth.

Subscriptions.

The subscription for this building has begun with one of $1000 payable in two instalments, half when success is assured and the other half on or before the first of August, 1909. I shall announce from week to week the progress of the subscription list. Any sum will be welcomed and the larger the better. I hope to announce the names of a building committee soon. Meanwhile subscriptions may be made to me.

Society Notes

Among the numerous automobile parties which spent the week-end at the Hesperus was that of F. B. Grinnell of Brookline in two large touring cars, a Stearns and a National. The members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grinnell, of Providence, Miss M. F. Ritchie, Miss F. E. Gifford, Miss J. Z. Gifford and E. Plummer of Brookline.

The musical at the Hesperus Sunday evening was the best that has yet been rendered there this season. Besides the violin and 'cello solos by Mr. Smalley and Mr. Fiedler, Mr. Whyte of Malden, rendered several choice bass solos which were received with rounds of applause. Mr. Whyte is a rising bass singer and is sure to make a name for himself in the musical world. Coming originally from Scotland, he has made somewhat of a specialty in Scotch songs, and Sunday, among others, rendered most feelingly, "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doone." His accompaniments were played by his teacher, Madame Beal Morey. Madame Morey is herself a most talented musician and is organist at the Universalist church, in Malden. Near the end of the musical she rendered on the piano with a great deal of eloquence Chopin's prelude in D flat, first giving the history of its origin, and one could hear in it as an undertone the murmur of the sea, and woven into the middle the Gregorian chant.

Miss J. Louise MacIntire of Milton is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Knight, School street.

The quarterly meeting of the Manchester Fireman Relief association will be held Monday, Aug. 10, at 7.30 p. m.

The Congregational church Sunday School picnic was held at Tuck's Point, Monday, and was attended by about 200.

While Manchester takes great pride in its unique organization, "Ye Elder Brethren," both because of its age and its associations, there is another club in town, which, though limited in membership, has the distinction of being 25 years old. Little is known of the club, however, principally because it has not met for the past 25 years. It is called the Watts club, which would be rather mystifying, perhaps, did we not mention that it takes its name from the famous writer of hymns, and that this particular club in its early days spent much of its time on annual meetings in singing. Last Saturday the club met and had a chowder dinner at Tuck's Point, the occasion proving a most delightful one. The original five members were present,—Dr. C. L. Hoyt, Geo. D. Haskell, T. C. Rowe, C. O. Lee and F. H. Crombie. Each invited one guest.

There was a deal of comedy in the hurry call sent in to the police last Sunday night to the effect that a man lay dead or injured in Essex woods. An auto was coming to Manchester around nine o'clock when to their horror the party saw a "dead" man in the road ahead of them. After a hurried examination they hastened on to Manchester, regardless of all speed laws and notified the police. Officers Andrews and Sheehan piled into the auto, and, as a physician could not be found at once, sped off toward Essex. Meanwhile the station was being prepared to receive the dead, or injured man. The stretcher was placed in the middle of the floor and a doctor was called to the station and awaited the return of the officers with up-rolled sleeves. As for the officers—they reached Essex woods in less time than it takes to write it,—fast driving was forgotten for the time. When they saw the "victim" it didn't take long to examine pulse, heart beating, etc. The way he was gently (?) lifted into the auto was sufficient ground to judge that the officers knew how "dead" he was. It was afterwards learned that he had been to Essex, and perhaps to Aunt Molly's and on the way home had "fallen by the way side." A night's rest at the station righted matters so that he is now O. K.

Society Notes

As he was coming out of the water at Crescent Beach, Magnolia, after bathing for ten or fifteen minutes, Samuel Landsdale, a prominent New York banker and broker, was seized with an attack of dizziness and fell attempting to reach the bath house. T. F. O'Connor saw his condition and with the assistance of his brother Charles J. O'Connor got him into one of the bath houses. Here he was briskly rubbed and massaged under the direction of the life guard, Mr. Brown. After a few moments of hard work, the unconscious man opened his eyes, and strength gradually returned to him. Dr. Musgrave was located about this time and after an examination pronounced him out of danger. An auto was in readiness and as soon as he was able, was taken by his friend Mr. Auchincloss to the Hesperus. The cause of Mr. Landsdale's dizziness as given out by Dr. Musgrave was the heated condition of his blood and the sudden reaction of the water on the heart.

Considerable interest is being shown by the young people of Magnolia and even the older ones in the jig-saw or dissected puzzles at the Indian store on Lexington avenue. Mr. Preston, the proprietor of the establishment, has a very unusual collection of unique toys attractive to the juvenile eye. An extensive line of arts and crafts work in copper, brass and pottery may also be seen there and varied shapes and designs in flower bowls and vases. The store is indeed a really attractive one with its varied assortment of curios from Japan and Mexico, besides many articles of Indian make.

Good Shows.

Fritz & Curtis, comedians, supported by the Jolly Fun Makers, have played in the Manchester Town hall three nights the past week and have been treated to good sized audiences on each appearance. On Tuesday night the company presented "Convict 999," Wednesday "Only a Farmer's Daughter," and last night they presented "Queen's Evidence." The performance last night was given as a benefit for Joseph Aveney, who was for a great many years lamplighter in the town, but who is now poor in health and is living in the Stone house, owned by the town, on Elm street.

The Fritz of the company is John J. Fritz, a well known Manchester man, who has attained much success on the stage since leaving here. The company has been traveling through Vermont recently and have had a very successful run in an excellent repertoire of new plays, and a splendid assortment of specialties.

That the crowd enjoyed the performances was apparent from the generous applause given the various players. Many attended the show each night. Fritz was given a big ovation when he appeared the first night and he played his part in first class manner each night. The company is one of the best small companies on the road today and the manner in which they were received here is sufficient guarantee that if they return at any time they will be assured of good patronage again.

W. H. Curtis as mandolin player, the Stilwells as magicians, little Violet Stilwell as petite singer and dancer, Mrs. Fritz as singer and Mr. Fritz as black faced comedian would be hard to beat with any of these small companies. They go to Cape Cod from here.

The benefit entertainment was given last night under the management of W. R. Bell and F. G. Cheever, before a $65.00 house. Mr. Fritz consented to put on the show out of friendship for an old time friend, Mr. Aveney, and the whole company gave their services free.

Breeze advertising pays.

$8.50 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF SELF-HEALING TIRES A SAMPLE PAIR TO INTRODUCE, ONLY $4.80

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 (cash with order $4.55).

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

An Attractive Little Novelty Studio.

One of the most beautiful little novelty studios we have been into this summer is that of the Nautilus Handicraft Shop at Gloucester, of which Mrs. Low is the proprietor. The shop is located on Angle street, which is just a step off the main road to Gloucester center, and is just beyond the Surfside hotel. Mrs. Low is very tasty and has many excellent ideas in her articles for sale. There are many beautiful artistic novelties suitable for whist prizes, Christmas gifts and souvenirs. Among the articles are many pieces of Russian brasses, craven art pottery and stenciled portieres, couch covers, etc., and leather work in choice designs. It would well pay one to drive to Gloucester and visit the Nautilus.

In Golfing Circles.

The members' handicap competition at the Essex County club was won last Saturday by E. M. Pickman, who played in 88 gross, with handicap of 15, netting 73. Adelbert Ames was second with a score of 92-16-76. J. H. Childs made the lowest gross score,—80. Thirty-two players went over the course.

World's Greatest Food Fair.

As arrangements progress and plans are completed it becomes more and more apparent that the annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which will be held in the famous Mechanics Building, Boston, beginning Oct. 5, will be the greatest exposition of the kind that the world has ever seen. It will be given under the auspices of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association, one of the largest and most powerful state associations of the kind in America. Novelty is the key-note of the New England Food Fair.

The chief musical feature will be the great Banda De Policia, the national band of Mexico and an organization of 97 musicians. This band is conceded by competent critics to be the finest in the world--barring none. Mexico is essentially a musical nation, so this seems easy to believe. By way of entertainment there will be Frank C. Bobstock's Arena of trained wild animals, direct from Earl's Court, London. There will be 60 cages of wild beasts and 11 great animal acts in the arena.

But above all don't forget the time and the place—Oct. 5 to 31, and Mechanics Building, Boston.

Richard Wigglesworth won the third in the series of tender class races at the Manchester Yacht club last Saturday. Miss R. Wigglesworth was second, and Robert Storer and Norman Read were the other contestants. The next race will be on the 22d.

In the Realm of Dogs.

The fifth bench show of the Lynn Kennel club, held at Nahant last week, came to a close on Saturday night. Dame Doris, the handsome collie owned by Mrs. Tyler Morse of the Beverly Cove summer colony, proved the star of the show, capturing three of the special awards.

* * * *

One of the best specimens of Irish terrier type ever brought to this country is the splendid dog, Ch. Thorncroft Sportsman, owned by J. R. Thorndike of West Manchester. He was born Aug. 11, 1906. This dog possesses the real expression looked for in the Irish breed and has a good flat head of great length, with excellent jaw power, free of any snipyness whatever, dark terrier eyes, surmounted with small V-shaped ears that seem impossible to carry wrong. Coupled with the above good points, he has a beautiful body, good bone legs and feet. In color he is ideal and his gameness unquestionable. Sired by Salute out of Sarnia, he contains the blood of such excellent ancestors as Ch. Mile End Muddler, Ch. Breda Muddler, Ch. Breda Mixer, on the father's side and Ch. Colin, Colin Blue, Ch. Blue Nettle, Ch. Bolten Wood's Mixer and Ch. Breda Mixer on the matron's side.

As a show animal he has an excellent record, having won first limit open winners and special best Irish terrier at Lynn; first limit, open, winners and six specials, including best Irish terrier dog, at New York; first limit, open, winners, and four specials including best Irish terrier in the show at Boston; first open, winners, special best Irish terrier at Lawrence; first open, winners, special best Irish terrier, special best terrier any breed and special best dog or bitch any breed at Providence; first open, first winners at Wissahickon. These winnings have been made this year, being the first six shows in which he was entered on this side of the water. He is registered in the A. K. C. under the number 112137, and is much in demand for services, being the sire of several excellent litters, to all of which he has imparted all his best qualities. Mr. Thorndike has a number of good Irish at his kennels in Manchester, but Ch. Sportsman is easily the star dog of the lot and is coming along every day. He will be seen at the majority of this season's big shows.

7TH ORIGINAL AND ONLY BOSTON FOOD FAIR

To Be Held at Park Square Coliseum, the Most Centrally Located and Largest Exposition Building in Boston.

In selecting a building, suitable for exposition purposes, in which to hold their 7th Original and Only Boston Food Fair this year, Sept. 28 to Oct. 31, the Boston Retail Grocers' Association found that the Park Square Coliseum filled many requirements which were woefully lacking in the building where they had held their previous fairs. One very large advantage is gained by the immensity of unbroken floor space on the street level, making it possible to have the entire exhibition on the same floor, a larger unbroken area than possessed by any exposition building in the country.

But the main advantage is in the location. Owing to its position in the very heart of the shopping district with easier access to more varied lines of street car, elevated and subway travel than any spot in Greater Boston, Park Square is surely the leading hotel, and amusement, and shopping centre. The Thorndyke and Touraine Hotels are within a stone's throw, the Majestic, Tremont, Colonial and Keith's theatres are almost within speaking distance, as may be seen in the accompanying cut. A block away are the Tremont street car lines, and but one block more are the Washington street cars. Here at Boylston street are the entrances and exits of the new Washington Street Subway to be in operation this fall.

Wonderland.

The season at Wonderland is now in the full tide of its midsummer brilliancy and delighted crowds throng the immense board walk every afternoon and evening listening to the choice band concerts and being royally entertained in the almost numberless structures of such picturesque design, which house the great and varied attractions. One need never fear the sudden coming of a summer storm for there is abundant shelter at Wonderland for 100,000 persons and every possible courtesy is always shown patrons. 'Tis strange but true that taking a day off now and then makes one's life longer. Take a day off and go to Wonderland.

Magnolia

The many friends of Oliver Roberts are glad to welcome him back to Magnolia. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Abbott.

A very pleasant dance was held at the Magnolia hall on Wednesday evening. The Social Orchestra of Gloucester rendered music.

The many friends of Frank E. Chamberlain will be grieved to learn of his death which occurred at his sister's home in Vermont on Tuesday. Mr. Chamberlain was for a number of years meat cutter at the Magnolia Market, when under the management of A. M. Lycett. He leaves two small children, Frances and Frank, to mourn his loss, and to whom the many friends in Magnolia extend their heartfelt sympathy.

"Chummy" a valuable dog owned by A. J. Rowe was killed by an automobile the first of the week.

The members of the Women's club are getting up an entertainment which will be given in the clubhouse on Tuesday, the 18th. The public will be admitted like the members on that night for a small consideration. The members of 1908, of whom there are now 250, intend to make the club a present of a pair of andirons and it is for this purpose, as well as to bring out the talent of the club, that the entertainment will be given. The program will be announced next week.

A handsome Victor Talking Machine with thirty records has been presented to the Women's clubhouse by Mrs. Bradbury and Mr. White of Manchester.

The pool and checker tournaments at the Men's club are to begin tonight. A handsome silver cup is to be first prize in the pool tournament and a jointed cue the second prize. The prizes for the winners of the checker tournament have not yet been decided upon. There are numerous entries in both and the prospect of some close contests is excellent.

H. M. Penniman of Berea college, Kentucky, who is advertised to speak at the Hesperus Monday evening at 8.30 on "Lincoln's Cabin Kin," comes recommended as a remarkable impersonator of the Kentucky mountaineers. Rev. Charles Frederic Goss of the Avondale Presbyterian church in Cincinnati aud twenty of his prominent church-members state regarding his impersonation that "for fidelity to nature, for utter simplicity and naturalness and for dramatic fervor not one of us has ever heard it surpassed."

An interesting article by Rev. F. J. Libby on "The Proposed New Clubhouse at Magnolia," will be found on another page of this issue.

Through the kindness of one of the cottagers, the Women's club had the privilege of hearing Mrs. Sara Cone Bryant Borst, an author of considerable note and the writer of children's stories, who gave several delightful readings Thursday evening. Thursday afternoon the dancing class was formed and will continue every Thursday afternoon during the balance of the summer. Next Saturday evening will be the third gentlemen's night and as usual dancing will be the order of the evening.

A social dance is announced to take place in Magnolia hall next Wednesday evening, Aug. 12. The first grand ball of the Magnolia Social club is scheduled for Thursday evening, Sept. 3, in Crispin hall.

It is with considerable pleasure that we are able to deny the rumor, circulated last week, concerning T. F. O'Connor's narrow escape from drowning while attempting to swim to the float at Crescent Beach. Mr. O'Connor, while perhaps not an experienced swimmer, is still sufficiently well experienced in the art to be able to keep afloat any length of time even should any such accident occur. Color may have been lent to the story by the fact that on Monday, while putting out the flags for the water sports, Charles O'Connor, coach at Trinity, purposely capsized his canoe when in three feet of water and walked ashore in his street clothes.

Miss Addie L. Day left Wednesday morning for a vacation trip to Nova Scotia.

Miss Cathryn Brawley who has been visiting Miss Helen Webber of 17 Everett street has returned to Roxbury.

William Broder of Roxbury and Miss Marjorie Lenox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gray, Haskell street.

Miss Bessie Mulligan of Seaver street, Dorchester, who has been visiting Mrs. Lawrence J. Watson has returned to her home.

Mrs. Duncan T. Smith, who is visiting her husband's relatives in Whycocomagh, Cape Breton, has written her friends here of her safe arrival and of her pleasant trip on the steamer Halifax, which, Mrs. Smith says, is a steamer some 250 feet in length. With regard to the officers and crew, she writes that nothing too good could be said of their kindness and their efforts to provide comforts for the passengers. Leaving Boston at 12.30, July 28, the voyage to Halifax was very pleasant and the view as they entered Halifax harbor, Wednesday, at seven in the evening was most beautiful. That city was left at eleven the same evening for Cape Breton, arriving at the Straits of Canso at 8.30 Thursday morning, a landing was made at Port Hawkesbury at 12.30.

Mrs. John F. Good and children James and Mildred of Nahant, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Watson, 17 Everett street. Miss Mildred Good is to stay a few weeks.

Rev. Fr. Fahey of St. Joseph's church, Roxbury, has been a guest at Mrs. J. H. Watson's, Everett street, the past week.

Mrs. Lewis G. Williams is reported to be getting along nicely at the Beverly hospital where she has been for the past week or more, having undergone an operation.

Miss Edith Marshall has resumed her duties again at her desk at Eli R. Hodgkins' shop, after enjoying a two weeks' vacation which she spent taking in the various places of interest in this vicinity.

Walter Lisenberg, a 14 year old lad, cut his foot quite severely Monday while jumping from West Beach Pier. He was taken to Varney's drug store in an auto, where his injuries were cared for by Mr. Varney.

An event that is sure to attract a big crowd, announced to take place in Neighbor's hall on Friday evening, August 28, is a hose laying contest and ball, which will be held under the auspices of the Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2, of the West Street fire station. Four prizes will be awarded,—$10, $8, $5 and $2, respectively.

A lawn party will be held upon the grounds adjoining the home of Mattis Hanson on Vine street on next Saturday, August 15. In the evening the place will be prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns. Aprons, bags, and a large variety of fancy and useful articles will be for sale as well as all kinds of refreshments. There will also be plenty of fun and amusement. The general public is cordially invited to attend and give what aid they may towards making it a success as the net proceeds will be put towards aiding the Swedish Lutheran church.

Eli R. Hodgkins is making quite a number of improvements and changes to his cottage house on Hale street.

A number of Farms members will take in the Beverly Republican club outing which is to be held next Wednesday at Ipswich Bluffs.

Samuel F. Collamore and daughter Miss Elizabeth Collamore arrived home last Monday evening from a pleasant two weeks' stay with relatives at Keazer Falls, Maine.

Today is a gala day for the Knights of Columbus of this city, it being their field day. It is held upon the base ball grounds at Montserrat. Sports and field events of all kinds are being indulged in.

The "Breeze" man this week called upon John L. Eaton, an old Farms resident, but who has recently boarded at 135 Essex street, Salem, and found him the same as of old,—genial and very glad to see his old Farms friends. Although he is in fairly good health, he has been for several weeks unable to get out of the house and was very much interested to hear of all the Farms news---in consequence of which the "scribe" promised to furnish him with a copy of this paper each week in the future.

Preston W. R. Corps, No. 93, will hold their fair in September, but have not yet fixed the exact date.

Preston Relief Corps Lawn Party.

On account of the heavy rain on Wednesday, the lawn party of the Preston Woman's Relief Corps, 93, was not held in Marshall's field, Beverly Farms, as planned, but was given in Neighbor's hall. The weather man seems certainly to have some ill feeling towards the corps in as much as last year the same arrangements had to be made because of the rain, after all preparations had been made to give every one a good time out of doors.

The members of the corps have worked hard for success and the result of their efforts despite the disarrangement of their plans was all that could be wished. Long tables attractively arranged with good things were set about the hall. The fortune telling tents occupied the side stage, and the Stanley sisters, members of the Gypsy band now in camp at West Gloucester, read the fortunes of all who desired. Many attractions were provided and all seemed to do a good business. All the popular music and latest airs were rendered by Heaphy's orchestra, and the floor was occupied till midnight by the throng of dancers. Every one seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion and fun and good time were enjoyed by all. The net proceeds will be set aside towards the proposed Memorial hall for Beverly Farms which these loyal ladies are working so hard to bring about.

This may well be said of the man that originated

Mission Furniture

It embodies that strength and simplicity of construction that are necessary to stand the test of time, and no matter how long you may own it, there is that rest inviting look to it, that very plainness of style about it, that becomes an accustomed beauty to you.

The artistic possibilities to be obtained through the adoption of it are boundless, and so potent a factor has it become in the true furnishing of the home, that the decorator, the wall paper designer, the draper, the rug maker, yes, even the maker of Ceramics, has bent his most telling efforts in the creating of his especial product to harmonize and accompany this what might be termed American-twentieth-century designed furniture. It meets the demand of that all powerful factor of the American public—the mighty dollar—giving more for the money than any class of created furniture today on the market.

Our Mission Room or Den is full of novel conceptions in this particular school, including the chairs, rockers, sofas and couches all upholstered in genuine Spanish leather, and besides these articles of more ordinary need we have a variety of especially designed card tables, with reversible tops, library tables with out-of-the-way book shelves, secretaries with secret drawers, placques with quotations from the brightest wits, lamps and lanterns, stools and smoking cabinets.

We charge no interior decorators' profits for this "real" Arts and Crafts furniture. Only our usual small margin the same as on everything else that we sell.

Have a look at it—in mahogany and weathered oak.

One of Beverly Farms' Famous Land Marks Destroyed.

The Davis homestead, one of the oldest houses in Beverly Farms and a famous land mark, situated at Preston place on the Chebacco road, was destroyed by fire Thursday forenoon. The house was occupied by Charles Keefe and family.

Just how the fire started is not yet known but apparently it originated in a chamber closet on the second floor, and when discovered was burning briskly. An alarm was rung in from box 54, and the three-quarters of a mile separating the box from the engine-house was covered in record time, but as there was no water available nothing could be used but the chemicals, which were not effective against a fire with such headway.

Owing to the recent rains and the efforts of the firemen the flames were fortunately prevented from spreading to the nearby barn and other buildings.

Unfortunately part of Mr. Keefe's furniture is a dead loss, not being protected by insurance, and a part of what was saved is badly damaged. The house was insured for $1000, by A. A. Forness and was the property of the Davis heirs.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Beverly Farms, Mass. P. O., week ending Aug. 6, 1908: Mr Wm R Cliff, Miss Jennie Crombie, Mr J C Connolly, Mrs J B Donnelly, Dr J B Donnelly, Mr Francis Durgan, Heirs Henry Dodge, Mrs Edw Ladd, Mrs Herbert Lyman, D J Manning. Miss A McGrath, Mr E J Noble, Miss Jenny M Olsson, F H Pettis, Mr Frank Roleins, Miss Spaulding, Mr George H Stoddard, E E Ware Co.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

Passing over the names of John Locke, the eminent philosopher, and Robert South, the witty, sensible and learned divine, who graced with distinction the earlier years of the eighteenth century, the writer who next claims attention after Dryden is Joseph Addison, one of the brightest names that the age can boast. His life covered less than half a century, from 1672 to 1719, but he left a deep and lasting impress upon the world of letters; and he accomplished more than any writer of his time not only in the refinement of the language, but in the improvement of manners and the elevation of morals.

At an early age, Addison seemed destined to public life, but in 1702 a change of administration led him to turn to literature for a living; and it soon became evident that this was the proper field for his powers. He had already gained the approbation of Dryden, and had become acquainted with Lord Somers, a distinguished patron of letters. His first literary effort which brought him into public notice, and foreshadowed the career in which he was to attain such eminence, was his joint-authorship with Steele of the "Tatler," a paper which may be called the father of English periodical literature. Soon after he projected the "Spectator," the work on which his fame chiefly rests. This was a small four-page paper, issued at first daily, afterwards tri-weekly, from Mar. 1, 1710 to Dec. 20, 1714. Brief as was its existence, it marks an era in English essay writing. It was chiefly the work of the two greatest masters of English at that time, Addison and Steele, and it all passed under Addison's supervision and shaping hand. It had several rivals and imitations, but it has outlived them all, and still holds a high and unique place in literature. It resembled more the magazine than the paper of the present day, occupying itself with criticism on books, comments on fashion and manners, and attempts at character drawing and portraits of typical personages, as Sir Roger de Coverley, Will Honeycomb and others, who look out on us in such a life-like manner from the canvas. The inimitable pictures of manners and life, the keen but always kindly humor, and the comments on society and letters, with which these papers abounded, made them greatly admired and sought after,

MAGNOLIA GYMKHANA AND MOUNTED SPORTS.

Society From all Along the North Shore over to Crescent Beach for the Sports on Tuesday.

The event towards which the summer residents and hotel guests all along the North Shore have been looking forward with a great deal of interest and expectation is now a thing of the past, and but lingers in their memories as a most pleasant and enjoyable exhibition. Over two thousand spectators witnessed the gymkhana races and tournament of mounted sports at Magnolia Beach, Tuesday afternoon, filling the boxes and reserved seats on the pavilion and overflowing onto the beach itself. Carriages and automobiles by the score crowded the space at the rear of the pavilion and on the beach, where they lined up along the course. Rocking on the waters of the harbor off the beach were numerous pleasure craft with their merry parties of young and old, while in the lee of the island was the large steam yacht of Judge Moore, of the Pride's summer colony, the "Zinganee."

OFFICER MARTIN BURKE
Magnolia's Guardian of the Peace. A familiar figure to Summer visitors to Magnolia for the past 20 years.

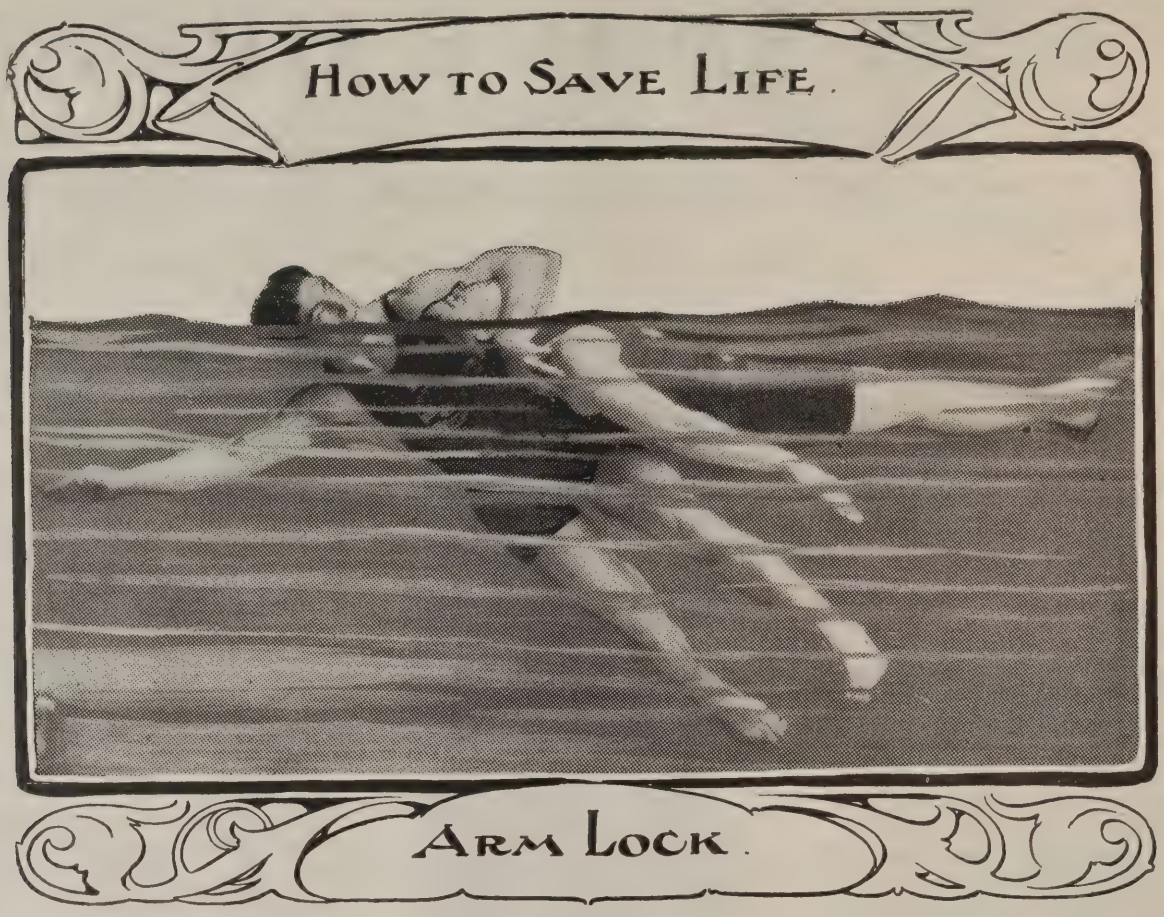

The quarter of a mile stretch of hard smooth sand formed an excellent course for the events with its setting of many colored gowns of the ladies ever changing as they moved back and forth. Shortly after three the events were started. The most interesting of them all was the gymkhana race for gentlemen and a great deal of excitement and enthusiasm centered on the result.

From the very start the race lay with George P. Bell of Boston and he was constantly cheered on his course by the throng of spectators. Charles E. Scullin of St. Louis, who is spending the summer at the Masconomo, in Manchester, won second place, hard pressed by George Crocker, jr. In this event the contestants started from the one-eighth mile start and raced to the finish, where they dismounted and drank a bottle of ginger ale. They then rode back to the start removed their coats, turned them inside out and dashed back to the finish. No little amusement was aroused by the antics of George Crocker's pony, which excited by the race, refused at first to approach the table, on which were the bottles of ginger ale, and danced about the outskirts of the little band of riders for a minute or two making Crocker the last to ride to the starting point. The contestants in this event were: George Crocker, jr., riding Capt. F. de Jony's Jimmy; James Frieland riding Gipsy belonging to Miss Regina Jones; George P. Bell on Capt. de Jony's Tarentella; Charles Scullin riding Starlight, another of Capt. de Jony's horses; Fred Hicks riding Alywyn, belonging to Arthur Mason. The first event of the day was the ladies' riding tandem and was won by Miss F. Martin riding the chestnut, Melton, and driving the dark bay, Princess owned by F. O. Emerson. Miss Theresa Fitzpatrick the only other contestant won second cup. Miss Fitzpatrick rode and drove two of Capt. de Jony's horses Tarentella and Starlight.

Following this event came the exhibition of High School riding by Capt. F. de Jony on Mrs. B. B. Hale's beautiful dappled gray, Conceit, and was received with rounds of applause. The flowing tail and arched neck of the horse and the excellent equestrianship of the rider made a very striking picture against the background of the water.

Bandi de Jony, riding his pony Star,

LIFE SAVING AND HOW TO DO IT.

BY PROF. JOHN F. CONROY.

Since I have been teaching swimming in all its forms at Singing Beach, Manchester, a great many persons hearing that I have received a medal from the Congress of the United States for the many lives that I saved while a lifeguard employed by the city of Boston, have been beseeching me with inquiries as to the best method to rescue a drowning person and to bring same to shore.

When a swimmer knows how to approach and take hold of a drowning person there need be no fear of the much talked of "death grip." I have several different ways of taking hold of a drowning person, and if I miss one I try another.

My advice to those who are not expert swimmers is to be very careful in making a rescue. Don't be in a hurry to close in, for once a drowning person gets a hold it is difficult for even an expert swimmer to do anything.

One of the best ways to make a rescue is to approach them from behind and if they are facing you to dive and come up behind.

There are many ways to make a rescue and the one illustrated above shows the hold known as the Arm Lock and is really a difficult hold unless practiced diligently.

To rescue a person by the use of the "Arm Lock" approach as mentioned above, and reach around the head grasping the right shoulder with your left hand. The picture tells the story. Keep the chin of the drowning person against your forearm, and if a struggle is made the arm can be dropped a bit into what in wrestling is known as the "strangle" hold.

When making a rescue this way, swim on your side, pulling the rescued along on his back, as shown in the illustration.

This of course is only one method and as a closing remark I wish to say that there are books published by me, pertaining to all swimming strokes, life-saving methods, etc., and that my services can be obtained to teach, by writing or 'phoning to me at the Masconomo House, Manchester.

Last Band Concert of the Season at Manchester Next Week.

The last in the series of six band concerts in the square at Manchester will be given by the Salem Cadet band next Wednesday evening. If the weather is fair it is safe to say the largest crowd of the summer will be out. The concert this week was one of the finest presented. The electrical illumination made the Common almost as light as day and made a very pretty showing.

There was a crowd of fully 2500 people in the square and the streets near the center. Scores of carriages and automobiles lined the street on both sides throughout the evening and added to the scene.

That the concerts have grown in popular favor was evidenced from the increasing numbers who have attended each night. Members of the summer colony, too, have become interested and many have come over for the concerts. Beverly Farms, Beverly, Salem, Magnolia and Gloucester contribute their quota to the crowds, as is evidenced by the throng that are at the station waiting for trains after the concert.

Next Wednesday evening the following program will be presented:

1.	March, Honor and Glory	Fillmore
2.	Overture, Orpheus	Offenbach
3.	Selection, Merry Minstrels	Voelker
4.	Solo for Cornet, Inflammatus	Rossini
	Mr. Nelson Bernier
5.	(a) Original Patrol	Von Blou
	(b) Sextette from Lucia	Donizetti
6.	March, G. A. R.	Barnes
7.	Selection, Romeo and Juliet	Gounod
8.	Polka for Cornet and Trombone	Therese-Short
	Messrs. Bernier and Proctor
9.	Selection, Songs of All Nations	Rollinson
10.	March, Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep	Hays
	Jean Missud, Conductor

The selectmen have granted auctioneer's licences to E. P. Stanley and M. E. Gorman.

The local tribe of Red Men are planing on a dance in the Town hall on Wednesday evening Sept. 9.

Miss Mary V. Covell has returned to her home in Cambridge, after a four weeks' visit with her aunt Mrs. Henry O. Bohaker of Masconomo street.

Monday, Aug. 3, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith of New York City. Mrs. Smith was formerly Miss Grace P. Goodridge of this town.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Willmonton and Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Beaton spent the week-end at York Beach and Portsmouth, making the trip in Mr. Willmonton's Maxwell.

Dr. Robert Scott Catheron of Needham is having a fortnight's vacation, most of which he will spend with his sister, Mrs. Benj. L. Bullock, and family, School street.

During the band concert Wednesday evening step into the Town hall and purchase some ice cream, cake or candy. The fair proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Congregational church. *

F. G. Cheever and Walter R. Bell report on the benefit entertainment given in the Town hall last Friday evening by the Fritz & Curtis Co., that the total receipts amounted to $65.25. Expenses were $15.75, leaving a balance of $49.50, which was turned over to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aveney.

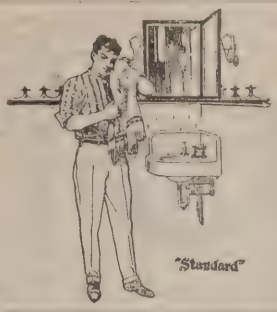

Tuck's Point is getting to be so well known as a picnicing place, and attracts so many out-of-town parties, church organizations, etc., who get the grounds through some friends in town, that it is likely some new regulations will be called for at the March meeting next spring. As it is now anybody may get the grounds, the only thing needed being a request from a certain number of voters.

Remember the Congregational church fair next Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Town hall. *

Mrs. Susan Leach of Washington street left Thursday for an extended visit with her neices, Misses Susie and Hattie Gould of Boston, at their country place in Franklin. Miss Leach is 89 years old and has never known a sick day, and has scarcely ever needed the services of a physician. Recently, however, her advanced age has been telling upon her and she has grown quite feeble. She has stored her furniture and has given up the apartments she has occupied for the past 18 or 20 years on Washington street and will live with her neices for a while, at least.

Israel Martin and family, who have lived for so many years in the house on Summer street, opposite the brick yard property, has moved with his family to Georgetown. The brickyard property was sold some months ago to F. M. Whitehouse, and others, and the buildings removed, and the grounds greatly improved. The town has recently completed building a sidewalk along by the property, and a fence has been built as far as the railroad.

Many Manchester people attended the Gymkhana sports at Magnolia beach Tuesday, and not a few were heard to pass comment on the right to charge admission to the beach, or beach bank. We might state by way of explanation that the hotels have perfect right to charge admission to the beach on such an occasion, as they hire the property from the owners and, accordingly, can do as they please with it. The beach does not belong to the town of Manchester, anymore than any other water front property belongs to the town. It is private property.

Personal Attention Given to all Work. Estimates cheerfully given.

Two events are scheduled to take place at the Manchester Yacht club next week,—the annual water sports on Tuesday and the Crowhurst Cup race on Friday. The water sports will no doubt bring together a large gathering of the North Shore people as this is usually one of the leading events of the summer at Manchester. The sports will be held at three o'clock and will include these eleven events: Walking the pole, canoe polo, tub race, swimming race, junior swimming race, mixed doubles canoe race, diving contest, invitation diving contest, canoe tilting, invitation swimming race and stunts in swimming. The competitions, with the exception of the two invitation events, are open to members of the Manchester Yacht club, their families and friends. The committee of arrangements are Charles E. Hodges, W. L. Putnam, A. C. Needham, John H. Storer and Arthur M. Merriam. The judges will be Rear-Admiral H. G. O. Colby, Wm. A. Tucker and A. Henry Higginson. Tea will be served after the sports.

The Crowhurst Cup race will be sailed at 2.15 Friday afternoon, with start off House Island. This is an open race and will probably bring together yachts from all along the shore. The first prize will be the Crowhurst Cup, offered by F. M. Whitehouse. There will also be cash prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5, respectively.

H. Henry Maxin and his wife and two children, Hamilton and Percy, are among the guests at the Hesperus. Mr. Maxin is a son of Sir Hiram P. Maxin and is the famous inventor of the noiseless gun. He returned to the Hesperus the latter part of last week after a most successful private test of his gun at Springfield with a Springfield 30, the new regulation arm. So far he has succeeded in far lowering the government requirement and he has more improvements in process of developement.

J. Hurst Purnell of Baltimore has taken apartments in the Oakes cottage, a connection of the Oceanside, where he will remain for a few days.

Miss H. W. Andrews of Yonkers, N. Y., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Chapin at the Oceanside a few days this week.

Tennis Tournament at Magnolia.

Commencing on Monday, August 17, the tennis tournament on the Oceanside courts begins and extends over a week and a half, approximately. The arrangements for the tournament are being made by Charles Penhallow, William T. Ruhl and Austin Gill. The event will, without doubt rival in interest that at the Essex County club, which is also on now.

The events in brief will be the ladies' singles and the mixed doubles beginning on Monday morning, the men's singles in the afternoon, if possible, and the men's doubles the middle of the week. The challenge rounds will be played some time the following week.

The ladies' singles and the men's singles will be played for a challenge cup,—the winner of the ladies' singles having the privilege of challenging Mrs. Jessie L. Hobbs, the present holder of the cup, and the winner in men's singles may challenge Charles S. Penhallow, the last winner. In the mixed doubles partners will be chosen by lot.

All the events will be scratch and entries, which may be made with Mr. Armington in the billiard room, close tonight at eight. The drawings will be posted Sunday at the hotel. According to the regulations, prepared by those in charge, the matches must be played on time scheduled or players will lose by default. The entries for the mixed doubles must be made separately owing to the fact that partners will be chosen by lot.

The cups for the event are handsome affairs and are now on exhibition at the hotel office.

Society Notes

This has been a gala week at Marblehead,—the gayest of the summer. In the first place it has been Corinthian Yacht club week and there have been races every day. Then, for the past few days the New York Y. C. fleet has been at Marblehead, on the occasion of it annual cruise, though all the yachts did not venture the long trip around the cape. Yesterday noon the Commodore and officers, and captains of yachts of the Eastern Yacht club entertained the visiting yachts of the New York fleet at a luncheon at the Eastern Yacht club, and last night Commodore Abbott and flag officers entertained Commodore Vanderbilt and flag officers at dinner at the club house. This Saturday evening Commodore Vanderbilt gives a dinner to Commodore Abbott and officers. Among the list of guests on this occasion we note the name of Charles E. Hodges, a member of the Regatta Committee of the Mancnester Yacht club. Marblehead harbor has been literally packed with yachts of all sizes and kinds the past few days. A fairway, lengthwise of the harbor, and about 300 feet wide, was marked off by flag buoys, and was kept open on order of the harbor master, so that boats could pass to and from their moorings on either side. Maps were sent out by the harbor master showing how crafts should be moored,---that is, steamers of 125 feet water line lenght were anchored in the outer harbor; all sailing vessels less than 53 feet were anchored in the inner harbor and all sailing vessels over 53 feet were anchored between these two positions. The sight was one long to be remembered by all who chanced to witness it. Many people from along the Manchester and Beverly shore have been taking in the various events there the past week.

Frederick Bourne, ex-Commodore of the New York Yacht club, who came to Marblehead as guest of J. Rogers Maxwell, owner of the Queen, the fastest boat in her class, in connection with the N. Y. Y. C. cruise this week, was a guest for a brief while this week of William A. Tucker at "The Moorings," Manchester.

Richard M. Fairbanks of Indianapolis, son of vice-president Fairbanks, has joined his brother Warren Fairbanks of Chicago, at the Oceanside for a few weeks.

Capt. Lawrence H. Armour and Miss Armour of the well known Kansas City Armours were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith, also of Kansas City on Tuesday, when they enjoyed the sports at Magnolia Beach.

Cyric F. Peck and G. Sperra, both of New York are also among the new comers at the Hesperus this week where they will remain for a couple of weeks. Other arrivals of the week of more or less prominence are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Simmons and their daughter, Miss Ethel Simmons, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Ditmas, Miss E. L. Ditmas and Miss C. Ditmas, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Among the recent arrivals of the week at the Hesperus were Mr. and Mrs. R. Henry Depew of Plainfield, N. J., accompanied by their sons Richard H. Depew, jr., and John Dayton Depew, Mrs. A. D. Dayton and Miss Vail, all of Plainfield. Mr. Depew is a prominent insurance broker of New York and well known in business circles.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Stearns, Miss Stearns and L. B. Evans all of Augusta, Ga., have taken apartments at the Oakes cottage, one of the connections of the Hesperus hotel, where they will remain during the coming week. Mr. Stearns is vice-president of the Augusta Country club and is very well known socially and financially about that city.

The Rev. Charles Henry Babcock, a prominent preacher of New York, has taken apartments at the Oceanside for the balance of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Prentiss Baldwin of Cleveland are recent arrivals at the Oceanside. Mrs. Baldwin is a sister of the late U. S. Senator Mark Hanna.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Sibley and their son John R. Sibley of Rochester, N. Y., motored to Magnolia early in the week and took apartment in the Oceanside hotel. The Sibleys are among the wealthiest residents of Rochester and are very prominent socially. This is the second season that the Sibleys have come to Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Blankley of Brooklyn, N. Y., and their daughters, Miss Blankley and Miss Jessie W. Blankley have taken apartments at the Oceanside for the balance of the season.

Charles H. Pepper, a prominent artist of Concord, Mass., was also among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside.

Miss Helen Morton of St. Louis was the guest for a few days of the Misses Elliot at the Oceanside where the Elliots are spending the summer in the Sea Vista cottage. Miss Morton has returned to St. Louis where she will join her mother and sister in a trip around the world. Miss Bessie Elliot accompanied Miss Morton on her arrival at the Oceanside and will remain with her parents and sisters for the balance of the summer.

Attention of members of the Manchester Yacht club and those intending to enter the various events at the water sports next Tuesday is called to the slight change in the printed notice sent out Thursday. In the canoe polo event, instead of reading "teams of three canoes each," it should read "teams of four canoes each." Much interest is being taken in the sports this year, evidently, as many entries have already been received for the various events.

Swept by the cool breezes from the water and overlooking the artistically laid out lawns of the North Shore Grill, Huyler's branch store in the Colonnade, Magnolia, is one of the most attractive and popular spots along the North Shore. Particularly has it grown in favor with the many auto parties that motor through Magnolia as a resting place and one were cooling refreshments may be had after a long and dusty ride. Contrary to the expections of many the prices here are not raised to an abnormal sum but are retained at the same standard as those in their Boston and New York establishments. It was a brilliant gathering of young people that sat on the rocks in front of the beautiful residence of Mrs. James McMillan at Eaglehead, Manchester, last Saturday afternoon and enjoyed the clambake given for the members of Mrs. C. A. Munn's house party, which included Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt, jr., daughter and son of the president, and Miss Martha Bacon, daughter of Secretary Bacon, and Miss Josephine Osborn of Garretson-on-Hudson. There were about forty-five young people present, selected from the North Shore younger set. The rocks at Eaglehead offer a most charming spot for such an affair, and on that afternoon the waves were just heavy enough to wash in onto the rough shore and its monotonous tones added charm to the fascinating surroundings.

Miss Roosevelt and brother and the other members of Mrs. Munn's house party left Wednesday, Miss Roosevelt and her brother going directly to Oyster Bay, and Miss Bacon went with them for a short visit. On Tuesday the young people were guests on board the Savarona, the beautiful large yacht owned by C. Howard Clark, jr., of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Harrison Caner has her sister, Miss Colket of Philadelphia with her at Manchester for a short visit.

Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., has as her house guests at West Manchester for a few days, Mrs. Pruyn Harrison and Mrs. Robert Creswell, jr., of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Evans of the Beverly Cove colony have been spending the past week on an auto trip to the White Mountains, where they are stopping at Bretton Woods.

Hobart Moore paid a visit to the North Shore over the week-end, and was a guest of his brother, Judge W. H. Moore at Pride's Crossing. Mr. Moore is one of the Rock Island system multi-millionaires, generally referred to as the Big Four,—the Moore brothers, William B. Leeds, who died recently in Paris, and D. G. Reed. Mr. Hobart Moore has equally as fine a show stable at his beautiful country estate just outside Chicago, as his brother, and has captured many a blue ribbon at the national shows at Madison Garden.

Mrs. Augustus Weil and daughter are visiting Mr. A. Shuman, the merchant prince, at his beautiful summer home, Hetmere, at Beverly Cove. They come from New York. Mr. and Mrs. John Philips spent the week-end with Mr. Shuman.

MISS ANNE ABBOTT

LIBRARY BUILDING, MAGNOLIA

Mrs. Tyler Morse is convalescent at the cottage which the Morses are occupying this summer at Beverly Cove, and has quite recovered from an operation for appendicitis which was performed at her summer home ten days ago. Mr. Morse's show dogs are among the finest in the country, and a pretty picture they presented the other day as they ran down the avenue following Mr. Morse's carriage.

Lucius B. Swift of Indianapolis has been spending a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dana, at Manchester, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Eddy of Chicago, who have been at Dublin, N. H., the past few weeks, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Beveridge, and Senator Beveridge, at Manchester.

The annual tennis tournaments of the Essex County club will begin Monday. The tournaments will consist of ladies' singles and mixed doubles.

Robert C. Hooper.

The death of Robert C. Hooper at West Manchester, about 7 o'clock Thursday evening, removes another valuable member of the North Shore summer colony, and a man long prominent in the business, social and club life of Boston. He had been ill for several weeks, following an operation about three weeks ago.

Mr. Hooper was one of the most prominent members of the Manchester summer colony, and had one of the finest summer homes on our shore.

Mr. Hooper was a native of Dorchester where he was born in 1849. He received his education at St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., and later entered Harvard. Returning from a trip around the world, he entered upon the duties of caring for the family estates. For twelve years he was treasurer of the Constitution Wharf Company.

He was appointed as a prison commissioner by Governor Ames in 1887 and 1889. He resigned and was asked by Governor Russell to take a reappointment, but declined on account of business. He was treasurer of the Soldiers Field fund of Harvard, and through his personal efforts raised $47,000.

Mr. Hooper was one of the original promoters of steeplechasing in this country. He was the donor of the Dukes Cup, named in honor of the Duke of Abecorn, a celebrated horse. The cup is raced for annually at The Country Club. On several occasions Mr. Hooper was the winner of the grand national steeplechase. Mr. Hooper's famous hunter, Land of Clover, was killed by an automobile at Manchester last summer.

Mr. Hooper was a member of the Somerset, Exchange, The Country, Essex County and Eastern Yacht Clubs. His wife, who was Helen A. Ames, daughter of the late Frederick L. Ames, died two years ago. He is survived by a daughter, Miss Helen Hooper.

Funeral Sunday, Aug. 16, at 12 m. from his late residence. Special train from North Station at 11 a. m., stopping at Lynn at 11.15. Returning from West Manchester at 1.15 p. m. Friends are requested not to send flowers. Burial private.

WATER PAGEANT AT MANCHESTER

And Parade of Illuminated Boats a Very Successful Affair. Beautiful Display of Fireworks

The annual water pageant and harbor illumination, and parade of decorated boats in Manchester Monday evening was a most gratifying success from every point of view. It was a delightful evening. There was no breeze to interfere with the hundreds upon hundreds of Japanese lanterns used in the decoration, and there was hardly a ripple on the water. The sky was fair and the light from the full moon added its part to the beauty of the occasion. More boats were in line than for a great many years, —15 boats in all.

MANCHESTER YACHT CLUB

The fireworks display, following the boat parade, was a very pretty spectacle and brought the evening to a most delightful close.

The parade was started a few minutes after eight, on schedule time, Charles E. Hodges and William L. Putnam having this in charge. There were fifteen contestants in the line, and by rare coincidence the line was headed by a float representing a primitive Indian scene, common in the early days of Manchester, no doubt, and was called "Masconomo," while the last boat in the line was Judge Moore's elegantly furnished steam yacht, one of the best for comfort and pleasure that modern ingenuity and money can provide.

The line passed slowly down the harbor, past the town pier and yacht club, out into the harbor, to and around C. Howard Clark, jr's., magnificent steam yacht, the Savarona, which was aglow from stem to stern with vari-colored electric lights and Japanese lanterns. The yacht, itself, while it did not leave its moorings, off West Manchester, presented a most striking spectacle from the shore. Returning back to the harbor again the line passed slowly by the club house and lingered a while in the river way, while those aboard took in the fireworks display.

The judges were Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and Mrs. Francis W. Fabyan. They were stationed on the Manchester Yacht club piazza. They awarded the prizes as follows:

1st, Fenton Co. float, $35; 2d, Windmill. R. and N. Wigglesworth, $25; 3d, Japanese Tea garden, E. P. Stantey, $20; 4th, Mephistopheles, Forster Tenney, $15; 5th Airship, William Craig, $10; 6th, Masconomo, Donald Mitchell, $5. The following were awarded "honorable mention:" The Moth, John H. Storer, jr.; Large Pond Lily, Charles Lovegreen; Whale, George and Arthnr Washburn; Pyramid of Red Lanterns, Roger Putnam.

Others in the line were: decorated canoe, and the sailboat "Moslem," owned by C. Howard Clark, jr., with letter "M," outlined on the latter; Flower Basket, C. R. and R. S. Codman, jr.; Pond Lily, S. Parker Bremer; Judge Moore's steam yacht, "Zinganee."

While the pageant was arranged under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club, it was by no means confined to club members, but the invitation to join in the carnival was extended to all.

At nine o'clock the signal to illuminate the shore was sounded. Among the most beautiful decorations were those at the E. C. Fitch estate. The pier and landing were aglow with Japanese lanterns, aud presented a very pretty sight. Other places having decorations were Charles A. Read, J. H. Storer, S. P. Bremer, A. I. Croll, W. A. Tucker, E. S. Grew, Gordon Abbott, E. D. Jordan and others.

MASCONOMO

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Doane of St. Louis, were among the early arrivals this week at the Masconomo where they will remain for the rest of the summer.

Mrs. L. K. Storrs of Brookline was among the early arrivals this week at the Masconomo, where she will remain for the balance of August and into September.

Mr. and Mrs. Dasheimer, Hugo Dasheimer and Miss Clara Hoffman, of Baltimore, Md., have taken apartments at the Masconomo for the balance of the season.

Max Littwitz and his brother, C. L. Littwitz, of New York, accompanied by A. Ailringer of the same city have taken up their quarters at the Masconomo for the balance of the season. The young men came here from the Hesperus where they spent a few days.

William R. Blair, jr., of Pittsburg, together with Rev. J. F. Maher and R. V. Riley of Stockbridge, Mass., and P. R. Buckley of Hartford, have taken apartments at the Mascomono for the balance of the season.

Miss Ley and Miss Martha Ley, of Springfield, are among the recent names enrolled on the Masconomo register.

Among the many auto parties that motored along the Shore this week a goodly number stopped at the Masconomo for luncheon and dinner. Thursday was a particularly gala day at this hostelry and several large parties made it their stopping place. Among the guests registered there on that day were: Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Slayton and Mrs. James D. Evans, of Manchester, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Sharpe and Mrs. L. Allan of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Otis H. Cutler, W. F. Cutler, R. J. Davidson, jr., J. S. Coffin, jr., Dorothy Cutler and Bert Vaughn, of Suffern, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Coffin and Floyd Coffin, of Franklin, Pa., and R. J. Davidson of Hillsburn, N. Y., and John H. Evans of Swampscott.

Other arrivals of the week at the Masconomo were: F. E. Mansfield of Prescott, Ariz.; Mrs. Charles B. Roberts of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pike of New Haven; Mrs. Edwards of New York; and Mr. and Mrs. V. Goldthwaite of Wellesley.

PROGRESS WITH THE MEN'S CLUBHOUSE AT MAGNOLIA

By J. F. Libby

The plan for a Men's Clubhouse as outlined in the Breeze last week has met with approval in every quarter. Summer residents, chauffeurs and village people are united in this. The members of the present men's club are discussing it with enthusiasm and if their positions were assured with their present employers no more generous subscribers in proportion to their means would be found than they. The village people anticipate the advent of a bowling alley with keen relish as they think of the long quiet winter, when they could use it.

The Magnolia Protection and Improvement Society at its annual meeting on Thursday evening endorsed the idea unanimously in the following resolution: "Resolved, That the Magnolia Protection and Improvement Society gives its hearty approval to the general idea of a Men's clubhouse for Magnolia."

The selection of the lot, on the other hand, is less happy, the main objection made being the expense. Others would like to see Miss Stearns's idea carried out and a park created out of the lot in question.

It is probable that we shall be able to announce next week the choice of a lot that from all points of view will be better for our purpose.

Only one criticism of the plan has thus far developed. It is the fear that "when the present pastor of the Village church shall leave Magnolia, this clubhouse will go to pieces." It sounds egotistical to repeat this objection but it has been honestly made and must be met frankly.

The fact has been demonstrated many, many times that no man is essential to a good cause. If the cause be a bad one, it will require the constant attention of its promoter and will eventually perish ignominiously in spite of him. But if it be good, the man who works for it is quite incidental to its success.

Now, I believe the facts warrant the assertion without qualification that the general plan for a Men's clubhouse is good in the broadest sense of the word. It is not only morally good but it is based on real needs and meets a demand. It will survive as long as these needs are felt. The Women's clubhouse is become a permanent institution not simply because it is excellently administered and all contingencies provided for in the organization, but because it is already indispensable.

Similarly the Men's clubhouse will live and thrive when we shall be dead and buried because it too will be found to be indispensable.

It will be organized to endure like any corporation along the lines of the Women's Clubhouse Assaciation. The subscribers will be stockholders in the corporation. The stockholders will elect directors. The directors will choose a manager who will administer the affairs of the club and choose his subordinates exactly as the matron of the Women's club does. Once the club has run a season, its grooves will be established and a little discretion on the part of the directors in the choice of a fairly competent manager will be their only duty. Any of the men we have had for managers during the past four summers would be amply able to administer the affairs of such a clubhouse.

It will be seen that the pastor of the Village church is by no means necessary to the success of the institution. If he happens to be good for anything, he may be a director. If not—a catastrophe which God forbid!—the club will exist and flourish without him.

The clubhouse journal contains the following entries to date. These, it will be noticed, represent not merely verbal approbation but approbation crystalized, which is the kind of approbation that builds clubhouses: August 3rd. Mrs. Wm. McMillan of St. Louis started the subscription with a pledge of $1000, of which $500 is payable as soon as success is assured and $500 on or before August 1, 1909.

August 10th. Miss Elizabeth Houghton of Boston subscribed $500 payable this year. "We will see about next year when next year comes."

Augusr 11th. Mr. James S. Lee of Boston, who was architect of the Women's clubhouse agreed to draw the plans for the Men's clubhouse free of charge on his return from Europe the first of November.

August 12th. D. C. Ballou & Co. agreed to do the general contracting at cost.

August 13th. The Improvement Society endorsed the idea of the clubhouse unanimously, which is worth many dollars because of the influence of the society.

Thus substantial progress has been made. Next week more people will be seen. It would be wonderfully stimulating to receive subscriptions unsolicited but this is, I suppose, hardly to be expected.

In any case, unless exceptional circumstances exist, subscriptions should be made now. A dollar now is worth a dollar and a quarter. You will help a great deal if you do not delay with the assistance you mean to give. Make it as generous as you can to make up for the ungenerous. You always have suffered for others' shortcomings and you always will. So please "do it now!"

Concert at Hesperus Hotel.

On Tuesday evening, August 18, Ralph Smalley, a member of the Boston Symphony orchestra and the leader of the Hesperus orchestra will give a concert in the hotel parlors and has secured many attractions for the evening. The program will be in substance vocal selections by Miss Jeanette Trecartin, a Boston soprano of no little note and the Temple Male Quartet of Boston. Mr. Smalley and Mr. Fiedler, both of the Boston Symphony, will render attractive instrumental solos on the 'cello and violin.

The patronesses will be prominent ladies of Magnolia and are: Mrs. E. W. Smith, Mrs. A. C. Wilkins, Mrs. G. H. Nettleton, Mrs. F. K. Rehn, Mrs. William T. Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Michels, Mlle. de San Marzano, Mrs. M. E. Hobart, Mrs. E. J. Allen, Mrs. J. D. Griffith, Mrs. J. H. Briscoe, and Mrs. A. Waycott. A small subscription of one dollar will be requested and tickets may be obtained at the hotel office.

The Dennis Magnetic Institute

For he possesses a Magnetic Power to cure Diseases not equalled by anyone.

There is no treatment in the World that resembles in any way the famous Dennis system of treatment. It can best be likened to the old-time method of the laying on of hands, but s better called the curing of disease iby the application of the mighty natural forces of Vital Magnetism. After he form of ailment is located the magnetism is transferred by way of the nerves leading to the diseased centres and the force of Vital Magnetism is so great that it seems to draw the disease out of the system. In many cases cures of obstinate diseases of long standing have been made in one treatment, in other cases it takes several. While the cure is being made the magnetism is thoroughlp building up the system.

IT must be of interest to the older residents of Manchester in looking over the list of assessed polls recently posted about town by the assessors, in which is given besides the name of the assessed poll, a description of property, age, occupation and residence last year, to notice how Manchester has changed in the last half century. Fifty years ago the class of working men were quite different in their occupations than those of today. For instance: There are now listed in the list of assessed polls, 2 furniture makers; 3 cabinet makers; 96 gardeners; 63 carpenters, etc. Quite the reverse of fifty years ago, when there were probably no gardeners, and but a small number who devoted their time to carpentry. In its blamy days as a furniture and cabinet making locality Manchester had several hundred men engaged in cabinet and furniture making. In fact, according to Lamson's History of Manchester there were, in 1837, twelve manufactories of chairs and cabinet ware in the town, employing 120 men. In 1865 the cabinet making business gave employment to 160 men. The figures given above lends emphasis to Mr. Lamson's words that "the cabinet-making industry is fast becoming a men ory, but it is a memory worth embalming."

Other facts gleaned from the assessed polls list show that there are in the town as assessed polls 27 painters, 9 chauffeurs, 15 coachmen, 11 fishermen, 7 bankers, 4 brokers, 45 "retired," etc. Others living here, but unassessed here, would greatly swell some of the figures, especially chauffeurs, gardeners, bankers, brokers, etc., brought here by the summer visitors.

THE Saxon authorities have discovered what would seem to be an excellent method to put an end to the gypsy moth plague which is having such disastrous effects on the North Shore.

They have discovered a method to catch the moths that lay the eggs from which the caterpillars came in enormous quantities. They make use of what they call the electric light trap.

This consists of two large powerful reflectors placed over a deep receptacle, and power exhaust fans. The whole has been erected on top of the municipal electric plant.

At night two great streams of light are thrown from the reflectors on the wooded mountainside, half a mile distant. The results have been astonishing. The moths, drawn by the brilliancy, come fluttering in thousands along the broad rays of light.

When they get to a certain distance from the reflector, the exhaust fans take up their work, and with powerful currents of air, swirl them down into the receptacle.

On the first night no less than 23 tons of moths were caught. The forests of central Europe have from time to time been ravaged by raids of moths from Russia, whose larvae denude the trees of their foliage.

The splendid pines of the Lausiz Mountains are this year threatened with destruction.

ECHOES.

(C. A. BARTOL.)

We say, "He is all afloat."
A good condition for man or boat.

Our conscience is designed for private use,
And not for other's criticism or abuse.

Little vexations come to every man;
They gall us more than greater sorrows can,
Lay waste our joys and turn lifes boon to ban.

A man may take the road that's wrong,
And far afield may stroll;
Yet by a circuit wide or long
May reach at length the goal.

Hope, leaning on an anchor-fluke,
Fails as an emblem and will bear rebuke;
A better thought, meseems, would Hope display—
Eager to hoist the anchor and away!

For merest trifles men have fought and bled.
I will not leave my dinner or my bed
To chase the boy who steals my grapes
Or runs across my shed.
Nor can I well consume my strength
In arguing triffling questions at great length.

A farmer in a Cape Ann village,
To gain a few acres of tillage,
Felled each pine tree
That girdled his land from the sea,
And found—too late—at length,
That the zone of grace was a belt of strength.
The winds and the waves in their fury and hate
Drove the sand to bury his whole estate.

—Joseph A. Torrey.

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 12, 1908.
Editor North Shore Breeze:

Dear Sir:—Possibly you may have noticed, as I did, with others who spoke to me about it, that the darkness which was very apparent both on the grounds at Tuck's Point and at the Pier there on last Monday evening when the harbor illumination took place, was not at all in keeping with the program.

An opportunity, it seems to me, was lost, at least to add a bit of color to a successful carnival by having one or more rows of Japanese lanterns strung along the pier and also outlining in the same manner the picnic house. Why! even a pilot light was not seen on the landing float.

Minor details these, but certainly should be thought of when a grand harbor illumination is planned for and the town officially should receive some credit for the part it takes in such matters.

In all summer events or celebrations co-operation of town folk and shore residents will bring about a greater measure of success in many ways to benefit us all in the long run.

I fear that this co-operation is lacking; sometimes it certainly seems so, just why, I do not know. Let us, one and all, with a long and strong pull together try to make Manchester-by-the-Sea shine as the very pearl of the North Shore.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The contract for building a bungalow on the Dodge estate, Old Neck, Manchester, for Mrs. C. A. Munn, has been awarded to Roberts & Hoare. The bungalow will be 25x50 feet, and will be equipped with all modern conveniences, baths, etc. Roberts & Hoare also have the contract for building Mr. Mulvey's house, corner Vine and Lincoln streets. Work on W. R. Bell's new house on Vine street, which is being built by this concern, is now well along toward completion.

Judge W. H. Moore is to build a large stable in the rear of his exercising track at Pride's Crossing and the contract for clearing the land, excavating and building foundations, in this connection, has been awarded to Connolly Bros. The contract for carpenter work on the new stable has been awarded to J. Albert Mayberry. Mr. Mayberry has considerable other work in hand at the present time, including the building of a piggery and a hennery on the Quincy A. Shaw, 2d, estate at Beverly Farms.

Howard A. Doane has been awarded the contract for extensive improvements and alterations upon the Q. A. Shaw, 2d, stable at Beverly Farms.

Gordon Dexter is having a conservatory built on the south side of his summer home at Pride's and has given the contract to Howard A. Doane.

Ground was broken yesterday by Daniel Gilmartin, the contractor, for the cellar and foundations for the new cottage house of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Day, on Vine street, Beverly Farms, which is to be built on the lot next to the new residence of Mrs. Abbie Marshall.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

No wonder hotel men and others say the automobile is raising ructions with their business! People keep their city homes open all summer and take a run of a day or so off to some hotel by the seashore or to the mountains, and return to their homes again. We have all noticed autos passing down the North Shore laden down with trunks, bags, and bundles of various shapes and sizes, which meant that somebody had picked up and gone on a few days outing. But to cap the climax a big auto came down through Manchester the other day with half a dozen piled into it, varying in ages from infant to grandmother. Two leather trunks were fastened on behind; two suits cases were fastened on one side, and one on the other, and on top was fastened a baby carriage. No wonder they say the auto is raising the deuce with resort business!

* * * *

And speaking of autos! It makes us think of bicycles. It wasn't but a few years ago when bicycles passed up and down the North Shore as thick as autos do now. It wasn't more than a dozen years ago that we would stand and look at one of these bicycles carrying four persons; but yet so uncommon are these vehicles now-a-days that when one stopped in the square at Manchester one day last week a dozen or more people gathered around it as if it were a curiosity.

* * * *

Distance rides on bicycles are getting to be a thing of the past, too. Yet Manchester has one who has never given up the fad in George Woodbury, janitor at the railroad station. Hardly a Sunday passes that George does not take a 30 to 40 mile jog. Last Sunday Revere Beach was his objective point.

Misses Ruth and Alice Blaisdell are in Haverhill for a short visit.

A son to Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, Forest street, Sunday, August 9.

Miss Josie Rand of Portsmouth is visiting her brother, Station Agent F. C. Rand and Mrs. Rand, Union street.

Wm. R. Tucker, who was elected city messenger of Beverly Thursday night is a native of Manchester. He was born here in 1870.

Miss Nellie Guinnivan, book-keeper at Samuel Knight & Sons is having a two weeks' vacation, which she is spending in New Hampshire.

Miss Alice M. Oakes and Howard Oakes of Beverly were guests of their cousin, W. W. Joseph, and Mrs. Joseph, the middle of this week.

John S. Miller, a life long and well known resident of Lynn, a carpenter by trade, died a few days ago in Lynn. He was a native of Manchester, being born here on Nov. 4, 1839.

The W. R. C. picnic at Tuck's Point, Wednesday, was a very enjoyable affair. It was well attended. E. P. Stanley had his launch at the point and many had the pleasure of a trip down the harbor.

Miss Ethel Hooper is taking a few weeks' outing with friends at Roland Park, Moultonville, N. H., one of the beauty spots in the Granite State, before returning to her school work at Oyster Bay in early September for another year.

Percy A. Lane is coming on from New York today for a vacation trip which will extend into late September. Next week, with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lane, his parents, and Miss Annie Lane, he goes to Bethlehem, N. H., for a few weeks' stay.

Thomas Jack who has been employed as caretaker at Highwood, the William B. Walker estate, for the past five years has concluded his services there.

Mr. Radlo, the tailor, in the Morse block, Beach street, has been unable to attend to his accustomed duties of late, as the result of injuries received by being struck by an automobile in Boston.

Chairman F. J. Merrill of the Water Board, James Hoare, Engineer R. C. Allen, and O. T. Roberts who accompanied the board, for the trip, returned from their visit to New York and Philadelphia Wednesday. They visited several gas producing plants on the trip, at Brooklyn, and other points, and were very much taken with this mode of power. In every case they found that this sort of plant had been working very satisfactorily and very economically. It is very likely that this sort of plant will be installed in connection with Manchester's additional water supply.

Motor Boat Owners.

Despite the regulations made by the board of health there are still many motor boats passing in and out of Manchester harbor that have not been equipped with under-water mufflers. The BREEZE is authorized to offer in behalf of several members of the summer colony to any owners of motor boats, fishermen, or others, who cannot afford to equip their boats in accordance with the regulations, the cost of equipping their boats with same. And any who will apply to this office will have a muffler furnished them. The continual "muttering" of some boats passing in and out the harbor at all hours of the night and early morning must be trying to those who live near the water. Fishermen ought to be willing to accept an offer of this sort.

N. S. Horticultural Society.

An invitation has been extended to the members of the North Shore Horticultural society and wives, to pay a visit to Cedar Acres, the gladioli farm of B. Hammond Tracy, at Wenham, next Tuesday, Aug. 18, from 2 to 4 o'clock. The train leaving Manchester at 1.34 for Beverly would make good connections with train for Wenham. Barges will be at the train to meet those who come.

Dea. T. B. Stone is spending a few days in Salem visiting his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Dole and a party of friends spent Tuesday at Hampton Beach.

Misses Helen and Charlotte Mason spent Sunday in South Hamilton with Mrs. E. S. Vennard.

Miss Mabel Moses of Utica, N. Y., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. D. O'Sullivan and Mr. Sullivan, Lincoln street, for the rest of the summer.

Two afternoons and evenings, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, the Fair of the Congregational church will be held at Town hall. Come and help us out in our endeavor.

The picnic house at Tuck's Point has been engaged for next Thursday by Mrs. Charles O. Howe who will spend the day there with some thirty invited guests. A chowder dinner will be a feature of the day.

The assessors are putting in some hard work on preparing the tax levy for this year and they hope to be able to announce the tax rate within a week or ten days, at the most. The rate will probably be around the $10 mark.

The Hold-up and Robbery at Magnolia.

For the first time in all the years it has been a summer resort, Magnolia was the scene of violence and robbery on Monday evening. Mrs. W. T. Cornell, a guest at the Oceanside, while taking a short walk before dinner was shot from behind as she was returning from the Chasm at a quarter after six, and robbed of her watch, valuable not only from its intrinsic value, but for the associations connected with it, and some $12 in money. The robber also attempted to remove her rings, but was unable to do so, and before he could resort to further violence was frightened away.

After the departure of the desperado, Mrs. Cornell started for the hotel and as she left the path leading to the Chasm and came out upon the road, two ladies who were driving, saw her condition and drove her to the hotel. Dr. Henry S. Warren, the resident physician, attended her and pronounced her wound as not being at all serious, but before he probed for the bullet he sent for Dr. William Brooks of Boston who arrived at the hotel a little before eleven, and finally located the bullet. The missle had not penetrated deeply and had made merely a flesh wound.

Searching parties were at once organized and automobile parties and a number of men on foot assisted the police of Gloucester in scouring the woods. The search was kept up until early in the morning but no trace of the perpetrator of the deed was found. Mrs. Cornell got a very good view of the man and described him as being tall and slim, of medium complexion, wearing a dark brown suit, a cap and white sneakers. In addition to the description of Mrs. Cornell, Harry Coutler and Joseph Collins who were out riding that evening saw a man answering in every way this description running towards Gloucester just after the shooting and recognized him as Charles Caig, a Gloucester man of ill repute. Several others also saw the man and all agreed in the minutest detail on the description first given. The hunted man was last heard of at Newburyport, where he was seen riding on a freight car, and the police of that city are now making every endeavor for his apprehension.

With the exception of a nervous shake up, Mrs. Cornell is now practically herself again and is in but little pain from her wound. Many of the cottagers and hotel guests were needlessly alarmed by the affair, but the chances are that such a thing will not occur again at Magnolia for many years to come. Indeed Magnolia has the reputation of being one of the safest and quietest resorts on the coast. Not even a stary tramp is seen on the North Shore.

as many as twenty thousand copies of a number being sometimes sold in a single day; the little unpretentious sheet travelled all over England and was read by almost all classes except the lowest. Its influence upon English literature and social life can hardly be overestimated. Its range of subjects and of appropriate treatment was from Fencing and the Use of a Fan, the Dissection of a Beau's Head and a Coquette's Heart, to Criticisms on Language, Ancient and Modern Literature, on old English Ballads, on Genius, on Paradise Lost, lofty and solemn meditations on the Omnipresence of Deity, and thoughts suggested among the tombs of England's greatness in Westminister.

The papers on Milton, running through nineteen numbers every Saturday, first called attention on any large scale, to Paradise Lost, and are still recognized as masterly and critical comments on that great epic. But that which gave the "Spectator" its greatest popularity and remains its chief attraction, is the picture of Sir Roger de Coverley, the quaint and genial old country squire, his household and his times. These pictures have all the fidelity of a photograph to the manners and customs of the age, with all the charm of free-hand drawing and coloring from nature itself. They are inimitable in their portraits of character, and a model of clear, flowing, graceful English not to be surpassed. They will remain a monument to Addison's refined and delicate humor, and command of literary style, while the language lasts. These papers, thirty-five in all of which all but twelve are by Addison himself, fully justify Johnson's remark based on a critical view of all of his works, "Whoever wishes to attain an English style, familiar but not coarse, and elegant but not ostentatious, must give his days and nights to the volumes of Addison."

The perfection of Addison's skill and power are seen in his prose; he does not rise to great heights as a poet, although there is lively imagery and strong painting and a passionate love of freedom in some of his pieces, as in the "Lines written at the Tomb of Virgil." Some of his Paraphrases of the Psalms have lived and are still admired, especially, "The Lord my pasture shall prepare," and "The Spacious Firmament on high," which are not wanting in fine taste and smoothness of versification, though not showing much originality or power.

As a philosoper, Addison has not a high rank, nor did he claim to cultivate or teach philosophy at all. Scholasticism had in his time passed from the sphere of living thought. Addison is no metaphician of the Butler and Chillingworth school, but there is a mildly philosophical air in his amiable lectures on arts and morals, and such philosophy as he had adopted from Locke, the philosopher of common sense, and this was all the philosophy that the age cared for.

Addison's late marriage, in 1716, to the Countess Dowager of Warwick, did not add to his happiness; she was unfortunately much his inferior, except in wealth and station. He passed gently to his rest, June 17, 1719. His last words, spoken to his son-in-law, Lord Warwick, an amiable but dissipated young nobleman, were characteristic of the gentle spirit, "See in what peace a Christian can die." So passed from earth one of the purest, most humane, kindliest souls that ever adorned the ranks of English letters.

In brief, the following might pass for Addison's Epitaph:

A writer of great taste and correctness;
The Prince of English essayists;
The first to awaken the British public to the beauty and sublimity of Paradise Lost;
In the Coverley papers presenting a charming picture of his age;
He elevated the language and shamed the dulness and vulgarity of his time;
Unconsciously he wrote his name high on the tablet of Fame.

won the Shetland pony race, closely followed by George Potter on F. O. Emerson's pony Dodo. The other contestants were: Thomas Barrett, on Gypsy owned by Bandi de Jony; John Hickey on Phoebe, owned by F. O. Emerson; and James Frieland, on Blue Bell, owned by J. Tower. A feature of this event was the appearance of a little black fool with a teddy bear on its back, which came galloping down the beach at the side of its mother, Gypsy.

The one-quarter of a mile flat race, open to all, also attracted considerable attention. This was entered into by the professional riders. The first prizes for this race were one of the two sets of cash prizes offered and were: first prize $35.00, second prize $15.00. The first prize was won by Alywyn, owned and ridden by Arthur Mason; Nine O' Hearts, ridden by B. Tuckerman, and owned by J. B. Shilliday won second place. The other contestants were High Flyer, ridden by Charles Simms, and owned by D. B. Wentz; Jamasine, owned and ridden by George G. Potter; Gallante, ridden by J. Runy, and owned by George G. Potter; Kingsboro, ridden by G. Clement, and owned by J. Clement; Cornstalk ridden by Fred Hicks and owned by J. D. Linehan; and Glendale, owned and ridden by George Chipchase (post entry.)

The quarter of a mile race for ladies was won by Miss Theresa Fitzpatrick on Sweet Briar owned by Harry Coulter. Miss Martin the only other contestant rode J. B. Shilliday's Nine O' Hearts.

The gymkhana race for children caused universal amusement not only among the children themselves, but among the spectators as well. The riders started at the one-eighth mile mark and rode down the beach to the finish. There they removed their coats and dashed back to the start. Dressing in the costume of a monkey they then came galloping back to the finish. This event was won "hands down" by Bandi de Jony on his pony Star. He reached the judges stand fully dressed before the others had left the starting point. John Hickey came in second but half dressed, riding Phoebe, owned by F. O. Emerson. The only other contestant was James Frieland who came in on J. Tower's Blue Bell at a walk. The first prize in this event was a handsome cup presented by the London Harness Company.

The last event on the program was the one-quarter mile hurdle race, open to all, for two cash prizes, $35.00 and $15.00. The winner of this race was High Flyer ridden by Charles Simms and owned by D. B. Wentz; Kingsboro owned and ridden by J. Clement won second place. The other entries were: Gallante, ridden by J. Runy, and owned by George G. Potter; Black Beauty, ridden by B. Tuckerman, and owned by Fred Hicks; Alywyn, owned and ridden by Arthur Mason; and Lightfoot owned and ridden by George Chipchase. No little excitement was aroused by the fall of Tuckerman at the first hurdle. He was not seriously injured but Black Beauty went galloping along the beach to the far end, and from thence onto the road. He was caught some distance up the highway by one of the grooms.

A feature of the afternoon which caused considerable comment was the excellent music rendered by the Salem Cadet Band, which occupied the open space in front of the pavilion and played the popular airs.

The committee was composed of Gen. G. A. Garrettson. Charles E. Phenix and Lafayette Hunt. Dr. Henry S. Warren was judge, assisted by Dr. Dakin and Mr. Foster. The time of the events was kept by Charles Wadsworth. Two of Captain F. de Jony's friends and country men A. de Semsey and A. Pucher came down from Boston at his request and acted as marshal and assistant marshal, respectively. Capt. de Jony was starter and secretary.

The members of the summer colony all along the North Shore were in evidence, many driving over from the Beverly and Manchester shore in their autos.

The 7th Original and Only Boston Food Fair.

In consequence of the thorough manner in which the Boston Retail Grocers' Association is carrying forward its arrangements for presenting New England's greatest Exposition—the 7th Original and Only Boston Food Fair, to be held in the Park Square Coliseum from September 28th to October 31st—a very artistic interior, which will ultimately entirely obliterate all traces of the former appearance of things inside the Park Square Coliseum, is already taking on form and color. Several of the individual booths will accommodate hundreds of people at one time and are equipped with roof gardens where patrons may rest and overlook the entire fair. The Park Square Coliseum is the only exposition building in this country vast enough to make the erection of such booths possible.

The Management of an Exposition.

"The success or failure of a big exposition such as the New England Food Fair which is to be held in Mechanics Building, Boston, this October, depends largely upon the ability and experience of its management," declares Aaron C. Dowse, the secretary of the exposition committee of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association, which is to hold its second annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition at the famous Mechanics Building from Oct. 5 to 31, 1908.

"The wisdom of this policy was recognized by the exposition committee of the very first food fair ever given in Boston. They secured for the management of that fair two men who had had wide experience in running big expositions, and it was a success.

"The contract with Green and Rowe was soon closed and with their clear, honest, excellent management have taken charge of the 2nd Annual New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building and guarantee an exposition which will be, in truth, 'The World's Greatest Food Fair.'"

Everything of interest in Indian life is presented by the Indians of Pawnee Bill Wild West Show, their war dances, ceremonies, burial rites, and so on are lived over again at every performance. The Indian village as presented at Pawnee Bill's show is precisely and truthfully, the same as an Indian Village on the prairies. Miss Annette Kellermann, the handsome young Australian, is rapidly becoming as well known hereabouts, as in her homeland with the result that everybody wants to see her fascinating diving and swimming exhibitions.

Magnolia

Miss Anne Abbott, who is summering at Magnolia, assisted in the entertainment given in Hawthorne Inn Casino, Tuesday evening in aid of the Fishermen's Institute, and won no little applause by her exquisite playing. Miss Abbott is a most accomplished violinist and not only renders her selections with perfect accuracy of touch but throws her whole soul into her playing and fairly makes her violin talk. At the close of each selection she was warmly applauded and forced to respond to an encore.

Lafayette Hunt lost his big bay horse yesterday morning, from some form of poisoning.

The Sunday school at the Village church will be suspended for the remaining Sundays of August. The annual Sunday school picnic to Salem Willows will take place next Wednesday, weather permitting. Two barges will start from Stanley corner at 9 a. m.

Prof. H. J. Krumpeln the blind organist of Jamaica Plain gave a very delightful recital at the Village church last Tuesday evening. There was a large audience present and when the program was ended no one stirred nor would they go until he had played one more number. The program was as follows:

Herold	Overture to Zampa
Chopin	Nocturne
Mendelssohn	Rondo Capricioso
LeMare	Andantino
Bellini	Overture to Norma
Krumpeln	Improvisation
Rossini	Cujus Animam
Wolstenholme	The Answer
Krumpeln	The American Revolution

Lafayette Hunt was the only baseball enthusiast from here, as far as we have learned, to attend the Cy Young benefit ball game in Boston Thursday.

Ex-Alderman Charles H. Trowt of Pride's Crossing has announced his candidacy for the office of mayor in the city elections this fall. Mr. Trowt has always taken more than usual interest in public affairs and especially those pertaining to this city. When Beverly was incorporated as a city, Mr. Trowt was elected a member of the Common Council from Ward 6, and served one year. He was then elected to the board of aldermen and served in this capacity for one year, declining renomination. Under the town government he gave his services for three years as a member of the school board and under the city charter has served on the same board for the past five years. He has been requested time and time again to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the office of mayor, but owing to his business duties requiring his close attention has declined up to the present. This is the first candidate Ward six has ever put up for the honor and may be depended upon to give him a hearty indorsement and, with a host of friends all over the city his affairs will be taken care of when the time comes.

The dump on Beach street, otherwise known as the Municipal Club dump, has been closed, on orders from headquarters of the B. & M. R. R., upon whose property same is located. The gate has been closed and locked. This has undoubtedly come about by its very unsightly appearance and the numerous small fires which break out there.

Weak Heart

Upon the heart action depends not only health, but life. If weak, the circulation is sluggish, and the supply of nourishment diminished. It also fails to carry off impurities. Disease follows from decay and stagnation. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure stimulates the heart action by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles.

"I had frequent sinking spells, sometimes as many as three in a day, during which my heart would seem to stop beating, necessitating the calling of a physician to resuscitate me. Before finishing the first bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure the sinking spells had ceased, and I took altogether five bottles for a complete cure."

A son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Emo on Tuesday, the 11th.

Mr. Dewey, chauffeur for the Frank Fraziers, returned to Chicago this week, where he has accepted another position.

James Wiseman, book-keeper at D. Linehan & Son's, is having a fortnight's vacation. He started Monday for a trip to the provinces.

Miss Mamie Culbert of Salem was in town over Sunday visiting relatives. Miss Culbert has just returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in New Hampshire.

Among the visitors to the Farms this week is Miss Margaret Robinson of Montreal who came here Wednesday and will remain for a two weeks' visit with relatives.

Many good attractions are promised for the Lawn Party to be held on the grounds of the parochial residence on Tuesday, August 25th, in aid of St. Margaret's church. The party will be under the auspices of St. Margaret's Court of Foresters, No. 68.

Ernest Townsend left Pride's for the hunting lodge and forest reservation of H. C. Pierce on the shores of Lake Nebagemain, Wis., where he will superintend the setting out of some trees on the estate. Mr. Townsend will be gone but a few days, expecting to return to Pride's the last of the week.

Miss Nora Foley, who has been spending her summer vacation here and is very well known among the Farms young people, was suddenly recalled to her home in Hoboken, N. J., early in the week by the sudden and unexpected death of her brother. Miss Foley was the guest during her stay here of the Misses Toomey on Haskell street.

James B. Connolly, the noted author, who has just returned from the Olympic games, has been entertaining at the cottage he is occupying on Haskell street the past few days his brother, Michael Connolly.

Jeremiah J. Toomey, Joseph O'Neil, George Murray and C. Frank Trowt, all enthusiastic baseball fans of Pride's Crossing and admirers of "Old Cy" paid homage to the "grand old man of base ball" at the Cy Young benefit in Boston, Thursday.

A party of young men, who style themselves, for the occasion, "The Lew Dockstaders", (probably owing to their musical abilities and the antics they cut up) held an outing on House Island recently and enjoyed a good old fashioned clambake. One of the features of the day was the falling overboard of one of the party and the rescuing party subsequently formed.

Paul S. Grush, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Addison E. Grush of 69 Essex street, Beverly, died Tuesday morning at the age of nine months. The child was one of a pair of twins and had been ill but a few days. It was a grandson of Capt. Reuben Grush.

Miss Ethel Standley of Manchester is paying a week's visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Andrew Standley, on West street.

Mrs. Daniel W. Preston and Mrs. Victor Borden left early in the week for a visit at North Conway, N. H. Today Mr. Borden leaves to join them.

Owners of bath houses situated on West Breach received a slight shock on opening their mail recently and finding their bills for rental raised one third of the former rates.

Mrs. John T. Elliott has been entertaining at her home on Haskell street the past week her nephews from Brookline, who brought with them several of their friends from Brookline. The party has thoroughly enjoyed themselves fishing and swimming off West Beach.

Fred P. Woodbury, driver of the hose wagon at the West street engine house leaves Monday to accept a position with the street department as driver. He will have to work but eight hours a day instead of being on duty twenty-four, and the pay is not much smaller than that given to fire drivers. John Cressy comes to the Farms to take the place of driver Woodbury.

Miss Grove of Baltimore, Md., spent a part of the week with her brother Frank Grove, the popular drug clerk at Varney's drug store.

The Fritz and Curtis show last Saturday evening, the La Barre Brothers' Minstrels on Tuesday and the dance of the Big Three last evening, in Neighbor's hall were all well attended and provided a variety of entertainment that could not but be suitable to all.

The following ladies from Gloucester spent the day with Mrs. J. M. Publicover, 16 High street, Thursday: Mrs. D. L. Davis, Mrs. R. Firth, Mrs. E. Brown, Miss A. Smith and Master Robert Davis. Also Mrs. Mackie and Mrs. Lord of Melrose.

Rep. William R. Brooks, Postmaster Elmer Standley and ex-Alderman Charles H. Trowt represented the Farms republicans at the Republican club outing on Wednesday at Ipswich Bluffs. The excellent weather coupled with a good dinner and plenty of speech making, made the affair a very pleasant one.

Mrs. Mattis Hansen of Vine street was given a complete but agreeable surprise last Saturday evening on attending the Swedish society meeting at Beverly by being presented with a handsome gold watch, in recognition of her valuable services in church work, particularly of her efforts in the building of the new church.

Officer John W. Stone has been missed from his accustomed beat at Pride's Crossing where he was night patrolman, as he is enjoying his annual vacation. Officer Pickett has been substituting in his place.

Miss Carrie Davis has been assisting at the Beverly Farms postoffice the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Batchelder of 166 Hart street announce the engagement of their daughter, Violet Harrison, to J. Henderson McShane of Salem.

Willie Nolan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nolan of Hart street cut his foot severely while bathing at West Beach at low tide, last Monday. This is the second case of this kind within the past two weeks.

The new residence of Mrs. Abbie Marshall is completed and forms a beautiful addition to the residential section of the Farms. Mrs. Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Campbell moved into their new home this week.

Mrs. William S. Pike celebrated, Monday, the passing of another mile stone in life's journey. Friends and neighbors called to offer their best wishes and congratulations and a few of her most intimate friends were detained for supper.

All are invited to attend the lawn party this afternoon and evening of the Swedish Lutheran church on the grounds of Mr. Hansen's residence on Vine street. Fancy and useful articles and refreshments will be offered for sale. The grounds are to be decorated with Japanese lanterns and plenty of amusement will be provided.

The annual outing and picnic of the John West Colony of Pilgrim Fathers will be held at Tuck's Point, Manchester, Wednesday, August 26, to which members are privileged to invite friends. The feature of the picnic will be the clambake served by "Chef" Myric C. Horton of Manchester and the utmost satisfaction is guaranteed.

Miss Katherine Leary, one of the most popular of the Farms young people, was taken to the Beverly City hospital, Tuesday, with a sudden attack of appendicitis much to the regret of her many friends here. Up to present writing no operation has been performed and treatment is being administered with the hope of avoiding the necessity of using the knife.

The Farms baseball fans regret exceedingly the early closing of the baseball season of the Farms team, which played its last game at Wakefield this afternoon. The wind up of the season is caused by the approaching departure of Manager Madden, who goes to Europe on matter of business. The baseball games here this season have been the source of no little interest and the termination of the sport is regretted by all.

Drop in and look over the many true reproductions of things quite "antique" that this beautiful store displays just now.

A Novel Idea

Nothing in the world so discouraging to a shopper as to hear the old refrain, "We're just out." Yet it is still the prevailing idea among the storekeepers that at mid-season stock should be at its lowest ebb. What for, to drive away customers? We believe not, and are keeping our assortment as complete now as you would ordinarily find at opening time.

Odd Bureaus

For instance. Here's an assortment of over 80 distinct styles in Mahogany, Bird's-Eye Maple, Oak and Toona Mahogany, including many reproductions of Colonial and Empire ideas.

You'll find no such collection elsewhere—wouldn't here ordinarily, but we're going to work on extraordinary lines this year, going to try and blot out all dull season records. So full stock of Odd Bureaus. 80 patterns, in all finishes, from

E. C. Titus & Co.

Mrs. Samuel A. Lendall on Thursday forenoon arrived home after a month's sojourn visiting relatives and friends at Groton, N. Y.

Miss Kehoe, the well known Boston dress maker, is taking a two weeks' respite from her work and as usual is spending it at Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dow have been spending the week visiting places of interest in Maine where they joined Miss Sarah Millis, who has been spending the past two weeks there.

Miss Florence Connell of Needham arrived Wednesday for a two weeks' visit at the Farms and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Riordan on Hart street. Miss Connell is quite delighted with West Beach and since her arrival has spent much of her time there.

Bathing at West Beach has been at its height during the past week, due, perhaps, to the unusually warm temperature of the water. Outing and fishing parties are daily occurences and as the good old summer time is now on the wane the general idea now seems to be to enjoy it all you can and West Beach is certainly the place to do it.

Now that bathing off the floats at West Beach on Sundays after 1 p. m. has been prohibited it has been suggested that it would be a good idea to have a swimming raft anchored near by, which would not only give the bathers on Sunday afternoons their opportunity for enjoyment, but would at other times tend to lessen the use of the floats for diving.

MANCHESTER, MASS., SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1908.

A NEW MAGNOLIA IN PROSPECT?

Will the Cottagers and Summer Residents of Magnolia Pledge Money to Improve the Entrance to Their Village?

A determined effort is being made this week to raise a sum of money to purchase the corner land on the water side of Raymond street, Magnolia, opposite the postoffice, remove the old tumble-down buildings, grade, seed and plant trees and shrubs,—in short, to get possession of the land and turn it into a park, and thus greatly beautify the entrance to Magnolia, and incidentally widen the entrance to the beach, and build a fifty foot street with good sidewalks on either side.

Already a beginning has been made, the City Government of Gloucester, having appropriated $600 toward the amount. Charles W. Jones, president of the Village Improvement Society is the first subscriber, for $1000;—"he who gives first gives twice."

The land in question is owned by John Stanwood of Gloucester and contains 42,149 square feet. It is assessed for ten cents per foot. Although Mr. Stanwood is aware this land is to be purchased for public improvements he has not consented to sell thus far at a less figure than $22,000. A tentative offer of $16,000 has been made him, and although this sum is far in excess of the market value, the townspeople are anxious to see rare and beautiful Magnolia cleared of the unsightly obstructions at its gates, so long an eye sore to all who drive or motor along the North Shore.

Letters of appeal with blue print of land enclosed will be sent this week to land owners and proprietors in Magnolia and at Coolidge's Point, soliciting subscriptions. Mr. Eads, head clerk at the Oceanside, has placed in the office plans of land, etc., and has kindly offered to receive money for this object in large or small amounts. A like plan will be placed in the Hesperus and Aborn hotels, and North Shore Grill.

Subscriptions payable to any of these hotels or to the manager of the North Shore Grill are solicited and all money received will be acknowledged in the North Shore Breeze weekly.

Flower Show.

On Wednesday and Thursday of the coming week the annual summer exhibition of flowers, fruits and vegetables, of the North Shore Horticultural society, will be held on the grounds of the Essex County club, Manchester. The exhibition will open at 2 o'clock on Wednesday and 10 o'clock on Thursday, and will remain open until 10 in the evening of each day. The admission is 25 cents (evenings 10 cents.)

An interesting feature of the show will be the display of wild flowers (named) and geraniums by the school children.

Manchester Tax Rate Lower.

Contrary to the expectations of all, the assessors included, Manchester's tax rate this year will not be as high as last year. The board, after several weeks of steady work, completed their figures yesterday morning, and announce that the rate will be $9.40 on $1000 of valuation. This is 20 cents lower than last year when the rate was $9.60.

Tax rates have been going up all along the line this year, due to the stringency of the money market principally, and the consequent depreciation of stocks, etc. The state tax, too, took a phenomenal boost, and in this county the County Tax jumped remarkably. Manchester is spending considerable more money this year, too, than usual, and all in all a higher tax rate was looked for.

The assessors are to be congratulated on their work. More complete figures regarding valuation, etc., will be given in our next issue.

Should Encourage the Building of Costly Summer Homes.

The splendid marine spectacle at Marblehead calls attention to three great advantages of the North Shore; the harbors, good sailing breezes and beautiful scen-

ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning with our next issue the North Shore Breeze will be issued on Fridays instead of Saturdays.

A change of this nature toward the close of the summer season may seem strange to many. We believe, however, that in making the change, we are taking a step forward. The principal reasons for making the change are these:

First. So that our out-of-town subscribers may get the paper before Sunday. The suggestion has been made to us several times by members of our summer colony; they complain that they do not get the Breeze until Monday. Under the present conditions the papers do not leave Manchester until the 5.21 mail train Saturday.

Second. To benefit our advertisers. Our big advertisers are continually reminding us that an advertisement appearing in our Saturday's paper does not do them half as much good as if it appeared Thursday or Friday, so that readers could glance over the ad. before doing their Saturday shopping.

Third. Because it will make the work easier for our help. Publishing a 40-page paper every week is not as easy a task as one might imagine. There has been scarcely a week the past summer that the last bundle of papers has been carried to the postoffice before 4 o'clock. And that doesn't allow much time in the remaining hour to do the "rush" jobs of printing, church calendars, etc., that customers "must have" before Sunday.

Now, then, we have this one favor to ask. Will those who have been accustomed to send in notices to the paper,—social notes, personals, advertisements, etc.,—please remember that such must be sent one day earlier than usual hereafter, and must reach this office Thursday, or early Friday morning.

ery. These advantages are worth a big asset of Essex county. Already, they have brought to the county millions of dollars' worth of property, to which the splendid summer residences are witness. It would, perhaps, be worth while for the Essex County Board of Trade to consider means of further developing the county as a place for fine summer homes. Methods of developing the county in this direction would, very likely, consist chiefly in providing good roads, and preserving such natural beauty as the county now possesses. It certainly would not be necessary for the county to advance any cash bonus to secure a summer resident, as is usually the case when a city or town wishes to secure a new industry.

The wealthy summer residents are the most desirable class of people who could be induced to locate in the county. They are a benefit and not a burden to the community. They contribute sums in taxes to the cities and towns in which they live. They ask but little in return. Many of them have their own water supplies and sewerage systems, and they ask no special police or fire protection, nor parks. They give to the schools, libraries and hospitals, and other institutions, and they seek nothing from them. They spend much money to improve the roads and to beautify the lands which they possess.

There are, undoubtedly, many ways in which cities and towns of the county could encourage the building of costly summer homes along the North Shore. For example, a boulevard might be constructed through Essex county to connect with the boulevard that runs from Swampscott to Boston. North Shore summer residents have asked for this. They have even offered to contribute to a fund for building a parkway along Collins Cove, in Salem. The bridges of the county might be improved, to the pleasure of all citizens, as well as summer residents. The making of residential sections attractive, and the improvement of the stores also tends to make Essex county a place more desirable for summer homes.

It is plain that the county has increased much in wealth since the summer people began to build costly homes along the North Shore. It is also apparent that some places along the North Shore are the finest types of homes of wealthy people in the country. Some of the summer people set high ideals in the manner of living, in business and in philanthropy. They benefit the county in many ways. The developing of the North Shore as a place for fine summer homes offers a promise future for the rugged old county of Essex.—Salem Evening News.

R. G. Shaw and son Arthur, of Boston, have been registered at Brownland cottage, Manchester, the past week, coming here for the golf tournament at the Esssex County club the past three days.

Miss Margaret Stackpole has been a guest of Miss Edith Fitz, at "The Mountain," West Manchester, the past week. Both young ladies have been playing in the tennis tournament at the Essex County club.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Denny who have been visiting H. C. Frick returned to their home in Pittsburg Monday morning. Childs Frick also left Monday with Norman Prince for Newport to participate in the polo games. Their ponies were shipped from Pride's Saturday.

Mrs. Louise B. Robinson, the well known writer and author, is now the guest of Mrs. Benj. Tenny at her summer home in Magnolia. She has recently returned from Paris and left her daughter, Miss Florence Robinson, visiting her friends the Montet Moganets at their chateau near Toulouse, and who later is to be one of a large house party at Mlle. Calve's country home at Auvergne.

The North Shore has been favored the past week by a visit from a count and countess. Last Saturday Count and Countess Limburg Stirum of Berlin arrived at Magnolia and have taken apartments at the Stearns' Villa for a fortnight or more. The Countess cannot rightfully be called "of Berlin" at present, for she is but a bride of a few months, and will not go to her new home until the autumn. She was Miss Mary Newland of Detroit. She is a friend of the J. Harrington Walkers of Magnolia and Detroit and was at Magnolia when they were here two years ago. The Count and Countess came here from Bar Harbor.

Mrs. James P. Curtis entertained over the week-end, at her home at Pride's, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Emmons, 2d., of Monument Beach, Mass.

The engagement has just been announced of Miss Anne Purdy Southerland, daughter of A. F. Southerland of New York and the Coolidge's Point summer colony, and David Walter Gibson. Mr. Gibson is a New York broker. The marriage will take place in October.

For several years special restrictions have been in force regarding the use of the roads at the Essex County club, for automobiles. These restrictions have been removed, by recent action of the executive committee, whereby there are now no restrictions as to the use of the club driveways, except the one from the Magnolia road, which is considered dangerous because it is above the level of the fields, and narrow.

The Leiters made their departure the first of the week after a very pleasant sojourn of six weeks on the North Shore, during which time they were domiciled in the Charles Head residence at Manchester. Joseph Leiter and his bride left last Friday for Chicago and Mrs. L. Z. Leiter left Tuesday evening, a special coach being attached to the 6.24 train from Manchester. Thursday they sailed from New York for a six weeks' trip abroad, during which time Mrs. Leiter, sr., will visit her daughters, the Countess of Suffolk and Lady Colin Campbell, both of whom are at their country estates in Scotland. It has been said that the Leiters will return to the North Shore again next year. and that they have already leased an estate. This is not true, however, though it is not at all unlikely that they will return here next year. Mr. Leiter had not been to the North Shore since he left Harvard and he got much pleasure out of his stay here this summer.

Mrs. William Hooper is spending the balance of August and first of September at her cottage at Dark Harbor, Maine. Mr. Hooper will go later to spend a short holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fitch, jr., after a very pleasant stay of two months at Manchester, left a few days' ago for Canada, where Mr. Fitch's business connection keep him most of the year.

After the completion of the ladies' singles and mixed doubles tennis tournament at the Essex County club the men's singles will start. The date for this has been set for Monday, September 7, open to members of the club and junior members. Entries close on Friday, Sept. 4.

Pierpont Dutcher of Milwaukee, Wis., who is spending the summer with C. H. Bull in his cottage on Lexington avenue, Magnolia, had as guest over the week-end his chum and class-mate at Harvard George M. Orr of Worcester. Mr. Orr played end on the Harvard football team last season and is a well known athlete about the campus.

Funeral services of a most simple nature, were held last Sunday noon at his late home in West Manchester, over the remains of the late Robert C. Hooper. Rev. Dr. DeNormandie of Roxbury officiated. A special train brought members of the family and friends from Boston, the train stopping at the crossing near the Hooper residence. The body was taken to the crematory at Forest Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Tucker left Manchester Wednesday evening where they have been spending the summer with Mr. Tucker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tucker, at "The Moorings," and sailed from New York Thursday for Europe. They will join Mrs. Tucker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. House, and her sister Miss Janet House, at Binard, one of the show places of France, and from there they go to Paris, London, and sail for home about the first of October.

Especial interest centered in last Saturday's members' handicap golf tournament at the Essex County club from the fact that those securing the eight best gross scores qualified to play off by match play for a scratch challenge cup. The tournament was won by G. F. Willett, who made the lowest gross and net scores,—82 and 78, respectively. The eight who qualified for best gross scores were: E. R. Chandler, T. McK. Cook, E. S. Moore, W. J. Boardman, G. F. Willett, C. A. Pierce, S. Carr and J. H. Childs.

:: At the Hotels ::

The high water mark, indeed, was reached at the Oceanside hotel, Sunday, when 631 guests were registered for the week-end. When it is considered that the accomodations of the house, as advertised in the BREEZE, are for 500, one is apt to wonder where they stored them all.

Four of the boys stopping at the Hesperus made Saturday a gala day and went to Rockport where they took in the Beverly-Rockport baseball game. Besides the boys who are spending the summer at the hotel, Glenwood Sherrard, son of the proprietor, had with him as his guest over the week-end, Master Jack Gale, who is spending the summer at Hotel Preston, Beach Bluffs, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gale of Haverhill. The other members of the party were John Dodd, jr., and Ralph Waycott.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Perkins of Boston were among the late arrivals at the Hesperus last week, for the balance of the season.

Mrs. F. M. Snyder and her daughters, Miss Snyder and Miss Jessie Synder, of Hackensack, N. J., have taken apartments at the Hesperus and will remain there for the rest of August and probably into September.

Mrs. L. L. Ainsworth of England, who was here several years ago, returned to Magnolia again this week and registered at the Hesperus for the balance of the season. Mrs. Ainsworth was met on her arrival on this side of the Atlantic by her two friends Miss Emily B. Leprecher and Miss Annie M. Leprecher, of Lancaster, Pa., who accompanied her to Magnolia and will remain with her during her stay.

The concert given by Ralph Smalley of the Boston Symphony orchestra in the parlors of the Hesperus hotel, Tuesday evening, was a decided success and was enjoyed by a large gathering of cottagers and hotel guests about Magnolia. A very excellent program was provided and exceedingly well rendered. Next Sunday evening, at the usual Sunday night concert, Mr. Smalley and Mr. Fiedler will render solos on the violin and cello and Mabel Walker, a well known soprano of Boston, will sing.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Higgins of Toronto motored to the Hesperus Saturday where they spent the week-end.

E. M. Clendenning of Kansas City joined Mrs. Clendenning at the Hesperus Saturday, where the latter is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith also of Kansas City. He will probably remain during the balance of Mrs. Clendenning's stay.

Mrs. C. A. Porter has just returned to Beverly Farms from a six weeks' tour out west with Capt. and Mrs. Larz Anderson. They had a camping trip in the Canadian Rocky Mountains and returned through the great lakes.

Mrs. Larz Anderson is spending the week-end with Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter. Capt. Anderson sailed for Europe on Thursday to take his usual cure at Marienbad.

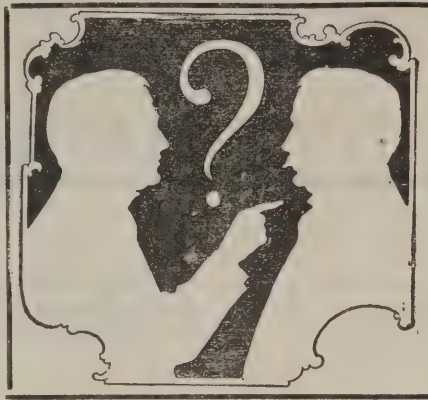

We are pleased to announce that Frederick H. Prince, who was injured by being thrown from his mount while riding near the Myopia Hunt club grounds, in the Brown's Hill section of Hamilton on August 6, is able to sit up, at his summer home on the Hamilton-Beverly Farms road. His injuries were at first feared to be serious, but this theory has since been disproved, and the improvement of his condition has been steady. It was announced Tuesday that Mr. Prince would be able to get out by the first of next week. Mr. Prince is a true-blooded sporting man, and has done much for the promotion of polo and following the hunt on the North Shore.

Mr. and Mrs. William Forsyth of Chicago have taken apartments in the Oakes cottage, one of the connections of the Hesperus, where they will remain for the balance of the summer. We would say in speaking of the Oakes cottage that it is not a connection of the Oceanside as some of our readers understood in last week's issue of the Breeze, but is one of those connected with the Hesperus hotel and of the thirteen rooms which it contains eleven have been filled by the management of that hotel.

A special sale of French Underwear on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week is being announced by the Grande Maison de Blanc, at their attractive North Shore branch, at the Colonnade, Magnolia, the coming week.

Dr. Gurnsey of Gloucester entertained at the North Shore Grill, Tuesday evening, a party of eight friends at a dinner party on the attractively enclosed veranda encircling the club. The party motored over in the doctor's large touring car and when West Gloucester was reached the car broke down and the party was detained there for over an hour. Several of the gentleman in the party have recently returned from a trip on the continent, and regaled their companions with many tales of the old world.

A very pleasant little whist and tea party was given by Mrs. William A. Hulick of New York, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside hotel, Tuesday afternoon, on the circular veranda of the North Shore Grill, overlooking the beautiful Corridor Gardens connected with the tea house. In the party were: Mrs. George E. Carter of Brookline, Mrs. Henry C. Mathews of Baltimore, Mrs. C. H. Ackert of Washington, Mrs. Robert Bentley of Youngstown, O., Mrs. George E. Potter, Mrs. Lee McMillan, New Orleans, Mrs. Charles Hood and Miss Wilder of Lowell.

Mrs. George H. Coutts of New York, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside gave a luncheon party Tuesday for eight of the young ladies staying at the hotel, at the North Shore Grill.

A pleasant little dinner party was given at the North Shore Grill, Tuesday evening, by Mr. and Mrs. Clay A. Pierce, of the Pride's summer colony, who entertained there a party of four friends.

J. B. Lord, who has been away a couple of weeks on matters of business that required his attention in Chicago, returned to the Oceanside the middle of the week and rejoined his family in the Flume cottage, where they are spending the season.

Lawn Fete at Wenham.

Mrs. Thomas Pingree of Wenham has offered the use of her grounds to the Village Improvement society for a garden fete to be given Sept. 1, from 4 to 6. This is the first time in five years that this society, which has done so much toward beautifying and improving the town, has called together the summer colony.

With the Salem Cadet Band, plenty of entertainment for the children, and hospitality for adults, the occasion is sure to be a notable one. The committee having charge of the affair is composed of Miss Helen Burnham, Mrs. Edward Cole, Miss Kate Dodge, Miss Ann Kemble and Mrs. Herbert Porter.

The North Shore colony is always glad to show its appreciation of the work done by this society, and "Wenham" will be the universal order for the afternoon of Sept. 1. In case of rain the fete will be postponed to Sept. 3.

Lawn Party Next Monday in Aid of Church.

A lawn party is to be held on the big field near the Sacred Heart church, Manchester, next Monday evening, for the benefit of the building fund of the new church. Frederick Burnham has kindly accorded the use of the field for the party.

The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated for the occasion by several hundred electric lights and Japanese lanterns. Clark & Mills Electric Co. will have charge of the illumination and will use part of the fixtures used in the illumination on band concert nights.

Dance music will be furnished by Long's orchestra, six pieces, and plantation harmonies will be given by an organization of eight male voices, with string accompaniment.

Refreshments and fancy articles will be sold at five tables which will represent the parish, the Sunday School, Coolidge's Point, Smith's Point and West Manchester.

A novel beauty contest under the auspices of the K. of C., will be conducted in the old church building. Other features will add to the general interest. A weird procession, headed by the Bingville Band, will start from the railroad station to the grounds about 7.30 o'clock.

In case of rain the party will be held on the first fair night after Monday. A special party for the children will be given at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Society Notes

Weather permitting North Shore society will be out in full numbers this afternoon for the private exhibition of Judge W. H. Moore's show horses at Judge Moore's private track at Pride's Crossing. Invitations have been extended to from 300 to 400 guests from all along the shore. The exhibition will be from 3 to 4.30, after which the guests will be taken to "Rockmarge," the Moore summer home, nearby, where tea will be served on the beautiful piazza and lawn about the house. The 8th Regiment Band of Lynn will furnish the music. The affair will no doubt be one of the most brilliant of the summer on the North Shore. It is the first of the kind ever given here.

Fred Burnham left Pride's Thursday for a visit with friends at Newport.

W. S. and J. T. Spaulding left Pride's Wednesday with a party of friends for a ten days' cruise along the coast of Maine in their trim steam yacht, the "Isis."

Gen. William Crosier, U. S. A., of Washington, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman on the Essex road, Manchester, the past week.

Senator and Mrs. Beveridge are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a ten-pound son in their summer home at Smith's Point, Manchester, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Manchester Yacht club will be held in the club house, Monday evening, August 31, at eight o'clock. The object of the meeting will be to elect officers for the ensuing year and to transact all business properly coming before the meeting.

Madame Eugene Colgate of Paris and Geneva, Switzerland, is the guest of the Misses Colby in Beverly Farms. Mme. Colgate is the widow of Eugene Colgate who died quite recently in his summer home at Bellevue near Geneva, one of the most beautiful of the many picturesque chateaux on Lake Geneva.

Tennis has been the feature at the Oceanside this week. Four tournaments have been on,—ladies' singles, mixed doubles and men's singles and doubles. The finals have been played in all but the men's singles, and the winners are: Men's doubles, C. C. and S. S. Auchincloss, ladies' singles, Miss H. O. Penhallow, and in the mixed doubles, Miss D. Dutcher and A. Nazro. Miss Penhallow challenged Mrs. J. L. Hobbs, the holder of last year's cup, who, however, failed to defend her title. Those playing in the finals of the men's singles today are Edwin Dana and W. A. Carl. On Monday, the winner will challenge C. S. Penhallow, jr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rowe of Lawrence have joined the Henry S. Rowes at the Hesperus for a few weeks' stay.

Among the late arrivals of last week at the Hesperus were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. English of Camden, N. J., who will remain there for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. R. Allyn and her daughter Miss D. B. Allyn, of Hartford, have taken apartments in the Gables' cottage, one of those connected with the Oceanside, and will remain there for the rest of the warm weather.

Rev. Robert Collyer, pastor emeritus, Church of the Messiah, New York City, will preside and speak on the interests of Berea college at the Oceanside, Magnolia at 8.30 Monday evening, August 24. Prof. H. M. Penniman, from the Kentucky mountains, will give information and impersonations of the cabin life of Lincoln's kin.

Mrs. R. C. Stillman and her neice Miss Florence A. Mulligan of Cambridge leave for home next Sunday, after a pleasant two weeks as guests of E. R. Spaulding of Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Collins and W. D. Collins, of St. Louis, who have been coming to the Oceanside for a number of seasons, joined the other members of the family there, the first of the week, for the balance of the summer, and have taken apartments in the Winslow cottage.

Beautiful Sight.

The flower garden at J. S. Reed's, Beach street, Manchester, which is pictured on our front page this week, is one of the most beautiful sights in Manchester. The garden is all that the picture portrays,—a mass of flowers, most beautiful in color, effectively arranged, and most attractive to look upon. Mr. Reed is not a professional gardener; in fact he has never made more than a casual study of flowers. Several years ago when the Boston & Maine put up a high fence, separating its property from his, and thus shutting off part of the view from his premises, Mr. Reed was forced through his natural inclination for neatness and order to cover up the rough board fence and the beautiful garden filled with all sorts of flower resulted. It is one of the beauty spots of Manchester every summer.

MANCHESTER'S VALUATION

The following synopsis of Manchester's Valuation, upon which the tax rate of $9.40 is based, will be of interest to our heavy taxpayers in particular:

ABOUT abusing privileges! A few days ago we had occasion to ride past the Essex County club quite early in the morning and our attention was attracted by two young men playing golf thus early; that same evening, along toward dusk in another part of the grounds we noticed three young men with golf clubs; last Sunday we are informed there were as many as seven or eight players on the links in the morning. And furthermore it would appear that this thing has been going on for sometime, and the number is increasing. Now it should be remembered that the Essex County club grounds does not belong to the town; it is private. It is for club members only and while no club member has the disposition to make a hard and fast rule against the young caddie who may make an occasional "shot" before or after working hours, though they even are not supposed to use the links, it would seem as though they might have to make some stringent rules about the use of the links by others than club members if this privilege is abused still further. This ought to serve as a word of friendly warning.

PROGRESS WITH THE MEN'S CLUBHOUSE

J. F. LIBBY

That a Men's Clubhouse will be built at Magnolia is practically assured now. The week has brought $2700 in subscriptions. We have still $13,000 to raise. But the size of the subscriptions thus far received is auspicious.

As announced last week, a lot of land has been found which is exceedingly well adapted to the purpose. It is the lot on Magnolia avenue between the new store that is being built for Philip Lycett and the Summerside Laundry. H. W. Butler of Magnolia, the owner, has offered it at ten cents a foot, which is very low indeed, especially in view of the fact that he does not have to sell.

The lot is a corner lot with somewhat over 100 feet frontage on Magnolia avenue and 200 feet frontage on Butler avenue and contains 23,598 square feet. Its cost therefore will be $2359.80.

The subscriptions received have been encouraging, not only because of their size but because of the heartiness with which they have been made.

"I regard the successful launching of a Men's club as of the very greatest importance to Magnolia," wrote one.

"I took $50 stock in the Women's club enterprise and will take stock to the amount of $100 in the Men's club" wrote another.

"Thank you for coming to me with it," said a third.

The history of the week is as follows: Friday the 14th. Henry W. Butler, jr., offered to remove the whole or any part of the gravel for the gravel itself.

Monday the 17th. T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., subscribed $500, payable in two instalments.

Tuesday the 18th. Chas. H. Bull subscribed $100.

Wednesday the 19th. A check for $25.00 was received from a friend of the enterprise and by the next mail a subscription of $1000 from Miss Faulkner payable in two instalments. On the same day Otis Weld Richardson, Esq., consented as his contribution to be legal advisor without charge.

Thursday the 20th. Mrs. Curry subscribed $1000 payable, like the rest, in two instalments. Later a check for $100 was received from Col. Nelson with the request that it be used for "whatever you think best." $75.00 will go into the purchase of the land for the clubhouse and $25.00 towards the maintenance of the club the present season.

We have, then, Thursday night, when this goes to press, $4200 pledged; the architect's plan and the legal work promised without charge; and a large lot of land excellently adapted in every way to our requirements assured at a cost of less than $2400. Are we not making substantial progress?

Enough is pledged now to pay for the lot and the basement. Next week we hope to add the first story. You may be given a chance to help. Don't let it slip.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Whisperings reached my ears a few days ago of a misfortune which befell one ofour well known young clerks, at Manchester, not far from the square, who attended the dance a week ago Tuesday evening. At intermission he took his girl for a short row in the harbor and as they were landing the young man miscalculated his distance and instead of stepping from his boat to the boat next to him in order to reach the float, he stepped into the water, and I fancy a shrill sound arose from the sweet girl's throat as her escort disappeared in the water. Undaunted by this accident, however, my good friend proceeded to his home on —— street, procured a change of clothes, and returned to the hall shortly after as though nothing had happened.

Manchester folk had a slight "yegg man" scare Wednesday night. The freight house at the local yard had been broken into(?) and the report spread like wildfire. It happened in the early evening and by the time the band concert was over everybody knew of it. The officers were called to the scene and a thorough investigation was made; nothing was missed, but it was known that the building had been entered. Still further investigation revealed the fact that one of the young men who have a key to the place had been to the building for some purpose or other and thus the rumor got started.

James McGregor arrived home from a very pleasant trip to his native home in Scotland Thursday week. Mr. McGregor left home when a young man, thirty-five years ago, and had not visited the scenes of his boyhood in all that time, so that his recent visit was of very great interest to him. He enjoyed his visit very much and returned much refreshed after a six weeks' rest.

$8.50 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF SELF-HEALING TIRES $4.80 A SAMPLE PAIR TO INTRODUCE, ONLY

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 (cash with order $4.55).

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

WATER SPORTS AT MANCHESTER

Brilliant Success Attended This Annual Carnival. Splendid Weather Conditions' Big Crowd in Attendance.

The annual water sports at the Manchester Yacht club on Tuesday afternoon of this week was a brilliant success in every way. Both from the attendance and from the interest taken by the young people in entering the various events, the carnival was ahead of those of previous years.

The appearance of James Greene, former captain of the Brookline swimming club, and recently of the all-American swimming team competing in the Olympic games in England; and of Prof. John F. Conroy, the well known athletic instructor and for many years at the L street bath, Boston, and of Captain Saddler, of the Boston A. A. boathouse, gave added interest to the events.

Green and Saddler were procured for the events by Prof. Conroy, who is at Manchester for the summer. Green gave a remarkably interesting exhibition of his skill as a "water dog." Among his various stunts were the porpoise play, breast, side, over arm, trudgeon and back strokes, swimming backwards and sideways, spinning mill wheel, waltz stroke, spar buoy, marching and submarine. The shawow swim, in which he was assisted by Prof. Conroy, was one of his best stunts. In this Conroy swam on top and Green underneath.

Prof. Conroy gave several exhibitions of rescue from drowning. Capt. Saddler's high and fancy diving was also interesting, and his walking in the water stunt was one of the most interesting events of the afternoon.

Several yachts and sail boats were anchored off the club in holiday dress. Among them were W. A. Tucker's Khalifa and A. C. Needham's Mahdeena. Judge Moore's Zinganee was also anchored off the club house. At her mooring in the outer harbor was C. Howard Clark, jr's., Savarona dressed with flags.

The judges were Rear-Admiral H. G. O. Colby, William A. Tucker and A. H. Higginson. The committee in charge was composed of Charles E. Hodges, A. C. Needham, William L. Putnam, John H. Storer and Arthur M. Merriam. Mr. Storer acted as master of ceremonies.

The first event on the program was walking the pole. There were six contestants in this and three prizes were awarded, one for securing the flag and two special prizes for the best costumes. John L. Merrill, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Merrill, captured the first prize, being the only one to walk the 30 feet and pick off the flag. Charles E. Hodges, jr., and Roger Putnam won first and second, respectively, for best fancy costumes, the former being dressed as Puck, and Putnam representing a colored gentleman. Others contesting were Samuel Mandell, Indian; Carl Ward, Puck; Tom Rice, Indian.

The tub race for boys under 16 years was very amusing. Carl Ward won this, Jack Merrill was second and John Caner was third. Eric Winston won the 50-yard swimming race, J. B. Webster was second and P. B. Gilman, third. The junior swimming race for boys under 16 years was won by Robert Storer, Lawrence Moore second and George Crocker, third. The other contestants were Carl Ward, H. Blakely, George Bartlett, Thomas Rice and Colket Caner.

One of the most interesting events of the afternoon was the canoe polo. There were teams of three canoes each, one man to each canoe, and the play lasted 20 minutes, with two halves of 10 minutes each. The game was finally won by two goals by the team composed of Samuel Eliot, Robert Storer and Norman Read. The losing team was Lawrence Morgan, Richard Wigglesworth and Eric Winston.

The diving contest was won by P. B. Gilman, Eric Winston second and Richard Wigglesworth third. In awarding the prizes the judges considered the form in three dives, the straight dive, back dive and some sort of fancy dive. Gilman's back somersault was the cleanest cut of the lot and won him first place. Other contestants were Samuel Eliot and L. B. Webster. A special exhibition of diving by Arthur Stevens of Boston and Marblehead, who was over from the Corinthian Yacht Club for the sports, drew much applause from the gallery.

Of all the amusing features the canoe tilting was the most interesting. In this two teams of two men each in a canoe face each other. One man in each canoe sits in the stern and paddles, while the other two men face each other with long poles, with a soft wad of cloth, straw or something of the sort to use in punching each other at long distance. The man who is first pushed overboard loses. And it isn't as easy to retain one's balance standing up in a canoe reaching out at someone in another canoe as one might surmise. There were six pairs in this contest. In the preliminaries Samuel Eliot and Caleb Loring won from Norman Read and Charles Cotting, Robert Storer and John H. Storer, jr., won from P. B. Gilman and L. B. Webster. Richard Wigglesworth and Eric Winston won from Lawrence Morgan and James Green. In the semi-finals Eliot and Loring beat the Storer boys and in the finals after a long and close contest Wigglesworth and Winston beat Eliot and Loring.

Diving from a tower some 30 feet high erected on the end of the float was a new feature this year. The contestants were Charles E. Cotting, jr., Richard Wigglesworth, Eric Winston and Samuel Eliot. Cotting won and Wigglesworth and Winston were second and third respectively.

Rev. W. H. Penniman of Berea college, who told some delightful stories of the Mountaineers' life in Kentucky at the Hesperus recently is to speak at the Oceanside on Monday evening. He will be introduced by Dr. Robert Collyer.

Wm. Hamilton of Clinton, who was drug clerk at the store of A. M. Lycett & Son last summer, was in town Thursday evening renewing acquaintances.

On Wednesday, the 19th, a daughter arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, and a son in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Chane at Magnolia.

A letter from Mrs. John E. May, who left here three weeks ago on the Saxonia for Sweden, states that she arrived there Monday of last week. Mrs. May is visiting in Trollhatten, Sweden, where she will remain for two weeks and is expect- to return here early in September.

Entertainment at the Young Women's Club.

The entertainment given by the members of 1908, of the Young Women's club, Magnolia, Tuesday evening, was a complete success and was enjoyed by all. The girls gave the entertainment with the purpose of raising sufficient funds to present the club with a pair of andirons for the fire-place. Among so many members it was hard to select the ones who should represent the club but the following program was finally arranged:

Selections from Carmen,
New Victor Talking Machine
Solo, in costume, Miss Belle Boyle
"The Modern Maud Muller," an up to date pantomine, Miss Jessie Pease (Maud Muller)
"The Man with the Automobile,"
Josephine Carroll
"The Country Girl," Katherine Dempsey
"The Country Boy," Jennie Arthur
Mandolin Solo, May Winchester
Solo, May Clune
Tableau, "Barbara Frietchie," Annie Gaudet
Tableau, "The Fortune Teller," Misses Hannah Pease and Florence King
Solo, Josephine Lambert
Tableau, "Maidenhood," Mabel Pease
Solo Dance in costume, Emma Lambert
Tableau, "The Old Maid and the Bachelor Girl," Mildred Shaw and Helen O'Dea
Tableau, "The Milkmaid," Katherine Fowler
Solo, "Daddy," Belle Boyle
Tableau, "Stolen Sweets," Louise Ramelli
Tableau, "The Witches from Macbeth,"
May Atwood, Katherine Atwood and Marion Wilder
Tableau, "Bed Time Scenes,"
Agnes Cameron, Hattie Lombard and the dolly
Finale, Liberty,
Mary Madigan, Katherine Fowler and Annie Gaudet

Miss Logan's music between the numbers was very pleasing and appropriate, while the closing number, "The Star Spangled Banner," brought everyone to their feet. The hall was packed, people even sitting on the piazza and it is estimated that there were about 300 people present. About $37 was cleared above all expenses.

Among the auto parties that stopped at the Hesperus over night, Tuesday, were Harry Darlington, jr., of Pittsburg and C. B. Stuart of New York. Mr. Stuart is a Yale man, class of '06, and was well known on the gridiron, having played end on the 'varsity eleven. The young men have been spending the summer at Newport and went from Magnolia to York Beach where they will spend a few days and then go on to the mountains for the balance of the season.

Maynard B. Gilman has the local agency for the Buick car.

Miss Grace Allen is on a vacation trip with her aunt, Mrs. Bennett of Salem, in New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Robertson were over from South Hamilton for the band concert, and the fair on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Demity of Boston are stopping at Mrs. Thomas Sheehan's on Tappan street for a couple of weeks, arriving there last Sunday. Mr. Demity is a fireman in the City district and is a member of the crew of engine 33.

The Knights of Columbus field day at Tuck's Point on Labor Day will be a big affair. There will be a baseball game, tug-of-war contests, 100 yard dashes, 220 yard dashes, shot put, running broad and high jumps, etc., and plenty of fun. The events will be open to all.

The contract for drawing the pipe to be used in Manchester's additional water supply has been awarded by the contractor, C. N. Taylor, to S. Albert Sinnicks. There will be about 1000 tons of pipe in all. A derrick has been erected at the local freight yard and things are looking quite business-like. Mr. Taylor has started the work of digging for the pipes, and about 80 men are at work.

The last band concert of the season was given in the square Wednesday evening and the illumination made the same pretty effect as on previous nights. A big crowd was out, the crowd being estimated at about 2000. Scores of autos and carriages lined the streets, and 200 or 300 people came from out of town by train for the concert. It was very evident, as it has been all along, that the concerts are universally liked and that it is the unanimous opinion of all that they should be repeated next year, and that the Salem Cadet Band be procured if possible. The concert this week was one of the finest given.

Their Fiftieth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Andrews celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at the home of the son on Essex street, Manchester, last Saturday, the occasion proving a most delightful one. Though no formal observance was made of the event, Mr. and Mrs. Andrews had some twenty-five with them for the evening, including members of the family, and friends, and the couple were remembered with several tokens of esteem. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, etc., were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were married in Manchester on Saturday, August 15, 1858, by the Rev. Charles W. Reading of the Baptist church. Mrs. Andrews was Rebecca Leach Osborne, a native of "Newport," or West Manchester, as it is now called.

A remarkable feature of their union is the fact that of their six children, 17 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren all are now living. There has not been a death in the family. The youngest of the family, the 6-months old daughter of Ernest Andrews, was at the gathering last Saturday. Mr. Andrews is a member of Allen Post, G. A. R.

ECHOES.

(C. A. BARTOL.)

That creature I despise
Who deals in questions only,
And will not brook replies.

Vex not thy conscience overmuch:
The worst thing is a conscience,
Or what we esteem as such.

At last Divorce has cut the legal band,
And what each suffered all may understand.

The salve of Silence oft will peace afford:
No blister like the captious, questioning word.

While men survive there will be clash of blades;
The blood-red blossom of war is the flower that never fades.

The Magnolia Garage Destroyed.

The Magnolia Garage, owned by Frank P. Wonson of Gloucester, was completely destroyed by fire, Thursday afternoon and afforded the greatest excitement of the season. One White steamer and three Pierce Arrows were in the garage at the time and were completely demolished. The loss is estimated at about $25,000, the cars alone being valued at from $18,000 to $20,000, while the garage and the tools and stock easily made up the other $5000.

The fire originated from the explosion of the gasoline in the White steamer owned by J. D. Cox of Cleveland. Fred Burroughs, Mr. Cox's chauffeur, had the car jacked up and the rear wheels off, doing some repairing on the machine, when the car slipped from the jack. Two explosions, one right after the other, followed and a sheet of flame shot clear across the road. Almost instantly the gasoline-socked floor of the garage was ablaze and the flames rapidly spread to other parts of the building. A series of explosions followed as the fire reached the gasoline tanks of the other machines.

The Magnolia fire department saw the smoke and heard the shouting and came out on a still alarm. When they saw the condition of things, they pulled in an alarm for the Manchester fire department, in whose territory the fire lay, and on their arrival, 15 or 20 minutes later, drew out. By the time the departments got there, however, the flames had gained such a headway that the building was doomed and all that could be done was to keep the fire from spreading.

It was feared at one time that the flames would spread to the refuse heap at the rear of the burning garage and from thence to Moulton's garage and stable. The Indian store of G. A. Paul opposite was also in considerable danger and it was only by repeated efforts that the sparks could be kept from igniting the canvas roof. The telephone cables strung along Raymond street in front of the building were burnt out and telephone connection was cut off.

The garage has a capacity of 17 cars although but four were there at the time, the others being either out on the road or having been taken by the chauffeurs with them when they went to dinner. The owners of the cars were all guests at the Oceanside and were: J. D. Cox of Cleveland, Samuel Cupples of St. Louis, George E. Carter of Brookline and S. Alexander Orr of Troy, N. Y. With the exceptions of Mr. Cox' steamer all the cars were Pierce Great Arrows. The garage was one of the most ppoular in Magnolia and its loss will be sorely felt. It is rumored, however, that Mr. Wonson will move into the old Kettle Cove garage.

The engineers of the Manchester fire department wish to take this means of expressing their appreciation of the splendid work and ready assistance given by the Magnolia firemen at the fire at Wonson's garage Thursday.

Evergreens

A MOST

Interesting Spot

Just off the famous Newburyport Turnpike, on a quiet shady lane, in a region rich in historic interest, is FERN-CROFT INN, a charming resting place for the tired traveler in auto or carriage, a most comfortable dining resort patronized by the best sort of people. The new Fern-Croft Inn is in every way the counterpart of the old, which was destroyed by fire last year. The specialty of Fern-Croft Inn, that has made its fame almost world-wide, is its chicken dinners, consisting of a whole broiled chicken to each person, served at $1.50 per plate. Afternoon teas daily 4 to 6.—Telephone: Danvers 45-2.

Crowhurst Cup Race.

The Crowhurst Cup race, the only yacht race of the summer under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club, except the tender class races, has been postponed from yesterday to next Tuesday, August 25, at 2.15. This change was made so as to give the yachts which raced in the open regatta at Gloucester Thursday an opportunity to sail around the Cape Friday so as to race at Annisquam today. Entries will be received until night of Aug. 24.

New Swimming Device at Crescent Beach, Magnolia.

Many different devices have been invented for the insurance of safety and confidence in those who are learning to swim, but the apparatus recently completed by Martin Flaherty, who has opened a studio in the Hesperus bath house at Crescent Beach, Magnolia, seems to be the simplest and yet most practical of all.

The swimming machine, as it is called, merely consists of two iron pipes, set at right angles to each other and extending out over the water. The swimmer is fastened to the arm of the pipe reaching out into deep water by a harness that fits under the arm pits and over the shoulder and is thus kept afloat. The arm is swung around in any position wanted by means of a wire cable, and enables the instructor to keep his pupil in deep water or in shallow, just as he deems best. The device may be moved about at will but is usually set in four or five feet of water.

Mr. Flaherty, the inventor, is a well known gymnasium instructor and his lessons in physical culture have been the remaking of many men already despaired of by their physicians. He was for a time at Philips Exeter Academy and the faculty there informed the student body that any one who would come under his instructions would be excused from the gymnasium work.

At his studio in the Hesperus bath house, Mr. Flaherty has a number of pupils in the art of self defence and punching the bag. He is making a specialty of men run down by business cares, and with exercises with the medicine ball, dumb bells and the gloves he has done wonders on men who, when they came under his treatment were mere nervous wrecks. He may be found at the beach at any time and works in conjunction with Mr. Brown, the life guard and swimming instructor.

Mrs. Frank P. Knight and children returned from spending the summer at Norway, Me., last Saturday.

Mrs. Alfred C. Needham and youngest son are at Winchester, N. H., for a short visit with Principal and Mrs. A. L. Saben, who are spending the summer there.

In last Saturday's issue of the BREEZE we had a very brief account of the rescue at Singing Beach made by Prof. John Conroy, who, by his despatch and thorough knowledge of what he was about, saved Willie Angus, a boy of eleven years, from a death by drowning. The young lad lives with his grandmother on Desmond avenue. The quickness with which the rescue was made, excited the praise and admiration of all who saw it. Conroy was standing 200 feet from the spot where the boy was learning to swim with a pair of water wings. His attention was at first attracted by a pair of water wings floating away from the shore, and on second look saw the boy go under. Without a moment's hesitation he dashed along the beach and into the water. With powerful strokes he reached the boy as he was going down the second time and brought him ashore before scarcely anybody on the beach knew what had happened.

Mrs. James Mann left Wednesday for a visit with her parents in New Brunswick. Mr. Mann goes to Vinal Haven to take a berth on a fishing schooner.

Mrs. William Harvey of School street and son Harry Harvey, and her nephew Fred Mosher are on a visit to relatives and friends in Nova Scotia, leaving Manchester Monday. Mr. Mosher has with him Archie MacDonald, and the two will prolong their visit into late September or the first of October. They will visit Halifax and the sights there, including Parliament, before returning to Manchester.

To Dissolve Corporation.

The corporation known as the New Magnolia Hotel Company, which owned and operated the New Magnolia hotel at Magnolia up to the time of its being destroyed by fire, and whose stockholders and directors are Allen Ainsley and E. R. Grabow of Boston, and Dr. George H. Newell of Gloucester has petitioned for a dissolution, through their attorney, Charles P. Hennessey, Esq., of Gloucester. A hearing will be held on Monday, September 7.

The 2d Annual New England Food Fair.

If you contemplate taking an excursion to Boston this Fall be sure and plan so that you will make the trip sometime between Oct. 5th and 31st, for you will then be able to visit the big New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which is to be held in Mechanics Building, during that period.

From every part of New England the railroad will run extra low rate excursions to the big New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building and the opportunity to see this truly great exposition should not be neglected.

The leading manufacturers of food products throughout America have given their hearty support and co-operation to the 2d Annual New England Food Fair and as a result the display of food stuffs will be unusually attractive.

Wonderland.

Alice is coming soon to Wonderland with a brilliant retinue of fairies, dancing girls, rabbits, Cheshire cats, the hatter, the duck, the mouse, the pig baby, the March hare, the dodo, the mock turtle, the king, queen, courtiers and all the other quaint and most interesting characters of the story book. Alice will make her grand entree into the fairy realms of Wonderland in a Japanese Jinrikis' a drawn by four cute little Japanese boys and after the great dazzling procession marches on the board walk around the lagoon it will enter the arena where a beautiful fairy ship has been constructed. Here, upon its deck will be given a long program of fascinating dances with solos by Miss Mabel Crane; "the Two Little Sugar Plums" specialty by the brunette octette of eight young and pretty girls, choruses and marches and after a unique lobster dance by little Louise Osgood, who is the Alice, she will take her place at the wheel of the goodly vessel. At the word of command the yards will be manned by the big company of sixty girls and in the bewildering finale, all sorts of national songs and dances will be presented, closing with a most beautiful tableau and battle of roses.

This carnival season begins Monday Aug. 31st. and continues without break, until the close of the season at Wonderland on Sunday, Sept. 20th.

7th Original and Only Boston Food Fair.

The watchword of the 7th Original and only Boston Food Fair, to be held for five weeks from Sept. 28th to Oct. 31st inclusive, in the Park Square Coliseum, is superiority.

For attractions contracts have been signed for only the best. The public is already curiously speculating as to the exact nature of the great mystery which is bound to make all spectators look with complete amazement. The greatest adepts in this and other countries at mysteries, illusions, magic, black art, hypnotism, and the like, acknowledge themselves utterly baffled at the secret of this attraction which has been so accurately and inclusively described as "The wonder of the age."

:: Beverly Farms ::

An endorsement paper has been going around among the Republicans of the Farms this week which reads as follows: "We, the undersigned citizens of Beverly, having confidence in the ability and integrity of Clifford B. Bray, and in recognition of his conspicuous public service, heartily endorse him as the Republican candidate for senator, from this district, and pledge to him our unfaltering support." This paper has met with the approval of all who have seen it.

A serious accident was prevented, Thursday forenoon, by the quick action and clear headedness of Joseph Rogers, who, after a sharp stuggle with one of Walter Brewer's horses, which had been startled by a collision with a carriage, driven by a party from Pride's, prevented what appeared to be a bad runaway. The reins of one of the spirited horses became caught under the shafts, causing the horse to shy into the delivery wagon of Walter Brewer standing in front of the market. Mr. Brewer's horse started to run but the presence of mind of Mr. Rogers, who clung to him until others came to his assistance, prevented him going any great ways. The square at the time was thronged with carriages and autos and their attempts to get out of the way added to the excitement

Hereafter the Breeze will be published on Fridays, instead of Saturdays and will be in the hands of the Farms readers Friday night or Saturday morning, a change which will no doubt meet with their approval, as this will practically distribute the news almost a day earlier.

Epilepsy, Fits

Every part of the body has its nerves. It's the channel through which energy—nerve force is transmitted. If too much nerve force goes to a part, it is irritated, causing pain, congestion, spasms, fits, epilepsy, etc. If not enough it is enfeebled, and if none at all paralysis results. Dr. Miles' Nervine soothes the nerves, assists the nerve cells to generate nerve force, and in this way restores nervous energy.

"My eighteen-year-old daughter had fits for five years, as often as two and three a week. She began to take Dr. Miles' Nervine, and she has not had an attack for two months."

B. Frank Hawkins is quite ill at his home in East Wenham.

Miss Edith M. Vicary of Philadelphia is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Elmore at Pride's Crossing.

Miss Mildred Gerrish left the early part of week for a visit to her grandmother at Kittery, Maine.

Archie McNeil and William S. Pike, jr., have accepted positions as night watchman on summer residents' estates at Pride's.

Miss Cassie Williams of High street, who has spent the past three weeks at Lakeport, N. H., visiting relatives, returned home Thursday.

Driver John W. Morgan of Steamer 3, has been enjoying his annual vacation spending it fishing off West Beach and taking in places of interest in this vicinity.

Plans have been made for a good time for all who attend the lawn party at the St. Margaret's rectory grounds next Tuesday evening. The affair is in charge of a committee from St. Margaret's Court of Foresters.

Miss Marion Dickey, the popular bookkeeper at J. B. Dow & Co's coal office starts Monday for a two weeks' vacation visiting places of interest in New Hampshire. Miss Southwick of North Beverly is to substitute during her absence.

Howard A. Doane, Wednesday, attended an outing at Canobie Lake. The affair was a reunion of the Jury of the Supreme Criminal court of which Mr. Doane was a member in the early spring. Upon the conclusion of their duties a permanent organizition was formed with an agreement that the party would meet once a year.

Dr. John W. Cahill of Worcester has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly, the past week.

News from Victorville, Cal., has it that John L. Woodbury has left there and is now located at Los Angeles.

Miss Farrington of Newton, concluded a pleasant two weeks' visit here the middle of the week. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wyatt.

Connolly Bros. have had their steam road roller and a force of men at work this week making repairs on the state highway from Chapman's corner to the Manchester line.

The Street Department has this week put in brick cross walks at both ends of new Vine street. The sidewalks on this street have also been raised, graded and top dressed. All that is now needed to make this thoroughfare perfect is curbstones and cobble gutters.

George W. Medcalf, the 17 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Medcalf, passed away last Monday afternoon at his late home on Pickett's court after an illness from tuberculosis. Furneral services were held Thursday morning from his late residence and interment made in the Farms cemetery.

Several weddings of Beverly Farms young people are scheduled to take place next month.

The Beverly Farms baseball club dance and social was given in Neighbor's hall on Thursday evening and was well attended.

It is with considerable pleasure that the friends of Miss Katherine Leary learn that an operation for appendicitis has been avoided and that she is now getting along very nicely at the Beverly City hospital.

Bathing at West Beach this week has been at its height, and the young people seem to be making the most of a waning summer. Numerous outing parties from out of town have spent the day there. In fact about everyone who has a spare moment finds this spot the pleasant and popular place to spend it.

Station agent W. L. Allen has given out that the public are invited to attend the fourth annual outing of the B. and M. R. R. clerks, who meet at Salem Willows, September 13. Among the attractions provided will be a shore dinner and a sail along the North Shore. Tickets may be purchased for $1.00.

John O'Brien has accepted a position on one of the steamers which runs between Huntington, Long Island, and New York city.

A representative gathering of between 150 and 200 Farms people attended the last band concert and illumination of the season, at Manchester, Wednesday evening. The young ladies from the Farms were particularly interested in the concerts and regret exceedingly their termination.

Now that the public dump on Beach street has been closed, it is the unanimous verdict of all that same should be cleaned up, so that the place will be presentable, but it's an open question who should do it. One thing is certain, however, and that is a fire is needed there to dispose of the unsightly and inflamable material.

John A. Morrison, who invented a tide valve a short time ago has secured patents on same and has already, through several well known engineers, installed the invention and in every case it has worked to perfection. The invention pertains to tide valves, intended to intervene between a land drainage system and tide water, to leave free drainage at low tide and to prevent back flow in the drainage system on flood tide. The efficiency of the above described arrangement is such that the valve is held firmly closed against leakage by the rising tide; while, at the same time it is readily responsive to the ebbing tide to open and allow free drainage of system as described. Drawings can be seen at Connolly Bros'. office.

A daughter arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Medcalf the later part of last week.

Thomas J. McDonnell and two sons, Eddie and Thomas, have spent a portion of this week at Portland, Me., and vicinity.

Mrs. Edwin J. Bliss and son Tyler, returned to the Farms this week after a month's pleasant stay at North Conway and Intervale, N. H.

Mark Knowles, Edward May, James Wright, John W. Morgan and William E. Elliott were among those who took in the firemen's muster at Lowell, Thursday.

Miss Frances Mitchell of Pawtucket, R. I., arrived at the Farms, the early part of the week and is a guest of Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley on West street.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Kilburn of Chester, Vt., are spending a few days at the Farms the guests of relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Kilburn were married a week ago and their visit here is a part of their honeymoon trip.

A. F. Whitridge has concluded his services at the Daniels--Gleason Co. market in Central square. Mr. Whitridge will spend a time vacationizing about the Farms before returning to his former position in Boston.

Alderman Robert E. Hodgkins, the veteran of the city council, will be a candidate for reelection. Councilman Augustus P. Loring, jr., will be a candidate for reelection and has aspirations to serve as president of the lower branch.

The John West Colony of Pilgrim Fathers are planning a grand good time for all who attend their outing and picnic at Tuck's Point, Manchester, Wednesday. Those desiring to go may do so by applying to members of the order. F. I. Lomasney, proprietor of the North Shore Fish Co., will have charge of the clam bake, and a most delicious repast is to be expected.

The dance and hose laying contest of the Farms' Hook & Ladder company, No. 2, will take place in Neighbor's hall next Friday evening. The hose laying contest is a new feature here and no doubt will prove a strong drawing card. Entries will be received up to Tuesday evening and it is expected that there will be about twelve teams competing. Ipswich, Woburn, Newburyport, Peabody, Gloucester and Rockport have already entered teams and it is anticipated that others will be received later. The home teams will not be represented in the contest in order to insure the prizes going to the visiting firemen.

In These Days of Continued Achievements.

Great successes of today are overshadowed by greater ones tomorrow, until at times we stop and wonder if really the limit of man's ingenuity has not nearly reached its end.

At the approach of each succeeding season we meditate and wonder if the creator of the new has not exhausted his faculties for producing things more beautiful, and must say to us, "I rest on my laurels of the past," but that time has not yet come.

Gypsy Moth Pest.

Professor Kirkland, superintendent of the state's gypsy moth department, is sending out notices cautioning gypsy moth employees, amateur entomologists and the public generally against destroying any of his pets who have the high sounding name of Calsomma Sycophanta.

The Cal. Syco. is the first real gypsy moth parasite to thrive in this country, and Prof. Kirkland is guarding them closely. He hopes if he has any kind of luck that in time they will be numerous enough to eat up every gypsy moth in Medford, after which they will be given a chance to banquet upon the moth in other sections of the state.

The secret of the gypsy moth's marvelous increase in Massachusetts has been the lack of suitable natural parasites or other insects to whom the gypsy moth was a natural food. After many unsuccessful attempts the insect above mentioned is now discovered to be thriving and the professor has strong hopes unless some disease appears to kill them by next year the gypsy moth will be killed off automatically by the parasites.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, AUGUST 28, 1908.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF FLOWERS

Fruits and Vegetables held at Manchester Wednesday and Thursday.

The annual summer exhibition of flowers, fruits and vegetables of the North Shore Horticultural society, was held on the grounds of the Essex County club, Manchester, on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. While the rain all day Wednesday and the inclement tendencies of the weather yesterday was responsible for a smaller number of entries than usual, and caused a poor attendance on both days, the quality of the exhibition was far superior in many instances than the shows of previous years.

The display was of a most excellent nature. Tables were placed around the whole of the huge tent, and were filled with beautiful flowers, fruit and vegetables, while running lengthwise in the center were the more hardy foliage and flowering plants.

A very pretty setting to the rest of the display did the three big groups in the center give. In the very center was the group of foliage and flowering plants from Mrs. Lester Leland's (Eric Wetterlow, gardener). This was very imposing and won Mrs. Leland the silver cup. On the other end was the group of ferns from Mrs. Edward S. Grew's (A. E. Parsons, gardener). This took first in the class, a beautiful silver cup. Mrs. Leland's group on the opposite end of the tent took second prize, a silver medal.

A feature of the show was the collection of vegetables entered by Mrs. Gordon Abbott. It was not only the best display shown this year, but one of the finest if not the finest ever exhibited here. Mrs. Abbott (William Irwin, gardener) won the special prize offered by Thos. J. Grey Co. for the best collection of vegetables, 12 distinct sorts, etc., and also the special offered by Schlegel & Fottler Co., for the best collection of vegetables. Schlegel & Fottler Co. also offered a special prize for the best collection of tomatoes and Mrs. Abbott won this, too. The table of tomatoes included over thirty varieties, ranging in size from the red currant tomato to the Livingston's new coreless.

A novel exhibit that attracted universal attention was the vegetable bouquet entered by Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, the work of her gardener, Wm. Kiss. The bouquet occupied a small stand in the

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXVII.

It is something to be grateful for, that whichever of the leading Presidential candidates is elected, we may be reasonably sure of a clean and upright administration; there may be a preference for certain party principles or policies, but either candidate must be respected even by his political opponents. It is a great thing to have personal animosities and bitterness eliminated from a Presidential campaign; in this respect times have changed for the better.

Native taste sometimes counts for more than culture; a mere layman in art may see more in a picture than one who has all the advantages that the schools furnish; one may have more eye for perspective without training, than another with years of artistic theory and practice.

The same holds true in other things. Hugh Miller, the stone-mason, was master of a better English style than a majority of the scholars in the United Kingdom. Dwight Moody, rising in a few years from the shop counter, became one of the greatest preachers in America.

All of which does not prove that education and training are by any means useless; as a matter of fact, these men had some of the best kind of education and training, if not of the technical sort.

Perhaps all that can be said is, that a foundation needs to be laid in nature; and then, the more that can be done by study and art to improve it, if they can improve it, the better.

Some things there are that the passing age does not take too seriously; among them is Solomon's rod, which is quite out of fashion nowadays, doubtless because its usefulness was somewhat exaggerated by our forefathers; for another thing, we are told that sermons must be short, while playwrights are allowed ample scope and verge, as if when the world refuses to hear Moses and the prophets it is going to be persuaded by Smith and Jones.

We pride ourselves much upon our modern improvements in the art of war; but Turks with their scimitars, Highlanders with their broadswords, English archers with their cloth-yard shafts, did great execution; given, stalwart arms, valiant hearts and brave leadership, and the difference between armies is largely a matter of mechanical invention and skill; the men who fought under Alexander and Charlemagne were for soldierly endurance and daring every whit the peers of the men who fought under Wellington and Grant, Dewey and Sampson.

The old is not to be blindly clung to because it is old, any more than the new is to be run after because it is new. Sometimes, the new is a great improvement; we are never tired of saying, "better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay;" but old institutions and customs are not always to be dismissed off-hand like last years' almanac; they are sometimes old because they have proved better than the new; the quiet, restful, church-going Sunday of our fathers had some distinct advantages over the pleasure-seeking, excursion-going Sunday of today; even though the grind and pressure of modern business life may be held to be largely responsible for the latter.

Sentiment and sentimentality are two very different things; sentiment is a very good thing often, as the poetic sentiment, the patriotic sentiment, the religious sentiment; sentimentality is a weak, and sometimes a foolish thing, allied to unreason and gush. It is often well to cultivate sentiment; but sentimentality needs rather to be repressed.

To be able to distinguish between things that differ, but which are often confounded, as in the above instance, is one result of mental culture or true education; half of the misunderstandings and disputes in the world have been caused by the want of such power.

Nowhere more than in Tennyson's later poems is seen the utterly dismal outlook of the Naturalistic philosophy, which the poet so keenly dissected and repudiated with all the intensity of his soul, standing "on the heights of his life with a glimpse of a life that is higher." But the closing quarter of the century might have spared itself wading through sloughs of despond and sinking in abysmal depths of conceit, had it taken counsel of a Greater than a Hegel, a Huxley, a Swinburne, a Matthew Arnold, or even a Tennyson. After sixty years of sore travail, it found itself even more dark and hopeless, and farther from the goal, than at the start, when it "saw the vision of the world and the wonder that should be."

Miss Mary S. Wells of Boston has been the guest this week at the Hesperus, of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Rowe.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning with this issue the North Shore Breeze will be issued on Fridays instead of Saturdays.

A change of this nature toward the close of the summer season may seem strange to many. We believe, however, that in making the change, we are taking a step forward. The principal reasons for making the change are these:

First. So that our out-of-town subscribers may get the paper before Sunday. The suggestion has been made to us several times by members of our summer colony; they complain that they do not get the Breeze until Monday. Under the present conditions the papers do not leave Manchester until the 5.21 mail train Saturday.

Second. To benefit our advertisers. Our big advertisers are continually reminding us that an advertisement appearing in our Saturday's paper does not do them half as much good as if it appeared Thursday or Friday, so that readers could glance over the ad. before doing their Saturday shopping.

Third. Because it will make the work easier for our help. Publishing a 40-page paper every week is not as easy a task as one might imagine. There has been scarcely a week the past summer that the last bundle of papers has been carried to the postoffice before 4 o'clock. And that doesn't allow much time in the remaining hour to do the "rush" jobs of printing, church calendars, etc., that customers "must have" before Sunday.

Now, then, we have this one favor to ask. Will those who have been accustomed to send in notices to the paper,—social notes, personals, advertisements, etc.,—please remember that such must be sent one day earlier than usual hereafter, and must reach this office Thursday, or early Friday morning.

Evergreens

We offer a stock of over 35,000 assorted Evergreens from 2 to 8 feet in height, consisting of Norway Spruce, Coerulea Spruce, White Spruce, Colorado Spruce both blue and green, Scotch Pine, Austrian Pine, White Pine, Mugho Pine, Cephalonica Fir, Nordmans Fir, Douglass Fir, Balsam Fir, American Arbor Vitae, etc. All have been several times transplanted and most of them will lift with a ball of earth at the roots. We also have a choice lot of imported Evergreen Specimens and 10,000 well rooted Dwarf Box for border and edging purposes and make very reasonable prices for this season's planting. Call or send for price list.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd have been spending the week at Niagara Falls and immediate vicinity taking in the sights. Mr. Floyd has been attending the national encampment, Sons of Veterans.

Patrons of the local Chinese laundry, on Beach street, may be interested to learn that Ernert Goon, who has been here so long, has sold his interests the past week to Goon Sing of Boston, who will run the business with Goon Yung, the young man who has been here the past year.

Lagory Wade made a daring rescue of a runaway horse at Salem Sunday. He jumped off an electric car and grabbed the horse's bridle and held on to it until other assistance reached him. He was warmly congratulated on his act by the big crowd that gathered and by his associates in the Lynn Cadet Band.

Duputy Tax Collector Robert Patten of Amesbury paid a visit to Manchester Wednesday and called on the assessors and Town Treasurer Stanley. The commissioners are doing all they can to bring about a closer scrutiny on the part of the assessors in taxing personal property and they advised the local board in this particular. They went over the books, made suggestions, etc.

Work in connection with Manchester's additional water supply is now going on rapidly. The pipe is beginning to arrive and will be put in the trenches as fast as it arrives, practically. The board has called for bids on standpipe, ---both for a steel structure and also reinforced concrete. These figures are to be in by September 4. Bids are to be in by the 9th on the power plant, the specifications calling for a gas-producing plant.

A party of ten Manchester young people enjoyed a launch ride to Nahant Sunday last.

Charles H. Stone attended the reunion of his regiment,—the 18th Mass.,—at Plainville, Wednesday.

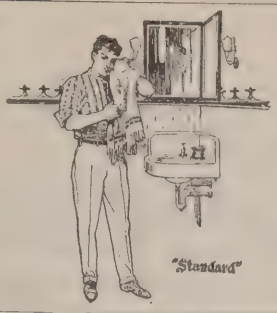

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burchstead were among a party who enjoyed a trip to Canobie Lake Sunday.

Misses Jennie Sargent of the public library and Clara Sargent of the telephone exchange have been sojourning at Greenland, N. H., the past week.

Inspector H. T. Bingham of the immigration bureau, Boston, is having his annual vacation, which he is spending about Manchester at present.

Miss Nannie Sjolund is spending the remainder of a two weeks' vacation with her sisters on Bennett street. The first week was spent in the White Mountains, at North Conway.

At a session of the probate court last Thursday administration was granted on the estate of Alice W. Smith of Manchester, Robert D. Weston of Cambridge, administrator.

The "Isis" returned to her moorings at Pride's Wednesday after a ten days' cruise along the Maine coast, with her owners, W. S. and John T. Spaulding on board, and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. King, and a few other guests.

Friends of Miss Leslie Bradley of Pride's are glad to learn that her injuries received in a fall from her mount late last week were not of a serious nature. She sprained her arm rather badly, but she will be all right in a few days more.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradley Cumings of New York, who have a delightful summer home at Monmouth Beach, N. J., have been spending the week at Beverly Farms with the former's sister, Mrs. Frank Bemis, and family, at their cottage on West Beach.

Miss Marjory Small, who has been having a delightful visit on the North Shore, with her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Moore at Pride's Crossing, left the first of the week for her home in Chicago, but is stopping off at Machinac, Mich., for a short visit with some of her friends.

At "Swiftmoor," her beautiful estate at Pride's, Mrs. E. C. Swift had as her week-end guests Mrs. Dunnels and Miss Dunnels of Syracuse, N. Y., who came on for Judge Moore's private exhibition of his show horses last Saturday. Sunday Mrs. Swift and her guests went to Lowell in her large touring car and lunched with Mrs. Swift's brother, Frank Bailey and family.

Friends of Mrs. George D. Howe of "The Cliffs," Smith's Point, Manchester, are glad to know that she has so far recovered her health that she is now able to drive out daily. Mrs. Howe has been coming to Manchester for a great many years and "The Cliffs," on the ocean side of the point, is one of the most delightfully located estates on the shore. Mrs. Howe has with her at present for a short visit her cousin, Mrs. Henry Coffin of Boston.

Late last week Miss Juliet Higginson left Pride's for a visit at Pointe au Pic, Quebec, where she is the guest of the Bowditches.

Miss Helen Eustis was over from Marblehead last week to take part in the tennis tournament at the Essex County club and was a guest of Miss Delia Dana at Manchester.

Miss Grace Probasco of Cincinnati, who usually pays a visit to her aunts, Mrs. Walter Mitchell and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, at Manchester, every summer, is here at the present time and is with Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell.

Mrs. Francis Watson of Boston has been spending the week at Beverly Farms, visiting Mrs. George Lee, at the latter's delightful summer home, "Villa al Mare." Harry Lee, accompanied by his friend Victor Kennard, has recently returned from a trip to York Harbor.

Miss Mary Astor Paul, who has been on the North Shore the past few weeks circling among her young friends, has returned to her summer home at Radnor, Pa. Miss Paul handled the ribbons charmingly at Judge Moore's private exhibition last Saturday. She drove in the single horse, harness class.

A charming little dinner party was th. t given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Porter at the North Shore Grill, Magnolia, last Saturday evening in honor of their guest over the week-end, Mrs. Larz Anderson, with whom Mrs. Porter has recently been touring the Canadian Rockies. In the party besides Mrs. Anderson and Dr. and Mrs. Porter were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denegre, General and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, Mrs. Knight Wade of New York, Miss Rosamond Porter, Miss Alice Littleton, Dr. Kidner, George Peabody and C. R. Simpkins. Mrs. Anderson left Beverly Farms Monday for Newport, where she has been attending the tennis tournament the past week.

Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer, the eminent Unitarian minister of New York City, has been spending the week at Manchester-by-the-Sea the guest of Mrs. James T. Field, at her delightfully located summer home, Thunderbolt Hill. Dr. Collyer preached at the Unitarian church in Manchester last Sunday and on Monday evening he presided at a meeting at the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia, in the interest of Berea College, in Kentucky. Mrs. Field, by the way, has had another visit the past week from her friend, Miss Sarah Orne Jewett, the author, who was at Manchester earlier in the summer. Miss Jewett came over from her home in South Berwick, Me., accompanied by her sister, Miss Jewett, and have been spending the week with Mrs. Field.

The Misses Margaret and Helen Thomas of Pride's have been spending a few days with friends at Marion the past week.

The death at Heidelberg, Germany, on Sunday, of Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador to Washington, was learned with regret by the many friends on the North Shore of the Baron and Baroness. The Von Sternbergs spent the summer two years ago at Beverly Farms, and the German Embassy headquarters is located here again this year, though the Ambassador returned to Germany at the close of the Washington season to rest this summer.

Mrs. Mary Day Dewart wife of Rev. James H. Dewart, D. D., of St. Paul, Minn., and the mother of Rev. William H. Dewart of the Manchester Cove summer colony, and Rev. Murray W. Dewart, died suddenly at the summer home of her at Manchester, last week in her 65th year.

Col. and Mrs. Harry Russell entertained at the Grill, early in the week, a few of their friends on the North Shore. In the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Eben Jordan of the Manchester summer colony and Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell also of Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Field and James Seaman of Boston formed one of the many merry parties at the Grill Sunday.

Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss of New York, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside, entertained at the Grill early in the week, Miss Lucy Blair of Chicago and Miss Mary T. Armory of Boston.

"Jig Saw" or "Dissected Puzzles," the prevailing craze, in large variety at "The Indian Store," opposite the Colonnade, Magnolia. *

:: At the Hotels ::

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lynch of Greensburg, Pa., who have been spending the major portion of the summer at the Oceanside hotel, and who recently left there for their home in Greensburg, chartered the large National touring car, which Perkins & Corliss have had opposite the hotel this summer at the disposal of any who might wish it, and with their family toured through Portsmouth and southern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. They left Magnolia the first of the week and went to Portsmouth. From there they morored to Boston and on to Narragansett Pier and Newport. After enjoying the pleasures of Newport, they returned to Boston by the way of Plymouth and thence to Magnolia. The trip occupied four days and was made without a mishap.

The week-end was spent most pleasantly by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Stafford of Stanford, Conn., in the Young cottage, a connection of the Hesperus. With them were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Magill and R. Boyle of St. Louis.

Mrs. Charles H. Wolcott and Miss Lanier Comly of Milton spent a few days this week at the Hesperus.

Mrs. M. S. Bolles of Boston entertained at the Hesperus a few days the past week H. M. Taylor, Richard F. Bolles and Mr. and Mrs. C. Gordon Neff of Boston.

The week was spent very pleasantly by George F. Crocker of New York at the Hesperus.

Among the early arrivals of the week at the Hesperus were Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Bloern, Mrs. J. Schwabacher, and Mrs. N. B. Morris of Chicago. The party are now planning to remain at the hotel for the balance of this week and next.

Mrs. H. F. Widenfeld of New York spent a few days this week at the Hesperus.

F. C. Humphrey of New York also spent a few days at the Hesperus this week, where he occupied apartments in the Young cottage.

Miss Archibald of Scranton, Pa., was the guest this week at the Hesperus of Mrs. R. J. Bennell, a recent arrival at that hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moses and family of Chicago, spent a few days this week at the Hesperus.

Mrs. Frank Billings of Cleveland, accompanied by Miss Alice Chittenden and Mr. and Mrs. J. Buckley of New York, spent a few days this week in the Hesperus Villa, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mitchell.

Mr. Lane was a delegate to the Pan Anglican Convention and enjoyed many of the delightful entertainments in connection with the convention. Miss Helen Le Roy Lane who has been with her grandmother at Overledge all summer has returned from a visit to Hyannisport in time to meet her father and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman gave several luncheons and dinners at Edgecliff, their attractive summer residence at Manchester last week, for their house party, most of whom remained until Monday of this week. In the party over the week-end were Brig. General William Crozier of Washington, Chief of Ordnance, Representative Gillette of Springfield, Justice William H. Moody of Haverhill and Washington, Miss Mary Williams of Washington, daughter of the late senator, and Captain and Mrs. Walter Phelps and two young daughters. Capt. and Mrs. Phelps left a day or two ago for Stoney Creek, Conn., after which they go to their summer home on the New Jersey coast.

Society Notes

The private exhibition of Judge W. H. Moore's show horses at "Rockmarge Driving Park," Pride's Crossing, last Saturday afternoon was a brilliant success, both as to the exhibition itself and the social feature of the affair. Seats were arranged on the little knoll near the entrance to the park and over 300 guests were there to see the various events run off, after which the guests went over to the Moore summer residence, where tea was served on the piazza and on the beautiful terraces on the water side of the house.

The first class was started at the park promptly at three o'clock and by shortly after four the last class, road fours were started around the track. The twelve classes included: horses in hand, saddle horses, single horses in harness not exceeding 15 hands, pairs horses 15 hands and over, single horses not exceeding 15.2 hands, pairs horses not exceeding 15 hands, single horses 15.2 hands and over, pairs horses not exceeding 15.2 hands, pairs horses not exceeding 15.1 hands, ladies to drive, tandems any height, park fours and road fours.

Pride O' Prides and King Of Kings, considered the finest pair of high stepping horses in the country, was driven by Judge Moore himself in the pairs horses' class. Gerard Bement handled the ribbons over the two Russians in the tandem class. Miss Eleanora Sears and Miss Paul drove in the pairs horses' class, ladies to drive, and handled the reins with skill. Bryce Allen drove one of the tandems also. North Shore people only hope that the show will be made an annual event, so enjoyable did this the first one of the kind ever given on the shore, prove.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Tibbitts of Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Melville of Wenham formed a merry little dinner party at the Grill Saturday.

:: At the Hotels ::

While Mr. Hamilton, the proprietor, has not yet definitely decided, the hotel will probably keep open until the 8th or 9th of September.

Mrs. Marshall Field of Chicago, who is spending the summer at Dublin, N. H., paid a visit to her neice, Mrs. A. J. Beveridge, wife of the Senator, at Manchester this week, and had apartments at the Masconomo House from Sunday until Wednesday, when she left again for Dublin.

Mrs. Willis A. Barnes and Miss A. H. Barnes of Davon, Pa., registered at the Masconomo Thursday for the balance of the season.

Among the arrivals of the week at the Masconomo were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parks of Beaumont, Texas, who have taken apartments there for the balance of the month and September.

Registered at the Masconomo this week are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kellog and Mr. and Mrs. Mchane Van Wigen of New York.

Crowhurst Cup Race.

The only race of the season at the Manchester Yacht club, with the exception of the tender classes, was sailed Tuesday for the Crowhurst cup, offered by Francis M. Whitehouse. The cup was captured, as last season, by George Lee's 22-footer, the Marie L.

With a smooth sea and a light breeze from the south-east on her beam, she easily walked away from all her competitors, coming in well ahead. With her tops'ls well aloft she reached along fast and made up her poor start, catching the other crafts with the exception of the Essex and the Edjacko at the first mark. In the beat to the Halfway rock she passed the Essex and closed in on the Edjacko, sailed by a lad of 16. Once around the weather mark her spinnaker was set to port and she ran back to Martin's rock, finishing with a big lead. The Ellen, although she came in fourth, got second place on allowance and came in fast with her topsail and big ballooner.

The cash prizes were won by the Ellen, Edjacko, Khalifa and Bandit. The summary of the race follows:

Name and owner.	Actual time. h. m. s.	Cor'cted time. h. m. s.
Marie L., George Lee	1 58 28	1 56 23
Ellen, C. P. Curtis	2 07 57	2 02 41

Brilliant Rescue at Magnolia Beach

G. A. Bramwell of New York, a guest at the Oceanside, was rescured from a death by drowning yesterday noon by J. H. P. Brown, the swimming instructor at Magnolia Beach, while attempting to ride the surf in a canoe.

Mr. Bramwell, accompanied by John Darragh also of New York, took the canoe, belonging to their host, C. A. Potter, jr., and launched her in the heavy surf, kicked up by the storm of Wednesday night. They had gotton about 150 yards from the shore off the rocks at Coolidge's Point when the canoe was swamped and they were left struggling in the water. Darragh who is a strong swimmer, struck out for the shore to bring assistance leaving Bramwell clinging to the canoe. Mr. Brown saw that Bramwell was unable to swim and without a moment's hesitation plunged into the breakers and swam strongly and swiftly to his aid. Just as he reached him, Bramwell lost his hold on the overturned canoe, having been swept off by the waves, and Brown was forced to dive for him. Unaided he brought the now unconscious man to shore and immediately began to work over him. Restoratives were applied and after a time Bramwell was able to be removed to the hotel, where he is now not much the worse for his narrow escape.

All who saw Mr. Brown's quick and efficient rescue are loud in praise of his clear headedness and ability and unite in saying that it was the prettiest exhibition of life saving one could possibly wish for. The surf was tremendous, the highest it has been this season, and its heighth was increased by the fact that the accident happened at about twelve-thirty when the tide had just begun to ebb.

The Open Tournament at Essex County Club.

The finals in the open amateur golf tournament at the Essex County club was played last Saturday afternoon and was won by W. L. Travis of the Garden City golf club, who defeated H. H. Wilder of Vesper 2 up. The match was an interesting one throughout and was not won until the 17th hole was reached.

The tournament was one of the most successful ever held at Manchester. In the qualifying round Thursday there were 110 players. Friday the first and second rounds, at match play, of the three sixteens, were played off, and on Saturday the semi-final and final rounds were concluded.

While the match in the first sixteen, between Travis and Wilder, was the leading match of the day, the matches in the second and third sixteens also occasioned considerable interest. In the second sixteen W. W. Reed, Lexington, beat A. F. Southerland, Essex, 5 up and 4 to play. R. M. Purves, Woodland, beat R. G. Shaw, Country, in the third sixteen 4 and 3. In the final round of the losers' first sixteen J. G. Anderson beat J. H. Childs, 1 up.

The handicap medal play competition last Saturday was won by J. B. Hylan with a 76-3-73, one of the lowest gross scores of the season. J. H. Childs was second with a 79-3-76.

So much interest has been taken in the two open tournaments this year at the Essex County club that there is not any doubt but that two, or perhaps three, will be arranged in next season's schedule.

LAWN PARTY

In Aid of Sacred Heart Church, Manchester, a Grand Success.

The lawn party held in Manchester last Monday evening for the benefit of the building fund of the new Sacred Heart church, was a grand success.

The field located near the church was very kindly given over to Fr. Powers for the party and booths were arranged on all sides. The grounds were brilliantly lighted with electric lights and Japanese lanterns.

Rev. Fr. Wm. F. Powers

On the side of the field near the old church had been built a platform on which dancing was enjoyed all the evening by a crowd of young people, and within the old church a concert was given by the colored troubadours of Savannah, Ga.

Here, too, the beauty contest was carried on. Sitting on chairs slightly elevated from the floor sat the two "beauties." One of them, after the powder and make up was removed was discovered to be Joseph Leary, and the other Joseph Bellevue. They picked up a generous box of spare change, however. Fred Dougherty in the grab of an Indian, standing before his tepee named very suggestively "Wanyomoni," sold souvenir postals and sweet grass.

Shortly after 7.30 a grand parade started from the railroad station headed by the Bingville Band, with Humphrey Dulce as leader. The parade marched through the principal streets to the church.

Beside those at the various booths there were smaller stands, and peddlers of peanuts, cool drinks, etc. Harry S. Tappan made a bully good farmer doling out root beer. Others in fancy costume were Daniel Sheehan, James Kinsella, Dr. Dougherty, John Reilly and Jack McCann.

Those in charge of the various booths were as follows:

Parish Table—Miss Margaret O'Neil, Miss Teresa O'Neil, Mrs. Joseph Mears, Mrs. Charles Francis, Mrs. P. J. Cleary, Mrs. John Reardon, Mrs. C. W. Fritz, Mrs. Joseph Leary, Mrs. Henry Bohaker, Mrs. John Connors, Miss Mary Steele, Miss Helen Mears, Miss Catharine Boddy and Miss Mary Gaynor.

Sunday School Table—The Misses Josephine Sheehan, Catharine Watson, Josephine White, Helen Coughlin, Mary Barry, Elizabeth Dillon, Agnes Gillis, Anna Francis, Mary McNeary, Mary Corrigan and Mrs. J. W. Cawthorne.

Smith's Point Table—The Misses Julia Culloty, Catharine Crowley, Mary Brophy, Mary Lee, Nellie Riley and Mary Coughlin.

West Manchester Table—The Misses Josephine Lean, Mary Sullivan, Nellie Gosnell, Eliza McCarthy, Delia Colleran, Mary Gillis, Catharine Walsh, Elizabeth McMillan, Marie Foley, Margaret Dougherty.

Magnolia Road and Coolidge's Point Table—Mrs. Emily Keating and the Misses Nellie Brown, Mary McDonald, Mary Kelly, Bridget Broderick and Sarah Ryan.

Committee in charge of Knights of Columbus' Sideshow. James Kinsella, Dr. W. J. Dougherty, Lawrence Watson, P. J. Cleary, Fred Dougherty and Hugh Burke.

The little red schoolhouse through the windows of which the boys threw balls was donated by Melville Woodbury of Beverly; the carpenter work in connection with the party was donated by Roberts & Hoare and Samuel Knight & Sons, and the electric lights by Clark & Mills.

A program was prepared and contained a history of the church in Manchester, prepared by Rev. Fr. Powers, with pictures of the pastor, the church and of the parochial residence. A list was also given of those who had assisted by subscription toward the building fund this season.

RECORDS kept by the caretaker at Singing Beach, Manchester, show that 4959 persons have used the public bathhouse at the beach the present season,—from May 1 to Aug. 26. In 1907 for the same period the figure was 4355. The record by months this season is:

May	57
June	820
July	2023
August	2059
Total	4959

These figures speak for themselves. Those familiar with conditions at Singing Beach wonder how so many persons could be accommodated at the small, cramped-up bathhouse which we are accustomed to call the "public bathhouse." The figures show that an average of almost 80 persons daily during August have used the town house. Nothing could more plainly emphasize the need of larger and more commodious accommodations. The extent of the town bathhouse at present is a small building about 6 x 20 feet, divided off into 5 small rooms, two of which are reserved for ladies, two for gentlemen, and one used by the caretaker. Sunday in particular these are taxed to their uttermost all day long.

Singing Beach is one of the finest bathing beaches along the Atlantic coast, and it has grown in popularity wonderfully in the past few years since the town has provided a bathouse for the free use of the public. Manchester should keep in the lead and provide better quarters and afford better bathing privileges for its people. A few thousand dollars would give a splendid bathhouse sufficiently large for many years to come. And at the same time most of the private, tumble-down bathhouses along the beach could be done away with.

This is something that should go through at our March meeting next spring.

IN ten days our schools will open. A good start is a battle half won. The busy season is almost over. The golden opportunity meets you at a most opportune time. You have had a rest from your labors and been refreshed by pleasant associations, and now feel ready for duty. You are impressed that life requires a fitness to get the most out of it, and your aspirations lead you in seeking for that which will mete out to you a full recompense of reward for endeavors put forth. Our schools have wisely and carefully considered you and your desires and have made special provisions to meet these demands, and cordially invite you thither.

There never has been a time in the history of our country when expert and intelligent young men, who have been taught practical life-lessons and thoroughly educated for business, were in such demand as at present. So great is the money capital of our country, so sharp is the competition, so great is the value of time, and so expert have leading business men become, that young men no longer have a chance to excel, and hardly to succeed in any calling, unless they are trained directly for this changed condition of the time.

These things considered our schools should have the largest attendance in their history when they open on the Tuesday following Labor Day.

COMMENTING editorially on Manchester's low tax rate the Gloucester Daily Times Tuesday said: "The town officials and especially the tax-payers of Manchester must feel a fine degree of pride, when they contemplate the condition which presents itself for their benefit at the present time. With almost every city and town of the commonwealth showing an increase in its tax rate for the present year, Manchester occupies the proud and gratifying position of showing a decrease in that department. Naturally people in less fortunate communities endeavor to seek a cause for this fine showing. Is it because the Manchester officials are more competent, more efficient, or more economical? Does the town fail to provide for the several departments in a proper manner? Is there a stinting in any of the departments to the detriment of good service?

"We do not believe that any of these queries can be answered in the affirmative. The schools, police department, fire department and other departments of the town appear to be handled in a proper manner. The police department is not burdened with the maintenance of a large and costly building, or a large police force, because conditions in the town do not demand it.

"In the highway department, great efficiency is manifested, judging from the condition of the roads through the town, and certainly the principal thoroughfares are models which many a larger place might do well to follow. In this department, there must be a great saving each year as compared with expenditures in other places, from the fact that whatever task is undertaken is carried out in a thorough and business-like manner."

THE Manchester tax rate shrinks 20 cents and stands at $9.40. Fortunate the town with millionaire summer residents.—Boston Advertiser.

Society Notes

The last of the three musicals is being given this afternoon at Mrs. E. C. Swift's, Pride's Crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott are away from West Manchester on an auto trip to the White Mountains.

Among the many auto parties that stopped at the Grill, Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Salmon and their son, E. B. Salmon, jr.

A merry yachting party from the "Nakina," the handsome steam yacht of G. E. Sykes of Rockville, Conn., dined at the North Shore Grill Saturday and enjoyed the excellent cuisine to be found there. The members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sykes of Rockville, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Macomber of Paris, France, Miss Davenport and F. D. Harkness of Clyde, O., and L. V. Harkness of New York.

The fourth in the series of five German readings given by Fraulein Wolters will be held at the home of Mrs. James McMillan, Wednesday, Sept. 2. Fraulein Wolters announces on that date a change in her program, and she will read one of the latest of Sudermann's writings, the Schauspiel, "Margot." The last in the series will be held at Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, jr.'s, at Pride's Crossing, Sept. 9th, and she will then read Schiller's "Das Lied von der Glocke."

Tennis Finals.

On the Oceanside courts Monday Edmund Dana won the Magnolia cup away from Charles Penhallow in the challenge round of the men's singles. The match was closely contested, but Dana won by his superior service and by continually passing Penhallow at the net. Penhallow played a very aggressive net game. The score was 6-2, 7-5, 6-8, 6-1.

The final round of the men's doubles was also played and was won by F. Taylor and A. Nazro, who defeated the Auchincloss brothers—S. S. and G. Auchincloss, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Sunday Night Concert.

The program for next Sunday evening concert at the Hesperus follows:

Overture, Orphans	Offenbach
Minuet	Paderewski
Intermezzo	Macbeth
Hungarian Rhapsody	Hauser
Mr. Bernard Fiedler
Suite Pastiche	Lachume
Largo	Handel
Humoreske	Doorah
Mr. Ralph Smalley

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bell are on a trip to the Granite State, making the journey by horse and carriage. They have been stopping at the Greystone cottage, New Boston.

Benson & Hedges, the well known cigar manufacturers, have on exhibition at Cheever's Drug store one of their La Carona cabinets holding 500 cigars, which sells complete for $200.

E. P. Stanley, Daron and Thomas Morsa are in Boston today attending the annual regimental reunion of the old 19th Mass., at the Revere House. Mr. Stanley is the president of the association at present.

At their meeting last evening the selectmen received bids on supplying the various town departments with coal, the specifications calling for 257 tons hard coal and 22 tons soft coal, with the provision that more would be furnished at the same figures until Aug. 1, 1909. The figures received were:

	White Ash Broken	White Ash Egg and Stove	Cumberland Soft
J. B. Dow & Co.	$6.44	$6.69	$4.40
Sam. Knight & Sons	6.50	6.75	5.10

The contract was awarded to James B. Dow & Co. The total difference in the figures amounts to about $30.

A feature of the flower show which we neglected to mention in the account was the night blooming ceres belonging to Mrs. William Cheever.

The high winds of Wednesday and yesterday kicked up a tremendous surf at Singing Beach and many went to the beach to see the breakers as they came rolling in. Only a few, however, dared to venture out into them. In the afternoon the raft, put off by the summer residents, split squarely in half and the supporting casks, torn from their fastenings were washed high up on the beach. This is the only real high sea we have had here this season and the spray, flung high in the air dashed against the rocks with a roar of thunder, formed a picture not soon to be forgotten.

Daring Rescue by Conroy.

As we go to press, we learn of the daring rescue of Walton Scully, a lad of ten years, by Prof. John Conroy from death by drowning in the heavy surf at Singing Beach this morning at 11 o'clock. The lad had been carried out beyond the breakers by the undertow, and was unable to get back. Conroy heard his cries for assistance, and, at the risk of his own life, plunged in after him. The heavy surf buffeted him about aud even he was unable to reach the shore with his burden, and a life line was thrown him by Arthur McCormack and Harry Swett who waded out into the breakers and assisted the pair ashore. The rescue was the hardest Conroy ever attempted, and he was pretty well exhausted. Young Scully is spending a fortnight, with his mother, Mrs. J. W. Scully of Pittsburg, with his aunts, Mrs. T. M. Cook and Mrs. James H. Childs at Old Neck, Manchester.

Bronze Medal Awarded.

In recognition of his services in saving the life of his companion, George Duncan, early in the season, Eric Wetterlow, gardener for Lester Leland at West Manchester, has been awarded a bronze medal by the Massachusetts Humane society.

As related in the BREEZE at the time, Duncan and Wetterlow were in swimming at West Manchester, having dove from a row boat about 100 yards from shore, when the former was taken with a cramp. Wetterlow went to Duncan's assistance and came very near loosing his own life in the attempt. In a last desperate effort, however, he grabbed Duncan as he was going down the third time and brought him ashore.

National Championship at Myopia.

The links at the Myopia Hunt club, Hamilton, have been the center of attention in golfing circles the past few days. Yesterday the professional golfers' annual national championship started,—the open tournament of the United States Golf association. Besides the pick of the flock in the U. S., there were starters from other countries, including Mexico, Canada and Great Britain. The course at Hamilton is considered the best in the United States, every hole free and unhampered, with no terrors to one who plays on the line and can get distance.

There were 84 players in the qualifying rounds—36 holes—yesterday.

Yesterday's gale bothered the players considerably and the lost balls were numerous. Willie Smith of Mexico, national champion in 1889, led the field by three strokes with an aggregate of 159 for the first 36 holes. John Jones of Myopia came second, but three strokes behind. The present holder of the title, Alex Ross, Brae-Burn, was 26th on the list and 15 strokes behind Smith.

Joseph Lloyd, golf instructor at the Essex County club, was matched to play with Jack Dingwall of the Edgeworth club in the qualifying round yesterday morning.

Mr. Lloyd qualified in yesterday's play and came in 39th on the list with a score of 180. Today he is paired to play with Lawrence Auchterlonie of Glen View, who turned in a score of 168 and came in 10th on the list yesterday.

August Ball at Oceanside.

The annual August ball at the Oceanside will be held in the main dining-hall of that hotel, tomorrow evening, and a large attendance is expected. As has been the custom in preceding seasons, the management of the hotel extends a hearty welcome to the cottagers of Magnolia and Manchester, to attend and join in the festivities of the evening. Unlike the July ball, the music will be furnished by the house orchestra, but, on the other hand, the hall will be undecorated, with the exception of a few palms. This is a new practice, installed by the new management and is considered by many a decided improvement over the elaborate decorations of former years.

A grand athletic exhibition by the boys and girls at all the Salem parks will be held this afternoon, marking the close of the summer work. Misses May and Gerturde Connolly have been teachers at the Mack and Broad Street parks, respectively, and their pupils are taking part in the meet.

Miss Annie K. Holmes entertained her music pupils at her boat house at West Beach yesterday.

Percy Leveen rendered several solos at the entertainment and fair of the Sarah Wyman Whitman club in the church last evening, and was generously applauded on his splendid work.

Day Officer Calvin L. Williams started on his annual vacation Thursday, which he will spend in the vicinity of the Farms. Officer Pickett is on duty here at present.

Miss Violet Batchelder, who has been on a vacation trip to New York, returns tomorrow and will be ready to take up her work again on Monday, hairdressing, manicuring, shampooing, etc.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The preliminary papers have been passed in a real estate transfer at Pride's Crossing by which Henry Clay Frick is soon to become the owner of the Brower estate on Hale street, which adjoins Mr. Frick's present holdings. For several years Mr. Frick has endeavored to secure these properties, but it was not until recently, after the death of some of the owners, that it was possible to secure an agreement for sale. There are over nine acres in the plot and the purchase gives Mr. Frick practically all the land between his present holdings and the Trowt and Pierce estates and between Hale street and the B. and M. R.. R. Plans are being made for the improvement of the purchase and much of it will be laid out in gardens.

Work was started this week on a beautiful new residence at North Beverly for Dr. John C. Phillips. The residence will be located at Enon Bluff, on the west shore of Wenham Lake, one of the most beautiful locations for a summer home in that section of the North Shore.

Manchester

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Knoerr had as their guests over last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Wehrley of Somerville Highlands. Charles Titus of Cambridge was their guest Thursday and they will have over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. George Kendrick of Mattapan.

The biggest crowd of the season was out for the prize dance given under the direction of Peter A. Sheehan, Tuesday evening. The judges were Joseph Flynn of Gloucester, Joseph Kearney of Rockport, Joseph Kennedy of Beverly Farms, Joseph Conway of Magnolia and and William Cook of Manchester. The prize dance started at 11.40 and the judges awarded the prizes as follows: John J. Lamb and Miss Annie Lawson of Rockport, first, $10; Ernest Howe of Manchester and Katherine Donohue, Rockport, second, $5. There were 125 couples on the floor, two launch loads of young people coming from Gloucester. Long's orchestra furnished the music.

The annual ball of the Essex County club employees was given in the Town hall on Thursday evening and was a largely attended affair.

Nine O Hearts, the polo pony that has won so many races along the North Shore the past two years, captured two one-quarter mile races at the Bar Harbor show last week. The horse is owned by James Schilliday of Manchester, and was ridden by Bion Tuckerman.

Plans are now well perfected for the field day to be held at Tuck's Point on Labor Day, Sept. 7, under the auspices of the local council, K. of C. There will be a baseball game between nines from the Manchester and Beverly councils. There will also be 100 yd. dash, shot put, running broad jump, an exhibition by Prof. Conroy and dancing. Fish dinner at 12 o'clock. Speakers are expected from out of town including the supreme knight, national chaplain, state deputy, state secretary and state chaplain.

Motor Boat Race.

What has become of the Manchester Launch club? There has not been a motor boat race this summer at Manchester. Why not get up a little excitement for Labor Day and have a race? High tide at 8 a. m.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Magnolia

Marshal Marchant has detailed Reserve Officer Wilkins for permanent duty the remainder of the season at Magnolia on the Shore road and around Rafe's Chasm. His hours of duty are from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock at night.

The death at Gloucester last week of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Linnekin, all happening within a period of 48 hours, was one of the saddest events ever brought before the people of this vicinity. Cholera infantum was the cause of death in each case. Two of the children were twins, scarcely five months old. Mr. Linnekin is one of the force of employes at the Magnolia railroad station and he is receiving the sincere sympathy of his many friends here.

At a meeting of the democratic city committee of Gloucester last Friday evening Lafayette Hunt, Gilbert Crispin, Cornelius F. Murray and James R. Pringle were elected to represent this ward on the general committee.

Cards are out announcing the engagement of Miss Georgianna Lucinda Dunbar to George Manning Doucet. The wedding will take place on Saturday evening.

The many friends of Miss Helen B. Lycett, assistant clerk at the Magnolia post office will be sorry to hear that she has been confined to her home the past week.

Misses Anna Martin, of Lynn, and Edith Cunningham of Gloucester were the guests of Mrs. Henry Brown the first of the week.

Mrs. Alice Harvey of Allston, and Mrs. Edw. Somes of Gloucester were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Knowlton on Tuesday.

The Men's Clubhouse Project

Five Questions Answered. Read the Last One.

F. J. LIBBY.

1. Why? Because Magnolia, however delightful visitors may find it, contains no adequate place of amusement for the men who work for the visitors. Hence one gentleman writes: "I regard the successful launching of a Men's Club as of the very greatest importance to Magnolia. Though I do not expect directly to gain, indirectly the purifying of conditions in Magnolia is of great interest to me, and will benefit us all who live near by. I will therefore gladly subscribe $500."

Another writes: "I heartily approve of all you are attempting in this connection and need no urging to cooperate. I took $50 stock in the Women's Club enterprise and will take stock to the amount of $100 in the Men's Club."

2. What? A building of basement and two stories. In the basement, bowling alleys and pool tables; on the first floor, a good restaurant and social hall; on the second floor 24 neat rooms to let. The building would cost between $12,000 and $15,000 furnished. It would be self supporting as the Women's Clubhouse is.

3. Where? On the double lot on Magnolia avenue between the new store of Philip Lycett and the Summerside Laundry. This corner lot contains 23,598 sq. ft., and has been bought at 10 cents a foot, which is very cheap indeed.

4. When? This fall and winter, provided you will help a little. "Many a little makes a mickle."

5. How? First, By Subscription. Shares in the property will cost $25 each. The following is the generous beginning of the subscription list:

	Payable this year	Payable on or before Aug 1, 1909
Mrs. Wm. McMillan	$500.	$500.
Miss Houghton	500.
Chas. H. Bull	100.
T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr.	250.	250.
Miss Faulkner	500.	500.
Mrs. Curry	500.	500.
Subscriptions less than $100	150.
Totals	$2,500.	$1,750.

SECOND, BY THE TAG DAY

The total on Monday, August 24th is then, $4250. The subscriptions have just begun! The next fortnight will see this sum doubled, we hope.

Are you one of those who are interested but can only give a dollar or two?

Then Tag Day is for you. Friday, August 28th you will be confronted by bright girls with red ribbons for sale marked "M. C. H." (Men's Clubhouse). Pay for your ribbon whatever you want your donation to be. Wear it that day and you will not be solicited again by the other "taggers." We expect that Tag Day will bring in $1000. Will you help to make it a day of enthusiastic cooperation in a good cause?

James Nazzaro, Hair Dresser

Wants gentlemen who wear their hair pompadour style to know that this is the only place in Manchester where the above haircut is cut in the proper fashion to become the head and features of the face.

And bear in mind the fact that one bad haircut will disfigure your face for a month. This is why I invite you to call at my up-to-date parlor, opp. Post Office, this town, to have your hair cut.

I employ expert hair cutters. Come once and you will come again. Our specialty of designing new hair cutting styles every season is known all over Manchester and vicinity.

Remember, our place is opposite the Postoffice, Manchester, Mass.

Wonderland.

All good little girls and boys must see "Alice in Wonderland" and if there should happen to be any naughty little children hereabouts they certainly will mend their ways if they should be taken to see this wondrous spectacle of brilliancy, beauty, mirth, melody, fantasy and festival dancing, the greatest and most costly production ever given out-of-doors in America. It will be a carnival time of such bewildering charms and elaborateness of detail that one hardly knows where to begin to write about it.

"Alice in Wonderland" will be absolutely free to all patrons of Wonderland. This brilliant spectacle, of course, can only be given in the evening. The first presentation will be Monday evening Aug. 31st, and the carnival season will continue until Sunday night Sept. 20th, when Wonderland will close for the year 1908.

Chase-Chace Reunion.

The ninth annual reunion of the Chase-Chace family association will be held at the Hotel Vendome, Boston, Thursday, September 3, at ten in the morning. Representatives of the Chamberlin, Bates, Alden and Twitchell family associations will be in attendance as guests. An invitation to attend the reunion is extended to all of the Chase-Chace name or descent.

Former Manchester Pastor Abandons Calls on His Parishoners During the Heated Season.

The hot weather and its attendant necessity for negligee costume has caused the Rev. C. A. Lincoln, assistant pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, at St. Louis, formerly pastor of the Congregational church at Manchester, to abandon making calls in the summer time. He too often arrives when the women members of his flock are in that flowing, loose, how-cool-I-am raiment, and, as a consequence, finds it difficult to attend properly to his duties.

The Rev. Mr. Lincoln declares that too often, while making his calls, he is forced to wait in the parlor, holding his hands, while the hostesses array themselves, that is, those who do not appear in the fascinating negligee which they affect on the insufferably hot days.

"I do not care to interrupt a satisfying siesta," said the Rev. Mr. Lincoln. "Hence I tried to choose a later afternoon hour. But even then I found that I either had to wait too long or put my hostess to the necessity of appearing in her negligee. I have no objection to this cool raiment, you understand, but I know the ladies do not like to appear in a minister's presence thus, so I just decided to put off my calls on the women members and devote myself to the men."—Exchange.

Policy of Highway Commissioners Toward Autoists.

In order that all chauffeurs and operators of automobiles and motor vehices may clearly understand its policy and intentions toward them the board of highway commissioners have given out this statement:—

The highway commission has taken action during the past week upon a number of complaints against operators of automobiles brought by the Safe Roads Automobile Association.

Three cases illustrate the principle which is now being enforced—that the operator of an automobile, or the person who is responsible for the safety of the other users of the highway, even when he is guilty of no gross carelessness or recklessness, but an accident happens through his inadvertence, or his failure to recognize the conditions of the road, or to operate properly in an emergency—the penalty, of course, being different, according to the character of the accident, and the reasons therefor.

License Revoked.

The highway commission have revoked the license of Charles H. Raymond, a chauffeur in the employ of Mrs. Mary T. Leiter, who spent most of the summer at Manchester, the evidence presented in support of a complaint against him showing that Raymond was running his automobile at an excessive rate of speed on a highway in Manchester, and that he passed one team upon the right, and went between that and the one ahead, passing that to the left, and then turning in passed a carriage coming in the opposite direction, all at excessive speed, so close that he touched the head of the horse of one team and back wheel of the other wagon.

The Biggest Food Fair.

What you get for 25c. In the first place, there is the big Food Fair itself, the biggest ever given in Boston and probably the biggest in the world. The legitimate food exhibits themselves are more than worth the price of admission. The thousands of free samples and souvenirs to be given away by the exhibitors will be worth many times more than the admission price. Free to all patrons of the Boston Food Fair will be the concerts by Sousa and his band of 65 pieces. As if you had not already got enough and more than enough for your 25c there is still further provided for your amusement an immense entertainment hall, seating 2000 people, where free vaudeville will be given every afternoon and evening. Only high class attractions will be presented there, among them being "The Wonder of the Age," a genuine mystery which will be seen here for the first time outside of New York.

center of the tent and one could not tell at first glance but that it was a bouquet of real flowers. Only close inspection revealed the fact that the beautifully colored crimson roses were carved beets, or that the cream white dahlias were white turnips, or the zinnias of such rich red were beets. The "flowers" were set in a bank of asparagus.

A table that attracted considerable attention was that containing the collection of vegetables from Mrs. E. S. Grew's. It won a second in the special class offered by Thos. J. Grey Co.

The silver cup offered by George R. White for the best and largest collection of vegetables, limited to two society tables, was won again this year by Mrs. Philip Dexter (James Salter, gardener,) who thus became the possessor of the trophy, as it had to be won twice before becoming the absolute property of the exhibitor. Mrs. Dexter also won the special prize offered by Joseph Breck & Sons for the best collection of sweet corn.

Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane (Herbert Shaw, gardener) won the special prize offered by Schlegel & Fottler Co. for best collection of annuals and flowers grown from seed planted the present season. The silver cup offered by Geo. F. Willett for the best table of flowers arranged for effect by ladies only was won by Mrs. G. E. Cabot.

Mrs. James McMillan (F. F. Brasch, gardener) won several prizes, including Thos. J. Grey's special for best collection of annuals not over twenty sorts, including Grey's select African marigolds; best six vases of perennial phlox; best collection of garden prize double zinnias; and also a special mention for her collection of zinnias.

B. Hammond Tracey had a splendid exhibition of gladioli occupying four tables.

Miss Mary Bartlett (Bernard Reilly, gardener) won several prizes for her collections of sweet peas, asters, hunemannia fumanæfolia, phlox drummondii, salpiglossis, scabiosa, centaurea, perennial phlox, golden glow, etc.

:: Beverly Farms ::

News has been received from Colorado of the recent death of Clarence Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Williams, formerly of Beverly Farms, but now residing at North Easton. Mr. Williams enlisted in the U. S. Navy and his term of enlistment would have now expired. A short time ago it was discovered that he was afflicted with tuberculosis and was sent by the authorities to South Colorado for treatment. His end came, however, from an attack of typhoid fever. The body will be brought East for interment in the family lot in the Beverly Farms cemetery. Mr. Williams is a young man, being in his 21st year.

Texas Will Exhibit.

Not content with securing the largest national exhibit of the kind ever sent to America—The Mexican Government exhibit—the management of the great New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which is to be held in Mechanics Building, Boston, from Oct. 5 to 31 has secured still another big government display, this time from the state of Texas.

The section is located along the west side of Grand Hall, beneath the balcony and directly under the Mexican Government Exhibit. The display will consist of specimens of the grains, fruits, cottons, oils and other products which have made the State of Texas famous. The walls of the exhibit will be covered with handsome views of the most famous places in the Lone Star State.

Pain and Misery

Is simply nerve disturbance. Derangements in any part of the body irritate the nerves centered there. The greater the disturbance the more severe the pain. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills stop pain and misery because they relieve this irritation. Many women find great relief from periodical suffering by taking Anti-Pain Pills on first indication of distress or pain.

"Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are the best headache remedy on earth. Mother and I have used this remedy for the past seven years."

Miss Julia Kelly left Pride's this week for a vacation, to be spent mostly at Sharon, Mass.

Mrs. Duncan T. Smith has returned from a pleasant visit among her husband's relatives at Whycocomagh, Cape Breton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allen of North Berwick, Me., are visiting Mr. Allen's brother and family, Station Agent and Mrs. W. L. Allen.

Dr. John J. Riordan and Jeremiah F. Linehan represented the local horsemen and were interested spectators at the Readville races Tuesday.

Councilman A. P. Loring, jr., is suffering from the loss of the middle finger on his right hand as the result of an accident in a recent yachting trip long the Maine coast.

Michael J. Connolly entertained a party of friends from Boston and Waltham Wednesday. A shore dinner, served on board the Gov. Russell off West Beach, was a pleasant feature of their visit.

Finding it inadvisable to defer an operation any longer, the surgeons at the Beverly City hospital operated, Tuesday, on Misss Katherine Leary for appendicitis. At this writing Miss Leary is reported to be resting very comfortably and getting along nicely.

Miss Mabel Sawyer, for several years chief operator at the Beverly Farms telephone exchange, has been promoted to the position of chief operator at Beverly, and commenced her duties there last Monday. Her going is much regretted by those who have had dealings with her "over the wire," as her pleasant manners and the good service she maintained won her many friends.

John W. Morgan is back to cold realities again after a ten days' vacation and is again handling the reins over the handsome pair of blacks at the West Street Fire station.

The lawn party given Tuesday evening at the grounds adjoining St. Margaret's church and the parochial residence by the Farms order of Forresters was a complete success. The grounds were very prettily decorated with electric lights and music was furnished by Heaphey's orchestra. Besides the dancing there were plenty of other features to interest and amuse the large gathering. Refresments of various kinds were served.

Owing to the rain on Wednesday, the outing and picnic of the John West Colony of Pilgrim Fathers was not held at Tuck's Point that day as planned, but although the weather was somewhat overcast the picnic was held yesterday. Besides a large attendance of members there were many invited guests present. The clam-bake provided under the direction of F. I. Lomasney was most excellent and many compliments were tendered him. The day was thoroughly enjoyed by all, everyone entering into the sports with enthusiasm.

Mrs. Ernest Elliott of Brookline and her two children are paying a week's visit with Mrs. John T. Elliott on Haskell street.

Henry Coakley attended the funeral, this week, of an 18 year old nephew, who was drowned as the result of an accident while boating at Nahant.

A brisk little fire aroused the Farms fire department from their slumbers Wednesday morning at one o'clock. The rubbish heap in the rear of Varney's and the Daniels--Gleason Co.'s stores in Central square, caught fire in some way, and at one time looked to be a rather dangerous little blaze. No damage, however, was done and the flames were speedily extinguished.

Hose Laying Contest.

The hose laying contest and dance in Neighbor's hall, Beverly Farms, tonight, under the auspices of Hook and Ladder No. 2, is arousing considerable interest. Teams from Ipswich, Woburn, Peabody, Danvers, Newburyport, Pigeon Cove, and Beverly, will compete and a most interesting contest is expected.

The judges of the contest will be: Engineer J. M. Publicover, Beverly Farms; Engineer C. M. Hooper, Peabody; F. E. Oakes and Capt. A. P. Gorman, Gloucester; Engineer M. J. Barry, Danvers; Engineer A. J. F. Barton, Ipswich, and Engineer J. J. Whittenhagen, Beverly. Time will be kept by Dr. J. J. Riordan, R. E. Hodgkins and A. P. Stanton; and Capt. D. T. Smith, announcer. The committee in charge is composed of Capt. Alfred Williams, Lieut. E. F. Day; clerks, J. A. Mayberry, G. H. Burchstead, George F. Wood, F. E. Cole, William Pike, jr., and B. F. Hawkins, jr.

In addition to the contest there will be an exhibition by Burchstead and Day of Beverly Farms' Hook and Ladder No. 2.

The members of the competing teams are:---Sheppard and Smith, Hose 2, Ipswich; Standley and Plummer, Hose 4, Beverly; Hammond and Hammond, Engine 1, Woburn; Bodge and Bodge, Hose 3, Peabody; Coffey and Pray, Steamer 3, Newburyport; Kerrigan and Hammond, Hose 1, Woburn; McNeil and Larrabee, Hose 5, Peabody, and Parsons and Mason, Engine 2, Pigeon Cove.

Four prizes will be awarded,---first prize $10.00, second $8.00, third $5.00 and fourth $2.00. After the contest will come the dancing.

Why not have your Printing done at the office of THE BREEZE PRINT? Breeze advertising pays.

You have heard the Compliment, the wit paid to Women,

"They Are All Nice, Only Some of Them Are Nicer Than Others"

Well, that's what you might say about Ranges, that is, you ought to be able to say so and we'll just talk now about the ones that are "nicer." Just think of running your stove with one damper to do all the regulating. Of cleaning out the flues at the base of the oven, by drawing all the soot into the ash pit. Of shaking your fire without the aid or use of a poker with a grate that chews up the clinkers. Of shining your stove so you can see your face in it because it has the right sort of iron in it. Of baking by day or in the dead of the night in an oven you can heat in 20 minutes. Of having your ashes drop right into the coal hod as fast as you shake them from the fire. Of running your stove and doing your baking on less than one hod of coal a day.

Wouldn't you call it nicer, wouldn't you admire it the more? Well this is all about

The Crawford

The range that's so different that it wins the approval of all.

Soon be range hunting? Well, come in here and look at the stove that's superior to them all.

Red Cross Makes Appeal.

The American National Red Cross issues an appeal for money, to help the people whose property has been desroyed by floods in the Carolinas and Georgia. The condition of the people is especially serious, as they are mostly farmers dependent upon each year's crop, which has now been destroyed just as it was ready for harvest.

Efficient branches of the Red Cross exist in these states whose members will undertake the relief work.

It is the duty of other branches to furnish the means; therefore the Essex division appeals to all persons to send subscription, great or small, to

THE FISHERMEN'S INSTITUTE AT GLOUCESTER

North Shore People who have aided the Institution will be interested in the following.

BY ALPHEUS E. TUTTLE

Some 16 years ago, through the generosity of one of our summer residents by the gift of $10,000, the purchase of the building now owned by the Gloucester Fishermen's Institute was made possible. Although the building is not adequate to properly accommodate the large numbers who care to use its privileges at certain seasons of the year, still, with some changes that are soon to be made in the basement, more will be able to avail themselves of its hospitality.

This by the way of introduction, but I have some plain words to speak to the citizens of Gloucester, namely: You, as citizens of this city are individually interested in the material welfare of every fisherman who steps his foot over the rail of a Gloucester vessel, because it is he that brings to port the "raw material" out of which nearly all of Gloucester's wealth is derived, (be that small or great). To illustrate: Let the mackerel fleet fail and all of us feel the effect.

So with each branch of the fish-business, our bread and butter depends on the success or failure of the fish catch. Hence, I say: "Remember the man that catches the fish." He is worthy of our thought whether he comes from Portugal, Sweden, Norway, Newfoundland, P. E. Island, Nova Scotia, Maine, Virginia, or Massachusetts. We owe him something for braving storm and wave and peril that he may bring to us the products of the sea.

We owe it to ourselves that we see to it that he has a decent place provided him that while in the port of Gloucester, he may have well-appointed, well-lighted, well-heated, and well-regulated quarters for writing letters, reading the papers and magazines, receive his mail, play a game, or spend a leisure hour while smoking his pipe; and if religiously inclined may attend religious services with his shipmates.

The chief object of the Institute is to try to so surround these men with proper influences while ashore, that it may be fairly easy for them to retain, rather than lose their good characters while in our port. Mrs. McClure and some few others did well some 16 years ago in securing the building for this purpose.

In riding in the electric cars this summer, I have often heard remarks by summer visitors regarding the advertising card of the Institute which is posted in the cars like this: "That's a fine thing to have in your town!" and reply by citizens, "Yes, it is, but I don't know much about it, in fact I was never there, but they say they are doing fine work." This shows about the extent of the interest that is taken by the local people in the Institute. As far as I can learn this is a sample of the past history of the local people's interest in the work which I am asked to take hold of and develop, which I would gladly try to do, and have done as far as seems to me possible with a

BREEZE FUND FOR PROF. CONROY.

Owing to the presence of Prof. John F. Conroy, bathing at Singing Beach has been safer this summer than it ever has been before. With one always on hand who thoroughly understands what to do in a case of emergency, and who does it promptly and without hesitation, many, who heretofore have hesitated about going into the water themselves or to allow their children to do so, have felt perfect confidence this season in bathing at the beach.

Many people think that Prof. Conroy is being paid by the town of Manchester to serve as life guard at the beach and others that the management of the Masconomo has been paying him a weekly stipend. As a matter of fact, Prof. Conroy is here on his own time and at his own expence, and has gladly placed his services at the disposal of all who might desire them.

In consideration of the efficient service he has rendered this summer, and the thrilling rescue on Friday of last week, the Breeze is raising a purse to be presented to Prof. Conroy as a mark of appreciation, and cordially invite its subscribers to contribute whatever they may deem fitting and consistent with their means. Those desiring to do so may fill out the coupon below and return to the Breeze. Several have already made known their intentions of subscribing toward the purse.

large part of the local people standing aloof, refusing to lift financially or to come into personal contact with the work. I find that in the first eleven years of the Institute's existence, there were some $60,000 raised; of this amount, only $10,000 came from the Citizens of Gloucester.

This proportion of financial interest exhibited then, seems to be about the ratio of moral and financial support that they show now. This brings me to this point: If the home people fail to show an interest in this work, what right have they to expect the Chaplain of the Institute to go to members of the summer colony and guests of the hotels and plead the cause of an institution which the home folks "turn down."

If the Fishermen's Institute is too much of a luxury for Gloucester to support, it is time we found it out and that some means be discovered whereby the work could be carried on more cheaply. Merge it with the Y. M. C. A., if there is not money enough in Gloucester to support both places. But both are needed. I am certain that the work of the Institute is almost indespensable. We all seem to think that the Y. M. C. A. is necessary. We often have as many young men (fishermen) come into the Institute in a week as Gloucester's young men go into the Y. M. C. A. building in three months.

It is claimed by those who ought to known, that under the present management the Institute is better equipped and conducted than ever before; if so, then there is no excuse for the good people of this city holding back their help, but to see to it that the Institute be fully supported and properly developed. I am here to help make it the best institution of its kind, and am confident that it could be made such if there can be aroused a spirit of love for this sort of work to a larger degree than heretofore, the support that is its due.

I had about decided, because of the reasons above stated, to resign the position and let some other take up the work where I lay it down, trusting that he may have such tact, grace and gumption, combined with a physical makeup which requires neither that he have one day in seven to rest nor a vacation during the whole year, that his family be sufficient in number, and old enough in years, that he with wife and children could together be a full equipment to properly conduct the internal workings of the Institute. But, I will wait, and see what response is accorded us in the next six months.

In the meantime, every citizen of Gloucester, (business men, vessel owners, wage earners and the men who catch the fish also) will be given an apportunito to show their appreciation. We are striving to hold up the good name of the fishermen and to develop the Institute in every possible way.

Yours for a better and more successful Institute.

Michael F. Murphy left Wednesday for Toronto, Can., where he has been attending the Toronto horse show.

Despite the inclement tendencies of the weather Wednesday 54 Manchesterites went on the Lake Winnipesaukee excursion.

Charles E. Lawrence of Woburn has been spending a few days this week with his cousin, Cheever Hersey, before returning to school next week.

Mrs. Frank L. Decker and two children, who have been spending the summer with Mrs. Decker's parents at Woolwick, Me., returned home yesterday.

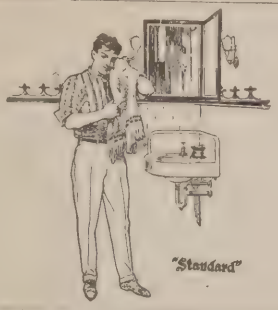

Miss Hazel Semons returned Tuesday from a three weeks' visit with her aunt, Mrs. Hagar, at Cambridge. Miss Gladys Semons returned yesterday from a long visit with her grandmother, Mrs. John Gregory, in Middleton.

George E. Willmonton entertained a party of his friends, members of his class in law study, with a chowder dinner and a day's outing at Tuck's Point last Friday. In the party were a number of men prominent in Boston politics.

Miss Mary Dodge has accepted an appointment as teacher in English at the High school, at Seymour, Conn., and is leaving Monday to take up her duties for the year. Miss Dodge was graduated from Mt. Holyoke College last June.

Mrs. Charles Perkins returned to her home in Melrose Monday after a delightful visit with Mrs. George S. Sinnicks, and family, Ashland avenue. Mrs. Perkins was very much taken with Manchester and its beautiful surroundings and the surf bathing at Singing Beach proved an interesting feature of her visit. Mr. Perkins came down for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. G. Perkins returned to their cottage on Sea street Monday from a four weeks' trip at various points in the Pine Tree state. They spent most of their time at Mr. Perkins' old home, "The Maples," at Lamoine, where they enjoyed the delightful country life to be found there and Mr. Perkins spent much of his time yachting with his old time friend, Captain Hodgkins, who was there for the summer also. On their way home they paid a visit to Mr. Perkins' uncle at Dedham, Me., and his aunt at Holden, and stopped off at Bar Harbor for a day or two for a visit with Dr. Averill, one of the trustees of the Bar Harbor hospital, and also at Kennebunk for a short visit with relatives.

Leanord D. Ahl left Pride's Monday, for a six weeks' fishing and hunting trip in the Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Letts of New York were the week-end guests of Frank P. Frazer at Pride's Crossing.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Taintor left Manchester yesterday for a visit among friends at one of the Maine resorts.

Among the attractive ladies' luncheons of the week was that given at Lilliothea, Smith's Point, by Mrs. Frederick T. Bradbury, covers being laid for twelve. Readings and recitations followed.

Mrs. Prescott Bigelow has had among her guests the past week at Manchester Cove her brother, Captain Nazro, of the U. S. R. S. Wabash, Charlestown, and Mrs. Nazro, and E. Royall Tyler.

Mrs. Henry Probasco of Cincinnati arrived at Manchester Wednesday for a visit with her sisters, Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d. Her daughter, Miss Grace Probasco, is also here visiting her aunts.

Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer and Miss Thayer, who have been spending the summer quietly at the Gardiner M. Lane estate at Manchester, are leaving next Tuesday for their country estate at Lancaster, where they usually remain until the holidays, when they open their town house at Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus S. Hardy are on from New York for a visit with Mrs. Hardy's father, Edward King, and Mrs. King, at the Robinson cottage, off School street, Manchester. Mrs. King has given several little dinner parties for the young people. They were married in the spring at Grace church, New York City.

Mrs. J. Donald Cameron and daughter, Miss Martha Cameron, who have passed a very pleasant summer at the Schofield cottage, Manchester, left this morning for a visit with friends at Oyster Bay, L. I. They will not return to Manchester again this season, though they were so delighted with Manchester and its beautiful surroundings this summer that it is not at all unlikely that they will return again another season.

Charles A. Munn and sister, Miss Carrie Munn, returned to Manchester the latter part of last week after a delightful camping out trip in the Adirondach. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., was in the party also. The young people motored from Manchester to Newport first, where they had a very pleasant visit, and from there they went to the mountains. Mr. Roosevelt is returning to Manchester soon for another short visit with Mr. Munn.

Miss Barabara Higginson is visiting her friend, Miss Phyllis Robbins at New Boston, N. H.

After spending a few days at North East Harbor, Maine, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bradley returned the middle of the week to Pride's.

Judge and Mrs. W. C. Loring returned, late last week, from a few weeks' stay at their estate on Bartlett's Island, off the coast of Maine.

The week-end was spent by W. A. Burnham of the Pride's summer colony at Lenox, Mass., from whence he went on to Springfield the middle of the wek. e

J. H. Childs won the members' handicap last Saturday at the Essex County club with an 81-3-78 score. Only three of the 26 players entered turned in cards. Many went over to Myopia for the match there.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll had as their guests over the week-end at Manchester James Malville Hunnewell and William C. Bradhall of Boston. Mrs. Croll gave a small luncheon at the Essex County club Wednesday.

Richard Wigglesworth was the winner in the fifth consecutive race of the sailing tenders at the Manchester Yacht club last Saturday. He finished two minutes ahead of his brother. Robert Storer and Norman Reed were the other contestants. The next race will be sailed on Labor Day.

Miss Adele G. Thayer is entertaining a house party at her West Manchester residence over Labor Day. The guests are arriving this afternoon to remain until Tuesday morning, and several social functions have been planned by Miss Thayer for their entertainment. Not the least important of the functions will be a clambake at the beach at Manchester Cove Monday noon and on that night a masquerade dinner, or "Mother Goose" dinner, at Miss Thayer's home will be a most delightful occasion. The party numbers sixteen.

Miss Priscilla C. Stackpole has been over from Nahant the past week visiting Miss Dorothy Jordan at West Manchester. Miss Mary Astor Paul of Philadelphia, who has been circling among her North Shore friends, the past few weeks, was also a guest of Miss Jordan over the week-end. Miss Jordan was hostess at a delightful luncheon party Sunday, given in honor of her house guests, covers being spread for fourteen. Mrs. Jordan gave a luncheon of twelve covers Wednesday afternoon. Miss Paul left Manchester Wednesday for Islesboro, Me., where she will visit some of the Philadelphia Biddles.

New Racing Class.

There will be a meeting of the Manchester Yacht Club at the clubhouse on Tuesday, September 8th, at 8 p. m., to consider the formation of a one design class of substantial racing boats, carrying about 300 square feet of sail. A special committee, appointed at the annual meeting, will submit sketches and general description of the type of boat which seems to them best adapted for the purpose.

There is reason to expect that the Corinthian Yacht Club of Marblehead will co-operate with the Manchester club in the encouragement of such a class, and it is by no means improbable that in these two clubs alone there will be built twenty or more boats under the first order; thereby insuring the lowest possible cost, which should be well within $400.

One of the smartest dinner parties of the summer was that given Monday evening, the last day of August, by M. Kroupensky, the charge d'affaires of the Russian embassy, at the fashionable North Shore Grill, Magnolia. The male members of the party—there were sixteen covers—were selected from among the members of the Russian, French, German, British and Italian embassies—located at Manchester, and the young ladies from the elite of the North Shore, the party being very charmingly chaperoned by Mrs. Washington B. Thomas of Boston and Pride's Crossing, and Mrs. J. Don. Cameron of Washington, who has been spending the summer at the Schofield cottage in Manchester. In the party, besides the host, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Cameron, were: Misses Alice and Julia Meyer, daughters of Postmaster General and Mrs. George von L. Meyer; Misses Helen and Margaret Thomas, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thomas; Miss Mary Astor Paul of Philadelphia; Miss Martha Cameron of Washington; Baron Schlittenbach, Russian consul-general at New York; M. de Thal and Baron de Stael Holstein, secretaries of the Russian legation; Vicomte de Chambrun, secretary of the French embassy; Mr. von Prittwitz, an attache of the German embassy; Mr. Ovey, third secretary of the British embassy, and Signor Giuliano Cora of the Italian legation. The dinner was served on a long table on the broad veranda of the Grill, plainly though effectively decorated with ferns and cut flowers. The dinner was specially prepared and was thoroughly foreign in every detail, some of the dishes taking several days to prepare. At each lady's plate was a beautifully handpainted menu, specially prepared for the occasion, and the menu, printed in French, on the inside was as follows:

Dinner du 31 Aut 1908.
Vorschmack
Stachi Paresseuse
Rastegais au Saumon
Timbale de Homards Grimaldi
Schaschliks a la Tartare
Poulet de Grain au Cresson
Salade de Laitues

Glaces Nesselrode
Friandises
Dessert.

Francis G. Curtis leaves his summer home at Pride's for an extended trip abroad Saturday. He will go first to Seattle, Wash., and will sail from there for Yokohama, Japan.

:: At the Hotels ::

Miss E. J. Alexander of Boston is registered at the Hesperus for the balance of their season, being one of the early arrivals of the week.

Apartments have been taken at the Hesperus by Mrs. C. L. Harris of Providence, R. I., for the remaining two weeks that the hotel remains open.

Reginald M. Cleveland of New York joined his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Treadwell Cleveland, at the Hesperus and will remain with them during their stay. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland were among the late arrivals of last week.

Among the early arrivals of the week at the Aborn were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bancroft, Miss Bancroft and E. R. Bancroft, of Providence, who will remain at the hotel until the close of the season. The hotel, as has been the custom, will remain open until the latter part of the month, although no definate date has yet been decided upon for their closing.

Mrs. Theodore C. Woodbury of Orange, N. J., has taken apartments at the Hesperus for the balance of the month, arriving there late last week. Mr. Woodbury arrived at the hotel Tuesday of this week, and will remain with her during her stay.

McLeod Winner at Myopia.

The final 36 of the 72 holes played in the open golf tournament at the Myopia Hunt club were played Friday and the score was tied by Will Smith and Fred McLeod with a 322 for the 72 holes. In the play-off Saturday, which was 18 holes at medal play, McLeod scored a 77 as against Smith's 83, thus making him the new open golf champion of the United States.

Polo at Myopia.

The polo games at the Myopia Hunt club the past week have been the centre of attraction for North Shore society and have been witnessed by a goodly number of interested spectators every day. In the opening match for the Wenham cup on Monday, Myopia A. won from Dedham with a score of 6 3-4 goals to 4 1-4. In Tuesday's play the Saratoga Freebooters beat the Myopia B team 17 to 5, and in the second game Myopia beat Bryn Mawr 6 1-2 to 6. Saratoga won the finals for the Wenham cup in yesterday's game, defeating Myopia A 13 to 5 1-2, and Dedham won from Bryn Mawr in the first match for the Marsden J. Perry trophy with a score of 12 3-4 to 7.

Said the Cook to the Duck,

Love is liberty, love is law;
This truth from Nature, God and Man
I draw.

Not I a lump of dough
To be molded at any man's will,
But rather a marble block
To be shaped by an artist's skill.

If a man die shall he live again?
The question makes the answer plain.
God would not put the question in our mind
Unless at last an answer we should find.

Our doubts are not Creations of our will;
Our questions, let them haunt us still,
God hints at nothing He will not fullfil.

And is the moonshine nothing?
Doth it not bespeak the moon?

Beverly's New Hospital.

Beverly's new hospital, one of the finest in the state, will be opened next Tuesday and will be formally dedicated on that date, the exercises starting at 4 o'clock.

An interesting program for the occasion has been arranged by the Board of Directors. The new buildings occupy a commanding location on Herrick street near the Montserrat depot and the inspeetion can be made by the public on Wednesday next between 2 and 5 o'clock. The few patients who are in the old hospital on Central street and are in a fit condition will be moved some time during the later part on next week.

Lost on Mountain.

Charles O. Billings, jr., of Newton, a summer resident of Magnolia had an experience last Monday which he would not care to repeat. He went out with a friend, Elbert E. Clapp of Duxbury, to climb Mt. Kineo, near Moosehead Lake, Maine, and became lost in the woods, wandering around for six hours.

They put out in a canoe from Kineo about 5 p. m. for a sail around the mountain. The canoe leaked and they concluded to go ashore and make their way back to the hotel. They landed on Hardscrabble beach. The path from that point is not easy to the novice. After walking for some time they found themselves off the path, with darkness coming on rapidly. One proposed they climb the mountain to get their bearings, and this was done after much effort. After toiling upward till 10 o'clock they gave it up and began to shout for help, hoping their voices might be heard down as far as the big hotel. About 11 o'clock guests on the porticoes reported that they heard voices in the direction of the mountain. A party of six started with lanterns. As they approached they heard quite distinctly, "Help! We are lost on the mountain!" This was repeated at intervals. After an hour the party found the two frightened and exhausted young men.

:: At the Hotels ::

Registered at the Oceanside this week are Mr. and Mrs. George Crompton of Worcester and their son, Master George Crompton, jr. The Cromptons are very prominent socially and financially in Worcester where Mr. Crompton is connected with the Crompton & Knowles Looms.

William J. and John A. Denholm of Worcester spent a few days, the first of the week, at the Hesperus. They are friends of Dr. Dakin and spent a large portion of their time with him.

Apartments at the Hesperus have been taken by Miss Elizabeth Wood of New York for the month of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Treadwell Cleveland of New York have taken apartments at the Hesperus, where they will remain until the last of the month. Mr. Cleveland is a cousin of the late Grover Cleveland, and is a prominent lawyer of New York.

Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Hammond of New York, accompanied by their daughter, Miss D. Hammond, and R. E. Morgan, have taken apartments in the Villa, one of the connections of the Hesperus, for a stay of a week or two.

Robert de San Marzano of New York joined his mother, Madame de San Marzano, and his sister at the Hesperus for over the week-end, returning to New York, Monday morning.

The week-end was spent at the Hesperus by C. B. James of Columbus, O., and F. R. Richards of Savannah, Ga.

Lady P. W. Campbell of Edinburg, Scotland, and her daughter, Miss M. S. Campbell have taken apartments at the Oceanside and will remain until the close of the season.

George W. Kittredge, Chief Engineer of the New York Central Railway, spent the week-end at the Oceanside, coming there in his private car, and joining Mrs. Kittredge and their two children. Mrs. Kittredge and the children arrived the middle of the summer and returned with Mr. Kittredge to New York, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Roberts of Baltimore were among the arrivals of the week at the Hesperus, and will remain there until the latter part of the month.

Old and young alike are being attracted by the jig saw puzzles for sale at the Indian Store on Lexington avenue, Magnolia. Since Mr. Preston, the proprietor of the store, first laid in his stock, the demand has been greater than the supply, and much merriment and pleasure have been derived from them.

:: At the Hotels ::

MASCONOMO

Among the early arrivals of the week at the Masconomo were Mr. and Mrs. John S. Durant and Henry Durant of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Damon of Leominister were among the late arrivals of last week at the hotel.

Among the early arrivals of the week at the Masconomo were Miss M. G. Trask of Boston and Sister Mary Gabriel, C. S. M., of Memphis, Tenn. Miss Trask's brother, W. Ropes Trask, came down from Boston Wednesday, and dined with them at the hotel.

Registered at the Masconomo for the last week they are open are Mr. and Mrs S. Hesseberg and I. Brillman of Albany, N. Y.

Fr. John D. Colbert of Wakefield and Fr. T. J. Holland of Malden, members of the Catholic priesthood, have been spending the week at the Masconomo.

Among the arrivals at the Oceanside to remain until the end of season are Mr. and Mrs. W. Bailey of Boston and Mrs. Bailey's sister, Mrs. W. J. Wells of New York.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grew, 2d, of the West Manchester summer colony have been spending a few days this week with friends at Osterville, Cape Cod.

Senator Beveridge left Manchester Thursday for Youngstown, O., where he goes to take part in the opening of the republican national campaign. He is booked as the leading speaker, with Governor Hughes of New York.

Alexander Brown, of Philadelphia, who has been on to the Myopia Hunt club for the polo matches this week, being a member of the Bryn Mawr team, has been a house guest of Miss Eleanora Sears at Beverly Farms part of the week.

Miss Fannie Hanna is on the North Shore for a visit among her young friends, and is a house guest of Miss Grace Jarvis, at "Eaglehead," Manchester. Miss Hanna is the daughter of Leonard Hanna of Cleveland, and has been spending the summer with her parents at Bretton Woods. Miss Jarvis has given several little luncheons and dinners in honor of her guest the past week.

Henry Pratt McKean of Pride's Crossing had a valuable hunting mare come in on the "Devonian," which docked in Boston Tuesday. The McKeans will close their cottage here about September 20 and will return to Philadelphia. Considerable work is to be done on their estate the coming winter, among the contemplated changes being an addition to the house, a new auto house and the moving of the stable to a new location.

Augustus P. Loring, jr., of Pride's, has spent a part of the past week at Indian Point, Me.

After the performance by the Ben Greet players at the Oceanside yesterday afternoon many little parties gathered at the North Shore Grill for dinner. Among them were Dr. and Mrs. G. Ryder of Malden, who are recent arrivals at the Oceanside, and who entertained at the Grill Mr. and Mrs. Costello C. Converse of Boston, who are summering in the Sargent cottage, Magnolia.

Another of the many little parties was that of the Hon. A. Shuman of the Beverly Cove summer colony, who entertained there a number of his friends along the shore.

A very charming little luncheon was given at the Grill, yesterday, by Miss Alice Tapley, who has been summering at the Oceanside, to a number of her lady friends at the hotels and in the cottages of Magnolia and Manchester. Covers were laid for eleven and Miss Tapley's guests were: Mrs. Gordon MacCabe, Miss Rogers, Miss Frances L. Rogers and Miss E. B. Rogers, from the Oceanside; Miss Emily Gray at the Aborn, Mrs. Ellen L. Hemenway of the Manchester summer colony, Mrs. George P. Sanger at the Brownland cottages, Miss M. L. Blake of Manchester, Miss Bryce and Miss Parker.

The North Shore Grill will close, soon after Labor Day, after having had a very successful season.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Foster gave a little lunch at the Grill Tuesday to Mrs. Foster's newly engaged sister, Miss Southerland.

Mrs. Reginald Foster gave a luncheon at the North Shore Grill Saturday for four, and a very pleasant little time was enjoyed.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

In this week's real estate records is recorded the transfer from William L. Wood of Beverly of 4 1-2 acres of land on Hart street, Beverly Farms to Wm. S. and John T. Spaulding. It is understood that the new owners will use the property for planting of shrubs and a garden similar to their beautiful estates on Greenwood avenue.

Mary E. Squier and Hamilton R. Squier of New York, by mortgagee, convey for $10,000, to Arthur Dehon Hill of Boston, receiver of the American Insurance Company, 10.525 acres of land on Pine street, Manchester, with a roadway 35 by 346 feet to the back lands from Pine street.

Andrew Lee et al. of Manchester convey to Leonora Gorman of Manchester, 3 acres of woodland in Manchester.

John W. Marshall conveys to Leonora F. Gorman, a woodlot in Manchester, containing 2 1-5 acres also another woodlot in Manchester containing 1 acre.

Outdoor Production of "Twelfth Night."

The delightful production of Shakespeare's well known comedy, "Twelfth Night," by the Ben Greet players on the terraced green at the south of the Oceanside hotel yesterday afternoon was witnessed by a large gathering of North Shore society. From all along the shore they came in their autos and fashionable turnouts and the lawn facing the stage and the verandas of the hotel were filled with a fashionable and brilliantly dressed throng of society ladies.

The stage settings of the scene were extremely well produced and represented Olivia's garden in Ilyria. A background of shrubs and evergreen, hydrangeas and scrub oaks attractively arranged about the stage afforded a delightful setting for the brilliant and many colored costumes of the players. The characters were extremely well rendered and each won a generous share of applause. Appropriate selections were rendered by the hotel orchestra between the acts and during the play itself several little balads and songs were sung by Feste, the court jester.

This entertainment practically winds up the summer entertainments at Magnolia and was fully enjoyed by the hotel guests as well as the many cottagers who attended. Many said, and rightly, too, that, although they had seen the "Twelfth Night" rendered in many places and by different players, they had never seen the characters so effectively brought out as in yesterday's performance.

Sousa Writes a New March.

Sousa, the famous bandmaster, whose title as the "March King" has never been disputed, may always be depended upon to do the graceful and spectacular thing at the right time. He has written a new march in celebration of the 7th Greatest Boston Food Fair which is to be given at the Park Square Coliseum, from Sept. 28 to Oct. 31. John Phillip Sousa has been most happy in selecting as the appropriate title for his latest march triumph, "The Fairest of The Fair," and admirers of the famous Sousa and his world famous band will have the unique privilege on the opening day of the Food Fair of hearing Sousa direct, for the first time, his latest march. Sousa's publishers consider this latest effort of the March King, as his best in recent years and believe that it bids fair to eclipse in popularity even his Washington Post March.

DEPARTURES

WILL be in order from now on.

Go slowly, please! The winter is long enough here on the North Shore at its best.

WE would remind hotel guests and others, who are among the "transient" readers of the Breeze, that the paper is printed throughout the winter. Keep in touch with the North Shore this winter; have the paper mailed to your city address!

Other communities, apparently, are having their fish troubles as well as the North Shore, judging from the following piece of news:

"An unparallelled sight was witnessed by residents of Tuckerton, N. J., Wednesday morning, when millions of fish, commonly called 'moss bunkers,' or porgies, invaded the head of Tuckerton creek. The fish were so thick that they are supposed to have smothered, and the stream was soon jammed with the carcasses."

APPEALS! Page 3 of this issue might rightly be called a "page of appeals." The Red Cross appeals always deserve our support. The Fishermen's Institute at Gloucester is also a most worthy object, and many North Shore people are regular subscribers toward its work. We call attention also to the little purse which the Breeze is taking upon itself, at the suggestion of several of the summer cottagers, to raise for Prof. Conroy who has done such excellent work as life guard at Singing Beach this summer. He has saved two lives, one after a most desperate stuggle for his own life. He deserves some recognition, especially inasmuch as he has been giving his services at the beach absolutely free.

THE last issue of the Salem Gazette, one of the oldest papers in the country, was printed last Saturday. The paper was established on Oct. 14, 1736, as the Salem Mercury, by John Dabney and Thomas C. Cushing. On Jan. 5, 1790, it was called the Salem Gazette. Up to Jan. 3, 1794, it was a weekly paper, and on that date it was changed to a semi-weekly. This semi-weekly was continued down to 1892, when it was changed to a daily paper.

A weekly edition called the Essex County Mercury was started in 1831 and continued for 60 years or more. Among the men who made the Gazette famous were Hon. Caleb Foote, who remained with it more than 60 years, and Nathaniel A. Horton, who was one of the editors for nearly a half-century and who made its editorial page a great power. During the last 15 years the Daily Gazette has had a more or less checkered career, passing through various hands.

Miss McNamara announces that she is at Manchester-by-the-Sea for the season, and that she has removed from the cottage at 39 School street to Friend's court (off School street). Treatment of the scalp, shampooing, marcel waving, manicure. Telephone 164 Manchester. *

MANCHESTER, Mass.,
Sept. 1, 1908.

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear Sir:

On a recent Saturday evening, I stood on the platform of the Boston & Maine station and was surprised to notice the number of persons who boarded the train either for Salem or Gloucester (a majority for the latter.) Upon enquiry, I found that several of these folk were regularly in the habit of going to purchase (out-of-town) things needful and otherwise, paying cash for them and hoping in this way to save something.

How little do they think, perhaps, about the credit they have received all the other days of the week from local merchants, who would gladly receive good cold cash and give as equal return as the other stores.

For example, a married couple, with a family, left children at home, walked three miles, rode fourteen miles (carfare sixty cents cash), and shopped along crowded streets for nearly two hours, spending over fifteen dollars for a few common necessities. Upon their return, they figured out that by staying at home, the house and children would have been cared for, nervous and tired bodies would not have resulted, and even a cash saving would be theirs of nearly two dollars.

Of course, we must admit that for several articles a discount can be given by the large merchant which our local dealers cannot make, still the fact remains, that the expense of running a business of any kind, employing town help, could the more easily be met if these same bargain hunters would stay at home, pay spot cash and insist on fair prices. It appears to me that a pressure is bearing down on our store keepers, which should be lefted before a crash comes. Both sides may be at fault and the helpfulness in such cases should be mutual. At any rate, first give your attention to home patronage before others capture your talents.

Master Gordon Cool celebrated his 14th birthday Tuesday, Sept. 1, at his home on Allen's avenue. He was presented with many beautiful gifts.

The assessors have completed their work on taxes and the books were turned over to the collector Wednesday. The bills will probably be sent out in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. C. Coombs who have been spending the summer at Mr. Coomb's former home in Maine returned to Manchester Wednesday. Mr. Coombs is much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver T. Roberts left this morning for a trip to St. John, N. B., and points along the coast. They will stop on their way home at Portland, and may include a trip to the mountains in their journey.

The Water Board made a trip to Waltham Sunday to see a standpipe of reinforced concrete, which they are looking into in connection with Manchester's new standpipe, the bids for which have already been called for. Tuesday Chairman Merrill and Engineer Allen went to Dalton to see some gas producing engines used there.

Percy C. Robertson holds the record (unofficial) for long distance swimming at Singing Beach this season. Last Sunday he swam from Singing Beach to Crescent Beach, Magnolia, a distance of four miles. Mr. Robertson has been spending the summer at Manchester representing Benson & Hedges of London and New York. He has found much pleasure in surf bathing at Singing Beach and Sundays usually found him taking long swims. He has several times swam out around the rocks, and from one end of the beach to the other. Last Sunday, however, he made his record swim, covering the four miles in one hour and forty minutes. Two Manchester young men,—Chester Standley and Sydney Marshall accompanied him in a canoe. So far as we have learned this is the record distance swim hereabouts. Mr. Robertson, by the way, is a water polo player of note, being a member of the victorious British international team in 1899. He is returning to New York City tomorrow.

A daughter, Ruth Appleton Prest, arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Prest, Bennett street, Thursday, Sept. 3.

Misses Mabel W. Lodge and Agnes Sjolund have been spending the last week of their school vacation enjoying country life on a farm outside Newburyport.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leighton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bryant of Portland have been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Reed, at the Beach street cafe. Mrs. Fred White of Boston and Mrs. Rowell of Baltimore were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reed the latter part of last week.

Clocks cared for by season. Loomis.*

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd returned last Saturday from a very pleasant five days' tour. They left Manchester Monday afternoon for Niagara Falls, whence they proceeded on Wednesday, after visiting the Falls and seeing the many interesting and wonderful sights there, by steamer across Lake Ontario to Toronto, where they took advantage of a three hours' stop to see this most picturesque city by one of the "sightseeing" autos. From there they went across the lake again to Charlotte, N. Y., and after an all night sail on the lake they woke up next morning just as they were entering the Thousand Islands and after a charming sail down the St. Lawrence river, stopping at various ports, they reached Montreal Thursday night. After a brief stay here they proceeded to Plattsburg. N. Y., where they took the steamer at 7 o'clock the next morning, and after a delightful trip down Lake Champlain, and from thence to Lake George, they reached Albany at dusk Friday evening. They arrived in Boston the following morning after a five hours' stay in Albany. Mr. Floyd has been in several parts of the country and has taken several long trips, but he says this is the finest trip he has ever taken. The variety of scenery is unsurpassed in his estimation. Especially beautiful was the sail down Lake Champlain, with the Adirondach Mountains on one side and the Green Mountains of Vermont on the other.

Progress with the Men's Clubhouse at Magnolia.

Steady progress is being made in the movement for a men's clubhouse at Magnolia and the subscriptions and gifts had almost reached the $6000 last night. The village people are taking hold of the project as well as the summer cottagers and hotel guests and up to last night they had subscribed about $200.

Magnolia

On Monday evening a very interesting stereopticon lecture was held at the Women's club house. Miss Alice Libby described Venice and Rome as the pictures of the two cities were shown and Miss May Winchester rendered mandolin solos which were much appreciated by the audience.

Work was started on the new wharf the first of the week.

Rev. Frederick J. Libby was the guest of Miss E. G. Houghton at Walpole, the first of the week.

Mrs. W. R. Boyd and Mrs. John H. Wilkins are spending a short vacation in New Hampshire.

On Friday evening of last week, the Magnolia band held a dance at Rowe's garage which was well attended.

Mrs. J. Walter Scott and daughter Ruth of Lowell are the guests of James Scott.

Miss Helen B. Lycett has resumed her duties at the postoffice after a short illness.

A merry evening was spent at the Women's club, Tuesday evening, when the new andirons were christened. The members gathered about the fireplace, where the andirons were installed, in a semi-circle and one of the girls placed her hand on them and said:—"We, the members of the club of 1908, dedicate you to the use of the club house forever. May you make many a cheery evening, warming the hearts, likewise the faces of all, who sit about you. Make others cheerful, we give this for your motto." Mrs. Foster then applied the match and the flames shot up into the air filling the room with their ruddy glow. The lights were turned out and the members gathered about the fireplace and toasted marshmallows. Next week the last gentlemen's night of the season will be held, although the exact date has not as yet been decided upon.

Pool Tournament at the Men's Club.

The semi-finals and finals in the pool tournament at the Men's Club, Magnolia, were played Friday and Saturday of last week and much interest and enthusiasm centered about the match. In the semi-finals T. F. Murray beat T. J. Cronin, 50-27 and Robert Strom beat Walter Carlson 50-32 thus qualifying for the finals Saturday. The play was extremely close and for some little time it was impossible to say which would win out. The score continued to fluctuate to the end of the match and the game was finally won by Strom with a score of 50-46. Light refreshments were served during the playing, and the wind up of the tournament was enjoyed by all. The prizes, a handsome loving cup and a jointed cue, are on exhibition at the club room and were indeed worth playing for.

Doucette—Dunbar.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Saturday evening, August 29, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Dunbar on Magnolia avenue, Magnolia, when their daughter Georgina Lucinda was married to George Manning Doucette of Essex.

At 7.30 the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march played by Miss Ruia Brown of Gloucester. The bride was handsomely dressed in white net over white silk and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas, her veil being caught up with a spray of the same. The bridesmaid, Miss Jessie Andrews of Boston, was dressed in pink silk and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. The best man was Frank W. Dunbar, a brother of the bride. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. F. J. Libby, the bridal party standing under an arch of laurel and ferns. The rooms were also prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns. A reception followed in which the bride and groom were assisted by the bridesmaid and best man, and received friends and relatives from Magnolia, Gloucester, Beverly, Salem, Newburyport, Lynn, Boston, Malden and Millis. The ushers were: Fred R. Dunbar and E. W. Dunbar, brothers of the bride.

The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable gifts both useful and ornamental including silver, china, cut glass, linen and bric-a-brac, the gift room being in charge of Mrs. Elmer Elliott of Lynn. Ice cream and cake were served by the following ladies: Mrs. S. S. Emerson, Mrs. F. R. Dunbar, Mrs. E. W. Dunbar, Mrs. S. C. Brown, Miss Ruia Brown and Miss Nettie Brown.

Sleeplessness
Sleeplessness is a result of exhausted nerve force. You must have sleep—it is nature's rebuilding period. It is the period in which she stores up strength and vigor. You will sleep well and awaken fresh, if you take Dr. Miles' Nervine. It brings sleep by soothing the tired nerves. Its invigorating effect is felt throughout the entire system.
"I used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for extreme nervousness, brought on by over-exhaustion. It soothed and strengthened my nerves. It enabled me to get restful sleep which I was unable to get before taking the Nervine. For nervous troubles I know of nothing that can equal it." MRS. E. EBENSPERGER, 386 Jay St., Utica, N. Y.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Manchester

Town Clerk and Mrs. Alfred S. Jewett are leaving tomorrow morning for their customary September visit to Saratoga. They will be away about a month, spending a fortnight at Saratoga, and from their they go to Montreal and Quebec. Asst. Clerk L. W. Floyd will attend to Mr. Jewett's official duties in his absence.

Manchester roads were again the object of investigation by a committee from New York state last week. The chairman of the Village Improvement society of Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., who was in Massachusetts looking into some other sort of road construction than macadam, came to Manchester and was greatly interested in the process employed here on many of our streets.

"Wear a Tag" is the headliner on the poster anouncing the K. of C. Fie'd Day at Tuck's Point on Labor Day. The tag admits anyone to the events and to the excellent fish dinners which is to be served, and it only costs 50 cents. There is to be a baseball game between nines selected from the Manchester and Beverly councils and other sports will be run off.

The sports will include 100-yard dash, jumping, quoit pitching, etc., and most important of all,—a tug-of-war. Great interest already centers in this as there is a prize of $25 offered to the winning team. Prof. Conroy will give an exhibition. Dancing will be provided for those who desire.

The regular retail price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but to introduce we will sell you a sample pair for $4.80 (cash with order $4.55).

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

HANDICRAFT SHOP FOR THE BLIND.

Original Designs by Sightless Weavers.

The friends of the Handicraft Shop for the Blind, whose interesting red and black signs have caught the public eye this summer, both from the main road and from the village green, will be glad to know that the shop is to be kept open a few weeks longer. Electric lights have been installed for the benefit of late purchasers during the shortening days and fresh supplies of both hand woven goods and useful household articles are brought down frequently, as heretofore. One item of especial interest the past week was the exhibition of original designs, by some of the blind weavers who have taken great interest in the raised patterns of their weaving and have been encouraged by the designers to develop their own ideas. In several cases, these designs have been happily applied to scarfs, hangings and sofa pillows. Customers will be glad to know that orders given now, either for the coming holidays or for next season, will be filled during the fall and winter and sent to them as desired from the workshops and the Boston salesroom of the Commission. The address of the Boston salesroom, by the way, is 383 Boylston street, in the same building as the Salesrooms of the Perkins Institution for the Blind. Those interested in winter sports will be glad to know that the shop has a display of such articles as mittens, tights, gloves, sweaters and helmets of Shetland wool.

Spread of Movement for the Blind.

A significant fact relative to the endeavors of the State Commission to help the blind to help themselves is noted in the opening of another in the series of workshops for sightless artisans,—this time in Worcester. The enterprise, which is heartily indorsed by representative business men of the heart of the commonwealth, is a unique venture in Worcester, was formally launched September 1st, in one of the busiest sections of the city, and, from all indications noted by the protectors in the work of preliminary investigation, promises to meet with public approval and support.

In this connection it is interesting to all workers in the cause to note the gratifying success which has marked the operations of the Lowell workshop, where several blind men of the textile city are as busy as beavers six days in the week, although the workshop has not been open three months.

Miss Lucy Wright, who has charge of the Women's Work for the Commission, and who has just returned from the International Congress of Workers for the Blind at Manchester, England, visited the shop last week and is very much delighted with its progress and the part the two Manchester workers have taken this summer. It was to Miss Wright that Mrs. Hooper first suggested the plan for the shop and with whom she planned many of the details from the start.

Mexico Aflame with Enthusiasm.

With an enthusiasm characteristic of their race, the City of Mexico is aflame with excitement over the exhibit which the nation is sending to Boston to take part in the great New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building, Oct. 5 to 31.

The Mexican press is devoting columns to the news of the exhibit, which they freely predict will excel, both in size and scope, anything that Mexico has ever sent to any of the world's fairs, not even excepting the splendid exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition. Not a day passes but what the newspapers of the City of Mexico have something to say about the exhibit. It is very evident that this progressive country is planning to do itself proud.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to reach. *

CENTRAL SQUARE :: MANCHESTER, MASS.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mrs. Howard Bartlett has spent a portion of the week visiting her former home at Amesbury, Mass.

Gordon Smith has concluded his services with James Culbert, the Central Square harness and stable supply dealer.

The horse show at the Myopia Hunt club on Labor Day will no doubt prove a strong drawing card for the Farms horsemen this year as in the past.

The Oxford club of Beverly will hold a grand assembly and prize dance in Neighbor's hall, Monday evening, September 7. A large attendance is expected from out of town and two barges will leave the Beverly depot at seven o'clock.

James Barry has moved into his newly purchased home, the White house, formerly owned by the Watson estate, on Pickett's court, and the apartments in the McKeon house, vacated by Mr. Barry, have been taken by Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cahill.

The Misses May D. and Gertrude H. Connolly completed their duties as instructors at the Mack and Broad street play grounds, Salem, Monday, when the season ended. Miss May Connolly will probably continue her work through the coming winter by conducting classes in physical culture and gymnastics. Miss Gertrude Connolly will again enter the Sargent school and complete her course.

The K. of C. picnic at Tuck's Point, Manchester, on Labor Day, will be attendcd by a large number of the local council and their friends. One of the most interesting features of the program will be the ball game between the local council ball team and a team representing the Manchester council. The winners will play the team representing the Beverly council. All who desire to attend, are invited to do so. Tickets may be purchased for 50 cents, which includes the dinner.

The dance and hose laying contest of the Beverly Farms Hook and Ladder Co. in Neighbor's hall last Friday night, was a grand success, and the evening was enjoyed by all. George Burchstead and E. Fred Day gave a very interesting exhibition run and did the trick in 14 seconds. The first prize went to Bodge and Bodge of Hose 3, Peabody, whose time was 12 1-5 seconds. The second prize was also carried off by a Peabody team, McNeil and Larrabee of Hose 5, and the third by Kerrigan and Hammond of Woburn. There were nine teams contesting and the affair proved most interesting. At the conclusion of the contest the dancing began and lasted until a late hour.

John Bresnahan, jr., of Pride's Crossing entertained over Sunday Mr. Sumerby of the Bowdoin Square Theatre, Boston.

Thomas J. McDonnell has had as guests, a portion of the week, his sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. De Grasse of Providence, R. I., who made the journey in the doctor's auto, and have spent a large portion of their stay here motoring about the vicinity.

Miss Florence McDonald leaves tomorrow by rail for Antigonish, N. S., where she will enter a convent college for a twelve months' course to perfect her education, particularly in music. Miss McDonald's stay will be made quite pleasant from the fact that she has a number of relatives living in the vicinity.

Miss Alice Witham concludes her services at the Farms postoffice tomorrow night, much to the regret of her many friends, for her kindly and accommodating ways during her years of service have made her very popular. Miss Edith Elliott will be Miss Witham's successor and Miss Carrie Davis will be the new assistant.

Teresa Cronin, a young girl living at Pride's, ran out in front of an auto owned and occupied by C. A. Collins of St. Louis, as it was passing near the residence of Daniel Linehan at Pride's Monday evening. Before the car could be stopped the girl was struck and knocked down. She was immediately taken into the auto and carried to Dr. Jackson's who ordered her to the Beverly hospital, where it was found that she had sustained a fractured rib and a number of cuts and bruises. At this writing she is reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Paul Schroder, superintendent of the C. Howard Clark, jr., park at Philadelphia, has paid a visit to the North Shore this week and has been shown the beautiful estate along the coast from Beverly to Gloucester under the guidance of Joseph J. Gorman. Today they are taking in the park system at Boston.

The third annual ball of the Clan Wallace, 127, A. S. C., will be held in Neighbor's hall the evening of Thursday, September 17, and preparations are being made to make it the crowning event of the season. In addition to the usual features of Highland costumes and bagpipes, the famous Highland dancers, the Keppie sisters, have been engaged. They have won a number of gold medals at different exhibitions and are considered without peer. They will dance the Highland Fling, Sword Dance, the Sailor's Hornpipe and the Irish Jig. Preparations are being made to secure Long's orchestra and one of the pleasantest times of the season is being planned.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Beverly Farms, Mass. P. O., week ending Sept. 2, 1908. Mrs M Blumdell, Mr John E Bull, Miss Annie Byrnes, Consolidated Rendering Co., Mr Elmer E Cole, Miss Margaret Conne, Mrs P Donahue, Mr Sylon Duyu, Miss Betsy Dwyer, Mr Thomas A Ellis, Faulkner Mfg. The reunion of the May family and connections, including the Williams and Standley families, will not be held this year, owing to a number of circumstances, which have made the gathering at the Old Homestead on Hart street on Labor Day inadvisable. This will be the first time in a number of years that the reunion has been omitted.

At a meeting of the Preston Relief corps, 93, Tuesday evening a new member was admitted. The visit of the corps to the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea, planned yesterday had to be postponed owing to its being convention day at the Home, thus bringing a large number of visitors from elsewhere. Plans are being made to go Wednesday of next week, or, if it is unpleasant, the following day. A number of invited guests will accompany them and the trip will be made from Beverly by trolly.

Mrs. Ezra P. Williams left Wednesday for an eight or ten days' visit at Wolfboro, N. H., where she will be the guest of relatives.

Mrs. George A. Stewart of Woodstock, Vt., and her two daughters, Annie and Mildred, have been the guests of relatives here this week. They plan to return to Woodstock Tuesday next.

Rept. William R. Brooks is a member of the special committee of the Republican club to make arrangements and furnish tickets for those who desire to attend the barbecue at the Point of Pines, Tuesday, September 15.

Invitations have been sent out this week by Mr. and Mrs. William Choate Webster, for the wedding reception of their neice, Miss Alice Evelyn Witham, and Harry Preston Cole, the evening of Tuesday, September 15, from seven to eight-thirty o'clock, at their residence, 807 Hale street. The young people are well known and popular and have a host of friends, who are showering them with congratulations on the coming happy event. Miss Witham has, for a number of years, been assistant at the Farms postoffice, and Mr. Cole occupies an important position with the United Shoe Machinery Co. in their Beverly offices.

Mrs. Charles F. Preston and family are enjoying camp life in Mrs. Lee's cottage at West Gloucester, having left here Monday and remaining until after Labor Day. Many of their Farms friends have been down to visit them and have been royally entertained.

Rept. William R. Brooks surprised his friends recently, and set some of them guessing as to his identity, by appearing with a smooth shaven upper lip. The loss of a luxurious moustache after wearing it for a number of years certainly made quite a change.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hooper, Mrs. Ober and Mrs. Frost have been entertaining, the past ten days, Mrs. Folsom and her daughter Helen, of Birmingham, Alabama. The Folsoms left the Farms yesterday and will visit other friends in this vicinity before returning to the South.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinne, who have become very well known here, left Wednesday morning for New York, whence they sailed for Germany. Mr. Kinne was chief clerk in charge of the German Embassy offices, which have made their summer headquarters in the Luke cottage.

Frank I. Lomasney, proprietor of the North Shore Fish Co., has made a number of improvements at his place of business on new Vine street, including a carriage shed in the rear, and a brick sidewalk and granite curbing along the front of the store.

John L. Chapman, superintendent of the Swiftmoor estate at Pride's, was a passenger on the Winifredian for England, Wednesday, where he will spend a six or eight weeks' vacation at his old home, which he has not seen for thirty years. His son, Thomas Chapman, is in charge of the estate during his absence.

Leon and Ralph Pierce are enjoying an auto trip to Atlantic City in the machine belonging to the Brazilian embassy. The chauffeur, employed by the embassy, received instructions the first of the week to bring the car to Atlantic City over the road, and invited the young men to accompany him on the trip, which they gladly accepted.

The Beverly Improvement society gave an outing yesterday to the 100 children of this city, who have worked in the summer garden on Wallis street under the direction of Mrs. O. M. Fields. The day's pleasure consisted of a trolly trip to Essex where a stop was made and then a return to Peabody's field, Monserrat, where the Misses May D. and Gertrude H. Connolly had arranged a number of games and sports in which liberal prizes were given the winners. At four in the afternoon a luncheon was served after which the party was taken to Beverly by trolly and dismissed.

Miss May Hinds of Roxbury is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanwood at their home on Oak street.

Alderman and Mrs. Robert E. Hodgkins left Wednesday on a vacation trip to Portland, Me., and places of interest in that vicinity.

Mrs. Sarah A. Crowell of Hart street has spent the week at Bradford, Mass., where she has been the guest of Miss Elizabeth F. Peabody.

John J. Bresnahan, jr., has taken up the insurance business, representing some well known companies, and will sell both life and accident policies.

Despite the dull day, ten of the Farms residents took in the Lake Winnipesaukee excursion, Wednesday. The next will take place on Monday, Sept. 14.

Frederick Brennan of Nahant, and Capt. Leo Fitzpatrick of the Fordham University ball team have been guests this week of Charles C. McCarthy, Haskell street.

The Misses May D. and Gertrude H. Connolly will attend the 2d annual convention of play ground instructors in New York City from Sept. 8 to 12, inclusive.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Pierce have leased the upper suite of rooms in the new house of F. Leslie Woodbury on West street and will move into their new quarters on or about October 1.

Miss B. Logue and Mrs. Cronin of Freeport Long Island, N. Y., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thos. D. Connolly on Oak street. Miss Logue is a district supervisor of play grounds in New York City.

The children of the Mack Park play grounds, Salem, at the conclusion of their season's work on Monday, all marched in a body to the B. & M. R. R. station to bid their instructor good bye, and gave Miss Connolly an agreeable surprise by presenting her with a gold bracelet.

Funeral services were held this afternoon over the body of the late Clarence Williams, who passed away at one of the Government hospitals in southern Colorado, last week. The services were held in the Baptist church at two o'clock and the remains were laid at rest in the family lot in the local cemetery.

The rubbish at the Beach street dump still remains untouched and presents a most unsightly appearance. A fire is needed to burn up the inflammable material, but it seems to be an open question as to who shall do it. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the dump has been open to the public, and all who have desired have used it.

Cotton Felt Mattresses

Made in such a way, through the use of ingenious machinery, that the fibres of the cotton cross and recross one another making as it were a continuous "web."

Forty of these "webs" laid one upon another make what we term one layer and nine of these layers make a mattress.

The buoyancy of this layer structure is so great that it is compressed from thirty, to the five inches which makes the thickness of the mattress itself. The cotton that is used is fresh from the cotton fields, and to allow of your proving this, one end of our mattresses are made with a laced opening so that you can open them and see after they arrive in the home to your own satisfaction just exactly what you receive. They are all made in two parts, making them more easy to handle.

A pretty new feature we have just now adopted of making all corners round instead of square. Two grades to satisfy,—one of unbleached cotton for Miss Alice McCormack of Hull is visiting Miss Margaret Connolly on Everett street.

The Farms schools will open Tuesday, September 8, and "school days" will begin again. The corps of teachers will be practically the same as that of last year with two exceptions, Miss Bruerton and Miss Sweet.

On Tuesday Fred Woodbury moved with his family from the Connolly Bros. house on Hale street, and entered his own house on Odell avenue, Beverly. Mr. Woodbury has been a resident of the Farms for the past five years, where he has occupied the position of driver in the Farms fire department. He resigned a short time ago to accept a position as driver on one of the city teams. Their going is much regretted by their many friends and neighbors.

The mayor has appointed the following election of officers for Ward 6, who under the rules, are to be laid over until the next meeting of the board of Aldermen for confirmation:—James B. Dow, warden; George P. Coburn, deputy warden; Thomas J. McDonnell, clerk; Lawrence J. Watson, deputy clerk; Lewis J. Williams, Frank Lomasney, George H. Bennett, John F. McKenzie, Howard E. Morgan and John E. Cahill, inspectors; John M. Publicover, Charles McCarthy, Frank E. Cole, Daniel Gilmartin, Charles Butman and Cornelius F. Donovan, deputy inspectors. The above list is practically the same as that of last year with the exception of the office of warden, where Mr. Dow succeeds Ralph W. Osborne, who has held the position for a number of years.

THE OLD "ARBELLA" AND THE NEW.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

The contrast between the beautiful print in the BREEZE of Aug. 28, of the yacht "Arbella," owned by Mr. W. B. Thomas, and the picture of the vessel which was intended to represent the original ship "Arbella" in which Winthrop came to this shore in 1630, is illustrative not only of the progress in marine architecture, but in our civilization, between the days of the pioneers and our own. The former were times of sturdy strength; the latter are times in which we have added graceful lines and artistic equipment to the work which our fathers wrought.

The original name of David Little's "Arbella," given it when a fishing vessel of Gloucester, the "Hard Chance," was significant of the severe and perilous labor and frequent misfortunes and losses inseparable from the life of the toilers of the sea, of which the heroic and hardy fishermen of our neighboring brave and enterprizing Port have had their full share.

The fine lines and graceful pose of a modern pleasure yacht are almost the complete opposite of the heavy and clumsy build of an old-time "Grand Banker;" the one stands for wealth, luxury and artistic taste, the other for utility and hardship; the one is winged and floating poetry, the other was cumbrous and homely prose. The two can hardly be compared; they are both good in their way, and for what they were made for; neither can take the place of the other. Perhaps, in case of extremity we could dispense with the gay and lightsome yacht better than the awkward and stolid fishing craft; we could live without the one better than without the other. But it is one of the felicities of modern invention and improvement, that the fishing craft while retaining its solid and practical build and sea-going qualities, has learned to take on some of the shapeliness of the pleasure craft; thus combining beauty and use.

And anything that speaks of a lightening of the fisherman's lot, and the bringing of the least cheer into his life; anything that stands for more grace and comfort; is something most surely to be rejoiced over. We little think, too often, of the debt we owe to those who reap the harvest of the fields that no man ploughs, who go down to the sea in ships, and do business in the great waters. All honor to these brave sons of toil. All honor, too, to those at the other end of the social scale, who turn our rugged lines of life into flowing curves of beauty.

AMERICAN NATIONAL RED CROSS

A Most Worthy Object; Should Receive Support of Our Citizens Generally. Manchester has 87 Members.

We are publising in this week's issue of the Breeze the list of members of the Manchester Branch of the American National Red Cross. While we are glad to know our town leads, as far as numbers are concerned, any other in Essex County, still it is far from what we ought to have. Membership makes a very modest demand on the purse-strings, as it asks for but $1.00 a year. For this sum also the quarterly Bulletins are sent. There are also Life memberships at $25.00. Miss L. P. Loring of Pride's Crossing is Secretary of the Essex County Branch. She has requested Mrs. W. J. Boardman to act as local secretary here. Mrs. Boardman will be most happy to receive the names of any persons, men, women and children who may desire to join. It will be remembered that the President of the National society is the Hon. Wm. Howard Taft.

The Branch has lost during the last year two of its members by death, Mrs. M. B. Mason and Mr. R. C. Hooper.

ACCEPTS CALL TO MANCHESTER CHURCH.

Last Friday evening the Baptist church of Manchester voted to extend a call to the Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost of Skowhegan, Me. Mr. Frost has accepted the call and will begin his pastorate here on the second Sunday in October,—the 11th.

Mr. Frost is a young man,—29 years of age and married. He is a Bostonian by birth, and his membership was formerly at the Warren Avenue Baptist church. He is a graduate of the Boston Latin school, Harvard University and Rochester Theological seminary. He is highly recommended. His letter of acceptance will be read Sunday at the morning service.

BEVERLY'S NEW HOSPITAL

Dedicatory Exercises Held Tuesday. New Hospital Cost $100,000. Description of Buildings

The new Beverly Hospital, off Herrick street, not far from the Montserrat station, was dedicated Tuesday afternoon. The new hospital cost about $100,000 and consists of three buildings connected by corridors with fireproof dividing doors and a fourth building for the boiler house and laundry.

President Charles Woodberry presided at the dedication exercises. The prayer was by the Rev. Edward Everett Hale of Boston. The speakers were Mayor S. Harvey Dow, Augustus P. Loring, Dr. Paul Thorndike of Boston and Dr. Charles W. Haddock of Beverly. The hospital was open for public inspection Wednesday afternoon.

In locating a hospital in New England some of the things to be desired are sunlight, a sufficient elevation above the surrounding country, protection from the cold east winds, freedom from disturbing noises, good drainage and an outlook on quiet, undisturbing scenery. It is generally possible that some of these conditions can be found but very rarely all. But in the Beverly Hospital the site selected possesses all of these good qualities.

The main group consists of the Administration building, three stories; the Pavilion, two stories, and the Operating building, one story.

The Administration building is placed in what will be the centre of a group when all the buildings are built. The second Pavilion and the Nurses' Home are yet to be built. The buildings are designed (in so far as the conditions of a hospital would allow) in the early colonial style so prevalent in Salem and Beverly, with the high portico and the simple detail.

Entering the main or Administration building through the three story portion with its monolithic concrete columns, one comes first to the main hospital office with connecting telephones to all buildings, call bells, annunciators, etc. Next to this, on the right, is the waiting or Trustees' room. Opposite is the suite for the superintendent, consisting of sitting-room, bed room and bath. The pharmacy on the left and the interne's room and bath on the right complete the front portion.

In the rear of the cross corridor is the main staircase leading to the floors above. The elevator, of sufficient size to take the wheel stretcher, bed or food carriage, is on the left. The nurses' dining-room is large and commodious, connected to the kitchen through a serving room.

The kitchen, 22 by 25 feet, is a model of convenience. The 8 ft. range is in the centre of the room, with the steam and gas cookers joining. The walls of this room are entirely free from fixtures. Even the sinks are kept away from the walls. The shelving is of metal and slate. A large working pantry adjoins. Here, too, all shelving is clear from the walls. The floors of the kitchen and dependencies are of a thoroughly aseptic quality. They are what is known as the Puritan floor.

In the front portion on the second story are located the best private rooms in the hospital. Of the seven private rooms two have open fireplaces and four have direct connection with the airing balconies. The windows are so arranged that a patient may be wheeled without leaving his bed to the open air. Toilets, lockers, linen closets and medicine closet complete the front portion.

In the rear half of this floor is located

the maternity department consisting of a four-bed open ward and two private rooms while the delivery room, the baby room, bath and toilets complete this department. The baby room is finished in light blue and white. A large airing balcony from this room affords out-door space for babies when needed.

The third story of the building is devoted to nurses and domestics until the Nurses' Home, a much needed building, is built.

In the basement of this building are located the laboratory, drug room, kitchen stores, men's rooms, X-Ray room, work shop and ice storage.

Basement corridors connect to all buildings. The basement of the Pavilion is used for a plenum chamber for the heating. In the basement of the operating building is the autopsy.

In the Pavilion is located the two large ten-bed wards, five private rooms and a children's ward, a large diet kitchen, bath and toilet room, linen and medicine closets. The large wards are lighted with nine large windows on each side and on the end windows occupying nearly the entire width. Facing, as this building does, to the south the room is flooded with sunlight the greater part of the day. On both stories the wards open to the airing balconies so that the beds can be wheeled to the open air with the least effort. At night the wards are lighted by reflecting lights from a group of lights at the centre of the rooms, giving a soft light over the entire room with no direct light in the patients' eyes. Besides this there are portable lights at each bedside.

Perhaps the most complete building of the group is the Operating building. On this building a great deal of thought and time were expended to make it as nearly perfect as possible. Two operating rooms are provided, one for major operations and one for accidents, unclean cases and general minor cases.

For accident cases an admitting room is provided at the ambulance entrance. Here the patient is prepared for the anaesthetic before being taken to the anaesthetic room. From this room a large door communicates directly with the main operating room.

This operating room is provided with a large skylight and north light window. All the windows are double glazed to prevent the radiating of cold and adjustable shades are provided for the skylights, between the two glazings. A west window is provided in case light from that direction is needed or this light can be cut off by shutters. For artificial light a system is used which is uncommon in American hospitals. The lights are on an adjustable crane which, when not in use, is swung back against the wall, thus avoiding the possibility of dust from a fixed fixture over the centre of the table.

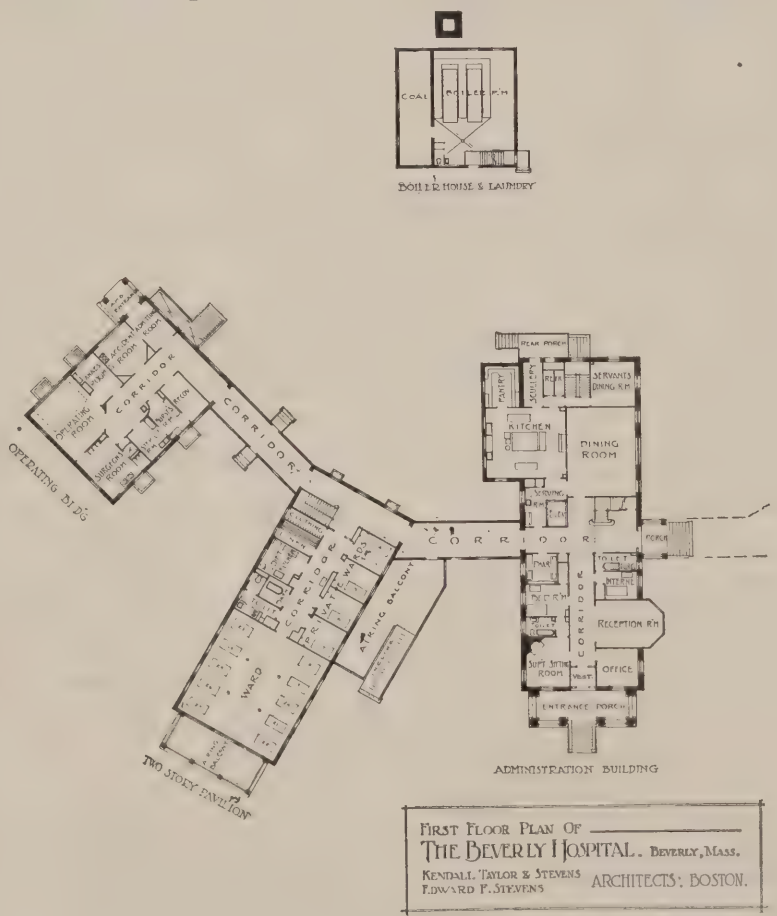

The floor of this room is white vitreous tile with sanitary base. The only plumbing fixture in this room is a vitreous porcelain sink with elbow and knee controlled valves.

The surgeons' room adjoins the main operating room and contains the surgeons' lockers, bowls with knee action valves, and shower bath.

While the hospital is most complete in every detail and fitting, there is still need for another building which limitation of funds made it necessary to leave out and that is the Nurses' Home. Accommodation for the domestics and a few nurses can be had in the third story of the Administration Building but more room is needed. The nurses should have a building separated from the main group where they could be free from the atmosphere of the hospital and have more freedom. The health and recovery of a patient depends very largely on the nurse and unless she can have her rest and relaxation when off duty she cannot do her best when caring for her patients.

Sixteen or eighteen thousand dollars would build and equip such a Nurses' Home and it is earnestly hoped that this building may be made possible before the season is over.

KENDALL, TAYLOR & STEVENS
EDWARD F. STEVENS ARCHITECTS: BOSTON.

LATE SUMMER THE BEST TIME TO MOVE A TREE OR EVERGREEN.

Almost every one thinks that the proper time to move a tree is in the spring and the rest of the community advocates fall transplanting. It may be surprising to my readers to know that as far as evergreens are concerned they are both wrong.

The best time to move an evergreen tree is August. Of course it may live if moved at any time of the year. But that is equally true of any tree or plant. If you are careful not to disturb the roots it is remotely possible to move a forty-foot apple tree in full bloom, or with the fruit hanging on it, but not one man in a million has either the money or the knowledge to carry out such an operation. It would mean a special railroad track, several derricks and a small army of men.

The needle leaved evergreens—which include pines, cedar, spruce, balsam, arbor vitae, hemlock and so on—have recently become extremely popular on country and suburban places, because they are not only immediately decorative and take away the barren look from a new place, but they are beautiful the year round and never shed their leaves to such an extent as to litter up a yard as in the case of deciduous trees. Nurserymen have recently gone extensively into the culture of evergreens.

Beautiful specimens, showing a wide range of colors in their foliage, from the Colorado blue spruce to the golden leaved retinosporas, may be obtained now at a comparatively low cost. One or two of these trees properly located in your front yard will change the entire aspect of the place.

The man who attempts to move a native evergreen tree—that is, a wild tree that grows in his neighborhood—is almost sure to fail, because, in the first place, he does it at the wrong time of year, and, second, because he does it on the impulse of the moment and neglects to take the precautions that are taken in a nursery. A native tree to be moved successfully should be root pruned about a year ahead of the time it is to be moved; that is, it should have a trench dug around it, by means of which all roots extending beyond a certain distance from the tree will be cut off. After the tree has had a chance to recover, the roots branch profusely. The result is a fibrous mass of roots which will enable one to move considerable earth with the tree and thus transplant it safely.

As a rule it is hardly worth while to attempt to move native evergreens. With the exception of cedars they are seldom shapely and their chances of living are extremely small.

The nurseryman knows how to pack and ship an evergreen. It is his business to know it. He has only specimen trees to sell, which he has transplanted three or four times to make the roots form a compact ball. As soon as he receives your order he will dig up the tree and carefully pack the root ball in burlaps, so that unless the tree is a long time in transit it will really hardly know that it has been moved, and its chances of living are about ninety per cent if you give it reasonable after care.

The business of setting out the tree devolves on you, and it is a particular job. First dig a hole large enough to admit the roots without crowding. Carefully separate the good soil that you find on top from the sand and clay that may form the subsoil on your place. Remove the burlap bagging from the tree—which by the way, should lie unopened until ready to plant in the ground. Dig the hole carefully, and allow plenty room for the roots to fit and have the hole large enough so that the new shoots of the roots may make its way through the soil easily.

Don't forget a tree once it is set out. Constant watering through the fall months enables the roots to become established before winter. Mulch with coarse litter in the late fall.

After all your trouble and expense it is a shame to have an evergreen damaged in its youth, for it does not make a successful recovery. Cattle are possessed to hook and tear at an evergreen if they get a chance. See that the yard is properly fenced to prevent incursions from your own or your neighbor's live stock. —Exchange.

Evergreens

We offer a stock of over 35,000 assorted Evergreens from 2 to 8 feet in height, consisting of Norway Spruce, Coerulea Spruce, White Spruce, Colorado Spruce both blue and green, Scotch Pine, Austrian Pine, White Pine, Mugho Pine, Cephalonica Fir, Nordmans Fir, Douglass Fir, Balsam Fir, American Arbor Vitae, etc. All have been several times transplanted and most of them will lift with a ball of earth at the roots. We also have a choice lot of imported Evergreen Specimens and 10,000 well rooted Dwarf Box for border and edging purposes and make very reasonable prices for this season's planting. Sept. 4, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Tideman. Mr. Tideman is chauffeur at F. M. Whitehouse's.

Frank Robbins started Tuesday with Mrs. W. Scott Fitz's three horses for Jackson, N. H , to remain during the early autumn.

Stanley A. Lutz, formerly with Horace Standley, blacksmith, left Manchester Wednesday week for Oklahoma, where he may locate permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Rose are moving from the Soulis house on Lincoln street, to the tenement in the Tappan house, opposite the High school, Bennett street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Horton left Wednesday for a visit with Mrs. Horton's son, Albert Smith in the western part of the State. Later they will visit her brother in Connecticut.

The Expressmen's ball is the next dancing event of interest in Manchester. It is scheduled for next Friday night,—the 18th, and from the way the tickets have been selling it is evident that this will be the biggest party of the season. The dance will be given under the auspices of the drivers of Smith's and the American express companies.

The Essex County Poultry association are to have another outing at Tuck's Point this year, the first of the kind, held last year, proving such a success that it was the unanimous desire of the members to repeat the good time. Some day the latter part of this month will be decided upon for the outing. A caterer will furnish the dinner.

A three years' Nurse's Training is offered free of charge in a Chicago Children's Hospital to two girls who have had a High School education. Apply to P. O. Box 130, Manchester, *

While repairing his car preparatory to a run to East Gloucester, Saturday, C. B. Gummo, chauffeur for Dr. Ladd, jammed his hand in the rear wheel, which he was putting on, and injured it rather badly. For a day or two he was obliged to carry the hand in a sling, but at the present writing, the injured member is getting along very comfortably, although Mr. Gummo will have to lose the nail.

Dr. and Mrs. David Parker of Manchester, N. H., were guests over the week-end and Labor Day of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Campbell, School street, making the trip in Dr. Parker's Stanley runabout. Mrs. Parker was Miss Helen Hall, formerly of the Story High school teaching force. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell have also had as their guests recently E. P. McDonough and Miss Anna McDonough of Cuba.

Wm. Jeffrey Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will nominate officers at its next meeting, Sept. 14.

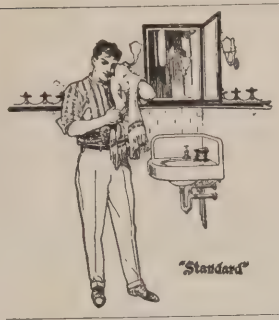

At the annual election of officers in the Chapel last Tuesday evening the Phi Alpha Pi elected the following for the year:—Bernard Tyler, W. A. E. R.; Elmer Smith, K. O. T. S.; Cheever Hersey, C. O. T. E., and Archibald Cool, G. O. T. E.

The tennis tournament at the playgrounds Labor Day was the object of no little interest among the young people and resulted in a victory for Roland Knight with Allan McKinnon, second. The summary of the tournament is as follows:—

First round:—Roland Knight beat A. Cool, 6-0, 6-3; Bernard Tyler beat Fleming 2 6, 6-4, 6-0; Allan McKinnon beat W. McDiarmid 6-3, 6-1; G. Northup beat W. Francis 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Semi finals:—Roland Knight beat Bernard Tyler, 6-1, 7-5; and Allan McKinnon beat G. Northrup 6-4, 6-2.

Finals:—Roland Knight beat Allan McKinnon 6-2, 6-1.

An event of interest to North Shore people will be the marriage on the 26th of this month, in the little Episcopal church, at Manchester, of Miss Alice St. John Nolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Nolan of Chicago, and Dr. J. Ramsey Hunt of 112 West Fifty-fifth street, New York. Miss Nolan has been spending the summer with her parents at the Brownland Cottages, Manchester. She is a sister of Julian St. John Nolan, Yale '95, and of Harry E. Nolan, Yale '97. Rev. S. S. Drury of St. Stephen's church, Boston, will officiate at the wedding, which will be held at 3.30 in the afternoon.

William S. Dexter.

Once more has the call of death sounded on the North Shore and another of our most prominent summer residents answered the call. William S. Dexter of Boston and long a summer resident at Beverly Farms passed away at his home there Sunday at the age of 80 years.

For 50 years Mr. Dexter was numbered among the most prominent of Boston's lawyers and bankers. The last 35 years, however, he devoted to his duties as trustee of the properties which came under his care, and at the time of his death was vice president of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Co. and president of the Provident Institute for Savings. He also retained his membership in the Somerset and Essex County clubs.

Mr. Dexter married Eliza S. Ticknor, daughter of George Ticknor, the historian. Mrs. Dexter died in 1880 leaving him four children, three of whom are now living,—Miss Rose Dexter, George T. and Philip Dexter.

Funeral services were held in the chapel at Mt. Auburn Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. J. P. Frank of Salem.

Registered at the Oceanside this week are Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Worns and Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Newman of New Orleans, who have taken apartments at the hotel for a brief stay. Mr. Newman is a very prominent broker and banker of New Orleans and well known for his many philanthropies, giving large sums to charitable institutions.

The Hesperus has indeed been popular this summer and early fall among the many auto parties that motor along the North Shore. Among the arrivals of Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Tappan of Providence, who, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Deborah Tappan, and their son, James Tappan, have been touring the western section of the state and are now registered at the hotel for a week or ten days' stay.

Earle R. Davis and Fred Budlong of Providence, who are enjoying the month with a tour of the mountains in their Packard, made their headquarters at the Hesperus Sunday night, starting off on their trip again, Monday morning.

A few days, early in the week, were spent very delightfully at the Hesperus by Norman Smith of Andover, and J. F. McKee and C. S. Greeley of St. Louis. On Wednesday the young men were the guests of Mrs. William Scudder and the Misses Scudder, also of St. Louis, at the Oceanside, leaving there Thursday morning for an auto tour through the mountains. Mr. Smith is a well known athlete of Brown University, having played second base on the varsity nine. Mr. Greeley has spent some little time this summer on the North Shore, having been registered both at the Hesperus in Magnolia and the Masconomo at Manchester.

Among the late arrivals of last week were Mrs. W. Irwin-Martin and her daughter, Miss Irwin-Martin, who took apartments at the Hesperus for a week or two, probably until the end of the hotel season.

Society Notes

Rev. and Mrs. William H. Dewart have closed their house at Manchester Cove and have moved back to their winter home on Brush Hill, Milton. They made the trip back in their new auto, a six cylinder Lozier, '09 model.

Madame Eugene Colgate of Paris, and Geneva, Switzerland, who has been in this country since June and has been visiting, the past month, her cousins, the Misses Colgate Colby at their Beverly Farms cottage, sailed for her home, yesterday, on the La Provence from New York. Madame Colgate, nee Countess Massol D'Andre, is the widow of Eugene Colgate, who died quite recently at his summer home, the Bellevue, one of the most beautiful of the many picturesque chateaux on Lake Geneva, and has been twice married. Her first husband, Baron Guy D'Onthoorn, was a colonel of the French army. Mme. Colgate is fascinated with the beauty of the North shore and hopes to return before long.

Miss Eleanora Sears, who has been showing Judge Moore's horses at Newport in the show there, the first few days, returned to Beverly Farms yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Maynard Ladd have been entertaining at their summer home in Manchester Mrs. Ladd's brother, Murray Watts of Philadelphia. Mr. Watts is a designer of marine engines and designed the engines for the ocean racing steamers. He returned to Philadelphia yesterday.

Mrs. E. M. Campbell, dressmaker, of 126 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, is at "The Old Homestead," Shore Road, Magnolia. Gowns, fancy waists and shirt waists. Ball gowns a specialty. *

The beautiful summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas at Pride's Crossing will be the scene of one of the most brilliant gatherings of North Shore people this season, tonight when the attractive large music room will be thrown open for a dancing party, at which will be present the elite of the North Shore summer colony. Over two hundred invitations have been sent out. While the party is not given as a "coming out party," Miss Margaret Thomas will be "introduced" on this occasion. Among those present will be the following members of a house party entertained by Mrs. Thomas the past few days: Miss Martha Bacon of New York, daughter of Asst. Secy of State Bacon; Miss Emily Sloane of Baltimore; Miss Elizabeth Morgan, Miss Catherine Warren, and the Misses Thayer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs John E. Thayer of Lancaster.

Miss Juliet Higginson, who has been visiting her friends, the Bowditches, at Pointe au Pic, Canada, returned to Pride's Monday evening, after a very pleasant trip.

Judge Moore left for the horse show at Newport, Saturday, and has been showing a number of his horses there. He is expected home today or tomorrow. Later in the month he plans to go to the show in Louisville, Ky. Mr. Moore's horses captured several blue ribbons.

Theodore Crane of New York was the week-end guest of the C. T. Harbecks, also of New York, in the Adams cottage, Magnolia. Mr. Crane is a Yale student and has been coming here off and on during the summer.

Won Two Golf Cups.

James H. Childs of Pittsburg seemed to have things his own way at the Essex County club last week. Besides turning in the lowest gross score in the members' handicap competition last Saturday and tieing with W. Sargent for the lowest net score,—an 80, he also won out in the match play competition for both the handicap challenge and scratch challenge cups. The final round in both of these special competitions were played last week. In the final round for the scratch challenge cup Mr. Childs met Geo. F. Willett, and not until the last hole was the contest decided, Mr. Childs winning 1 hole up. He did not have such a close match in the final round for the handicap challenge cup, when he met Clay A. Pierce. The score was 8 up and 7 to play.

Among the many auto parties touring the North Shore the past two weeks was that of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Van Schaick of New York and Mr. and Mrs. George F. Fraley of Buffalo, accompanied by their son Master George K. Fraley. The party came on from Saratoga, where they have been spending the summer, and spent the latter portion of the week at the Hesperus. From there they went to Portsmouth, and spent Labor Day at the Wentworth and then on to Bretton Woods. Leaving Bretton Woods, they plan to go to Lake Chamiplain, and Lake Placid and from there back to Saratoga.

Miss C. S. Abbott of Cleveland has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cox in the Highland cottage, one of the connections of the Oceanside, a few days this week.

Another, who spent the week-end very pleasantly at the Oceanside, was John A. Logan of Youngstown, O., who was the guest of the R. Bentleys in the Seacrest cottage.

H. Beresford-Hope of Washington, D. C., and one of the attaches at the British Embassy at Manchester, where he has been spending the major portion of the summer, has taken up his quarters at the Hesperus hotel for the remainder of the month.

Registered at the Hesperus on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. C. Harrington of Providence accompanied by Miss E. L. Howard and Mrs. A. C. Kenyon of the same city. The Harringtons plan to spend the winter as usual at the Park-in-the-Pines, Aiken, S. C.

The Masconomo house at Manchester wound up their season Labor Day after as profitable a summer as could be expected under the circumstances.

Despite their late opening and practically lack of preparation, the hotel was pretty well patronized, and next year, if reopened, should attract a number of new people to Manchester.

Mrs. Thomas Key Niedringhaus of St. Louis, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Dorothy Niedringhaus and her son, T. K. Niedringhaus, jr., who have been spending the summer at their country place "Rockledge." Biddeford Pool, Me., have been the guests for a few days the past week of Mrs. William Scudder, also of St. Louis, at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. U. A. Pettingill of Brookline, who have been spending the last two weeks at Jackson, N. H., have returned to the Oceanside, where they have been spending the summer, and will remain until the close of the hotel season.

Mrs. Fenelon C. Cattus and Mrs. F. A. Baldwin of New York were among the late arrivals of last week, at the Oceanside, where they will remain during the closing days of the hotel season.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbet H. Dean of New York have been the guests of Mrs. J. M. Gilkeson of St. Louis a few days this week at the Oceanside.

Capt. F. de Jony, the well known Hungarian riding master, who has been making his summer headquarters at the Oceanside, returned to Brookline, Wednesday, and has reopened his school there. Capt. de Jony sent his ponies and horses over the road and their progress was the cause of no little comment on the part of those who saw them, particularly among the children to whom the ponies especially appealed.

Apartments have been taken at the Hesperus, for the remainder of the hotel season, by Mrs. Henry E. Nesmith of Brooklyn, N. Y., and her daughter, Miss E. E. Nesmith.

The week-end and holiday was spent very pleasantly by Jacques Krakaner of New York at the Hesperus. Mr. Krakaner, although a resident of New York, has large business connections sometimes in Pihiladelphia where he conducts extensive manufactures.

W. D. Flanders of Plainfield, N. J., was the guest over Labor Day of Mrs. John B. Drayton, also of Plainfield, who has been spending the late summer very delightfully in the Hesperus Villa. Mr. Flanders is soon to become one of the family, being engaged to Miss Drayton.

Among the early arrivals of the week at the Hesperus was William R. Walker of Boston, who has taken apartments at the hotel until the close of the season.

HORSE SHOW AT MYOPIA.

Brilliant Gathering and Unparalleled Weather Makes the Event the Biggest Success of Years.

The annual horse show at the Myopia Hunt club on Labor Day was, as usual, one of the most brilliant and fashionable affairs of the season, and was witnessed by summer restdents from all along the shore as well as many from other sections of the country.

A new feature, introduced this year, was the gymkhana, which proved to be the source of much amusement and merriment. Grouped under this heading were four events, "Going to Jerusalem," or musical stalls, egg and spoon race, Gretna Green, and a relay obstacle race, all of which produced a great deal of fun and laughter. The Gretna Green race, perhaps, aroused the greatest excitement. In this event the contestants rode to their partners carrying trousseau, consisting of an umbrella and a bag containing a shirt, button and sewing material. The couple rode hand in hand to Gretna Green and signed the register. The ladies then sewed the buttons on the shirts, which the gentlemen put on and then rode back to the finish under the shelter of the umbrella. This was won by Dudley P. Rogers and Miss Alice Throndike, while Bayard Tuckerman, jr., and Miss Olivia Thorndike came second. "Going to Jerusalem" was won by Norman Prince with Miss Eleanora Sears a close second, and Miss Katherine Tweed third.

No little interest centered about the three events on the speedway in the forenoon and the winners were generously applauded. In the Class A event, pacing, Levi Lord's Arthur B. won over Jesse Mann's Newtonway. In class A for pacers, Cheerful Harry, owned by C. T. Sargent, took three straight heats from Levi Lord's Whispers, with 35 sec.,—the best time. Norman Conrad's Mollycoddle won from Levi Lord's Patriot in the Class C pacings with 44 sec. flat. A special running race was run between Arthur Mason's Alwin, James Schilliday's Nine-O-Hearts, ridden by Bayard Tuckerman, jr., and J. H. Linehan's Comstock, Mr. Mason's Alwin winning in 23¼ seconds. The judges were Dr. J. J. Riordan, Beverly Farms, D. W. Drisko, Gloucester, and A. C. Cummings of Hamilton.

The blue ribbon in the hack race class was won by Miss Alice Thorndike on Harcourt Amory's Sally and War Song owned by C. G. Rice and ridden by Neil Rice, won in the road class. The Masters' cup was again won by G. S. Mandell's Spook. with Mr. Mandell's First Mate a close second. No hunters qualified for the Abbott cups open to the best green hunters, owned by members of the club, and the event was scratched.

The handiness class was won by First Mate owned and ridden by S. P. Mandell, 2d., and Spook, owned and ridden by G. S. Mandell, won second place. In this class the setting sun bothered a number of the horses by casting a shadow on the rail in the second jump, but, although there were several falls, no one was injured.

The exhibit of the Monmouth county and Myopia hounds, with P. F. Collier as master of the former, and G. S. Mandell of the latter, formed one of the most picturesque events of the afternoon. The scarlet coats of the masters and the keen-seented hounds with alert ears, cocked to every sound, readily conjured up in one's mind a picture of the chase, the hounds with noses close to the ground, following through swamps and woods, over hill and dale the track of the fox, while close behind, the scarlet coated hunters riding with easy grace.

The jumping event was won by Hopewell, L. D. Ahl's black gelding, with F. S. Von Stade's Toronto second, while Raffles, owned by W. D. Denegre, came third and John Peel, owned by T. W. Pierce, fourth.

The pleasures of the afternoon were increased by a concert by the Eighth Regiment band and the constantly changing kaleidoscope of color made a most attractive picture.

No better day for the show could have dawned and the thousands who attended could not help enjoying every minute of its progress.

88th Annual Cattle Show and Fair.

The Essex County Agricultural society will hold their 88th annual cattle show and fair at Peabody on the 22, 23 and 24 of this month. Vaudeville productions and musical selections by the band will be in progress at all times of the day. The fair grounds will be open evenings as well as during the day. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

K. OF C. FIELD DAY.

Masconomo Council hold Successful Outing at Tuck's Point, Labor Day.

The first field day ever held under the auspices of Masconomo council, 1232, Knights of Columbus, of Manchester, at Tuck's Point, on Labor Day, was largely attended and proved a very good success.

A large crowd attended from Beverly Farms, attracted by the tug-of-war contest between the "Yannigans" of the Farms and a team selected from the Manchester council. This event was the most exciting one of the day and was the star attraction. The event was not pulled off until about 4.30, and it was won by the Farms team, by about seven inches.

Long before the noon hour the crowd began to assemble, but it was not until after the 1.30 train arrived that the dinner was served. The day was ideal for an out-door affair of this sort.

Among the invited guests were: Fr. Supple of Charlestown, State Chaplain; Wm. O'Brien of Boston, State Deputy; Louis Watson, State Secretary; Joseph C. Pelletier, National Advocate; Grand Knight Thomas Fitzgibbons of Beverly; Past District Deputy Stephen Connolly of Beverly Farms.

A baseball game between a team representing the Manchester Council, but made up mostly of Beverly Farms players, and a team of Beverly young men, was won by the Manchester team 7 to 0.

The shot put was won by Mr. Cadigan, 36 ft. 5 in.; George Dean, 2d, 34 ft. 8 in.

J. G. Yeaton of Beverly easily won the 100 yard dash. Daniel Sheehan won second prize.

The broad jump was closely contested. J. A. Conroy and Leon Pierce tied for first place, 17 ft. 9 in. Conroy sprained his ankle on the first jump, and the tie was decided by a toss up, Pierce winning. On a jump, however, to decide the tie, previous to the toss up, Pierce beat Conroy by a small margin. Daniel Sheehan was third, 17 ft. 7½ in.

The three standing jumps were won by Conroy, 35 ft. 2½ in.; Pierce, 2d, 28 feet.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Dr. W. J. Dougherty, Thomas Sheehan, James Kinsella, F. C. Dougherty, P. Mulvey, J. Reilly, D. Sheehan, Austin Morley and Rev. Fr. Powers.

In the evening Rev. Fr. Powers entertained the visiting grand officers and several of the officers of the local council at dinner at the Masconomo House. Covers were placed for fourteen.

ON another page of this issue will be found a description of Beverly's new hospital, with illustrations, which ought to prove of much interest to Manchester citizens inasmuch as it is the hospital toward which Manchester looks in case of the services of a hospital being required. Located not far from the Montserrat station, the new institution is much nearer Manchester than the old hospital in the westerly end of the city.

Manchester has no hospital; it has no need of one; it would be in keeping with progress and good business, however, to have a place where the services of a hospital could be easily procured in case such were needed, and in this line we would suggest that some steps should be taken by Manchester toward procuring a room in the new hospital for the use of its citizens when needed.

IPSWICH is soon to have a free postal delivery system. The receipts of the office has increased to the point where the institution of a free delivery system is admissible. There will be three carriers and 18 letter boxes.

A free delivery system is not far off for Manchester. An increase of $900 over the receipts of last year (ending April 1, 1908) would bring the office to the point where application could be made for free delivery system. Already in the first five months of the year, over $600 of this amount has been reached in the increase of business over last year. In the remaining five months, if the receipts increase over last year to the extent of $300, Manchester will be entitled to free delivery system.

The town would probably be entitled to three or four carriers in the summer season and two or three the year round.

Bostock Unites His Animal Shows.

Frank C. Bostock, known on two continents as "The Animal King," has announced his determination to unite two of his greatest trained wild animal arenas, for a limited time. The two shows which are to be thus merged are the famous Frank C. Bostock "Jungle" at Earl's Court, London, England, and the Frank C. Bostock Trained Wild Animal Arena at Dreamland, Coney Island. This consolidation has been accomplished for the single purpose of giving patrons of the 2d Annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition, which opens at Mechanics Building, Boston, from Oct. 5 to 31, the greatest free attraction ever conceived. Mr. Bostock has always charged at least 25 cents admission to either one of these shows but both shows may be seen free of charge by patrons of the great New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building.

The Red Men's dance in the Town hall Wednesday evening proved a very well attended and most enjoyable affair.

The Ministering circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Price on Monday evening, September 14. The topic of the evening will be "Job."

Mr. and Mrs. Gustave A. Knoerr spent Sunday in Worcester going over the road in their auto. They were accompanied by their daughter Miss Doris Knoerr.

The Band of Precious Jewels, connected with the Home Mission circle, will hold their annual gathering and mite-box opening in the vestry of the Baptist church the afternoon of Friday, September 18, from 3 to 5.

The Manchester schools opened Tuesday with a record breaking attendance. At the High school on the opening day there were 77 scholars, the largest in the history of the school. This was due largely to the fact that the 9th grade was abolished at the G. A. Priest school last June and two classes instead of one entered the high school from there this fall. The primary school is crowded to overflowing, too.

Rev. F. T. McKenna of Beverly was the guest of John Watson, Tuesday.

Lee W. Marshall has been entertaining this week his class-mate at Dartmouth, Joseph K. Knight of Hyde Park.

Mr. and Mrs. L W. Carter returned to Manchester last Saturday night, Mrs. Carter from spending the summer with her parents in Southampton, L. I., and Mr. Carter from Europe, where he had been since early summer in charge of the S. V. R. Crosby touring car in a tour of the continent.

A petition is being circulated about town, which will be presented to the Board of Selectmen, probably at their next meeting, requesting them to call a special town meeting to take action on the purchase of the electric light plant.

At the session of the Probate court at Salem, Tuesday, the will of Robert C. Hooper was proved, Francis C. Welch and Francis Dexter of Boston, executors. The will of Mrs. Rebecca F. Marshall was also proved, Isaac M. Marshall, administrator.

Thomas Head, caretaker at the Winthrop estate, West Manchester, now superintendent of the Morton F. Plant estate in Connecticut, has been in town a part of the past week renewing acquaintances, accompanied by the superintendent of Mr. Plant's estate in the south.

Fred Dunbar is the business manager of the newly organized Y. M. C. A. band at Gloucester and has already opened negotiations for fall work in connection with the political campaigns.

Harry F. Lycett has been entertaining a few days this week George Whitefield D'Vys of Cambridge. Mr. D'Vys is an author of no little note, having written several little ballads and articles. Perhaps the one which has caused the most comment is his "Casey at the Bat," which the Cambridge Times, in an editorial about Mr. D'Vys, says, "is the greatest sporting ballad ever written." Another article by him, that has been of universal interest, was his story about Gloucester published in Harper's Weekly last May.

Mrs. John Lycett.

Mrs. John Lycett, for many years a resident of Magnolia, passed away at her home on Englewood road, Sunday morning, at the age of seventy-eight years. Funeral services were held at the Village church, Tuesday afternoon, at two o'clock. Mrs. Lycett leaves one daughter, Mrs. Frank Locke, and three sons, Samuel, Arthur and John Lycett, to mourn her loss and to whom the community extends their heartfelt sympathy.

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear Sir:

We read last week of the rose colored advantages the new Men's club house is to be for Magnolia. Now let me tell you that not all of the villagers by any means are in favor of this project. The villagers look upon it as a means of taking away their bread and butter, something that will mean a financial loss to them. Certainly those who keep boarding houses, and others who rent rooms, for the short summer season, might as well close their doors when this big hotel, otherwise called the Men's club, is erected, and any fair minded person will allow that the natives of Magnolia are first entitled to the patronage of our summer guests. The hotels care for the wealthy classes, while their help are accomodated among the villagers.

I have lived in Magnolia 25 years and have rented rooms for about 20 years of that time. I believe in the "live and let live" maxim. Evidently the promoter of this scheme does not, and certainly the people who can give their thousands to the object cannot be expected to look on that side of the case. The villagers are unknown to them, their men have been accomodated and will be again, but let the poor people, who look forward to making a few extra dollars in the summer, have the benefit of it. Zeal and enterprise are commendable, but the proposed club is zeal in the wrong direction for the welfare of Magnolia.

Cottage Gardens.

The Show Committee of the North Shore Horticultural society have awarded prizes for best kept cottage gardens in Manchester for the season just ending. The first prize goes to J. S. Reed, proprietor of the Beach Street Cafe. A picture of the garden, which, by the way, has been the object of much attention, appeared in the Breeze a few weeks ago. The second prize goes to Charles E. Williams, or Mrs. Alice Wheaton, Norwood avenue, and the third to Dennis O'Sullivan, Lincoln street.

It is to be regretted that more interest is not taken by the townspeople in their cottage gardens. Members of the summer colony are interested in having the townspeople show more activity and it is through them that prizes are offered each year for the best gardens. Mrs. George D. Howe offered the prizes last year, and again this year. Mrs. Howe has expressed a wish to the show committee that the children take an interest in little gardens in the season of flowers. It is not at all unlikely that prizes will be offered for such next summer.

Breeze advertising pays.

Magnolia

The heap of debris, all that remains of Wonson's garage near the entrance to Magnolia, still remains and is an eye sore to all who pass it. It really seems as though it were time that some steps were taken to make the ruins look at least a little more attractive than they do at present. Situated on an extensively travelled road, they have aroused more or less comment on the part of many who drive and motor through that section.

Progress With the Men's Clubhouse at Magnolia.

The movement for a new clubhouse at Magnolia still goes on and subscriptions are being received daily that swell the fund. The sum has now reached $8000, and before the end of next week the co-operation of all who are interested will bring the pledges up to $10,000. It is felt on all sides that the project is a worthy one, and it is hoped that all who mean to have a part in this enterprize, will help now. Full announcement of the subscriptions will be made each week in the Breeze, unless, for any reason, the subscribers request that their names be withheld.

Old Planters.

There will be a meeting of the Old Planters' society on Monday next at 2 p. m. at the rooms of the Marblehead Historical society, with an address by N. P. Sanborn on the Beginning of Marblehead.

A pilgrimage will then be made to historical sites, with ferry across the harbor to Castle Rock, for basket lunch.

A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Real Estate And Improvements

Arthur Little is making changes in the Corner house at Beverly Farms, enlarging the dining room, changing the staircase and otherwise improving the property. Also he contemplates moving the Cameron house around into the field and adding to this house; building terraces and changing the avenue to the Burnham property; moving and changing the stable to the Cabot Lane house. This work when carried out will change the appearance of the property to its material advantage.

REV. THEODORE L. FROST.

Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost, the pastor elect of the First Baptist church, Manchester, Mass. was born in Boston, April 10, 1879. His early education was obtained in the Boston public schools. He graduated from the Boston Latin school in 1898, entered the sophomore class of Harvard College the following autumn and took the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1901. His theological course was taken at the Rochester Theological Seminary, Rochester, N. Y. from which he graduated in 1904 and upon the presentation of his thesis in 1908 received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

Mr. Frost first began preaching in the Mount Vernon Congregational church, Boston, Mass. where his family attended church, and of which he was a member for four years, leaving to become a member of the Warren Ave. Baptist church of Boston. For about a year Mr. Frost conducted Gospel services in the vestry of the Mt. Vernon church. During his theological course, he did considerable work in the missions of Rochester, and during his last year in the Seminary was pastor of the Emmanual Baptist Mission of Rochester. His vacation periods were occupied with supplying churches in Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

He entered upon work with the First Baptist Church of Rumford Falls, Maine, in the fall of 1904 and a month later received the call to become the regular pastor of the church. He was ordained to the ministry in January, 1905, in Rumford Falls, Maine. His work in Rumford Falls was successful. The church was in a very run-down condition when he began his work there. One who knew the work in Rumford

Rev Theadore L. Frost

Falls has said "His service for Christ and the Church has been with marked ardor and evangelistic zeal and a general interest has attended his work. The testimony and spiritual life of the Cuurch has been doubled and many led to a declared Christian life."

During Mr. Frost's pastorate in Rumford Falls, 45 were received by baptism, 14 by letter and 2 by experience. During his pastorate a debt of about $4000 was reduced by $1000.

Mr. Frost left Rumford to take up the work as pastor of the First Baptist church, Skowhegan, one of the oldest churches in Maine. During his pastorate there, 31 have been received by baptism, one by experience, one by letter. The congregations at all services have been largely increased, and the Sunday School doubled. The church property has been improved by making a Baraca Class room.

BOSTON JOURNAL NEWS.

How the Daily Paper Gives Its Readers the Best Reports.

The presidential campaign has become the absorbing topic of the country, and to meet the demand for complete, impartial news The Boston Journal has special correspondents closely in touch with each of the leading candidates, while every development of the campaign is carefully followed and brought home to Journal readers.

James Hay, jr., will from now until election day write of the Republican candidate's daily life, and will spend his entire time keeping The Journal readers in touch with the daily news from wherever Mr. Taft may be.

John Snure, one of the best-known political writers in Washington, will write for The Journal of the Democratic candidate, and his progress to victory or defeat. He will accompany Mr. Bryan on his entire speaking tour.

J. C. Welliver, who has already attended both conventions for The Journal, will be in daily touch with the national headquarters of both parties in New York, and will write daily of developments at the campaign centers.

Under the direction of W. H. Holden and J. R. Dillaby, the campaign in Boston, Massachusetts and New England will be covered by correspondents representing The Journal in every important center in New England.

With an exciting race for the pennants in the big leagues, and the prospect of an early call for candidates for the football teams, an interesting fall is promised all followers of athletics. Arthur Mc Pherson, The Journal's baseball expert; Thomas E. Burke, the great track athlete, with Bob Dunbar's snappy sporting chat, daily help to make The Boston Journal's sporting page the best in New England.

These features, with the women's page, able editorials, and up-to-the-minute financial news, make The Boston Journal the great family paper of New England. *

Wonderland.

The predominating characteristic of the magnificent production of "Alice in Wonderland" at America's greatest recreation park, down by the sea at Revere, is refinement. This note is carried out in every detail of costuming, of light and color effects, of the music and dancing and the big company of girls numbers dozens of dainty blondes and brunettes. They are decidedly clever young women too and sing finely and dance captivatingly.

It should be remembered that "Alice in Wonderland" is only given in the evening at 8.30 o'clock promptly. The performance lasts only one half hour and it absolutely free to all within Wonderland's gates. The season closes Sunday evening Sept. 20th.

In Yachting Circles.

The sailing tender race at the Manchester Yacht club last Saturday was won by Norton Wigglesworth. The summary:

	MIN	SEC
Norton Wigglesworth	50	00
Robert Storer	53	45
John H. Storer, jr.	54	10

The race on Labor Day was also won by Norton Wigglesworth. The summary:

		MIN	SEC
Norton Wigglesworth		42	45
Robert Storer		44	48
Frank Wigglesworth		51	50
J. H. Storer, jr.	1 hr	00	30

This completes the series of seven races for this class. Richard Wigglesworth won five of the seven, and heads the list; Robert Storer is second, with five seconds and two thirds; Norton Wigglesworth with two firsts, one second and one third, comes third. J. H. Storer, jr., won a third and two fourths; Frank Wigglesworth two thirds; Miss R. Wigglesworth a second, and Norman Read two fourths.

New One-Design Class.

The formation of a new one-design class of substantial racing yachts was the subject of discussion at a special meeting of the Manchester Yacht club Tuesday night. While nothing definite has yet been done, it is practically determined to go ahead with the new class.

Twelve members of the club have already designated their intention to build if the price can be kept within the figure submitted, $400. These are Commodore S. P. Bremer, Vice-Commodore C. H. Clark, jr., F. W. Fabyan, George Lee, T. M. McKee, George Wigglesworth, J. H. Storer, C. E. Hodges, Percy Hodges, A. C. Needham, G. W. Mansfield and Waldo Friend.

This matter has been worked up by a special committee of the Manchester Yacht club, composed of Charles E. Hodges, Alfred C. Needham and George W. Mansfield. It is expected that the Corinthian Yacht club will cooperate with the Manchester club in bringing about the new class.

Rough plans were submitted from B. B. Crowninshield and were explained by C. E. Hodges. The plans were generally discussed. The boat will carry 300 feet of sail and will be of such a design as the universal rule develops without going to the extreme limits which the rules allow. The boat will rate about 14½ feet.

A member of the club has already offered a cup, and it is safe to say that yacht racing, especially off the Manchester and Beverly shore, will take a boom next season if the new class goes through.

CENTRAL SQUARE :: MANCHESTER, MASS.

:: Beverly Farms ::

George Drinkwater moved from the McKeon house on Everett street, yesterday, with his family, and has taken a cottage on Wallis street, Beverly.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Pike, jr., have leased the Marshall (formerly the Pride's) cottage on Hart street and commenced housekeeping there the first of the week.

As a result of lack of interest and other causes a sufficient number could not be gathered together to warrant the hiring of a special car, and the visit of the Preston Relief Corps to the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea, Wednesday, had to be given up.

A party of about five of the Preston Relief Corps got together yesterday and decided to carry out their original plans of a visit to the Soldiers' Home. They left on the 8.42 train for Beverly and took the trolly from there for Chelsea. At the Home they were shown every courtesy, and were very well pleased with their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wood entertained a party of friends at their home on Hart street over the holiday, among whom were Mrs. Lillian P. Brown and Miss Lucy Putnam of Danvers. A pleasant feature of their entertainment was a dinner given by their hostess in the Wood's beach house at West Beach.

Walter M. Burgess.

Walter M. Burgess, an employee on the Spaulding estate, Pride's Crossing, who was taken to the Beverly hospital a short time ago with typhoid fever, passed away there last Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the undertaking rooms of Samuel A. Gentlee & Son and interment was made in the Beverly cemetery. Mr. Burgess, although born and brought up in Maine, has been a resident of Beverly Farms for a number of years.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to each. *

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES

NAILS, Tacks or Glass will not let the air out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two hundred thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

Notice the thick rubber tread "A" and puncture strips "B" and "D," also rim strip "H" to prevent rim cutting. This tire will outlast any other make—SOFT, ELASTIC and EASY RIDING.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 per cent (thereby making the price $4.55 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES don't buy any kind at any price until you send for a pair of Hedgethorn Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price quoted above; or write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices.

DO NOT WAIT but write us a postal today. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.

Miss Laura S. Wyatt is visiting friends in Oakdale, Mass.

Miss Julia Kelly has returned from a two weeks' vacation at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mrs. Charles S. Freeman has concluded a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. G. H. Wyatt.

The last two weeks have been spent very pleasantly by John A. Morrison renewing acquaintances at Kennebunkport, Me.

Miss Grace Mildred Law has returned to her home in Oakdale, Mass., after a most delightful visit with her friend Miss Laura Smith Wyatt of Grapevine Road.

Frank I. Lomasney, proprietor of the North Shore fish market, provided the clambake given by Miss Adele Thayer, for her house party at Crow Island Beach, Manchester, on Labor Day.

As a result of a collision with another rider while riding on his wheel, George Day, the popular freight agent at the Farms station, has been sporting a beautiful black eye the past week and is minus a tooth.

Mr. and Mrs. John Casey, the Misses Mary and Catherine Casey and John Casey, jr., of Providence, have been the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly. The party made the trip in their auto, and, during their stay here, made a brief run to Portland, Me.

Early Sunday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Pierce started in their Stanley machine for a short vacation trip through a portion of New Hampshire. Souvenir post cards have been received by some of their friends here, telling of their arrival at Bristol, Hebron and New Found Lake.

The Farms school opened Tuesday. About 30 scholars are enrolled in the first grade. The Misses Whitcomb and Harlow have filled the vacancies made by the absence of two of the former teachers.

Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley entertained over Sunday and Labor Day, Mrs. Standley's brother, Allen Lee of Lynn, and his family. The holiday was spent very pleasantly at West Beach, where lunch was served in the family boat-house.

The North Shore Girls have engaged Neighbor's hall for the evening of Thursday, October 1, and have invited a number of their friends to a dance and general good time, as a sort of return party for the one given last week. Misses Mary Small and Florence B. Slavin are in charge of the affair.

The "Yannigan" tug of war team, made up of Capt. F. P. Gaudreau, Brewer Hanson, Daniel Coughlin, John Parks and Patrick Gorman, added another scalp to their belts by winning the pull in the tug of war at the K. of C. picnic at Tuck's Point, Labor Day. Thus far the "Yannigans" have won every pull and may be considered the champions for this section of the Shore.

Day Officer Calvin L. Williams returned to duty yesterday, after a very pleasant two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. James E. Palmer and her two children returned to their home in North Adams, Wednesday, after a very pleasant visit with relatives here.

A party of Farms young men have hired Neighbor's hall again this year, as they did last, and will hold an invitation party there, the evening of Tuesday September 22.

Quite a number of Farms people attended the sale of house lots at the Walker Field Park, near the Montserrat station, Labor Day. Alexander Campbell was the purchaser of one of the lots, upon which he may build later, or hold as an investment.

A large attendance is expected at the dance given by Clan Wallace, 127, in Neighbor's hall Thursday evening, September 17. Many unusual features have been arranged for the entertainment of those attending and in addition to those already mentioned in previous issues of the Breeze, Willam Burrows, the well known piper, will render several selections.

The Seaside club, headed by Martin Lawlor and a number of Farms young men are planning to hold a prize dance in Neighbor's hall, Thursday evening, September 24.

After a two weeks' vacation spent at Campton, N. H., and places along the shores of Lake Winnipesaukee, Miss Marion Dickey is back at her desk in the office of J. B. Dow & Co.

A new supply of tracks, circulars and cards of all sizes, with the "Knowledge" printed on them in various sizes of type, have been received by Patrick Conroy, the "Miracle Worker," and it is expected that the "Professor" will soon start his fall campaign with fresh material.

The "Yannigans," the redoubtable Beverly Farms tug-o-war team, have accepted another challenge for a pull from an out-of-town team, who are presumptous enough to think that they can beat the champions of the Shore. The pull will take place in the Manchester Town hall in about two weeks time.

The query is being made as to whether the Farms is to have a Republican campaign marching club again this fall. Salem has again organized the famous "Witches," and Beverly will in all probability have its "Red Riding Hoods." Four years ago the Farms had the "West Beach Tars," about 60 in number, who, with their natty white suits, made a big hit wherever they went. William R. Brooks, chairman of the Ward committee, has the matter in charge and very likely a similar organization will be formed, providing there is enough sentiment aroused in the matter and sufficient financial backing.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright of Portsmouth, N. H., have spent the past week visiting friends here returning to their home yesterday.

The many friends of Miss Emily O'Brien are congratulating her on her approaching marriage to Alexander J. McDonald of Cambridge.

Owing to the opening of the schools, West Beach, the Mecca for the young people during the summer vacation, begins to have a deserted appearance.

Misses Eva and Winnie Gray returned to their home in Tewkesbury Monday after a pleasant visit of a fortnight with their grandmother, Mrs. Abbie Gray, Bennett street.

The Misses Irene M. and Nellie Fay and Thomas Fay of Roxbury and Miss Ethel Corbett of Berlin, N. H., have spent a portion of the week here the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan.

Larcom Ober, who has been serving as night operator in Ipswich telephone exchange, has resigned his position there for the purpose of entering the Beverly High school and taking a post graduate course.

Alderman and Mrs. Robert E. Hodgkins have returned from a vacation trip, part of which was spent at Portland, Me., from whence they went to Albany, N. Y., and then down the Hudson to New York City and from thence home.

During the absence of Mrs. T. W. Pierce, her cottage on Hart street will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mackintire, who moved in the first of the week. Mrs. Pierce is at present staying at Long Island and is expected to be away from the Farms several months.

The Preston Relief Corps' fair will be held the 29th and 30th of this month and will open with a supper in the banquet hall of the G. A. R. building. Sales tables, an entertainment and amusements will be arranged in Marshall's hall on the 29th, and a dance will be held in Neighbor's hall the following evening.

The Republican caucuses will be held Tuesday, September 22, and, owing to the contest for lieut. governor and state senator being on, the Australian ballot will be used. The polls will be open from 6.30 to 8 p. m. The contest for senator is of local interest as Capt. Winship E. Perry and Clifford B. Bray have announced their candidacy for the berth.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Beverly Farms, Mass. P. O., week ending Sept. 9, 1908: Mrs T Anderson, Miss C Conly, Mr Dennis Daly, Miss Eliza Dunn, A Elicot, Mrs John Foley, Miss H Kennedy, Miss Hannah Long, Miss Karrie C Lie, Mrs Ellen Murphy, Mr McTighe, Ella Sinclair, Mr. Stephen Smith, Mrs Grace Stoddart, Murtie Ward.

Once we used to feel 'twas a great thing to have One come, as we knew then 'twas really unusual for any New Englander to buy things by the Car. What do you think of it NOW when we have CARS OF

Extension Tables

Come here TWO AT A TIME.

That's what landed this morning out here in the B. & M. Yards. Pretty big shipment perhaps you'll say, but just see the goods at the price we shall sell them, warrant you'll feel yourself the inducement justified the purchase.

Why, we've a round top table with that popular pedestal center, 'tis made of solid oak and 'tis finished as fine as can be, it has lately been heralded in Boston's pretendedly "special" sales as being worth $12.00 and reduced to $8.95.

'Tis here right at your door, delivered in your home, with our guarantee to satisfaction, and all that it will cost you, is

$8.75

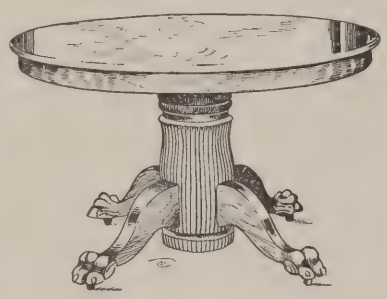

See It—It's a Bargain.

Look at this one—its picture is here below—'tis all quarter sawed oak with a piano polish finish, it has a great big top and extends 6 feet. A beauty at any price, 'tis yours

For $14.00

Match this if possible with a 48-in. top and great heavy claw foot, a 12-in. pedestal.

For $16.50.

These are figures worth considering, for they'll save you extra dollars. Forty patterns for selecting—where can you go to find any more?

PLEASURES OF THE CHASE.

(BARTOL.)

The purpose of a journey is not only to arrive at the goal, but also to find enjoyment by the way.

There is a certain dignity in pursuit;
I join the chase, who will may share the fruit.

Columbus' face a shade of sadness wore,
His errand ended on the Western shore,

The final outcome of his venturous acts—
His dream exchanged for the material facts.

To go with Cortez and his Spaniards bold,
Were greater joy than stores of Mexic gold.

The far Alaskan journey were more fine
Than bales of fur or riches of the mine.

The ships in port an honest pride may boast;
Greater the fleet racing along the coast.

The keel along the beach less transport gave
Than when my boat was tossing on the wave.

No peach nor pear can so delicious be
As was my thought when I set out the tree.

My wealth I leave to heirs at my life's ending,
Pleased if my joy to earn be theirs in spending,

For so this money-making race of ours
Is but activity of worthy powers.

Me for the chase whoever shares the fruit;
I get my satisfaction in pursuit.

MANCHESTER'S HEAVY TAXPAYERS.

Twenty-five that Pay Over $1000; Fifty-five that Pay Over $500. Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge the Heaviest Taxpayer,—$9666.14. List of All Over $50.

We are publishing this week a complete list of Manchester's taxpayers who are levied $50 or over; the list will be found on next page.

A perusal of the list will show there are twenty-five whose tax levy is over $1000, and that there are fifty-five who pay over $500. The Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge is Manchester's heaviest taxpayer as usual,—his levy being $9666.14. The Hannah B. Merrill estate pays the second heaviest tax,—$4155.74, and Francis M. Whitehouse third,—$3580.58.

Others who are levied over $1000 are as follows:

Residents—Gordon Abbott $1272.88, T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr., $1222.12, Hortense (Mrs. Charles) Head $1790.70, R. C. Hooper (estate) $1741.00, Trustees of F. W. Ames estate for benefit of estate of Helen A. Hooper $2585.00, Clement S. Houghton $1488.44, Alice G. (Mrs. Geo. D.) Howe $1223.88, Emma G. (Mrs. Gardiner M.) Lane $1097.92, Manchester Electric Co. $1118.60, Hannah B. Merrill estate $4155.74, George Putnam $1711.86, W. L. Putnam $1177.00, Margaret Sturgis (Mrs. Russell) Sturgis $1283.57, Louise C. (Mrs. W. B.) Walker $1293.44, Francis M. Whitehouse $3580.58.

Non-Residents—Benjamin B. Boardman heirs $1087.65, Greeley S. Curtis heirs $1151.97, Mary Hemenway $1709.86, Ida C. (Mrs. Henry L.) Higginson $1399.19, Eben D. Jordan $1353.60, Frances E. (Mrs. Lester) Leland $1017.08, Emily C. (Mrs. Harrison K.) Caner $1002.04, James McMillan heirs $1782.24, and Bertha C. (Mrs. Walter D.) Denegre $1112.96.

Manchester's tax rate this year is $9.40 on $1000,—a decrease of 20 cents from last year. The rate is based on a valuation of $12,659,677, which is an increase of $794,523 over last year. The total amount to be raised by taxation this year is $120,182.

MASCONOMO HOUSE TO BE REMODELED.

R. Hamilton, Manager of the Once Famous Hostelry the Past Summer, Has taken Five Years' Lease and will Improve the Property.

Much speculation has been going on as to the outcome of the scheme to turn the Masconomo House and surrounding grounds at Manchester, into a sanitarium. A couple of weeks ago the promoters of the scheme sent to this office a printed circular setting forth extensive plans and how from $50,000 to $75,000 would be spent in bringing about the changes. Presumably this circular was sent to members of the summer colony as it was worded in such a way as to "interest" them in the scheme. For what a great benefit to the community such an institution would be, the circular hinted.

We immediately communicated with Mr. Hamilton, proprietor of the hotel, and read to him the circular. He was dumbfounded, to say the least.

He had told this paper early in the summer that he had an option on the property for lease and he was surprised to know the promoters of the sanitarium scheme were still going ahead with their "plans."

As we have stated in these columns before, Mr. Hamilton is a man of many years' hotel experience. He was taken with Manchester the minute he first saw the place and decided the first week he arrived here that he would improve the property if he could get it on a four or five years' lease. The information following is given practically as it came from Mr. Hamilton's lips.

The property has been taken on lease for a full period of five years, the past year counting as one. During the late winter and spring the house and grounds will be greatly improved, such as painting, repairing, remodelling, etc. The greatest change, perhaps, will be in regard to the casino, or dance hall, which it will be recalled is separated from the main building. This has been the scene of many a brilliant gathering in years past and was in the early days of the hotel the center of fashion on the North Shore. Mr. Hamilton proposes to change this into an automobile garage. A casino will be provided in the main house, by changing over the rooms of the ground floor.

Another important change will be the installation of electric lights. The installation of baths will be another important addition.

Mr. Hamilton is of the opinion that the expenditure of a large amount of money in building a new hotel, or even in entirely remodelling the old house, is not necessary. The house is alright as it is, or at least it will be when the changes he has in mind are made. The location, he thinks, is grand; the grounds are splendid, though he proposes to change the tennis courts' lay-out to some extent; the piazzas of the house are alright. In short, he thinks the house in its essential details is just right to attract good patronage, with the installation of the improvements such as the above.

He feels confident of being able to bring the hotel back to the popularity it once held, but lost through lack of modern improvements. He has assured the guests he had at the hotel the past season that the hotel would be open in June next year ready for business. Mr. Sullivan and family have practically leased the cottage on the grounds, they had the past year, and his friend, Mr. Shea of Peabody, who had a cottage at Beverly Farms the past summer, will take another cottage on the Masconomo grounds.

Mrs. D. Crowell Jones of Washington street is at Bridgewater visiting friends.

Lewis Morgan returned Tuesday evening from a three weeks' vacation trip to Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Dole are at Hampton, N. H., for a visit with relatives, leaving here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Sinnicks returned the first of the week from a very pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Mead at Enfield, N. H.

Miss Katie Baker and Miss Lila Morse returned yesterday from a week's visit to the South Shore, where they were guests of Mrs. Austin Eldridge, at Bourne.

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Marshall, Miss Lucy Johnson, assistant to the postmaster, and Miss Annie Johnson left Monday for a few days' tour of the White Mountains.

Librarian D. L. Bingham has been under a physician's care part of the past week as the result of a billious attack. He is able to be out again now, however. Mr. Bingham is approaching his 95th birthday.

The Class of 1911, Story High school, organized Wednesday with the choice of the following officers: Miss Annabel Lodge, president; George Rust, vice president; Miss May Rogers, secretary; Frank Floyd, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ericson entertained a large party of friends at their home off Summer street Wednesday evening, on the occasion of Mrs. Ericson's birthday. Dancing was one of the features of the evening. A collation was served, the occasion proving a most delightful one for all who attended.

The chemical was called to the Beach street crossing Wednesday just before noon for a blaze in a pile of railroad ties, which it is thought were ignited by a spark from the freight train passing about an hour before. The entire pile of ties, some fifty in number, were pretty well charred from top to bottom. No alarm was given.

Manchester was represented at the big Republican barbecue at Point of Pines Tuesday by Senator Shaw, Chairman E. S. Knight of the Board of Selectmen, Chairman F. K. Swett of the Assessors, Town Treasurer E. P. Stanley, G. E. Willmonton, L. W. Floyd, F. K. Hooper, Senter Stanley, David Bennett, Malcolm C. Dodge and Henry T. Bingham.

Don't forget it,---the Express Drivers' dance tonight. The biggest party of the season.

F. L. Nicholson of Meredith, N. H., was a Manchester visitor Monday.

The Lake Winnipesaukee excursion Monday was taken in by 15 Manchester people.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lodge have just returned from a short vacation trip to Niagara Falls, Thousand Islands and Montreal.

The school census has been completed by Harry Floyd and shows that the total number of children between the ages of 5 and 14 years are 407 compared to 398 last year.

Arthur Giles of Atlanta, Ga., has been the guest of his aunt Miss M. D. Giles the past week. Mr. Giles came on to attend the wedding of his cousin Miss Ruby Simmons and Richard Palmer, of Atlanta, at the home of Ralph Simmons, brother of the bride, at Beverly, Tuesday evening, Sept. 15. Miss Simmons has been in Manchester part of the summer at the home of Miss Giles. Mrs. Goldsmith and Miss Lila Goldsmith, Miss M. D. Giles and Mrs. Phillips also attended the wedding.

Dr. J. C. Ayer of New York is visiting his father, Frederick Ayer, at Pride's.

Miss Clara Winthrop returned to Manchester yesterday after a two months' trip abroad.

Miss Julia Fisher of New York is visiting her sister Mrs. Edward King and Mr. King at Manchester.

A. Carnegie, 2d, of Manchester, has been playing in the U. S. amateur golf championship at Garden City, L. I., the past week.

E. L. Davis, who has been occupying the Wheelwright cottage at Pride's this summer, has returned to his home in Worcester, leaving the North Shore on Monday.

Augustus P. Loring of the Pride's summer colony returned from a week's visit at Bar Harbor, Monday. Miss Katherine P. Loring left Tuesday for a few days' visit at that well known seashore resort.

Q. A. Shaw, 3d, was operated upon successfully Sunday evening for appendicitis. The operation was performed by Dr. Cabot of Boston. Master Shaw is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, jr., of Pride's.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore have closed the Knowles cottage at Magnolia and moved over to Pride's Crossing yesterday to remain a week or two with Mr. Moore's parents, Judge and Mrs. W. H. Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Moore will live in Chicago the coming winter instead of St. Louis.

In connection with the list of Manchester tax payers printed on page four of this issue it is of interest to note that the highest assessed piece of property in the town is that of Charles E. Cotting, near the West Manchester station. Mr. Cotting's three-quarters of an acre of land is assessed at a value of $14,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius J. Knowles left Manchester Wednesday for their winter residence in Worcester. Mrs. Knowles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. McGinley, and the Misses McGinley are leaving Manchester tomorrow for their home in Pittsburg. They will spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Knowles at Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. McKean return to their home in Penllyn, Pa., Wednesday of the coming week after a delightful summer at Pride's. The McKeans are leaving much earlier than is their custom as Mr. McKean is contemplating a number of improvements on his estate here. In past years it has been their custom to remain on the Shore until after Thanksgiving.

S. H. Fessenden and family closed their cottage at Coolidge's Point this week.

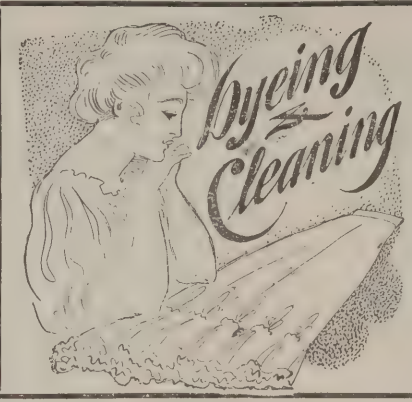

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane have returned from their European trip and are at their cottage in Manchester for the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bradley are over to New York for a week or two. They are planning to remain at their Pride's Crossing estate well into the fall as usual.

Mr. George R. White gave a gentleman's luncheon of twelve covers at Lilliothea, his home on Smith's Point, last Saturday. Among those who came from the city were Alfred Hemenway, General Charles H. Taylor, Daniel G. Wing, Charles E. Rogerson and Wallace L. Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grew arrived in Boston on the Saxonia Thursday morning after a six weeks' sojourn abroad and are at their Manchester cottage to remain until the latter part of October. Their daughter, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and children also arrived on the same steamer after a several months' auto tour of the continent. Mr. Crosby returned over a month ago. Mr. and Mrs. Crosby and family will spend the balance of the season with Mr. and Mrs. Grew,

This week's departures from Beverly Farms include the Thomas O'Sheas, who returned to their home in Peabody Tuesday. They have been occupying the Preston cottage at West Beach. On Wednesday the Arthur F. Lukes closed the "House on the Rock," and have gone to Newton, where they have purchased a new home. On Wednesday also the J. B. Hendersons, who have been at the George Lee bungalow on Misery Island, returned to their home in Brookline. Tomorrow Edward W. Blair is leaving the Jumbo Cottage and returning to Chicago.

You will be charmed with the class of work we do for you when it is sent home for your examination. The positive cleanliness and freshness of your garments, coupled with the dainty finish we put to them in the pressing, will make you hereafter a permanent customer. Mrs. John Cordner.

The grim hands of death have again laid hold of one of our summer residents and the North Shore is mourning the death of Caroline Parkman Cordner, widow of the late John Cordner of Boston, who passed away at her pleasant summer home on Hale street, Pride's Crossing, last Friday, at the age of 83. Mrs. Cordner was a sister of Francis Parkman, the well known author and writer, and has made the North Shore her summer home for many years. Mrs. Cordner's illness was of but a short duration and developed into pneumonia, from which she died. Funeral services were held at her late residence, Monday at noon, and were conducted by Rev. Howard N. Brown of King's Chapel, Boston. Interment was made in the Mt. Auburn cemetery.

Essex County Club vs. Manchester Crickets.

Another in the series of baseball games that have been played at the Essex County club this summer was played yesterday. The game proved as interesting as those which have preceded it and was won by the County club with a score of nine to six. The line up:

Essex County Club:—Dana 3b, Burnham 2b, Winston p, Colby ss, Wigglesworth c, Cotting 1b, Stanley rf, Reed lf, and Miligan cf.

Manchester Crickets:—Bell ss, Cook 3b, Lee cf, Walen c, Rust 2b, Walsh 1b, Croker p, Robbins lf, Jones rf.

H. C. Frick and family are leaving Pride's Monday for a few weeks' stay at Hot Springs, Va.

Judge W. H. Moore leaves Pride's next Wednesday for Louisville, Ky., where he will show his handsome string of show horses in the horse show to be held there.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Belches, who have been spending the summer in the Foster cottage at Magnolia, returned Thursday to their winter residence in Brookline.

The Eben D. Jordans are leaving West Manchester the coming week for the Virginia Hot Springs to remain a month or six weeks as they did last year. Their house here will not be closed until their return.

Polo at Myopia.

The finals in the tournament for the Hamilton cups was played at Myopia, Monday and was won by the Saratoga Freebooters over the Dedham players with a score of 7½ to 2½. On Wednesday the finals for the Perry trophy was played and Dedham defeated Myopia, 10¾ to 7¼. Wednesday's play were the last in the tournament and a large gathering witnessed the match, which was particularly good and rapid.

New Gaiety Theatre.

Another new theatre is to be added to Boston's already large list. It is to occupy the site of the present old Lyceum theatre, numbered 659 to 667 Washington street, and additional property recently purchased for this purpose, numbered 8 Boylston street running through and numbered 23 to 29 Lagrange street.

It is to be erected by the Boylston market association, the owners of the property, and will be known as the Gaiety Theatre. It will be under the management of George R. Bacheller, the associate manager being Ralph L. Ripley, who will also be treasurer of the new house. Both of these gentlemen have for many years been connected with the old Lyceum, being well known throughout the theatrical world.

The new building will have a total seating capacity of 1700 and there will be twenty-five exits from the auditorium alone. The main approach will be through a broad vestibule leading from Washington street.

:: At the Hotels ::

With the close of the Oceanside on the 21st of the month, a number of the guests of the hotel will adjourn to the Hesperus and remain there until that hotel closes on the 28th. Among those who have changed their quarters this week are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Woodwell of Pittsburg, who moved over Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams of Chicago have taken apartments at the Hesperus for a week or ten days' stay, arriving at the hotel early in the week.

Mrs. James K. Arsmby and daughter, accompanied by Miss Anderson, left the Oceanside, where they have been among the most prominent guests of the season, and sailed for Europe this week, where they will spend the winter.

In Sunday's issue of the New York Herald appeared an interesting account of the canoe trip taken by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wise Wood, in which they paddled to Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, a distance of 900 miles. Mr. and Mrs. Wood since their return have been spending the summer at the Hesperus from which they started on their trip.

A merry auto party that stopped over night at the Oceanside Tuesday was that of Miss Prescott of Washington, D. C., accompanied by Miss Agnes R. Lang, of Flushing, N. Y., Marjorie S. Chase, Eleanor K. Chase and Irving Chase of Waterbury, Conn.

Departures are now in order at the Oceanside and this has been evinced pretty thoroughly the past few days by the large number that have left either for their city residences or for other resorts. Among those who left Magnolia this week were Mrs. J. B. Lord of Chicago and her daughter, Miss Mary Lord, who have gone to Poland Springs in their auto, and from there plan to go to Mt. Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drake and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Farnum have returned to their home in Chicago, after a very pleasant summer at the Oceanside. Mr. Drake left several weeks before the other members of the family in order that he might superintend the building of a large hotel, which will be completed within a year and it is prophesied that it will be the finest hotel in Chicago.

C. H. Ackert of Washington spent the week-end with his family at the Oceanside as has been his custom during the summer, and on Monday returned with them to Washington in his private car.

Society Notes

Mrs. Gordon Dexter is spending a few days at Seabright, N. J., having left Pride's Tuesday.

C. J. Morse left his summer home at Pride's, Tuesday, for Pau, France, where he will spend the winter.

John T. Morse, jr., left Pride's Tuesday for Charles River Village where he will open his cottage there, and, as is his custom, keep open house there all winter. His father John T. Morse returns to his Boston house the 23d of the month.

Congressman and Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner are back from Europe and are at their Hamilton home for the autumn, arriving last Friday at New York on the Lusitania. They spent most of their time at Carlsbad during their absence, and the Congressman returns feeling much better in health after a greatly needed rest.

The dancing party given by Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas at their charming summer home at Pride's, Friday evening, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the early fall. The ball was held in the music room, transformed into a blaze of beauty by tasteful arrangement of plants and flowers, while the soft glow of the electric lights but increased the charm. Miss Margaret Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and for whom the dance was given, was assisted in receiving the some 300 guests by Mrs. Thomas and her sister, Miss Helen Thomas.

:: At the Hotels ::

Mrs. Chester Guild and Mrs. W. H. Horton have returned to the Vendome hotel, Boston, after a very delightful summer at the Oceanside. Curtis Guild, sr., who has also been spending the summer at the Oceanside, returned to his Boston home early in the week. His son, Courtney Guild, brother of the Governor, spent the week-end at the hotel, returning with them.

H. S. Ward, who, for a number of seasons, has been connected with the Oceanside hotel, returns to San Francisco, Cal., Monday, where he will resume his duties as head clerk in one of the large hotels there.

The week has been very pleasantly spent by Mrs. E. H. Peaslee and Edmund W. Peaslee of New York at the Hesperus.

Dr. Henry S. Warren, who has been the resident physician at the Oceanside this summer, returned this week to his Marlboro street, Boston, residence with Mrs. Warren. After a week's sojourn there they plan to go to Maine for an outing of a week or two.

Miss Gladys Scudder, who, with her sister and mother, has been spending the summer with her grandfather, Samuel Cupples of St. Louis at the Oceanside, has gone to Maine, where she will finish the season. The Misses Scudder have been considered by many to have been the belles of the summer at the hotel and were very prominent in the many little affairs that have taken place at the hotel this season.

Wooster Lambert, who has been a guest at the Oceanside all summer, returned over the road to his home in St. Louis this week in his auto.

$100,000 For Free Attractions.

The claim made by the management of the 2d Annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which opens at Mechanics Building, Boston, Oct. 5, that $100,000 will be spent for free attractions can easily be believed when one considers the list of free features already announced. And at that there are still more to come.

Among the big exhibits will be Joe Mitchell Chappel's National Magazine. The work of printing the November number will be done complete at the New England Food Fair and Mr. Chappel is planning lots of pleasant features for his wide circle of friends. For those who will spend the entire day in the building a delightful feature has been provided in Shooshan's Old Fashioned Inn. Here delicious meals will be served in a tempting manner and there will be music.

Benjamin H. Corliss Observes His 62d Birthday.

Benjamin H. Corliss entertained a few friends at his home on Lincoln street, Manchester, Wednesday evening on the occasion of his 62d birthday, with a little informal dinner which turned out to be a sort of democratic "warming up." His guests were: Frank C. Richardson of Essex, Charles A. Russell, James Pringle and Charles D. Smith of Gloucester, Theodore C. Rowe, chairman, and Charles C. Dodge, secretary of the Manchester democratic town committee, Curtis Stanley, Charles C. Danforth, Perley B. Parsons, Dr. Claudius L. Hoyt, M. J. Callahan, Edward Crowell and Frank Foster of Manchester, and James O. Huggup of Nahant.

After dinner had been served, speeches were in order and several interesting talks were given on the political outlook of the day. The first speaker was Charles A. Russell, who related several incidents of the national convention at Denver to which he was a delegate, and paid an especially fine tribute to Vice-Presidential Candidate Kern.

Following Mr. Russell came Mr. Richardson, who, after complimenting his host on his 62d anniversary, spoke on the vital necessity of success for the party and gave instances of the injustices dealt out to the people at large. Mr. Richardson wound up by expressing his firm belief that Mr. Bryan would be elected.

The next speaker was Charles D. Smith of Gloucester who spoke very effectively on political matters as did Charles C. Dodge of Manchester. Others making remarks were James Pringle of Gloucester, and Theodore C. Rowe and Dr. C. L. Hoyt of Manchester.

At a seasonable hour the party broke up with renewed congratulations to their host on the passing of his 62d birthday.

"Barbecue" at Tuck's Point Today.

A miniature barbecue is being held at Manchester today, and like many a notable gathering in the past Tuck's Point is the scene of the affair. Instead of the carcases of beef critters and pigs the bivalve for which our sister town Essex is famous is the principal viand on this occasion and one of Manchester's famous clambakes is the attraction. Senator James F. Shaw is the host. His guests are the republican city and town committees of the 3rd Senatorial district, town officials ond others more or less prominent in political affairs hereabouts. Speaker Cole of Andover, candidate for lieut. governor, Congressman Gardner, Senator Weeks, the county commissioners are among those attending. The bake was served at two o'clock and prior to that sports were run off and a general good time participated in.

POLITICS are beginning to "warm up" a little.

CAUCUSES next week: Republican on Tuesday and democratic on Wednesday evenings, in Manchester.

THE winter arrangement of trains on this branch goes into effect on Monday, Oct. 5.

LAST week we suggested that Manchester have a room in the new Beverly Hospital for the use of patients from this town when necessary and to be used in emergency cases. We have been trying to find out the cost of such from the hospital authorities, but have failed thus far. We have succeeded in interesting a number of the townspeople in the matter, however, and it is not unlikely something will be done along the line suggested. Dr. Blaisdell thinks well of the plan and says he will stand ready to help out in the matter. We are also in receipt of a letter from one of our summer residents who is interested in seeing the suggestion carried out.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

SUBSCRIBERS leaving the shore for their city homes should notify this office of their "change of address" promptly, sending their present as well as new address.

Correspondence

While our columns are always open for the discussion of any relevant subject, we do not necessarily indorse the opinions of contributors.

Correspondents will please give their names —not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

Magnolia, Mass., Sept. 14, 1908.

Editor North Shore Breeze:

Last week I saw in the BREEZE an article about how the new Men's clubhouse is going to hurt the villagers.

As to the boarding houses, how many are there which are kept by the natives of Magnolia? Not one.

All this last summer a large number of the chauffeurs boarded at the Oceanside, as there was no other place to accommodate them to their satisfaction.

I have been with the members of the present club all summer and have talked the scheme of a new clubhouse over with a good many of them. About seven out of every ten chauffeurs who were members of the club were at the hotel. How is it going to hurt the boarding houses when these chauffeurs leave the hotel and go to the club where they can enjoy themselves in the evening and be right at home?

Now how many of the villagers are there who would not become members of the club? Only a few who do not care to put their hands in their pockets to pay dues.

And now, "Live and Let Live," tell us how this new Clubhouse is going to hurt the welfare of Magnolia.

"A Friend of the Clubhouse."

The photo of the C. H. Tweed cottage on our front page this week was taken by W. M. Smith, the Beverly photographer.

Breeze Fund for Prof. Conroy.

As announced in a recent issue, the Breeze is raising a fund to be presented to Prof. John F. Conroy in consideration of his efficient and valuable services as life guard at Singing Beach, where he remained during the summer at his own expense. We feel that Prof. Conroy should receive something a little more substantial than mere thanks, and have hoped that the summer residents as well as the townspeople might take an active interest in the matter.

At date of writing, $35.00 have been received and the contributors are as follows:—Mrs. W. Scott Fitz $10.00, Mrs. Ellen L. Hemenway $10.00, Mrs. Lawrence Turnbull $5.00, L. J. Knowles, jr., $5.00 and Henry S. Grew $5.00.

National Red Cross.

In the list of Manchester members of the American National Red Cross printed in this paper last week three names were unintentionally omitted, as follows: Mrs. R. H. Fitz, Miss Harriot Curtis and Mrs. W. J. Boardman.

Application for membership may be sent to Mrs. Boardman. The only thing necessary for membership is to send one dollar, the annual fee.

Hold Up and Robbery? No, Merely a Drunken Row.

Not a little excitement was caused, Monday morning, by the finding of blood stains on Sea street and near them a watch and 42 cents in change. Robert Baker was going over his milk route and reached that section of the town at about seven o'clock. He had just crossed the railroad track and was going toward Summer street, when he saw the watch and money and then on looking closer saw the stains. The matter was reported to the police but it was finally decided that it was merely a drunken row and that one of the men had been injured and had bled considerably. Benjamin Giles was awakened, he says, at twelve o'clock, by loud talking and on looking out of the window saw two men, one leaning against a tree in close proximity to the spot where the stains were found. Mrs. Minnie Chisholm was also awakened that night by the disturbances and says that she thought some one was walking about on the veranda. She woke her husband but no further disturbance was made. The general conclusion is that the men had imbibed a little more aqua vitae than was good for them.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Among the contemplated improvements and building operations to be carried on at Manchester the coming winter is that at the Essex County club. It is proposed to move the annex, which now cuts off the view and the breeze from the main clubhouse into line with the main building, making one long imposing building, to be painted a rich grey with white trimmings and a moss green roof and blinds, and to connect the main floor of the annex directly with the present lounging room, making a connecting room between, and making the whole more accessible.

It is proposed to convert the whole upper part of the annex into bedrooms, making at least ten bedrooms. As the club has had added opportunity each year to let rooms to bachelor members of the club, members of the diplomatic corps, etc., this change will no doubt be a source of more income for the club.

The change will necessitate the rearrangement of the present driveway and entrance to the club, and of the garden on the westerly end of the house.

Another improvement will be the building of a piazza back of the men's room and an outside gallery from it along the back of the club toward the eastern end so that those coming in from play need not use the front piazza.

Subscriptions are being received from members, and the committee feel confident that the changes as proposed will be made. If so the club will not be available for winter parties the coming winter.

A new water system is to be installed at the Haven estate, Beverly Farms. The contract has been awarded to Thomas McDonnell, and includes the laying of about 1600 feet of four-inch pipe.

Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms commenced work this week with a large force of men on the construction of a large estate for Quincy Hayes Trowbridge, at New Haven, Conn. In main the work consists of various buildings, arbors, a pergola, general landscape work, Italian garden, fountains, terrace and other walls and practically all that goes to make a complete fitting for an elaborate estate. Arthur A. Shurtleff of Boston is the architect.

Morley Flatley & Co., the Manchester contractors, were awarded the contract yesterday for the stone and brick work on a large residence, 170x60 feet, to be built at Nantasket Junction on the South Shore, for Ezra R. Thayer. They will also do the landscape work.

This concern has also been awarded the contract for building a tennis court on the Mrs. Fassett estate, at East Gloucester.

The picture on our front page this week is of the C. H. Tweed house at Beverly Farms, to which such a large addition was built last winter by Publicover Bros. of Beverly Farms.

Alterations and Improvements at the North Shore Grill.

Although the North Shore Grill has hardly closed its doors after the season's business, preparations have already been begun to improve the Grill and its surroundings, and the work commenced. The veranda facing the ocean, used during the past season as a dining room, is being enlarged and when completed will be widened by eight feet. The interior of the enclosed veranda will be transferred into a little latticed garden, copied from a Spanish pagoda, latticed at the top and sides and concealing the shingles of the wall of the Grill itself. During the summer, climbing vines and flowers will twine over the lattice work and add charm to the general appearance.

The entrance to the tea garden will also be changed. Laticed arches will be placed under the pergola. The tables with their sheltering umbrellas will be placed nearer the road so that the guests may be able to note the arrivals and departures. In short the Grill will be made more beautiful and attractive than ever.

The management is also preparing to open the Grill the first of June the coming season rather than the 20th as in the summer just past, and to remain open until the first of October. During the week following the closing of the tea house, a great many came to the Grill either for lunch or dinner and were exceedingly disappointed to find it closed.

Sousa and His Band.

When Sousa, the famous bandmaster, was engaged with his band as a leading feature of the 7th and Greatest Boston Food Fair, conducted by the Boston Retail Grocers' Association at the Park Square Coliseum, from Monday, Sept. 28th, to Saturday, Oct. 31st, it was with the understanding that he should make his engagement a notable one. To carry out the bargain Sousa agreed to do something he had never done before in Boston, and that was to raise his band to its full strength of sixty-five pieces, the number which he has only for such exceptional engagements as those at the world's expositions. It happens that Sousa and his band are starting on a farewell tour of the world, immediately following this engagement at the Boston Food Fair, and the organization which he brings here will be the same in every particular as that which is to tour Europe.

$1.25, $1.35 and $1.50 INLAID LINOLEUMS In Cut Lengths . . 59c Sq. Yd.

Another lucky purchase made by our buyer direct with manufacturer. Finest grade inlaid linoleums in a variety of best patterns—1000 yards, in cut lengths ranging from 3 to 20 yards, making it possible to cover any room by slight piecing (and the piecing does not show in this class of goods). Just think of buying a linoleum worth from $1.25 to $1.50 per square yard for 59c. It's an offering you can't afford to neglect.

600 yards Printed Linoleums, worth 50c, 60c and 65c yd. These to be sold at 39c Sq. Yd.

Lengths range from 3 yards square to 20 yards. If you have no objections to piecing, a room can be covered at a trifling cost, and we know one of these carpets will outwear anything you can buy at anywhere near the price.

BEAUTIFUL MATTING EFFECTS IN OILCLOTHS

Now in great demand for chambers instead of straw mattings. We offer a choice of six high grade patterns for this sale, all 50c values, for 40c sq. yd.

A Choice Line of China and Japan Mattings at 25c yard 30c and 35c values

Just 48 pieces in the lot—and not a large amount considering the demand we are bound to have on this splendid offering. Don't delay. If you have a new matting to purchase—come at once and get one of these at 25c yd.

Manchester

Night Officer Jones has been transferred from the "Cove" district to West Manchester, and Officer Lee has been transferred to the Cove. "For the good of the service" is the cause of the transfer, ascribed by the selectmen.

The air has been blue in the vicinity of upper Pleasant street the past few days, not only because of the smoke from forest fires, but because of the fact the street has been closed in connection with laying the new water pipes.

Station Agent Rand has found his bicycle! This is no joke; he has actually had it returned to him. Several weeks ago Mr. Rand left his "bike" outside the station about 7.30 in the p. m. When he went to look for it half an hour later it had disappeared. Though he has been keeping a close watch for it since no tidings were heard until yesteaday when William Cook and James Kelliher, two "bug hunters," found a bicycle in the woods off Pine street, considerably banged up and looking much the worse for usage. It turned out that this was Mr. Rand's wheel. How it got there, or who the thieves were is yet unsolved.

Manchester

Theodore Coombs is working at his brother's grocery in Gloucester.

Miss Lizzie Dillon has a position as stenographer in Boston and takes up her work the coming week.

Driver Charles Chadwick of the fire horses is taking his annual vacation. Joseph Saunier is substituting for him.

The Misses Campbell, the Beach street dressmakers, are over in New York for a few days for the fall openings. They will return Sunday.

Miss Ethel Stanley returned this afternoon from a week's visit with friends in Marblehead. Mrs. Herbert Hamilton and son returned with her to remain over the week-end.

Mrs. Hilda Maguson, who has been spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Lethbridge, Friend's Court, left Wednesday, and after a week's stay in Boston she will return to her home in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leach, who have been circling among their friends in this vicinity the past fortnight, are returning to their home in White Plains, N. Y., next Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Hollis L. Roberts are returning with them for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Haskell and daughter, Mrs. Clifford Goodwin and Mr. Goodwin were in Boston Wednesday to see the "Old Homestead" presented at the Boston theatre. They took in the "Merry Widow" at the Tremont in the evening.

A number of young people have started away for colleges and preparatory schools the past week. Samuel Knight has gone to Exeter, to prepare for Technology. Talbot Hoare is at Andover, to prepare for Dartmouth. Willard Rust is leaving Sunday to enter Dartmouth. Harry Floyd is returning to Dartmouth Sunday also. He is a senior this year. Bert Floyd is returning to Cornell next Thursday. Joseph Floyd is taking post graduate work at the local High school preparatory to entering Colorado University next year to take up forestry. Mrs. James Reed and two children are on a visit to Washington.

Friends of Miss Eva Crombie will regret to learn of her serious illness at her home on Summer street.

Miss Annie Bullock has been forced to give up her work as bookkeeper at Bullock Bros'. grocery, being completely run down in health.

Miss Grace M. Prest is having a two weeks' respite from her duties as bookkeeper at D. T. Beaton's. Miss Emma Prest has been spending part of the week with friends in Lawrence.

Mrs. Nathaniel Morgan, Mrs. George Morgan, Mrs. Frank Morgan and Miss Mamie Morgan returned the first of the week from a few days' camping trip at Briar Neck, Gloucester.

Allen Post 67, G. A. R., will observe the 40th anniversary of the organization of the Post by an all day outing and campfire at Tuck's Point on Tuesday, Sept. 29. Invitations have been extended to associates of Post 67, Camp 149, S. of V., Corps 119, W. R. C., Post 45, G. A. R. and Dept. officers of the G. A. R. and W. R. C.

Robert E. Harrison, who has been at the W. B. Walker estate, the past summer has resigned his position there.

James H. Rivers returned last Saturday from a week's visit to Lewiston, Me., where he attended the State Fair.

The tremendous surf of the last two days has attracted many people to Singing Beach to witness the great billows as they came rolling in and dash their spray high in the air. At high tide the waves reached clear to the bath house steps and when they struck the edge of the grass that borders the upper portion of the beach, they seemed to shoot straight up. At Eagle head the spray was the high est that it has ever been known there, and even at low tide was flung above the pines on its summit.

Miss Mamie E. Morgan commenced her duties as bookkeeper at Bullock Bros.' grocery store the first of the week.

Many of the townspeople are interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Myrtie Chisholm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Chisholm of Gloucester and a former resident of Manchester, to Henry Albert Power of Providence. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents Tuesday evening, October 6, at eight o'clock. The young couple will reside in Providence.

Prolong Life
In hundreds of instances Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has prolonged life many years, after all hope had been abandoned. It is a heart tonic. By its strengthening influence upon the heart nerves and muscles, the heart action is increased.
"My heart was weak and at times I thought I would die. I lost consciousness one morning, and did not recover for hours. My wife gave me whiskey and applied mustard. A friend advised Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I took two or three bottles and it keeps the old heart going right along. Have never had one of those spells since. I should have been dead years ago had I not found relief in this valuable remedy."

A very merry little dance was held at the Willow cottage, last Friday night, given by Miss Walsh and the guests of the cottage. The dining room was cleared and decoratcd for the dancers and a three piece orchestra was procured from Gloucester. Friends of the guests from Boston, Manchester and Gloucester were present and light refreshments consisting of punch and sandwiches were served.

A communication pertaining to the men's clubhouse will be found on page 14.

The following election officers have been appointed by Mayor Parsons, to serve at the caucus next Sunday for this precinct: Warden, Jonathan May; deputy warden, Clifford B. Story; clerk, Gilbert Crispin; deputy clerk, Lafayette F. Hunt; inspectors, John G. Burnham, John B. Dodge, John L. Abbott, Daniel Chane, Co nelius G. Murphy, John Chane; deputy inspectors, John B. Knowlton, Winslow F. Story, James Wolf, jr., James E. Chane.

Miss Helen B. Lycett and Miss Amy D. Lycett started Wednesday morning for a short vacation to the White Mountains.

Gabriel Paul has closed his fancy basket camp for the season and has returned to Old Town, Me., for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Hunt took in the Lake Winnipesaukee excursion Monday.

James McDonald was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Daniel Chane on Wednesday.

Theo. D. Martin, manager of the Men's summer club, has returned to Hamilton college where he is a sophomore, after a most successful season.

Miss Anna Relyea returned to Northfield Seminary on Wednesday of last week. She has been the guest of Miss Marion Story this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett F. Butler spent the first of the week at Newbury, Mass., the guests of Mrs. Butler's father, Mr. Cann.

The Summerside laundry is closed for the winter, after a most successful season.

The Men's Clubhouse.

Subscriptions for the men's clubhouse at Magnolia now total about $8350. We announced last week that the subscriptions had increased from $6000 to $8000. This was through the generosity of Mrs. Rebecca Colfelt who made a pledge of $2000. Mrs. Colfelt has now increased that amount to $2350, to cover the entire expense of the lot.

Efforts are being made to increase the total to the $10,000 before the actual work is started this fall.

E. C. P. A. Outing.

The Essex County Poultry Association will hold an outing at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, next Thursday,—Sept. 24th. Plans are being made to make the event one of much pleasure, and something that will become an annual affair. Manchester hen fanciers are taking an active part in the affairs of the old and well known organization, but there are many others enrolled upon the membership. It is expected that there will be fully 150 people at the outing next week.

Invitations have been extended to Cong. Gardner and Senator Shaw, as well as others of less prominence politically. The dinner will be served by Ralk of Beverly, a caterer, at 1.30 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained from David McKinnon, W. W. Hoare, W. R. Bell, Austin Jones or E. J. Semons. No tickets will be sold after Monday night.

A small fire was started by a passing locomotive in the brush between the railroad track and the Catholic church on Hale street, Wednesday afternoon, and it had been smouldering for the last two days. The fire department was called out three times and early this morning put a stream so effectually on the flames that it believed that they are extinguished.

James B. Dow has recently received a lot of genuine shamrock from Cork, Ireland, at his Sunnyside greenhouse and has been selling the little potted plants at a mere trifle to the many, to whom the emblem of the "Emerald Isle" has a peculiar sentiment, which gives it a valued place among the other house plants.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Beverly Farms. Mass., P. O., week ending, Sept. 16, 1908. Mrs Charlotte A Bradstreet, Miss Gertrude Bement, Miss M A Coleman, Miss Sarah McDermott, Miss Katherine A Regan, Miss Bridget O'Connor, Mr Karl Onderck.

Titus' Autumn Opening.

The A. C. Titus Co. held its annual autumn opening Wednesday. The 21,000 square feet of floor display surface was crowded with merchandise fresh from the big furniture marts of the world. The arrangement of the stock enhanced its appearance, while flowers, palms and other foliage plants added their embellishing effect to the general display. Large crowds attended and the affair is being continued through the week.

The Lake Winnipesaukee excursion was taken by nine of the Farms people last Monday.

Mrs. Thomas J. McDonnell, who has been away for some weeks, returned Wednesday much improved in health.

Mrs. Merritt Toby of Amesbury has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Bartlett at their home on Hale street.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dow left yesterday for a two weeks' trip among the White Mountains. They will make their headquarters at Intervale.

Gregory P. Connolly, 2d, has resumed his studies at Phillips Academy, Exeter, N. H., the past week. His brother, Eugene, will enter Yale next week.

Mrs. Frank Mitchell and daughter, Miss Frances Mitchell, returned to their home in Pawtucket, R. I., the first of the week after a few weeks' visit with Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley.

The boating season is now practically over and the floats at many of the private piers have been taken up the past week and stored away as a precaution against the fall storms, which may now be expecied at almost any time.

Speaker John N. Cole, one of the republican candidates for lieutenant-governor nomination, accompanied by Secretary Hinkley of the city committee, Rept. Joseph A. Wallis and Ald. Torrey, held a rally in Marshall's hall Monday evening, and gave an interesting talk. He was cordially greeted by those present. Before their departure for Centreville the party paid a visit to the West street fire station.

Clan Wallace, 127, held their dance in Neighbor's hall last evening and it was one of the pleasantest affairs of the season. The attendance was all that the hall could accommodate. The Highland costumes and the bagpipe music were pleasing features, but the Keppie sisters certainly made the hit of the evening. The various special dances, each in a change of costume, were all finely given and received well merited applause.

Miss Annie McKeone, formerly of the Farms, but now living in Beverly did not realize the brooch she was wearing in her collar the latter part of last week was a valuable piece of jewelry. Her mother picked it up on Cabot street. She presented it to her daughter who wore the pin two days to her work at the U. S. Machinery plant. Miss McKeone saw the "adv" in the paper and upon telephoning found the pin to be real diamonds, the property of Mrs. James McMillan of Manchester.

Cole—Witham.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Farms, Tuesday evening, when Miss Alice Evelyn Witham was joined in marriage to Harry Preston Cole. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 at the residence of Miss Witham's aunt, Mrs. William Choate Webster, on Hale street. Unattended, the bride entered the parlor, which was decorated most attractively with flowers and ferns in great profusion, to the strains of Lohengrin, played by Irwin Davis, and was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Webster. The young couple took their stand beneath a magnificent arch of evergreen and listened to the words, pronounced by Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, which made them man and wife. Immediately following the ceremony, from 7 to 8.30, the young couple received the congratulations of their many friends and relatives.

The ushers were Irwin Davis, Frank Preston, Herman MacDonald and Thomas Chapman, all residents of the Farms. The wedding supper followed and the following young ladies assisted: Misses Carrie Davis, Ruth Hardy, Alice Bolam, Frances Cole, Gertrude Webster, Barbara Daniels and Ella Low.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, her veil caught up with a spray of orange blossoms. At the close of the reception she tossed the large bouquet of white bridal roses she carried to the young ladies who assisted in the serving, and then, amid a shower of rice and confetti, and the best wishes of their many friends, started on a brief honeymoon of ten days' duration to the White Mts. after which they will reside in their new home on Hale street, formerly the Lovering house.

The bride has for several years acted as assistant at the Farms postoffice, where her pleasant and attractive ways won her a host of friends. Her leaving was regretted by all and their esteem was very well evinced by the large number of wedding presents, attractively displayed in the room adjoining that in which the ceremony was performed.

The young couple completely fooled their friends by getting into a carriage and leaving ostensibly for the depot. As a matter of fact, however, they took a short drive into the country while their friends were watching both depots, and then after their dispersal, drove back to their new home and spent the night there unmolested. They left on their trip next morning.

B. Frank Hawkins.

B. Frank Hawkins, a well known and respected resident of East Wenham, died at his home on Hull street, last Thursday evening at the age of 54. Mr. Hawkins had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected. He was a member of the Essex Lodge of Odd Fellows at Salem. Funeral services were held at his late residence Sunday afternoon and interment made in the Greenlawn cemetery at Wenham. At the grave the Odd Fellow services over the dead were read. He is survived by two sons Benjamin F. and Arthur Hawkins. Mr. Hawkins was proprietor of the "Willow Brook Farm."

Proctor Denno is taking a course at the Burdett Business College, Lynn.

Frank McDonald and family moved into Connolly Bros.' house on Hale street this week, recently occupied by Fred Woodbury.

Miss Lida Pierce of Hart street has spent a portion of the past week visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Pierce, at North Beverly.

An employee of Leveen, the tailor, was taken to the Beverly hospital for treatment Wednesday, as the result of an explosion. The man took a can of naphtha which he was using, too near the stove.

The larger boys about the Farms have organized a football team and have already made a number of dates for games. By means of a subscription paper sufficient funds have been secured to fit them out with suits.

A fisherman employed off West Beach one day recently, in catching a tow from a swiftly passing motor boat, had the middle finger on one hand so badly pulled that he had to be taken to the Beverly Hospital, where the injured member was amputated.

Night Officer Ernest I. Ellis started last Monday on his annual vacation and met with a mishap that in a measure will be a prevention to its full enjoyment. As he was carrying some ashes out of his cellar his heel caught in the threshhold throwing him to the ground, causing a wrenching of the back. Officer Ellis had planned to spend a portion of his leasure time among relatives in Maine, but the section he was to visit is now infested with forest fires. During his absence the Farms beat is being taken care of by Officer Moines.

Still another dance is scheduled this month at Neighbor's hall. On the evening of Tuesday, September 29, the West Beach club will give a dance. Music will be furnished by the United Shoe orchestra and a good time may be expected by all.

The John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will hold an important business meeting this evening in Marshall's hall. Among other matters that will come before the meeting will be the nomination of officers for the ensuing year. Several applications for membership will also be presented.

The following lines are from "M. C.", the Pride's poet, and tell in poetic strains of an experience he had with a friend's barrel of cider, to which he was helping himself uninvited, until discovered. "Mike" was made to pay $3.00 for what he took, but after he had been kept in "agony" for several weeks the money was refunded.

"One day I felt thirsty from ham that was fried,
So in my friend's cellar I slyly did glide;
The nectar was cool, though it was not on ice,
Its flavor was good and the color was nice.
But alas! I was discovered by his fair bride:
'Twas too late, there was no place to hide;
But heavenly God what a terrible expense
I had to pay for that cider,—no wonder 'twas immense."

Miss Florence Ashton of Swampscott has been a guest the past week of Miss Ruth Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Duffy of Midland, Mich., on a vacation trip East, spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the Farms visiting friends.

Miss Louise Donovan of Dorchester, instructor at the Quincy school playgrounds, has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Connolly part of the past week.

Mrs. Charles S. Thomas and two children returned to their home in Belfast, Me., yesterday after a pleasant visit of several weeks, a portion of which they spent with Farms' relatives.

The Centreville Men's Improvement association is a new organization just formed in the Montserrat section of Ward 6. Their object is to have a combined interest in matters that will benefit their section of the city.

West Beach is now commencing to have very much of a deserted appearance, especially at night, and while there are still many who continue to have their daily sea bath, the number is growing less each day. Supt. Neville has begun to put things in condition for the winter.

S. John Connolly and John A. Morrison are now located at New Haven, Conn., where they are in charge of work which Connolly Bros. have on the Trowbridge estate.

James E. McDonnell is the proud owner of an airdale terrier pup which has a pedigree from a long line of prize winners. The mother landed a medal and a blue ribbon in a recent dog show.

Private dancing parties are quite the thing at the present time. The latest announced is scheduled for next Tuesday night, in Neighbor's hall. The B. F. M. C. is giving it. Neatly printed invitations are being sent out for the party.

Miss Selig Peterson has concluded her duties at Wyatt's market, where she acted as bookkeeper. Clarence Buxton, who also concluded his duties there as manager last week, will take a month's vacation before accepting a position in Boston. Leonard Emery is now in charge.

The Registrars of voters will be in session in the City hall, Beverly, in room 3, to register new voters and correct the voting list on the following dates, tonight, Sept. 18, from 7.30 to 9, and on Sept. 25, Oct. 2, 7, and 9 at the same hours and on Oct. 4 from 12 to 10 p. m. Those desiring to register should take with them their last tax bill or other evidence to show that they have been residents the past six months.

Edwin L. Pride and family have closed their cottage on Hale street and moved to their winter home at Winter Hill.

The prize dance to be given by the Seaside Club in Neighbor's hall next Thursday evening will no doubt prove a strong attraction.

Benjamin F. Hawkins, the popular clerk at the A. Standley shoe store, Central square, is taking a well deserved two weeks' vacation. Walter Friend of Boston is substituting in his absence.

Miss Adelaide L. Day, teacher of Grade 1 at the Farms school, has the hardest task of any of the teachers, it would seem, when it is considered that she has some 37 little tots to look after, all between the ages of five and seven years.

A party of young people making the most of a waning season took an outing to Revere Beach and Wonderland, Wednesday evening. The "Pit" certainly proved a big attraction, and the "spirit" there took possession of them, for no "stunt" or "trick" was too much to "phaze" them.

Samuel Cohoon of Needham, a former resident here, was a guest over night, Tuesday, of friends in town, and spent his time very pleasantly renewing acquaintances. Mr. Cohoon says that they are all very much pleased with their new home, but are still glad to visit the Farms occasionally and see their old friends and neighbors.

The Preston Relief corps are busy preparing for the fair and dinner that they are planning to hold the 29th and 30th of this month. At their regular meeting Tuesday evening, the corps received two new applications for membership. They also voted to send a large delegation to the Essex County convention to be held at Groveland next Wednesday.

Republicans should not forget to attend the caucus to be held in Marshall's hall next Tuesday evening, Sept. 22 from 6.30 to 8. There is a contest on for the state convention and the delegate favorable to Hon. John N. Cole for lieut.-governor is Howard P. Williams, while John M. Publicover is the delegate favorable to Hon. Louis A. Frothingham. The Hon. Robert Luce has no representative. As Capt. Winthrop E. Perry has withdrawn from the candidacy of state senator the only delegate which is to be voted for to this convention will probably be William R. Brooks favorable to Clifford B. Bray. The old Ward committee are candidates for reelection.

My!

Once we used to feel 'twas a great thing to have One come, as we knew then 'twas really unusual for any New Englander to buy things by the Car. What do you think of it NOW when we have CARS OF

Extension Tables

Come here TWO AT A TIME.

That's what landed this morning out here in the B. & M. Yards. Pretty big shipment perhaps you'll say, but just see the goods at the price we shall sell them, warrant you'll feel yourself the inducement justified the purchase.

Why, we've a round top table with that popular pedestal center, 'tis made of solid oak and 'tis finished as fine as can be, it has lately been heralded in Boston's pretendedly "special" sales as being worth $12.00 and reduced to $8.95.

'Tis here right at your door, delivered in your home, with our guarantee to satisfaction, and all that it will cost you, is

$8.75

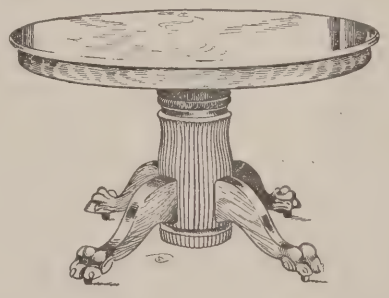

See It—It's a Bargain.

Look at this one—its picture is here below—'tis all quarter sawed oak with a piano polish finish, it has a great big top and extends 6 feet. A beauty at any price, 'tis yours

For $14.00

Match this if possible with a 48-in. top and great heavy claw foot, a 12-in. pedestal.

For $16.50.

These are figures worth considering, for they'll save you extra dollars. Forty patterns for selecting—where can you go to find any more?

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1908.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY:

BY D. F. LAMSON.

Not one of the greatest certainly, but one of the most interesting, writers of the earlier part of the 18th century, is Daniel Defoe. He wrote one book which, if he had written nothing else, would have made his name famous in two hemispheres. With scarcely a tithe of Steele's learning, but with tenfold his power to interest and charm, the author of Robinson Crusoe is known wherever the English language is spoken, while Steele is almost forgotten.

Defoe at first tried business, but his mercantile operations came, one after another, to a disastrous close. He next entered the field of politics, for which he seems to have had some adaptation and taste. He threw himself upon the Whig side with ardor, and wrote vigorously upon the leading questions of the day; even gaining the notice and warm approbation of King William; but the death of the king cut short his career in that direction, and he turned to literature for employment, and this proved the sphere best fitted to his talents and in which he was to achieve lasting renown.

Defoe was a voluminous writer, ninety-seven different works being ascribed to him, and discoursed on a great variety of subjects; many of these, however, were not of general or permanent interest; his fame now rests almost wholly on his two great works of imagination, The Journal of the Plague Year and Robinson Crusoe. The former stands by itself as an unapproached example of the successful mingling of history and fiction. It is based on fact, the dreadful occurrences of the year of the Plague in London, 1665, and yet it is fiction pure and simple. The story is put into the mouth of a humble citizen who writes naturally and simply, and with the pathos of reality, as an eyewitness of the awful distress. It is to be remembered that Defoe in the year of the plague was a child of four. The accuracy and apparent veracity of the narrative are so great, that it has been taken by many for an authentic record. But it is certain that it was the fruit of the author's wonderful imagination, by which he was enabled to clothe fiction in the garb of the most life-like reality. The book is a triumph of art, but the depressing nature of the subject and the gruesomeness of some of its details have prevented it from being popular. It is a book unique in its way, and will probably never have a rival. As a work of circumstantial invention, combined with a style which exactly fits it by its simplicity, it yields precedence only to its author's still more wonderful creation, The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe.

This book, which appeared in 1719, may be said to have leaped into popularity at once, passing through four editions in four months, and never to have lost its hold on the public mind; it establishes the claim for Defoe as the first true English writer of fiction. Though having no plot to the working-out of which the characters and events contribute, it has more likeness to the modern novel than any of the slight tales that had preceded it, from the time of Elizabeth downward.

The great charm of Robinson Crusoe is its naturalness; unlike other attempts to portray life in somewhat similar surroundings of isolation and savageness, with which Defoe could hardly have been unfamiliar, there is nothing in his work of the mythical, the absurd, the impossible, nothing but might have happened. The whole story, with all its situations and incidents, has a verisimilitude that is its great charm, and places it at the farthest remove from tales of the Arabian Nights variety, which only illustrate their authors' capacity of unlimited and unrestrained fancy. The account of the shipwreck, the escape to an uninhabited island, with its "heavy-fruited bowers," the simple housekeeping with its ingenious contrivances and expedients, the life of the tropics "so wild that it was tame," the horror at the sight of the savages on the shore at their cannibal feast, the discovery of the human footprint, the man Friday,—are touches of a master hand; they seem almost as fresh as if seen yesterday, though more than sixty years have past since the book was laid down.

The question has been mooted, how far did Defoe avail himself of existing materials in writing his great masterpiece? His remarkable knack of using scattered and fragmentary hints from other writers in his own compositions, as the early discoveries of the Portuguese

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING IN MANCHESTER.

Next Monday Evening to Act on Purchase of Manchester Electric Co. and Other Important Business.

A special Town Meeting is called for Manchester, to be held in the Town hall next Monday evening, Sept. 28. Most important among the matters to be brought up is the purchase of the Manchester Electric Co.

There are other matters to be brought before the meeting, also, as will be seen by the articles of the warrant below. The acceptance of the Pine street layout will be brought up again. The selectmen have received a request from a summer visitor who wants to open a studio in the old schoolhouse at the junction of Forest and Summer streets, and an article has been inserted in the warrant to see if the town is willing to rent or lease this property.

The question of an additional $400 for the support of the police department will be asked for also. This is to meet the expense of keeping an additional night officer on all winter, Officer Sheehan being hired with that understanding last spring.

The articles of the warrant follow:

1. To choose a moderator.
2. To consider the purchase by the town of the Manchester Electric Co., all its rights, franchises, privileges and property of all kinds, at a price not exceeding $150,000, or take any action relating thereto.
3. To see if it is expedient for the town to exercise the authority confered by Sect. 1, chapter 34, R. L. of Mass., as amended by Sects. 59 and 158 of Part 3 of chapter 463 of the Acts of 1906, and to construct, purchase or lease and maintain within its limits one or more plants for the manufacture or distribution of electricity for furnishing light for municipal use, and light, heat or power for the use of its inhabitants, except for furnishing light, heat or power for the operation of the cars of a street railway company, or take any action relating thereto.
4. To see if the town will accept and allow the Pine street layout as made by the Selectmen and to be reported to the town at this meeting; also to make an appropriation, to pay the expense of constructing the same, or taking any action relating thereto.
5. To see if the town will make an additional appropriation of $400 for the support of the Police department.
6. To see if the town will authorize the Selectmen to rent or lease the property of the town located at the junction of Forest and Summer street.

in his Captain Singleton, has frequent illustration and is one of the curiosities of literature. That there were stories of castaways, wild and Munchausen-like, going back to the Middle ages, and that there were narratives like one of a ship-wrecked Spanish sailor, written by La Vega, and translated into English in 1688, is well known. The story of Alexander Selkirk, the solitary of Juan Fernandez, made familiar to us by Cowper, must have been in every one's mouth, and may have given Defoe the hint of his romance. There was a mass of material ready to be worked by the hand of a master. But from whatever earlier writers he obtained some of his scenes and incidents, and the general idea of his story, when we come to the real soul of the book, its simplicity and naturalness, its humanity, its innocent arraying of fiction as fact, the freshness which it gives to common happenings, we may claim it as one of the great original works of the imagination in the English tongue. Defoe was a plagiarist only in the sense in which Shakespeare and Milton were plagiarists, taking material which they found in the ore, and minting and stamping it with their own immortal genius.

To the real worth and commanding power of Robinson Crusoe we have two remarkable witnesses. Dr. Adam Clarke, the celebrated commentator, declared that he had "learned more of his duty to God, his neighbor and himself, from Robinson Crusoe than from all the books—except the Bible—that were known to his youth;" and the story, we are told, was put into the hands of his children as soon as they were able to read it. Dr. Samuel Johnson asserted that there were three books which every reader wished were longer; Robinson Crusoe, Don Quixote, and Pilgrim's Progress.

NOTE.

It is interesting to learn from the daily press, that on Sept. 14, in Boston, after the usual formalities, Robinson Crusoe became a citizen of the United States. To one of the questions asked him, "Who would be President if President Roosevelt should die?" he cautiously answered, "Somebody else." He is a mariner like his noted namesake, and was born in Norway, and does not know why he was called Robinson.

Enjoyed Clambake.

The reception given last Friday by Senator James F. Shaw at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, to the various city and town committees of the third Essex Senatorial district, and other invited guests, proved a most enjoyable occasion, and was attended by some 130 people. Senator Shaw certainly proved himself a most genial host.

Though scores of the guests had begun to arrive as early as the noon hour, the crowd was not on hand until the 1.30 trains arrived. The clam-bake was ready to be served at 2 o'clock. Myric C. Horton, who was called home from a vacation trip in Connecticut, had charge of this feature of the day, which was by no means the least important, for all joined in pronouncing it the best cooked clam-bake they had ever partaken of. It was cooked on the beach and its preparation and opening was watched with interest by many who had never seen a clam-bake before.

Congressman Gardner, Speaker Cole, "Col." Joe Peterson of Salem and Chairman Doty of the state committee were among those present and after the dinner they each gave rousing good talks on political subjects. "Col." Peterson led the cheering.

A ball game was a feature of the morning, when a team captained by W. W. Lufkin, won over a nine captained by C. Homer Barrett, Fred K. Swett scoring the winning run in the last inning.

CAUCUSES AT MANCHESTER

The Republican caucus on Tuesday evening was called to order at 7.30 by Chairman Jeffrey T. Stanley of the Town Committee. Secy. W. W. Hoare read the call, after which R. C. Allen was chosen permanent chairman and L. W. Floyd, clerk. W. W. Hoare and W. R. Bell were appointed tellers. The polls were kept open until 8.45, thirty-seven votes being cast.

There was no contest on for any of the delegations and none of the delegates were "instructed." The town committee for 1909 is the same as this year, with one exception, Horace Standley being the new member added.

The following delegates to the various conventions were elected:

State—Walter R Bell, John W. Campbell.

Councillor—Jeffrey T. Stanley, John W. Carter.

Congressional (Sixth)—Percy A. Wheaton, Chester L. Crafts.

County—Edwin P. Stanley, Patrick H. Boyle.

Senatorial (3rd Essex)—Raymond C. Allen, Horace Standley.

The Democratic caucus was held on Wednesday evening, twelve voters being out. Theodore C. Rowe was made permanent chairman and C. C. Dodge, clerk. Frank A. Foster, C. L. Hoyt and Edward Crowell were appointed tellers.

The following delegates to the various conventions were elected:

State—C. L. Hoyt.

Councilor—Clarence W. Morgan.

Congressional—Benj. H. Corliss.

County—James Hoare.

Senatorial—Frank A. Foster.

Representative — Edward Crowell, Charles C. Dodge, T. C. Rowe.

Democratic Town committee for 1909—Theodore C. Rowe, C. C. Dodge, Charles Danforth, James Hoare, Benj. H. Corliss, Frank A. Foster, C. L. Hoyt, Curtis Stanley and Clarence W. Morgan.

State Fish and Game Commission Investigates Dead Fish Invasion

The recent odor of decaying fish is too vivid in our memories for us to have forgotten the invasion of dead herring, or spurlings, by the thousands all along the shore. The matter has been investigated by the state fish and game commission, and W. W. Nixon, one of the wardens of the commission, has given out his report on the causes of the invasion. The real cause of the trouble, Mr. Nixon states, is the pollock, which are very plentiful along the shore and are increasing rapidly. The pollock feed on small herring and have been known to follow them way up onto the shore in their eagerness to reach their natural food. The trouble is liable to reoccur at almost any time and the individual towns must safe guard themselves as well as possible against it.

Mrs. Annie L. Copeland.

Word has been received in Manchester of the death in Arlington, Sept. 21, of Mrs. Annie L. (Howe) wife of Wm. M. Copeland, formerly of Salem and Manchester, aged 66 years, 3 months, 19 days. She was of a genial disposition and fine character and will be greatly missed. She leaves a husband and one daughter, Mrs. Chas. C. Handy of Salem, formerly Miss Annie Bird of Manchester. The funeral was held at her late home in Arlington, Tuesday. Burial was at Hollis, N. H.

Manchester

A son to Mr. and Mrs. Axel Magnuson, Bridge street, Wednesday, the 23d.

A daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Snow, Summer street, Monday, the 21st.

A son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lethbridge, Friend's Court, Saturday, Sept. 19.

James J. Deviney's family have returned to their home at Newton after a very pleasant summer at Manchester.

Mrs. James Austin and little son arrived from a three months' visit to Mrs. Austin's former home in Scotland Monday, after a most enjoyable trip.

Mrs. C. O. Howe represented the local corps at the quarterly meeting of the Essex County W. R. C. at Groveland Wednesday. Mrs. Hattie Perkins, from the Salem corps, also attended.

Town Treasurer E. P. Stanley came in for a share of the artist's pen sketches at the recent barbecue at the Point of Pines. The Lynn Item pictured our genial friend as "Edwin P. Stanley, the Ruler of Manchester-by-the-Sea."

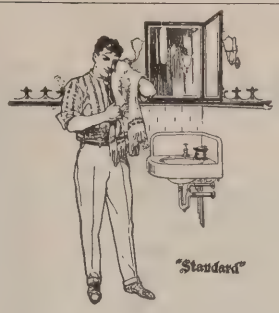

Edward C. Knight has accepted a position on the "city staff" of the New York Sun. Mr. Knight has been connected with the Boston papers the past two years, and goes to New York to take up the same kind of work there.

The opening meeting of the Manchester Woman's Club will be held on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 6, at the Congregational chapel, at 3.30 o'clock. Mrs. Caroline Stone Atherton, first vice-president of the State Federation, will be the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hodgdon of Pittsburg have been spending a few days the past week visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Willmonton, Pleasant street. Mrs. Carrie Cameron of Welland, Ont., was also a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Willmonton this week.

William H. Kinsman of Gloucester, who passed away at his home on Hartz place in that city Thursday of last week, was a native of Manchester, being the son of Mrs. Mehitable H. and the late William H. Kinsman. He was 58 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoare and Miss Emma Hoare left Tuesday on a ten days' trip. They went from Boston to New York by boat, and took the famous "up the Hudson" trip, and from Albany to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, thence by steamer to Toronto, Thousand Islands, St. Lawrence River to Montreal, and home by way of the mountains.

Harrison Tweed, J. Watson Webb, F. Skiddy von Stade and F. Ambrose Clark made up the Myopia team of polo players who appeared against the Squaddron A team of New York on Wednesday and will again appear tomorrow at the fair at White River Junction, Vt.

Yesterday afternoon the beautiful new residence, "Inglisby," of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Searle at Ipswich was the scene of a brilliant gathering of North Shore cottagers, not only from the Ipswich, Topsfield and Hamilton section, but also from along the Manchester and Beverly shore. It was a dramatic and dialect recital given by Mrs. Waldo Richards. Mrs. Frederick T. Bradbury and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan of Manchester, Mrs. Washington B. Thomas and Mrs. Edwin C. Swift of Pride's Crossing, and Mrs. Robert D. Evans of Beverly Cove were among the patronesses.

Miss Sybil A. Hodges of New York, daughter of the late E. C. Hodges, a former member of the Manchester summer colony, was married at Hingham, Wednesday of last week, to Warren Hunnewell Child of that place. Mr. Childe is a Harvard '02 man. The ceremony took place at the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist and was performed by the rector, Rev. George Weld. Despite the strong objection by the bride's mother and her brother Charles Hodges, and the threatened prevention of the ceremoey, if possible, there was nothing to mar the occasion. Miss Hodges was given in marriage by her uncle, Amory Hodges of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant Forbes left West Manchester last week after spending the summer very quietly with Mrs. Forbes' mother, Mrs. R. C. Winthrop. The estate which they recently bought at Dover is beautifully situated in the Charles River Valley and contains about 70 acres of land. Their house, which is to be ready about Nov. 1 is in the mismion style, with a red-tiled roof, the walls of stucco work and cement. The front entrance, in Spanish effect, leads to a courtyard, and an attractive feature of the house is a loggia. There is a palm room, a conservatory, big fireplaces and everything to make the interior of the house most attractive. There is a large stable built to conform to the finish of the house, and the avenues and grounds are most effectively laid out. Mr. and Mrs. Forbes will do no entertaining this year, as they are in mourning for Mr. Forbes' father, the late Francis B. Forbes of Commonwealth avenue. The Dover colony is increasing in popular favor rapidly and from the number of houses going up there the locality, sometimes called the Norfolk Hunt club section, promises to vie with the Myopia Hunt club section as a country resort.

Mrs. William C. Paine and son, Robert Treat Paine, 2d, and family left their summer home on Coolidge's Point this week and returned to their Boston residence at 46 Mt. Vernon street.

Regent Garage.

Without doubt summer residents along the North Shore will be interested to know that H. M. Bater & Co., who have had an automobile repair shop at Manchester for some time, and who this season have had built an addition to their garage on Beach street, have erected, on Lansdowne street in the Fenway of Boston a new and perfectly up to date garage. The Regent Garage, as it is called, is certainly worthy of its name. Built of reinforced cement of the most approved construction and ideally located with easy access to Commonwealth avenue, Bay State road and Boylston street, the garage is one that is sure to be very popular among motor enthusiasts.

The main room of the garage for the washing and storing of cars is on the street level and is of ample capacity, giving quick and convenient access to all cars. Opening directly off the garage is the repair shop, which will be found to be the most fully equipped in Boston and in charge of the most experienced and efficient workmen. The remainder of the street floor is occupied by the offices and store rooms.

Theodore Roosevelt, jr., is a house guest of Lawrence Morgan at Manchester, for a few days.

Henry Clay Pierce is expected at his Pride's Crossing estate today or tomorrow to remain during the autumn. The estate has been unoccupied all summer.

C. S. Houghton and family are closing their summer home on Coolidge's Point the last of next week and are returning to their Chestnut Hill, Mass., residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse are leaving Manchester tomorrow for a two months' tiip to England. They plan to return about Thanksgiving time.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan and Col. and Mrs. Harry E. Russell left Manchester, Tuesday in Mr. Jordan's handsome new 35-45 Renault for a ten days' auto tour of the White Mountains. Mr. Jordan bought the car, by the way, on his recent trip abroad and it arrived in Boston Thursday week, so that this is its initial trip. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan are not going to the Virginia Hot Springs, as reported last week, until later in the autumn. Miss Dorothy Jordan is going over to her farm at Wenham next week to remain part of the autumn. The house at West Manchester will be closed next Monday.

At the little Episcopal church on Masconomo street, Manchester, tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 3.30 the marriage of Miss Alice St. John Nolan and Dr. J. Ramsey Hunt will be solemnized. Miss Nolan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nolan of Chicago, whose city home on Drexel Boulevard is one of the best known old places of the city. The family has been spending the summer at the Brownland Cottage, Manchester. Dr. Hunt is of 112 West Fifty-fifth street, New York city. About 100 wedding guests are expected, mostly from out-of-town, ---Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. Miss Evelyn Hunt of New York, sister of the groom, will be the maid of honor, and Dr. Charles M. C. Canac of New York will be best man. The bride will be given in marriage by her father. Rev. S. S. Drury of St. Stephen's church, Boston, will be the officiating clergyman. The ushers will be Edward J. Whitehouse, Arnold Knapp and J. C. Bishop, all of New York; Edwin Prieth, brother-in-law of tho bride, and H. E. Nolan, her brother. The church will be very prettily decorated for the event, green and white predominating. A reception will follow at the Bullard Cottage, Manchester, after the ceremony at which will be present only the intimate friends of the couple.

The F. M. Luptons, who had the Winch cottage at Manchester this season, are among the week's departures. They have taken up their winter residence on St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn, but plan to sail for Europe about the first of February. Their daughter, Mrs. Charles Courtney Hoge, and Mr. Hoge, who have also spent the summer here returned to their home in Hartford, Conn., last week. They have devoted much of their time to motoring this summer, and have found the North Shore roads ideal for this vocation.

An approaching marriage, that will be of interest to North Shore summer residents and hotel guests at Magnolia, is that of Miss Frances Newlands and Dr. Hugh Auchincloss of New York, on Tuesday of next week at Franconia, N. H. Dr. Auchincloss is well known on the North Shore and has been coming to the Oceanside hotel, Magnolia, for a number of years as have the other members of the family. Owing to the illness of the prospective bride-groom's mother, Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss, only the immediate members of the two families will be present at the ceremony and there will be no reception. Rev. Endicott Peabody, recently returned from Europe, will officiate.

Senator Beveridge Leaves.

Senator Albert J. Beveridge, who has occupied ths Rockwell cottage at Smith's Point, Manchester, for the past two months, left this morning for New York City, where he opens the Republican campaign tonight at Carnegie hall. The subject of his speech will be "Business and the Trust." The New York meeting is the first of a speaking tour which has been arranged for Senator Beveridge by the Republican National committee, and which will extend clear across the country to the Pacific coast. He speaks at Terre Haute, Ind., on "Labor" on Sept. 29th, replying to Mr. Bryan, who speaks there tonight; and on Oct. 1 he speaks at Minneapolis, Minn., on the tariff. From Minneapolis an extensive campaigning trip, embracing the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California, and returning through Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, has been mapped out by Chairman Dixon, of the Western Speakers' Bureau. The tour willl end with a big meeting at Chicago about October 17th. Mr. Beveridge has prepared a series of speeches replying to those that Mr. Bryan has thus far delivered, and the itinerary is so arranged that he closely follows Mr. Bryan in several western cities. During the year 1907 a joint debate between Bryan and Beveridge, covering practically all the issues of the present campaign, was published monthly in a popular magazine. His fitness to answer Mr. Bryan's arguments has prompted the National Committee to send him on the long tour he will make.

Mrs. Beveridge and infant will leave Manchester Monday and will go to Chicago for a visit with her parents, the A. N. Eddys.

The Brownland Cottages at Manchester-by-the-Sea are closing on October 1.

Miss Mary Green of Groton-on-the-Hudson has been visiting Mrs. Russell Sturgis, Manchester, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cutler, who have been occupying the Kirby cottage at Magnolia this season, have returned to their home on Clifton road, Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Crocker, who have been summering in the Gables cottage on Lexington avenue, Magnolia, have returned to their winter residence in Fitchburg.

Dr. Charles A. Porter is leaving Beverly Farms Sunday for his annual holiday, to be gone a month or six weeks. He is going to the Wind River Range in the Rocky Mountains, Wyoming, where he will hunt for grizzly bear, elk, and other big game.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore were among those who returned from abroad on the Republic, Sunday. The Moores went abroad early in the summer, when Mr. Moore was one of the judges in the international horse show held in England in June.

The Misses Paine have returned to their winter residence on Brimmer street, Boston, after a very pleasant summer spent at Pride's.

Miss Adele G. Thayer is away from her West Manchester cottage for a few days and is at present a house guest of the Arthur Winslows at Rock, Mass., where she is stopping on her way back from an automobile trip to the White Mountains.

Ambassador James Bryce and Mrs. Bryce are at Manchester for the balance of the season, arriving in Boston last Sunday on the Republic after spending the summer in England. They are at the British embassy headquarters and will remain until well along in October, when the headquarters will be removed to Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Bryce have been at Intervale, N. H., for a few days this week, returning to Manchester yesterday.

Myopia Wins Match.

The Myopia polo team defeated the crack Squadron A team of the New York national guard at the White River Junction, Vt., fair grounds Wednesday, before a large and enthusiastic audience. This was the first game of pony polo ever played in the state, and many witnessed the game for the first time. The teams play again Saturday.

Mrs. Jack Gardner was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Maynard Ladd at Manchester over the week-end.

Mrs. C. F. Chickering of New York is visiting her neice, Mrs. Gordon Prince at Beverly Farms, on her way home from spending the summer at Bar Harbor.

Mr. von Bruening, formerly secretary to the German Embassy at Washington, is visiting Count Hatzfeldt at Beverly Farms. The Embassy is returning to Washington on October 1.

Mrs. C. A. Porter gave a children's party at her cottage in Beverly Farms, Monday in honor of her little daughter Isabel's birthday. About a dozen children attended, each dressed in fancy costume, which greatly added to the picturesqueness of the scene. Some of those present were: Isabel and Peggie Porter, fairies; Katherine and Eleanor Abbott, flower girls; Anna Winslow, Indian maiden; Eleanor Musgrave, clown; Master Percy Musgrave, clown; Alice Cushing, spring; Eleanor Jackson, penelope.

Mr. and Mrs D. B. Wentz returned Wednesday to their winter residence at Wyncote, Pa.

Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, jr., and little children, who have been spending the summer at Coolidge's Point, left there Tuesday and sailed from New York Wednesday on the Mauretania for their home in England. Mr. Higginson returned some weeks ago.

Mrs. William H. Boardman and little daughter arrived from Cleveland Monday for a week's visit with Mr. Boardman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman at Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. Boardman had as their guests over the week-end at "Edgecliffe," their delightful summer home here, Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. S. Cowles, the latter a sister of President Roosevelt; Justice Moody of Haverhill and the Hon. Edwin Morgan, minister to Cuba. Several little luncheon and dinner parties were given in their honor, including a luncheon Saturday and a dinner Sunday, at both of which covers for fourteen were spread. Miss Mabel T. Boardman left Wednesday for a trip to New York and Washington, where she goes in connection with Red Cross matters.

Society Notes

Judge Moore left Pride's Wednesday for Louisville, Ky., in his private car, "Rockmarge," attached to a special train containing a number of his horses which he will show there.

Mrs. Theodore Lyman, who has been spending the summer with her brother-in-law, Col. Pierson at Pride's Crossing, has returned to Brookline and has opened her winter home there, "Singletree."

Among the passengers who landed from the Republic Sunday, was George R. Fearing, jr., who has joined his wife, Mrs. Fearing, at "West Side," the summer estate of her father, Alexander Cochrane, at Pride's Crossing.

Beware of Bogus Moth Men!

Supts. Morrison of the Manchester and Brown of the Beverly moth departments have received the following communication from the state superintendent, A. H. Kirkland:

"Dear Sir:—For your information, I would call attention to a case which came up for trial in the Quincy district court, Sept. 19. During the week previous, two men living in Boston had been soliciting the work of treating trees, to prevent the attacks of the gypsy and brown tail moths, claiming they were employed by the department, applying a worthless treatment and collecting money from the property owners. Before Judge Avery they were found guilty of obtaining money under false pretences and each sentenced to six months in jail."

The superintendents in this vicinity have had no experience of this kind as yet but feel that the people should be warned against this class of men, and that work of this kind should be done by competent men who have the sanction of the authorities.

Ipswich's New School.

Realizing the struggle he had to make for a place in the world and the hindrance that a liberal education along technical and business lines would have removed, the late John B. Brown a member of one of Ipswich's oldest families in his will bequeathed a good share of his fortune toward founding a school for higher education along technical and business lines to be maintained in Ipswich. Castle Hill Farm, his summer estate is to be sold, the proceeds added to the sum bequeathed to the institute, while the Rogers Manse is to be employed as a library. The institute will be located on Town hill.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry Gilman of Boston have been at Brownland cottage the past week and will remain until the coming week.

A Bryan-Kern banner will soon be flying in the breezes in Central square, through the efforts of the democratic town committee.

Mrs. Lettie Cole, matron of the Rider Home at Plymouth, with her sister, Mrs. Carrie Collins of Gloucester, were guests of Mrs. H. F. Perkins, Central square, yesterday.

An approaching marriage of interest to Manchester folk is that of Miss Grace Silsbee Kezar of Salem and Harry Guild Nichols of Manchester, proprietor of the Old Corner Store. Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Kezar have sent out invitations for the ceremony and wedding reception of their daughter on Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, at their 8 Mt. Vernon street, Salem, home. Mr. Nichols and his bride will start house-keeping in the W. W. Soulis house on Lincoln street.

Supt. of Streets Crombie has completed the concrete sidewalk from Jersey Lane to the Beverly line and is at present concreting the sidewalk on Friend's Court. The former work completes a continuous line of concrete sidewalks through the town, from the junction of Summer and Forest streets to the Beverly line. Manchester has the good fortune of having more concrete sidewalks than any town of its size in the state, it is said.

Miss Abbie Larcom left Thursday on a trip to Portland, Me.

M. J. Kelly has returned to New York after a brief stay with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Coen, on Beach street. Mr. Kelly came here expressly to see his little nephew, Bernie Coen, who has been quite ill but is now on a fair way to recovery.

It was only a fly in the big gallon bottle of orangeade on the soda counter at Cheever's but that one fly was sufficient to attract almost a score of boys to the store last night. Yet it wasn't the fly itself that attracted them as much as the orangeade, which was given away until the bottle was empted and the dead fly had disappeared.

Ray Cullen, 15, died in Newton Tuesday and his remains were brought to Manchester for burial Wednesday. He was a son of the late Mary Cullen, who was a Manchester Knowlton. The young man's death is said to have resulted from spinal meningitis.

The noon freight on Wednesday struck a dog owned by Otis Lee on the draw-bridge, knocking it off the bridge, and crushing its head in. The animal afterward strolled down the track and attracted the attention of several people in the vicinity of Beach street crossing by its cries. Patrolman Stoops was notified along in the afternoon and he proceeded to take the suffering animal to the Masconomo Park to end its misery by shooting it. He emptied his revolver on the animal, but did not seem to end its misery, though it had in the meanwhile floundered onto the flats near the pier. The officer went to the station house to get more ammunition and a pair of rubber boots and after wading out finally succeeded in ending its life, though it was a pitiable sight to see the half dead animal and hear its woeful and almost human cries before the end finally came.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Schoeffel are down to their cottage at the Masconomo, Manchester, to remain as long as this delightful weather lasts. The "Prosit", Mr. Schofield's yacht, on which he has spent much of his time this summer, goes out of commission today.

G. S. Sinnicks' workmen have been engaged the past week on repairing the chimney to the Public Library building, Manchester, and resetting the cap stones on the tower.

A BREEZE Reader inquires of us who is there of the store-keepers in Manchester who sells cigarettes to boys, and suggests that it might be well to say something about the practice in our paper. There is a society in Boston, we were informed, that keeps a sharp look-out for such breakers of the law. Our informant states that he saw five school boys having a "quiet" smoke on their way to school the other morning.

AT the special town meeting in Manchester next Monday evening the question of purchasing the Manchester Electric Co., comes up and the citizens will be given another opportunity to vote on the issue. It is to be hoped that as large a number of the voters as possible will be out to this meeting so that as complete an expression as possible may be obtained. Many who voted against the proposition before have since expressed themselves as favoring the project and that they would vote in its favor if brought up again. It appears to us that this is a good business proposition for the town and that it would be unwise to let the opportunity slip by to purchase the plant, which is one of the best constructed in the state for a small town, and which is now on a paying basis.

A WOMAN went into the shop of Charles Bedell, the blind man, on Central street, Manchester, one day recently and giving Mr. Bedell a one dollar bill told him it was a two and received back change for a bill of that denomination.

Now the Breeze has from time to time chronicled the progress of the two shops established in Manchester the past summer,—one by Mr. Bedell and the other the "Handicraft Shop for the Blind," and our people as a whole have manifested much interest in the two shops. A great deal of the success of such efforts depends, of course, on the honesty of people who deal with these blind workers, and the implicit confidence which the blind must put into people dealing with them in order to do any business.

Anyone who takes advantage of this confidence placed in the public in general by these blind workers and cheats them in the manner as described above is of no credit to society. A man or woman who would do such an act ought to be ashamed of themselves!

Correspondence

While our columns are always open for the discussion of any relevant subject, we do not necessarily indorse the opinions of contributors.

Correspondents will please give their names—not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

Magnolia, Mass., Sept. 23, 1908.

Editor North Shore Breeze:

"A Friend of the Clubhouse" asks if "Live and Let Live" will tell why the new clubhouse should hurt the welfare of Magnolia? It will hurt it in this way,—by taking away the means of getting a living from those who are engaged in taking boarders and lodgers. Two of these houses are kept by widows. Is it right to deprive them of their livelihood? Perhaps the promoter of the clubhouse can devise some way by which we may get our share out of it it.

"Live and Let Live."

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Electric cars for Manchester! There were "wild" rumors the first of the week to the effect that Manchester was about to vote on the proposition at a special town meeting called for next Monday night, for the warrant read plainly "for furnishing light, heat or power for the operation of cars of a street railroad company," etc. It seems that the constable in copying the original warrant omitted one word—"except." It was quickly changed so as to read "except for furnishing light," etc.

More imported bugs portends what? All sorts of good devouring things are expected of that Japanese parasite of the gypsy moth; but let's not be too sanguine of the excellent result of its proposed work. We have tried these bug importations. They have been offered to us as good goods; their preying qualities have been exploited, and lo! deceit lurked within them. Landed in a new country, under new skies, and presto! their mode of meal-getting changed. They developed new tastes and new appetites and new foraging desires; as eating bugs they remain with us, but as pest-destroyers—many times in this role they never for us existed. This new Japanese parasite is as large as a match-head. Its eggs-laying is supposed to take place on the pestiferous caterpillars. The egg numbers are large. Forty or fifty eggs placed on one caterpillar ought to help him on to glory, but bless the exploiters of this new moth-destroying thing, they say, solemnly, "it is too early yet to say positively whether the parasites are established." There's no lying or false prophet about these men, is there? In the meantime we must wait until gentle spring puts on her mantle of green before we can either laugh or cry or say "I told you so!"—Boston Times.

Mrs. Hannah H. Sampson.

Yet another of our summer residents has been taken by the hand of death. On Sunday, Mrs. Hannah H. Sampson of Boston and long a summer resident of Magnolia passed away at the home of her son, Calvin P. Sampson, on Summer street, in her 91st year. Mrs. Sampson was a native of Duxbury, the daughter of Gideon and Olive Harlow, and was the widow of Calvin C. Sampson of Boston. Funeral services were held at Mt. Auburn cemetery Wednesday.

Auto Accident.

Selectman George Lockhart Allen is confined to his home on Central street, Manchester, and Miss Helen W. Ford of Youngstown, O., who summers with her mother, Mrs. J. S. Ford at Manchester Cove, is confined at her home today and will be for several days to come, no doubt, as the result of an auto in which they were riding Thursday afternoon turning turtle and throwing them out. Mr. Allen is not seriously injured, though he was stunned by the accident and was unconscious for some time. He was considerably shaken up, but his injuries were not of a serious nature.

Miss Ford was shaken up also, and received a severe gash on one knee, but no bones were broken. Her mother, Mrs. Ford, was in the car also, but she escaped with only slight bruises. The chauffeur, too, escaped injury.

That no one was seriously injured is almost miraculous, and is due to the fact that the car was going at only a moderate rate of speed at the time.

Mrs. Ford and daughter were out for a ride and at Ipswich they met Mr. Allen and were bringing him home to Manchester. On the Beach Road they met another auto going at a high rate of speed, it is said, and in turning out to let it pass, they run into the gutter, the spring breakbing. The chauffeur lost control of the car momentarilly and before he could bring it to a stop it passed over the embankment and turned over.

Golf at Myopia.

Golf has again been a feature at Myopia this week. The invitation tournament began on Tuesday and from the start lay with P. W. Whittemore of the Country club. In the qualifying round his score was 79, the best by three strokes that has been made at Myopia in an invitation tournament. In the second round and semi-finals played Wednesday, Whittemore still maintained his lead, defeating Templeton Briggs at the 19th hole and later downing T. M. Claflin, jr., 3 up and 2 to play. Thomas G. Stevenson of the Myopia Hunt club also played very good golf and defeated Hugo R. Johnstone in the forenoon and Fred Herreshoff in the afternoon. Whittemore's play in the finals yesterday was most excellent. His score for the first 18 holes was 78 the best score made in the match. The finals were won by Whittemore, 7 up and 6 to play.

Miss McNamara announces that she is at Manchester-by-the-Sea for the season, and that she has removed from the cottage at 39 School street to Friend's court (off School street). Treatment of the scalp, shampooing, marcel waving, manicure. Telephone 164 Manchester. *

George H. Martin.

George Henry Martin, one of Manchester's old and respected citizens, passed away at his home on Burnham's Court, Tuesday morning, after a prolonged illness, at the age of 75 years, 7 months, 23 days.

A native of Manchester, Mr. Martin has spent his whole life here, and he was one of four brothers enlisting in the Civil War. He is the last of a family of four boys and three girls.

Mr. Martin was born Jan. 29, 1833, in the house on upper School street where John Bennett now makes his home. He was the son of George P. and Sally (Carter) Martin.

He enlisted in Co. D 2d Mass. Cavalry on Dec. 28, 1863 and was discharged on May 17, 1865. He joined Allen Post, 67, in 1883. He was also a member of Magnolia lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., being a charter member of the lodge. He was affiliated with the Baptist church.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Crowell Memorial chapel, the Rev. E. Hersey Brewster coming on from Norwood to officiate. The G. A. R. and I. O. O. F. conducted their services at the grave. The bearers were George Jones and John Haskell, representing the post, and Otis M. Stanley and E. A. Lane, representing Magnolia lodge.

Mr. Martin is mourned by a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Foster, and two sons, Fred and Frank Martin, all of this town.

Out of Tune

An ache or pain is a discord in nerve harmony. There is a strain or irritation of some nerve, caused by the existence of some unnatural condition. Pain subsides only when nerve harmony is restored. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills soothe the nerves, and in this way relieve pain and distress. When you consider that all pain is in the nerves you will understand that treatment must be through the nerves.

"My wife and daughter use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for pains from any cause. with best results."

Magnolia

Miss Jessie MacKenzie is enjoying a short vacation at Gloucester before returning to New York for the winter.

Miss Anna Chane has entered the Salem Commercial school, where she is studying shorthand and typewriting.

Among those who are attending the Rochester fair this week are Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler and their son H. W. Butler, jr.

Miss Frances Libby started this week on a ten weeks' vacation abroad.

The Oceanside, Hesperus and Aborn hotels closed Monday for the season.

Francis H. Abbott has been drawn as juror to the October (civil) term of the superior court at Newburyport.

The Magnolia fire department deserve great credit for their prompt response to an alarm rung in from the box at Stanley's corner, Tuesday evening at 7.45. The auto owned by Charles E. Phenix, manager of the Oceanside hotel, caught fire from "back-firing" while running to Gloucester. An alarm was run in and after a quick run, the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the flames before any serious damage was done to the machine. The chauffeur, Howard Eaton, who was driving the car, crawled in under the blazing auto and turned off the supply of gasoline, thus avoiding the danger of an explosion. The car was towed to Boston for repairs Wednesday and the damage is estimated at about $300.

Mrs. John E. May, who has been visiting her old home at Trollhatten, Sweden, is expected to return the first of October on the Ivernia. Mrs. May left on her trip the latter part of July and went to England, where she spent a few days, and then went on to her friends and relatives in Sweden.

The storms of the past month have washed up onto the beach at Magnolia a vast amount of seaweed, which in many places is a couple of feet deep. The fumes and gases from the decaying rockweed have become very obnoxious to the cottagers living near the beach. It has been stated by several of the cottagers that the acid in the fumes from the beach has turned the fronts of the houses black. This, perhaps, is an exaggeration, but certainly one can see a marked change in the color of some of the houses. It has also been stated that the silverware, where it has been at all exposed to the air, has been turned black. It seems as though something should be done towards the remedying of this evil. To say the least the gases are unhealthy and that should interest the board of health in the matter.

Rufus Stanley.

Manchester, as well as Magnolia, is mourning the death of Rufus Stanley, for many years a resident of Manchester but for the past 27 years a citizen of Magnolia, where he passed away at his home on Western avenue, Friday, at the age of 85. Born in Beverly, the son of Paul and Mahama (Thissell) Stanley, his boyhood days were spent there. Later he moved to Manchester, where he married Miss Emily Lee. Here he learned the cabinet making trade and for many years conducted a mill and furniture shop. In 1881 he moved to Magnolia and took up farming as a pursuit.

Funeral services were held Sunday at his late residence and on Monday afternoon at the Crowell Memorial chapel in the Manchester cemetery, where the body was interred. He is survived by a widow and four sons.

Deceased was one of a family of five sons and two daughters, and is the last but one of the family. The only surviving member is Jeffrey T. Stanley, of Manchester.

Joint Caucuses Held at Magnolia.

Forty-two votes in all were cast at the joint caucuses held at Magnolia Tuesday. Thirty-six republican votes were cast and six democratic. The result of the balloting:

Republican:

State—Charles H. Barrett.
Councillor---Ephraim R. Andrews.
County---Ralph W. Dennen.
Congressional---Thomas J. Waldron.
Senatorial---Hardy S. Holmes.
Representative 21st Essex District---Sidney Gardner, John S. Abbott, Patrick M. Longan.
Ward Committee---Ralph W. Dennen, Joseph W. Andrews, Charles H. Barrett, William F. Ireland, Ephraim R. Andrews, Clarence G. Wilkinson, Hardy S. Holmes, George H. Morse.

Democratic:

State---Lafayette Hunt.
Councillor---James R. Pringle.
County---Gilbert Crispin.
Congressional---James Chane.
Senatorial---George H. Morton.
Representative 21st Essex District---George H. Morton.
Ward Committee---Lafayette Hunt, Cornelius Murphy, George H. Morton, Gilbert Crispin, Daniel Chane.

The completion of the new platform at the rear of the Magnolia station is a decided improvement on the general appearance of the station.

The Essex County Poultry association outing at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, Thursday afternoon, proved a most enjoyable affair for all who attended,---and there were very nearly 100 present, including Mayor Dow of Beverly, Secretary Pillsbury of the State Highway commission, Selectman Gibney of Hamilton, and many others more or less prominently known hereabouts.

The dinner was served at 2 o'clock and was a regular "sit down," furnished by the Dirigo Co., of Beverly. Turkey and all the "fixins" composed the meal, with plenty of ices, and cool drinks. The dinner was well gotten up and well served.

Both before and after the dinner everybody joined in having a jolly good time and the hen and poultry business was not the only thing discussed, by any means.

Baseball was played in the morning and again in the afternoon and considerable amusement was afforded when a hurdy gurdy man appeared on the grounds.

A son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Smith Wednesday morning.

Rev. Charles Logue of Freeport, L. I., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Connolly, Oak street.

The annual meeting of the Sarah W. Whitman club for the election of officers will be held on Oct. 7 at the home of Mrs. Lydia Williams, Hart street.

Frank L. Woodbury and family will move into their new house on West street, just completed, on Monday next. The suite of rooms on the second floor will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pierce, who will also move in next Monday.

The Preston W. R. C. fair on next Tuesday, the 29th, at Marshall's hall, will afford an evening of amusement and entertainment, at which also articles, useful and fancy, and refreshments will be for sale. On Wednesday evening a grand ball will be held in Neighbor's hall. The public supper given by them from 5.30 to 7 o'clock on Tuesday evening in the banquet hall of the G. A. R. building will be well worth going to, as a good meal consisting of cold meats, salads, hot beans, coffee, and other good things can be had for a very small price.

The meeting held last night toward effecting the organization of a republican marching battalion was attended by many of the young men and it is safe to say that the plan will go through. Another meeting will be held at the same place next Wednesday evening. Meanwhile a committee will look into the matter of funds and other details. The uniforms will probably be the same as four years ago and the name will probably be the same,---"West Beach Tars."

Perkins—Frost.

Charles Wayland Perkins of Chicago, and formerly a large leather manufacturer of Peabody, was united in marriage with Mrs. Asenath Marshall Frost, at the home of the bride, in Beverly Farms, Thursday evening by the Rev. Clarence Strong Pond. Mrs. Perkins is the widow of the late Dr. George M. Frost, for many years a leading physician of this section.

The wedding was a complete surprise to Beverly Farms folk, many of whom will not know of the happy event, probably, until they read it in this paper. Mrs. Perkins has made her home with her sisters, Mrs. James D. Hooper and Mrs. Benjamin Ober on Hale street.

Mr. and Mrs. Perkins left on the 9.13 train Thursday evening and after a week's sojourn at Newport, Vt., they will reside at Chicago.

CENTRAL SQUARE :: MANCHESTER, MASS.

:: Beverly Farms ::

At the session of the probate court last week the will of B. Frank Hawkins was proved, Arthur D. Prince, executor.

George Tingley, engineer at the West Street fire station, is now enjoying his annual vacation, spending it in this vicinity.

The invitation dancing party given in Neighbor's hall, Tuesday evening by the B. F. M. C.,—a party of eleven Farms young men, proved a most enjoyable affair.

About 100 men, members of the St. Margaret church parish, are planning to form a battalion to march in the parade at Boston, in November, attendent upon the 100th anniversary of the diocese.

A well attended meeting of the young men of the Farms was held in Marshall's hall last evening for the purpose of forming a Taft and Draper marching battalion. Much interest was aroused and the prospects seem good that such an organization will be formed. Any information desired may be obtained from the chairman, William R. Brooks or other members of the Ward 6 city committee.

A raid was made on the Beverly Farms house, Wednesday afternoon, by Officers Jones, Whittenhagen and Williams and bottled goods in the shape of whiskey and beer was found in sufficient quantity to fill a barrel. The liquors were taken along to the station as was the proprietor of the establishment, Edward J. McGann, who was placed under bonds for his appearance at court when the case comes up for trial.

In view of the reckless speed that the autos have been allowed to run through the Farms, and the sad accident which occured on Haskell street, Wednesday, the Farms people are unanimous in declaring that it is about time that it was stopped. Haskell street, which is more or less occupied by school children, and Hart street are two streets that some autoists seem to consider are speedways and it is indeed fortunate that more serious accidents have not occured.

Killed by an Auto.

Donald Gilmartin, the seven year old son of Daniel Gilmartin of High street, Beverly Farms, died at the Beverly hospital Wednesday night as the result of injuries sustained by being struck by an auto driven by Charles W. Amory of Boston, a summer resident of Pride's. It is said that the child was standing on a stone step at the side of the road and that the auto came along close to the sidewalk going at a rapid pace. Attempts were made to stop the machine, but, before it could be brought to a stand-still, the boy had been struck.

Mr. Amory took the lad into the car and carried him to the hospital, but his injuries were of too serious a nature to allow of any hope of his survival. After taking the boy to the hospital, Mr. Amory went to police headquarters and gave himself up, but was released on $5000 bail.

John West Colony Election.

At the last meeting of the John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—A. N. Marshall, governor; Howard E. Morgan, lieut. governor; Reuben E. Grush, secretary; F. W. Varney, treasurer; Elmer Standley, collector; Harold Bennett, sentinel at inner gate; George Wood, sentinel at outer gate; W. H. Gerrish, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. George Wood, dep. sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. W. H. Gerrish, chaplain.

Several applications for membership were proposed and the outlook for the coming year is very encouraging. The meeting voted to hold a public installation in Neighbor's hall on the third Friday in October, conducted by the supreme officer and suite. The public at the Farms are cordially invited to attend.

Republican Caucus at the Farms.

The republican caucus held at the Farms Tuesday evening was a lively one and a couple of large touring cars and a barge were kept busy gathering the voters. Eighty-eight votes were cast in all. Councilman Charles H. Hull was elected warden, Alex Campbell clerk and Duncan T. Smith, Thomas Gauld and W. B. Publicover, tellers. J. M. Publicover, the Frothingham delegate, received 54 votes against the 30 cast for Howard B. Williams, favorable to Cole. The other delegates chosen were:

Congressional convention — Howard C. Williams.

Councillor convention—Howard E. Morgan.

Senatorial convention—William R Brooks.

20th Essex representative convention—Albert Standley, Frank E. Cole and Eli R. Hodgkins.

City committee, George H. Bennett, William R. Brooks, James B. Dow, Howard E. Morgan and Albert Standley.

Democratic Caucus at the Farms.

"Seven of us" met at the democratic caucus held in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening. Councilman John C. McCarthy was elected chairman and Lawrence J. Watson, clerk. The following delegates were elected to the various conventions:

State---L. J. Watson.
Councilor---J. C. McCarthy.
Congressional---T. J. McDonnell.
Senatorial---John Bresnahan.
County---John E. Cahill.
Representative---Daniel M. Hallesy.
City committee---John C. McCarthy, L. J. Watson, T. J. McDonnell, John E. Cahill and John Bresnahan.

Miss Barbara Daniels is the new operator at the local telephone exchange.

Frank E. Cole of Pride's has accepted and entered upon his new duties as night watchman upon a summer estate at the Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace P. Reed of Pittsfield have spent the past week at the Farms visiting relatives. They return home tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Linehan returned Tuesday from a two weeks' vacation trip spent principally at Sharon Springs, N. Y.

The staff of employees at the Farms station were looking their "prettiest" Wednesday, due to the fact that they made numerous "poses" for a photographer—in groups and singly.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Cole (nee Alice Witham) returned Wednesday afternoon from their honeymoon trip to Bethlehem, N. H., and are now cozily settled in the "Lovering cottage" on Hale street.

Ray Cullen, a boy of 15, well known about the Farms, passed away at Newton, Sept. 22, and his remains were brought to Manchester for burial Wednesday. He was a son of William T. and the late Mary Cullen, former Farms residents.

These are busy days for the employees at the local railroad stations, due to the "homeward bound" movement, which necessarily means the handling of large quantities of baggage. From the Farms freight yard the past few days have gone several car-load shipments, including two cars of horses and carriages for H. P. McKean and D. B. Wentz, of Philadelphia and Wycote, Pa., respectively.

Beverly's Tax Rate.

Beverly's tax rate, as announced by the assessors Saturday, for the coming year will be $17.40 on $1000. This is an increase of $3.00 on $1000 over the rate of last year, but has been expected on account of the additional state tax which this year is increased $10,800. As compared with the rate of 1906 there is a decrease of 60 cents on the $1000, while on the other hand, there is an increase of 60 cents over that of 1905.

There has been a loss of $3,600,000 of the assessed valuation of personal estate by the settling up of the estates of E. C. Swift and Mrs. Susan B. Cabot.

The valuation and poll list of Ward six is as follows:—Polls,—482; personal,—$2,047,150; real,—$1,819,350.

Mrs. Daley and family, who have occupied the John L. Eaton tenement opposite the Farms depot during the summer, moved back to Boston the first of this week.

Misses May D. and Gertrude Connolly will open their Farms classes in gymnastics and dancing in Marshall's hall the first week in November. As last year there will be the senior and junior divisions. The exact date of the opening will be given later. The terms will be the same as last year.

A number of Farms people went to Chelsea Monday and saw the second big fire in that "doomed" city in progress. Charles F. Day, who happened to be working at his trade as mason on a nearby bullding, did good service and worked like a trojan helping to save the household goods belonging to occupants of some of the burning tenement houses.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. George S. Hadley entertained the Sarah W. Whitman club at her home, 58 Hart street. Among other business theauditing of the recent fair accounts was gone over and showed a tidy sum to the good, which will be of much benefit to the club in its future work.

Miss Britton, a teacher in the public schools at Winter Hill, was in town over the week-end a guest of Miss Elsie Preston.

Miss Gertrude H. Connolly has spent the past few days at Worcester, the guest of Miss Mamie Murray, a Sargent School classmate.

The "first" public whist party of the season is announced for Friday evening, Oct. 2, in Marshall's hall, under the auspices of John West colony. Tickets 20 cents.

The September issue of "Practical Politics" has a fine picture of Rept. W. R. Brooks and a biographical sketch of the good work done by him while in the legislature.

The Seaside club, headed by Martin Lawlor and Thomas Murray, gave their dance in Neighbor's hall last evening and a big crowd was out for the event. The prize waltz was an interesting feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bartlett removed from here to their old home in Amesbury, Wednesday, much to the regret of their many Farms friends. Mr. Bartlett has concluded his season's engagement as engineer on the Mickey II, the Hooper motor boat.

The late B. Frank Hawkins was a member of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, and carried an insurance for the full rate,—$2000. The promptness with which this order recognizes death claims can be illustrated in this particular, for in less than 24 hours after the death certificate had been filed the check for the full amount was placed in the hands of the family of deceased.

Howard A. Doane, the contractor, sailed from Boston Monday for a week's visit with his mother at Shelburne, N. S.

The Pride's Crossing "shore girls" and a large party of invited friends held a "basket picnic" in Marshall's hall Monday evening. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Harry Howell has been quite ill the past week with acute indigestion and on Tuesday he was taken to his home in Gloucester for treatment, where he has gradually improved.

Arthur J. Harlow, Thomas F. Bresnahan, Arthur M. Day, George S. Day and Edward Decost have all reached the required age of 21 and have by their recent registration become Ward 6 voters.

Those who have been fortunate enough to receive an invitation to the North Shore Girls' invitation party in Neighbor's hall next Thursday evening are sure of a good time.

Howard P. Williams and Benj. F. Hawkins left the Farms last Saturday for a trip by boat to Halifax, N. S., and while looking over the country in that vicinity have been guests of Mr. Hawkins' relatives.

The fish wiers and traps located off Chubb's and Misery Islands have been catching good hauls of large size herring, but the owners have had some difficulty in disposing of their catches to good advantage, owing to an overstocked market in this line.

There was "music in the air" in the vicinity of the Farms railroad station Wednesday, but music of the kind that was not appreciated by those in the immediate vicinity. A car load of hogs from the Beverly Farms piggery was shipped away.

Stephen J. Connolly's "Nixie II" won the Jubilee Yacht club race at Beverly last Saturday and won a leg in the cup offered. Mr. Connolly had as one of his crew James B. Connolly, the famous writer of sea stories, who has been spending the summer at the Farms.

The 7th Boston Food Fair.

Aside from Sousa and his famous band, the most conspicuous feature of this year's Boston Food Fair will be the interior architecture, magnificent decorations and unique scheme of illumination, all of which have been especially designed and executed by Mr. M. A. Singer of New York, at an enormous expenditure. As far back as last June, Mr. Singer and his force of artisans took possession of the Park Square Coliseum and began construction of that unprecedented scheme of beautifying the setting for the big exhibits, the various show features, and amusement attractions, which will strike the visitor at once upon entering the main exhibition hall as fairly eclipsing in splendor King Solomon's Temple.

They're Sure to Create Impressions from the Outside, as to What One Might See Within.

Your Window Draperies

Your entire home is judged by them, your taste is indicated through them and yet they are not given at all the attention their value should command. How many windows in your travels to and fro attract your attention twice? Only a few, but those few leave with you the fixed impressions that those homes are furnished in excellent taste. Yours might be held in quite the same opinion—yes, and without that terrible expense you imagine it would mean. Effects in window hangings this season are superb.

There are novelties galore. Foreign fabrics and notions have been taken and copied here at home cutting the cost almost in two.

And Laces are now so pretty they almost demand that you discard the old.

Our Drapery Corner is a cheerful, restful, and altogether an extremely interesting spot to visit. A half hour looking we feel would be your time very profitably spent.

This afternoon?

Well, any day now. Fall Line all here.

A. C. Titus & Co.

Mechanics Building Food Fair.

Over one hundred thousand dollars' worth of attractions will be given absolutely free to all patrons of the great New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition which will be open from October 5 to 31, inclusive, at the usual place for all of the big fairs held in Boston for many years,—the well known Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue. The immense and sumptuous feast of free entertainment which can be enjoyed after one passes the turnstiles, is really astounding almost beyond belief. The daintiest food stuffs and all sorts of economic and utilitarian devices for the household, particularly for the kitchen and dining-room, will furnish countless hours of the most interesting and valuable study.

REFUSE TO PURCHASE PLANT.

Special Town Meeting at Manchester to Act on Purchase of Manchester Electric Co. Plant Decided Against the Purchase by Four Votes.

By the same small margin by which it was voted once before not the purchase the Manchester Electric Co., it was voted on Monday night at a special meeting called for the purpose, not to purchase the plant, the question being lost by only four votes. A two-thirds vote is needed on questions of this kind. The vote Monday night was 291; necessary for a choice 194. The vote was 190 in favor to 101 against. While the vote showed that the majority of voters favored the project there were not quite two-thirds in favor of the plan.

THEIR FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Allen Post 67, G. A. R. of Manchester, Celebrates Anniversary with Outing at Tuck's Point. Old War Songs Sang Again, and Chowder Dinner Served. Speech Making.

Singing their old war songs and recalling in reminiscent vein the days of '61---'65, listening to speeches by the department officers and other guests, the members of Allen Post 67, G. A. R., of Manchester, observed the 40th anniversary of the institution of the organization, with an outing and camp-fire at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, Tuesday. Some 125 members and friends, including a delegation of 26 members of Post 45 of Gloucester, were present.

Despite the inclement tendencies of the weather in the early morning the day turned out to be an ideal one for an out of-doors affair. A chowder dinner was served at one o'clock and this was followed by speech-making.

Dept. Commander Alfred S. Roe.

Long before noon the veterans began to arrive at the Point and the hours before the dinner was served was spent in renewing acquaintances, handshaking and recalling the days of the war. Quoit pitching was engaged in by a number of the veterans, too, and some excellent skill in this sport was displayed.

Among the guests of Allen post were delegations from the W. R. C., S. of V., and Associates of the post.

Alfred S. Roe, commander of the Department of Massachusetts, came on from Worcester for the occasion and said before leaving that he had attended many of the anniversaries, but none of them had he enjoyed so much as this visit to the seashore. Mr. Roe was formerly principal of the High School at Worcester and at present has supervision over the evening schools of that city.

The assistant adjutant general of the Mass. Dept., Wilfred A. Wetherbee of Boston, was also present. Mr. Wetherbee was at one time commander of the department.

Another state officer present was Edward L. Rowe of Gloucester, the chief mustering officer.

MANCHESTER'S NEW HIGH SERVICE STANDPIPE.

The picture shown below is not of Manchester's new concrete standpipe, to be built in connection with the new high service system, but it will suffice to show in a general way what the new standpipe will be like. The picture is of Waltham's concrete standpipe.

Concrete Standpipe at Waltham

The contract for building the new standpipe in Manchester, as announced last week, has been awarded to Simpson Brothers Corporation of Boston, at a cost of $29,150. It is to be of re-inforced concrete, the re-inforcement consisting of outside and inside steel hoops, with cement in between.

The standpipe will be 70 feet high and will have a dome shape tiled roof, the apex being 80 feet from the foundation. The walls will be 20 inches thick at the bottom and taper to 12 inches at the top.

A concrete balcony will run around the top, reached by a ladder from the outside, and a ladder will also descend to the bottom on the inside.

As to capacity, the new standpipe will hold 1,100,000 gallons, double the capacity of the present standpipe. The work is guaranted against leakage for one year, under a bond of $10,000.

The standpipe will be built on Moses Hill at a grade of 275.

The cut printed with this article is loaned through courtesy of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., of 24 Milk street, Boston, whose Pine Cone Lime is to be used in the construction of the new standpipe.

A little group present that found much pleasure in recalling reminiscences of their war days were four who had served on the old Frigate Colorado and had seen much active service in the Gulf of Mexico. They were Henry T. Bingham and Dennis O'Sullivan of Post 67, and George H. Clark and George J. Hickman of Gloucester.

Promptly at one o'clock Adj. Rivers gave the signal that the chowder was ready and Comrade E. P. Stanley and others did some valiant service in "gathering 'em in" and getting the crowd seated around the tables, and soon, by the assistance of some of the members of the camp, and some of the Post members, steaming bowls of clam and fish chowder and cups of hot coffee were on the tables.

A good chowder always tastes good, but somehow it tastes at its best when served at the famous Tuck's Point picnicing grounds. This was especially true of the chowder served on this occasion. Everybody was loud in their praise of the excellently prepared dish.

The dinner over and tables cleared of part of the "ruins" of one of the most delightful "battles" the veterans had fought for years, Commander Crombie called the gathering to order at 1.50 and in a brief address welcomed the veterans and invited guests on this anniversary occasion and expressed the hope that all would have such a good time that they would come to the 80th anniversary, forty years hence. He introduced E. P. Stanley as toastmaster.

Mr. Stanley said in taking the floor that probably some of those present remember some of the "toast" in the army,—"toasted" on the end of a bayonet. He said it would be very pertinent on this occasion to hear something of the history of the post and introduced Adjutant Rivers.

History of the Post.

A synopsis of the history of Allen post was read by Adj. J. H. Rivers. We present a few extracts from Mr. Rivers' paper:

"Post 67, Dept. of Mass., was granted a charter by Dept. Com. A. B. R. Sprague, countersigned by Thomas Sherwin, jr., asst. adj. general, and was instituted on the evening of Sept. 29, 1868, in what was then known as Haskell's hall, on Central street, now an annex to the Manchester House, by Comrade C. W. Thompson, acting asst. adj. general, the work of the order being exemplified by Com. Benjamin F. Cook and members of Col. Allen post, 45, of Gloucester. The following names comraded were the charter members of the post: William A. Stone, Andrew J. Crowell, Charles H. Stone, Edwin P. Stanley, Julius F. Rabardy, Charles W. Pert, Charles H. Dow, William E. Wheaton, William H. Bingham, Larkin W. Story, Alfred S. Jewett, Albert W. Haskell, Simeon T. Swett, Henry T. Bingham and Charles P. Crombie. Of those named seven---W. H. Stone, A. J. Crowell, C. H. Dow, W. E. Wheaton, W. H. Bingham, A. W. Haskell and C. P. Crombie---have joined the G. A. R. in the Eternal Camping grounds above.

"The officers of the post chosen and installed in their respective offices on that evening were: Wm. A. Stone, com., Wm. E. Wheaton, s. v. c.; S. T. Swett, j. v. c.; A. S. Jewett, adj.; A. J. Crowell, q. m.; C. W. Pert, q. m. s.; J. F. Rabardy, surg.; E. P. Stanley, chap.; C. H. Stone, s. m.

"On Jan. 13, 1869, the post adopted the name of Abraham Lincoln post, 67, but as there was a post of this dept. already bearing that name, on Dec. 16, 1869 the name was changed to that by which it is now known,---Allen Post, 67, in memory of W. H. and Isaac F. Allen, brothers, and Edward F. and Benjamin Allen, all of this town.

"Nov. 17, 1869, the post quarters were removed from Haskell hall to what was then called Chapel, or Samaritan hall, on School street, in the building now used as a store by F. H. Dennis, and as tenements above. They remained here until Jan. 27, 1887, when they removed to the S. P. Allen building on Bennett street. They remained there until Dec. 2, 1887, when they again moved to the hall in the Memorial building, presented by Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, where we still remain and probably will stay as long as the post exists.

"During the 40 years since our organization 13 comrades have had the honor of commanding the post as follows: Wm. A. Stone, 1¼ years; Edwin P. Stanley, 6½ years; Chas. W. Pert, 2 yrs.; H. F. H. Miller, 2 years; John L. Eaton, 4 years; A. S. Jewett, 1 year; Jeffrey T. Stanley, 3 years; H. T. Bingham, 4 years; Robert C. Calder, 2 years; Enoch Crombie, 8 years; Nathaniel Morgan, 1 year; James H. Rivers, 2 years; John G. Haskell, 1 year.

"There has been inscribed on the rolls of the post the signatures of 96 comrades, and of that number 34 have passed away, 15 have been transferred to other posts, five have taken an honorable discharge while 16 others for various reasons have lost their membership in the order, and today as we celebrate our 40th anniversary there are 26 comrades in good standing in the post."

The paper further recalled some of the principal events in the history of the order, such as the purchase of flags, lot in the cemetery, monument, pictures, etc., and in closing referred to the two auxiliary orders as follows:

"I think that no other post in this dept. is blessed with any better corps or camp than is Post 67. Allen corps, 119, has at all times since its organization been ready to devote time and money to the interest of the post and we owe them more than we can ever repay them. May they continue in the good work until the last veteran is 'mustered out.' We also are indebted to Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., for their interest, being ever ready to lend a helping hand on Memorial Day and on all other occasions when assistance is needed in performing our duties to the living or dead. May they live and prosper and finally carry on the work which we are now doing on Memorial Day, that its significance may never be lost sight of by future generations."

Some of the Remarks.

In response to the toast "Our Country, first, last and always," all united in singing "America," after which the adjutant read letters of regret from Cong. A. P. Gardner, Past Dept. Com. A. B. R. Sprague and Past Dept. Com. James H. Wolfe.

To the toast "The G. A. R. of Today," Dep. Com. Roe responded with a bright and eloquent informal speech, filled with anecdote, paying an especially fine tribute to General Sprague, whom he credited with the honor of having installed more posts than any other man, and now after forty years, he is still greatly interested in the order despite his 81 years. Allen Post, the speaker said, was one of the first he had instituted.

In reference to some of the old war songs he said that every now and then some student of history would discover that John Brown wasn't of any importance and why should he have been immortalized in "John Brown's body lies a-moulding in the grave." "But he was the John the Baptist of the righteous cause we went out to fight for in '61."

"Forty years ago about this time we were whooping her up for General U. S. Grant. I remember I came home from college,---almost 300 miles and cast my first vote for president. Somebody questioned my right to vote, but I replied that I had the right to carry a gun in the war just closed, and there was nothing further said about my right to vote, and whether I was old enough."

Commander Roe told several amusing stories and talked most fluently in a patriotic strain and was generously applauded when he had completed his remarks.

All joined in singing "We are the Boys," after this, and to the toast "The W. R. C., Mothers of Patriotism," Mrs. Enoch Crombie, whom the toastmaster termed the "mother of corps 119, wife of Commander Crombie and the first president of Corps 119," responded with appropriate remarks. She said that since a little girl she had always

Mrs. Elizabeth Tappan returned Wednesday afternoon from a ten days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. James Murray.

At the probate court Monday a letter of administration was granted Benj. L. Allen on the estate of the late Evelina F. Allen.

Mrs. F. P. Yorston and son of Sawyerville, Que., are paying a visit to the former's sister, Mrs. R. T. Glendenning, Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Florence have moved from the Baptist parsonage on School street and have leased the Furguson cottage on Allen's avenue, though they will spend the winter in Boston as usual.

Mrs. W. A. Ball of Athol has been a recent guest of Mrs. Arthur S. Dow, Beach street, returning here with Miss Elsie Dow, who paid a short visit to Athol. Mrs. Ball is now visiting friends in Beverly before returning to her home.

Manchester was represented in thbig Grand Army parade at Lynn last Saturday by fifteen veterans, Allen post be. ing on the tale end of the first divisions It was one of the most successful paradee of the Essex County posts in years. On Lynn Common some 9000 school children, all dressed in white, waving flags, cheered the veterans as they marched by.

Ten new names were added to the lists of voters at the last meeting of the registrars, some of them becoming voters for the first time. They are: John B. Mactaggart, Robert T. Glendenning, John F. Bates, Thomas Connors, John J. Wynne, Edward J. Neary, James J. Hurley, Philip Stockton, Lee W. Marshall and Harry R. Floyd. The last two have just attained the voting age.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis F. Bohaker, Smith's Point, was the scene of a very enjoyable party last Saturday evening, it being a surprise party given in honor of Myron Small's 21st. birthday. The young man was taken entirely by surprise, but nevertheless he proved an entertaining host and a delightful evening was spent. Dainty refreshments were served. One of the interesting features of the evening was "slight-of-hand" tricks by Reuben Ford of Washington. Among the guests were Misses Silpha and Mary Bushion and Edward May of Beverly Farms, Misses Flora Deal and Hattie Faulkenham of Lawrence, William McDonough of Dedham and Mr. Ford of Washington, besides many guests from town. Miss Faulkenham and Miss Deal have been spending the past two weeks visiting Mrs. Bohaker.

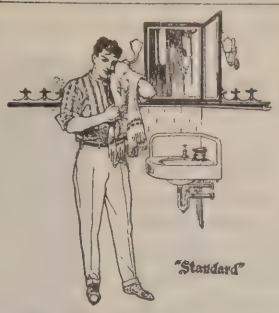

A son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dougherty, School street, Saturday, Sept. 26.

Miss Alice Knight has taken up her work in the senior class at Posse Gymnasium, Boston, the past week for the year. She is living in Boston this winter.

William L. Hill of Winthrop paid a short visit to his grandmother, Mrs. Mary E. Hill, Norwood avenue, Monday. Mrs. Hill, who is in her 95th year, is holding her own remarkably well for one of her age.

George L. Knight returned Monday from a short vacation trip to North Sutton, N. H., where Mrs. Knight has been making an extended visit. Mrs. Knight is now in Philadelphia, but is returning home shortly.

Alfred E. McCleary of Maynard, formerly associated with Mr. Lodge in publishing the Breeze, was in town over Sunday, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lodge. Mr. McCleary is now practicing law in the Exchange Building, Boston.

Ambassador and Mrs. DesPlanches, who have been spending the summer at the J. Randolph Coolidge, jr., cottage, Manchester, left Wednesday afternoon for Washington, with a brief stop-over in New York. The Italian embassy headquarters has consequently been transferred from Manchester to Washington the past few days.

Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce returned to Manchester Wednesday from a few dsys' visit at Intervale, N. H., and on the South Shore. At Intervale they were guests of Professor Merriman of Harvard and from there they went to Cotuit, Mass., to spend a few days with Professor Lawrence Lowell. Professor Lowell, by the way, has recently completed a book treating with the "Government of England," just put on the market.

The daily papers have been making much adieu over the fact that "Teddy" Roosevelt, jr., had decided to go to work instead of returning to Harvard, and Mr. Roosevelt has been constantly beseiged by newspapers and reporters on his recent visit to Manchester, when he was a guest of Lawrence Morgan, at Smith's Point. The fact is Mr. Roosevelt started work yesterday with the Hartford Carpet Co., of Hartford, Conn., and is starting at the bottom of the ladder and learning every step of the business. To the ordinary young man it wouldn't matter much; but, the President's son! It makes all the difference in the world, from the newspaper standpoint. Mr. Roosevelt completed his four years work at Harvard in three years.

Hunt—Nolan Nuptials at Episcopal Church, Manchester.

The only society wedding of the season at the North Shore was that at the little Episcopal church on Masconomo street, Manchester, last Saturday afternoon, when Miss Alice St. John Nolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nolan of Chicago, and Dr. J. Ramsay Hunt of New York city were united in marriage.

The picturesque little church, the scene of so many weddings in the past, was comfortably filled with friends and relatives of the bride and groom, many coming from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. The church was prettily decorated, green laurel and white dasies predominating in the decorative scheme.

The ceremony was performed at 3.30, the Rev. S. S. Drury of St. Stephen's church, Boston, officiating. The boys' choir from St. Stephen's rendered several selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Evelyn Hunt of New York, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and the best man was Dr. C. N. B. Camac of New York. The bride's gown was white velvet, trimmed with old point lace. She wore a veil. The bridesmaid's dress was cream Irish lace.

The ushers were Edward J. Whitehouse, Dr. Arnold Knapp, James C. Bishop and A. B. Strange of New York, and H. E. Nolan of Chicago, brother of the bride. A reception was held after the ceremony at the Bullard cottage at Old Neck, Manchester. This was attended by only the intimate friends and relatives of the couple. Mrs. Nolan assisted the bridal couple in receiving. Her gown was Chinese embroidered crepe.

The Nolans have been spending the summer at Brownland Cottage, Manchester. Their city home is at 4941 Drexel Boulevard, Chicago, one of the finest old places in the city. Mrs. Hunt has spent four years in Europe and like her married sister, Mrs. Edwin Prieth of Montclair, N. J., completed her education abroad. She recently completed a tour of the globe with her parents, the trip taking forty months. Two of her brothers are Yale men,—Julian St. John Nolan, '95, and Harry E. Nolan, '97.

Dr. Hunt is one of New York's best known young physicians. He is a member of the Union, Racquet, Tennis and Ardsley clubs.

Dr. and Mrs. Hunt will make their home in New York, at 112 West 55th street.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Frederick H. Prince has added to his real estate holdings at "Princemere," his Wenham estate, 2½ acres of land in Hamilton and Wenham recently purchased from William Standley et al., and John F. Morgan of Beverly.

The bungalow being built for Mrs. C. A. Munn on the estate which she occupies on Beach street, Manchester, is well nigh completed. The building is about 40 x 50 and is built on very attractive lines. In the living room, which is about 25 x 35, is a large open fire-place, and two bed rooms open off of this. Electric heaters are being put in as part of the fixtures. The bungalow will be used by Mrs. Munn's sons, who are in Harvard, for week-end parties during the winter, though Mrs. Munn plans to keep the house open late this fall and will return to Manchester early in the spring so as to be near her sons at Cambridge.

Real Estate Issue.

It is not generally known that lumber of all commodities has dropped most in the recent panic. Nor is it known that as a result, just now is the best time to build. This is so from the fact that as soon as business resumes its normal proportions prices will go soaring again. And our forest fires of this summer will not help to keep prices down this coming winter and spring.

The Boston Evening Transcript on Saturday Oct. 3 will publish three important articles on this subject:

Review of Realty Conditions during the year.

Some of the Important Real Estate Transactions of 1908.

These will make interesting reading for everybody, especially for those who have in mind the subject of owning their own home some day.

Incidentally this issue will, as a consequence, be well patronized by real state advertisers. *

To be the nominee of two parties at once is an honor that seldom comes to those who follow alluring will-o-the-wisp "politics," but that exceptional honor seems to have fallen this year on Hon. James E. Tolman of ward three, who in the twenty-second representative district which embraces wards three, six and seven, has been made regular nominee of both the Republican and Democratic parties. His name will therefore stand as Republican-Democratic on the official ballot.---Cape Ann News.

A daughter this morning, Oct. 2, to Mr. and Mrs. David Crowley, off Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marden of Amesbury spent Saturday and Sunday, with Mrs. H. F. Perkins, Central street, having attended the G. A. R. parade at Lynn.

The senior class at the High school —1909— is to hold a candy sale on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, Oct. 10, in the little shop off the Village Green occupied the past season by the blind girls. Hot chocolate, candy and cake will be for sale and incidentally next year's graduating class make their initial semi-public appearance. They are looking for good patronage.

The old Danforth house, one of the oldest houses in town, is being torn down, thus removing one of the old landmarks. It is said that the house dates back to revolutionary days. Frank P. Knight owns the property, which adjoins his own house on Church street.

The Gloucester Teachers' lecture course, so popular the past two winters, is to be continued again this winter, and the first lecture will be given next Friday, Oct. 9. There will be eight lectures this year, and Prof. Griggs will be the first to speak. The Manchester teachers and others interested are planning to take in the course.

Next Wednesday evening---Oct. 7---will be an important one for the members of Conomo tribe of Red Men, for on that evening in connection with the opening up of new life in the fall and winter meetings of the order a special entertainment and social will be given, which a score or more "palefaces" have been invited to attend. Past Great Sachem Wm. A. Scampton of Roslindale will be present and will deliver an address at the smoke talk. A chowder supper will be served. Plans are being made for making the evening a gala one, and members are expected to turn out in large numbers.

That it is necessary for you to come in person to our store in order to do your shopping. Of course, we are always glad to see our patrons, but there are many times when you will find it more convenient to mail your order, to use the telephone or have our salesman call at your home. Any or all of these avenues are open to you and it makes no difference which one you may elect to use, so far as the service we render is concerned. Every order we receive gets an equal share of care and attention. We make every effort that each customer of ours may receive the fullest measure of satisfaction.

Alfred C. Needham is on a few days' business trip to New York City and Philadelphia.

Another invitation dancing party is announced for the evening of Oct. 8,—next Thursday, under the auspices of fourteen young men.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Nolan of Jamaica Plain were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mulvey, Norwood ave.

Miss Augusta Friend left yesterday morning for her home in Minneapolis after a month's visit among her friends in Manchester, during most of which time she was a house guest of Dr. Blaisdell and family. Her brother, Fred Friend, and family came on from Minneapolis early in the month and spent ten days, but Mrs. Friend and little twin daughters did not return until yesterday.

George A. Norris, for the past three years operator at the Manchester railroad station, is starting today on a month's vacation, the first part of which he will spend at his home in Gloucester and the balance on a trip to Montreal and Quebec. George, as he is so familiarly known to patrons at the station, is not to take his journey alone, but will be accompanied by a bride, for he is to become a benedict, an announcement which will be read with surprise by his friends here, no doubt. Next Wednesday evening, Oct. 7, Mr. Norris and Miss Genevieve Mary Curzon, the daughter of Captain and Mrs. John Curzon of Gloucester, are to be united in marriage at St. Ann's Parochial residence, and after a small reception they leave on their honeymoon trip. They will reside at 64 Grove street, Gloucester.

Selectman G. L. Allen, who has been confined to his home on Central street all the week as the result of an automobile accident at Ipswich last Thursday, as related in our last issue, was able to get up yesterday though he is still in the care of a trained nurse. His bruises were only of slight nature and the report in some of the papers that he had contussion of the brain was absolutely unfounded. A complete nervous shock is the extent of his injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Johnson returned last Friday from a fortnight's vacation trip to Montpelier, Vt., and vicinity.

At the probate court in Salem Monday an inventory was filed on the estate of John L. Story of Beverly, formerly of Manchester, $11,260.25.

Mrs. David McKinnon is a guest of friends at Winona, N. H., for a few days.

The private dancing party of the Manchester Crickets is being held in the Town hall this evening.

Sergeant Leonard Andrews is enjoying a ten days' vacation from his duties on the night police force, beginning last Saturday night. Chief Peabody completed a ten days' vacation on the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. L. Allen are leaving Monday for a fortnight's camping out trip to Conomo Point, Essex, where they have hired "Basswood Cottage." Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. May of Magnolia are also there for a few weeks, having a nearby cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Davis left this morning for their home in Springhill, N. S., after a month's visit with their daughter, Mrs. John F. Babcock and family, School street. Mr. and Mrs. Davis took in the Brockton Fair Wednesday and had a highly amusing time.

Rev. and Mrs. Jonn H. Quint of Rockland, Me., who with their little daughter have been spending part of a month's vacation with Mrs. Quint's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lane, Vine street, left a few days ago for Annisquam. They are going to Falmouth next week, where Rev. Mr. Quint formerly preached, to attend the 200th anniversary, and from there they go to Chicopee for a few days before returning to Rockland.

Deacon and Mrs. J. A. Torrey have returned from a fortnight's visit among friends in Andover and vicinity. They are planning to live in Boston again the coming winter.

Many Manchester people have been taking in the Brockton Fair the past week. Wednesday seemed to be "Manchester Day," among the crowd attending on that day being the following: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stanley, Miss Mary Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Callahan, B. M. Crombie, Frank H. Crombie, John F. Babcock, John Heath, Frank W. Bell, Henry S. Dennis, E. Wallace Stanley, Joseph McNeil, E. H. Wilcox, John Scott, Frank P. Bullock, Alhanan Babcock, D. E. Butler, Geo. Matheson, Chas. L. Lucas, Chas. Bigwood, Abbott Hoare, Walter Howe and Warren Heath.

Edward Wilcox is having a fifteen days' vacation from his duties at the local postoffice.

Edward Percy Lane left Tuesday to resume his position in New York, after a seven weeks' vacation, spent mostly with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lane, Vine street.

North Shore's Style Store.

23rd ANNUAL OPENING of Fall and Winter Fashions
COMMENCING OCTOBER 6th.

For years this store has been looked up to as the Style Centre of the North Shore. How well we have succeeded in maintaining this pre-eminence for the past season: how remarkably comprehensive and elegant the new stocks are, it is the intention of this opening to demonstrate.

The store will be artistically decorated in fitting Autumn Style and we have prepared some exceedingly Fine Values in seasonable merchandise. A visit to each and every one of our deparmtents during the week commencing October 6th, should prove of lasting interest and profit to all.

For full particulars see our large advertisment in the Salem Evening News, Monday, October 5th.

Town Clerk and Mrs. A. S. Jewett are expected to return today from their month's trip to Saratoga and Canada.

Officer Stoops corrects us in our statement of last week that the dog which he shot on the flats near Masconomo Park, was not struck by the afternoon freight, but that the animal had a fit and fell off the draw-bridge, knocking out one of its eyes in the fall.

Mrs. A. E. Marshall is having her fall and winter opening of hats next Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 6 and 7.

There were few days in August that bathing at Singing Beach was more enticing than last Sunday. The water was in the neighborhood of 62 degrees and the air was warm and the sun was shining brightly. It was in all essential respects a nice summer's day. Scores took occasion to enjoy a dip in the water and loll about in the sand.

M. F. Murphy and family are leaving Manchester the first of next week for Boston, where they have taken apartments in the Fenway district near the Brookline line. Mr. Murphy has given up his work entirely with Mrs. E. B. Everett of the West Manchester summer colony after being groom for the family for about 20 years, and is to engage in business for himself at No. 6 Byron street, Boston, where he will have for sale and to rent high grade saddle and harness horses. Mr. Murphy's brother, Joseph, succeeds him as groom with Mrs. Everett.

Augustus A. Smith.

Augustus A. Smith passed away at his home in Attica, N. Y., on Friday morning of last week after a week's serious illness, following an operation at a hospital there. He was about 70 years of age.

Mr. Smith was a native of Manchester, being a son of the late Augustus W. and Lydia (Knight) Smith, whose home on Smith's Point is commonly designated as the "Smith Homestead." Funeral services were held Monday. Frank P. Knight went on from Manchester and attended the funeral.

Deceased is mourned by a widow, who was Miss Mary Kilham of this town, a son, Augustus W. Smith, and a daughter, Mrs. Ralph W. Lee of Washington.

"WHOSE reward was a large basket of fruit, each piece ellipsoidal and colored a bright yellow with a greenish tinge," is the suggestive expression used by Town Topics in saying that a Newporter, to use the vernacular, "got the lemon."

WHAT a splendid month September has been! North Shore people are beginning to learn that the "summer season" does not end with August and that September and October are in many respects the most attractive months of the year on the shore. The weather of the past month has certainly excelled in most respects the days of June or July. A great many families all along the shore are planning to remain this autumn until the "last gun is fired." More houses than usual are to be kept open all winter.

DEMORALIZING TO CHILDREN.

Comic Supplements of Sunday Newspapers Severely Condemned.

One of the chief features of the American playgrounds congress held in New York last week was the spirited attack of a young Cincinnati woman, Miss Maud Summers, on the comic sections of Sunday newspapers. Miss Summers, one of the best known story tellers for children in this country, was vigorously applauded when she declared that in these papers emphasis was placed on deceit, on cunning and on disrespect for gray hairs.

"The comic supplement of the Sunday newspapers is lowering the standard of literary appreciation," said she, "and debasing the morals of the children of this country. It teaches children to laugh when boys throw water from an upper window upon an apple woman or outwit an old and infirm man. Humor has its place in the literature of childhood, and it would be well if gifted writers for children could be found capable of substituting genuine fun for the coarse, vulgar type now so prominent.

"The child learns in but one way—by reproducing in his own activity the thing he wishes to be. By means of the imagination the child forms a mental picture, which he holds in mind and strives to imitate. Therefore the most vital purpose of the story is to give high ideals which are reproduced in character.

"In consequence it is of the utmost importance that the story shall have at its heart a spiritual truth, or, in other words, that it shall have a right motive. This truth may be any one of the many virtues, such as generosity, kindness, hospitality, courage, heroism and chivalry. It should be worked out in terms of cause and effect, according to the immutable law of literature, the law of compensation which rewards the good, and of retributive justice, which punishes the bad."—American Press.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Our attention was called lasst night to the condition of a portion of the sidewalk in front of a certain store in Manchester, by the proprietor of the store, and we were requested to say something in the paper of the habit some people have of leaning up against some of the store windows and "decorating" the sidewalk about them with expectoration. This is a bad practice and should be stopped in some way. The particular case in question was one of the worse sights of the kind we had noticed on our streets for some time. The board of health should tack up notices about spitting on streets as is done in other towns and cities and then have the police enforce the law.

New Train Schedule.

In fact, there is no new train schedule as far as the North Shore is concerned, for when the winter arrangement of trains goes into effect next Monday, the arrangement on the Gloucester branch does not change, but remains precisely as it has been all summer, with one exception that the two Saturday afternoon trains,—leaving Boston at one o'clock and returning from Rockport about 2.45—are taken off. A minor change in the running schedule of one train is also noted,—that of the early evening train for Boston. This will go up the branch now ten minutes later,—leaving Manchester at 6.31 and Beverly Farms at 6.38.

Certainly nobody ought to find fault with this arrangement. Fifteen regular passenger trains each way daily between Boston and the North Shore, and nine trains each way on Sunday.

N. S. Horticultural Society.

The discussion committee of the North Shore Horticultural society,—A. Shaw, J. Scott and A. E. Parsons—are planning to put some new life into the society this winter and to make the meetings of interest, so that the members will come out in larger numbers. To this end, and as a beginning, they have sent out notices to members for the meeting tonight calling attention to the meeting and to the fact that Wilfred Wheeler of Concord will be the speaker.

A Question Box is to be instituted at the meeting tonight, too, and this ought to prove an interesting feature as there will be, no doubt, some difficult querries from time to time. Light refreshments will be served tonight, as is usually the case at the meetings, anyway.

It is reported that there will be exhibited at this meeting an enormous pumpkin, and the committee very suggestively asks in their notices: "Have you got anything to bring along for the exhibition table,—a handful of fine dahlias, some extra fine corn, or a new variety of bugs?"

Let the BREEZE do your printing whenever you have any. Prices reasonable, work always done promptly and neatly. *

Nervous—Weak

If you are nervous, irritable, restless, have no appetite, and do not sleep well, your nerves are weak. They are not furnishing enough power to keep the organs vigorous. They are doing their work imperfectly. Dr. Miles' Nervine is the best restorative for nerve exhaustion. It renews strength and vigor. Try it, and see what good results follow.

"I find Dr. Miles' Nervine most excellent medicine for quieting the nerves, inducing sleep and invigorating the system. The Nerve and Liver Pills are an excellent accompaniment of the Nervine."

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Porter, jr., have returned from a fortnight's visit to Jackson, N. H., with the latter's mother, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth, who also returned to her estate at Manchester Wednesday, making the trip by auto. Mrs. Wigglesworth's son, Edward, returned from spending the summer in Europe Friday week, being a passenger on the Mauretania. Mr. Porter went over to New York to meet him, and he has since been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Porter. He is now back to Harvard taking a post graduate course.

Miss Mary C. F. Stuart of London who in July upon her arrival in this country was the guest of the Misses Colgate Colby at their Beverly Farms cottage, returns to the North Shore today after three weeks passed in Philadelphia and Canada and will remain with the Misses Colgate Colby until sailing October the sixth for her home in England.

Mrs. J. Walter Scott and daughter Ruth, who have been the guests of James Scott will return to their home in Lowell the last of the week.

An alarm was rung in at Box 85 Wednesday morning about six o'clock. The fire department responded and found the unoccupied house owned by Dr. E. A. Dakin of Beacon street, Boston, on Summer street, enveloped in flames. The fire was soon under control and the house was only partially destroyed.

Mrs. Henry Brown was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Ellen McCormack of Manchester, on Tuesday.

A number of villagers have attended the Brockton Fair this week.

The new store of P. S. Lycett is nearly finished and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Mrs. Eliza Crombie of Manchester was the guest of Mrs. Rufus Stanley on Wednesday.

The Ladies' Aid society are having improvements made on the parsonage during the absence of Rev. F. J. Libby, who is on his vacation in the South.

Mrs. Delia Barter arrived home yesterday after a visit in Maine.

Inward Trains Will Have Right of Way

On and after next Monday an important change will take place in the system of running trains on the Boston and Maine road. Heretofore the rule has been that outward trains must have the right of way. They must start exactly on time, regardless of the inward trains, and on the line they must be given the right of way over inward trains in all cases. Hereafter inward trains are to have the right of way. Whatever happens, "get in on time" must be the effort. This is the result of trains being continually late into Boston, which has frequently proved a serious annoyance to business men and to those wishing to make connections out of Boston.

been taught respect and reverence for the soldier. For nearly 40 years she had been trying to take care of a G. A. R. man and to what degree she had succeeded those present could judge.

Asst. Adj. Gen. Wetherbee responded to the toast "Our Flag." The speaker paid tribute to the W. R. C. and complimented the post on the local corps. He said, pointing to the flag, that it was the services rendered by the veterans in 1861-5 that gave us this flag for which he was asked to speak. "For four long years you followed that emblem", he said. "It is indeed the 'Flag of the free'. It never knew and never will know defeat. Today it is the flag of the whole nation, made so by the services you rendered. The Southerner is just as willing to offer his life to defend it as you are. In 1898 it was shown to the world what America was and what it could be, and since that time no international question had arisen but what the other countries looked to the U. S. to see what action we would take.

"Today all the president of the U. S. has to say is 'Our country is in danger; we need men,' and he would soon have ten millions of men ready for service."

Mr. Wetherbee told a few stories and anecdotes. The old soldier may be grey, he said, but he is young in heart and it does them great deal of good to get together occasionally and whoop her up. "Let us show the coming generations that as you fought in war as good soldiers, you are today good citizens. There is no better example to place before the children than the G. A. R. Try to have them grow up to respect and reverence 'Old Glory.'"

The singing of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys" came in very appropriately here.

The next toast was "The Army Chaplain", and Rev. Fr. Wm. F. Powers responded to this. He paid tribute to Fr. Scully of Cambridge, chaplain of the Mass. Department, G. A. R., telling a story about one of his "kind acts" in war times, his story being supplimented by another by Com. Roe.

Continuing, Fr. Powers' remarks, were more along the line of why he believed in the G. A. R.

"In the ordinary human life," he said, "40 years stands for all the joys, all the sorrows and I might say all the experiences. This post has had its joys and its sorrows, and its experiences, and whatever might have been its joys and its sorrows, the experience has been a rich one, not only for the post but for the community. Every society is to be judged by the end toward which it is working. Of all human societies the G. A. R., I think, stands first in all our broad land,—it does more to perpetuate the spirit of fraternity and love. It teaches grand lessons to the younger generations."

The speaker referred to the liberal spirit shown as regards religious liberty, —the absence of sectarianism. Religious differences made no impression on the great cause. While it is true that the great majority of veterans have been non-Catholics the G. A. R. has not been loathe to honor our Catholic friends. As examples he referred to Fr. Scully; Arch-Bishop Ireland, Chaplain in Chief of the G. A. R.; John E. Gilman, past dept. Commander and former Adj. Gen. in Chief of the U. S. A., and his wife, Mrs. Gilman, recently honored by being chosen head of the W. R. C.; "Johnnie" Linehan of N. H., head of the Dept. of N. H., and Past Com. in Chief Kountz of Ohio. He believed the G. A. R. had done and was doing a great deal toward doing away with religious bigotry and bringing about a common level of citizenship.

Francis M. Stanwood, of the Smith's Point summer colony, for so many years connected with the old Boston Journal, was called upon to speak representing the press. He spoke of his remembrance of the stirring times connected with the outbreak of the war and of his vivid recollection of the 12th. Mass. Regiment so well remembered in connection with Manchester, how when a member of the Boston Latin School he with other members were invited to see the drill at Fort Warren and how the school took down a small emblem to present to Co. D.

He paid tribute to the memory of General Grant whom he characterized as one of the great soldiers of all times and spurned the efforts of critics of war times to show that Robert E. Lee was the great soldier. It is most arrant nonsense to place Lee on the same plane with Grant, he said.

Col. B. F. Cook of Post 45, Gloucester, made a few remarks and the closing song "Marching Thro' Georgia" brought everybody to their feet. Three cheers for the flag by all, and three cheers for Allen Post brought the celebration to a close.

The oldest person present was Jeffrey T. Stanley, a member of the post, who is over 80 years, and the youngest was the little one-year old daughter of Adj. Rivers.

B. S. Bullock was the caterer.

At the anniversary of Allen Post at Tuck's Point, Tuesday Comrade D. O'Sullivan and one of his old shipmates, Mr. Hickman of Post 45, Gloucester, met for the first time in 48 years. Mr. Sullivan in telling of the affair says "We hadn't seen each other since the night we were together in Pensacola Harbor. We went in the first launch at the cutting out of the Privateer Juda; two men were killed in the same boat and three were wounded. We shed tears of joy when we met Tuesday, as neither one of us had seen each other since that time, until the anniversary."

Among those who attended the anniversary of Allen Post Tuesday were Mrs. D. O'Sullivan and her neice, Miss Mabel Moses. Miss Moses who is on from the West for a visit, was greatly impressed by the gathering Tuesday and the expressions of joy that lighted up the faces of the old soldiers as they met, in some cases after an interval of many years, especially in her uncle's case, who met an old shipmate whom he hadn't seen in forty-eight years.

REFUSE TO PURCHASE PLANT

It is likely that this will settle the matter as far as the purchase of the plant and franchise by the town is concerned. The option expired early in September anyway, and this second opportunity to vote on the question was given, because the vote before lacked only three of being in favor.

The meeting was called to order at 7.38 by Acting Town Clerk L. W. Floyd, who read the warrant. The hall was more than half-filled, and by the time the warrant was read there were over 300 persons in the hall, though they were not all voters.

Art. 1. On motion of F. J. Merrill, R. C. Allen was elected moderator. The matter of the Pine street lay-out was first taken up on motion of F. K. Hooper. E. S. Knight, chairman of the board, presented a report in which it was shown that by the new lay-out 37 sq. ft. is taken from M. J. Callahan and an award of $1 is made; 3000 ft. is taken from estate of Mrs. Nancy Hobbs, award $1500; 945 ft. from estate of Harriet C. Kitfield and others, award $150; all of the above on the easterly end of the street, near Central street, and on the westerly end, near Pleasant street 63 ft. is taken from Frank P. Tenney, award $10, and 210 ft. from estate of Abigail Dodge, $25. The owners are given 60 days in which to remove buildings, trees and fences.

W. C. Rust moved the acceptance of the lay-out and that the awards be allowed. Voted unanimously. Mr. Rust said that it would be a good plan to build right away and not wait until next spring when everybody is busy. E. S. Knight said that it was estimated the cost of construction would be $1800, and the total land damage was $1666. $3500 was appropriated to cover everything.

The moderator appointed W. W. Hoare, P. A. Wheaton and R. J. Baker, tellers.

Art. 2. Purchase of electric light plant. W. C. Rust took the floor.

Mr. Rust said that it was well known that he had been a little grain notorious when anything in the line of improvements have come up and had always taken a prominent part in laying out the parks, the playgrounds, water works, new streets, etc., and he had been accused of spending a great deal of money foolishly. There are always some who say that. The greatest job he had ever had anything to do with was the saving of the beach band for the town, and this he did though it cost the town $100,000. All of these things, he said, were for the good of the town, for the more of these attractions the town has, the better off it is.

William Swanson arose to a point of order, his point being this talk had nothing to do with the subject. Mr. Rust stated, that he was relating his connection with these matters to illustrate his interest in the question at hand. The moderator said he could continue with reasonable limit.

Mr. Rust then said that the town of Manchester is having people come here from all parts of the country,—wealthy people, and the town ought to make all the improvements it could to attract these people. The time is coming, he thought, when electricity can be purchased cheaper than it can now. It has been said that these parties who own the plant want to unload it on to the town, but I'm going to show that these people don't want to get rid of it because it is not a paying proposition. They have two offers for it now.

Mr. Rust pointed out that the receipts of the company for year ending July 1, were $18,821.11 and the expenditures were $17,244.94, leaving a balance to the good of $1576. That was with a capitalization of $200,000. They propose selling it for $135,000. Mr. Rust produced further figures which showed that there are 894 tax payers in the town, who pay a total of $120,182. Out of that number only 60 of the "natives" pay $50 or over, amounting in all to $5600, not much more than one-half of what Mr. Coolidge pays, and of that 60, 20 pay $100 or over. There are 281 in town who pay $50 or over, and 221 of that number come here to spend their summers. They pay over $100,000. Now the people in Manchester talk about paying taxes, and how the purchase of this plant will affect them. The increase to the man who pays $50 would be so insignificant that he wouldn't know it, even if the rate did rise.

These "summer people" pay the town $138,000 for the privilege of spend- their summers here. When they come here and pay the whole of the taxes, you might say, why should we say they shouldn't buy this plant if they are willing to pay for it.

E. P. Stanley moved that the privilege of the floor be extended to tax payers of Manchester present tonight, who are not voters. Voted.

Albert Cunningham asked the reason for calling this second meeting.

The moderator stated that a petition from the citizens called for the meeting for this specific purpose.

F. J. Merrill said that Mr. Dexter, one of the directors of the Manchester Electric Co., was present, and would, no doubt, like to speak on the question.

Mr. Dexter said he would like to take this opportunity of correcting several erroneous ideas people seemed to have. First of all, he said, the town was under no obligation whatever to buy this plant. Some have said that it would be a matter of bad faith if the town did not buy the plant, but he wanted it distinctly understood that the stockholders went into this matter with no false apprehensions. They knew that the town did not have to buy the plant unless it wanted to.

Second, he said, this question has nothing to do with street cars. The legislature forbids towns to manufacture electricity and sell to street railway lines, and so the motion had to be worded that way.

Third, this is not a proposition to manufacture electricity, but whether to purchase the Manchester Electric Co., which is merely a distributing plant.

Fourth, this meeting is not called at the instance of the summer residents.

"When we undertook to build this plant we did so because electric lights were needed in the town. The town had placed itself in a position where it could not have lights for some years, and we tried to bridge over that span. We are now stuck with the plant. If the town does not want it, somebody else will. I have had five people to see me about the plant. The question for the town is whether the plant is worth the price. The original cost was very nearly $200,000. An underground system in a town like this is a great extravagance, but we tried to put in a good plant.

"Your committee thought $200,000 more than the estimated cost, so we knocked off $50,000, and by their shrewdness they got us to knock off $15,000 more for cash. If the town wants an electric light plant they get it cheap for $135,000."

Mr. Dexter then read part of a confidential report of an engineer he sent here to look over the plant. "This is not a cooked up report to sell a bad egg to a succor," he said. "As for taxes, nobody wants to pay higher taxes. So far Manchester has run its affairs very well. No reason why it couldn't run this. There are 27 stockholders in this company out of 181 summer residents. Do you suppose 147 who do not own stock are going to let 27 others place a gold brick onto the town? Not like summer residents."

W. C. Rust said that nobody wanted a foreign corporation to come in here and get control of this franchise.

C. C. Dodge inquired how long these underground cables last, and what was the price, per foot or per mile.

Supt. Cushing of the company said that the life of a cable varied accorbing to voltage; no reason why our cadles will not last over 20 years; cost varies as to size, from 20 to 75 cts a foot.

Wm. Swanson inquired what was the vote of the last meeting. The moderator replied that 167 votes were cast; 112 necessary for choice; 109 yes, 58 no.

This lacked three votes of the necessary two-thirds.

Mr. Swanson supposed the town voted once not to buy the plant. And does it require another vote? To which the moderator replied that the town did not vote not to buy the plant, but failed to vote for it.

Mr. Swanson said that the town voted against this thing five years ago. Some made up their mind they would build the plant anyhow. Now they say it is paying, but they are willing to take off $50,000 from the cost, and if the town pays cash they will take off $15,000 more. If this was a paying proposition would they be willing to take off $65,000. I'd advise the town to keep out of this; if they have a good paying proposition let them keep it. If they want to sell it let them sell it to some outside party.

P. H. Boyle, referring to Mr. Swanson's remarks about it not mattering who bought the plant, said it made a big difference to the town who owned it. He was very much averse to letting any corporation come in here and owning the franchise. If a corporation buys it, it can be depended upon that they will not conduct the business for their health; they will make some money out of it, and the townspeople will suffer the consequences. He admonished the voters to stop and think before letting this opportunity slip by. "If you want a rod hanging over your head vote for it."

F. K. Hooper spoke of the development of the town, and the opposition that had always arisen when questions similar to this had come up before, the water system for instance. He believed the town would act wisely in purchasing the plant.

C. C. Dodge: "Usually when matters come up before the town calling for an expenditure we hear a report from our Appropriation Committee. We haven't heard a word from them on this."

Moderator: "There is nothing for them to act upon; there is no appropriation of money called for."

M. E. Gorman said he had felt the way Mr. Swanson did about the matter prior to the first meeting, but after hearing such men as Major Higginson advising the town to purchase the plant, he felt that a man of Major Higginson's judgment could be followed.

Mr. Swanson hoped the gentlemen used his own brains, not Mr. Higginson's.

F. J. Merrill corrected an impression made by Mr. Swanson that an article in the Herald said the worse thing Wakefield ever done was to run its own plant. He said the idea the article gave him was that a town made a mistake to try to run a plant as cheaply as it could without any provision for the future of the plant.

P. H. Boyle again spoke about the necessity of the town keeping the franchise out of the hands of a foreign corporation.

The vote on the question was put and the balloting commenced at 9.25. The ballot box was closed at 9.55. The result of the vote was: Total vote, 291, necessary for choice 194, "yes" 190, "no" 101.

Art. 4. On motion of E. P. Stanley $400 was appropriated for addition expenses in police department.

Art. 6. To give the selectmen the right to rent "Row Schoolhouse" property, so-called. As there was some question as to the rights of the town in this respect, the matter was left in the hands of the selectmen to find out who actually owned the property.

Emmanuel Church, Masconomo St.

Services Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock.

Congregational Church, Manchester, Oct. 5. 10.45 a. m. Rev. George Washburn, D. D., will deliver an address on Turkey. 7 p. m. service conducted by the pastor; subject: "Gnats and Camels."

Rev. George Washburn, D. D., who will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational church, Manchester, Sunday morning has spent his life in Turkey and as president of Roberts College in Constantinople has familiarized himself with conditions among the Turks and in view of the changes going on there his address on Turkey will be of great interest especially so to those interested in international affairs. Dr. Washburn has been one of the potent factors in the beneficial change that is being wrought out there and is an authority on the subject. No one should fail to hear this address. Everyone will be welcome to attend this service.

Rev. Robert M. Martin of Salem preaches at the Baptist church, Manchester, again Sunday. Rev. Mr. Frost, the pastor-elect, will take up his pastoral duties the following Sunday,—Oct. 11. His household goods are expected to arrive from Skowhegan, Me., the coming week, and Rev. and Mrs. Frost will arrive during the week. They will live at the Baptist parsonage, School st. The parsonage is being equipped with fixtures for electric lights. G. A. Knoerr is doing the work.

Beginning next Sunday the evening service at the Baptist church, Manchester, will begin at 7 o'clock, instead of 7.30, and the B. Y. P. U., will be a half hour earlier also,—at 6 o'clock. The Tuesday and Friday prayer services will be at 7.30 instead of 7.45.

The topic for this Friday evening's meeting at the Baptist church, will be, "The Jews, and their relation to Christians."

The Ever Ready Circle of Kings Daughters will meet next Monday evening, Oct. 5, with Mrs. Levi Harvie. The circle is planning to hold an entertainment and sale in the Town hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 15. A Baby Show will be held in the afternoon.

Next Monday afternoon at 2.30 the ladies of the Congregational church will meet in the Chapel to pack a barrel to be sent to a school in Hennessey, Oklahoma. This is a most worthy object and those having clothing or anything suitable to be sent away in this connection will do well to bring same to the Chapel next Monday afternoon.

The Ladies' Social circle will meet at the Chapel next Wednesday evening. A large attendance is desired as a matter of importance is to be brought up at the meeting.

The initial "supper" of the season under the auspices of any of the church societies was that held in the Chapel Thursday evening following the annual meeting of the Missionary society in the afternoon. A "baked bean" supper was served, and was attended by about 80 persons. The supper was well prepared and the tables were prettily decorated with flowers. Mrs. Washburn, wife of Rev. Dr. Washburn, who has been engaged in mission work in Turkey for so many years, gave a very interesting talk on Turkey in the afternoon. The following officers were elected: Mrs. L. H. Ruge, president; Mrs. Simeon Haskell, vice-pres.; Mrs. Charles R. Peart, secretary; Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe, treasurer of foreign missions; Mrs. Anna Phillips, treasurer of home missions; Mrs. Susan Knight, member advisory committee. Mrs. Hinchliffe succeeds Mrs. Dr. Glendenning, who had served as treasurer of the society for ten or more years.

A Birthday Social was held in the Vestry of the Baptist church, Thursday evening under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U., and despite the rain a large number were out. The entertainment feature included vocal solo by Miss Emma Prest; piano solo by Miss May Rogers and readings by Mrs. Ellery H. Rogers and Miss Effie Stidstone. Graphohone selections by Mr. Mitchell were also given. Refreshments of cocoa and cake were served.

Baptist church, Beverly Farms. The pastor, Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, will preach Sunday morning on "The Future is Opportunity." In the evening his subject will be "What is on your mind." Lord's Supper at close of morning service. Mid-week service on Wednesday at 7.45, subject: "The Value of Hope to Christian Faith."

The annual meeting of the Beverly Farms Baptist church will be held at the church this evening.

Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn of Beverly will preaeh at the St. John's Episcopal church, Beverly Farms, Sunday at 11 o'clock.

Literature Appreciated.

Those who have contributed literature to the Sailor's Haven of Charlestown will be interested in the following extracts from a letter to the "Book Mission" of Manchester from Stanton H. King:

"The three barrels of periodicals and the box will be very acceptable to us. I am sincere when I tell you that we are short of reading matter, and you cannot send us too much. We average 400 men a day at this institution, and these men are asking for reading matter to take to sea.

"If you were to load an ocean liner with reading matter I could use it, so do not be afraid of overloading me. Thanking you for your kindness in this matter. I am

"Gratefully yours,
"Stanton H. King."

New England Food Fair, Mechanics Building, Boston, Opens October 5.

Some wise man once declared that facts were stubborn things. Certainly they are realities and have got to be reckoned with in all sorts of endeavors, great or small, through life. Sometimes facts are decidedly pleasant; again they are of a disagreeable sort and grate harshly upon one's sensibilities.

Here are some facts regarding Mechanics Building, Boston, one of the largest exposition buildings in America. In this building will be held from October 5 to October 31, the greatest food fair ever held in America. It will contain the greatest number of exhibitors. It will also have the greatest number of attractions, at a cost of over $100,000, or over five times more than the total cost of any previous food fair held in Boston.

The Mexican National Band alone is twice the size of, and will cost double that spent for any musical attractions at any previous food fair or exposition held in Boston. Were it not a government band, and the salaries of its members paid by the Republic of Mexico, its expense would be prohibitive. But it is sent to the New England Food Fair at Mechanics Building with the personal compliments and greetings of President Diaz. The average daily expense of these ninety-seven talented musicians while in Boston will be $1450.

The expense to produce the Frank C. Bostock Consolidated Trained Wild Animal Arena, a combination of the Bostock shows from Earl's Court, London, England, and from Bostock's Dreamland, Coney Island, N. Y., and the feeding of the 500 animals, will be over $1200 per day.

All of these attractions, with a host of others, are free to all who visit Mechanics Building during the month of the progress of the New England Food Fair which opens Monday night, October 5.

7th Boston Food Fair Now Open.

The 7th and greatest Boston Food Fair is now open, and the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, who have successfully run six other fairs in this city, have certainly cause for pride in the result of their past year's preparations, which have consummated in the veritable Fairyland into which the efforts of M. A. Singer of New York—who has been the architect and decorator—have turned the Park Square Coliseum, where the Fair is being held this year.

The location of the Coliseum is the most easily accessible in the city. Many car-lines pass it, it is only a stone's throw from the leading hotels and theatres and the shopping district, and directly faces the subway entrances and exits of the Public Garden and Boston Common.

With such attractions as Sousa and his band, raised to its full strength of sixty-five pieces, having as soloists Miss Lucy Allen and Miss Louise Ormsby, sopranos, and Miss Rose Reichard and Miss Giacinta della Rocca, violinists, in an entirely different program each afternoon and evening—Sousa's new march "The Fairest of the Fair," played for the first time on the opening day and to be heard only at the Fair—a free vaudeville hall which seats 2000 people, where are to be seen high-class vaudeville acts, the latest moving pictures, etc., and Onaip, the mysterious Hindoo, in his marvellous illusion of the piano and pianist floating lightly on the air—the patron of the Fair will be amply repaid for his 25c admission fee, which includes all the above attractions, together with others yet to be announced. *

A Household Necessity.

If you live anywhere in New England, there is one publication that should be in your home every day. There is no other paper in Boston or New England that compares with the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. Fathers like it, mothers like it, children like it.

No other medium gives the educational matter that is contained in the Boston Globe. The series of "Famous Gems of Prose" that are now running in the Globe, are alone worth the price of the paper.

This collection of the best of oratory and literature that the world has produced should be cut out and kept in a scrap book in every home.

In no other paper is there a household page that compares with the one run by the practical housekeepers of New England in the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. A careful perusal of this page in the Globe every day is of the greatest help to women in keeping their household expense down and setting a table that will please all the members of the family.

In addition to its many features, the Globle has the best equipped force in New England, over 1000 men being employed daily in the publication of the Daily and Sunday editions. You get the results of their labors in the Daily and Sunday Globe; also special features, which cost in the course of the year thousands of dollars.

See your newsdealer tomorrow and arrange to have the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe delivered regularly at your home.

Senatorial Convention

The Third Essex Senatorial Republican convention will be held at Newburyport, at eleven o'clock next Monday morning, Oct. 5. Senator Shaw will be nominated by acclamation, no doubt.

Mrs. Mary A. Larcom has just returned from a pleasant visit of two weeks spent at Sanford, Me., as guest of Mrs. Joseph Baker.

Postmaster Elmer Standley is planning to take next week off from his usual duties and with Mrs. Standley will spend it for recreation.

Yacht Nixie II, owned by S. J. Connolly, won another leg in last Saturday's Jubliee Yacht club race and by so doing became the possessor of the Stanton cup.

About thirty Farms young men met at Marshall's hall Wednesday evening and after the matter had been thoroughly discussed, the sentiment seemed unanimously in favor of forming a marching battalion to take part in the Republican campaign. The name selected will be the same as that of four years ago,—West Beach Tars, and steps will be made at once to secure the suits. The prospects looks good for a membership of sixty, and a drum corps. They will take part in all the parades in this vicinity.

Golden Anniversary at Almy, Bigelow & Washburn's.

Almy, Bigelow & Washburn, Inc., the big department store at Salem, holds a golden anniversary to celebrate its fiftieth birthday, beginning next Wednesday, October 7th.

Preparations for this great event began nearly a year ago and it promises to be the greatest of the kind ever held in New England. The entire store will be transformed; lavish and beautiful decorations in gold combined with thousaands of electric lights, making of it a magnificent picture long to be remembered.

In addition to the regular Saturday night opening, the store will be open Wednesday evening to accommodate the crowds of visitors who will want to see the grand illumination which is to be a special feature. The opening day, a beautiful illustrated souvenir book, containing the store's history will be given away to the first ten thousand visitors. There will be music every day for the balance of the week. Another feature which will interest the shopping public will be the offering of fifty bargains, one for each year of the firm's age. All will be a real dollar value and all will be offered at fifty cents.

It will certainly be a gala event and one which will reflect great credit upon the firm of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn.

FALL HINTS IN MILLINERY.

Fall and winter millinery fashions in all their glory were put on display yesterday at Webber's. The spacious millinery room decorated with tropical palm was very inviting, but the eager devotees of fashion who thronged the salon had eyes for nothing but the hats of which there is almost endless profusion. Hats big and little---French, English, New York, and distinctively "Webber's." Hats are there in all materials and colors.

If one were asked to choose a word to express strong characteristics of prevailing styles in millinery, it would be difficult to find one more fitting than "pleasing."

The impression made from the models exhibited is a genuine surprise. Extremes of style may come and extremes of style may go but there is a certain clientel which prefer high quality millinery of a modest style, which is suited for every occasion.

The models shown at Webber's are especially desirable for those whose exclusiveness and careful taste is expressed in the selections of beautiful hats and which avoid extreme.

One of the newest things which attracted the attention of the writer was a pretty feather effect in the Indian or Pocahontas wreath made of wings, quills and birds to surround the crown. The wreath resembles nothing more than an Indian head piece and is more than likely to be one of the pleasant sensations of the season.

Flowers, particularly large roses and poppies will be worn, but indications point toward a feather season. "A dream of a Hat" is in an amethyst color of a Bengaline silk and satin combination ornamented with roses and foliage in the same colorings and a myrle bird with a taupe colored veil which can be worn over the face.

To sum up this beautiful Autumn Opening in a few words would be to say that there is everything to make the hear of feminity glad.

Every woman who is a close devotee of fashion will not fail to see this charm-exhibition in "The Store in Town House Square"

Over 100 men, members of St. Margaret's church parish, met in Neighbor's hall Monday evening and formed a marching battalion to take part in the Catholic anniversary parade in Boston in November. They will meet from time to time to practice marching.

Mrs. Joseph Haskell of Maplewood, a former resident here, was at the Farms Tuesday renewing acquaintances. Mrs. Haskell's son, Joseph Haskell, has developed into quite a boatman since leaving here, being the owner of a trim motor boat in which he has spent much of his spare time the past summer.

John A. McLaughlin of Roxbury has spent the past week at the Farms renewing acquaintances and was the guest of Mrs. John H. Watson on Everett street.

At the district court in Salem Wednesday Charles W. Amory, held in $5000 bail on the charge of causing the death by automobile of Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gilmartin, was discharged, as the affair was purely accidental and the family of the deceased did not want prosecution.

Miss Bertha Bennett of Greenwood avenue is another of the Farms young ladies whose cherry voice is heard at the local telephone exchange, commencing her duties there the first of this week.

Edward J. Burns of Liverpool, Eng., arrived in Boston on the Winifredian Tuesday and came at once to the Farms, where he is stopping with relatives. Mr. Burns expects to make his home in this vicinity in the future.

Hopeful reports are heard from the family of Harry Howell at Gloucester. Though Mr. Howell is still confined to his bed, he is considerably improved and a return to health is now speedily looked for.

The Brockton Fair has proved quite an attraction to a number of Farms' people this week. Among those attending are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Publicover, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Publicover, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Campbell, Capt. D. T. Smith and Howard P. Williams.

J. M. Publicover is making some improvements at his home on High street, Beverly Farms, including the installation of electric lights, and changing over the interior of the house to a certain extent.

The next whist party under the management of John West colony will be held on Friday evening, of next week in G. A. R. hall. Tickets are only 20 cents and good prizes are offered.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hawkins left Tuesday on an excursion trip to New York, taking in the famous Hudson River trip. Mr. Hawkins returns to his duties at the Standley shoe store next week.

Things are pretty quiet at West Beach these days and only an occasional one is brave enough to take a dip, though the water last Sunday was almost as warm as in summer. One of the floats has been taken from the pier end and hauled to the uplands for winter storage.

Officers Williams, Jones, Witttehagen and Monies paid a visit to the house of James Zampell, Greenwood avenue, Sunday, and found five gallons of wine, three quarts of ale, one quart of brandy, one pint of whiskey and some evidence of sale.

There has been considerable in the line of entertainment at the Farms the past week including the fair and dance given by Preston W. R. C. on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the social of the West Beach club on Tuesday evening and the invitation party given by the North Shore Girls on Thursday evening, all of which affairs were well attended. The first whist party of the season given under the management of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, in Marshall's hall this evening will no doubt attract a large party.

Miss Susie Bennett of Hale street, who has been spending the past few weeks visiting Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Dolloff at their home in New Hampshire, is expected home next week.

J. M. Publicover is starting tomorrow on his annual shooting trip to Ipswich Bay. With a party of Gloucester men he goes to camp at Wheeler's Point, about this time each year, and puts in a week or two "roughing it," at "Camp Coot."

Funeral services for Daniel, the 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gilmartin, who was killed by an automobile on Haskell street last week, was held at St. Margaret's church last Friday afternoon. The pall-bearers were several boy friends and school companions of the deceased. Interment was made in Salem. The floral tributes were many, including pieces from the scholars of the Farms school.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The theatrical annals of Boston do not record such a towering success as "The Round-Up,"—Klaw Erlanger's stupendous production of Edmund Day's famous play which broke all records last season for big receipts. It returns for a limited engagement to the Hollis Street theatre, next Monday, Oct. 5. This play with its heart interest and thrills and extraordinary sensationalism in the most realistic battle scene ever presented, has a popular appeal that has resulted in an unbroken succession of crowded audiences wherever seen. The scenes of the play are laid in Southern Arizona and the characters and atmosphere of this region are most graphically and faithfully portrayed. The management have established an extremely popular tariff of prices ranging from 35c to $1.50. So great is the demand for seats from those living at a distance from Boston that a special bureau has been established for the expeditious handling of mail orders, which when sent with cash or money order and accompanied by addressed, stamped envelope, receive immediate attention.

Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

That Look of the Unusual

Don't you just crave it? Almost envy Mrs. So-and-so whose home is stamped with it—suppose you just think that her taste is remarkably fine. Well to be sure her taste is, but her judgment was really better, for she knew what to do, she just came to our store and made known her wants, put the obligation upon us to make

Her Parlor Proper

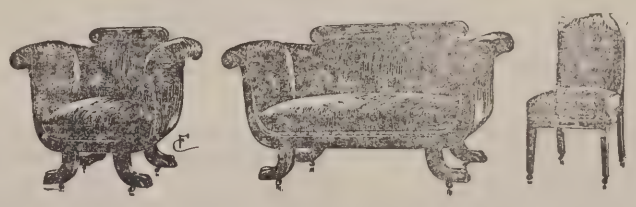

"To have it have pure color harmony and not have it look 'stuffy,' and have it really look pretty or no sale at all."

That's the reason for the look her handsome room today bears and 'twas done on a limit, she would have been willing to raise.

But 'twasn't necessary for that the way we buy and sell goods.

Just think of the grasp we have on the market, 3 wonderfully big stores to buy pretty things for. Just think of the experience such buying provides us. You'll benefit just as handsomely if you come in here too, the broadness of our stock covers just what you want, and to cite today an example we show this

Colonial Suit

Three pieces, roomy, comfortable and aristocratic looking, reproduced from a suit dating back to the 18th century. All Mahogany, a cover almost fadeless, the inside pure hair,

LETTER FROM JAPAN.

Rev. Frank C. Briggs, Formerly of Manchester, Writes to Children of Primary S. S.

The children of the Primary Department, of the Baptist Bible School, Manchester, recently sent $10.00 for the mission cause to Rev. Frank C. Briggs, former pastor here, now engaged in mission work at Himiji, Japan. Mr. Briggs has written to the children, thanking them for their efforts. The letter was read to the children last Sunday. It is as follows:

"Please thank the Primary children for the money and tell them that in Himiji we have only one Baptist church, but that we have eight Sunday schools. One is at the church Sunday mornings at 8 o'clock for the small children, and at 9 for the larger children and the men and women; another is at our Girls' School building in the afternoon at 1.30. The other five are in private houses. Most of these houses are the homes of people who are not Christians and we hire the rooms, paying 75 sen (37½ cents) a month. At all the Sunday Schools except the one at the church most of the pupils are little children,—so they are like primary departments.

"The Christian girls of our school are the teachers at nearly all of these neighborhood Sunday Schools.

"When we open a new place two or three of these Christians go to all the houses in the neighborhood and ask the mothers to let the children come to see the pictures and hear the stories, and they come, many times bringing a baby tied onto their backs. They all sit on the floor (unless the baby cries, then the little nurse gets up and goes to the back of the room and jogs from one foot to the other in a way that the baby seems to like it, for he soon quiets down, especially if the sister reaches way around and pats him on the back.) Then the teacher shows the children one of the pictures from the Primary picture roll, which some good friend in America sent us, after having finished with it.

"The children do not often see such a fine picture and are much pleased. Then the teacher tells in a very interesting way the story,—perhaps how the angels appeared to the shepherds when Christ was born, and the children learn to sing a hymn. When they sing 'Jesus loves me,' they say 'Shu wa re wo a i su' (Jesus me loves).

"After they have bowed their heads while the teacher prays, each child receives a little picture card with a verse which they are to learn for next Sunday.

"In some of these Sunday Schools there are not more than 20 children, and in others there are over 100. In all there are about 500 children who learn something about Jesus every Sunday in Himiji.

"You may think of your money as helping pay the rent of the place and buying cards for the children. There are many other children in the towns to which I go, but I'll not tell you about them this time.

"With love to all the friends and specially to the little friends of the Primary Department,

"Cordially yours,

"FRANK C. BRIGGS."

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

Holds its First Meeting. Mrs. Caroline Stone Atherton the Speaker. Club starts with Large Membership.

The first meeting of the Manchester Woman's club, since organization, was held in the Congregational chapel, Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Caroline Stone Atherton, of Roxbury, gave a very interesting talk on the subject of "Club Work."

The club organized last spring, but had not met, except to perfect organization, until this week. It starts under most auspicious circumstances, with a membership of about 90.

Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Johnson, the president, presided, and promptly at 3.30 the meeting was called to order, and Mrs. Johnson introduced the speaker of the afternoon with brief remarks.

Mrs. Stone is a very interesting speaker and gave a brilliant informal talk on club work, its aims and objects. She congratulated the club on its number, especially as there has never been a a woman's club here before. She was glad to know that the club had joined the confederation.

First along, she said, women's clubs were looked upon as a sort of joke, and a great deal of fun was made of them. But the movement has now come to take on a more serious aspect. Originally the club stood for self-improvement, but but now it stands for more than that: it strives to serve the community.

The State Federation is made up of 45,000 club members, said the speaker, representing 240 clubs. The federation holds three general meetings each year. She urged the local club to send delegates regularly to these meetings, and not to let the same ones go each time, but choose different ones. The next meeting is at Bridgewater, when "Home Economics" will be the subject. She characterized the spirit of the State Federation as helpfulness.

The local club stands for the union of the women of the community; you come together to discuss things that interest you all. There are many ways in which the club may be of service to the community. In matters of education, for instance, there are many things you may have an opportunity of doing. If there is anything, let the superintendent and school committee know you are interested. Let them know you are willing to work for the good of the cause. Women's clubs in other towns have been known to bring about the installation of kindergartens, manual training in the schools, and the like. Perhaps you have these things. If so, there may be other ways you can work. The state law relative to medical inspection in schools was originally brought about through the work of the Brockton Woman's club. A committee to visit your schools from time to time may be of good.

The speaker referred to the tendency of the times to spend too much time on amusements, and not enough on the things that are vitally worth while. She said the club was one means of over coming this tendency.

"Let harmony prevail," she said in closing. "It is beautiful to differ, but do it in the right spirit; it is the spirit that counts. Whatever you choose to do think it out carefully, lay your plans, consult someone in authority and then bring a solid body ready to accomplish your cause with all your hearts, and you will find that you will accomplish things."

The speaker was warmly applauded at the conclusion of her remarks. The president stated that the matter of choosing club color, club flower and motto would come before the next meeting. A social hour followed, tea and light refreshments being served. This was in charge of the directors. At the meetings to follow, the tea will be in charge of a hostess for each meeting, who will select her own assistants.

The officers of the club are as follows: Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Johnson,

President; Mrs. Josephine Allen Ruge and Mrs. Harriet Carter Kitfield, vice presidents; Mrs. Mary Ellen Blaisdell, recording secretary; Mrs. Carrie Leonard Knight, corresponding secretary; Miss Bertha Allen Stone, treasurer; Mrs. Alace Hathaway Wing, auditor; Directors: Mrs. Marianna Woodbury Cheever, Mrs. Catherine Baker Campbell, Mrs. Emilie Pickett Saben, Miss Lila Giles Goldsmith, Mrs. Anna Hayden Knight, Mrs. Grace Kitfield Beaton, Mrs. Helen S. Johnson Mead, Mrs. Annie Marion Sinnicks and Mrs. Hattie Lee Harris.

The standing committees are as follows: Education, Mrs. Emilie Pickett Saben; art and literature, Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Johnson; finance, Mrs. Grace Kitfield Beaton; arts and crafts, Mrs. Carolyn Edith Allen; current events, Mrs. Mary Sayre Merrill; civics, Miss Lila Giles Goldsmith; reception, Mrs. Grace Kitfield Beaton; forestry, Miss Annie Clark; hospitality, Mrs. Annie Marion Sinnicks and Mrs. Harriet Carter Kitfield; flowers, Mrs. Sadie Crombie Follett; ushers, Mrs. Anna Hayden Knight; goodwill, Mrs. Hattie Damon Baker; printing, Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Johnson, Mrs. Carrie Leonard Knight and Miss Bertha Allen Stone; music, Mrs. Marianna Cheever; outlook, Mrs. Alace Hathaway Wing, and outing, Mrs. Catherine Baker Campbell.

Woman's Club Program.

The program of the Manchester Woman's club for the year is printed below. It will be noted that the meetings are to be held twice a month, at 3.30 in the afternoon, in the Congregational chapel, beginning on October and ending in April, the first and third Tuesdays being the days of meeting.

The club has been very fortunate in arranging its first program, for such excellent speakers as Warren F. Spaulding, Mrs. Mary W. Overholzer and Mrs. Kate Upson Clark have been secured. The annual "guest night" will be on Feb. 16, when the lecturer will be A. B. Tripp, and his subject will be "Wireless Telegraphy." The program:

Oct. 6. Opening Day, "Club Work." Mrs. Caroline Stone Atherton. Directors' Tea.

Oct. 20. "Journeyings in Ireland." By Mrs. Bessie Ray Baxter, illustrated with Gælic Folk Songs, by Mrs. Bradstreet. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Alice Hinchiffe.

Nov. 3. Civics. "The New View of the Bad Boy." Warren F. Spaulding. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Evelyn E. Decker.

Nov. 17. Music. "Ballads of British Isles." Mrs. Alice Worcester Weeks. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Susie E. Hooper.

Dec. 1. Arts and Crafts. Subject, "Occupation of our Foremothers." Mrs. Mary W. Overholzer. Illustrated by specimen's from Manchester collections. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown.

Dec. 15. Musical. Talent to be announced. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Nellie M. Rogers.

Jan. 5. Art. "How to Tell a Good Picture." Miss Martha A. S. Shannon. Tea: Hostess, Miss Anne Clark.

Jan. 19. Forestry. Speaker to be announced. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Mabel T. Willmonton.

Feb. 2. Home Afternoon. Musical in charge of Mrs. Marianna Cheever. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Annie Lane.

Feb. 16. Special evening meeting. Annual Guest Night. Lecture. "Wireless Telegraphy." A. B. Tripp. Refreshments.

April 6. Children's Day. Art and Literature. Entertainment for Children.

April 20. Annual Meeting. Election of Officers. Tea: Hostess, Mrs. Florence L. Allen.

Senator Shaw of Manchester Indorsed for Presidency of the Senate.

The Sixth Essex district senatorial convention was held at Newburyport Monday morning, when Senator James F. Shaw of Manchester was nominated for his third term.

Mr. Shaw's name was presented to the convention by W. W. Lufkin of Essex who said that it was a great pleasure to speak in behalf of a man who from every indication after next January will occupy the honorable position of president of the Massachusetts senate, and it was an honor to Essex county to place such a man in nomination. Referring to the national campaign, Mr. Lufkin compared Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan and said that while there was no doubt as to who would receive the electoral vote of Massachusetts, much work was being done in other states, especially in getting out the young voters. He had enjoyed a friendship with Mr. Shaw of many years' standing, and although they had first met as opponents, he had found him a good fighter and he was now one of his warmest friends. What the senator's colleagues thought of him would be shown next January and the district would make no mistake in returning him to the senate for a third time. He moved that the nomination be made by acclamation. The nomination was seconded by Raymond C. Allen of Manchester. The motion was carried unanimously and Messrs. Lufkin and Allen were appointed to escort Senator Shaw to the chair.

The following resolution, presented by John A. Radcliffe of Gloucester, was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the republicans of the third Essex senatorial district take pleasure in endorsing for the president of the Massachusetts senate Hon. James F. Shaw of Manchester, whom they have today nominated by acclamation as their candidate for re-election as senator from this district, which he has represented with marked ability for the past two years, and they are assured that if the senate elects him to the honorable position of president, they will have a safe, competent and able president, who will reflect great credit not only on this district, but on the entire state as a whole."

Geo. S. Sinnicks was reappointed a member of the district committee, representing Manchester.

Homer Barrett Renominated.

The representative convention of the 21st Essex district, of which Manchester is part, was held in Gloucester Monday night, when C. Homer Barrett received the re-nomination, as republican candidate for the House.

Society Notes

The E. S. Grews and S. Parker Bremers are among the week's departures from Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell, who have been abroad on a few weeks' vacation trip, are on the water now, on their way home, and will probably land tomorrow, when they come at once to West Manchester, to remain the rest of this month.

The Ezra C. Fitches are leaving Manchester next Monday for their town house in Boston. Mrs. Fitch left several days ago and has gone to the Virginia Hot Springs for a month. Her daughter, Miss Helen Fitch, may join her there later for a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper are leaving Manchester the 19th of this month and after a week or two at the Somerset in Boston, they will sail for Europe. They plan to spend the winter in Rome. Mr. Hooper has resigned his position as treasurer of the Boston Elevated so that he may spend the winter abroad free and easy, his mind untrammelled by business cares.

Otis H. Luke and family are remaining at their cottage in Beverly Farms until about the first of December when they leave for the south where they plan to spend the winter. They have hired a cottage at Nassau, one of the beautiful islands on the south of Florida, and plan to spend the winter there. Mrs. Bliss, Mr. Luke's sister, will accompany them and plans to remain part of the season.

Among the week's departures from Manchester is Mrs. Henry Pickering, who closed her place at Old Neck yesterday; Mrs. W. H. Lewis is leaving today for her home in New York, while her daughter, Mrs. Stoughton Bell, and Mr. Bell, who have been spending the summer here, are returning to their home, 164 Brattle street, Cambridge. The Chas. W. Wards closed their cottage last Saturday and returned to their Colchester street, Boston, residence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman have closed their cottage at Manchester the past week and left Tuesday for Washington, though they will not arrive there until about the 22d of this month. They are making the trip part way by auto, going first to the Berkshires, where they will pay a visit to their daughter, Mrs. Crane, and Senator Crane, at Dalton, and from there to Lenox. Miss Mabel Boardman has been in Washington in connection with Red Cross affairs, but she will join her parents in the Berkshires after a visit with Admiral and Mrs. Cowles at Farmington, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Brooks returned to Manchester last Saturday from a delightful automobile trip of ten days in their Royal Tourist. Their itinerary included Portsmouth, Portland, Poland Springs, Bretton Woods, Sunset Hill, the return from the mountains being made by way of the Connecticut Valley and Lenox. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are remaining at Manchester until November, when they go to Milton, where they have taken a house for the winter.

Society Notes

Miss Rnee Payen of Paris has been visiting her friend, Miss Munn at Manchester-by-the-Sea the past few days.

The Richard H. Danas have closed their cottage at Manchester this week and have returned to Cambridge.

Among the week's departures from the Farms and Pride's summer colony are the Samuel B. Danas, Philip Dexters, John Noble, jrs., and Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendall Holmes.

Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Tenney have closed their cottage at Manchester Cove and have been on an auto trip to the White Mountains, prior to going to their Boston residence for the winter.

Miss Frances H. Stearns of Magnolia has returned from a week's trip to Bretton Woods and is at Boston for the fall, and is stopping at the Touraine.

The C. Howard Clark, jrs., are leaving West Manchester next Wednesday for their home in Philadelphia. They will make the trip part of the way, at least, in their Packard touring car. Mrs. Clark returned last Saturday from a week's auto tour to the White Mountains. In the party besides Mrs. Clark were C. Howard Clark, 3d, her son, and Mrs. William P. Remington. Miss Amie Clark returned last Saturday from a short trip to Phiiadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. B. Devereux Barker of Boston and August Richard of Philadelphia, who is at Harvard, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. James McMillan is closing her summer residence at Manchester the latter part of next week and is going over to New York with her grand-daughter, Miss Grace Jarvis, who sails on the 20th for Europe. Mrs. McMillan will then go to Detroit for a few weeks before opening her winter home in Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Philip McMillan and family, who have been spending September with Mr. McMillan's mother at Eaglehead, left Manchester the first of the week for Detroit, making the trip as far as New York by auto. Miss Jarvis, by the way, will probably be joined in Europe later by Lady Harrington, her aunt, who was Miss Amy McMillan, and who plans to come to this country the coming winter for a visit. Lady Harrington is now with her husband in Abyssinia.

The late Quincy A. Shaw of Pride's Crossing, left an estate at his death of the value of $7,541,133.88. This is shown by an inventory of his estate filed by his executors in the Suffolk probate court Tuesday. The bulk of it is personal property, which is valued at $7,150,483.88, his real estate being but $390,650. His stock in the Calumet & Hecla Mining company is appraised at $3,300,000. The estate is the largest that has passed through the Suffolk probate court in years. His Pride's Crossing estate is valued at $95,600.

Miss E. C. Washington, who has been visiting Mrs. Annie Littleton at Beverly Farms, returned to her Philadelphia home Tuesday.

SALEM MERCHANTS' WEEK

... OF ...

SPECIAL VALUES

Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Oct. 14, 15, 16 and 17

It is an open secret that the purchasing public is trying hard this fall to make a little money go a long way and that the sellers are going a long way to make a little money, so the members of the Salem Merchants' Association for their semi-annual demonstration have decided to put all their energies this fall into the effort to make this MERCHANTS' WEEK just what the name implies, one of SPECIAL VALUES. This will be the key-note of the effort which begins Wednesday and continues through the week, and every person on the North Shore should embrace the opportunities of the occasion.

AS USUAL, THE DEALERS WILL GLADLY GIVE RETURN FARES ON PURCHASES ACCORDING TO THE USUAL PLAN.

The stores will be handsomely decorated and there will be special attractions as well as SPECIAL VALUES.

Come into Salem next week. You will have a cordial welcome and receive substantial benefit from your visit

Henry Merrill and Charlie Hooper are playing left and right tackles, respectively, on the Gloucester High school football eleven this fall.

Mrs. J. S. Reed will officiate at the annual inspection of Preston Relief corps at Beverly Farms on Tuesday evening, Nov. 17.

Deacon and Mrs. Joseph A. Torrey are leaving Manchester tomorrow to spend the winter in Boston. They will be at the Hotel Westland as last year.

Paul Weil has an announcement in this issue that the partnership heretofore existing between him and A. Jacobs, has been discontinued and Mr. Weil will continue the tailoring business in his own name. He is now ready to take orders for fall and winter suits, and to do repairing, cleaning, etc. He will remain here all winter if business warrants, and is located in the Postoffice block, Beach street.

Edmund Lethbridge has completed his summer's work at Bullock's bakery and is leaving tomorrow for New York, where he may remain during the winter.

The champion tug-of-war team of Beverly Farms, of which Frank Gaudreau is captain, inquires through the Breeze if Manchester has a team that wants to make a try for honors in that line.

Manchester democrats are taking a lively interest in the campaign this fall and it isn't at all unlikely that they will have a rally in the Town hall some night this month, when Mr. Vahey, democratic nominee for governor, may be the principal speaker. Preliminary steps in this direction have already been taken, though nothing definite can yet be said. A Bryan and Kern banner was strung across the street in Central square early Tuesday evening.

The Manchester boys are playing their first foot ball game of the season tomorrow afternoon on the Brook street playgrounds, against a snappy team of youngsters from the Farms.

Senator J. F. Shaw met the members of the Republican Town committee at his home on Bridge street, Wednesday evening, to go over the plans for the rest of the fall campaign, locally. Mr. Shaw left Thursday morning on a trip to New York.

Supt. of Schools Mackin and family have moved into the cottage in Windemere Park, occupied the past season by the Russian embassy.

Miss Mary Kenney returned to her home in Roxbury, Monday after having spent a very pleasant month's vacation at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Daniel J. Meaney.

A good sized delegation of Manchester ladies, including most of the teachers, went to Gloucester on the 1.30 train this afternoon for the first lecture in the lecture course, at City hall at 2.30. "The Merchant of Venice" will be the subject of Professor Grigg's lecture.

No school this afternoon: the teachers are attending a leeture in Gloucester.

Miss Mary O'Rourke has returned to East Boston for the winter.

Charlie Hanibal of Bennett street is on a two weeks' vacation at his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Lydston, of Kittery Navy Yard, and his uncle Walter Lydston of Portsmouth, N. H.

Jason Tuttle has resumed his former duties for the winter as janitor of the postoffice block.

Miss Edith Northup has entered Miss Wheelock's Training school the past week to take up kindergarten work.

One of the possible coming events in the line of dancing parties for the near future in Manchester is one under the auspices of the young lady clerks. Nothing definite has been decided as yet, however.

Allen S. Peabody and family are returning to Manchester a week from next Monday, after a year at Asheville, N. C., where Mr. Peabody has been taking a course in forestry in the well known Vanderbilt school for that purpose. They are stopping at Mrs. Peabody's home in Bridgeport, Conn., over Sunday and will arrive here the following day.

There were rumors of a hold-up at West Manchester early Thursday evening, Miss Catherine Burke, one of the girls employed at the John L. Thorndike summer home, being the victim. Miss Burke left Boston on the 5.30 train and arriving at West Manchester she walked up the track and thence up the avenue leading to Bridge street and the Thorndikes. She says a man with a suit case and a bundle walked up the track and the avenue, also, and when near the old barn, about 200 yards from the house the man grabbed her and tried to rob her. She screamed and her assailant made his escape. The police were notified, but after a most thorough search of the locality and at the stations they could find nobody that answered the description of the man.

Next Tuesday evening Aide William E. Choate of Beverly, will pay an official visit to Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., on which occasion it is anticipated there will be a large attendance of the local camp members. It is expected that a delegation of some 15 members from John Low camp of Beverly will accompany Mr. Choate. A collation will be served.

PAUL WEIL (Formerly with L. M. Morton, Summer St., Boston)

Announces that the partnership heretofore existing between him and A. Jacobs has been discontinued and that Mr. Weil will conduct the business alone. He is now prepared to take orders for

Board of Health.

Ordinance.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, the following vote was passed and hereby becomes an ordinance:—

"That all boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester, shall be provided with an under water exhaust or muffler and such under water exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such under water exhaust or such muffler."

This regulation shall go into effect on August 1, 1908.

THERE are said to be 1000 Esperanto societies and schools throughout the world now, and periodicals for propagating the language now number 55, 11 more than there were last December. Esperanto is gaining official recognition and privileges in Europe and Asia. Esperanto clubs are being formed in many towns and cities, we note in looking over our exchanges.

IN connection with the opening of the new Beverly Hospital a few weeks ago, we suggested that Manchester affiliate itself with the institution in some way or other, either by providing a free bed or by having a room for use of Manchester patients. We took the matter up with the hospital authorities, and hoped long before this to announce what we had accomplished. The hospital directors did not meet, however, until Monday of the present week, when the matter was taken up. We hope to have something definite to say on the matter next week, which will be of interest to every Manchester citizen.

AN order was presented at a recent meeting of the Beverly common council providing for the placing of conspicuous signs 200 yards on either side of streets running by school buildings. The order was the outcome of an accident at Beverly Farms three weeks ago when a young school boy was killed by an automobile near the school house. The order was presented by Councilman Charles P. Tindley, one of Beverly's rising young politicians. The idea seems to us to be an excellent one, and one which it would be well enough for Manchester and other North Shore towns to adopt. Conspicuous signs near school houses, with wording something after this style: "School Building, Go Slow," might be the means of saving the life of more than one child in the run of a year.

THE railroad commissioners have decided that the new rates of the American and National express companies are "excessive and unreasonable." The board finds that the territory within 50 miles of Boston is unique, in that it has more cities and large towns, and a denser population than any other section of its size in the United States, and deserves the minimum rates of express. The express companies claim that they lost $35,000 in this state last year, but the board finds that the same amount of business this year with the new rate would mean an increase in the gross income of $190,000.

That's about the way of it! Lose a few dollars, and then raise the price so that the income is ten fold. An occasional "investigation" would uncover other such outrageous "increases" as the above.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

If the Whisperer said that the Manchester Democratic Town committee had bought a Republican banner to be strung across the street in Central square the statement would be given little credence. Such, however, is the case,—or at least they hold a receipted bill for such. Chairman Rowe took good care when he pain the bill, though, to see that the "Taft and Sherman" banner which he was paying for was in reality a "Bryan and Kern" banner, and that the bill was wrongly made out. At first he was inclined to think someone was playing a joke, and that a republican instead of a democratic banner had been shipped.

* * * *

John Smith—plain John Smith—is not very high-sounding; it does not suggest aristocracy; it is not the name of any hero in die-away novels; and yet it is good, strong and honest. Transferred to other languages it seems to climb the ladder of respectability. Thus in Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Italian smooths it off into Giovanni Smith; the Spaniards render it Juan Smithus; the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmidt; the French flatten it out into Jean Smeet; and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonloff Smittowski. When John Smith gets into the tea trade in Canton he becomes Jovan Shimmit; if he clambers about Mt. Hecla the Icelanders say he is Jahne Smithson; if he tarries among the Tuscaroras he becomes Ton Qa Smittia; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmittiweiski; should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jihon Schmidd; when he goes to Mexico he is booked as Jontli F'Smitti; if of classic turn he lingers among Greek ruins he turns to Ion Smikton; and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as You Seef.

Power—Chisholm.

A pretty home wedding in which Manchester people was interested, was that at Gloucester Tuesday evening of Myrtle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Chisholm of 24 Granite street, Gloucester, and Henry A. Power of Providence. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles H. Williams, pastor of the Trinity Congregational church. Mrs. Frederick Gannon of Salem was matron of honor and Roland C. Chisholm, brother of the bride, was best man. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Power will live at 390 Hope street, Providence.

Among those present from Manchester were: Mr. and Mrs. George P. Dole, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Danforth, Mrs. John R. Cheever, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis L. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Cheever, Miss Etta Rabardy, Miss Mamie E. Morgan, Richard L. Cheever, and Miss Gertrude Goldsmith.

A sale of cake and candy, and hot chocolote, under the auspices of the Class of '09, Story High school, will be held in the Handicraft Shop, off the Common tomorrow afternoon and evening. The class is raising funds for graduation expenses and deserves liberal patronage.

A rousing good Republican rally, with prominent speakers, some night on the week before election, is what the Republican Town committee is endeavoring to bring about. A band will be procured and if the boys should carry out their present ambitions and get together a torchlight procession may be another feature. A rally will also be held at the Cove school house at a nearby date. The committee have a handsome Taft and Sherman banner on the way and it is expected it will be strung up next Tuesday. It will probably be hung in Central square between J. F. Rabardys' block on a tree on the edge of the Common.

Red Men Celebrate.

Conomo tribe of Red Men, Manchester, was out in large numbers Wednesday evening when a semi-public meeting was held, and some thirty palefaces were invited in to participate in a good time. A pleasing entertainment program was presented and Past Great Sachem Scampton of Roslindale was present and gave a rousing good talk on the order, its aims and objects, and the benefits deriving from it. Past Sachem Ellison of Winnepurket tribe of Lynn was also present and gave a brief talk, as did also Past Sachem E. S. Bradley.

The entertainment consisted of cornet solo, Seems to Me I've Always Loved You, by Byron Bullock; vocal solo, Arowana, William Cool; trombone solo, That's What the Rose Said to Me, Lagory Wade; solo, Those Songs My Mother used to Sing, Harry S. Tappan; duet, trombone and cornet, Alice Where Art Thou, Lagory Wade and Chester Cook; solo, Take Me Out to the Ball Game, William Cool; solo, My Dream of the U. S. A., H. S. Tappan. P. H. Boyle also gave several readings.

Following the entertainment the warriors and palefaces adjourned to the forest where a feast of corn and venison was in waiting, prepared by "Chef" Frank H. Crombie.

N. S. Horticultural Society.

The regular meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society held in Lee's hall, Manchester, last Friday evening, was one of the most successful for a long time. More interest was manifest and there was a large crowd out,—due, no doubt, to the activity on the part of the discussion committee, who are determined to make the meetings this winter of vital importance to all the members.

Wilfred Wheeler of Concord, a wholesale grower of fruits, was the speaker, and he took for his subject "Fruit and Fruit Trees." His discourse, given in a plain informal way, was of a very interesting nature. He explained his talk by showing samples of the points he wished to emphasize. Among the things shown were samples of the oldest known varieties of apples and pears, gathered in northern China and Siberia. He showed these to show the difference between the original fruit and that which we know today. The Siberian apple, incidentally, is exceedingly small, not much larger than our black currant, but it is perfectly formed and resembles in a general way our fruit.

There was a display of dahlias by James Mcgregor, and Patrick Corrigan brought in a display of hardy chrysanthemums from the G. E. Cabot estate. A mammoth pumpkin was brought in by A. E. Parsons, gardener at E. S. Grew's. It weighed 81 pounds, and is said to be the largest ever grown in Manchester. It was grown from a Boddington Mammoth King pumpkin seed. Messrs. Mcgregor and Corrigan were awarded certificates of merit.

The Question Box was instituted at this meeting, but it was not overworked. It will be in good working condition within a few meetings, it is hoped.

John Farquhar of Boston will be the speaker at the meeting next Friday evening, Oct. 16.

:: Beverly Farms ::

The G. A. R. Associates will meet at G. A. R. hall next Thursday evening, Oct. 15, to organize and make plans for the winter. It is very likely that the pitch tournament, which in the past has been of so much interest, will again be a part of the entertaining features of these gatherings. Those who desire to become members may do so by making application to any member of Preston Post or of the Associates.

The engagement is announced of Lawrence Walsh of Beverly Farms and Miss Rose Laydon. The wedding will take place in November.

The West Beach Tars met in Marshall's lower hall last evening and organized, with the choice of Geo. H. Burchsted, captain; Edward Whalen, 1st lieut.; Wm. R. Brooks, 2d lieut.; John Bresnahan, 1st sergeant. The other officers will be appointed later. A representative from a Boston concern was present and took measurements and orders for 60 uniforms. The suits will be the sailor costumes with blue trimmings. The battalion will be ready to take part in the parade at Salem next Thursday evening.

The "Summer Girls" gave an invitation party in Marshall's hall, last evening and had the hall prettily decorated with autumn leaves. Dancing and refreshments were entertaining features.

The Oliver Ames family have closed their estate at Pride's for the season and have gone to North Easton for the autumn, before taking up their winter residence in Boston.

There will be a baby show in the afternoon. Suitable prizes will be offered. Admission ten cents.

Forty-two young people from the Dane street church, C. E. society, Beverly, came to Manchester on a hayrack ride Wednesday and were guests of the young people's society of the Congregational church, at the Chapel. The beautiful moonlight made the evening an ideal one for a party of this sort and everyone had a most enjoyable time. The social was in the form of a harlequin party. Refreshments consisting of fancy crackers, cake and hot chocolate were served. A large cake marked "Y. P. C. E., Oct. 7, '08" was cut before the young people departed and divided among the visitors. The cake was presented to the committee by Miss Gladys Verry. The party was arranged by Mr. Purington of the Beverly society and he thanked the Manchester society, and extended an invitation to them to visit Beverly. The committee in charge of the social was composed of Misses Mabel Lodge, Agnes Sjolund and Gladys Verry, and Joseph Floyd and Frank Sinnicks.

Rev. Philip Rhinelander of the Episcopal Theological school, Cambridge, will preach at the St. John's Episcopal church, Beverly Farms, Sunday at eleven.

"Turkey," Subject of Address by Rev. George Washburn.

Rev. George Washburn, D. D., occupied the pulpit at the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday and delivered a very interesting address on Turkey, where for so many years Dr. Washburn has been as president of Roberts College in Constantinople. Dr. Washburn has been one of the potent factors in the beneficial change that is being wrought out in Turkey and his remarks therefore are of all the more interest. Following are a few excerpts from his address:

"The Turkish empire is not so-called because the majority of the people are Turks, as only a very small number have ever been Turks. Several races compose the empire; they are a conquering race.

"Some six hundred years ago a tribe of six hundred families came from Central Asia and established themselves in Turkey within a comparatively short time. They became the most powerful and established a kingdom and called themselves the Ottoman Empire. It is true today as it always has been that the Turks are a small majority of the Turkish Empire. The rest of Turkey is made up of other races, of other religions. The Turks have ruled this dynasty for six hundred years uninterrupted. This empire has not been great on account of the character of the rulers but more on account of the worthy development of the power of other European states. Another fact is that the Sultan of Turkey is not only the ruler but also the Khalif,—head of the Mohammedan faith. He was the spiritual head of all the Mohammedan religion.

"The Turkish Empire has been growing rapidly up to the present time; but of late the migration has been rapid. The Sultan has surrounded himself with vagabonds, and unfortunately unfit to rule. They have not been Turks. They have brought the country to its present position. The rule has been one of constant oppression all through the country, and the Turks have been in danger of their lives constantly. This reign of terror has been worse in Constantinople than in any other place. The country is going to rapid destruction.

"Fortunately, we hear that a momentus change has taken place. This Sultan who seems to have been safe on his throne is deposed as far as power is concerned, and the power of his majesty has been transferred to a self-appointed committee. The members of this committee hold no office but everybody in the Empire follows the advice of this committee. It has been brought about by the 'Young Turkish Party.' This changed the whole empire in a week, changed the look of every man, woman and child.

"Turkey has always had a despotic government. It has been Mohammedan in its ideas. Presently a new spirit was beginning to come into the Turkish Empire,—education.

"America has been interested in the Turkish Empire for three hundred years. She has sent missionaries who have helped to lift men to a better spiritual life. She has established schools in China. The influence from these has gone out and brought out new ideas all through the country.

"It is absolutely impossible to give you an idea about this influence given by America not only in China but in Turkey. These same Turks who have seen the progress in China have adapted it in their own country, and the power of Mohammedanism grows less, and they are even willing to do away with Mohammedan faith to save their country from destruction and adapt our religion.

"It is in this great part of the whole interest that the outside world is concerned. Such a great change cannot be brought about without great difficulties and we cannot but sympathize with them and rejoice in their great success. It is for us to give thanks for all that has taken place in this great change."

Third Week of the Boston Food Fair.

The unparalled success of the 7th Boston Food Fair, held this year at the Park Square Coliseum, and as usual conducted by the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, is now known beyond all dispute or question, and this mammoth exposition, with its $50,000 grand canopy of baby-blue and old-gold, its 30,000 electric lights, making an electrical display such as has never been witnessed in Boston, its 100,000 sq. ft. of important exhibits, its Sousa band concerts, its great Hindoo mystery, Onaip, who causes a piano to rise and float in the air, its free vaudeville hall, its millions of free samples, and its many other amusements and attractions, will start on its third week, on Monday, Oct. 12th, with every indication of a continuance of the crowded daily attendance of thousands of visitors.

This is Onaip's first appearance in New England. The Eastern newspapers have widely discussed him, magazines have devoted chapter upon chapter to descriptions of his work, but not one word has been written that sheds the faintest light upon the mystery. Onaip, himself, lies low, and says—nothing!

The illusion is performed twice daily, at 5.30 and 8.30 p. m., in the free vaudeville hall, and myriads of people have gone away, puzzled and mystified beyond expression, but not one of them can advance a theory which is not immediately cast aside as futile. So they go again and yet again, trying to account in some way as to how it is done.

Organic Heart Trouble

"I was a very sick woman, the best physicians gave me up to die. I had organic heart trouble. I was troubled with shortness of breath, and could not walk any distance at all, those awful fits of coughing were something dreadful. I learned of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure which I tried with the most favorable results. I have now taken five bottles and am on the sixth, so you see I did not die after all." MRS. GEO. The much-mooted question of widening Raymond street was decided upon at a meeting of the Common Council this week, the order being adopted by a "yea" and "nay" vote, 12 to 7. The order was taken from the table on motion of Councilman Marchant. Councilman Hudson wanted to know if Mr. Stanwood, the owner of the land which the city contemplated taking, had agreed to accept the offer made by the city at 65 cents a foot for this land, but no one could inform the member on the subject. Councilman Savage felt Mr. Stanwood should be seen first and the matter talked over with him.

Councilman Callahan believed that the city should secure Mr. Stanwood's approval before going ahead, and thus save the possibilities of a law suit. A yea and nay vote was taken, however, 12 voting in favor to 7 against.

An order was adopted at a meeting of the council this week to locate a hydrant on Hesperus avenue at the junction of Fuller street.

Death of Augustus A. Smith.

From Attica (N. Y.) Facts, Oct. 1.

The news of the death of Augustus A. Smith was received here Friday afternoon and came as a great shock to the entire community. Mr. Smith had not been in his usual health during the summer but the seriousness of his condition was not apparent until the previous week, when it was deemed advisable to have other advice and Dr. J. M. Lee of Rochester was called in consultation with Dr. Gifford. It was determined that an operation was imperative and Mr. Smith was removed at once to Dr. Lee's private hospital. Everything that surgery and human skill could do was done for him, but other complications developed which rendered the case hopeless.

Mr. Smith was in his 70th year and was the oldest son of the late Augustus W. and Lydia Knight Smith of Manchester, Mass. In 1867 he was married to Miss Mary Kinsman Kelham of the same town and came immediately to Attica to make it his future home. Two children came of this union, Mrs. Ralph W. Lee of Washington, D. C., and Augustus W. Smith of this village.

Mr. Smith had been President of the Board of Trustees of this village, trustee of the First Presbyterian church and of Forest Hill Cemetery Association; he had also served as Supervisor of the town and was a member of the Wyoming Hose Co. He has always been identified with everything pertaining to the interest of the town and filled with honor every position to which he was called. He was a man of excellent judgment and marked executive ability. His charities were large and always given without ostentation.

Besides his immediate family he is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert S. Stevens of this town, two grand children and six nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held from his late home, Monday at 2 o'clock, and were conducted by Rev. Warren N. Nevins, assisted by Rev. John F. Leffler. Many came to pay their last tribute of respect, and during the services all places of business were closed in his honor. The body was laid at rest in Forest Hill Cemetery.

Breeze subscription $1.00.

New England Food Fair in Mechanics Building the Greatest Ever Held in Boston.

With every promise of Messrs. Green and Rowe, fulfilled in the spirit and to the letter, the great annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition in Mechanics Building, Huntington avenue, Boston, was thrown open to the public Monday evening. For four weeks until, and including Saturday evening, October 31st, this colossal exposition will remain open daily (Sundays excepted) from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Over 400 of the up-to-date manufacturers and producers of America have responded to the invitations of the executive committee and have made most attractive and appealing displays.

It must not be forgotten that all of the wonderful list of attractions in Mechanics Building Food Fair are free. Here one can hear the famous Mexican National Band of ninety-seven pieces, the biggest and finest musical organization in Mexico, and sent to Boston with the personal compliments of President Porfirio Diaz.

In the immense amphitheatre in the basement of Grand Hall can be found the greatest animal show in the world, — the Frank C. Bostock Consolidated Trained Wild Animal Arena.

The celebrated $100,000, paintings of the life of U. S. Grant by Paul Philippoteaux, never before exhibited except at big prices, the management exhibits free to all patrons.

Fred Wiliams and family have moved from their home on Hart street as usual, and are at the Ames estate at Pride's for the winter.

Mrs Jordan of High street is expected to return next week after spending two months at Bridgeport, N. S., her former home.

Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hardy have spent the past week enjoying country life at the Wayside Farm, Sandwich, N. H.

Drs. George Keenan and Daniel Maguire of the medical staff of the new Relief Hospital, East Boston, were guests of friends at the Farms one day this week, and were guests at a dinner served in one of the boat houses at the beach in the evening.

The inspection of Preston W. R. corps will be on Tuesday evening Nov. 17, by Mrs. J. S. Reed, president of the corps at Manchester.

John L. Chapman, superintendent of "Swiftmoor," has returned from a two months' vacation trip spent mostly at his old home in England.

A party of sixteen Farms young people went on a hay rack ride Wednesday night. Their journey took them to Hamilton, where they found a dance in progress,—altogether too strong an attraction to pass by, and they accordingly tarried a couple of hours to enjoy this pastime.

Brewer Hansen attained his "majority" the latter part of the week and celebrated the event by getting registered, thereby adding another Farms young man to the voting list. He will cast his first vote for Taft in November (we hope), and thus get a proper start.

The directors of the Mass. Horticultural society were at the Farms Wednesday and paid a visit to the beautiful garden of the Spaulding estate on Greenwood avenue, and also looked over some other Farms' estates.

Samuel A. McKinnon, the popular clerk at the North Shore Fish Co., concludes his summer's work there tomorrow evening, and he has accepted a position in Boston with the F. H. Johnson Co.

The initial whist party of the season was held in Marshall's hall last Friday evening under the auspices of John West colony. The party was well attended, as will also be the one tonight in G. A. R. hall, no doubt. Mrs. Elmer Standley won first honors for the ladies, a beautiful bon bon dish; Miss C. Nickerson won second prize, a china tea strainer and stand; the consolation prize, a glass dish, went to Mrs. Silverberg. The first gentlman's prize, decorated card case and cards, was won by W. B. Publicover; the second, a fancy match stand, by W. Marshall, and A. M. Marshall landed the men's consolation, a match scratcher.

Oliver Low has started on his second year at the Bryant & Stratton business college in Boston.

Mrs. John H. Watson and Miss Jane Watson closed their cottage on Everett street, Tuesday and have returned to Roxbury for the winter.

The male members of St. Margaret's church are taking considerable interest in the formation of their marching battalion for the anniversary parade in Boston next month. Practice drill was held in Neighbor's hall Monday evening.

A boy arrived last Saturday night to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Zampbell, the Italian family who live on Greenwood avenue.

An event being looked forward to with much interest by Farms' people and on which much preparation is being made, is the public installation in Neighbor's hall on next Friday evening, Oct. 16, of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers. The work will be performed by the degree staff of 18 members and will be exceedingly interesting. The colony has received and accepted numerous invitations to attend installations at out of town colonies, including those in Manchester, Beverly, Peabody and Swampscott.

Mrs. Peter Ward left the Farms, Wednesday for a few days' visit at Newport, R. I.

George R. Andrews, a well known and respected citizen of the Centerville section of the city, passed away last Saturday morning at the age of 77, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralph W. Osborne, 458 Essex street. Funeral services were held Monday.

Miss Jessie Smith has spent the past week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Guy Macintosh (Bertha Larcom) at their home in Medford.

Victor Borden and family moved from the Brown cottage on Hart street, Wednesday, to their Boston home for the winter.

Officer Williams may now be found in the vicinity of the school house on Haskell street every school day, about the time the children are leaving the building, a very commendable practice, as he remains there until the street is practically free from children. Whether due to the recent fatal accident or otherwise, the street is nevertheless almost free from automobiles during these hours, and what few there are, travel at an unusually slow pace.

Miss Lena McQuillan left last Saturday for her home in Nova Scotia, called there by the illness of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Morgan attended the Power-Chisholm nuptials at Gloucester, Wednesday evening and Mrs. Marshal T. Larcom attended the Fraser-Davis wedding in Beverly on the same evening.

Mrs. Murdock McDonough entered the private hospital of Dr. A. S. Dolloff at New Hampton, N. H., the latter part of last week.

The Farms boys' football team is going to Manchester Saturday afternoon to play the Manchester eleven on the playgrounds there.

Mrs. Mark Knowles arrived home last Sunday after a pleasant visit of six weeks to her former home at Kentville, N. S.

A committee representing those desirous of having a marching battalion at the Farms to take part in the republican campaign are out raising funds to assist in buying the equipment and when enough has been secured the organization will be made, probably in a week's time. There are about 40 young men who are on the list besides the drum corps.

A slight skin disease of some sort or other has developed among some of the pupils at the Farms school and steps have been taken as a safe guard against its spread.

The second public whist party of the season will be given under the auspices of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, in G. A. R. hall this evening. Prizes will be awarded the holders of highest scores and a good social time is in store for all who attend.

Two hearings for street widening at the Farms were held before the board of aldermen Wednesday evening. The first was for Greenwood avenue, where a property owner wished a hydrant, now set on the corner, on private land, removed. The second was a proposed widening of Haskell street. Frank Hammond appeared for D. Linehan & Son and said that the line of the street as laid out ran over Mr. Linehan's land and that a new line ought to be established in which case some land would be taken and some given by the city, but no damage would be asked for.

Miss Sarah Donahue of Worcester has been a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Connolly on Haskell street. Wednesday was Mrs. Donahue's birthday and a supper in her honor was given in the evening by friends at one of the West Beach boat houses.

The Long Looked For Has Arrived. Mahogany Dining Room Pieces at Quartered Oak Prices.

A "this season's" departure in one of our best factories,—they're applying themselves to Mahogany, after most successful years of working in fine quartered oak. Creating pretty reproductions absolutely correct, every line pure with all the details carefully studied. Charming old designs in Coloniel & Sheraton and really at prices that are asked for the Oak.

The illustration is a Sheraton Buffet—'tis 4 and ½ feet long, 2 feet deep, the mirror 14 inches high and 48 inches long. 'Tis all Mahogany without, the drawer bottoms and closets are of sycamore. It has the old wooden knobs, the legs set on brass cup castors, the locks are all brass and countersunk into the drawers.

The only carving to be seen on it is the grooving to the Columns.

Whistling of Locomotives.

Part of a recent order of the railroad commissioners relative to whistling of locomotives in Beverly, will be of interest to Beverly Farms people, as follows:

"Ordered. That the whistling of locomotives be prohibited as a crossing signal * * * * for inward trains to Boston * * upon the Gloucester branch at Elliott, Cabot, Essex and East Thissell streets; for outward trains from Boston at Paradise road, Hale street and West street east of the Beverly Farms station, and for inward trains to Boston at West Thissell street and West street west of the Beverly Farms station in the city of Beverly; not being understood, however, that the whistle shall be sounded whenever, upon approaching these crossings, there seems to be special occasion therefore to avoid accident.

"The order of the board, dated Aug. 23, 1886, regulating the sounding of whistles of locomotives upon the Eastern railroad at Beach, West and Hale streets in Beverly is hereby rescinded."

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXVIII.

We are now hearing a good deal about Esperanto, as we did a few years ago about Volapuk. It seems to be forgotten that languages are not made, but grow; grow out of the needs and daily experiences and thoughts of men; grow as trees grow out of the soil; grow naturally and imperceptibly; grow with a people's growth in stature and fulness, in strength and refinement; this is something that takes time, as it takes time to grow a tree. A tree or a language made to order and by rule will have a short life. Who now hears anything of Volapuk?

When Emerson in his young manhood bade adieu to Boston and schools, and went to live in Concord, he wrote in his most mellifluous manner:

"O, when I am safe in my sylvan home,
I tread on the pride of Greece and Rome;
And when I am stretched beneath the pines,
Where the evening star so holy shines,
I laugh at the love and pride of man,
At the sophist schools and the learned clan;
For what are they all, in their high conceit,
When man in the bush with God may meet?"

this will do very well, it has a grand sound to it; but some of us who cannot think our own thoughts to such purpose as Emerson could, must fain think the thoughts of others somewhat; there seems no help for it, we cannot rise to the height of his disdain. But some one at my elbow asks if there were not a bit of egotism in the Concord sage; this, however, must be repeated with bated breath; we must be careful not to speak lightly of New England's divinities.

The excellence of such minds as Emerson is not that their thoughts are always true or valuable, but that they stir others to think; even Thoreau had this to recommend him to us, and such writers and thinkers have a perennial worth; they live in the thoughts of other men, they sow the seeds of harvests that are to be.

A new method of collecting money for charitable purposes, seems too near akin to black-mail; people are made to give against their judgment sometimes, rather than attract notice as the "untagged"; the public will sooner or later resent the imposition, as it did the "chain" letters a few years ago; and the worst of it is, that many will be hardened against giving to all good causes. Unless we adopt the thoroughly

MANCHESTER'S ONLY SURVIVING MANUFACTORY.

Manchester's fame and name as a cabinet-making place, which it came so rightly by in the flourishing days of her manufacturing business over half a century ago, has not altogether forsaken her, for there yet remains one of those shops where the business is still carried on,—and on a scale, may we suggest, which very few people in the town realize.

On invitation of one of the firm we paid a visit to the C. Dodge Furniture Co.'s plant a few days ago and we were surprised at the business and thrift which we found exercised there. Ten men were busily engaged at various branches of work in the making of furniture.

The furniture manufactured here is all made to order, so to speak. None of the products are sold through stores or agencies, but direct to customers. All over the country,—New York, Chicago, St. Louis, and as far as the Pacific coast, furniture from Dodge's mill has gone.

Our attention was called to one piece in particular,—a handsome library table, shipped away, by the way, the first of this week, to a private school in the central part of this state. It was one of those massive solid mahogany tables, such as we see in executive offices. It was 8 by 4 feet, with sixteen drawers and two shelves, four of the former being blind drawers. It was a handsome piece of furniture, and was presented by a son of one of our summer residents to the principal of a private school from which he recently was graduated.

Another order about ready to be shipped was a handsome set of dining room furniture, mahogany, all of unique design, including a beautiful six foot sideboard, a handsome five-foot dining table (open 12 ft.), eight chairs and a serving table. This goes into a well known Brookline residence.

THE C. DODGE FURNITURE CO. SHOP.

(Cut used by courtesy Manchester Cricket.)

While this concern is practically the only "relic" of Manchester's once famous cabinet and furniture making industry, it is highly favored in that it doesn't have to market its products, distribute its goods all over the land in order to find purchasers, but a condition of affairs such as very few concerns in the country can have is provided for them,—the purchasers comes to Manchester. From all over the country come the wealth of the land to spend the warm months of summer and therein lies the secret of the business and thrift to be found on a visit to the mill. The sales are very nearly all made to members of our summer colony and friends, many of whom find it a great convenince in being able to thus procure such excellent goods at first hand.

Many handsome pieces, such as chairs of all sizes, shapes and designs, both modern and historical, tables, sofas, side boards, and the like are always kept on hand from which to order, and then again if one wants something entirely original, or copied from some old piece the concern is always ready and willing to carry out the order.

"THE HEAVENLY VISION."

Abstract from Sermon of Rev. Theodore L. Frost, at the Baptist Church, Manchester, Sunday Morning, Oct. 11.

Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost took up his work as pastor of the First Baptist church, Manchester, last Sunday morning, Oct. 11, and was greeted by a large congregation. He preached a well constructed sermon on "The Heavenly Vision."

The preacher took for his text Acts 26:19, Wherefore, Oh King Agrippa I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision.

He spoke first of The Presence of Heavenly Visions. "Our age is too practical," he said, "too steeped in materialism, too busy in making money to think about or to believe in such things as visions. Yet the world owes a great debt to the heavenly visions which have come to men and women.

"The prophet of old prophecied that the time was coming when old men should dream dreams and young men see visions. The prophecy has in a measure come true. Young men have seen visions and even today they see visions. Unusually dull and unambitious must be that young man who has had no visions. Men have called them visionaries, dreamers, but nevertheless the greatest souls of all ages have been those who have seen visions.

"Notice in the second place that The Heavenly Vision means Power. Whether objective, or subjective the heavenly vision means power for it gives a new point of view and brings inspiration to the life. Paul's vision of the Risen and Glorified Christ on the Damascus road meant a new point of view for the young lawyer. Constantine's vision of the blazing cross gave him a new view point. He saw himself as champion of the cross.

"The vision from heaven brings to the life power through inspiration. The æolian harp is silent until the breezes strike it, and then it breaks forth into music. The soul remains quiet until the vision comes and brings the power of inspiration."

Mr. Frost then illustrated the effect of the heavenly vision as an inspiring force by the lives of Jean D'Arc, Columbus, Copernicus.

"The heavenly vision also means responsibility. 'The man who has truly seen God necessarily has a message to men.' This means that the heavenly vision lays great responsibility upon a man. Its call to obedience is a call to a life of service for God and man. Recognize the responsibility, obey the vision and the life attains its true goal, and serves its day and generation. Disobey the vision and there comes to the life a loss of faith, a diminished joy, a lack of peace. Better for your life or mine never to have the heavenly vision of brighter and better things for us, than to have it and fail to obey it.

"Do you see the possibility of your being a brighter, stronger man or woman? Accept it as a vision from God and try to realize the vision in your daily life. Obey the light which heaven sends you and it will grow still stronger and brighter, dawning more and more unto the perfect day."

"ANALYSIS OF THOUGHT:—SOUL"

Subject of First in Series of Three Sermons by Rev. L. H. Ruge.

Rev. L. H. Ruge preached the first of a series of three sermons on "Thought" at the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday morning. His subject was "The Analysis of Thought:—Soul." The next two sermons will be on "The Embodiment of Thought:—Character," and "The Spiritualization of Thought:—Salvation." Following are a few extracts from last Sunday's sermon:

Text: The multitude of my thoughts within me.—Psalms 94:19.

"The power to think distinguishes man above and apart from all other living creatures. Thought is fundamental in the soul; it is one of the great basic principles. Destroy thought and you destroy the soul.

"The truest idea of soul progress is to develop thought. The truest service of human life, after all, is to become a thinker: to think for oneself. It may be a splendid thing to known much, but it is far better to think much.

"Thought is the pulse-throb of the soul, as blood is the pulse-throb of the body.

"Nothing is more real, more positive than thought It is a positive force, above all; nothing could be without thought.

"Be an original thinker; be an original soul, having a personality that represents you. Each soul should not learn to reject the thoughts of others, but should think for itself.

"Today we have pioneers in the thought world that are making as great progress as did Columbus.

"We may gain a great deal of knowledge, but we can't do much unless we use it.

"Thought is power. The great bridge that spans the mighty river is not as great as the thought that devised it.

"Thought is the only thing that is free, absolutely free. Fetters are laid upon the body, but no fetters can be laid upon the mind."

A party of young people, mostly High school boys and girls, are planning on a hay-rack ride to Salem tonight if the weather is pleasant.

The dates for registration of voters before the election on Nov. 3, are Wednesday, Oct. 21, 7 to 8 and Saturday Oct. 24, 12 noon to 10 p. m.

Postmaster Samuel L. Wheaton is having a three weeks' respite from his duties beginning tomorrow, a good part of which he will spend in the vicinity of Manchester.

Asst. Inspector Jas. H. Rivers of Post 67, will inspect Preston Post 188 of Beverly Farms, next Wednesday evening, Oct. 21. Members of Post 67 have been invited to attend.

Joseph Leary has joined the 2d Corps Cadets of Salem, and is a member of Co. A, of which Otis Lee of this town is also a member. Another application from here is going in tonight.

Lyman W. Floyd attended a meeting of the Suburban Newsdealers' Association at the Crawford House, Boston, Monday. The dealers, and families attended the Food Fair at Mechanics Building as guests of Joe Chapple of the National Magazine in the afternoon.

Miss Beth Meldrum returned last Saturday from a three months' visit to Denver, Col., where she spent the summer with her sister, Mrs. Henry, at one of the delightful mountain resorts just outside the city. She has resumed her former position with the B. & M. in Boston.

The Literary society of the High school met Tuesday and organized for the year as follows: Miss Mabel Lodge, '09, president; Miss Ethel Scott, '09, vice pres.; R. Burnham, '10, secretary; Miss May Rogers, '11, treasurer. Executive committee: Miss Agnes Sjolund, '09, Miss Alice Hoare, '10, Miss Annabel Lodge, '11, and Miss Adele Sjolund, '12.

One of those kind spirited acts which very often go unnoticed was brought to our attention a few days ago,—an act which has been appreciated by the little girls more than anyone else. Stilt walking has been a fad with the children this fall. The boys, of course, can either make them for their own use, or have "papa" make them, but with the girls it is a different story. They, however, have found a good friend in some of the men at Roberts & Hoare's shop and dozens of stilts have been given to the litttle girls.

A reduction in price of work is announced by the local Chinese laundry, on page 11 of this issue.

What was probably the "last" picnic of the season was held at Tuck's Point last Saturday, when Frank P. Tenney and family had a gathering of about a dozen.

A tug-of-war contest between the Yannigans of Beverly Farms and the K. of C. team of this town, an event which has been looked forward to for some weeks, but which has just been brought to a head as the result of a querry in last week's Breeze, is scheduled for this Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the old Sacred Heart church. These are the two teams that pulled together on Labor Day, at the K. of C. field day, and considerable enthusiasm was then aroused. The Yannigans claim to be champions of the North Shore, as they have also defeated other teams hereabouts. The contest Monday night will be for a purse of $50, and the best two out of three pulls wins. Admission 25 cents. A big crowd will be out.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Borden Covel, with their young son and daughter, who left Magnolia in the early summer for Europe, returned on the Cymric last week. They are at their Boston home. Mrs. Covel and her children were at Hythe, Kent, Eng., for the summer. Mr. Covel sailed with them on May 23 and returned home after seeing them settled, going over again to bring them back.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ivins Croll of "Sunnybank", Smith's Point, announce the enaagement of their daughter, Grace, to Thaddeus Coffin Defriez, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Defriez of Brookline. The young man entered Harvard with the 1909 class, but completed the course in three years.

Among the weddings to take place this autumn of interest to North Shore folk is that of Miss Elsie Carr, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carr, whose summer home is "The Jungle," West Manchester, and Robert E. Brewer of New York. The wedding will take place next month.

Robert Mason Winthrop, Harvard, '95, the second secretary of the American embassy at Rome, is to represent Harvard at the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the birth of Evangelista Torricelli, which opens at Florence, Italy, next week. Mr. Winthrop is a son of Mrs. R. C. Winthrop of West Manchester.

Mrs. E. C. Swift has just returned to Pride's Crossing after a short visit with the Dunnells at Syracuse, N. Y.

The Clarence Moores are preparing to move into their new house on Massachusetts avenue, Washington, sometime this fall. The house is one of the most beautiful on the avenue, and is on the opposite side of the avenue from that of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman. They will take on most of their horses from Pride's.

William A. Tucker and family are closing "The Moorings," their West Manchester summer home, next week and are returning to Boston. Their daughter, Mrs. E. Charles Fitch, jr., is down from Montreal to remain a few weeks while Mr. Fitch is on a business trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mason are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son on Monday week. Mr. Mason is a son of Mortimer B. Mason of Manchester, and the family has recently moved up from Hingham to their new home on Exeter street and Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

MOTH WORK.

Notice Sent to Property Owners in Manchester the Past Week.

Below is printed a notice to property owners sent out by the selectmen this week, or that will be sent out shortly, regarding the requirements of law in the destruction of gypsy and brown-tail moths. It is similar to that sent out last year about this time.

You are hereby required on or before Dec. 1, 1908, to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 381, Acts of 1905, as amended by Chapter 268, Acts of 1906, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupæ and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupæ and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (See Section 6, Chapter 381, on reverse.)

The selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on the trees but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown-tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instruction as to best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, John D. Morrison, or from the State Superintendent, Room 1010, 6 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

Highland Chief Dead.

"Highland Chief," the imported hackney which Judge Wm. H. Moore recently bought to take the place of the famous "Forest King" in his string of show horses, died at the Pride's Crossing stable of the Judge last Friday from pneumonia. "Forest King," it will be remembered, had to be shot last spring. The new horse was at the Louisville show with others, and while there contracted pneumonia, due to bad stabling, it is said, and on its return to Pride's Tuesday week it did not seem to improve, and it died Friday.

Manchester Man Nominated.

The 21st Essex Representative district democratic convention was held in the small caucus room, Town hall, Manchester, Tuesday evening, and Frank A. Foster of Manchester was nominated as representative to the legislature on the democratic ticket.

Mr. Smith the Nominee.

Charles D. Smith of Gloucester was nominated for senator at the democtaric senatorial convention for the Third Essex district at Ipswich on Thursday of last week. Benj. H. Corliss was elected as Manchester's representative on the district committee for next year.

A meeting of the directors of the Essex County Poultry association was held in Beverly on Tuesday evening, at which time six new members were admitted to membership, three of whom are Manchester people. It is of interest to note that Manchester is second in the number of members in the association, with 35, to 38 for Beverly. Wenham is third, with 24. The directors are getting busy preparing for the annual show to be held in City hall, Beverly, on Dec. 15—18. Walter R. Bell, secretary, will be the busiest man in the association from now until after the show.

Now that the summer season is over those interested in the opening of wood roads are becoming active again, and in this connection Col. Wm. D. Sohier was at Gloucester last Saturday to confer with Mayor Parsons in regard to roads in that section of the North Shore.

The purpose of the visit was to talk over the proposed road through the woods from Magnolia avenue by the pumping station, around to a point a mile or so to the westward, which would remove the road from the close proximity to the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad. The Boston & Maine was willing last summer to put a road in by Homan's ice house, but West Gloucester people made such strenuous objection that the idea was abandoned. It was then proposed to drive a road through the woods from a point near the junction of Magnolia and Essex avenues, skirting around the big hill near the Lily Pond crossing and coming out again in Magnolia avenue further on towards Magnolia. This was favored by those who objected to the other layout. However, the railroad did not consent to that plan and nothing has been done to date. Now, however, the railroad is reported to take more kindly to the proposition.

If this road is carried through it will be another link in the chain of wood drives opened up all along the North Shore, from Beverly to Gloucester.

Margaret (Mrs. Russell) Sturgis of Manchester conveys to Henrietta (Mrs. W. Scott) Fitz of Boston, land and buildings on Masconomo street, Manchester, 103.07 by 427.96 feet.

The above property is on the northerly side of Masconomo street, not far from Mrs. Fitz's estate, which is on the other side of the road. Plans are being made and estimates will shortly be called for for a cottage house for Mrs. Fitz's coachman. It is understood that Mrs. Fitz may sell her greenhouse and property on School street, adjourning the Edward Robinson estate.

The contract for improvements at the Essex County club, Manchester, has been awarded to Roberts & Hoare and the work will be started at once. The changes and alterations to be made were outlined in the Breeze several weeks ago, and consists principally in moving the wing now running at right angles to the main club house to the end of the building in line with the rest of the structure, and making the contingent changes in this connection. A piazza will be extended along the back of the house so that players coming in from play may enter the club house without passing along the front piazza. About ten new bed rooms will be added. Other details of the work will be given later.

Some improvements are being made at the Kimball estate, Smith Point, including the altering over of the barn of the Kimball house into a cottage.

G. A. Knoerr has just completed installing electric lights, telephone system and system of electric heating at the bungalow for Mrs. Munn, Beach street, Manchester. He has also installed electric lighting system in W. R. Bell's new house on Vine street, and has been awarded the contract for wiring Patrick Mulvey's new house on Lincoln street.

An addition is being built to the E. L. Wood cottage at Singing Beach, consisting in main of two bath rooms. Roberts & Hoare are doing the carpenter work. G. A. Knoerr has the contract for electric wiring and fixtures.

Considerable work is to be done on the property of John S. Curtis, Storrow hill, Beverly Farms, this fall and winter. Besides numerous alterations and additions to the dwelling, a new garage, of wooden structure and granolithic floors, is to be built.

Work is in progress in the construction of buildings in connection with enlarging the poultry business of Frank Trowt at Pride's Crossing.

Connolly Bros. have started work building a macadam tennis court on the S. V. R. Crosby estate, at West Manchester.

A valuable and most desirable summer residential estate just put upon the market at Beverly Farms, is the Pump Cottage, owned by Mrs. R. L. Ward of New York. Messrs. T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman are the agents.

Improvements are being made at Princemere, Frederick Prince's estate at East Wenham. Henry Stillman has a large force of men and horses at work doing grading and drainage work.

Charles Storrow is having a new avenue built to his house No. 1 on Storrow's hill, Beverly Farms. L. J. Watson has the contract.

William Hennessy has recently made considerable improvements on his estate in Central square, Beverly Farms, formerly the Watson property some of the out buildings being torn down, the grounds graded and the house painted.

JACK Frost

MADE his first real visit

THIS fall on Tuesday morning, early.

MR. Mercury, frightened at his appearance, jumped down from 75 degrees of Sunday—delightful weather—to 25 degrees Tuesday a. m.

AND the first real ice of the season formed; and those who hadn't filled their coal bins bestirred themselves; and the ladies got out their last winter's furs; and summer visitors who are still tarrying with us exulted in the delightful, bracing autumn weather; and incidentally we poor "natives" turned up our coat collars and tried to forget the long winter months before us.

DID you ever stop to think how many "first" and "last" dances, picnics, whist parties, and the like, there are on the North Shore every season?

A GOOD instance of Lieutenant Governor Draper's "grit" while acting governor was furnished during the pendency of the fifty-six hour law. Some of the Democrats who wanted to "put the governor in a hole" and make political capital, when the bill contained a fifty-four hour proviso, drew up a letter, addressed to the acting governor, insinuating that he was "holding up" the bill, because he was opposed to it. Mr. Draper at once arose in a dignity which reminds one of that of the late Governor Greenhalge when the state house was invaded by a "Coxey's army" and plumply told the gorilla Democratic senators that it was quite outside their province to attempt to influence the executive and that he would deal with the bill when it came before him. It is needless to say that the bushwhacking senators withdrew and pulled the hole in after them.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Talk about meanness! Why, there is a man on Beach street, not far from the Breeze office, who cut the tail off his cat so as to keep down his coal bill this winter. He claims a cat with a tail takes several seconds longer to get out the door than one without a tail; and every time the door is opened in winter it lets in cold air, and consequently more coal is required to "heat up."

Nichols—Kezar.

Harry Guild Nichols of Peabody and Miss Grace Silsbee Kezar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Kezar of Salem, were married at the home of the bride's parents, 8 Mt. Vernon street, Salem, Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Puffer, pastor of the Universalist church.

Miss Helen Sweet Jacobs of Peabody was the maid of honor, and the best man was Dr. Ralph Foss of Peabody. The bridesmaids were Miss R. Marle Appleton, Miss Elizabeth R. Phippen, Miss Pauline Curtis and Miss Ethel B. Pike of Salem. E. Edward Newhall of Lynn and Roger Blaney of Peabody were the ushers.

The cremony was at 7 o'clock, followed by a reception from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock.

Mr. Nichols is proprietor of the Old Corner Store at Manchester. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Nichols will come to Manchester and will live in the Soulis house on Lincoln street.

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

bad maxim, that the end justifies the means, there is really no excuse for the method which seems coming into vogue of dragooning people into giving to some charity or some popular object.

One thing that the world always needs is open debate. Many things may be said unwisely, many unsound arguments may be used; many absurd remedies may be proposed; but what we want, first, last, and always, is, light; and this is best struck out by friction of mind upon mind. Any difference and confusion even is better than listless torpor; running water will in time clear itself, but stagnant water only breeds mischief; intellectual activity, even if it sometimes is erratic, is better than intellectual lethargy.

It is not needful always to say anything, in order to help another; a look, a smile, a pressure of the hand, may do it; we are not told that the Lord in every instance said anything to the objects of his compassion, but it is recorded on one occasion that "there went virtue out of him and healed them all." Does virtue go out of us in the home, in the school, as we walk our daily paths? Is the street the better, as was once said of a person, because we live on it? Does our lamp give light to all that are in the house? Do we bear in mind that it is not what we say, or even what we do, so much as what we are, that tells in the long run?

The frosts of age may silver the brow and retard the step, but it is the closing period of life that brings the summer and autumn to their full maturity; the ripest grains and fruits are those that are latest gathered; even the last years may be the best, "frosty, but kindly."

ST MARY'S STAR OF THE SEA CHURCH

Beautiful New House of Worship Dedicated Last Sunday. Description of Church and Its Interior Decorations.

The beautiful new St. Mary's Star of the Sea Catholic church at Beverly was dedicated last Sunday, with the usual imposing ceremonies that goes with such an event. Two services were held, solemn high mass in the morning and solemn vespers in the evening, and the magnificent edifice was crowded on both occasions. The services were particularly impressive and were graced by the presence of Archbishop William H. O'Connell of Boston, and other dignitaries of the church.

The dedication of the new edifice is of special interest to Manchester and Beverly Farms people, as the churches in both of these places were formerly under Rev. Fr. Francis J. Curran, the pastor of the Beverly church, and Fr. Curran and his assistants, Rev. Edward T. McKenna, Rev. John McKenna and Rev. John F. Curran are loved by the people of these two communities because of past associations.

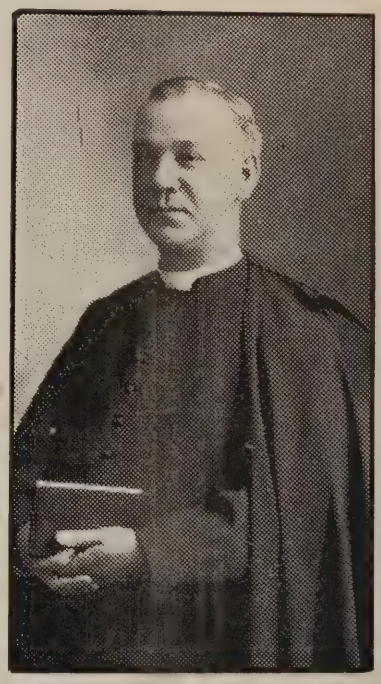

Furthermore, people on this part of the North Shore, especially members of our summer colony, have given liberally toward the Beverly church, and to them the dedication of the new church is of great interest.

We are indebted to a friend of the paper for the following description of the interior of the church.

Description of the Church.

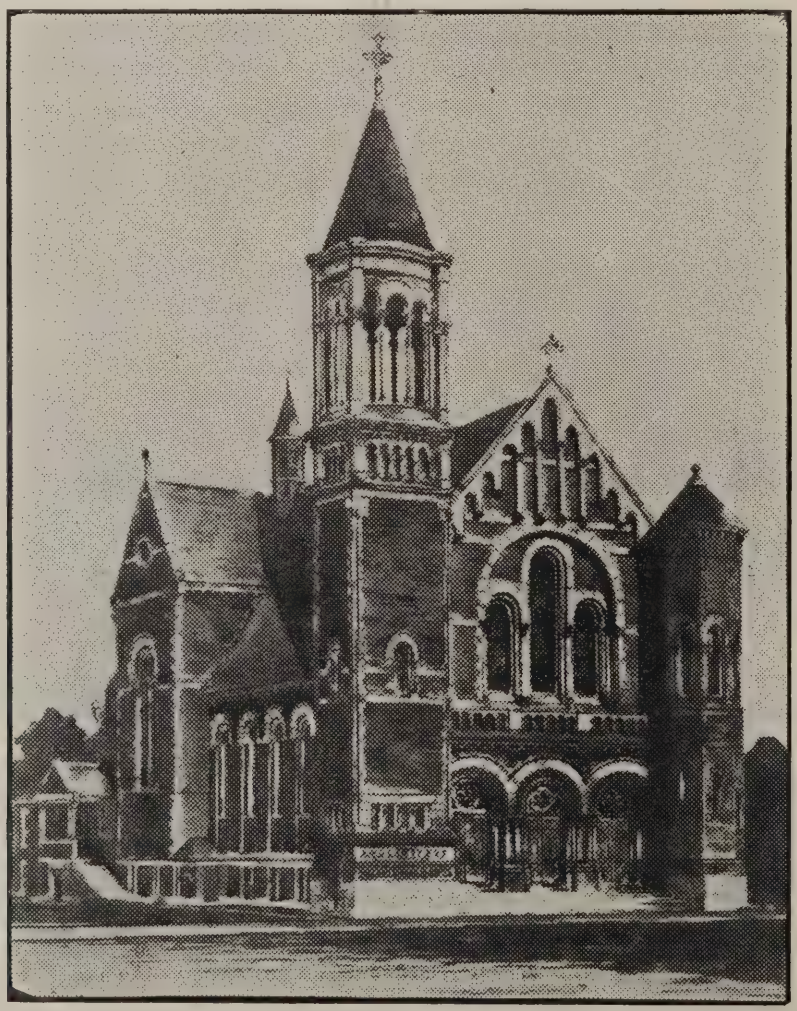

The exterior lines of St. Mary's church, Beverly, are so familiar to the passer-by that there is no need of describing them. Now, however, that the edifice is, interiorly as well as exteriorly, completed, the honest judgment of the observer must be that it stands very high in the category of our tasteful and harmonious temples. Rare altar elaboration, sculptural elegance, delicate tracery, richness of window treatment, and a well balanced color symphony, give ample evidence of careful and artistic effort in the work which, begun a year ago last spring, reached its culmination in the splendid ceremonial of last Sunday.

The apse-crown, a noble half-dome built on spherical arc-lines, is glor ously filled by a group-painting (The Church Triumphant—by Geroni), which dominates the whole interior of the edifice. Immediately under the frieze that serves as a base to this picture, the curved wall of the apse is pierced by five single bay Roman windows in dignified figure work, the intervening spaces standing out in old rose with generous bor e ing.

Exterior View of the Church.

A richly moulded, ivory-tinted cornice stretches along the whole length of the apse wall under these windows, acting also as the topping for five mural paintings (also by Geroni), which depict the five great scriptural sacrifices. The separation lines among these pictures are emphasized by a series of neatly capped pilasters, while along their bases is extended a heavy moulding that rests on a line of corbels. The lower wall area of the apse is finished in dark red tone, with buff diaper filling in satin effect. All this decoration of moulding and color makes a beautiful setting for what is the principal appointment of a Catholic church:—The altar. The main altar of this church is an exquisite output of Italian workmanship, and an evidence of the artistic temperament of the Italian designer. It is a stately, yet graceful structure of white Carrara marble, the dead white effect being relieved, however, by columns and panels, here and there, of Brescia stone. The panels of the comparatively low reredos are characterized by intersecting Roman curves in chaste carving. The tabernacle and its superimposed canopy rise majestically from the centre of the structure, the classic canopy pediment being softened by a symmetrically arranged display of boss-ornamentation in the projection soffits. Crowning this Romanesque marble pile, and supported by a line of delicately wrought miniature columns in pergola array, is a perfectly rounded dome, which was hewn and carved from one piece of white Carrara. The front of the altar-table exhibits, in full relief, an artistically carved reproduction, in one piece, of Da Vinci's "Last Supper."

The good taste, fine perception of aptitude, sense of balance, and excellence of treatment, displayed here, make this altar one of the very few in New England to which unqualified praise may be given.

The two side-altars, each ensconced in a chancel alcove, and dedicated to the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph, are in close harmony with the main altar, showing in their table panels most excellent carving in floral and conventional design. Each altar is surmounted by its titular statue and is flanked by a beautifully wrought marble pedestal, on which stands a statue of heroic size. The four statues (the Blessed Virgin, St. Joseph, the Sacred Heart, and St. Anthony) are from Mayer and Company of Munich.

The separation of chancel from auditory is distinctly marked by a sanctuary rail of quartered oak, with cherry top relieved by an ornate oak pulpit. An examination of the hand-carving on both rail and pulpit will repay the visitor, the rosette elaboration of the former and the symbolic representation of the four evangelists in the panels of the latter, manifesting the painstaking work that stands out so satisfactorily in our best churches.

The strength of the structural lines of the auditory has not been minimized by the devotional treatment of the accessories. Indeed, the general tone of the finish rejoices in the uplifting warmth that is so essential to a Romanesque interior. A high quartered oak wainsco', carried around the walls of transept, side-aisles, and vestibule, is set off by a stencil border, which has just enough color to break the transition from the dark finish of the wood to the general olive green of the plastered walls.

The great pillars, in neutral buff, that separate the nave from the side-aisles, are cylindrical, the base of each, however, being quadrangular, and the capitals displaying richly moulded work in scroll and foliation.

From the entablature over each capital ascends a graceful pilaster, which terminates, away up on the nave wall, in a smaller capital; and from the cornice of this capital springs one of the supporting bands of the ceiling. The arches formed by the bands thus founded divide the nave-ceiling into transverse sections, each of which, in five facets, is finished in cypress panelling.

The line of demarcation between nave wall and ceiling is brought out vigorously by a richly friezed moulding, which rests on a fine line of corbels; while under these, and directly over the spandrels of the nave pillar-arches is a symmetrical array of arcade-work, the three arch-openings of each arcade being filled with faint diaper tracings on a background of olive green, which has a suggestion, here and there, of the diaphanous. The supporting pilasters of these arcades are reduced repetitions of the pilasters that rest on the great pillars.

The spandrels of the great pillar arches on the nave wall are in the prevailing olive green, a large conventional rosette holding the centre of each. Taking the whole nave in at one glance, from the sanctuary or from the choir-gallery, one is bound to say that the constructive work and the color-scheme have been made to bring out most satisfactorily each other's good points. This effect is enhanced very delicately by the bright, though unobtrusive bits of color that dot the less conspicuous stretches.

The side-aisles are given architectural form by a series of transverse arches, which spring, on the one side, from the cornices of the great pillars and, on the other, from brackets that follow, in their elaboration, the capitals of those pillars. On these brackets, too, rest the longitudinal side-aisle arches, each of which, standing out a little in relief from the side-aisle wall, sweeps in a perfect Roman curve over one of the beautiful side-aisle windows. The embellishment of the side-aisle walls is accentuated by the high relief stations of the Cross.

The transept follows the nave in the conformation of its ceiling and in the decoration of its walls. From the very centre of the ceiling where nave and transept intersect rises a quasi-dome or, as it may be termed architecurally, a lantern, which displays varied sheathing with an overlay of Romanesque curve ornamentation,—all in cypress. The transept ends are accorded positive dignity by two shrines (of Carrara marble), that at the south wall having as its background a finely executed relief sculpture of the Agony in the Garden, while the shrine at the north wall is backed by a companion study of the Resurrection. These two pieces serve respectively as a preparation and a finale to the fourteen Stations of the Cross. The shrines and stations are from Mayer's Munich studios, as are also the superb stained-glass windows of this church.

The two transept windows, glorious in proportion, in design, and in execution, compare favorably with anything in stained-glass that our best cathedrals can show. Each almost fills the upper area of its transept end, standing out nobly over its accompanying shrine, and forming with it one piece of colossal decorative art. Three arcade openings, with a crowning medallion light flanked by two splay openings, make up each transept window, while the side-aisle windows (all scriptural studies) are double-bayed, with a foliated rose-opening directly over the mullion. The window-work of the facade consists of three unmullioned individual lights arranged symmetrically, the central window attaining a greater height than the others. The floral work here, on a lightsome background, has a very brilliant effect, and makes a gorgeous setting for three medallion studies (one in each window) of the traditional patrons of music.

This triple window, dedicated to music, appropriately lets light in upon the choir-gallery and along the double array of great organ pipes, the powerful organ (recently installed) being built in two sections so as not to intercept the view of the beautiful stained glass of the facade.

The pews, carpets, vestment-cases, confessionals, and electric lighting system, are in perfect keeping with the church.

The Church of St. Mary, Star of the Sea, is a notable addition to the churches of the archdiocese, its interior elaboration entitling it to positive distinction. The reverend pastor, on whom has rested the responsibility of accepting or rejecting plans and suggestions and of watching conscientiously the gradual development of the great enterprise, is to be felicitated on the consummation of an arduous, though supremely successful, work.

Otis W. Stanley was home from Brockton over Sunday visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Stanley, Vine st.

Misses Ruth Blaisdell and Bessie Allen, Helen and Charlotte Mason attended the Nichols-Kezar nuptials in Salem Wednesday evening.

The Relief corps supper in G. A. R. hall, Wednesday evening was largely attended and the ladies were enabled to add a tidy sum to their relief fund.

The following names were added to the list of qualified voters at the session of the registrars Wednesday evening: Charles E. Lovegreen, Geo. F. Andrews, Frank L. Decker, Leonard B. Decker, Albert C. Swanbeck, Ernest W. Dechene, Mansaul J. Bowers, Charles W. Taintor, Bertram W. Allen and Archa F. Pinette. The last two have just attained the voting age.

Clarence Menken and Albert Kitfield of the Cove took in the Hudson River--New York excursion the latter part of last week.

The democratic banner had to be taken down "for repairs" the first of the week, the wind having torn it in some way or other. It also interferred with the fire alarm wires in some way. Wednesday evening it was strung out again.

Added interest was given to the weekly meeting of Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, S. of V., Tuesday evening, because of the fact that Past Commander Choate of Beverly, Division Aide to the Manchester camp, and a delegation of some 18 other brothers from the Beverly camp, were present. Remarks were made by some of the visitors and after the meeting a collation was served and an hour or so was spent in a social way. The Beverly boys made the trip by barge.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Allen left Wednesday for a ten days' visit with Osborne Leach and family, Danvers.

Mrs. Duncan S. Morrison, who formerly lived in Manchester, is leaving Sunday after a three weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. Charles Morgan, Lincoln street, and after a week's visit with another sister in Roxbury she will return to her home in Glace Bay, C. B.

William Ray has again entered the employ of Connolly Bros. and left town last Sunday for Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., where he will probably be located for several weeks.

Robert A. Mitchell, the contractor-gardener, brought in a box of fine pansy blooms this week which contained many fine colors and combinations, all the more appreciable as our gardens have just been destroyed by frost. Mr. Mitchell says that he can furnish plants which will produce blooms in September and October as large and numerous as do the usual spring time pansy plants. The plants are grown in the field off School street, which, by the way, Mr. Mitchell is turning into quite a nursery.

Manchester

A delegation from the Pilgrim Fathers are planning on going to Beverly Farms this evening on the 6.31 train to attend a public installation.

Officer Stoops was called to Pine street Saturday afternoon to look after a young woman from out of town who was reported to have imbibed too freely. She was taken to the lock-up and cared for until evening when she was able to depart. This is the first case of a woman being arrested on the streets of Manchester for drunkenness for many years ---some say for 25 years or more.

Many Manchester people received a letter the latter part of last week from a Dr. Somebody in Boston saying that he would be at Manchester Saturday, and if anybody had any trouble with their eyes he was the one who could cure them, etc., and for this purpose he would be found at the Manchester House on Saturday at such and such an hour. Sure enough Saturday morning along came the "Dr." with two valises filled with eye-glasses, spectacles, etc., presumably, and was about to start in busiuess when he met the proprietor of the hotel, Mr. Callahan. Now, Mr. Callahan is a pretty good sort of fellow when used right, but he is apt to be pretty much the other way when he is not used right. The "Dr." made known his mission, how Mr. Callahan, expected him, of course. But Mr. Callahan didn't expect him, of course; in fact he didn't know the "Dr." was coming until he received one of the printed circulars the day before. Well,—anyway, Mr. Callahan pointed to the door, and it is unnecessary to say that the fellow picked up his valises and went. Many people came to the hotel during the day in answer to the adv. but they were disappointed. The next time this particular "Dr." wants a room at the Manchester House he will probably be wise enough to make his appointments with the proprietor ahead of hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Knight are leaving tomorrow on a short vacation trip to Maine.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mrs. George Pierce and Charles E. Pierce have spent the past week at Magnolia, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Lycett. They went there to attend the Lycett---Sanborn wedding which took place last Saturday.

Registration for the November election closed Wednesday night. Ward 6 now has a total of 339, an increase of 12 over last year.

The Preston Post Associates are invited to be present at the inspection next Wednesday evening at 8.30 o'clock. There will be a collation, speech-making and campfire.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sawyer of Leominister have spent the past week at the Farms visiting relatives. They returned home today.

Miss Jane M. Watson's classes in æsthetic and fancy dancing were started yesterday, in Marshall's hall.

Pilgrims Installed.

The officers of William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, of Manchester, were installed into office Monday evening with appropriate ceremonies, on which occasion big delegations from Beverly Farms, Beverly, Lynn and Salem were present, and with the local members formed a gathering of over 125 people.

Deputy Supreme Governor L. R. McLaughlin of Lynn and degree staff from the Salem colony, performed the work in a most creditable manner and were given generous applause at the conclusion of the installation. The floor work was particularly good. Speechmaking was in order after the installation and a collation was served, consisting of cold meats and beans. A social hour brought the evening to a close. The officers installed were as follows:

James Salter, governor; W. H. Tyler, lieut. gov.; C. M. Dodge, secy.; Ellen I. Horton, collector; C. C. Dodge, treas.; Martha M. Newman, chaplain; Mary E. Lucas, serg. at arms; Alice L. Salter, dept. serg. at arms; Eric W. Ericson, sentinel at inner gate; Levi B. Harvie, sent. at outer gate, Clara H. Jones, ex-governor.

A Polish wedding is scheduled for Sunday, on Forest street. Manchester is getting to be quite cosmopolitan.

Officer and Mrs. Leonard Andrews have been entertaining the latter's brother Mr. McKim, the past few days, who came to pay them a flying visit on his way home to the Provinces, from a trip to Montreal.

John Griffin concluded his 12th season in charge of the dining room at the Essex County club and returned to Boston Thursday.

Amid a blaze of red fire the Taft and Sherman banner was flung out the breezes across Central street Tuesday evening by the members of the Republican Town committee. The banner is hung between the Manchester house and a tree on the common.

The will of the late Manuel S. Silva was probated in the Probate court at Salem Tuesday after a sharp contest.

Henry T. Bingham may be put in charge of the information division of the immigration bureau at Boston according to the following despatch in yesterday's Globe: "It is understood that Commissioner of Immigration Billings will designate Inspector Henry T. Bingham, of his force, to take charge of the work of the information division at Boston, since Inspector Babcock has been transferred to New York. Sec. Strauss has written a letter of instruction regarding the work of the information division to Col. Billings and other officers of the service."

Thursday evening, Oct. 29, is the date settled upon for the big republican rally in Manchester. Well known speakers are being procured for the event. Clark's Military band of Gloucester, 20 pieces, will be on hand and it is not unlikely that there will be a torchlight procession. The boys are arranging to get together on that night at least. Coffee and sandwiches will be doled out. More details will be given next week.

The Misses May D. and Gertrude Connolly of Beverly Farms will start their Manchester class in gymnastics very shortly. The members of last year's class and others who may desire to become members are invited to meet at Miss Etta Rabardy's Central street, next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Senior class of the High school made $60 on their candy sale last Saturday, clear of expenses. The cake was won by Chester Perkins of Beverly, whose guess of its weight was 2 lbs. 10 oz. Several subscriptions from members of the summer colony helped swell the receipts to the amount mentioned above, which will aid materially toward meeting the graduating expenses next June. The class wishes to thank all who helped by making candy, and for their liberal patronage.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club will be held next Tuesday afternoon in the Chapel at 3.30 on which occasion Mrs. Bessie Raymond Buxton of Peabody will be the speaker. Mrs. Buxton will speak on "Journeyings in Ireland" and her talk will be illustrated by folk songs by Mrs. Bradstreet. Mrs. Buxton will begin with a brief resume of Irish history, then will follow a description of the beautiful North coast of Londonderry and its famous walk, the country southward to Dublin, Dublin itself, its castles and cathedrals, Cork and Blarney Castle, and a trip down the River Lee. She will speak especially of the peasant life and will describe the little village of Killavullen, where she lived for some weeks. The songs will be the old Gælic folk songs "Shule agra," "The Cruiskeen Laron," "Shoheen Sho" and one or two others. Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe will be the hostess for the afternoon.

Paul Gee of Boston is stopping for a few days at the Golinda cottage.

Frank S. Chick has closed his cottage on Norman avenue for the season and has returned to Boston.

Miss Amy Lycett is in Lynn guest of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Loche.

At a recent session of the probate court in Salem administration was granted on the estate of the late Mary E. Lycett of Magnolia, Arthur M. Lycett, administrator.

Lycett—Sanborn.

At their beautiful new home on Norman avenue, Magnolia, last Saturday evening Fred Stanley Lycett, postmaster at Magnolia, and Miss Alice Maria Sanborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Sanborn of Manchester Cove, were united in marriage. It was a decidedly pretty affair and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the young people.

The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock by Rev. Dr. W. H. Rider of the Universalist church, Gloucester, and was followed by a reception from 7.30 to 9 o'clock.

To the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Miss Amy Lycett, sister of the groom, the bridal party marched into the room. Their only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sanborn, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, as best man and matron of honor respectively. Master George Till walked ahead of the couple and strew flowers in their path. The Episcopal double ring ceremony was used.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white Chinese silk, and carried white roses.

The ushers at the reception were Ernest Dunbar of Dorchester and Orrin Sawyer of Winchendon, brothers-in-law of the bride.

The decorations were for the most part beautifully colored autumn foliage. The popularity of the young people was well attested by the large and handsome assortment of wedding gifts, including cut glass, silver, bric-a-brac, etc. The bride was for several years a teacher in the Manchester public schools. Mr. Lycett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Lycett.

A little after nine the young people departed amid a shower of rice and confetti. They have been spending the week at Intervale, N. H., and will return to their new home in Magnolia Monday.

Sanborn—Fowell.

Everett Sanborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Sanborn of Manchester Cove, and Miss May Fowell of Nashua, N. H., were united in marriage at Nashua on October 1.

Biggest Success In Years.

It would seem as if all New England will have gone to the great annual New England Food Fair at Mechanics building, Huntington avenue, Boston, the place where all the food fairs and expositions for over a quarter of a century in Boston have wisely been held. Everybody knowns how splendidly the vast halls, wide corridors, broad stairways and numerous exits of this specially designed building are admirably suited to purposes of this character. To say that they have been thronged all the week is stating the case mildly. Thousands have come from near and far to enjoy the wondrous sights and sounds of this colossal fairyland, this city beautiful within a city. Such magnificence and multiplicity of the finest displays possible by American and foreign manufacturers and producers, have never before been made in Boston and never anywhere in America has there been offered such a high cost list of superb free attractions.

An object of curiosity, especially to the children, is a real live "Teddy bear" cub, which is attached to the end of a 50-foot chain in the stable yard of the Henry C. Pierce estate, opposite the Pride's depot. Later on, probably next week, "Teddy" will be shipped to Mr. Pierce's estate, "Cedar Island Lodge," in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Mary Bailey has moved from Manchester and is occupying rooms in the Leahy block on Hale street.

The Girls' club of the Baptist church met on Tuesday evening and elected officers for the year as follows: Miss Florence Chapman, president; Miss Bertha Bennett, vice pres.; Miss Dorothy Larcom, secretary, and Miss Cassie Williams, treasurer.

Angus Gillis has gone to New Haven, Conn., as foreman for Connolly Bros., who have a large contract there.

John A. Ober and family are perhaps the last of the Farms people to forsake camp life for this season, having closed their cottage at Idlewood Lake on Wednesday. They are now at their cottage on Hale street occupied the past season by the Dr. Porters.

At the conclusion of the practice drill of the "Tars" on Wednesday evening, W. B. Publicover in a neat speech upon behalf of the citizens presented to Capt. George Burchsted a highly decorated sword. The captain, although taken completely by surprise, recovered sufficiently to express his thanks and said he appreciated the honor bestowed upon him and should keep it as a valued souvenir of the campaign of 1908. The sword on Thursday was hung in the West street fire station for exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Woods who have occupied the Swift cottage on Haskell street during the past five months, yesterday moved to their Boston home for the winter.

The Misses May D. and Gertrude Connolly's classes in gymnastics will start on Saturday evening, Nov. 7, in Marshall's hall. The terms are the same as last year. The junior class will meet at 6 o'clock and the seniors at 8. Those who desire to become members may do so by making applications. The classes, which will be composed of nearly all of last year's members, together with many new ones, start with a neat sum to their credit, which was obtained at last July's entertainment and dance and will be devoted to the purchase of new apparatus.

Rev. Philip Rhinelander of Cambridge will preach at the Episcopal church, Beverly Farms, again Sunday morning.

Mrs. J. M. Publicover, Master George Hamer, Mrs. W. B. Publicover, Master Vibert Publicover and Mrs. Peeples, the latter's grandmother, composed a matinee party that attended Salem theatre Saturday afternoon, in celebration of Master Vibert's 11th birthday.

"Pride O'Prides" is the name of a football team of 12-year-olds organized at Pride's last Saturday, the youthful players being captained by Master Dick Craver. The boys collected sufficient subscriptions to go to Lynn and purchase suits and they are now looking for games with any boys' teams.

At last arrangements have been made for a tug-of-war contest between the Yannigans and the Manchester K. of C. team, and this Friday evening has been decided upon as the date. The contest will be held in the old Sacred Heart church, Manchester, at 8 o'clock, and the pull will be for a purse of $50, the team winning two out of three pulls taking the purse. The two teams pulled together at the K. of C. field day, at Tuck's Point, Labor Day, and the Yannigans won. Thomas Sheehan and his men, however, think they can put it all over Gaudreau and his men and will endeavor to demonstrate that feeling Monday night. It will be a hot contest. A crowd will attend from here, leaving on the 7.12 train. Tickets are 25 cents.

Whisperings :: :: Of the Breezes

The truth of the old proverb that "there is more than one way of killing a cat" was brought to our attention last Saturday afternoon when we noticed "Dr." F. W. Varney out in Marshell's field, so-called, with a surprisingly long pole in his hands, and half a dozen or more boys around him. The first thought was that our genial friend was helping the boys get their kite off some wires running across the field, some 25 or 30 feet from the ground. The "trouble" that brought the "Dr." to the field, however, was the refusal of his private telephone, extending from the drug store to his residence, to "work," and an investigation led to the field where a kite had become ensnarled in the wires, thus breaking the connection. Try as hard as he could Mr. Varney could not untangle the kite and thus separate the wires, so tying some oil soaked cord on the end of the pole, and lighting it, the strings were burned off and the blazing kite fell to the ground, and the wires were free once more.

The Misses Lillian Culbert and Ella Low left the Farms last Saturday and have been enjoying life at Intervale, N. H., since that time.

Quite a delegation from John West Colony attended the installation of officers of the colony at Manchester, Monday evening and last evening another delegation paid the Lynn colony a a visit.

Station Agent and Mrs. W. L. Allen expect to leave today for a few days' visit with friends at Springfield.

After a busy season of dances and entertainments of various kinds Neighbor's hall for the first time in quite a period, is not rented for next week, one indication that the good old summer time is past and gone.

Postmaster and Mrs. Elmer Standley and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hardy took up again the "stern realities" of life at the Farms last Monday after a week's enjoyment of the "simple life" at the Wayside Farms, Sandwich, N. H.

John L. Eaton was at the Farms Wednesday, superintending the packing up and storing of his household goods. Owing to poor health Mr. Eaton finds it much pleasanter living in Salem during the winter and consequently he has given up his suite of rooms in the Charles H. Day house, which he has occupied many years.

On Wednesday Capt. D. T. Smith and Louis Hardy went fishing out to the "Breakers" and landed about a dozen cod. While not so many in number the size averaged unusually large there being among the catch several that tipped the scales around 30 pounds.

It is expected that tonight will be a red letter event in the history of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, for their public installation is to be held in Neighbor's hall, on which occasion a large number will be present from out of town, and the public, at the Farms, is invited to attend. The invitation is not restricted, and all who desire to witness the installation are invited to attend. The work will be performed by an out-of-town degree staff of 18 members. There will be speechmaking, refreshments, an entertainment and dance.

The West Beach Tars are now provided with suits, the same having arrived on Wednesday. The suits were given out in the early evening, after which, headed by their drum corps, a practice drill was held. The costumes are of the sailor type, with blue trimmings, and certainly make a very natty appearance. Last evening the Tars, 60 in number, went to Lynn, and took part in the parade there, and all along the line they received merited applause. They plan to take part in all the parades hereabouts.

The second whist party given by John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, in G. A. R. hall last Friday evening was equally as successful as the first. Miss Margaret Quirk won the first ladies' prize, a belt buckle; the 2d, a fancy manicure set, was won by Miss Ella Low; the 3d, a Merry Widow hat pin, was won by Miss Sophia Bennett. The consolation, a glass dish, went to Mrs. F. H. Pierce. The best score by gentlemen was made by A. M. Marshall, whose prize was a pair of gold cuff buttons; the 2d, a hand-painted holder with whisk broom, Joseph B. Harlow; 3d, a pair of cuff buttons, Wm. F. Eddy, and the consolation, a neck tie silver clasp, E. Townsend. So much interest has been manifested that it is probable more parties will be arranged.

Only Two More Weeks of 7th Boston Food Fair.

The Boston Retail Grocers' Association, who have run six successful Food Fairs, have never before witnessed such immense attendances daily, as they have experienced during the first three weeks of their 7th and greatest Boston Food Fair which this year they are giving in the centrally located Park Square Coliseum. Never before, either, have they been able to make such a generally attractive exposition in point of architecture, decoration and electric illumination. Thousands upon thousands of patrons have pronounced these features alone worth the price of admission, which, by the way, is only 25c, and includes every attraction which is being presented, including the free vaudeville hall where Onaip holds forth to mystified audiences twice daily, at 5 and 8 p. m., the various beautiful exhibition booths where free samples are being handed out by the million, moving picture and vaudeville shows, band concerts, and many other amusements.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1908.

MASCONOMO HOUSE, AGAIN.

Promoters of Sanitarium Contradict Our Article that Property Would Continue to be Used as Hotel.

Several weeks ago we published in these columns an article on proposed improvements on the Masconomo House in Manchester, and gave in brief an interview with Mr. Hamilton, manager of the hotel the past season, as to his plans for next year. It seems in the light of further developments that Mr. Hamilton's story was all wrong. In justice to the promoters of the movement to change the Masconomo over into a sanitarium we publish the following letter bearing on the matter:

Boston, Sept. 21, 1908.

Mr. J. Alex. Lodge,
Editor, NORTH SHORE BREEZE,
Manchester, Mass.

My Dear Sir:---

My attention was called to the article in your issue of Friday, Sept. 18, entitled "Masconomo House to be Remodeled." Notwithstanding the statement made by Mr. Hamilton and published by you, I venture to say that no lease has been made to anyone for The Masconomo, for the reason that having control of the property it could not have been done without my sanction. Mr. Schoeffel only this morning tells me that there isn't a particle of truth in the statement made in your paper and that no one ought to know better than myself as I held papers from him which prevented him from doing so had he so desired.

If you had simply published the statement reported to have come from Mr. Hamilton, I might not have felt called upon to write this letter. But you say in the article, alluding to the circular which has been sent out, that presumably this circular was sent to members of the Summer Colony as it was worded in such a way as to "interest" them in the scheme.

You know that I have not attempted to use your paper to influence anyone, simply asking for news when I was ready to have it published.

The proposition which I am putting up, of establishing a sanitarium at Manchester-by-the-Sea is a straight, legitimate business proposition. I intended, when I started into the scheme, to carry it through. The prospects never were brighter than at the present time, and the time will come, when, if you chronicle the facts instead of hearsay, you will have to chronicle that fact that one of the best modeled, best located, up-to-date sanitariums in this country will take the place of The Masconomo-by-the-Sea, a place that will be a benefit to those who are over-worked and need rest, and a sanitarium that no one can object to.

Now, after such a statement made in your paper, I deem it only fair to myself that you publish this letter, which will set me right in the matter and set you right, and if you have been misled by Mr. Hamilton or anyone else, then the public will know, and I trust and believe that you will do the square thing in the matter.

Yours truly,
GEORGE E. LOVEJOY.

TWO RALLIES AT MANCHESTER NEXT WEEK.

Republicans Hold Torchlight Procession Thursday Evening. Companies from Out of Town. Speeches in Town Hall Afterward.

The Republicans are to have a big rally at Manchester next Thursday evening, of which a torchlight procession with perhaps four or five companies in line, and speechmaking in the town hall by leading campaign speakers, will be features.

Though the arrangements cannot be given in detail as regards the parade, it is likely that the Red Riding Hoods and the Red Devils from Beverly, the West Beach Tars, the Gloucester company, and possibly the Salem Witches will be on hand to take part in the parade, and these will be augmented by a local battalion made up for the occasion. The Town committee has procured a hundred torches and the boys are invited without further notice to fall in line on that night. The parade will be headed by Clark's Military band of Gloucester, 22 pieces.

The parade will start from the local station about 7.30, immediately after the arrival of the train from Beverly and Salem, at 7.20. The line of march will be through the principal streets. The citizens are asked to join in the occasion by lighting up their houses on the line of march on that night.

After the parade hot coffee and sandwiches will be provided for the marchers.

The speakers procured for the evening are Attorney-General Dana Malone; Congressman Gardner, Ex-Speaker John N. Cole and Rept. Walter Webster. The speaking, of course, will follow the parade.

Democratic Rally on Friday Evening. No Torchlight Procession, but plenty of Enthusiasm and Good Speakers. 7.45 the Hour of the Meeting.

The Democratic rally will be held on the following night,---Friday, and while there will be no torchlight procession, there will be more or less red fire and a fife and drum corps will head the speakers and faithful followers on their way to the Town hall. But what is lacking in this direction will be more than offset by the speakers. There will be plenty of enthusiasm within the hall and good speakers will be on hand.

The hour set for the rally is 7.45. The speakers procured include Arthur Withington, Esq., of Newburyport, the candidate for Congress from the Sixth district; Charles D. Smith, Esq., of Gloucester, candidate for senator; Charles A. Russell, Esq., of Gloucester, and the Hon. Frank C. Richardson of Essex.

As three of the speakers arrive from Gloucester on the 6.31 train the committee has arranged a small gathering of the committee and speakers at the home of Benjamin Corliss on Lincoln street previous to the rally. On the way to the Town hall the speakers will be lead by a fife and drum corps, probably, and there will be no lack of red fire to light their way.

Meeting at the Cove.

There was a sort of "warming up" at the Cove Tuesday evening, the first time anything in the nature of a rally had been held in that section of Manchester. Members of the Republican town committee and a few others left the square in a barge a little after seven o'clock and made an uneventful trip to the Cove, the entrance into the village being made mid a glare of red fire. The Cove school house was the gathering place and after coffee and sandwiches, cheese and doughnuts and cigars had been passed around some informal speech-making was in order.

E. P. Stanley was in charge and in his remarks he said that the meeting was held in an endeavor to arouse some enthusiasm this fall and so as to get out a large republican vote Col. Joe. Peterson of Salem said at a recent meeting he had attended that voting precincts ought to be provided in the outlying districts of towns so that all voters could have the chance to get to the polls and none would be kept away because of distance. It was this suggestion that lead Mr. Stanley to have this meeting called. He spoke of the candidates for president and state offices and urged a big vote.

Other speakers were L. W. Floyd, P. H. Boyle, G. S. Sinnicks and R. C. Allen. F. K. Swett lead in a little singing, after which some more coffee and sandwiches were partaken of and the meeting broke up.

The National Tickets.

Election Day,—Tuesday, Nov. 3,—is only eleven days off. Following are the national tickets:

Republican: William H. Taft, Ohio, president; James S. Sherman, New York, vice president.

Democratic: William J. Bryan, Nebraska, president; John W. Kern, Indiana, vice president.

Prohibition: Eugene W. Chafin, Illinois, president; Aaron S. Watkins, Ohio, vice president.

Socialist: Eugene V. Debs, Indiana, president; Benjamin Hanford, New York, vice president.

People's Party: Thomas E. Watson, Georgia, president; Samuel W. Williams, Indiana, vice president.

Independence Party: Thomas L. Hisgen, Massachusetts, president; John Temple Graves, Georgia, vice president.

Socialist Labor: *Martin R. Preston, president; Donald Munro, Virginia, vice president.

*Preston was nominated by the Socialist Labor party. Owing to his inability to make a campaign, he being confined in a jail in Nevada on a charge of murder, August Gilhaus of New York was named as his proxy.

Senator Shaw Feels Confident.

Senator James F. Shaw of Manchester asserted yesterday that he has secured 20 verbal pledges supporting his candidacy for the presidency of the Senate from Republican nominees.

This will be more than sufficient to elect, for, while there are 40 members of the body, there is certain to be at least half a dozen Democrats for him, and if Senator Shaw can hold the pledged vote he claims in the Republican caucus on the night before the Legislature convenes he will win.—Sunday Herald.

Red Cross.

The annual meeting of the Essex division of the Massachusetts branch, American National Red Cross, will be held next Tuesday afternoon, October 27, at 3 o'clock, at the Essex Institute, Salem, for the election of officers and all other business that may come before it.

Mrs. Herbert M. Clark of Southampton, L. I., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. L. W. Carter, School street.

A pocket-book containing a sum of money was found last week and is being advertised in our "classified adv." column this week.

Mrs. Eliza Crombie, accompanied by Mrs. Senter Stanley, is leaving tomorrow for a visit to the former's son, Carroll Crombie, and family, at Battle Creek, Mich.

Deputy Anderson of Gloucester paid an unexpected visit to North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., Tuesday evening. At the close of the meeting the entertainment committee furnished another surprise for the member,—an oyster stew.

Mrs. Edwin P. Stanley is on a visit to Cleveland, O., where she is a guest of Miss Rouland, who has been a frequent visitor to Manchester. She may go to Detroit to visit friends before returning home.

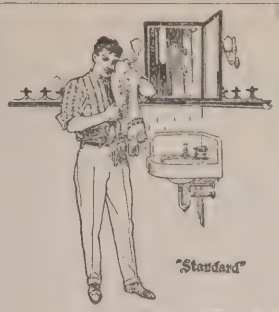

The last meeting of the registrars of voters before election—Nov. 3—will be tomorrow from 12 noon until 10 p. m. This will be the last opportunity before election to have names put on the voting list, or corrections made.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Cheever were in Wellesley Farms over the week-end visiting Mrs. Cheever's sister Mrs. Ernest Mead, and family.

Frank Robbins was in town over Saturday and Sunday on his way home from the mountains where he has been with Mrs. W. Scott Fitz's horses the past month, and he left for Boston Monday for the winter. Mr. Robbins had a pretty hard time of it on his way to the mountains in September in a car with Mrs. Fitz's horses. At a stop in Portsmouth a couple of tramps tried to enter the car for a free ride, which was promptly declined, but out of his good nature Frank passed out some sandwiches when he heard their "hard luck" story, and in reply for his kindness one of the fellows hit him with a heavy piece of joice, almost breaking his arm, and as a result of which Mr. Robbins was doctored for three weeks.

The Frank P. Fraziers, who had the Caswell estate at Pride's the past season, left Tuesday for their winter home in Chicago.

S. Reed Anthony and family were among the early week departures from Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper left West Manchester the first of the week and are stopping at the Somerset, Boston, a fortnight before sailing for Europe. They will spend the winter in Rome, and may prolong their stay on the other side well into next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Sumner, who have been spending the summer at Ruxton, Md., came on to Manchester last week and were at Mrs. Sumner's estate the "Rockwell Cottage," Smith's Point. Mr. Sumner returned to Baltimore the first of this week and Mrs. Sumner planned to return yesterday.

Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge, accompanied by Miss Payson and Miss Brewer, returned Sunday from a ten days' automobile tour of the Berkshires and New York state. Mr. Coolidge is opening his town house on Dartmouth street, Boston, toward the middle of next month.

A recent engagement announced is that of Miss Lee Frances Alexander, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Welcome T. Alexander of New York, to James Coats Auchincloss, a son of Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss, of New York. The Auchinclosses spent most of the summer at the Oceanside, Magnolia.

Miss Elizabeth Oakley, who has been spending the summer abroad, in England and on the continent, arrived in New York on the Mauretania a week ago and came on to Manchester Saturday for a short visit with her sister, Mrs. J. Arthur Brooks, and family, at Old Neck. This is the first summer, by the way, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks have had a cottage on the North Shore, having usually gone to the South Shore. They are delighted with the beatuies of Manchester and surroundings and have lingered here into the autumn. They are leaving next Monday for Milton, where they have taken a house for the winter.

Patrons of the Cliff club, Marblehead, which has been having such a profitable season under the efficient management of A. L. Rowell, formerly of the North Shore Grill, Magnolia, will be pleased to learn that the club will be kept open until Dec. 1.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Along the line of wood roads the new road being opened in connection with Manchester's additional water supply, will form a valuable link in the chain of roads running through North Shore woods. The road starts from the junction of Pleasant and Pine streets, at the same point as the old Wenham road starts, but at practically right angles to it, and extends through the woods to Chebacco road, near Gravel Pond, and almost a mile beyond the point where the other road comes out. The road runs through a less hilly section,—in fact, only one hill of any proportions is encountered, and this will commend it to many, over the other Wenham woods roads. While the road is not yet open for passage, it is passible. It will be ready for use in the spring.

At a sesston of the Board of Aldermen, Gloucester, this week a communication from Col. W. D. Sohier relative to grade crossing on Mangolia avenue was read and was referred to the committee on highways.

An order was introduced by Alderman Holmes for a hearing November 6 on the abolition of grade crossing on Magnolia avenue by the discontinuance of the present highway and the substitution of a new way.

Among contemplated improvements and building operations at Magnolia, we are informed from a reliable source, is the construction of a group of twelve stores for summer use. We understand that the property on the corner of Hesperus and Lexington avenues, where the Hesperus tennis courts have been located, has been purchased or is about to be purchased for this purpose, and that the stores will be built around a hollow square, or court, which will itself be a feature of the layout, with beautiful fountain in center. Entrance into the stores will be from this court. We are with-holding the name of the projector of this proposition until we can be informed more fully as to the scheme.

Roberts & Hoare, the Manchester carpenters and builders, have the prospects of a fairly busy winter before them. While there is nothing in sight in the line of new summer residences, alterations and additions are to be made to many of the places along the shore. This firm started the preliminary work this week on the Essex Co. Club improvements and changes, and they have also started on work for Mrs. W. Scott Fitz at Smith's Point. The stable on the old Major Sturgis estate, one of the old landmarks on the Point is being torn down and on its site, practically, will be built a pretty cottage foi Mrs. Fitz's coachman.

Mrs. G. D. Howe is having a small addition built to her gardener's cottage on Smith's Point. Roberts & Hoare are doing the work.

Wood Fires Set by Miscreants in Beverly Farms-Manchester Woods?

The following communication was printed in the Salem News of Monday, Oct. 19, and should be of interest to all Breeze readers:

"Riding through the woods between this town and Manchester just before nightfall, I passed no fewer than three well started fires by the side of the road, eating their way into the forest that lines the wood path all along. Each of the fires covered some square yards and had plenty of dry leaves and under brush to feed upon. The first was supposed to have been lighted by a match or cigar stump thoughtlessly thrown out of a passing vehicle, and the two of us had not much trouble in putting it out. But within a few rods we came upon a second and then a third, all three not a quarter of a mile apart. If this is carelessness, it is gross carelessness, with the woods in their present parched condition, and our neighbors just rescued from the most trying experiences. If it is a deliberate attempt to start forest fires in this densely wooded section, it deserves the promptest and most vigirous attention from the police and others.

VIATOR.

. . . Judgement in buying your rugs . . .

Unless you are an expert judge of rug quality, it would be wise precaution to depend on the quality of the store you buy of rather than use your own judgment in choosing a rug. You cannot tell whether the rug you see in the show room will keep its fine appearance and render good service ten years from now. And you cannot tell whether it will not. Hence rug buying is and always will be a matter of trust in a store's reputation. If there wasn't another thing in favor of this Rug and Upholstry store its reputation for dependability is enough to render it worthy of the immense rug patronage it now enjoys. But there is more; the assortment is extensive, you find most beautiful patterns here, and quality considered, prices are comparatively low.

It is North Shore's Foremost Rug and Upholstering Store and Recognized as Such by the Purchasing Public

Manchester Woman's Club.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon in the Chapel, on which occasion Mrs. Bessie Raymond Buxton of Peabody gave a delightful talk on her "Journeyings in Ireland," her talk being illustrated by folk song by Mrs. Bradstreet.

There was a large attendance of club members, the membership now having reached the club limit, —100, with four already on the waiting list. At this meeting the club flower was decided upon,—carnation; the club color, pink; and the club motto: "To Will is to Do."

The club has also decided as one of the things it will promote, stamp saving among the children of the town, which will be explained more fully in our next issue. Miss Lila Goldsmith will be in charge of this.

Mrs. Alace H. Wing and the president, Mrs. Johnson, were elected delegates to the next confederation meeting at Bridgewater, Nov. 2.

Mrs. Buxton's talk was of a very informal nature and was in brief an account of her stop in Killavullen, a little village of 50 inhabitants in which there were ten public houses and five policemen. She began, however, with a brief resume of Irish history, and then gave a description of Londonderry and its famous walk, the country southward of Dublin, Dublin itself, its castles and cathedrals, Cork and Blarney Castle, and a trip down the River Lee.

Mrs. Bradstreet had a beautiful contralto voice and her selections were particularly well rendered.

For the tea following the lecture Mrs. H. B. Hinchliffe was hostess, and she was assisted by Mrs. F. G. Cheever, Mrs. A. C. Needham, Mrs. Clifford Goodwin, Mrs. John Campbell and Mrs. R. T. Glendenning.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, Nov. 3, when "The New View of the Bad Boy" will be the subject of a talk by Warren F. Spaulding.

Hon. Eben S. Draper Fit For the Governor's Chair.

Eben S. Draper, the Republican candidate for governor, stands out as eminently one of the best types of the civilization and spirit of Massachusetts so far as it can be illustrated in the individual. Born on her soil, educated in her schools, from earliest manhood closely identified with one of her leading industries, thoroughly in touch with her institutions, devoted to her history and traditions, he is keenly alive to everything which makes for her development. Both by nature and training he is an ideal man to represent the honor and dignity of the commonwealth of Massachusetts in the office of governor. He is, moreover, a man of culture, a lover of literature and art—a man whom the cares of a busy industrial and commercial life have not hindered from refreshing and endowing his mind with the things which make for mental breadth and refinement. Study and reading he has supplemented by extensive travel, and, like all Americans who travel with their eyes and ears open and their minds in a state of constant receptivity as well, has absorbed broad ideas from a wide world, and no public question which may be submitted to him comes with its claim for attention to a man who is hedged about by a "pent-up Utica" of prejudice.

He is quick to Perceive, careful in Analyzation, Cogent and sound in Reasoning, deliberative in Judgment, and, when his way is made clear to his mind and conscience, Fearless in Pursuing it.

During the period of his incumbency of the executive chair in the absence of Governor Guild the people of the state have come to know him for themselves and there has been no day but he has gained in their confidence and esteem and in their belief that he was "the right man in the right place," and that they do think so will be generally attested when the votes are counted on the night of November 3.

MAGNOLIA citizens will have particular interest in the election on Nov. 3, for an important issue is the proposed new charter for Gloucester. Gloucester's expenditures, and the manner in which the city is run, is of vital importance to Magnolia, more so than to any other section of the city, in fact, for Magnolia section is the best paying, as far as taxes is concerned, in the city. Taxes are on the increase every year; the debt is growing larger and with a large interest account appropriations are necessarily diverted from some other direction where they are very much needed. Last year the appropriation for interest alone was about $60,000, and next year it will be larger. Money is appropriated for each department for the year and at the end of six months many of the departments are overdrawn, which can only be accounted for by poor financial management. Something has got to be done to place the responsibility where it belongs and from our understanding of it the new charter just fits the case.

The new charter, as we understand it, places the city in the position nearer like the old form of town government, with board of selectmen, etc., than anything now existing. Every office holder is responsible to all the people of the city and he must use good judgement and not be influenced by any political motives or the voters will have a chance to turn him down at the next election.

In city government there is altogether too much of this "you-help-me-and-I-will-help-you" business. If men are elected "at large" there is no chance to work for any particular ward or precienct to please certain constituents, but all, being elected by the people in general, would work for the common good of all.

The North Shore is at its best these days. The foliage has taken on all the exquisite coloring of the early Autumn, and, to the true lover of nature, a tramp through the woods is a pleasure unexcelled by anything. There are many delightful walks within easy distance of Manchester and the warm weather of Saturday and Sunday drew hundreds of pedestrians to the retreat of the maple and pine.

Monday was a very smoky day along the North Shore. The sun, struggling bravely to penetrate the smoke, resembled a huge, red ball, while it was practically impossible to see out of the inner harbor. Tuesday, however, dawned bright and colder, and the smoke had disappeared. Forest fires along Cape Ann were given as the cause.

Your Figure Does it Need Improving?

SUCH a radical change in styles that most every woman finds it necessary to answer "yes." The graceful Directoire modes, with their long, slender lines all call forth for a similar shaped foundation. This is where your corset plays the important part. If it is out of harmony—built on the old style lines—the real beauty of cut and tailoring of your new fall garments is lost. Start right. Before you are fitted to your new suit, gown or skirt—talk this little matter of figure building over with our corsetiere. All the latest and best corset models—the kind you need—now ready for your inspection.

Belliveau—Chisholm.

At the Sacred Heart church, Manchester, Monday morning at nine o'clock Miss Minnie Chisholm and Joseph Belliveau, both well known young people of this town, were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. Wm. F. Powers. The couple were attended by Miss Teresa D'Entremont and John Chisholm, the latter a cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a dress of cream voile with all-over lace and trimmings to match, and she wore a veil, caught up with white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Belliveau left Wednesday on a honeymoon trip to the bride's home in St. Frances, Guysboro Co., N. S., for a few weeks, and then they will go to Mr. Belliveau's home in M. E. Pubnico.

The meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society last Friday evening was of a very interesting nature. The speaker was John Farquhar of Boston who gave a very practical and suggestive talk along the line of the planting of bulbs for natural effects. The speaker endeavored to emphasize the necessity of harmonizing the surroundings with an eye to improving our natural beauties.

There was a beautiful exhibition of large chrysanthemums by Wm. Swan, and Herbert Shaw had some apples on exhibition. John D. Morrison showed some samples of gypsy moth clusters, showing how the eggs are layed in old hats, cans, tins, and anything the moth comes in contact with.

An oyster stew was served after the meeting. There were about 40 members out, including three ladies.

The question box was used by many, and some of the questions had to be held over until next meeting. One was the advisability of changing the meeting night to some other day.

Mr. Bullock's work consists of superintending and inspecting all construction done by the department, a position which only a most thoroughly capable man can attain. Mr. Bullock's family will remain in New York until he is settled in Newport.

Moth Supt. Morrison showed us something of a curiosity a few days ago in the form of an apple on which was "built" the nest of a browntail moth. The nest covered one half of the apple with its silken fibres. It looked as though the nest had been "built" before the apple had attained maturity, as the nest was stretched considerably.

Daniel Allen and family closed their summer house off Summer street this week and returned to Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Winchester have been spending the week in Maine.

Miss Statira MacDonald came on from White Plains, N. Y., this week for a short visit with her parentss, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. MacDonald, Summer street.

Harry Swett is on a pleasure trip to New York for a few days.

Caretaker Wilbur Paige picked an apple on the Town Farm one day recently weighing 16 ounces,—a record breaker. He brought it to the Town hall last evening and was showing it around.

Next Tuesday will be G. A. R. day at the Food Fair in Mechanic's hall, Boston.

Caretaker A. U. McCormack of Singing Beach has been given the additional care of Masconomo park for the present, by the Park Commissioners. Bathing at Singing Beach continues to attract many daily, despite the advancing autumn days. Last Sunday as many as twenty were in bathing at one time about the noon hour.

Burleigh Smith and his bride of Attica, N. Y., came on to Manchester last Saturday and are spending their honeymoon at the Dame homestead on Proctor street, Smith's Point.

A number of local Red Men are planning to go to Lynn next Wednesday evening to take part in the big Red Men's parade held on that evening, preliminary to the meeting of the Great Council on Thursday. The crowd will leave on the 6.31 train. Many features have been provided for their entertainment, including a vaudeville show at the Lynn theatre after the parade.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan S. Peabody and two sons returned last Saturday from Biltmore, N. C., after a stop-over of a few days at Mrs. Peabody's former home in Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. Peabody has been at Biltmore a year taking up a study of forestry and kindred branches of work at the well known Biltmore school, and for the present he will be engaged at this kind of work at the Dexter Farm, Forest street, where Mr. Dexter is opening up a large tract of wood land, building roads, laying water pipes, etc. Biltmore is regarded as one of the leading, if not the leading school of its kind in the country.

Rev. Frederick J. Libby returned last Saturday from a three weeks' vacation trip to the South, as far as Thomasville, Ga. Mr. Libby included a visit to Tuskegee, Booker Washington's great institution, in his itinerary and addressed the Chapel exercises one morning. His trip, aside from the vacation feature of it, was to make a study of the negro problem as far as possible and to visit the schools established for the education of the colored young men and women.

Rev. F. J. Libby will preach at the Village church Sunday morning at 10.30. Sunday school at 11.45; evening service at 7.30. The Friday evening services have been resumed.

Work will be started the coming week on the new Men's clubhouse at Magnolia, in all probability. Enough money has been subscribed to warrant going ahead with the work. Mr. Lee, architect, at whose offices the plans are being prepared, was expected back from Europe yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Village Church will be held on Monday evening, Nov. 2. Every church member is expected to be present.

Dennis Ballou was drawn as one of petit jurors to the U. S. circuit court at Boston, Nov. 4, at the meeting of the aldermen this week.

Arthur Spalton, carrier from Magnolia station postoffice, has concluded his duties for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler are spending the week in Townsend, guests of Stephen B. Allen.

Ralph Richardson is in Peterboro, N. H., the guest of friends.

Miss Grace Story has returned from Europe, from a 5 months trip and is the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story.

Rheumatic Pains

Are relieved with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They also overcome that nervous irritation which prevents sleep, because they soothe the nerves. If taken as directed they are invaluable to chronic sufferers. It is the experience of others; try them. Your druggist sells them; ask him what those who use them say.

"Dr. Miles' Pain Pills relieve me from rheumatic pains and nervousness almost immediately. We have never been without them since we learned of their usefulness, as they relieve me of so much suffering.

Manchester K. of C. Team Shows up the Stronger in Tug-of-War Contest.

The Tug-of-War contest last Friday evening at Parish hall, Manchester, between the champion "Yannigans" of Beverly Farms and the K. of C. team of Manchester was pulled off according to schedule, and a pretty lively contest it was, too. Tug-of-war contests are usually very interesting, but this particular contest had been looked forward to for a long time by Beverly Farms and Manchester suppporters of the two teams and much enthusiasm had been aroused. The result was that a big crowd was on hand to see the two teams get together to settle honors once and for all.

By previous arrangements the team winning two out of three pulls was to be the winner. Though it was intended that the pull would be at 8 o'clock sharp it was after 8.30 before the first pull was called. It was a pretty contest. Manchester seemed to get a little the better of it at the start, and when the three minutes were up Manchester had won by less than half an inch.

Enthusiasm run high. It was the first time that the Yannigans had ever been beaten. They had won from the K. of C. team twice before, and from other teams they had won, also. They came to Manchester that night feeling pretty sure of winning again, but when the bar went up Friday night they realized right off that they were pulling against a different team than that had met on July 4, or Labor Day.

The second pull was a little different. The Farms seemed to have it on the K. of C.'s from the start. When time was called they had about six inches of the rope. This caused the crowd to go wild with enthusiasm and naturally now that each team had won a pull, and the next pull would decide the winner of the contest everybody was boiling over with enthusiasm.

"Bunnie" Woods, the popular athletic instructor of Boston, who summers at the Farms, had come along as referee. He did referee the first two pulls, but when the last pull was delayed so long, he took the 10.09 train back to the Farms and when the time for the pull finally came Peter McLaughlin and "Curly" Donovan were agreed upon as the officials.

Everybody watched the preparations for this final pull with interest. When finally Donovan counted the "One," "Two," "Three," and the bar was raised the crowd was boiling over with enthusiasm. The instant the bar was lifted Manchester took the lead. First they had about half an inch. Then they got an inch, an inch-and-a-half, two inches, then they seemed to be held for an instant, and again they went ahead still more,—four, five, six inches, and the time was almost up. It would be impossible for the Farms team to get that back. While there was a chance to get back the six inches in the short time remaining, the chances were very, very slim,—not one in a hundred.

The crowd was wild, cheering and jumping around. The anchor man on the Yannigans was pulled completely over. His face was almost touching the cleat in front of him. He could never get back in position again. Some thought he had fainted. But he seemed to pull himself together again. He got his knees, instead of his feet against the cleats, but he was pulled over again, and just then an unfortunate thing occurred. A spectator along side Hansen thought the fellow was being hurt, and seeing how he was being pulled the fellow put his hand on Hansen's shoulder to sort of lift him out of his predicament, thinking Hansen was being injured, he told the reporter afterward. Someone pushed the spectator aside and as a result of this Donovan afterward declared interference and no contest.

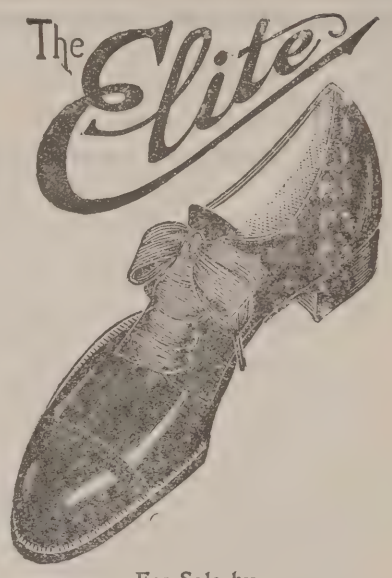

Whatever may have been the technical decision, however, Manchester won as far as the merits of the two teams were concerned. Anyone who saw that last pull and could say that Manchester didn't win it must have been blind. Capt. Gaudreau thought they were beaten and shook hands with the captain of the K. of C. team. Manchester put it all over the Farms team on the last pull, but as long as the unfortunate occurrence referred to above did take place, of course it gives a chance to say there was "No contest."

Everybody who saw the contest, whom we have asked about it, says that Manchester won. The Manchester team did not recognize Donovan as referee. They say it was their understanding that McLaughlin was referee and Donovan was to give the count. McLaughlin declared the contest won by Manchester. Donovan declares "No contest." And there you are.

The colleges of New England are uniting in having a big torchlight parade in Boston next Friday, Oct. 30, and Councilman A. P. Loring, jr., has extended the West Beach Tars, together with the other Beverly organizations, a cordial invitation to parade, and if the invitation is accepted, they will probably be in line following the Harvard Republican club. It is very likely that the local boys will accept.

The Misses May D. and Gertrude Connolly in response to the demand will have a boys' as well as girls' and ladies' classses in gymnastics this winter. The first lesson will be given on Monday evening, Nov. 9. All the boys who desire to take physical culture lessons are invited.

Mrs. M. A. Mackie of Melrose and Miss Anna Smith of Gloucester have been guests the past week of Mrs. J. M. Publicover and family, High street.

The telephone company are contemplating enlarging their quarters, and to that end they may take the whole of the floor in Marshall's hall where they are now located.

Two exceedingly large apples have been on exhibition in one of the show cases at Varney's the past week. They were grown in the orchard of Wm. Leahy and weigh 14½ and 13 ounces, respectively.

E. J. Toomey is having a fortnight's vacation from his duties at Varney's drug store. Mr. Grove returned to duty Monday after a vacation trip to his home in Baltimore and to the White Mountains.

Miss Marjorie Lenox, who teaches in one of the public schools of Cambridge, was a guest over the week-end of her sister, Mrs. John A Gray, Haskell st.

Another fish story! In an endeavor to equal the catch made by Capt. Smith and Louis Hardy last Wednesday Peter Gaudreau and Capt. Smith went out the first of the week, but despite their untiring efforts, after five hours tossing on the billowy deep, they returned to West Beach pier with only three little "tinkers" to their credit,—or to be more exact, two cod and a haddock, weighing about 2 pounds each. Frank Woodbury is authority for this story, which we have every reason to believe is a true one.

Bernard J. Woods, the well known athletic instructor, left the Farms Wednesday and went over to New York on a flying trip. Though Mr. and Mrs. Woods have opened their apartments in Boston for the winter the professor will come to the shore for some weeks yet to attend to patrons.

John Cunningham returned last Saturday from a two months' visit to his old home in Ireland.

The Boston Food Fair Will Close Oct. 31st.

The final days of this 7th and most successful Boston Food Fair, run by the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, in the Park Square Coliseum, are drawing to a close, and only next week will the public be able to hear Stewart's Boston Band conducted by the famous Mollenhauer, in daily afternoon and evening concerts (3 to 5 and 8 to 10,) each program being entirely different and covering a range so wide as to please the most varied tastes. Mollenhauer has written a new march especially for this Fair, entitled "The Stentorian," which has made a great hit with the large and enthusiastic audiences which have heard it this week.

These days afford the last opportunities to view the magnificent decorations and lighting effects of this Fair, to do the round of amusements so generously furnished by the management, gather up some of the millions of samples the exhibitors are giving away, take in the free vaudeville and moving picture shows, listen to the band and be mystified by Onaip.

But remember, there has been so successful a Fair this year, that the Boston Retail Grocers' Association has decided to give another next fall.

A party of Farms young people held a second hay rack ride last Monday night, this time going to Gloucester, and while there they took in a dance at the Armory for a couple of hours.

Daniel J. Linehan and family who have occupied the upper suite of rooms in Mrs. George Pierce's house on High street moved to Boston last Monday.

Mlle. L'Etourneau and her sister, who conduct the store in Neighbor's hall, have recently added to their line the serving of first-class lunches and meals, which to many is a service much appreciated. They already have a number of regular patrons.

Owing to counter attractions and perhaps because it is a little early in the season, the Associates connected with Preston post have not yet organized for the winter. Some of the valued members are in the West Beach Tars, which would suggest that it might be well to elect a president of the U. S. before these particular members are ready to settle down for their weekly meetings. However, there are a number of the members who do get together on Thursday evenings and spend an hour or two very pleasantly.

Assessor Theodore A. Holmes and family have moved into their new cottage on High street. The house is one of the prettiest at the Farms, both inside and out, and has eight rooms, with all the up-to-date conveniences. It is a valuable addition to the Farms' residential portion.

Preston W. R. C. held an interesting meeting on Tuesday evening. A number of visitors were present from out of town. Four new members were taken in.

Daniel Hallisey is another of the Farms' residents who has purchased a house lot at the new Walker field park, Montserrat. Mr. Hallisey's lot is No. 26, corner Pearl and Warren streets. He expects to build soon, it is said.

Over 200 guests, many from out of town, attended the public installation of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, at Neighbor's hall, last Friday evening. The degree staff of 18 members from Francis Higginson colony of Salem performed the work most creditably and at the conclusion the staff received much merited applause. Refreshments were served and everybody had a good time.

Forester H. Pierce has opened a shop in the Back Bay, Boston, for conducting a plumbing and heating business.

The annual inspection of Preston Post, 188, G. A. R., was held on Wednesday evening, the inspecting officer being James H. Rivers of Manchester, who was accompanied by a delegation from Post 67. At 8.30 the doors were open to admit the Associates. Speechmaking was in order and a collation was served, everybody joining in the spirit of the occasion with a will.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mrs. William C. Webster is now on the mending hand from injuries received in a recent fall while walking on Hart street.

During the past week the citizens of the Farms have been handed a "lemon," to use the vernacular, in the form of their 1908 tax bills, which show a big increase over those of last year.

The big Republican torchlight parade in Salem last evening attracted a large crowd of Beverly Farms people.

The many Farms friends of Dr. and Mrs. Edward T. McGourty of Beverly sympathize with them in the loss of their little daughter who passed away Thursday.

Former Alderman Charles H. Trowt will probably be the first of the candidates for mayor to get into line to make the campaign for city election an interesting one, and to that end he has secured quarters in the Masonic block on Cabot street. He has also hired City hall for the night before election.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Downs of North Adams returned yesterday from a pleasant visit with Farms' friends.

Breeze subscription $1.00.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Pike arrived home the first of the week from a visit among friends in Maine.

Mrs. James B. Dow celebrated the passing of another milestone in life's journey last Monday, on which occasion a number of friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations.

There being so many vacant tenements at the Farms at the present time a number of families have changed their place of abode. Among those who will soon move is Lindsay Emery, who will go from the Linehan house on West street to the F. H. Pierce house; Edmund Knowlton from the Nugent house on Vine street to the C. H. Day house, formerly occupied by J. L. Eaton. Robert Smith will soon move from the Fenno cottage on Hart st. Michael Lyons yesterday moved into the second tenement on the Haskell house on Vine street, owned by J. J. Nugent.

The West Beach Tars went to Ipswich Tuesday evening and last night they took part in the big parade in Salem, with their drum corps and full ranks of 60, and in their natty white suits they made a fine appearance, coming in for generous applause all along the line. Next Monday evening they will take part in the parade at Beverly and Thursday they will go to Manchester, where a lively rally is to be held in the Town hall after the parade. The Tars have hired Marshall's lower hall for their headquarters the balance of the campaign and on Wednesday evening they held a business meeting. They have numerous invitations to take part in parades.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mrs. Paul Haskell, who was a Farms' resident for years, has recently changed her place of abode from Beverly to North Beverly.

Miss Winifred Hinds of Roxbury has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanwood at their home on Oak street the past week.

W. B. Publicover and a delegation from the local order of Pilgrim Fathers went to Swampscott last evening and installed the officers of the colony at that place. Next Wednesday it is likely that a large delegation from John West colony will journey to Salem where they will be the guests of Francis Lee Higginson colony at their installation.

F. I. Folkins is concluding his season's work at Wyatt's market tonight and returns to his home in Lynn, where he will probably be engaged this winter.

Miss Frances Connolly spent the week-end with the Misses Irene and Nellie Fay at their home in Roxbury. The theatre and food fair were on the program for Miss Connolly's entertainment.

Mlle. L'Etourneau and her sister moved their household goods into the upper tenement of the James J. Nugent house on new Vine street on Wednesday.

Frank Connolly of the Boston custom house force spent a couple of days at the Farms the first of the week the guest of his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. James B. Connolly, Haskell street. Mrs. Maurice Quinn and Mrs. Maurice Quinn, jr., of Worcester, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly part of the past week also.

It is very likely that the Farms will have a torchlight parade and celebration, for a subscription paper for this purpose has been put in circulation in order that funds to defray the expenses may be secured. The night set is next Wednesday, Oct. 28, and a number of out of town battalions will be invited.

A Strong Leaning Toward Plainness

From the heavy ornate carving of but a generation ago came a desire for things free from affectation, and just pretty in their simplicity. Then followed a desire to have furniture free from that high shine or polish finish and there grew out of that the wax finish for the oak and the dull varnish finish for mahogany.

Now we've applied this principle

To the Finish on Brass Beds

Rubbing the brass on emery wheels and giving it a dull sort of satin finish. It lends to the bed a very dignified look and really gives it the appearance of being more costly. It harmonizes beautifully with the dull finish on the furniture and being rather new 'tis extremely desirable. 'Tis applied to beds of the more simple lines and looks remarkably well on those with square tubing.

A pretty pattern bed just produced is sampled this morning. It has heavy 2 inch corner posts with the Colonial corner caps, the cross rails are of square tubing and there are seven uprights; 'tis without exaggeration a beautiful bed.

Army of Delighted Visitors.

What may well be termed a "Delightful Occupation" it is to sit in any of the great halls of the Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, Boston, on any day and watch the crowds come, be entertained and depart tired with a day's sight seeing at the annual New England food fair, but all supremely happy. And vastly improved in mind too, for no one can listen to the exquisite music by the Mexican National band; can study, even briefly, the magnificent exhibit of her resources and the indicators of her progress made by the Mexican government under the special direction of President Porfirio Diaz; can visit the Frank C. Bostock consolidated trained wild animal arena with its hundreds of rare animals and the thrilling and fascinating performances given five times daily by the most daring, most successful animal trainers in the world; can sit in the two moving picture theatres without being hugely entertained and instructed. And all of this vast entertainment is free to all patrons of the fair.

The coming week is the final one of the New England food fair and the capacity of the magnificent Mechanics building will doubtless be severely taxed to accommodate the thousands who will want to take advantage of this splendid opportunity to visit this celebrated international and interstate exposition.

ENGLISH LITFRATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

[NOTE. The allusion in the article on Defoe to the testimony of Dr. Adam Clarke as to the religious value of Robinson Crusoe, took for granted the fact that the story as originally published contained many moral and religious digressions, which are now generally omitted as rather a handicap upon the literary interest of the romance.]

The name of Jonathan Swift cannot be omitted in a list of English men of letters of the eighteenth century; but it suggests one of the most painful chapters in literature. If we were believers in astrology, we might suppose that an evil star was in the ascendant at his birth. His whole life may be said to have been lived in the midst of cross seas and tempests. He suffered more than most of his contemporaries from the political bitterness of his time, which it must be admitted he did much to stir up and exasperate. Many of the storms that tossed his bark were of his own raising. Of an intense and undisciplined temper, he was ill fitted for the turbulent scenes in which his life was cast. He was deeply involved in the political and religious strifes of his day, and by his many publications on questions which were ranging men and parties in hostile camps he made both ardent friends and bitter enemies. As Dean of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, he used the opportunity of his high position to further his ambitious schemes and to add to his political power; but as an ecclesiastic he never won favor or religious influence. He was a self-willed churchman, inclined to lord it over God's heritage, but he was no shepherd of the flock. He spent much of his time in England, in Ireland was always unpopular, partly on account of his violent Whig partisanship, and partly as a prominent representative of an alien church. He did good service to Ireland by his "Drapier's Letters" in which he argued powerfully for a sound currency, but he never attached to himself the Irish people. At Laracor, one of his rural charges, he seldom had above half a dozen in his congregation, and on one occasion, seeing no one present but his clerk, began the service, "Dearly beloved Roger, The Scripture moveth us, in sundry places," etc.

Swift's strange attachments will probably always remain a mystery, especially

"POLITICS—A RESUME OF PARTY POLICIES."

The above was the theme at the Congregational church last Sunday evening, and an unusually large number for an evening service were out to listen to Rev. L. H. Ruge, pastor of the church.

The preacher took for his text the words of St. Paul as found in Rom. 13: 1.

"There is no power but of God; and the powers that be are ordained of God."

The following is the sermon in brief:

"Biblical history shows that the leaders in religion, in every age, were active in political affairs. Absolom electioneered for the throne of his father. Zadok, the priest, was a staunch political partisan of David. Nathan, the prophet, used his influence in the selection of David's successor. Jesus settled certain political questions; he associated with the politicians of his day, and although he did not pose as either a politician or a statesman, in him we find the true ideal of both.

"In the above chapter Paul teaches certain political tenets in harmony with the teachings of Christ, and it is significant that these christian teachings are today most vital in the evolution of political life. They are embodied in the political policies and platforms of the civilized world. It does not matter one iota whether men like the idea or not, the fact is absolute that it is impossible to eliminate the influence of christianity from the political progress of the world.

"The early church soon became political and far seeing public men of ancient civilization saw what would be the outcome if an emperor of Rome like Constantine ever adopted christianity, and thus they tried to stamp it out. France in recent times tried to destroy it, but in vain.

"In the concrete the official, political church is no longer recognized as a political power, but in the abstract, in its essential part and power, its teachings are fundamental in progressive politics.

"Constantines, Gambettas, Bismarks, Lincolns come, lift up its standard and pass away, but the standard remains and is advanced and until some greater creed of human happiness and well-being takes its place it will continue to advance until all nations are under its beneficent folds

"In every age preachers of righteousness like Dr. Washington Gladder raise their voice against the iniquity of the state, and politicians like Roosevelt and Bryan carry the standard on to political success.

"The political principles of party platforms are an interesting study as showing the embodiment of christian principles in politics, and in the different parties these principles overlap and interlap and dove-tail so that it is hard to distinguish between them."

The speaker then began to sum up some of the important reforms now embodied in the parties. He said:

"The purification of politics and public office is a stern issue. There is a demand for uncorruptible men in public office and only clean men dare ask for the places in the Republic. Men of unsavory reputation are being relegated to obscurity.—The issue of representative assemblies, as to whether the people or special interests shall rule, is here to stop.—Universal suffrage, the exercise of the franchise, without fear or favor, not only in Massachusetts but in Dixie land.—The essential equality of all men.—The question of equal justice, when the highest judiciary shall operate as truly for the poor and weak as for the rich and strong.—The raising of the age limit in systematic toil to sixteen, thus protecting the children against the greed of parents and capitalist to give them the full meed of youth, its play and ideals.—The protection of the home against the great social evil.—The demand for thorough sanitation so that those who dig in the deepest bowels of the earth shall have as pure air to breath as that which fans the frieze of the office of the millionaire who unduly profits by that underground labor.—Scientific, expert governmental investigation into the cause and cure of disease.—Government relief for human misery, not as a charity but as a stern obligation; to mitigate the curse of idleness, of povertyt of indigent old age, of worry and fear and despair, and the establishment of the office of specialist in sociological problems for the cure of human woes; this is the crying demand of an enlightened age.—The elimination of the drinking evil and the doping of man with deadly drugs.—The prohibition of adulterated foods, imitation of food stuffs, of embalmed meats and frozen food.---The elimination of corporate greed by pricking the bloated bubble of commercial expansion, in the interest of a commerce based first upon the needs of the home consumer.—The demand for the slowing down and cooling of machinery, material and physical, one day in seven at least; the curbing of the modern mad race for money in the interest of the constitutional structure of coming generations; for what right has this age to damn the forces of the unborn by this mad mortgaging of human forces? The rights of the sweater, the laboring lord of creation, for his share in the unprecedented accumulation of wealth. The obligation of predatory wealth to make restitution not as a benevolence but as a stern duty, if not willingly then legally, until it has been taxed to a safe and sane figure on the financial wheel of fortune. ---The eternal obilgation of the strong toward the weak, founded in moral intuitions as eternal as the Almighty.

"No higher and holier creeds than these were ever embodied in political creeds. And where, let me ask the skeptic and atheist, did these ideals originate? In the spirit of the Divine Christ, the ever vital inspiration in the struggle for emancipation from oppression and tyranny whatever form it may assume.

"For these Christ ideals millions in all ages have bled and died and millions are ready today to lay themselves a living sacrifice on the alter.

"Political creeds are secularized religious ideals. They are religious truths woven into the fabric of the state and cannot be separated therefrom without destroying the fabric. Eternal truth is the dictator of the world, the state is the servant.

"The nations of the earth are falling in behind the redeemed flag of the American Republic, until autocracies like Japan, Russia, and now even Turkey, keep step with the leadership of the world's great Arbiter of Human Fate. This dominant christian democracy of the world means human salvation, or let this earth again float in space, chaotic without form and void."

Shakespearean Recitals.

Attention is called to a course of three Shakespeare recitals, which will be given by Marshall Darrach, in Ames Memorial hall, Salem, on Wednesday evenings in November at 8.15 p. m, under the auspices of The Thought and Work club as follows:

November 11, "The Comedy of Errors."

November 18, "Julius Cæsar."

November 25, "The Tempest."

The course tickets, admitting one person to three recitals, are for sale at $1.00, and may be obtained by addressing Mrs. Emma A. Missud, 176 Federal street, or Mrs. Walter C. Harris 366 Essex street, Salem.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY

his relations to the Stella of his Journals and correspondence, to whom he is supposed to have been secretly married though it seems almost certain that she was never anything more than a nominal wife. It may perhaps be said that he was incapable of true love, and yet women seem to have been drawn to him by some irresistible attraction. That they were perfectly virtuous, however unwise, and that he never used his power for any base purpose, is perhaps beyond a doubt; but the whole matter is involved in so much obscurity that a satisfactory explanation can hardly be hoped for. The darkest feature of the case is the fact that two faithful hearts were undoubtedly crushed; of Vanessa's tragical experience we know less, but he was heard to say to Stella on her dying bed, "Well, my dear, if you wish it, it shall be owned;" she answered, "it is too late." While there is no evidence of betrayal, there is evidence and to spare of duplicity, of evasion, of insincerity, of trifling to the very last, with two devoted, loving hearts.

Swift is chiefly known as a humorist, wit, and master of satire. Perhaps as the latter he is without a peer. Of a nature gloomy, harsh and cynical, he often dipped his pen in gall, and wielded the lash with an unsparing hand; his sarcasm and irony were weapons that he used without mercy upon political opponents; his bitter diatribes were sometimes, however, so exaggerated that they failed of their purpose and only recoiled upon their author. In his lighter and more humorous vein, as notably in his Gulliver's Travels, a production entirely unique in English literature, he held up to ridicule the follies of his time and the imperfections of human nature. Although its references to men and parties and opinions are now mostly unintelligible, it is still read for its wit; like most of his writings it is not free from coarseness and its Yahoos are a repulsive libel upon civil decency.

On the whole, Swift's influence upon letters cannot be said to be wholesome. A man of great parts, and a friend of Steele, Addison and Pope, he used his powers to small purpose. His works cannot be omitted from any general collection of literature, but he was a man who cannot be personally respected; he was lacking in all the finer elements of character, and was capable of great rudeness. He resembled a comet rather than a fixed star, filling the sky for a time with a brilliant but baleful light.

Swift was an unhappy man, the victim no doubt of physical infirmities, of a morbid and ill regulated mind, and of a morose, haughty and ungovernable temper. His days darkened more and more into a pitiable condition of physical and mental suffering, passing at last into complete idiocy, in which after three years he died. His life may be summed up as a brilliant failure, a life of great but wasted abilities. "To think of him," says Thackeray, "is like thinking of the ruin of a great empire." He was born in Dublin in 1667, and died in 1745, and was buried in his own cathedral.

It was the generous lament of a kingly soul over the tragic end of a man of great powers and unprincipled ambition, "Died Abner as the fool dieth?"

Joseph Traverly, gate-tender at the Beach street crossing, was taken to the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, Sunday, suffering with a very bad attack of rheumatism. His duties at the crossing are being performed by Lester Cheever.

The Far-as-you-Like club will hold the first of a series of dances, in the Town Hall, November 6. These dances will be held during the winter, the dates to be announced later, and a good time is promised by the promoters. They have issued some window cards, which will give the particulars.

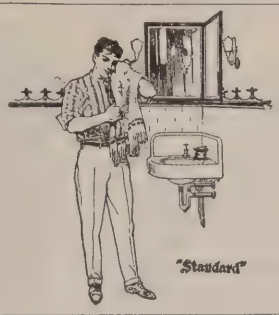

In recognition of ten years' faithful service as cook in the family of Dr. R. H. Fitz, Mrs. Fitz gave a party at her residence, "The Mountain," West Manchester, Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Sophia Johnson, on which occasion some thirty of Miss Johnson's friends were present, including a score from the village, and from Beverly Farms. The evening was spent most delightfully at whist, there being seven tables. Refreshments were served, consisting of salads, sandwiches, fruit, ices, etc. Miss Johnson was presented with a beautiful bunch of chrysanthemums by Dr. and Mrs. Fitz, and a handsome sofa pillow, among other things.

Selectman Walter Bell and family moved into their new home on Vine street yesterday.

The Haphazard club will meet Monday evening at the home of Miss Beth Meldrum, School street.

The Phi Alpha Pi boys are planning on an entertainment in the Chapel on Friday evening, Nov. 20, in the form of an illustrated lecture by Miss Katherine P. Loring of Pride's.

The board of registrars held their last meeting before the November election last Saturday when fifteen names were added to the list of voters, bringing the number up to a total of 605,—the same as last March, and seven more than a year ago. The following names were added last Saturday: Amory Eliot, Lester C. Golthwaite, Rev. L. H. Ruge, Chester C. Dodge, Francis J. Reid, Henry G. Hall, Ernest C. Soulis, Thomas Arbuckle, Mark L. Edgecomb, Walter E. Edgecomb, William C. Blair, William W. Soulis, Joseph L. Wall, Otto L. Derrick and Everett S. Andrews.

Mrs. S. Fisher Corlies and daughter, Miss Margaret Corlies, closed their cottage at Magnolia where they have been spending the early autumn, this week, and are at the Touraine in Boston a couple of weeks before returning to their home at 264 So. 21st. street, Philadelphia.

Mrs. J. Theodore Heard and family closed their cottage at Magnolia this week and returned to their Louisburg square, Boston, home for the winter.

The Robert S. Bradleys are among the week's departures from Pride's Crossing. They left the early part of the week, and their house was closed today. Mrs. Bradley and two daughters are taking a short trip to Niagara Falls before settling in their Commonwealth avenue home for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln expect to close their cottage at Manchester Cove next Monday, when they will go to their new residence in Jamaica Plain, recently bought for a winter home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Plant are among those who are enioying the delightful autumn on the North Shore. They will remain at their cottage in West Manchester until after Thanksgiving when they will go on to New York for the Horse Show, before taking up their residence in Boston for the winter.

Albert Ivins Croll and family have closed their cottage at Manchester this week and returned to their 410 Beacon street, Boston, home for the winter.

Hollis Street Theatre.

Joseph Brooks will present Lillian Russell at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement of two weeks commencing Monday, November 2nd, in the racing comedy success "Wildfire" by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart.

It will be recalled that Miss Russell made an unusual hit in this play in Boston last season. Since then she has scored the success of her career in New York where her work in "Wildfire" proved a revelation.

Miss Russell's play "Wildfire" is exceptional in that it combines a refined home atmosphere with the intense action encountered on a metropolitan race track and is realistic in both instances. It is dramatic, possesses a world of comedy and is held together by an appealing love story. Miss Russell displays some wonderful gowns of the Directoire pattern. Her supporting company is exceptionally strong and a fine production of "Wildfire" completes the bill.

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, are remaining at their Manchester residence late this autumn. They will be here until Thanksgiving, when they go to their island off the Florida coast for the winter, as usual.

Miss Katherine Silsbee is sailing on the 13th of next month for the Bermuda Islands, where she will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell and their daughter, Mrs. Shaw, went down to New York the latter part of last week for the Vanderbilt cup races.

Mrs. Gordon Prince is among the week's departures. She has opened her town house at 290 Beacon street, Boston, for the winter.

A son arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callahan last Saturday morning.

C. K. Cummings and family closed their Pride's house this week and returned to Boston.

Ingersoll Amory, who had the Endicott cottage at Pride's this summer, returned to Boston Wednesday.

H. C. Frick and family left Sunday for Pittsburg, for a fortnight or more. Their house at Pride's will not be closed.

John T. and W. S. Spaulding have closed their home at Pride's and their Boston house has been opened for the winter, though W. S. Spaulding is remaining at Pride's for a week with his sister, Mrs. H. P. King, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Merrill will not open their house 211 Beacon street, Boston, but have taken an apartment at the Hotel Somerset for the winter. They will probably go over the road from Manchester to Boston, Sunday.

E. C. Sawyer, the carriage man, of Rantoul street, Beverly, has probably had more experience in the line of shipping carriages away to foreign ports, than any other dealer on the North Shore. Mr. Sawyer only this week shipped away to the Bermudas a carriage for Miss Katherine Silsbee, who is leaving within a fortnight. Last spring Mr. Sawyer received the following note from Gov. General Joscelin Woodhouse of Bermuda: "The carriage arrived in perfect order and beautifully packed. Yours faithfully, Joscelin Woodhouse," which was written on receipt of a handsome big glass 'bus which Mr. Sawyer had shipped to Mr. Woodhouse.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

The next meeting of the Manchester Woman's club will be next Tuesday afternoon when the speaker will be Warren F. Spaulding of Boston. Mr. Spaulding's subject will be "The New View of the Bad Boy." He is said to be a very interesting speaker on civic and economic subjects.

The club membership has already reached the limit set,—100, and the "waiting list" is growing. A list of members is printed with this article.

At its last meeting the club decided to start a branch station of stamp saving among the children. In brief this work, which has been carried on with such success in a great many places, may be outlined as follows:

The treasurer, as the head of such a station is called, obtains from the central office, free of charge, as many stamp cards as he expects to have depositors, and buys there stamps of different denominations. To each person wishing to become a depositor the treasurer gives a card, and sells stamps to the amount of the deposit. These stamps are receipts, and the depositor must paste them on his card before he can have them redeemed. When the treasurer has sold all his stamps, he has been reimbursed the amount he originally paid in at the central office; and with this money he buys his next set of stamps. Thus a branch station is run indefinitely on an original capital of from five dollars to twenty-five dollars.

A depositor who wishes to withdraw his deposit must present his card to the treasurer of his station. The treasurer pays him the amount of his stamps, and is repaid at the central office on presentation of the receipted card.

The central office is the real centre of deposit. All the book-keeping is done there.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Among improvements along the North Shore none will be watched with more interest than the proposed changes and development of Misery Island, which has been in the fore ground in one way and another for the past seven or eight years. The island has been leased for a term of seven years to Edwin Garsia of Chestnut Hill and a company of New York gentlemen. Mr. Garsia in conversation with the Breeze man a few days ago said that the lessees have the option of buying the property, if they so desire during the term of the lease.

The matter has been in the air for several weeks, but the final papers from the trustees were passed last week. It is the purpose of the lessees, Mr. Garsia also said, to beautify the island and to make it attractive for residential purposes. The present club house may be turned into a casino, but there is as yet nothing definite about it. At any rate, everything will be done to make the place a popular resort. Work will begin in earnest early next spring, and it is possible that some of the improvements may be well under way before the winter is gone. The terms of the lease are private.

Information regarding the Island and the plans of the lessees will be given from time to time in the Breeze.

"Castle Hill Farm," the beautifully located estate of the late John Burnham at Ipswich, containing between 300 and 400 acres, with a frontage on the shore of about four miles, is offered for sale by T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman. The property is being sold to settle the estate. There is a large, modern house with outbuildings and large stable. It is one of the grandest locations on the North Shore.

Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms are building a tennis court for Quincy A. Shaw at his Pride's Crossing estate.

Kilham & Hopkins, the Boston architects, are preparing plans for the new coachman's cottage to be built on the recently attained land of Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, on Masconomo street, Manchester. Mrs. Fitz and daughter, Mrs. E. J. Holmes and Mr. Holmes, accompanied by Mr. Hopkins of the architectural firm, were down to Manchester, Tuesday looking over the grounds, selecting a location, for the building, and making other preliminary plans for the work.

George Silva is having a five-room bungalow built on his property off Summer street, Manchester, near the railroad. The foundations are already built. 300 feet of water pipe are to be laid to reach the building. Mr. Silva intends to have electric lights, bath room, and all modern conveniences installed in the new dwelling.

The lot of woodland offered for sale in our "classified advertisement" column last week by Mrs. H. N. Andrews of Gloucester found a quick purchaser. No sooner had the paper come out than inquiry was made at this office regarding the advertiser and on Tuesday the property was sold to M. E. Gorman, who already is reputed to own "half of the woodland in Manchester, Essex and Hamilton." This property is situated in Essex, on the easterly side of Chebacco lake, at "Logging Cove," and consists of about six acres, heavily wooded with oak, pine and hemlock. The road from Manchester to Essex passes through it. Mr. Gorman purchases for investment.

Moral: If you have land, or anything else to sell, make your wants known through our columns. Over 2100 copies of the paper is distributed from this office every week, and any one of these is apt to fall on fertile ground. Try it!

Otis H. Luke of Brookline transfers to John M. Publicover and Wm. B. Publicover of Beverly Farms land on Hart street, Beverly Farms, 17 rods by 81 feet.

Horace Standley of Manchester transfers to Thomas H. Sheehan of Manchester land on Tappan street, Manchester 95 by 104.27 feet.

CASTLE HILL FARM, Ipswich

This property for sale to settle the estate of the late John Burnham Brown, containing between 300 and 400 acres, and having a frontage on the shore of about 4 miles. There is a large modern house with outbuildings and large stable. Water supply is ample and never failing. This is one of the grandest locations on the North Shore of Massachusetts and well worth the consideration of any one in search of a great property for development or as a residence, and which is destined to be very valuable in the near future.

Another of the street signs similar to those put out last year has been placed this week on the residence of C. O. Lee, corner Beach and Union streets, designating "Smith's Point and Singing Beach," and "Gloucester and Magnolia."

As is usual at this season of the year eels in large quantities are making their way from the inner harbor channel into the pond, and almost any night now boys with lanterns may be sent eeling at the brook, and they get anywhere from 20 to 25 pounds every night.

The Board of Water commissioners are advertising for sealed proposals on the construction of a brick pumping station at Gravel pond, to be in by Monday evening, Nov. 9.

Mrs. William Hooper, who is sailing next week to spend the winter with Mr. Hooper in Europe, has very generously left her graphophone with one of our citizens, and it is intended to give a series of free concerts at the town hall during the winter, as it is the wish of Mrs. Hooper to have the people of Manchester enjoy the instrument while she is away. These concerts are expected to be given twice a month, and will be started soon. No admission will be charged, but a collection will be taken up at each concert to secure funds to add a few new selections to the program from time to time. School children will be given special invitation, and as many adults as care to attend the concerts may do so. As is well known by those who have heard the instrument, the graphophone is a very fine one, and ought to be appreciated by our towns people.

PROPOSALS.

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Board of Water Commissioners of the town of Manchester at their office in the Town Hall Building, until eight o'clock in the evening of Monday, Nov. 9, 1908, for the construction of a brick Pumping Station at Gravel Pond, in the Town of Hamilton, and then and there opened and read.

Each proposal should be endorsed, "Proposal for constructing Pumping Station," and be accompanied by a certified check to the order of the town of Manchester, for the sum of $500, to be forfeited to the said town should the bidder if sucessful, fail to enter into a contract as proposed. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned forthwith. Bond in the sum of $2000 will be required as surety for contract.

Plans and specifications and form of proposal can be obtained from the office of Raymond C. Allen on and after Monday November 2, 1908.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to accept any bid if in the judgement of the Board of Water Commissioners the interests of the town of Manchester are thereby conserved.

THE voter's thought on Nov. 3 should be "My Country, 'Tis of Thee!"

THE man who votes on election day will not have to apologize to his conscience, whatever may be the election outcome.

How can a man read Daniel Webster's panegyric on Massachusetts and then neglect to cast a vote for her highest interests?

BEVERLY seemed to have been up against hard luck again Monday evening in the matter of having a campaign parade. Twice a big event has been planned, and each time the weather man has turned on the water and broke it up.

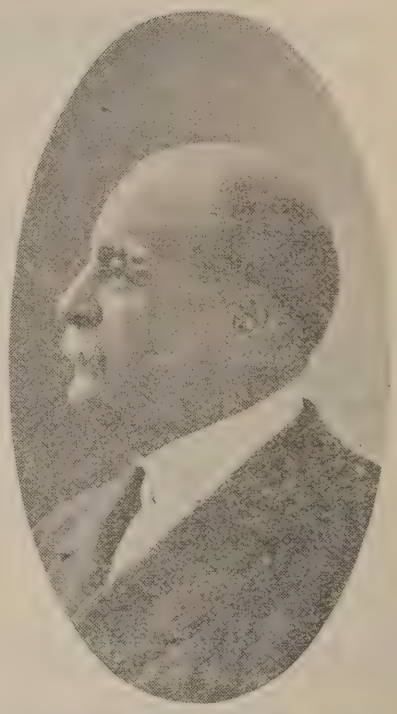

AN exchange suggests that "the clergy of the state couldn't do better on the Sunday before election than to give a little hint to the men in their congregations about their civic duty." We would refer our readers to an excellent sermon on our "civic duty," by Rev. L. H. Ruge of Manchester in this issue of the Breeze.

MONDAY saw the end of the long dry spell, which has held the whole country in its grasp for weeks. The rain was especially grateful down here, where the summer residents spend hundreds of dollars annually on trees, hedges, outdoor plants, etc., which were beginning to feel the effects of the dry weather badly. Happily there have been no serious fires round about us, although they have raged through Maine and other New England states, and through the west. The damage to standing timber has been great, villages have burned and in several cases lives have been lost.

With the closing of "summer" residences and the consequent moving of the owners back to the city, the little matter of change of address is sometimes overlooked in the hurry and bustle incident to removal.

As soon as a subscriber misses his paper he should notify the office at once, and the list will be corrected and the trouble remedied. The editor is desirous that no subscriber miss a single issue, and every effort is made to keep the list correct, but accidents are bound to occur, and now and then a paper misses. Anyone who does not receive a Breeze when it is due can have it by notifying the office.

The Breeze is now in its fifth year. Think of it! We're nearly six, in good health and growing all the time, thank you. And right here let us whisper something—just a hint: There are big things in store for the subscribers the coming year. We feel justified in saying that the Breeze is a great deal better than the average weekly—we feel confident in adding that it is going to be better still. No one can appreciate the task of getting out a paper the size and quality of this one unless they have had a similar experience. Our field is not large, our facilities are limited, but we are constantly adding new material, new ideas and studying new plans to please our subscribers. That they appreciate it we are assured by the addition of new names from time to time, and the constant renewal of old ones.

HON. EBEN S. DRAPER
OF HOPEDALE
Republican Candidate for Governor

And in this connection we are making the same offer we have made the past four years to all NEW SUBSCRIBERS: The Breeze free for the next two months. To all new subscribers between November 1 and January 1, 1909, the paper will be sent free until the first of the year,---that is, all subscriptions received from now until the first of the year, will be good until January 1, 1910. Begin NOW!

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

REPUBLICAN RALLY AT MANCHESTER LAST NIGHT

Torchlihtg Parade a Success, Despite the Inclement Weather. Some Good Speakers Entertained a Large Audience

That it takes more than a little rain and muddy streets to dampen the ardor of Manehester Republicans was evidenced last night when the only cam-

SENATOR JAMES F. SHAW, Who Presided

paign rally of the fall was held. So foul was the weather that the out-of-town companies that had promised to come didn't show up, but the local enthusiasms made up for what was lacking in this line. Fully sixty young men were in line, with torches on their shoulders, and a score or more of the younger boys, men on horse back and the band brought the number up to over a hundred.

A few of the West Beach Tars arrived on the 8 o'clock train and joined the paraders when the parade was half over.

The line was formed at the railroad station at 7.30, with E. P. Stanley as chief marshall, and W. R. Bell, captain of the local battalion. The line moved up Summer street extention to Washington, Union, Central and Bridge streets, to Ashland avenue, countermarched throught Bridge and Central to School streets, thence to Vine street, Norwood avenue, Washington, North, School streets to the Common, where the speakers and band left the line and went to the Town hall. The paraders proceeded to the old bowling alley on Beach street where coffee, sandwiches, doughnuts and cheese awaited them.

It was almost 8.30 when the town committee took seats on the stage in the Town hall, accompanied by the speakers of the evening. Chairman J. T. Stanley of the committee introduced as the presiding officer Senator James F. Shaw, candidate for reelection. On asuming the chair Senator James F. Shaw took occasion to thank the voters for their most generous support the past two years, and said that in serving the district he had given his best efforts. He reiterated what he had said to the voters of the Gloucester section of the district earlier in the week on his labor record. This statement will be found below on this page.

EX-SPEAKER JOHN N. COLE,
One of the Speakers

Senator Shaw then introduced as the first speaker of the evening ex-Rept. Walter Webster of Boston. Mr. Webster gave a good talk on some of the issues of the campaign, dealing for the most part with national issues, speaking particularly of the attitude of the two great parties toward labor and toward trusts.

Attorney General Dana Malone followed Mr. Webster and ex-Speaker Cole made the closing speech.

Senator Shaw Claims His Labor Record was Misrepresented.

"I find Mr. Smith evidently unintentionally stated, that I was opposed to the so called overtime bill but if he will investigate the senate journal he will find that I am on record as voting in favor of that measure.

"It was with some surprise that I read the letter of Mr. John Golden, president of the Textile Workers Union, as I feel very confident that without having interviewed Senator Norcross, chairman of the committee on labor, the latter will state that if it had not been for myself and a few friends, there would have been no labor legislation last year favoring the reduction in hours of labor of women and children in this state.

"I have understood that postponing the time to 1909 for the measure to take effect was not quite satisfactory to the labor interests, but it seemed good business to me to have the bill take effect, after the legislatures in adjoining states had convened and been given the opportunity of passing similar labor bills, so that the Massachusetts industries would not be handicapped for a period of 12 months.

"I also note that both Mr. Smith and Mr. Richardson, dwell upon the fact that I am interested in various corporations. As I recall it the only important piece of legislation affecting street railways or steam railways directly from a financal standpoint was the bill to establish the amount of ad damnum in case of death from $5000 to $10,000 and I voted in favor of that bill.

DEMOCRATS TONIGHT.

Four Speakers Expected. Rally Scheduled for 7.45.

Democratic Rally tonight at 7.45! While there will be no parade, outside the brief informalities attendant upon the speakers being conveyed from the home of Benjamin Corliss on Lincoln street to the Town Hall, there is to be enthusiasm and spirit enough in the hall after the speaking begins, so the committee says.

CHARLES D. SMITH, of Gloucester,
One of the Speakers Tonight

The speakers expected are Arthur Withington of Newburyport, candidate for Congress; Chas. D. Smith of Gloucester, candidate for state senator, Charles A. Russell of Gloucester and the Honorable Frank C. Richardson.

An invitation is extended to all to be present,---irrespective of party affiliations.

Manchester was represented in the big Republican parade at Gloucester Wednesday evening by a juvenile drum corps, that he helped swell the ranks of the West Beach Tars. A big crowd from here attended the parade.

Miss Connolly's gymnastic classes will open for the season on Wednesday evening, Nov. 11, a week later than originally planned, as the question of securing a hall is not yet definitely decided. Last year Allen's hall, on Bennett street, was used, but owing to increased membership this year a larger hall is needed.

Over a score of Red Men, members of the local order, picked up the iron trail to the hunting grounds of Lynn, Wednesday, where they joined in the big parade of more than 1500 Red Men from all over the state in connection with the annual assembly of the Council of Mass. Following the parade a collation was served and the crowd attended a special vaudeville performance in the Olympia theatre. Most of the brothers returned on the theatre train which stopped for them at Lynn. The others returned next day.

The Church Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Helen Willmonton on Wednesday evening, Nov. 4.

Edward Walsh, the popular clerk at Allen's drug store, started Monday on a fortnight's vacation, which he is spending in Worcester, Newburyport and points in the Granite State. He will be home, however, long enough to cast his vote for Taft and Draper next Tuesday.

At the probate court in Salem administration was recently granted on the estate at the late George H. Martin, S. Augusta Martin, administrator.

Officer J. Warren Lee returned to duty the first of this week after a ten days' vacation, most of which was spent in the vicinity of Boothbay Harbor, Me., where he put in some time with the gun after small game. Officer Lee is back to his former beat, at West Manchester, and Officer Jones is covering the Cove district.

A class in dancing and deportment, under local auspices, will open Thursday evening, Nov. 5, in Town hall. Hours are to be from 7.30 until 10 o'clock. The people of Manchester are especially fortunate in having secured the services of so able an instructor as George L. Adams, principal of The Adams Academy of Dancing of Salem. Mr. Adams is a well known teacher, and has had twenty-two years experience in his line.

Yesterday Mattis Hanson and family moved from the Connolly house on Vine street to the cottage formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Abbie Marshall, and Lindsay Emery moved into the F. H. Pierce house on West street.

The young boys are emulating the example set by their elders and have formed a marching battallion with over 20 members. They can be seen early evenings marching about. Their various styles of costumes are quite catchy, and is also their "band."

At a meeting of the Master Horseshoers association at the Colonial House, Salem, on October 18, Miss Mary Dwyer was elected secretary of the association.

Thomas McCarthy and family, who have occupied the Cannon cottage on Haskell street, since last spring return today to their Boston home.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Connolly, who have occupied the Ober cottage on Haskell street the past few months, are planning to return to their home in Mattapan tomorrow.

Three of the Farms young men,—Edwin A. May, Cornelius D. Shea and Thomas Bresnahan, left the Farms Tuesday for Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., where they are to be employed by Connolly Bros. All three were members of the West Beach Tars and they as well as their companions regret that their absence will prevent their voting next Tuesday,---two of them casting their maiden vote.

Hammond—Gilman.

John Walter Hammond and Mrs. Sadie Gilman of Peabody were united in marriage Wednesday, Oct. 28, by the Rev. Clarence Strong Pond, pastor of the Beverly Farms Baptist church, at the home of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Ober, the two brothers of the groom, with Mrs. Ober, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hooper, being in attendance. A dainty lunch was served, the dining room being prettily decorated in autumn foliage and yellow chrysanthemums. A quiet and pleasant evening was spent.

Parade at the Farms.

The torchlight procession at the Farms was not so much of a fizzle as it was thought at the last minute it would be. In fact despite the disappointments and the practically given up plans of the parade, enthusiasm mustered enough together at the last minute to make the event of some interest, anyway.

Plans were laid to make the night a red letter one and several out-of-town battalions were invited. On Tuesday reports came in that owing to the Lawrence parade being held on that night, and other causes, the invited parties could not come and it was therefore deemed best to give up the Farm's demonstration.

At the last minute, however, word was received that the Beverly Red Devils would come and the Farms' boys were hastily called together and met the visitors at the Farms' station on the arrival of the 8 o'clock train. The line formed with Thomas Gauld, mounted, as chief marshal, and the procession marched over the principal streets the town drum corps furnishing plenty of marching music. At the conclusion the battalions, including the boys brigate, were disbanded in Central square where they were given refreshments. Crowds turned out to see the parade, many residences were lighted and considerable red fire was burned.

Capt. Duncan T. Smith has under way the building of two power boats, one to be 20 feet and the other 26 feet long,—the smaller for himself and the other for a customer.

Joseph Terrio, caretaker of Misery Island, moved with his family to Salem for the winter, the first of this week.

The Sarah Wyman Whitman club, whose meeting last week was held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hull, Hart street, transacted considerable business, and one may gain an idea of the objects and motives of the club by noting the appropriations made: The sum of $75.00 for the Beverly Farms Baptist church; $25.00 for the Beverly hospital; $10.00 for the Old Ladies' Home. A committee will soon visit the Deaf Mute school to ascertain some of the particular needs, so that they can help in this direction. No meeting of the club was held this week, but next Wednesday afternoon the club will meet with Mrs. William C. Webster, at which time a full attendance is desired.

The Boston Journal Adds a New Feature to Its Sporting Department.

Time was when the baseball fan had only scorn for the devotee of the pigskin game. But the spectacular features of the "open" game and the elimination of the heavy mass plays have made it more attractive to the average follower of sports, and so it has come about that each year sees greater crowds turning out to see this great outdoor sport.

Realizing that many people are not familiar with the fine points of the game The Boston Journal has engaged Mr. Harry Dadmun to take charge of its football department. Mr. Dadmun has officiated in many important matches, and brings a practical knowledge of the game to the service of Journal readers, many of whom are already asking his opinion on plays and rulings, and taking his decision as authoritative.

Daily reports from The Journal's correspondents at the various Eastern colleges, pictures of the leading players of schools and colleges, and full accounts of the preparatory school games make The Journal's football department second to none.

Already the rolling of balls and falling of pins is heard on many alleys, and the leagues and clubs are preparing for the winter tournaments. Of these, as well as of all other winter sports, The Boston Journal will give full reports, thus insuring its readers complete returns from the world of sport.

The work of The Journal's special correspondents in the Presidential campaign, the editorials, ably discussing matters of local and national interest, the woman's page, and reliable financial news, are others of the special features which have made The Boston Journal the great family paper of New England.

Tablet Unveiled at Wenham.

Near the shore of Wenham lake, at Wenham, last Sunday afternoon, ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of a memorial tablet, to commemorate the first preaching of the gospel in Wenham, were held. The stone marks the spot where the Rev. Hugh Peters, then pastor of the church in Salem, preached the first sermon in Enon, back in 1638. The tablet is inscribed as follows:

This stone marks the site of Peter's Hill
On which about the year 1638
Reverend Hugh Peters,
Pastor of the Church in Salem.
Preached the first sermon in
Wenham
Text from John III:23
In Enon near to Salem because there was much water there.
Thus early in the history of the town was the gospel proclaimed.

Joseph M. Standley, a well known resident of the Centerville part of Ward 6, died at his home, 438 Essex street, the latter part of last week at the age of 70 years. He was a member of the Beverly Fireman's Relief association and of Post 89, G. A. R. He left a widow and four adult children,---George W. and Albert Standley, Mrs. Frank Grotto and Mrs. Henry Cole. Funeral services were held Monday from his late residence.

John Rowbottom and family, who have spent the summer here, left the latter part of last week for New York and from there they will sail for England to spend most of the winter at Mr. Rowbottom's former home.

Miss Margaret Connolly is attending the Notre Dame Academy, on Berkeley street, Boston.

Mr and Mrs. Clarence B. Holway, from Westerly, R. I., have spent the past week at the Farms, visiting relatives. They returned home yesterday.

Next Tuesday is Election Day, and the polling place in Ward 6 will be the same as usual,---G. A. R. hall. The polls will open at 6 a. m. and will close at 4 p. m.

Daniel Murphy has been home the past week, visiting his family, after a six months' absence in New York.

Some of the members of Preston W. R. C. paid a visit to Mrs. John L. Eaton in Dorchester the first of the week, and found her very comfortable.

Arthur Davis went to the Beverly Hospital Wednesday where he has since been operated upon for a small, but painful tumor at the base of the back-bone. The operation was not a serious one.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Linehan left the Farms the latter part of last week for an automobile trip to New York, where they were registered at the Plaza a day or two. They took in the Vanderbilt cup races on Saturday, and returned home Tuesday.

Miss May D. Connolly has accepted a position as physical instructor for girls at the Salem High school and commenced her duties there today.

Miss Mary Walsh, a Farms young lady, has rented a large house in Boston, and has started with good prospects of conducting a successful boarding house.

Alfred Hanson, the 16-year old appentice blacksmith, has made a toy automobile that is the wonder and admiration of his younger friends. The mechanism or motor power, is supplied by the use of the works of an old alarm clock, and works to perfection. Numerous other toys have been made by him during his spare time, all of which show unusual ingenuity.

John Cummings of Milton was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Connolly the early part of the week.

W. B. Publicover of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, was present Tuesday evening at the installation of the officers of the Ipswich colony and on Wednesday evening quite a delegation from the local order attended the installation at Francis Higginson colony in Salem.

Mrs. Marshall T. Larcom celebrated the passing of another birthday Tuesday and many of her friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations. About a score of friends accepted her invitation and partook of the evening meal with her.

This has been an exceedingly busy week for the West Beach Tars. Monday night they were to go to Beverly, but the rain prevented. Tuesday night they held a parade of their own at the Farms. Wednesday night they were at Gloucester and they were accredited with making the best showing in the big parade there. Last night they helped Manchester paint the town a good coat of Republican red. Tonight they will march in the College parade in Boston, and tomorrow evening they have accepted an invitation to go to Danvers. Next Monday night they are booked for Peabody.

Miss Sarah Donaher left last Sunday for her home in Worcester after a three weeks' visit at the Farms, with Mr. and Mrs. James B. Connolly.

William Burns and Howard P. Williams are the latest Farms' residents to purchase house lots at the Walker-Field-park, Montserrat. They have bought lots 42 and 72, respectively. Miss Kehoe, the well known dressmaker, has also secured a lot there.

With a record of attendance far in excess of last year, this season's great annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition given in the Mechanics building on Huntington avenue, Boston, under the direction of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers' Association, will come to a triumphal close with "Au Revoir" night Saturday evening the 31st instant.

Those who have not yet visited this Mechanics Building food fair and international exposition have an opportunity to do so up to 10 o'clock Saturday night when the good byes will be said until 1909.

Charles E. Curtis & Son of 14 New Derby street, Salem, manufacturers and dealers in fine granite and marble memorials, are among our new advertisers this week. They have a large stock of monuments and tablets in their show room and in order to reduce the stock before cold weather sets in, they are quoting extremely low prices. Anyone desiring work of this nature would do well to investigate.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Its Popularity Has Known No Bounds

Save that of the limited purse. That's been its only draw back, it's had the endorsement of the people of culture who have had the wealth to possess it, but to the person of good taste whose funds at command were perhaps at the time somewhat limited, has heretofore been able just merely to admire and not to enjoy its possession.

Mahogany Furniture

Time back, the wood was excessively high, the means for procuring it were most primitive, today tis not so, 'tis brought to our shores, its cost landed here, much more reasonable.

Our factories, through its gradual increasing use, have learned better the economical way in which to handle it, till today they produce this most admired of all woods at just a trifle advance over the others.

This is most emphatically true in the Dining Room Line

Where its use is becoming most general for in here we have

Buffets

Very graceful and pretty as low, if you'll believe, as is this one. 'Tis a straight lined piece, quite four feet long, its depth in proportion to look balanced. Its school of design dates back into England at the time of Sheraton and Chippendale. 'Tis made of all Mahogany, the front especially grained, old-fashioned wood knobs help make it look old, aided too very much by the dull finish. 'Tis someone's for $30.00

And a wonder for that. Shown on the 4th floor with many, many others as high as $100.00. With solid Mahogany tables from

$33.00 to $85.00

Better take a look—there's money in it for you.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1908.

THE ELECTION IN MANCHESTER

The Largest Vote in the History of the Town. 524 out of 607 Registered Voters Cast Their Ballots

Manchester polled the largest vote in her history on Tuesday. Of the total registered vote of 605, 524 were out on

EBEN S. DRAPER, Elected Governor

Election Day,—about 87 percent. of the total. A percentage of about 80 is considered above par.

In 1904, the last presidential year, the total vote was 455, and in 1900 it was 395.

The splendid weather was responsible in a measure for the large vote. The day was perfect. The unusual interest taken was also evidenced by the appearance of a large number of summer residents, who are voters here. No less than two score came down from Boston to cast their ballot.

The polls opened at 6 o'clock and closed at 4. At six o'clock the vote had been announced. Manchester was one of the first towns in the state to announce its vote.

Taft was given a big vote locally, receiving 345 votes to 131 for Bryan. This was ahead of the big vote given Roosevelt four years ago, when the vote stood 295 for Roosevelt to 134 for Parker. The vote for governor was Draper 302, to 137 for Vahey. Vahey run ahead of the head of the ticket.

WILLIAM H. TAFT, Our Next President

Whole number of votes, 524.

PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT.—Bryan and Kern, Dem., 131; Chafin and Watkins, Pro., 8; Debs and Hanford, Soc., 2; Gillhaus and Munro, Soc. Lab., 0; Hisgen and Graves, Ind. League, 20; Taft and Sherman, Rep., 345; blanks, 18.

GOVERNOR.—Carey, Soc., 5; Draper, Rep., 302; Hoar, Soc. Lab., 2; Osgood, Ind. League, 33; Vahey,

CONGRESSMAN GARDNER, Re-elected

Dem., 137; Wylie, Pro., 14; blanks, 31.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.—Barton, Dem., 112; Claudino, Soc. Lab., 3; Frothingham, Rep., 304; Hall, Soc., 2; McCartney, Ind. League,

JAMES F. SAAW, Re-elected State Senator

C. HOMER BARRETT, Re-elected to the General Court

28; Rand, Pro., 14; blanks, 61.

SECRETARY.— Alyward, Dem., 87; Griffin, Pro., 11; Nelson, Soc. Lab., 4; Olin, Rep., 308; Putney, Soc., 2; Williams, Ind. League, 16; blanks, 96.

TREASURER.—Butterworth, Ind. League, 24; Chapin, Rep., 304: Hess, Soc. Lab., 0; Hitchcock, Soc., 2; Kendall, Pro., 14; Kennedy, Dem., 81; blanks, 99.

AUDITOR---Bohmback, Soc. Lab., 3; Dempsey, Ind. League, 17; Hall, Soc., 2; Moon, Pro., 12; Turner, Rep., 301; Viger, Dem., 76; blanks, 113.

ATTORNEY GENERAL---Dean, Pro., 17; Harding, Soc. Lab., 1: Malone, Rep., 286; McCarty, Soc., 3; Talbot, Ind. League, 25; Thayer, Dem., 87; blanks, 105.

CONGRESSMAN---Gardner, Rep., 324; Wentworth, Soc., 6; Withington, Dem., 123; blanks, 71.

COUNCILLOR---Cole, Rep., 328; Grieves, Soc., 19; blanks, 177.

SENATOR---Adames, Ind. League, 22; Shaw, Rep., 283; Smith, Dem., 174; blanks, 45.

REPRESENTATIVE TO GENERAL COURT, 21st Essex District---Barrett, Rep., 277; Foster, Dem., 148; blanks, 99.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER---Kelley, Soc., 6; Kenyon, Dem., 86; Kimball, Rep., 317; blanks 115.

REGISTER OF PROBATE AND INSOLVENCY—Hale, Soc., 21; Mahoney, 322; blanks, 181.

ASSOCIATE COMMISSIONER—Doucet, Dem., 77; Lovett Rep., 306; blanks, 141.

Election Returns.

Election returns were received at Manchester over a special wire of the Postal Telegraph company, which had been run into the Town hall, and excellent service was given, beginning at 6 o'clock and lasting until 12. Frank G. Cheever was in charge. From all sections of the country the results of the voting was flashed over the wire and Manchester, simultaneously with other towns and cities, was able to get the returns and see how the country was going.

A good size crowd were on hand all evening, from six o'clock until twelve.

The New Eng. Tel. and Tel. Co., also gave excellent service to those of its subscribers who requested the service.

In the collection and distribution of returns of the National and State elections, the telephone not only demonstrated its nimbleness, but, in a most surprising manner, its ubiquity. It was literally everywhere. In fact it was "there and back" so quickly and so accurately that election bulletins were gathered and forwarded from every point in the country with a speed and a completeness hitherto unapproached.

What the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company did in its territory was, in a general way, what the other Bell companies of the country did, in the effort to promote the desired result. Each individual company was then able to "swap" information with every other company through the agency of the great long-distance connecting company—the American Telephone & Telegraph Company—that binds them into a great national organization.

Cong. Gardner's Vote.

The vote given Congressman A. P. Gardner of Hamilton was a splendid tribute to the record of our representative in Congress. The vote was 24,077 to 7645 for his Democratic opponent. This is a plurality of 16,513, the largest plurality given to any other congressman in the state. Manchester's vote for Congressman Gardner was 324, as against 123 for Withington. The Beverly Farms vote was 182 to 49, and Magnolia voted 43 to 17, in favor.

Senator Shaw's Vote.

Senator James F. Shaw of Manchester was re-elected to the senate from this district. His margin, however, was comparitively small, considering the normal Republican vote. He won out in every town and city of the district, except Gloucester. He was "knifed" in Gloucester. His total vote was 4459 as against 3666 for Smith, the Democratic candidate. All the towns in the district gave him strong support, including Ipswich. The vote:

	Shaw	Smith
Gloucester	1503	1852
Rockport	265	217
Manchester	283	174
Ipswich	406	159
Newbury	183	43
Salisbury	144	88
Hamilton	185	45
Wenham	156	26
Rowley	156	62
Newburyport	1047	921
West Newbury	141	84
Total	4459	3666

The North Shore Horticultural society will meet in Lee's hall this Friday evening, at 7.30 p. m.

E. Wetterlow will speak on the subject of chrysanthemums. The meeting will be devoted to the "queen of autumn flowers." Good exhibits are assured from several members and the evening promises to be of more than usual interest. Light refreshments will be served as usual.

Manchester

Some thirty-six members of William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, journeyed to the home of their president, James Salter, at the Dexter Farm, Forest street, Monday evening, and tendered Mr. Salter a surprise party,---and a genuine and complete surprise it was, too. The crowd made the trip in a large wagonette and arrived at the house about eight o'clock. Mr. Salter was busily engaged at writing and was surprised when one or two of his male friends walked in, ostensibly on a little call, but when the door was opened again and almost two score men and women came in it was too much for Mr. Salter. He "caught on" then, but it was the first intimation that he was the victim of a surprise party. The party was given in honor of Mr. Salter's 43d birthday, which he celebrated informally on the day before,---Nov. 1. In behalf of the gathering P. H. Boyle, in appropriate words, presented him with a handsome large parlor lamp, a box of cigars, a fancy briar pipe and last but not least, in Mr. Salter's estimation, at least, a package of chewing gum. Undismayed by the sudden developments Mr. Salter responded and gave over the whole house to his visitors,---all but himself. A delightful evening was passed. Refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake, fruit, coffee, etc., and the party broke up about midnight, all joining in wishing Mr. Salter many years more of happy life.

Awarded Medal by Society.

The Mass. Humane society has rewarded John F. Conroy with a medal for his bravery in rescuing young Walton Scully of Pittsburg from drowning in the surf at Singing Beach, Manchester, last August.

Conroy, it will be remembered was at Manchester for the summer. On the day of the rescue he was standing on the beach with others watching the high surf kicked up by the storm of a day or two before. Young Scully, who was only 10 years old, but a good swimmer for his age, had ventured too far out, being carried out by the strong undertow, unconsciously. When he turned to swim ashore he realized his position. He struggled to make progress toward the beach, but all in vain. Conroy was the first to notice the lad's plight. He dove in and after a hard and swift swim reached the side of the almost exhausted lad. The struggle to reach shore, against the strong undertow and wind, was almost too much for Conroy even, but he finally got in past the breakers, thoroughly exhausted.

Painters' Local 797 observed their sixth anniversary last week, on which occasion a full attendance of the members were out and an oyster stew supper was much enjoyed by the members.

The theatre train Tuesday night was delayed several hours as the result of an accident to the draw in the railroad bridge over the Mystic river and did not arrive here until about three o'clock.

The annual inspection of Allen Post, 67, will be held this evening. A campfire will follow the inspection, to which the Associates are invited a little after 8 o'clock. A large delegation from Gloucester will attend.

The winter schedule of the Manchester Electric Co. service went into effect last Sunday, —Nov. 1. On Sundays the power is off from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. and on week days, on all except the town center circuit, the power is off from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Station Agent and Mrs. F. Clifford Rand left yesterday morning on a fortnight's vacation trip to the White Mountains, and to Portsmouth, N. H., Mr. Rand's former home. Mr. Rand has taken his gun along with him, and he may bring home some small game.

Dr. John Danforth left Manchester, Tuesday after a four months' visit with his brother, Charles Danforth, and sailed from Boston on the Ivernia, for Liverpool, whence he goes to his home in southern France. The climate in the south of France is quite different from our New England climate, said Dr. Danforth the day before he sailed, as he was remarking on the sharp weather of the early week. In thirty-two years in Bordeaux, and vicinity he said, he recalled only one or two winters that the weather was sufficiently cold to form ice, and then only for a day or two at a time.

Personal Attention Given to all Work. Estimates cheerfully given.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Russell, who are remaining on the shore later than usual this fall, are leaving West Manchester next week. They will live in New York this winter, where they have taken apartments at 76 Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland are keeping their house at West Manchester open until the end of this month. They are sailing for Europe early in December for the winter.

Francis R. Spaulding and family have moved down to their residence at West Manchester for the winter. The place was occupied the past summer by Mrs. William A. Russell, who sailed a fortnight ago for England, and thence to South America. The Spauldings spent the summer in Europe motoring.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

A wooden bulkhead, some five or six feet above the grade, has been built along West Beach, Beverly Farms, in front of the F. B. Bemis and Neal Rantoul estates. The work was done by James D. Hooper of Beverly Farms.

A hot water heating system is being installed in the J. W. Campbell house on School street, taking the place of the furnace heat formerly used. Wilbur J. Pierce of Beverly Farms is doing the work.

A movement in real estate on Misery Island seems to have started, aside from the lease of the Misery Island club reported last week. E. P. Stanley of Manchester had an appointment to take two parties to the island this afternoon to look at houses with a view to purchasing, it is said.

Fire at Manchester.

An alarm was rung in at 2.30 this afternoon for a chimney fire at the residence of Ernest W. Longfellow at Coolidge's Point.

Though the apparatus started for the Point it was not needed as the fire was put out with the assistance of the men on the place even before the alarm was sounded.

Nancy H. Cheever.

Miss Nancy H. Cheever, one of Manchester's oldest residents passed away last Saturday morning, Oct. 31, at the age of 93 years, 8 months.

She had enjoyed remarkably good health for one of her years until within the past four months.

Born in Manchester in 1815 Miss Cheever spent most of her life here, though she left home when she was about 25 years old and went to Boston to live. She remained there over 35 years, returning to Manchester about 30 years ago. She was a daughter of Jacob and Nancy (Hassam) Cheever.

Though not a member of any church she was always interested in church work and was a regular attendant at the Baptist church, when her health permitted. She was a Christian woman.

Funeral services were held Monday from her late home on School street, the Rev. E. Hersey Brewster of Norwood, and the Rev. Theodore L. Frost, pastor of the Baptist church, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in Rosedale cemetery.

Miss Cheever is survived by one sister, Mrs. Susan B. Carter, of this town, who is 91 years old, and two half sisters, Miss Mary F. Cheever and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Morrison of this town.

The Best Shopping Place on the North Shore

Manchester

The sale of the Pulsifer block advertised to take place yesterday was called off, owing to an error in drawing up the papers for advertising the sale. It is expected now that the property will be sold on Nov. 24.

Chief of Police Peabody attended the monthly meeting of the Mass. Chief of Police association at the American House, Boston, Thursday evening. The subject of discussion for the evening was the new "delinquent child law," which, by the way, was the subject of the address before the Manchester Woman's club Tuesday. The police had seven judges as their guests Thursday night, to talk on the subject.

There was a flurry of excitement early Monday evening at the junction of Bridge, Central and Pine streets when a pair of runaway horses toppled over the light vehicle to which they were hitched and threw out a pair of men who were bringing the horses from a well known sales-stable in Salem to Manchester. The horses were sent to Supt. of Streets Crombie who was exchanging a pair of his own for the new pair. The men were slightly intoxicated. One of them was badly shaken up and received several cuts about the face and head. His bruises were attended to by one of the doctors.

Baker-Gallagher.

A very pretty wedding was that which occurred last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martha Gallagher in Dorchester when her daughter, Elsie Vida, became the wife of Lorenzo Baker of this town. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families by Rev. Charles E. Davis, pastor of the Highlands Methodist Church, most beautifully and impressively, the single ring being used. The bride was daintily gowned in Brussels net with lace garniture, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. They entered the parlor to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Hollis Gallagher, a brother of the bride. After the congratulations, there was music, Raymond Gallagher, another brother, presiding most acceptably at the piano.

Refreshments were served, after which the happy couple departed in a shower of confetti, en route for Washington, where the honey-moon will be passed. On their return they will reside at the home of the groom, "Mt. Pleasant Farm," School street, Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker will be "at home" after January 1. No cards.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

The first November meeting of the Manchester Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon at the Chapel and was very largely attended by the members. The speaker of the afternoon was Warren F. Spaulding of Boston, whose subject was "The New View of the Bad Boy."

Prior to the address the business of the meeting was transacted and Mrs. F. M. Johnson, the president, gave an account of her visit to the meeting of club presidents at the Vendome, Boston, on the 24th.

Mrs. R. C. Allen sang a group of songs which was enjoyed by the gathering. They were:

"Mighty Lak 'a Rose," Nevin
"Little One a-Cryin'," Speaks
"The Robin," Neidlinger.

The speaker of the afternoon is a man who has made a study of civic and economic conditions, especially that branch of the work having to do with the "small boy." He related a visit to the Charles Street jail some years ago, on invitation of a sheriff, where he found two young boys in jail for 30 days. Inquiry revealed the fact that one was in for defacing a voting list, and the other for throwing stones on top of freight cars. One was a dull, heavy looking boy whose appearance would at once convince one that he was a boy who would not be interested in books and such things, and the boy afterwards told him that he had been up once before for truancy. The other boy was one of those nervous acting, bright boys, of French Canadian birth, and he had been in before for walking on railroad tracks. And there were these two boys, in there among criminals of the real type, for a petty offence such as any of the boys you know would be likely to do. "I submit to you," he said, "what the jail means to those boys. Punishment doesn't end with the end of the term. Is it fair to put a boy in a position where he shall be subjected to having this thrown in his face all through life,--- that he was once in jail for stealing, for defacing voting lists, etc? It seems as though boys ought to be dealt with differently. I found on investigation that there had been 372 children, under 17 years of age, committed to that jail in one year. There ought to be some other way of dealing with them other than putting them in jail.

"Under the new law the court adjudges him to be 'delinquent,' which is a condition. The idea of the court under the new law is to deal with the boy as a parent should,---to aid and guide him. Under the old system you dealt with his past one act. But under the new system you deal with his future,--- what he is, and what can you do for him.

"What shall you do for him? That is it, what can you do? Punish him? But will punishing him help him? One of the new things about the new system is 'reparation,'---'restitution.' Instead of finding him $50 and letting his father pay it, you find him $50 and let him pay it a dollar a week until it is paid. After doing that for a year he will not feel in the stealing mood again in a hurry. If he breaks a window he isn't find $10 which he must pay to the court, but he is fined $10 and he is made to pay a dollar a week to the man whose window he broke. Do you suppose he will break any more windows?

"Anything that will give him aid or guidance will benefit him. We are trying with the new system to change the character of the boy so that he will not want to do bad things; up-building him rather than forcing him. In the West they have a great many volunteer probation officers who are willing to take an interest in the boys and help them. Personal work with the boys will very often accomplish results.

"The problem is to restore, to reclaim him. The purpose of the new movement is to realize these boys are products of something outside of themselves. There ought to be committees in every church to look after these boys. Provide places for them where they can go and enjoy themselves. Make them realize there is somebody interested in them."

Following the address tea was served. Mrs. Evelyn F. Decker was hostess and she was assisted by Mrs. J. A. Lodge, Mrs. L. W. Carter, Mrs. W. W. Hoare, Mrs. Charles E. Williams and Mrs. F. C. Rand.

The next meeting of the club will be on Nov. 17. Mrs. Alice Worcester Weeks will give a talk on "Ballads of British Isles."

Not Favorable to Amalgamation.

A joint meeting of the Business Men's association and the Beverly Board of Trade was held at Beverly Wednesday evening to consider the matter of consolidation of the two bodies. The sentiment seemed to be against any such action as the time did not appear ripe for amalgamation at present. The Business Men's association is composed of business men of Manchester, Beverly Farms, Beverly, Wenham and Hamilton. The matter was indefinitely postponed.

Manchester's beloved old gentleman, ---Delucena L. Bingham, will celebrate his 94th birthday tomorrow, Nov. 7. He will spend the day attending to his usual round of duties undoubtably at the public library. Mr. Bingham is enjoying good health and is as bright and interesting as he was ten or fifteen years ago. He may be seen about town almost every day, stopping as he passes along the street to chat with friends and acquaintances. He was out bright and early Tuesday to cast his vote, being at the Town hall before ten o'clock.

Chester H. Dennis was home from Chestnut Hill over Sunday and was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Fleet of Boston.

Officer Robert Stoops returned to duty yesterday after a ten days' vacation, most of which was spent in company with Mrs. Stoops and little daughter with Mrs. Stoops' mother at Plymouth.

Large quantities of herring have been taken in the inner harbor of late. The fishermen do most of their work at night, when their boats may be seen in the harbor with a flaming light on them to attract the fish.

Richard Newman concluded his work as caretaker of the S. V. R. Crosby estate at West Manchester Nov. 1 and is to join in business with his father, with a third interest, at Woburn. The concern makes a specialty of growing produce under glass for Boston markets.

Mr. Nickerson, chauffeur at Mr. Leland's, West Manchester, has moved from the Willmonton house on Pleasant street to the Monteiro cottage, formerly occupied by Henry Mitchell and family, who, in turn, have moved into the cottage on Brook street, vacated last week by Walter Bell and family.

SIXTY-ONE years ago last Sunday,—Nov. 1, the Gloucester branch of the Eastern railroad was opened for travel thus doing away with the cumbersome and slow method of travel by stage coach and bringing the towns along the North Shore in closer touch with the world at large.

"THE saddest days of the year" are upon us, but in reality they are the best days of the years, in many respects down here on the North Shore. Take a fine, clear morning, for instance: There is just frost enough in the air to quicken ones steps and make the blood circulate faster. All about are the wonderful paintings of Mother Nature, a dash of gold here, a sprinkling of silver there and a wonderful green background. The birds pipe merrily, for there are always birds among us here along the North Shore, and one instinctively feels that its good to be living. All through the hot summer we have been used to breathing in short, jerky gasps, or else almost panting for a cool breath, but now—now we draw in great mouthfuls of the bracing air, our steps quicken, arms swing out freely, and the body gradually grows warm, with a heat which no artificial apparatus can bestow. "The melancholy days are here, the saddest of the year," but its pretty hard to believe that.

ANYTHING along the line of road improvements is of interest to North Shore people, for North Shore roads as a whole are reputed to be among the finest in the country. A bill has recently been introduced in the Vermont House for a system of trunk line highways, the estimated cost of which will be two and a half million dollars. The plan embodies two main trunk highways running north and south, the entire length of the state, and six intersecting lines running east and west from line to line.

MISCREANTS cut down two beautiful trees over in Salem the other night. It was a piece of wanton mischief and should merit severe punishment. Statistics show that our forests are gradually being used up and, once gone, what will become of the beautiful trees which better thinking men and women set out in the cities. Down here we harbor no such a class. The people of Manchester are truly proud of the beautiful trees which adorn the shores. Many private estates have been to great expense in keeping the trees in fine condition, and were there anyone so petty and mean as to wantonly destroy these beauties of our highways and byways, the people would rise in their wrath and punish the miscreants.

NORTH Shore people who visit Salem and have any time to spare should visit the Peabody Museum. The building is located on Essex street and is free to the public. Therein are gathered curios from every quarter of the globe. In the Marine room are models of every kind of ships, charts and many interesting things pertaining to the sea. But there is one exhibit which, as a marvelous piece of work, stands out prominently, and no one should miss viewing it. This is a carving done within a shell measuring 1½ inch in diameter. It is divided into two hemispheres fastened together, and open. This marvelous piece of patience and skill is in the Marine room near the front of the building, and is within a glass case, which enables the visitor to view it from all sides. Directly in front of the hemispheres hangs a powerful magnifying glass, which enlarges the carved figures so that one may see even the features. The upper hemisphere respresents Heaven and contains 58 full length figures; while the lower one represents the Judgement Day and contains 28 full length, 19 half length figures and five heads. The hemispheres are hinged together and there is a leather case in which they may be put. Closed up one might easily place the shell in one hand and completely cover it with the other.

This carving is supposed to have been done by a monk in the fourteenth century. A gentleman in Westphalia obtained possession of it in Italy, and presented it to Elias Haskett Derby, who in turn gave it to the society in 1806.

It is indeed a wonderful piece of work and no one will regret the time spent in looking at it.

Miss Mary H. Northend of Salem, daughter of the late Judge Northend, has shown how anyone can create a field in literature of special nature which will appeal to a great many people. Miss Northend a few years ago made a special feature of writing of the things colonial in this section of the country, and her work is in great demand at the present time. She knows where all the finest of old furniture, old plate, and old china is, and gains access to it which few others could. She illustrates her own writings, and hardly a month passes but what she has something in one of the journals given to this character of contribution. And what she says has a great deal of interest to those at all moved by such matters.—Newburyport News.

Miss Northend has made various North Shore homes and estates the subject of many articles.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

Recitation, The Sandpiper — Miss Kinsella

Yesterday noon as the children were returning home from school little Alice Cleary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cleary, ran off the sidewalk, opposite the residence of Jacob Cheever on Union street, and as she did so she was struck a glancing blow by a bicycle ridden by a young lad by the name of Thomas Healey, also on the way home from school. The child was cut about the face and head. Richard Cheever picked her from the street and carried her in his arms to the office of Dr. Braisdell, and when it was found that he was out, he carried her to Dr. Glendenning's, where her wounds were dressed. The accident was unavoidable, and only emphasizes the care that should be exercised by the children, as they come racing pell-mell down the hill from school every noon and afternoon. It is a wonder some of the children haven't been run over by automobiles before now.

Big Parade in Boston.

The Manchester and Beverly Farms Catholic churches were well represented in the big parade in Boston last Sunday, in which it is estimated there were fully 40,000 men in line. The North Shore companies, representing the Holy Name societies of the Sacred Heart church of Manchester, and St. Margaret's church of Beverly Farms, received special ovations as they marched through the Back Bay streets, and were seen by scores of girls and men who work here in the summer and attend these churches.

If you have a cottage to rent, or rooms, or want boarders, advertise the fact in the BREEZE. It costs but 15 cents a week after the first week, which costs 25 cents. The paper reaches many of the very people you are trying to each. *

Herman Staples is home from Rutland for a week's visit. Mr. Staples will spend the winter in Rutland.

Harry F. Lycett has accepted a position in Waltham for the winter.

Oscar Story is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his duties as letter carrier. Arthur Spalton, the popular carrier from Gloucester is the one postman in Mr. Story's place.

Lyman Butler has accepted a position in New York for the winter.

A very pleasant dancing party was held at the Women's Club last week. A small number was present but all enjoyed the evening.

The Bible class will hold the opening meeting for the year next Tuesday evening at Mrs. Frank Story's at 7 o'clock. [The lesson to be studied and discussed will be found printed in this copy of the Breeze.] The subject to be studied is the most important subject known to man. Let everybody come who will.

A bean supper was held at the Freshwater Cove Chapel, Wednesday evening.

A meeting of the teachers of the Sunday school was held on Tuesday. The school is thoroughly organized for the winter's work. Competent teachers are in charge of all of the classes. Every pupil should be in his place next Sunday.

Annual Meeting of the Magnolia Church.

The Annual meeting the Village church, Magnolia, was held at the church on Monday night. Of the 55 members there were 37 present. A delicious banquet was served by the ladies under the direction of the following committee: Mrs. Lafayette Hunt, Mrs. Edgar L. Story and Mrs. Fred Dunbar. The church business was then considered. The treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Boyd, reported a balance of $62.00 in the treasury, after all bills are paid. The poor fund amounts to $30. Mission pledges for the year amount to $165.

The pastor reported the addition of 3 members to the church-roll and the loss of one,—Mrs. Mary E. Lycett, by death; an increase in the summer attendance at service and a decrease in the winter attendance; an increase in the attendance at Sunday school, the average for the year being 35 as against 27 the previous year; total absence of a sense of responsibilty towards the Friday evening meeting; excellent results from the People's Forum. He recommended that the church Bible class be held this winter on a week-night and meet from house to house; that the church continue to do its share in the support of missions; that the church see to it that the generosity of its friends does not weaken its endeavors in its own behalf; and that the aim of the church's existence be kept steadily in view.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Standing committee: P. R. Sanborn, Miss Alice Story and Mrs. Lafayette Hunt; Geo. A. Upton, clerk; Mrs. W. R. Boyd, treasurer; W. R. Boyd, asst. treas; Wm. L. Wilkins, moderator; W. R. Boyd, deacon; Fred S. Lycett, asst. deacon; Mrs. Julia Wilkins, deaconess; Mrs. F. F. Story, asst. deaconess; Miss Amy Lycett, organist; Mrs. M. Kehoe, asst. organist.

The Election at Magnolia.

Magnolia voters did not turn out any too strongly on Tuesday. Only a normal vote was cast,---a total of 68. While the support of the voters was thrown toward Taft for president, it favored Vahey for governor by a large majority. The citizens opposed the adoption of the new city charter by a vote of 30 to 23. The vote:

President---Taft 35, Bryan 30.

Governor—Vahey, D., 36, Draper, R., 23.

Lieut. Gov.—Barton, D., 29, Frothingham, R., 28.

Secretary---Olin, R., 33, Alyward, D., 19.

Sends Breeze to Soldiers' Home in So. California.

Mrs. E. D. Ross, a former resident of Magnolia, now living in Los Angeles, in renewing her subscription for the Breeze writes: "I have received my paper every week very promptly since last January, but last week I missed it. Will you please send another copy. After reading I always send them to the Soldiers' Home reading room, where there are now 3000 soldiers for the winter."

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson I. Its Aim.

1. What are you living for?
2. Comment on the following answers:
   a. "One must have a good time while he is young. I am trying to enjoy life."
   b. "Everybody is trying to make money and so am I."
   c. "I confess to you that I am ambitious. I want to get ahead. Men no abler than I am are holding prominent positions in the state and nation."
   d. "I am satisfied these days if I can make a living and I don't think of anything beyond that."
   e. "What am I living for? For my boy. I haven't anything else to live for."
   f. "I am come that they,---that is, men, might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."
3. Is any of these aims big enough to employ a man worthily throughout eternity?
4. Is every life worth living? Can every man echo Browning's words:

"How good is man's life, the mere living! how fit to employ
All the heart and the soul and the senses forever in joy!"

5. Can you find a verse in the sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5:7) that states the aim of life as Jesus sees it? Compare this statement with each of the six answers above.
6. If man wants to enter upon life eternal, what must be his aim?
7. Will he be living the life eternal if he has any lower aim?

[NOTE.---The next lesson will consider the spirit required in a seeker for the life eternal.]

The Men's Club House.

Ground was broken for the Men's Clubhouse at Magnolia on Tuesday October 27. The loam, 9 to 12 inches deep, was scraped by horse shovels from the lot and is piled in heaps and ridges about the place leaving opportunity for grading as the excavation proceeds. On Monday last James S. Lee, the architect, came to Magnolia with the basement plan and brought with him Mr. Allen, the engineer, who proceeded to stake out the building. Its extreme depth is 94 feet on the side towards Lycett's store. On Butler avenue the depth is 68 ft. The frontage on Magnolia avenue is 88 ft.

The basement is to contain four bowling alleys, a pool-room with space for four tables, a large toilet room, a room to be used as cellar for the restaurant above, a suite of three rooms with bath for the manager of the restaurant and the "help," and, in a space that was to be left vacant, a gymnasium 30x28. Arrangements for the use of this basement in winter as well as in summer will be made. Stoves will be set up both in the pool-room and in the gymnasium. The latter will be the boys' room then and as such will be of great value. The basement rooms will be nine feet high in the clear, the gymnasium being made four feet higher by excavation. The entire basement will be cemented.

The building is to be well back from the street, some 40 feet on the upper side and more on the lower side of the lot where the road runs off, and will be reached by a circling driveway of ample width for two automobiles to pass.

The plans for the first and second stories will be announced when they are completed. The building will cost $20,000. There will be no money wasted. When completed, it will prove to be what is wanted. Those Magnolians who have not yet contributed will be needed before the work is done.

The contract for the excavation and stone work, including the cesspools and drainage, has been awared in competition to Morley, Flatley & Co. at the low figure of $1850. They have already begun operations and will be glad to employ Magnolia men or teams as far as they can, provided only they do a fair day's work.

N. A. Lee of Lynn was in town Thursday for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. A. T. Lee, at West Manchester.

Miss Abbie Floyd entertained a party of sixteen of her school friends at her home, Central square, last Saturday evening with a Hallow'en party. Monday evening Miss Ruth Burnham had a Hallow'en party at which were present some fourteen of her school friends. Miss Mabel Lodge entertained a party of eight at her home on Bennett street last evening.

Friends of Mrs. Emma S. Mylin, formerly of Manchester, will be interested to learn that Mrs. Mylin has gone from Winthrop, to Washington, where she will remain this winter.

Allan S. Peabody gave a very interesting talk before the Red Men at their meeting Wednesday evening on his trip to the south, where he attended the forestry school at Biltmore, N. C., the past year. Mr. Peabody gave a very interesting and graphic description of the beautiful country, in and about Asheville, N. C., the approach to the city by railroad, and the country along the foothills of the Alleghany mountains. Biltmore, the extensive estate owned by William Vanderbilt, is one of the show places of the country, and Biltmore school, founded and maintained largely through Mr. Vanderbilt's philanthropy, is situated on the estate. Mr. Peabody told briefly of the work he took up, but dealt more fully on the people, their characteristics and geniality of the Southerners as a whole. The negro population in his estimation is not pictured any to strongly, and he is of the opinion that if Northerners had to live among them they would develop the same feelings as the Southerners now have. Following the meeting of the tribe the members adjourned to the banquet room where a collation was served.

Allan McKinnon went to the Beverly Hospital, Wednesday to have a slight operation performed on his neck.

The schools are closed today, to permit the teachers to attend the annual convention of Essex County teachers at Peabody.

The next lecture in the Teachers' lecture course at Gloucester will be given next Friday afternoon.

L. W. Howe, who has been a guest at Charles A. Mason's, School street, the past week, left yesterday for Cincinnati, O. Miss Charlotte Mason is returning to her duties at the Old Corner store next Monday after a fortnight's vacation.

J. F. Burnham and family are returning to their former home in Reading next Monday after a short residence here. Miss Ruth Burnham and Ralph Burnham have been attending the High school. Their father has been employed as head gardener at "Highwood."

The girls gymnasium class to be conducted by the Misses Connolly of Beverly Farms will open next Wednesday evening, Nov. 11, in the Parish hall, off School street, at 7.45 sharp. The class will be considerably larger than last year, and this new hall affords a fine floor space.

Last week was a busy one for Town Treasurer Stanley,---busy receiving money. Most people would like to have that their only complaint, but Mr. Stanley kinds of hates to have the last week in October come around for the money comes in so fast in payment of taxes that he is kept pretty busy looking after it. Interest on taxes begins after Nov. 1, and consequently many people, especially those who pay large amounts, pay up before Nov. 1. During the month of October about $75,500 came in, $53,000 of which was paid during last week.

J. S. Gallagher of Lynn is the new prescription clerk at Allen's drug store, succeeding Mr. Derrick. Mr. Gallagher is a graduate in pharmacy.

Beverly Farms

Richard Slee was on from Washington over Sunday and Election Day, a guest of the Winthrop F. Lows.

The first meeting of the board of registrars for registration for the city election, which is to be held on Dec. 8, will be this evening (Friday), from 7.30 to 9 at City hall, Room 3, and also next Wednesday, Nov. 11, Friday the 13th and the final one on Wednesday, the 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson are caretakers of Charles H. Tweed estate for the winter and commenced their duties there the first of this week.

Augustine Callahan who has in the past for over a year resided at Brockton, this week returned to the Farms.

Letters remaining unclaimed at Beverly Farms, Mass. P. O. week ending Nov. 4, 1908. Mr James Donovan, Mr Frank J Martin, Mr Harold Smith, Reginald Sandbrook, Arthur Sandbrook, Miss Ethel Talford.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Never in the history of Beverly as a city has there been so much interest in the various offices as this year. On Wednesday the first day for securing nomination papers the following were taken out: For mayor, S. Harvey Dow, Charles H. Trowt, Frederick A. Dodge, Sumner E. Glines and Thomas H. Norton. For alderman-at-large, George W. McNutt, Jeremiah F. Desmond, Charles W. Trask, Walter S. Flint and Forman A. Crosby.

The Men's Improvement society of the Centerville End of Ward 6, a new organization, last evening gave a most excellent entertainment consisting mainly of moving pictures and illustrated songs in the Chapel there. The affair was attended by an audience that taxed the capacity of the place.

Local sportsmen are these days finding considerable recreation by taking a boat or following the shore in search of sea birds. Not always but quite often they bring home a trophy of their marksmanship.

A new fire alarm box, 511, has been installed at the Farms, at the corner of Hale and Haskell streets, opposite the residence of Mrs. McNeils.

The G. A. R. associates will from now on meet in G. A. R. hall every Thursday evening. It is very probable that a pitch tournament will soon be started. These proved very interesting to the members in the past.

At the election held on Tuesday there were 267 votes cast out of a total of 338 registered. The republicans were the only ones that made an effort to get out the vote. There were 33 who cast their ballots that live in the Centerville part of the ward.

There is no school today in Beverly Farms, the scholars being given an extra holiday on account of it being "convention day" for the teachers.

From now on, city politics will absorb the attention of the Farms voter. As Former Alderman Charles H. Trowt is a candidate for mayor the Ward 6 voter is especially interested in his welfare.

George Stevens of Swampscott is now associated with Capt. Charles Jones in the operation of the Chubb's Island fish weir, which has of late been making some good catches.

Tomorrow evening the Misses May D. and Gertrude Connolly will open their classes in gymnastics in Marshall's hall. The girls' or junior class, will meet from 6 to 8 and the adult class at 8 o'clock. Owing to the increase in numbers it is very probable that this class will be divided one portion meeting on Saturday evenings and the other on the following Monday night. The boys' class will meet on Monday night at 6 o'clock. The terms for instructions will be the same as last year.

Rev. Dennis J. Maguire of Canton, formerly assistant pastor at St. Margaret's church, was at the Farms on Tuesday to cast his vote.

Ralph W. Osborne yesterday resumed his duties in the engineering department of the B. & M. R. R. after enjoying a two weeks' vacation which he spent in New Hampshire and in Canada.

On Wednesday Patrick J. Mitchell and family moved from the Haskell house on Vine street to the L. D. Ahl estate at Pride's for the winter.

A delegation representing John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, on last Monday evening journeyed to Gloucester and witnessed the installation of officers of the colony there.

The recent torchlight parades in various places, in which the West Beach Tars have taken part, have certainly proved a good thing for the B. & M. R. R. if the big sale of tickets is considered.

The annual inspection of Preston W. R. C. will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 17. Mrs. J. S. Reed of Manchester will be the inspecting officer.

The next gathering of the Pilgrim "Wanderers" will be held at the rooms of the John Endicott colony at Salem on Monday evening, Nov. 15. The local colony will be well represented.

As a matter of interest concerning the old houses at the Farms now standing as landmarks and as examples of the workmanship of old time mechanics there are three in number, all of which were built about the same time, said to be about 1683. They are the three houses occupied by Mrs. Hall Curtis, John Bolam and family, and George F. Wood, respectively.

A number of Farms citizens on last Tuesday evening were very anxious to get the election returns and accordingly journeyed to Beverly and Salem for this purpose, intending to return at midnight on the theatre train. Owing to trouble with the Mystic draw the train did not bring them home until after 3 a. m., an experience of waiting in the stations which they did not relish, and where they also did not get any news from the election.

Herbert L. McKay, who has spent the summer here, left Tuesday for his home in Halifax, N. S., where he intends to spend the winter.

Perhaps the latest to give up the pleasure of boating for this season is F. P. Gaudreau, the popular Central square tonsorial artist, who hauled his trim motor boat, the "Pastime," to winter quarters this week.

Tag Day Tomorrow.

Tag day will be observed along the North Shore tomorrow, Saturday, for the benefit of the Catholic charity bazaar, which is to be held in Boston. James J. Sheehan of Peabody is the chairman of the committee, and 25,000 tags have been secured for the occasion.

The North Shore table in the coming bazaar will be supported by Salem, Marblehead, Peabody, Danvers, Beverly, Beverly Farms, Manchester, Ipswich, Gloucester and Rockport. In each of these places tag day committees have been organized; the idea is that in each locality the district committee will care for the details.

Miss May D. Connolly of Beverly Farms is in charge of the details for Manchester and Beverly Farms.

The many friends of Mrs. James Kelly sympathize with her in the loss of her grand children, who died the past week at Roxbury.

A meeting will be held in Marshall's hall this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock in the interest of former alderman Charles H. Trowt for Mayor. Everybody is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Varney and son Harold left Monday for a fortnight's vacation trip to South Wyndham, Me., Mr. Varney's former home. The drug store, meanwhile, is under the efficient management of "Dr." Grove.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Howard A. Doane's brother, in Beverly. Their little child was taken with diphtheria and the failure of the attending physician to administer antitoxin it is said, resulted in the whole family,—mother and father, becoming infected with the disease.

The West Beach Tars made a delightful hit in the Boston parade last Friday evening. They also took part in the Danvers demonstration on Saturday and on Monday evening went to Peabody. Their duty now seems to be at an end, much to their regret as they took considerable pride in their work and also derived considerable pleasure from it.

Robert Smith and family have vacated the Fenno cottage on Hart street and has moved into the Connolly house on Vine street.

The first entertainment in the Lyceum series at the Baptist church will be given on the third Friday evening of this month,—Nov. 20, when Miss Annie K. Holmes, the organist, will give an organ recital. The entertainments will be given on the third Friday of each month, except in December.

Miss Prudence Connolly attended a Hallow'en party in Beverly and stayed over until Tuesday the guest of her friend and school companion Miss Margaret Davy.

Miss Mary Zampbell of Greenwood avenue left the later part of last week and has taken up her residence on Long Island, New York. Her brother Louis has gone to Boston to live.

Miss Marion Dickey of Salem last Saturday afternoon concluded her duties as book-keeper at the J. B. Dow & Co. coal office. Miss Kennison of Beverly is her successor.

The Sarah Wyman Whitman Club met on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. L. Chapman, Haskell street. Besides transacting the general routine of business and performing the usual work a generous sum of money, $25.00, was devoted to the Beverly Deaf Mute School. No meeting will be held next week, but the week following, on Nov. 18th, the members will journey to Beverly where they will be the guests of Mrs. M. E. Cullen, at her home, Pierson street.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

At least one man missed his opportunity to vote Tuesday because he did not know the exact hours for voting. One of our good Pride's friends came down to the square a few minutes after four and stepping into the drug store inquired the place to vote. He was informed, but also that he was too late. Our good friend thought the polls were kept open until 7 o'clock he informed us after a hurried visit to G. A. R. hall, where he found that the polls were closed.

One of the Ward 6 voters who cast his ballot on Tuesday under difficulties was Ira E. Davis who has been for some time confined to the house with an attack of rheumatism. Mr. Davis, by the use of crutches, managed to get out and exercise his right and privilege, as a good citizen should.

Miss Nicholson, the hairdresser, left Wednesday for Boston, for the winter.

John Daniels of the Daniels-Gleason Co. is to be connected with the Brookline store of the firm this winter, and may leave here next week or the week following to take up his work. The local store will be in charge of a manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund K. Wallis of Northampton have spent the past week visiting friends at the Farms. They returned home yesterday.

Almost, if, perhaps not quite, its lines are perfectly straight but its absolute correct proportions and the true grace of its lines together with its solidity give it an air of "Simple Beauty" that may truly be termed Ideal.

Mission Furniture

Sit back in one of its Rockers, and every bone in your body seems to really tingle with relaxation. Drop down in one of its Morris Chairs and sweet sleep enwraps you within her folds. Look toward one of its Library Tables and little pockets, or shelves or half concealed drawers open up to your eyes suggesting added convenience.

Spicy little witticisms painted on boards serve as wall decorations to accompany it and with it all, so interesting, so comfortable and so practical, yet it costs rather less than any other—that is here.

Come look at a Rocker we are selling at $4.00; it amused us to see it advertised in another city's store window as being worth $10.50 for $6.67. It only pleased us the more at the way we know we serve you —always selling you less than are others.

There are chairs and tables and rockers galore on show in our

Quaint Mission Room

Call and visit it please, 'tis so far removed from the conventional store interior—that when you enter it you'll forget for the moment that you are really in a store.

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXIX.

Flippancy, the treating of weighty and serious concerns lightly and as matter for jest, may be said to be one of the characteristics of our time. Our forefathers have been charged with moroseness, and that they were somewhat lacking in lightsome humor must be allowed. But they had great matters on hand, and they treated them with becoming gravity. There is such a thing as seriousness without dolefulness, as well as cheerfulness without levity. Who will show us the golden mean?

It is one of the anomalies of every day experience, that many who boast of their breadth are of all men the most narrow, that many who think they are most profound are often the most shallow, that those who wish credit for liberality are often the most illiberal; such are the contrarieties of human nature. It would do us a world of good often could we "see oursels as ithers see us."

There is one thing that does not need to be proclaimed from the housetops, and that is that politics is no school of virtue or manliness; statesmanship is a noble thing, but the chicanery and pettifoggery of ordinary politics is something that ought to breed contempt.

Distinctions are a good thing when they are based upon or express real differences; but a distinction without a difference is of little account; many distinctions which have sometimes been matter of angry dispute are of the latter sort. And yet a letter or a diphthong may stand for a vital distinction, as in the case of the famous controversy that the great Nicene Council was called to settle.

Arnold of Rugby wrote to one of the assistant masters, "I will not condescend to justify the school against attacks, when I believe it is going on, not only not ill, but positively well;" and he adds, "let us mind our own work, and we shall always have enough to do, and enough always to hinder us from being satisfied with ourselves; but when we are attacked, we have some right to answer with Scipio, who, scorning to reply to a charge of corruption, said, 'This day I have fought with Hannibal well and successfully;' we have done enough good and undone enough evil to allow us to hold our assailants cheap." This was the spirit, not only of the great Head Master of Rugby, but of Paul who answered his detractors and accusers by pointing to his work as his justification; and happy is every teacher, and minister, and every other servant of the public, who can take his stand calmly on this high ground; it will make little difference to him what his enemies may say.

It would seem that some ministers go far afield for subjects for pulpit treatment, and when haply they have found them, they labor hard to find a title for them, as witness the notices of Sunday services in the daily papers; here is one, for instance: "The Achievement of the Consciousness of God." This is a new idea, certainly, achieving a consciousness. One cannot but feel sympathy for the mental throes that must have preceded such a deliverance.

Meeting a beloved physician on one of our perfect October days, evidently hurrying to see a patient, the thought came rather thoughtlessly, "there ought not to be people needing the doctor such weather as this;" but the second, better thought came in the words of an almost forgotten poet:

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the north wind's breath,
And stars to set; but all—
Thou hast all seasons for thine own, O, death."

SEE ACCOUNT ON PAGE 12.

Now that the election is over, we may hope for a little breathing spell; but as long as men differ as they do in their views of public policy, and are so much governed by personal interest; if it is not one thing it will be another; and with a world power, even if there is no domestic treason or foreign levy, there will always be complications arising, and new conditions to be discussed, and old questions to be threshed over again, which will be enough to keep us from political stagnation, at least. Some of us have reason to be thankful that we are not in the fray; but we are all of us permitted to offer the petition, God save the State.

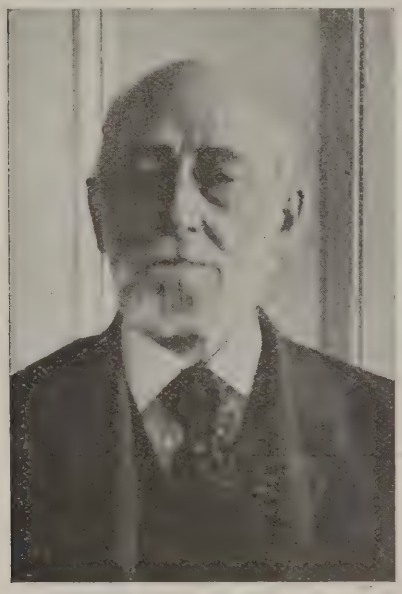

N. S. H. S.

The North Shore Horticultural society held a very interesting meeting last Friday evening. A paper by Eric Wetterlow on Chrysanthemums dealt with the subject in a very instructive and practical manner. There was a handsome display of chrysanthemums. William Swan was given a vote of thanks for his display and was awarded a special prize of $5.00. Mr. Wetterlow was given an award of merit for his general display and James Mcgregor was also given an award of merit for his display of cut blooms. James Salter also had a table of 'mums. Joseph Clarke, James Scott and Thomas Jack were appointed committee on exhibits. Robert A. Mitchell was appointed press representative for the balance of the year. The next meeting will be on Friday evening of next week.

NINETY-FOUR YEARS.

Manchester's Venerable Librarian Still "Hale and Hearty."

Delucena L. Bingham, Manchester's venerable librarian, and who also has the distinction of being the oldest librarian in the state, passed his 94th milestone

DELUCENA L. BINGHAM

(We regret that we have no better picture of Mr. Bingham than the one presented here. Mr. Bingham has promised to pose for a picture a little later.)

last Saturday. He celebrated the event informally, a number of his friends calling during the day to extend congratulations, and to express the hope that Mr. Bingham would continue to enjoy good health. Among his callers were several members of the summer colony who are still on the shore.

Mr. Bingham enjoys remarkably good health. His life has been one of usefulness throughout,—and this usefulness he still maintains. He may be found attending to the active duties incumbent on his position as librarian almost every day. Last Saturday he was at the library as usual and it was there that many greeted him on the occasion of his birthday anniversary.

Mr. Bingham was born in Manchester, Nov. 7, 1814. For nearly three quarters of a century he has been identified with the town library,—that is, the library such as it was, first in the days of the old lyceum library. It was through him principally that the present library building was present to the town and the present large collection of books was procured by the town.

Another Manchester Nonogenarian.

John Girdler of Beverly, a native of Manchester, and for many years a resident here, also celebrated his 94th birthday the past week. The Beverly Times of Tuesday comments thus on the event:

"One of the most active men in the city today, the oldest man in business, if not the oldest man in the city is John Girdler, the well known coal dealer.

"Mr. Girdler was born in Manchester 94 years ago today. He came to Beverly some years ago and established a wood and coal business, and by strict integrity and square dealing has built up one of the largest industries in this vicinity.

"Mr. Girdler personally attends to his business each day, and may be seen bright and early every day at his office or on the wharves, and is hale and hearty as many a man years his junior.

"There was no formal observance of the event, Mr. Girdler being about his work today the same as on any other day."

Her 79th Birthday.

At her home on Pleasant street, Manchester, Monday, the 9th, Mrs. Sarah F. Leach celebrated informally the passing of her 79th birthday. Though she made no formal observance of the event a score or more friends called to extend congratulations.

Auction Sale of Groceries at Manchester.

The auction sale of the grocery store of Frank H. Dennis, School street, on Monday and Tuesday, resulted in the whole of the stock, fixtures, horses, wagons, etc., being cleaned out. Atwood & Pattee of Boston were the auctioneers, Mr. Atwood having personal charge. On Monday the goods went rather slowly and prices were small. Tuesday brought a bigger crowd and things moved off at a little swifter pace. It was thought some grocery concern from out of town or some speculator might have bid in most of the outfit, but this did not develop. In-town parties took practically all of it. P. J. Hurley took a horse and one pung; F. J. Merrill bought a large pung; F. P. Dennis bid in the other horse and one wagon, and an out of town man bid in the other wagon. J. R. Weener of Boston bid in a good share of the fixtures for $175. Richard J. Baker bid in a big lot of the stock, canned goods, etc.

With the auction sale of the above business, one of the oldest grocery stores in town goes out of business. The location has been used as a grocery store for upwards of forty years. At least it was some few years after the war that John Little started a grocery store there. He was bought out by the late Henry Knight, which business was conducted in its later days by David Knight, a son. Frank B. Rust was the next to use the store, moving from his place of business on Washington street some ten years ago. Mr. Rust sold out to Dennis & Campbell about six years ago and in March, 1907, Mr. Dennis, the last proprietor, bought out Mr. Campbell, and has conducted the business alone since.

The semi-monthly meeting of North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., will be held next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. A. Lodge spent a few days the early part of the week visiting friends and relatives in Lowell.

The Haphazard club will meet Monday evening, Nov. 16, with Miss Annabel Harraden, Bridge street.

Theodore Coombs and family have moved to Gloucester this week where Mr. Coombs is engaged as clerk in a grocery store.

Walter Howe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Howe, is able to be out again after being kept in bed a week with a fractured hip. The young man met with the accident in alighting from a moving train at the local station.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dillon have moved from their home on Brook street to Roxbury. Mr. Dillon has been in ill health for several years and he does not seem to improve. He and Mrs. Dillon are moving to Roxbury so as to be near their children.

Moth Superintendent John D. Morrison started the fall work Monday on the trees along the streets of the town, beginning at the Beverly line. Mr. Morrison is in charge of one gang of men himself and he has Willlam Young in charge of another. The work consists of creosoting and cutting nests from trees.

C. W. Stetson, Boys' Work director for Essex Co., will be present at the weekly meeting of the Phi Alpha Pi this evening and will give the boys an interesting talk, and some music. Miss Katharine P. Loring of Pride's will give an illustrated lecture on Italy at the Chapel next week, on Friday evening. Those desiring tickets may secure them of any of the boys. Price 20 cents.

Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., have arranged a specially interesting program for next Tuesday evening, and it is urged that a full attendance of the members be out. The "Trolley Club," composed of about 50 Sons of Veterans, are to pay a visit to Manchester, though they will not come all the way by "trolley," it is needless to say. Some 30 of the club are expected. They will arrive on the 7.20 train and the local camp will meet them at the railroad station and a line of march will be formed for a parade through the principal streets of the town, headed by a drum corps, ending up at the camp headquarters where a supper will be served and the balance of the evening spent in a general good time. Speech-making will be in order.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Winchester, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Knight and son Roland, Harry Hooper, Abbott Hoare and Charles C. Dodge attended the annual Andover-Exeter football game at Andover last Saturday and saw Andover win, 12 to 0. Several Manchester boys are attending these two schools this year preparing for college.

The annual inspection of Allen Post 67, G. A. R., was held last Friday evening, Com. Sidney Low of Col. Allen Post of Gloucester being the inspecting officer. A delegation from Gloucester was present and joined in the campfire following the inspection. An oyster stew supper proved an interesting feature of the occasion.

Society Notes

The Washington B. Thomases are planning on closing their Pride's residence next week.

J. Randolph Coolidge and family are down to their cottage on Smith's Point, Manchester, occupied the past summer by the Italian embassy.

Mrs. E. A. Whipple and her son are remaining at their cottage at West Manchester quite late this autumn, as usual. They plan to return to town the latter part of this week.

The Clay Arthur Pierces are remaining at Pride's Crossing later than usual this autumn, due no doubt to the fact that Mr. Pierce's business has kept him in Mexico much of the time the past few months. Mrs. Pierce and children will return to St. Louis about the first of December.

Prominent among the November weddings will be that of Miss Elsie Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carr of West Manchester and Boston, who is to be married to Robert Brewer next Tuesday the 17th. Their home will be in New York.

An engagement announced the latter part of last week, of interest to North Shore people, was that by Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, of his daughter, Miss Frances Stotesbury, to John Kearsley Mitchell, 3d. Miss Stotesbury and her father spent several seasons on the North Shore, having the E. D. Jordan house at West Manchester three seasons ago. The married daughter, Mrs. Hutchinson, had a cottage at Beverly Farms a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Wood and daughter, who have remained at their cottage in Manchester much later than usual this fall, awaiting the completion of some additions and alterations to their cottage, left yesterday for their winter home, 44 Cypress street, Brookline.

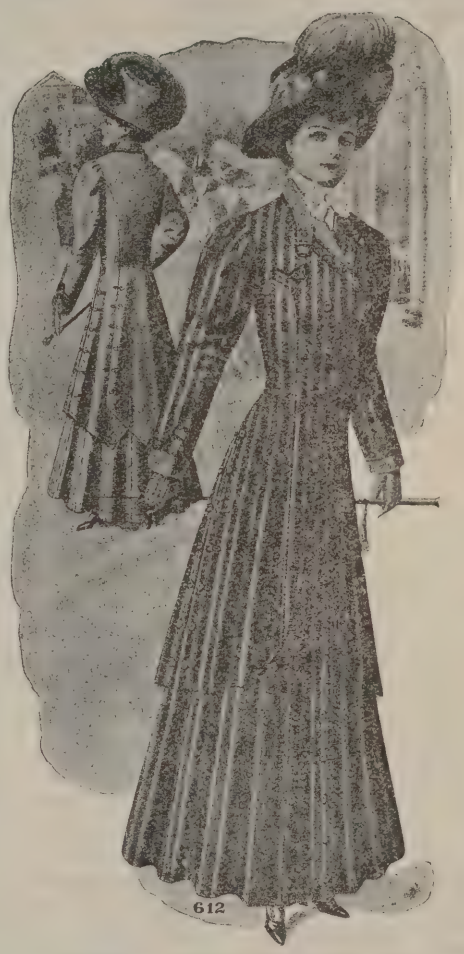

Judge and Mrs. W. H. Moore have closed their residence at Pride's Crossing and left last Sunday evening for their winter home in New York city.

Miss Margaret Gummey and her father J. W. Gummey of Boston were of those sailing on the Cymric from Charlestown for Liverpool last Saturday. They will spend a few months in Europe. Miss Gummey spends her summers at the Oceanside, Magnolia.

Miss Adele G. Thayer, who closed her cottage at West Manchester, several weeks ago, is sailing with her companion, for Europe in December. Part of the winter will be passed in Egypt.

The initial debutante ball of the season in Boston will be that given by Mr. and Mrs. Augustus P. Loring of the Pride's summer colony for their daughter, Miss Loring, at the Somerset, early in December.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The proposals for building the pumping station at Gravel Pond, in connection with Manchester's additional water supply, were opened at the office of the Water Board Monday evening, in the presence of the bidders. Only two bids were received, as follows:

George S. Sinnicks, $11,000.00
Morley, Flatley & Co. $17,131.85

The board awarded the contract to Mr. Sinnicks, who has already started upon the work.

The structure is to be a plain brick building, about 59 by 53 feet, one story and a half high, with hip roof, with skylights on top. The main room, about 36 by 38 feet, will contain the two verticle engines and the two pumps, each engine being of 65 h. p. and each pump having a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons. Off this room, running across the end of the building, is the producing room, with two floors, the upper one being on the same level with the coal pocket. Off the main room on the other side of the building is the office, 10 by 14, and store room and work shop, 15 ft. square, with an entrance for horse and wagon.

The building is to have granolithic floors throughout and the engine room and office are to be finished in brick inside. The roof is to be of slate.

The coal bunker is to be very conveniently located next to the producing room, and the pocket will be 14 by 30 feet, with capacity for enough coal for a year's supply.

The plans for the building were prepared by Raymond C. Allen, engineer.

The contract figure includes the grading, brick work and concreting complete.

———

The new tomb at Rosedale cemetery, Manchester, for which $2000 was appropriated at the March meeting last spring, is completed and is a handsome piece of work. The structure is about 12 by 16 feet inside, one story high, of brick, with granite coping on the gables, and with granite entrance. The roof is of slate. The building is a handsome addition to our cemetery and something of which every citizen ought to be proud. It cost $1500. The work was done by George S. Sinnicks.

———

George S. Sinnicks has about completed the plaster work on the big $100,000 residence at East Brewster, on the South Shore, for Mrs. R. C. Nickerson of Boston. He has also completed the exterior plaster on a bungalow for a Mrs. Temple at Salem, located near the Normal school.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

John A. Burnham is to have a large addition built to his house at Wenham lake, the contract having been awarded to Roberts & Hoare. The work will be started next Monday. George S. Sinnicks will do the brick and mason work.

At the Albert I. Croll estate, Smith's Point, a building is being constructed to be used for the present for storage purposes and the like, though it will ultimately be turned into a cottage for the gardener, probably. It will be about 40 by 25 feet, two stories high, with dormo windows, and is being built with the sea wall serving as the foundation for one side. Roberts & Hoare are the contractors. Geo. S. Sinnicks will do the mason and brick work.

The cottage on the H. C. Pierce estate at Pride's Crossing usually occupied by the Eben Richards is being altered and remodeled inside. Publicover Bros. of Beverly Farms have the contract.

"Alhambra," a summer cottage at Mingo Beach Hill, owned by Mrs. Wm. G. Gardner, is being moved back from its present location near the street line. Publicover Bros. of Beverly Farms are the contractors. The stone work and moving is being done by Edwards of Montserrat.

Publicover Bros. of Beverly Farms have recently bought from Otis H. Luke the property at 103 Hart street, where W. B. Publicover lives. The property has a frontage on Hart street of 218 feet and contains some 37,000 sq. ft. An addition is being built to the house and hot water heating system is being installed. The addition includes also a bath room and pantry.

Work has been started on extensive improvements at the John S. Curtis summer home, Storrow Hill, Beverly Farms. The work includes an addition to the house and to the barn and the building of a new garage, wooden with concrete floor. The contract for the work has been given to a Concord, Mass., concern.

A greenhouse is being built at the Robert S. Bradley garden, adjoining the Sunnyside greenhouses, at Beverly Farms. Howard A. Doane is the contractor.

Isaac F. Knowlton of Hamilton conveys to Abbie Norman, wife of Frederick H. Prince of Wenham 27.4 acres land on Essex street, Hamilton.

Walter D. Denegre has bought from T. Dennie Boardman a small piece of property across the way from Mr. Denegre's estate at West Manchester. A small cottage is located on the property and has been occupied by a chauffeur and his family the past year. The land is just over the Manchester line, in Beverly.

The attractive gardener's cottage shown on the front page this week, is located on Beach street, Manchester, between the Masconomo stables and Dr. Geo. H. Washburn's property. It is owned by Mr. George R. White and was built by Howard A. Doane, the well known North Shore carpenter and contractor.

Society Notes

Misss Katharine P. Loring of Pride's delivered her highly interesting and instructive illustrative lecture on "Queen Elizabeth and Mary Queen of Scotts," in the Avenue Methodist church, Beverly, Star Course, Wednesday evening.

The Francis W. Fabyans have closed their cottage at West Manchester this week and returned to Boston.

Mrs. R. C. Winthrop has closed her residence at West Manchester the past week and returned to her Walnut, street, Boston, home for the winter. Miss Clara Winthrop, however, will spend much of her time here this winter in the cottage built for her use last spring.

The Misses Colgate Colby have remained at the Cabot Lane cottage, Beverly Farms, quite late this autumn. They are leaving next week and will be at the Touraine, Boston, until Dec. 1, when they return to their New York home, 22 East 23d street, Madison Square, for the winter.

A special train of four cars took away about 50 of Judge Moore's show horses from Pride's Crossing to New York Monday.

H. M. Sears and two young daughters left Pride's Crossing Monday and are at their Commonwealth avenue, Boston, home for the winter.

The private subscribers train will make its last trip to Boston next Tuesday morning, and the last trip from Boston Monday afternoon, for the present season.

"Law on Roads"

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear sir:—

It would assist the cause of "safety on our roads" if you would call the attention of your readers to Section 1 of Chapter 512, Acts of 1908, recently passed by the Legislature and entitled

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE LAW ON THE ROAD

as follows:

"Section 1. Whenever on any bridge or way, public or private, there is not an unobstructed view of the road for at least one hundred yards, the driver of every vehicle shall keep his vehicle on the right of the middle of the travelled part of the bridge or way, whenever it is safe and practicable so to do." (Section 2 provides a penalty.)

It is evident from investigation of many accidents on the road that a large number of them are caused by failure to observe the safe and sensible rule which, by this statute, is made law of the Commonwealth, applying to the vast majority of situations, namely, "KEEP ON YOUR OWN RIGHT HAND SIDE OF THE ROAD."

Even in passing on the left of another vehicle going in the same direction, as provided for in Chapter 54 of the Revised Laws, a driver should have a clear road before leaving the right hand side.

By observing this law at all times, drivers of carriages and automobiles will not only save themselves from possible prosecution in the courts, but will greatly add to their own safety and to the safety of other users of our roads.

Thanking you in advance, we are,
Very truly yours,
SAFE ROADS AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION,
By G. McC. Sargent, Secy.

Manchester Electric Co.

The directors of the Manchester Electric Co. have made good their promise of before and at the time of the last Town meeting to consider the purchase the plant,—namely, that if the town did not care to purchase the plant, it would be sold, anyway. It has changed hands, and is now controlled by the Boston & Northern Street Railway company.

A meeting of the directors of the company was held in Boston today noon to confirm the agreement arrived at by the Boston & Northern.

Rumors to the effect that the Manchester company would change hands have been rife for some weeks. As announced in last week's Manchester Cricket the agreement was not reached until last week.

The transfer for the present is in the nature of a one-year lease with the option of purchase at the end of that time, when the plant will have been tried out and its possibilities demonstrated to their satisfaction.

It is expected that the new company will curtail operation expenses in several directions including the mechanical and clerical force, dispensing with the night man, this official being employed as a rule only in city plants. In fact, the operation under the former management has been to the end of providing the best and fullest service possible while in the future the expense will be reduced to the lowest consistent figure.

In spite of the rain Wednesday evening a large class,—over 30—took their first lesson in this year's course under the instruction of Miss May D. Connolly. The meetings are being held in Parish hall, off School street, and owing to the fine floor space, is an excellent place for gymnasium work. There is still room for additions to the class, and any new member will be welcome.

Dr. G. W. Blaisdell will be able to get out again the first of the coming week to attend to his patients, after being confined to his home since last Saturday as the result of a peculiar accident on that day. The Dr. was alone in his automobile and was going to the Lucas home, which is off the old county road, between the Cove and Manchester. He was going up the steep hill, off Summer street, just after leaving the Cove and was about half way up the hill when the car refused to go farther and before anything could be done it had backed down the hill and across Summer street and over the stone wall on the opposite side. The force of the impact threw the doctor forcibly against the seat, paralizing his back so that he suffered considerably Sunday and Monday. No serious complications arose, however, and he was able to get out this morning, though he will not be able to drive for a few days more. Emphasis is lent to the quality of the car when it is realized that outside a few minor injuries it stood the accident better than the doctor and was not put out of commission at all.

Little Miss Elizabeth Tappan, six-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. K. Tappan, celebrated her birthday Wednesday, on which occasion Mrs. Tappan invited in some of the little Miss's school mates for the afternoon.

At the chrysanthemum show in Boston the latter part of last week a Manchester exhibitor, Mrs. Lester Leland (Erie Wetterlow, gardener) captured first place in several classes: Japanese reflexed bloom, 12 Japanese incurved bloom and 12 anemones. There was a big field of exhibitors, including Plant of Connecticut, a large grower, and the Spaulding estate of Beverly Farms. The latter won second on the Japanese incurved and also on the Japanese reflexed.

STATISTICS show that of every million people 800 are blind—and the other 999,200 cannot see their own faults.

THE Beverly Board of Aldermen appropriated $1000 for moth extermination this week. This is a question which must be brought before Manchester citizens soon,—moth extermination. There is need of an additional appropriation before the work can be carried on to any great extent.

"WHAT constitutes a day's work?" We figure it out that it depends altogether on your occuption. If you lay brick, eight hours; if you keep house, sixteen hours; if you preach the gospel, two hours; if you are a porter in a sleeping car, twenty hours; if you serve the government, one hour; and if you are a newspaper man, twenty-four hours.

GLOUCESTER has a new city charter, and now Beverly comes forward with ideas along the same line. There is a movement on foot among business men and leading citizens looking forward to the revision of the present city charter. Gloucester's new charter provides for a mayor and four alderman-at-large, which is practically a return to the old form of town government, with five selectmen.

GEORGE C. Fairbanks, editor of the Natick Bulletin, was one of the successful candidates at the recent election, winning out on a republican ticket for the House in a district which had gone democratic for a number of years. Mr. Fairbanks carried on a clean campaign throughout and as a result of his systematic canvas the largest vote in the history of Natick was out,—92½ per cent. of the total registration. Mr. Fairbanks sent out a campaign advertisement which was quite unique, and which won him lots of votes. It was in the shape of a souvenir postal card, showing the square in Natick. Drawn into the view, very artistically, were airships of all styles, sight-seeing autos, elevated railway, subway entrance for trains to New York, etc., etc., with the very pertinent question printed across the top of card "Does Natick expect all this of Representative Fairbanks?"

OUR attention has been called to an article which appeared as an editorial in one of the Boston papers recently. The substance of the article was an account of a visit made by a person to several city churches on a Sunday evening and the record of attendance which was there seen, few persons listening to the Gospel message as proclaimed from the pulpits, except at a Salvation Army street service where the band and other attractions served as a drawing card; the conclusion being that a grand union service of all the churches on a Sunday evening (especially in small towns) was the means to be applied to revive some of our half dead churches.

We do not hesitate to suggest this plan to our home churches,—here in Manchester,—as one instinctively feels more at ease and derives more uplift spiritually when surrounded by those who are "of one accord in one place;" certainly ministers would try to do their best when the audience gave evidence of increased numbers in attendance; more attention on the part of the hearers would be given the expounding of the Word in talk, address or sermon. Good singing is one of the things necessary for a successful union service.

IT PAYS.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

When the dimpled baby's hungry, what does the baby do?
It doesn't lie serenely and merely sweetly coo;
The hungry baby bellows with all its little might
Till someone gives it something to curb its appetite.
The infant with the bottle which stills its fretful cries
A lesson plainly teaches: It pays to advertise.

The lamb lost on the hillside when darkness closes round
Stands not in silence trembling and waiting to be found;
Its plaintive bleating echoes across the vales and meads
Until the shepherd hears it, and, hearing, kindly heeds,
And when its fears are ended, as on its breast it lies
The lamb has made this patent: It pays to advertise.

The fair and gentle maiden who loves the bashful boy
Assumes when in his presence a manner that is coy;
She blushes and she trembles till he perceives at last,
And clasps her closely to him and gladly holds her fast,
And as he bends to kiss her and as she serenely sighs,
This fact is demonstrated: It pays to advertise.

New Directory Out.

The 1909 directory of Gloucester, including a directory also of the towns of Manchester, Essex and Rockport, came out the past week and a copy reached our office a few days ago.

The book is well gotten up and is an improvement in many respects over previous editions. There are 15,854 names in the volume, including 12,002 under Gloucester, 1250 under Manchester, 636 Essex, and 1966 Rockport.

The dancing school with Prof. Adams of Salem, as instructor, started Thursday night, with about 25 couples present. The class will be continued on Thursday evenings from 8.15 to 11 o'clock, with instruction interspersed at intervals throughout the evening not only for pupils, but for any who may be in attendance.

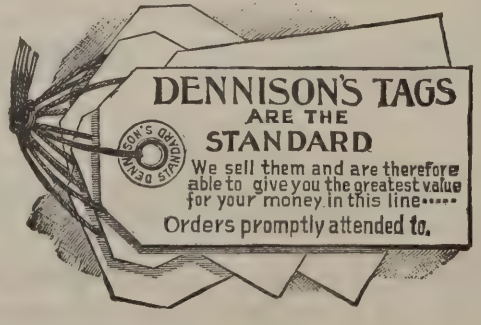

The assessors have been spending considerable time at the State House the past week, as is their wont at this time of year, going over the state bank and corporation tax books, look ng after misplaced credits. Very often they find as a result of their search thousands of dollars of bank and corporation taxes credited to the wrong city or town, and thus they "corral" some extra money for Manchester. This year they have thus far "discovered" some five or six thousand. The amount to come from the state this year from bank and corporation taxes, according to the statement sent to Town Treasurer Stanley is $46,974.15, which is an increase of some $9,500 over last year. It is likely this figure will be increased to some $13,000 in total, over last year.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club will be held next Tuesday at which time Mrs. Alice Worcester Weeks will give a talk on "Ballads of British Isles," and will illustrate her talk by singing some fourteen or fifteen brief selections.

Miss Eveline Eldridge, who has been teaching in Somerville, and who has been a frequent visitor here with her sister, Mrs. Frank A. Rowe, is sailing next Tuesday from New York for the Panama, where she is to take up teaching in the service of "Uncle Sam" for a year or more. Miss Eldredge was at Manchester over Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rowe. The conditions at Panama at the present time as far as sanitary conditions are concerned are reputed to be on a par with any of the cities of the U. S. Miss Eldridge is to teach the children of American workmen who are there in connection with the construction of the great canal.

Accident Last Saturday.

The chimney fire at the E. W. Longfellow cottage at Coolidge's Point last Friday afternoon, a brief account of which was given in our last issue, resulted indirectly in a serious and almost fatal accident, of which James Chane, a Magnolia young man, employed by G. W. Hooper the Manchester grocer, was the victim.

Miss Alice Longfellow was at her brother's home at the time of the fire and her automobile was sent to the village to procure some fire extinguishers. At the fire station Chief Hoare and three others boarded the auto, with the extinguishers and the auto was started on a hurry return to Coolidge's Point.

On Summer street, opposite the Essex County club grounds, Mr. Chane was delivering groceries. He had just stepped on the wagon and was taking his seat when the auto appeared. To those on the auto it looked as though the wagon would go out into the middle of the road. At any rate, there was confusion in the mind of the chauffeur and before he could direct his car away from the wagon it had struck it a glancing blow. Six inches more space would have allowed him to pass. The wagon was smashed to kindling wood and Chane was thrown to the road, and was partly covered with the smashed wagon when he was picked up.

At first it was thought his injuries were of a serious nature, but it afterward developed that he was cut about the head and face and his legs were partially paralized. He was able to get out yesterday, however, and expects to return to work next Monday.

Those in the auto say the accident could not have been very well averted under the circumstances.

As to the fire! It was practically extinguished when the firemen arrived, William Till, caretaker at the Willett estate, having brought some extinguishers from his place and did some effective work.

Mr. Tarr Takes Up New Work.

H. E. Tarr who has been manager of the Beverly telephone exchange for the past year and a half, left for Boston on Monday to become distribution engineer for the Boston division of the telephone company's plant.

Mr. Tarr's manifold duties are divided among several men. Heretofore he has had to make contracts, run wires, install instruments, supervise the service, make collections and so on and so forth. In fact, this pressure was so acute in many quarters that the company decided to specialize more closely with reference to the various factors entering into telephone service. It therefore separated its different activities into Commercial, Plant and Traffic departments. The commercial department handles the company's business relations with the public—is its selling agent, so to speak. The Plant department is responsible for the proper equipment of the plant, for the running of lines and installation of telephones, and for the maintenance of these lines in good working order. The Traffic department is charged with the responsibility of seeing that the service over these lines is good.

Carrying out this scheme of organization, Mr. Tarr's territory is divided between R. P. Butterick of Salem and John Gadd of Gloucester, as representatives of the Commercial department, Mr. Butterick taking Beverly. J. M. Baker, formerly manager at Lynn, is District Plant chief and Beverly and Manchester will come into his territory. F. S. Benjamin, the District Traffic chief, is a Salem boy who has had considerable telephone experience in Salem and elsewhere. As R. Robins, Jr., the district manager, was formerly manager at Lynn, it will be seen that the organization is composed of men familiar with the needs of the North Shore territory. Mr. Tarr says he believes the results obtained by them will make the telephone service more satisfactory from every point of view, as each department head will have more time to give to his specialty.

A tug-of-war contest between the champion K. of C. team and a team to be selected from the local tribe of Red Men is one of the possible attractions for Thanksgiving Day. If the event takes place it will be in Town hall in the afternoon.

Wm. W. Hoare and Frank G. Cheever are arranging to give another of their popular holiday concerts in the Town hall on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 26. Watch for their announcement next week. Some excellent talent is being procured and a splendid concert is in store.

The first in the series of graphophone concerts to be given in the Town hall this winter through the beneficence of Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper, will be next Wednesday. A concert will be given for the children at 3.45 in the afternoon, and for adults at 8 in the evening. No admission will be charged for these concerts, but a collection will be taken to raise funds to purchase new records from time to time, so as to vary the program. As announced two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Hooper are spending the winter in Europe and they left their large graphophone in charge of one of our citizens so that the townspeople might enjoy its use.

Mrs. Eliza Crombie and Mrs. Senter Stanley returned last Saturday from a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Crombie's son, Carrol, and family at Battle Creek, Mich.

The November issue of the "Apparel Retailer" in a "survey of the Golden Anniversary of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn of Salem," has the following to say of a Manchester woman: "Among the most interested and interesting visitors was Miss Mary A. Baker of Manchester-by-the-Sea. Miss Baker was one of the three clerks who, in the Bowker Block, fifty years ago, started with the late Mr. Almy in the little business which has grown to the present mammoth proportions. Miss Baker was with the concern ten years, and Mr. Bigelow remarked, in a glowing tribute of Miss Baker that---'She taught me my first lessons in the dry goods business. She was one of three clerks; today at Christmas time our payroll includes 500 persons.'"

The first accident of a serious nature since the laying of the pipe for the new water supply was started occurred Tuesday morning when a stone, weighing only a few pounds was hurled through the air some 200 feet as the result of a "blast," and hit an Italian by the name of Abcdefxyz,—anyway, his check number was 236,—in the ribs, causing a fracture. The fellow saw the stone coming and instead of dodging, he turned his back to it; thus the fractured ribs. He was attended by Dr. Glendenning, and afterwards was taken to a hospital in Boston.

Charles Edwards of Centerville is probably the most successful of local sportsmen. One result of his skill with the gun is his string of 72 ducks which he has secured within the past two weeks, principally at Long Pond where he has a shooting booth.

A public whist party will be held in G. A. R. hall next Friday evening, Nov. 20, under the auspices and for the benefit of the G. A. R and Associates. Good prizes will be given. Tickets are 20 cents.

On Wednesday at Salem a marriage license was granted to Michael Dreslane of Beverly Farms and Margaret Walsh of 9 English street, Salem.

It is understood that there are some doubts as to whether Councilman John C. McCarthy will seek re-election again this year. His present feelings are that he will not. Mr. McCarthy has been a member of the lower branch for the past five years.

The Ladies Sewing circle was the guest of Mrs. Andrew Crowell at her home on Hart street last evening. The circle will follow their usual custom and will purchase the coal for the Baptist church this year, a gift that is much appreciated by the church members.

James D. Hooper, Winthrop F. Low, Dr. John J. Riordan, Frank I. Lomasney and Thomas J. McDonnell were among the Farms people who attended the funeral of the late Robert C. Heaton in Boston yesterday.

Edward Hill, chauffeur for the Allan Curtises, accompanied by Mrs. Hill, left the Farms the first of the week and are now on their way to France, where they will spend the winter.

Donald McKenzie and family closed their cottage on Hart street the first of the week and have moved to Cambridge, where they will live until next spring.

Rutherford---Finnigan.

At the parochial residence, Beverly Farms, Monday morning, Alexander Rutherford and Miss Josephine Finnigan, two well and popular known young people, were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. N. R. Walsh. Both the groom and bride are employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Arthur Pierce, at Pride's, the former as head butler, and the latter as head nurse. Despite the pranks of their friends the young people departed on the 11.45 train on a ten days' honeymoon trip, boarding the train at Montserrat.

Robert C. Heaton.

It is with deep regret the many friends of Robert C. Heaton, for many years a summer resident of Beverly Farms, learned of his death at his home on Spruce street, Boston, Wednesday morning. For some months Mr. Heaton has not been in good heath but his illness was not of a serious nature. Last Saturday the family closed their cottage at Beverly Farms and returned to Boston. Mr. Heaton passed away Wednesday morning of heart failure.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson II. The Spirit Required.

Matthew 18:1-6; Matthew 19:13-15; Luke 18:9-17.

1. What is the law governing entrance into the kingdom of heaven as stated by Jesus in these passages?

2. What is the difference between being childish and childlike?

3. Would you call eagerness to learn childish or childlike? Which would you call being trustful? Which would you call believing all you are told?

4. Is a man childlike if he doubts God? If he is suspicious of men? If he doubts the miracles? If he is self-satisfied?

5. Can this requirement for admission be evaded? Is the reqirement similar for a profession? How long can a man remain in the kingdom after he ceases to be childlike.

NOTE: Next week we shall discuss the first characteristic of an enduring life.

It was expected that work would start today on the widening of Raymond street, in the square, at Magnolia village. This has been a matter of contemplation for some years, but only within the past few months has anything definite been done. The thing has gone through now, however, and the work will be started at once. The entrance into Magnolia at this point has always been dangerous, especially since the autos have become so numerous. The corner will be rounded off, beginning about opposite the Willow cottage.

Miss Marjory May has resumed her duties at the telephone office after a week's vacation.

Mrs. Joseph Crispin is in Dorchester, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Abbott.

We are glad to report that James Chane's condition is improving. See account of the accident on another page.

Miss Bradford has closed her studio and has returned to Boston for the winter.

Alex Koerner and Arthur Steinert of Lawrence were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Butler the first of the week.

The Bible class began its work Tuesday evening with ten members. It was voted to meet regularly on Tuesday evenings at 7.30 o'clock. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Elbridge Foster's. The discussion of the aim of life was frank and vigorous. A profitable winter's study is assured.

The Magnolia young people were on the bulletin board of the Fishermen's Institute for an entertainment Wednesday evening. It had to be postponed and Wednesday Dec. 9th has been fixed upon. Fred Dunbar is to get up the program. (We learn as we go to press the Institute was gutted by fire last night.)

The Sunday School elected Mrs. Fred Lycett as its superintendent at a business meeting last Sunday. The other officers are: Vice president, Miss Alice Story; secretary and treasurer, Miss Susan Lycett; teachers, Mrs. Edgar L. Story, Miss Marian Story, Miss Alice Story, Miss Amy Lycett, Mrs. Fred Lycett and F. J. Libby.

Pres. M. J. Senenga, the head of our youngest college is to speak at the Village church this evening. He is president of the Northland college at Ashland, Wis. He is a very interesting speaker and will describe in a graphic way the work his college is doing on the northern frontiers among Finns, Poles, Russian and other northern pilgrims.

ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

The plans for improving the Magnolia avenue road and the changes made necessary in abolishing the dangerous crossing at the Lily pond have gone through and the work will be carried out before another season. The new road will go under the railroad near the old Bray house. The railroad is standing a big share of the cost in building the new road, the state will pay 25 per cent, and the city the balance.

Colonel Sohier, the Beverly road builder, whose devotion to the cause of good roads, especially in the country districts and woods, amounts almost to a passion, will start in next week on a piece of work which he is to do gratis for the city of Gloucester. He will bring his roadbuilding machinery and employes down to the junction of Haskells Pond road and Essex avenue and will work from there up towards the Essex line, repairing the roadbed thoroughly and putting it into shape to withstand the rigors of the winter wear.

Mayor Parsons, who has been conducting the negotiations with Colonel Sohier, which led up to his deciding to go ahead with the work, feels quite gratified at having secured the colonel's promise to take up the work—Cape Ann News.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

Enthusiastic Trowt Rallies.

An enthusiastic rally in the interest of Former Alderman Charles H. Trowt, now candidate for mayor, was held in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, last Friday evening, which was attended by so many Ward 6 voters that there was not room enough to accommodate all that desired to be admitted, many being obliged to stay in the hallway and on the stairs. In Beverly, at Commercial hall, on Monday evening another meeting was held, about 200 being present, representing all parts of the city. Among those who spoke were W. B. Publicover, Wm. M. Moriarty and Charles F. Butman of Ward 6, who told of the hearty support Mr. Trowt would receive from his home ward.

Councilman Charles W. Trask, candidate for alderman-at-large, held an enthusiastic rally on Tuesday evening, in the Centerville part of the ward, the meeting being at the engine house.

Dennis Toomey has been taking a vacation from his work at the North Shore Fish market the past week.

Ira B. Case, proprietor of the North Shore drug store at Pride's, has closed his store for the season. Mr. Case has accepted a position in Boston for the winter, but he will live at the Farms.

On recommendation of the committee of sidewalks of the city government, an order has been adopted giving permission for granolithic sidewalks abutting the estates of John H. and Daniel M. Linehan, on Hale and Haskell streets.

Miss Margaret Bakeman, Boston Cooking school, '04, gave a practical chafing dish demonstration at the meeting of the Girls' club on Tuesday evening. Among the speakers scheduled for the year are Miss Katherine P. Loring, who will speak on "Self Culture," in January; Mrs. A. Scott Fraser, "Foreign Lands," and Dr. W. J. Dougherty, "Home Nursing," in March. For Parents's Night in May Rev. E. H. Byington of Beverly has been secured.

A representative delegation from John West colony will meet with the Pilgrim Wanderers at John Endicott colony rooms at Salem next Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Hayes of Greenfield have spent the past week at the Farms the guests of relatives. They returned home yesterday.

A party of young people enjoyed a moonlight hay-rack ride to Wenham and Hamilton last Saturday evening. At the end of the ride refreshments were served at the home of one of the party.

Edmund L. Knowlton is moving into the C. H. Day house, formerly occupied by J. L. Eaton.

Neighbor's library is quite a popular place these days for the Farms young people, and on each evening quite a party of the students can be seen there each studiously perusing some good book.

At a conference of members of the Post, Relief Corps and others, held recently, it was decided that for the present no efforts would be made to increase the fund for the proposed Memorial Hall. The project, while its successful termination is very much desired, is agreed by all to be one that will require funds that seem to be almost beyond reach. Other departments of the work need attention, too, so that efforts must be put in that direction.

Sportsmen's Show.

The "Sportsmen's Show," as the exhibition of the New England Forest, Fish and Game Association, has become to be generally known to the people of New England, will be held this year in the Mechanics Building, Huntington avenue, beginning December 24, 1908, and ending January 5, 1909. It promises to be the most ambitious exhibition ever held under the auspices of this organization of gentlemen so deeply interested in all that concerns "sport" of the highest class. The exhibits will be so numerous and so artistically arranged that the entire building,—Grand, Exhibition, Paul Revere and the other halls—and the several basements will be utilized. Among some of the principal features of the show will be an indoor rifle shooting tournament, under the auspices of the National Rifle Association of America; an athletic carnival, a fly and bait casting tournament and a new and superb series of moving pictures of fishing, hunting and other outdoor scenes.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Three new members were admitted to membership to John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, at their regular meeting last Friday night.

William S. Pike, driver of the Farms Hook and Ladder truck, has been confined to his home a portion of this week.

Alderman Robert E. Hodgkins and Councilman Charles H. Hull have taken out nomination papers for re-election. A new candidate in the field is John W. Phillips, a well known real estate man, and dealer in investments, from the Centerville part of the ward.

The young people of the Farms are complaining over the lack of any entertainment. For several weeks there has been nothing going on in the nature of a dance or entertainment of any sort. The last dance was on Oct. 13, a fact to cause regret to the large number of young people who take especial delight in this form of amusement.

Miss Edith Elliott, the popular assistant at the Farms postoffice, has been taking a forced vacation for a few days past, due to illness.

George H. Bennett has been seeking endorsement in Ward 6 for Charles H. Trowt for mayor, and has had two papers in circulation, which required 140 names. He secured these without the least trouble.

A new stove, the gift of Preston W. R. C., has taken the place of the old one in the banquet room of the G. A. R. hall, the past week. The corps has also replenished the supply of dishes and cooking untensils.

Thomas Larson and Alfred Dix, two well known Farms young men, went to New York the first of the week, where they are to learn to be chauffeurs.

The vacant tenement in the Mrs. Rose McCoy cottage on High street, has been leased and will shortly be occupied by a newly married couple.

Mrs. Abbie Poole and two children spent the latter part of last week and the early part of this week visiting her late husband's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs Thomas.S. Poole at their home in Annisquam. Last Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Poole celebrated the 56th anniversary of their marriage. They are both well known to many Farms people, and are in their 80th year. Mr. Poole was a member of Co. D 32d Mass. Volunteers in the Civil War, and on his anniversary last Monday many of the veterans paid their respects to their old comrade as well as did a circle of friends and neighbors, leaving many remembrances as tokens of their respect and esteem.

Mrs. Daniel W. Preston, president of Preston W. R. C., and several other members, will assist at the booths tomorrow at the big department fair to be held in Boston, in Paul Revere hall. The local corps contributed a box of articles to help furnish the tables, besides a sum of money.

Red Cross Meeting.

The fourth annual meeting of the American National Red Cross, Massachusetts branch, will be held in Boston, at the Twentieth Century club, 4 Joy street, on Tuesday, November 17, at 3 o'clock.

The State officers will be elected by delegates from the County and Metropolitan divisions, (one delegate to represent every hundred members.) Reports will be read and any business transacted that may be brought before the meeting. As some of the business is very important, a large attendance is hoped for.

KATHERINE P. LORING,
Secretary.

Hollis Street Theatre.

One of the most important events of the present theatrical season will be the annual Boston engagement, beginning next Monday evening, November 16, at the Hollis Street theatre, of Robert Edeson, always a favorite, whom Henry B. Harris will present in the successful new play, "The Call of the North," which comes here direct from the Hudson Theatre, New York City, where it enjoyed a prosperous engagement and added considerably to the popular star's laurels.

ROBERT EDESON
AT THE HOLLIS STREET THEATRE, BOSTON

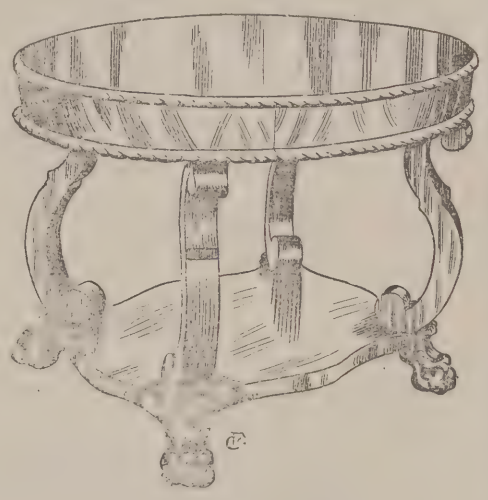

Based on Stewart Edward White's widely read novel, "Conjuror's House," "The Call of the North," from the pen of George Broadhurst, author of "The Man of the Hour" and other genuine dramatic successes, is a virile drama of the vigorous life in the silent vastness of the great northern forests, its action transpiring in the picturesque and seldom penetrated wilderness of the historic Hudson Bay territory in uppermost Canada—some six hundred miles beyond the borders of civilization---a region ripe in romance and primitiveness and new of reproduction behind the footlights. Its well conceived and cleverly developed plot deals with the love and adventures of Ned Trent, a young American who, as played by Mr. Edeson, is said to be one of the most appealing roles which the actor has yet created.

The Happiest Hours of Life Are of, and in the Home

And these joys are multiplied when the surroundings carry with them a comfort that ministers to the weary body and a beauty that charms the eye. Is it any wonder that we feel our task so deeply, and try by every art we know to have you buy good things?

Take This Rich Table

It Simply Is Fine

It is made of mahogany that is a study itself; the top has four pieces of crotch veneer, so perfectly matched and so well fitted to the top that you'll almost believe the tree grew for the table or that the table was made to especially use these veneers.

It is a good sized table 4 feet by 2 and one-half, with a drawer and a shelf that make it real practical. It wouldn't be made better if it cost double the money, and we consider it cheap

At $45.00

For 'tis not bought for a season, a year or a lifetime; 'twill last to please others that follow after you.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1908.

Two Brothers.

A Twice-Told Tale.

By J. A. Torrey.

Two sons there were of old, the Scriptures tells us,
One prodigal, one jealous.
And eke the father, generous and kind,
Whose pardoning love was to their failings blind,
Yet wrought in both a better heart and mind.

A Certain Man, so runs the parable,
Had but two sons and loved them passing well.
The younger son unto the father said,
"Give me the goods I have inherited."
And the fond father, grudging not but giving,
Divided freely unto him his living.
And so not many days thereafter, he
His journey took unto a far countree.

But soon in that far land to which he hasted
His substance was in riotous living wasted.
And having spent the wealth at his command,
There rose a mighty famine in the land,
And he full soon began to be in want.
Forlorn, forsaken, pinched with hunger gaunt,
Hope well-nigh gone, unhappiest of men,
He joined himself unto a citizen
Of that starved land to feed accursed swine!
Yet still with toil and hunger he did pine,
And fain would fill his belly with the husks
The unclean beasts devoured with gleaming tusks.

Sad was indeed his miserable state,
And, musing long upon his wretched fate,
He came at last unto himself, and said,
"Within my father's house is ample bread,
And meanest slaves with plenty there are fed.
Although I am disgraced and fallen so low,
I will arise and to my father go,
And unto that dear father I will say—
'Gainst thee I've sinned and grieved thy love away.
No longer worthy to be called thy son,
I'll be thy slave and at thy bidding run."

Then he arose, and though with toil bespent,
Famished and faint, his weary way he went,
Until he saw, on the horizon's rim,
The old home towers against the twilight dim.
But sooner did the father's eye see him,
Who, filled with joy, ran out with eager feet
And beating heart his erring son to greet,
Kissed his dear face and fell upon his neck.
It was his own dear son, alas, a wreck!

Then said the son, "Oh, father, in Heaven's sight
I've surely sinned and done thy love despite,
And am not worthy to be called thy son"—

Then spake the father to the servants, "Run,
Run with all speed, and hither quickly bring
The costliest robes; put on his hand the ring;
Bring softest sandals for his bleeding feet,
And kill the fatted calf that we may eat
And make us merry; for this, my son, was dead
And is alive again!" The servants sped.

O Sinner, wandering far, when wilt thou learn
That thus o'er thee the Father's heart doth yearn!
Wilt thou return?

And now the elder son was in the field,
Nursing dark thoughts, 'gainst all compassion sealed.
He, faring homeward, near the house advancing,
Heard the blithe sounds of music and of dancing.
With bitter passions in his bosom pent,
He called a servant, asking what it meant;
Who thus replied: "Thy brother lost is found,
Thy father hath received him safe and sound,
And we have killed for him the fatted calf;
This joy and feasting is on his behalf."

Then was he angry and would not go in,
But stopped his ears against the merry din.
His father then—with tears his eyes did swim---
Came out to meet him and entreated him.

Then, answering, said he to his father, "Lo,
These many years I serve, as thou dost know,
And I have ever done as thou hast bid,
Yet never hast thou given me a kid
For merry-making. But when this, thy son,
Who hath disgraced us and to ruin run,
When he hath come, thou hast on his behalf
Made him a feast and killed the fatted calf!"

Then said the weeping father, "Son of mine,
Still thou art with me. All I have is thine.
With feast and merry-making it is meet
That thy returning brother we should greet.
Therefore with gladness shall the day be crowned;
The dead is living and the lost is found."

We boast our freedom from outbreaking sin,
While yet the heart may be most foul within.
What blacker crime 'gainst Heaven and in men's sight,
Than envoy, jealousy and cruel spite!
If, Lord, by these my soul should be defiled
I am not worthy to be called thy child.
Our Father, by whose grace alone we live,
Ere thou forgive me teach me to forgive.

S. OF V. HOLD OPEN MEETING.

Forty-one Members of the Trolley Club of Boston Came to Manchester. Parade Through Principle Streets.

Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., Manchester, held an open meeting Tuesday evening, an occasion which proved one of the most interesting in the history of the camp in recent years. Not only was there a large attendance of the local members, and a number of "recruits" present, but forty-one members of the Trolley Club of Boston came down and did their part in making the meeting a real live one.

The visitors arrived on the 7.20 train and were met at the station by the local camp members to the number of about fifty and, headed by a drum corps, line of march was formed for a parade through the principal streets of the town.

The parade started from the station, to Beach street, to Union, to North, to School, to Central square, through Central and Bridge streets to head of Ashland avenue, countermarch through Bridge and Central streets to G. A. R. hall on Union street. Plenty of red fire was burned along the line of march. About 95 S. of V. were in line.

An oyster supper was served after the march and this was followed by a general "good time" meeting, everybody entering into the cheer of the occasion.

Among the visitors from out of town were President Kirchgassner of the club, who was formerly at Manchester in his connection as senior vice commander of the division of Massachusetts; Past Chief Mustering Officer George F. Hunt of Everett; Frank E. Howard, chief aide on the staff of Commander Cutler of the Mass. division; Past Div. Com. William H. Stevens of Arlington; Press Correspondent Rupert J. Schute, who is both a S. of V. and G. A. R. man, and is real estate editor of the Boston Transcript; T. Benton Kelley, past dept. com. of the G. A. R. of Vermont, now custodian of the Vermont association, with rooms at the Westminister in Boston; Past Senior Vice Com. Frank E. Warren of Arlington; John F. Wilcox, secretary and treasurer of the club, and Div. Aide Frank J. Lownsburg of Cambridge. Others from Cambridge, Boston, Everett, Malden, Somerville, Arlington and Chelsea were present. Chief of Police Urquhart, was among the number.

Commander Fred K. Swett of the camp spoke a word of welcome and said that the visit of the Trolley club had done a power of good; it had exemplified to the towns-people that the S. of V. can turn out in numbers. He knew the camp members were surprised in the appearance of so many from Boston and it certainly showed their enthusiasm, loyalty and glory in the "Old Flag."

Pres. Kirchgassner was first called upon. He said he had come knowing what was in store, for he had been to Manchester before, and the camp had the name of entertaining its visitors loyally. The Trolley club, he said, was an unique organization. It had been organized five years, on a trip which some 50 of the boys took to Lowell one night. The club was organized on the cars on the way home, thus the name "Trolley Club." The object was to promote sociability among the brothers and to keep up enthusiasm. They had been greatly benefited by the visits paid other camps, and he felt that other camps had been benefited by them. He hoped if there were any "recruits" present they would think of the sacrifice their fathers underwent in the days of '61-'65 and that they would show their interest by joining the camp and help out in the great work.

FRANK L. KIRSHGASSNER
President Trolley Club

Frank E. Howard, who represented the department commander, said he felt like throwing aside all formality on an occasion like this and having a good time. He said the old "saw" about Chelsea being dead was smashed tonight by the actions of the Chelsea boys in the crowd. They had shown they were far from being dead. He told the story also of the Chelsea Hebrew who when asked if he had had a fire "last Wednesday," replied "No, next Wednesday." Chelsea people were not "dead" by any means.

Speaking of the camps throughout the state Mr. Howard said that outside a few camps, there had been a great tendency as a whole toward enlisting in the ranks men who might be called the "solid men" of the community, especially in the smaller towns. He urged the brothers to attend the meetings the first of the year so as to become acquainted with the new ritualistic work. He congratulated Col. H. P. Woodbury camp on its standing as regards numbers, etc., and enjoined any of the members wbo were so inclined to join the Trolley Club.

Comrade Kelley, referred to above, said he had refused four invitations to go elsewhere to come to Manchester. He had been unfortunate in losing two sons and he was doing all he could to get other sons to put their shoulders to the wheel so as to take the veterans' places when they had passed beyond. He had been a member of the Rutland, Vt., post 41 years. He wanted the S. of V. to realize that their's was the grandest organization and most exclusive in the country.

Mr. Kelley has written several songs which have been published and he sang one of these "The Loyal Sons," arranged to the tune of "We Old Boys." The gathering joined in the chorus, printed copies of which were passed around the room. The chorus was worded as follows:

"We are the sons of those brave men,
Who fought on land to save;
We'll firmly stand that through all time
Our dear old flag may wave."

As an encore he sang "Same Old Boys Today."

Rupert J. Schute, too, emphasised the S. of V. as the most exclusive order in the world today because "the blood of our father soldier flows through our veins, and I would be dishonoring my father did I not associate myself with the order." Mr. Schute went to war as captain's boy first at the age of 12 and again a year or two later after he had recovered from fever.

A TRIFLE MIXED.

Three smart young men and three nice girls—
All lovers true as steel—
Decided in a friendly way
To spend the day awheel.
They started in the early morn,
And nothing seemed amiss,
And when they reached the leafy lanes
They in like rode twos this!

They wandered by the verdant dale,
Beside the rippling rill;
The sun shone brightly all the while;
They heard the song birds trill.
They sped through many a woodland glade,
The world was full of bliss—
And when they rested in the shade
Theysat intwos likethis!

The sun went down and evening came
A lot too soon they said;
Too long they tarried on the way,
The clouds grew black o'erhead.
Down dashed the rain! They homeward flew
Till one unlucky miss
Slipped sideways—Crash! Great Scott!
The lot

Illustrated Lecture at the Chapel this evening at 7.45 by Miss Katharine P. Loring on Italy, given under auspices of the Phi Alpha Pi.

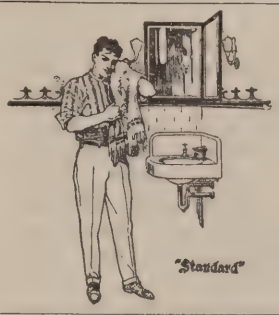

James Chane, who was injured a fortnight ago today in the accident on Summer street when Miss Longfellow's auto run into G. W. Hooper's grocery wagon, has so far recovered that he was able to return to work Monday.

Miss Myrtle Fenderson has resigned as assistant to the principal at the G. A. Priest school. She has been teaching in the 8th grade, and prior to the change this year when the 9th grade was taken to the High school she taught that grade.

Deputy Benjamin Huntoon of Beverly paid an official visit to Conomo tribe, Red Men, Wednesday evening, and gave a talk to the members. Mr. Huntoon is coming again on the 16th of December and will give a lecture which he has prepared on his trip around the world in a sailing vessel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Baker were the victims of a surprise party at their home, Mt. Pleasant Farm, on upper School street, last Saturday evening, when some 30 friends, called on them about 8 o'clock and tendered them a "tin shower." It was a complete surprise and a delightful evening was passed. "Rennie" was made to open the various suspiciously shaped bundles, and his bride read the poetry and verses that went with each bundle. Refreshments of cocoa and cake, etc., were served and at a late hour the company departed showering the newly wed pair with their congratulations.

A grand festival holiday concert under the direction of W. W. Hoare and Frank G. Cheever is to be given in the Town hall next Thursday evening—Thanksgiving Day. The attraction will be the Lucile McConville Concert Co., Lucile McConville, violin-'cellist; Helen Fiske Westgate, soprano; Maud Huntington Benjamin, reader and entertainer; Harris Shaw, pianist, and Flavel R. Jordan, baritone. It will be seen that the program will offer plenty of variety. Mr. Jordan sang here last winter several times and was most cordially received. Concert begins at 8 o'clock. Seats are on sale at Cheever's.

RE-ADJUSTMEMT OF RATES.

First Step Taken by the Manchester Electric Co. Under Control of Boston & Northern.

The first step taken by the Manchester Electric Co. under the control of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. is to re-adjust the rates. The following "notice to customers," sent out this week, is self-explanatory:

"The Company has learned by experience that it cannot continue in business without making a minimum monthly charge to its customers. The expense of current to operate the lines and transformers required for each house is not repaid to it when the lights are little used. It has, therefore, been compelled to adopt a system similar to that in use by other lighting companies of charging each customer a fixed sum per month, representing the cost to the company of being ready at all times to make his lamps burn when he turns them on. Whenever his consumption of current exceeds that fixed sum he will be charged only for what he consumes. But when he uses less current than will represent the cost to the company of supplying him, he will be expected to repay that cost.

"After careful consideration and an examination of the methods employed by other companies, the Company has decided that the fairest basis for such a minimum charge is the number of lamps which the customer has wired and ready for use. The transformer which serves his house must vary in size, and therefore in the cost of its operation, exactly according to the number of lamps which it may be called upon to supply. Hereafter, therefore, a householder who has few lamps will pay a small minimum, while the householder who has many will pay a larger sum.

"It has been estimated that 10 cents per lamp per month will nearly represent the cost to the company of supplying current to the transformer all the time. Our records show that you have ....lamps wired, ready for use. From and after December 1st next your minimum charge will be.....per calendar month or any portion thereof. This will effect very slightly your total bill for the year, because the minimum charge will not be operative in any month when your total current consumption exceeds the above mentioned minimum.

"Please take notice that in accordance with the terms of your existing contract with this Company, you are hereby notified that that contract is terminated. A new contract, embodying the above change, will be sent you for signature as soon as it has been prepared.

"From time to time an inspector will call to count the number of wired lamp-sockets. We request you to give us notice of any change in the number of lamps in your house and other buildings where you employ electric light.

"MANCHESTER ELECTRIC COMPANY."

As Others See It.

Ideas not Essentially Our Own.

Rumor has it that the Boston & Northern railroad has purchased the electric light plant at Manchester, and it is given out that the property is acquired for the purpose of furnishing additional power on the Gloucester and Essex branch of its system. While this may be so, it is suspected, that sooner or later an effort will be made to build an extension of the Beverly Cove line along the shore, through Pride's Crossing and Beverly Farms to Manchester, the wires to convey the power being run as far as possible beneath the ground, that the beautiful roadway along the North shore, may not be marred by the unsightly poles. Should such a line ever be built, it would be the most attractive ride in New England, and it is believed would be immensely popular and profitable. That it would be of advantage to Salem is also true, as it would enable shoppers from Manchester and the adjoining towns to come right to the doors of Salem merchants for trade. A strong fight would undoubtedly be made against the line, but sooner or later the electric cars will travel that road. The automobiles, some say, have spoiled the road for the pleasure of riding and driving, and those who have spirited horses have to take to the woods roads to avoid danger.—Salem Observer.

Take a trolley to Manchester to Magnolia or perchance all the way through to Gloucester is said to be a possibility in the recent change of management of the Manchester electric lighting plant, whereby a Boston and Northern man takes the management of the company.

The Boston and Northern runs its line to Chapman's corner and the automobile is said to be responsible for a change of feeling along the North Shore against the entering of the trolley car. The route would be the most picturesque in the country and with a trolley running to a feed wire underground there would not be so much objection to the plan as has been shown in the past.—Beverly Times.

The people of Manchester are much interested in the fact that the Boston & Northern street railway is said to be interested in the purchase of the Manchester electric light station and the common people of the town would hail the advent of the electric cars there; in fact, the cars are much safer than the wild autos racing through the town.—Salem News.

Miss Rosalind Fish of Tuxedo, N. Y., is visiting the Misses Thorndike at West Manchester. The young people are to attend the Harvard-Yale game at New Haven tomorrow. The Thorndikes are not closing their North Shore cottage until about Dec 1.

The Misses Colby left Beverly Farms this week after a delightful season on the North Shore. They are stopping at the Touraine in Boston for a few weeks before returning to their New York home.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Fearing, who have been spending a month with Mrs. Fearing's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cochrane, at Pride's Crossing, left Tuesday. The Cochranes will remain on the shore until after Thanksgiving.

Henry Parsons King and family have gone from Pride's and as their new house in Boston is not yet ready for them they are stopping with Mrs. King's brothers, W. S. and J. T. Spaulding.

"Eagle Rock," the summer home of the H. C. Fricks at Pride's was closed this week. The family departed in Mr. Frick's private Pulman coach "Commonwealth" last Sunday evening. They have gone to New York.

Mrs. Daniel Ahl is still at her Pride's Crossing home.

Mrs. James F. Curtis closed her cottage at Pride's Monday and returned to Boston.

The Judge Lorings have also returned to their Boston home this week from Pride's.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Bradbury and the latter's brother, George R. White, are remaining at their residence, Lilliothea, Smith's Point, until Thanksgiving Day when they plan to return to Boston for the winter.

Mrs. Washington B. Thomas is to give a dance at the Algonquin club, Boston, on Wednesday night, Jan. 6, in honor of her debutante daughter, Miss Margaret Thomas. The family have closed their cottage at Pride's and are at their Boston residence for the winter.

Mrs. Charles A. Munn, who is still at Manchester, is to introduce her daughter, Miss Carrie Munn, at a dance on Dec. 29, at her home in Washington.

At a session of the probate court in Salem this week an inventory of the estate of the late Robert C. Hooper of West Manchester, was filed, $50,000 in trust, and Helen Hooper, minor, $406,813.17.

N. S. Simpkins and family who have been abroad since last winter, sailed on the Adriatic, Wednesday for home. They will go their home in Washington.

At Topsfield Tuesday noon the marriage of Miss Marion Wentworth Peirce and Lieut. Ernest Harvey Pentecost, R. N. R., was solemnized. Miss Peirce is a daughter of the late Thomas W. Peirce and the late Catherine Cornelia Cooke Peirce, and Lieut. Pentecost is a son of Richard and Mary Pentecost. He comes from Liverpool. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann of Trinity church, Boston, assisted by Rev. Mr. Winkley of Danvers. The young people will spend their honeymoon in Europe.

The two young daughters of the late Mrs. Herbert Mason Sears are, by the decision just made by the probate court of Norwich, Ct., the greatest heiresses in Boston, if not in Massachusetts, as they have come into a trust estate of $6,000,000. The fortune comes from their late mother's side, who was a granddaughter of the Norwich millionaire, John Slater. The older girl, Miss Lillian, is 17. In another year she will doubtless be introduced, and stand out as the most important debutante of late years. She has the beauty and patrician air which distinguished her mother.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Among other improvements at the John A. Burnham summer home at Wenham Lake is the installation of electric lights. This is being done by a Beverly firm. D. Linehan & Son are laying the mile and a half or more of conduits and are building the brick transformers in connection with the work.

Extensive alterations and changes are being made on the Spaulding residence at Pride's Crossing. Several retaining walls are being built and the stone territs on the house are being taken down and rebuilt in an improved manner. D. Linehan & Son are doing the work, and they have given the contract for copper work in this connection to D. T. Beaton of Manchester.

Miss K. P. Loring is having the Loring homestead at Pride's wired for electric lights. A Lynn firm is doing the electrical work and D. Linehan & Son are doing the excavating in this connection.

The New Kernwood Bridge.

The new bridge across Danvers river between Salem and Beverly was formally opened at 11 o'clock Tuesday. The "opening" party consisted of County Commissioners Kimball, Poor and Grosvenor, Mayor Hurley, and ex-mayor Peterson, Robin Damon, Fred Tebbetts and W. S. Nevins of Salem. Mr. Damon's automobile was the first vehicle to cross the new bridge. This bridge ends at Kernwood in Salem, and Rial Side in Beverly. It is 1100 feet in length and cost $125,000. It is about three-quarters of a mile up the river from the old Essex bridge. Mayor Dow of Beverly met the party on the Beverly side of the bridge.

The approach to the bridge on the Salem side was built by D. Linehan & Son of Pride's. The road, very nearly a mile in length, was started the latter part of May and was built in contract time. The county commissioners are highly pleased with the road which they have already pronounced one of the finest in the county. The builders were very fortunate in securing the services of George Kimball, former superintendent of streets of Manchester, to carry out the work for them. Since the completion of the road a side walk has been built the entire length and after that paved gutters were built on this highway, and also on the Beverly side of the bridge. The work was completed last Saturday.

The North Shore Horticultural society meets tonight.

In our mention last week of the prize winners at the Boston Chrysanthemum show we failed to mention that W. S. and J. T. Spaulding won first prize for 6 vases, 6 varieties, 10 blooms of chryanthemums; first for cucumbers, second for vegetables, second for vase of ten blooms, pink, and second for 12 blooms Japanese incurved.

Manchester

Town Treasurer Stanley received a check from the state treasurer last Saturday for $31,203.40, representing the balance due the town after the state tax of $21,120 had been deducted. The amount due the town from the state was $46,465.49 corporation tax, $4,851.91 national bank tax, $72 military aid and $934 state aid, a total of $51,323.40. $31,000 is a pretty big amount for a little town like Manchester to receive all at once. But Manchester, unlike most towns of its size, spends considerable in the run of a year, so that $31,000 helps out a little.

As Others See It.

Ideas not Essentially Our Own.

The citizens of Newburyport, seeking reform in municipal administration, are inclined to try the Newport plan, which provides for a large representative governing body, with a small executive board having control over appropriations. With experiments under the Des Moines system well under way in Haverhill and Gloucester and an agitation for charter amendment started in Salem and Beverly, Essex county is taking the lead in separating local administration from partisan politics. Apparently, the desire for municipal reform is stronger in that county than elsewhere. But it may be that partisan politics in Essex county are more undesirable than in other parts of the state.—Boston Herald.

It is not improbable that the town of Marblehead will be an applicant early in the coming year for entrance into the metropolitan water district. The town has heretofore supplied itself from its own works and sources of water supply in the Forest river tributaries, but it has long been recognized that the amount of water obtained is very inadequate to the growth of the town both in permanent and summer resident population.—Salem News.

Sportsman's Show.

The lure of the wild can be almost as well answered and enjoyed by a visit to the "Sportsman's Show" soon to be established, in Mechanics Building, as by a real visit to forest and stream. Many there are who cannot go to the quiet of the woods, so the New England Forest and Fish and Game Association proposes to bring the woods and lakes and rippling brooks, with what they contain to the urbanite and set them up so that they can be examined in comfort and at one's pleasure.

The "show" of this year, which will be the third given under the management of this association, will be the most ambitious and elaborate of the trio, which means also that it will be the most picturesque and the most instructive so far planned. It will be especially strong in novelties and tournaments such as an athletic carnival, fly-casting competition, rifle-shooting contests, water polo and other aquatic sports including races and diving and swimming exhibitions by well-known young women swimmers and in loan exhibits by private citizens, by the United States and Canadian governments, by many of the states and territories and by clubs and associations. The entire Mechanics Building with all of its halls and basements will be utilized for this immense exhibition. All of this vast space is already certain of occupancy.

UNIFORM LEGISLATION CONFERENCE.

At Boston Next Week. Construction of Highways and Regulation of Automobiles among Subjects to be Discussed. Manchester Man Selected by Gov. Guild as one of 32 Delegates to Represent the State.

The First Conference for uniform legislation for New England will be held at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, on the afternoon of November 23rd and in the morning and afternoon of November 24th. Except the few seats reserved for the official delegates, the entire theatre will be thrown open to the public, with free admission. It will be possible, therefore, for all citizens, and especially those interested in forestry and fruit raising, the protection of fish, the construction of highways and regulation of automobiles, to listen without charge to papers by the first experts in the United States on these respective subjects, as well as to a discussion of proposed legislation by the New England Senators, Congressman and special delegates selected by the Governors for that purpose.

The first session, on Monday, November 23rd, at 2 p. m., will be devoted to the tree planting. Gifford Pinchot will speak on the future of forest trees in New England. Mr. Pinchot is chief of the forestry service of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The first systematic forest work ever undertaken in the United States was started by him at Biltmore, N. C., in 1892.

The consideration of orchards in New England and the great opportunity that exists for fruit culture here will be treated by Prof. John Craig, who heads the department of horticulture at Cornell University.

The morning session of November 24th will be entirely devoted to the preservation and cultivation of shell-fish, now rapidly vanishing from the New England States.

The third session will be opened at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on November 24th. The meeting will be devoted to highways and their use. The first paper will be read by Harold Parker, the chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Commission. He will treat of the construction of highways. For eight years Mr. Parker has been constructing the State highways of Massachusetts, which in the recent International Congress at Paris were adjudged the best built roads in the world.

In the second paper of the session James A. MacDonald, the Highway Commissioner of Connecticut, will lay out plans for trunk lines of highways for New England. It is hoped that in the future logically laid out lines of State roads may be constructed running from one end of New England to the other, htus taking the place of the present incoherent plans by which each state lays out its highways without any special connection with the highways of its neighbors. It is hoped that as a result of this conference long lines of model roads may be laid, for example, from Boston to Montreal and Quebec, from New York to Boston, and from Portland to Boston.

The third and last paper of the session will be delivered by Hon. Nahum J. Bachelder, formerly Governor of the State of New Hampshire. Governor Bachelder is the Master of the National Grange and therefore speaks for the farmer as well as for the pleasure driver in his discussion of the regulation of automobiles. It is hoped to secure for all New England one uniform, reasonable law by which the regulation and, if possible, the taxation of these vehicles shall be the same in all the New England States. It is hoped to abolish traps and other unfair methods permitted by local legislation and to secure by reasonable law, that will be supported by public opinion, the safety of the highways as well as the protection of automobilists.

Every Governor of New England has invited as delegates the Senators, Congressmen, Lieutenant-Governors, Attorneys-General, Presidents of Senates and Speakers of House of Representatives of his State.

To this notable and unique gathering of statesmen now in office in New England will be added special delegates particularly interested in the subject treated, selected at large by the Governors from the different states.

Manchester is to be represented at the conference by one of its citizens, George Kimball, former superintendent of streets, who has been honored by Governor Guild in being selected as one of 32 delegates representing the Commonwealth at large, at the conference, and particularly the interests involved in the topics under discussion as regards highways. He has also been invited to attend the dinner to be given by Governor Guild at the Algonquin club at 6.30, Monday evening, to meet the governors of New England and the speakers and delegates of the congress.

The graphophone concerts given in the town hall on Wednesday afternoon for the children and in the evening for the adults were well attended. In the afternoon particularly the hall was crowded, more than 300 children being on hand. They enjoyed the music so much and manifested their pleasure to such an extent that the concert had to be called off, almost, before the program was completed. They were simply overwhelmed with joy and the applause for each number lasted until the next was well under way. Unless the little ones can control themselves the concerts for them will be at an end. The adults appreciated the music in the evening, some 200 being present. The concert was given by a citizen, with whom Mr. and Mrs. William Hooper left their magnificent instrument on their departure for Europe a fortnight or so ago.

George Woodbury has moved his place of business from the Morse block on Beach street to the little building which he recently bought from Mr. Morse. The latter has changed the stores in the lower part of his building over into two tenements, one of which will be occupied by George Woodbury and his mother, who in turn are moving from Miss Clara Godsoe's house on Summer street.

Thomas Plummer Andrews was in town Tuesday for a short visit with his grandmother, Mrs. Susan Slade, who is quite feeble in health, we regret to report. Mr. Andrews has been conducting a farm at Tamworth, N. H., the past summer, with success, but for the present he is engaged at his former work in the electrical engineering division at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. He will spend Thanksgiving here.

Owing to the holiday next week, Miss Connolly's gymnasium class which meets in Parish hall on Wednesday evenings, will be omitted, but will meet as usual the following week.

THE Masconomo House property again! A while ago we had an article in our columns about changes that would be made in the famous Masconomo House property at Manchester toward bringing it to the fore again as a hotel. Later developments, the details of which need not be entered into here, showed that our article was wrong, and a communication from the promoters of the sanitarium proposition published a few weeks ago would seem to show that their scheme meant business.

Some people have thought, and still think, probably, that this scheme to turn the Masconomo into a sanitarium is a "bluff." We are convinced, however, after careful investigation that it is no bluff, and before many months, we shall see the property transferred to a corporation, whose purpose it is to utillze it as a sanitarium.

We have learned from a source which is perfectly reliable that the corporation which is being formed is about to apply for its charter, has money enough subscribed to take over the property and start the work of changing the building over, and that it intends to be ready for business before many months shall have passed.

The company is being organized along practically the same lines as the famous Battle Creek sanitarium. The man who is putting the project through has put through some of the biggest deals in the city of Boston. The Doctor who is heading the sanitarium end of it is one of the best known specialists in the country, in his line. He has been looking for a suitable place for an institution of this kind along the New England coast for several years. When he started to organize this company he intended to establish it somewhere else if he couldn't procure the Masconomo.

An option on the Masconomo was procured last spring The option was given to October of this year. At that time the plans had not been far enough advanced to "make good." The option which Mr. Hamilton had on the property to improve it as a hotel was given with the understanding that he could have the place if the sanitarium promoters did not make good on October 1. But Mr. Hamilton had "disappeared" in the meanwhile and Mr. Schofield extended the option to the sanitarium promoters to March 1, 1909.

The citizens of Manchester, we believe, are opposed to an institution of this nature being established in our midst. In Town Meeting assembled last spring the citizens informally expressed themselves as opposed to any such move. As far as we know, however, the town as a town can do nothing to hinder such a project. If a man, or number of men, can obtain from the secretary of state a charter permitting them to conduct a sanitarium within the town, as long as it is a sanitarium and not a place to harbor consumptives or contageous diseases, there is nothing that can prevent him, or them, from so doing.

The promoters of this particular proposition say they are establishing a place where wealthy people may come and re gain lost health, recuperate, be re-built, etc., etc., which is all well enough as far as it goes.

But as one interested in the welfare of Manchester and the North Shore we urge the establishing and introduction of such things here as will attract as a summer resort. A sanitarium is a sanitarium, whether rich or poor people are treated within it. It is a place for sick people and nothing else. It will not attract, but rather detract. Who of our citizens wants a sanitarium bordering along our beautiful Singing Beach?

It is for the business men of this town, and interested citizens, to get together and see what, if anything, can be done to avert the establishing of such an institution in Manchester. We are altogether too dependent on our natural attractions to allow anything in the nature of a blemish to become a part of the town.

So "Win" Lufkin is not going to give up his job as private secretary to Congressman Gardner to accept a similar position with Henry C. Frick. The papers made much ado about the report that Mr. Frick had offered the job to Mr. Lufkin and politicians hereabouts were doing codsiderable thinking, all of which goes to show that "Win" is a mighty popular fellow, and efficient, too. No wonder Cong. Gardner was given such a magnificent majority vote at the last election. It would help any man to have a good "secretary."

REVISION of the Beverly city charter, a movement which has been received with great interest in all sections of the city has been taken up by the Beverly Business Men's association and the association which represents every branch of business has taken up the matter of the revision in conjunction with the committee on municipal affairs of the Beverly board of trade.

Ever Try a Beacon Blanket?

If you have, you'll know why they tower so high in public opinion. There's something about Beacon Blankets that appeals to the inner nature for all that is desirable in warmth, coziness, beauty, hygiene, durability, economy. They're not wool, although they seemingly look and feel like it. Fluffy, soft, light, feel like down, and does not shrink like wool. If you are interested in the new idea of bed blankets, see the display and sale at

The Store in Town House Square

The sight of a high-wheeled bicycle passing through town one day the first of the week caused no little amount of surprise and people looked on with equally as much awe as they did at the successor of the high wheel, not more than fifteen years ago,---the present style of bicycle. One thing is sure, the rider of a high-wheel now a days ought to derive more pleasure in riding than in the early days of the bicycle when the roads were inclined to be less conducive for easy, smooth riding than now.

Friends of Henry O. Allen, a former Manchester boy, now of New York City, will regret to learn of his illness with typhoid fever. He is in a hospital in New York.

A concrete curbing is being built on Beach street, on the turn at the entrance to the beach. It will extend, beginning at the plank walk, some 140 feet. The bids for the work were opened at the office of the superintendent of streets, Monday night and were as follows: O. M. Stanley, $98.50; Morley, Flatley & Co., $93.00; Senter Stanley, $84.00 and Geo. S. Sinnicks, $160.00. The contract was awarded to Senter Stanley, and the work was started yesterday afternoon. The curbing is being built to keep autos, carriages, etc., from driving on the sidewalk at that point.

Gustaf Sjolund, gardener at the Richard Stone estate, brought a beautiful bouquet of hardy chrysanthemums into the office last Saturday, on his way to Boston, and we must say it was one of the prettiest bouquets we have ever seen. The chrysanthemums included the Edna, Rodah, Patterson, Mespha and other hardy pompon varieties. It has not been known in this section that the Mespha would grow out of doors, but Mr. Sjolund has found that this flower is even more hardy than others, for where the frost bites the petals of other varieties, the Mespha is unaffected. These are usually grown under glass. Mr. Sjolund has succeeded in growing them out of doors and has kept them until this late season. As a setting for the flowers in the bouquet he had some beautifully colored eulalia japonica. Mr. Sjolund also had some violets which he had picked that morning with stems 11 inches long. They were grown in cool frame.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL

First Baptist Church of Manchester Holds Reunion

The annual Reunion and roll-call of the First Baptist Church, Manchester, was held at the church vestry Wednesday evening, the church having as guests the wives and husbands of members and members of other churches worshipping with them. Some 120 persons were present.

After grace by Charles H. Fleming of Salem a fine turkey supper was partaken of, prepared by the ladies of the advisory committee of the church. Following the supper all joined in singing "Coronation," and the roll of members was called by Clerk J. Davis Baker. Out of a total of 158 members 102 either responded by word of mouth, or by letter. The following were heard from by letter, Rev. D. F. Lamson, Newton; John Stone, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mrs. Harriet Edwards, Long Island; Miss Jeanette Dickson, State Hospital, Concord, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitman, Warwick, Mass.; Clayton Height, Barton, N. S.; Mrs. Esther Kitfield, Gloucester.

Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost

After prayer by Deacon Stone, the pastor Theodore Lyman Frost called for reports from the various societies. Miss Emma Prest presented the report of the Bible School; Mrs. George Younger reported that the Foreign Mission circle had studied the "Uplift of China" during the year and had sent $55.32 to the mission rooms in Boston; Mrs. Edward Baker read the report of the Home Mission circle, reviewing the work done during the year, how the circle had helped the Chelsea sufferers and had sent $65 to the mission rooms in Boston; Harry Menken reported that the Baraca class had organized for the study of Old Testament history and the membership had increased from 15 to 38. Miss Emma Prest reported that the enrollment of the Philathea class had grown to 22.

After the reports had been presented a few were called upon for remarks.

Dea. Robert Baker spoke on "Our Greater Sunday School," which he characterized as the nursery of the greater church. He made a plea for larger attendance of church membership in the school and substantiated his plea by biblical selections.

Dr. W. H. Tyler responded to the subject "How to Hold tne Boy." The secret of success in reaching boys and young men, he claimed, was to become interested with them in the things in which they were interested, and thus become as one of them.

Dea. T. B. Stone was called upon to speak on "Our Greater Church" He defined the church from a biblical standpoint as a body of belivers in Christ who had accepted him as their Savior. The greater church could be either numerically or spiritually considered, but that all should strive for the spirituality of the church. The church would be spiritually what each individual made it. The pastor of the church was not his pastor only, but of each and every person that attended the church, and all should strive to support him as such, that the spirituallity of the church might be felt in the community.

Charles H. Fleming of Salem, formerly a member of the Manchester church, spoke in a reminiscent vein. He spoke of his first coming to Manchester and how he and Mrs. Fleming had always felt this was their church home and they were always pleased to came back here. He recalled some of the familiar faces that had been pillars of the church, but who were now at rests. He often thought of a saying of Rev. Mr. Lamson: "You can gauge the breadth of a man by the breadth of his prayers," which he repeated in comparison to our activity in mission work. He urged a study of missions. We have a million people coming to our shores yearly, he said, and they are only samples of the millions they leave behind. He referred to the layman's mission conference being held in Boston the past week and the great movement among layman for a world spread conquest In our country there are 106,000 ministers reaching 50 million people. In the mission field there are 13,000 mission workers reaching 325 million, and just think of the 675 million unreached.

The reunion came to a close by all joining hands around the room and singing "Trust and Obey," after which benediction was pronounced by the pastor.

Thousands of Commendations.

During the almost 15 years that the Boston Sunday Globe has printed its color supplement, thousands of commendations have been received from citizens in Boston and all over New England. In fact, the color supplement of the Sunday Globe has been indorsed by people in all walks of life.

Remember that the Boston Sunday Globe's color pictures have long been welcome favorites to thousands of women and children in New England, and that they are especially designed to meet the demand for clean and wholesome amusement.

The old-time favorites, Kitty, Danny and Percy, Wisewinkers, the work of Billy the Boy Artist and his friends, Prof. O. Howe Wise and I. B. Schmart are known from one end of New England to the other. In fact, the characters have become general favorites in all New England households.

To please all the family, have the Boston Sunday Globe, with its unrivaled color pictures, in the home regularly. *

Manchester Woman's Club.

"Music" was the subject of the semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club Tuesday afternoon, and Mrs. Alice Worcester Weeks entertained with a delightful presentation of "Ballads of British Isles." She took up the subject under three divisions, songs of England, of Ireland and of Scotland. Time did not permit her to take up the songs of Wales. Her comment was brief, but she consumed about an hour in singing the 18 songs which she had selected.

Following are the songs which she used in illustrating her talk:

SONGS OF ENGLAND

Rule Britannia	Dr. Thomas Arne
Drink to me only	Words by Ben Johnson
The Bailiff's Daughter
I Attempt from Love's Sickness to Fly	Purcell
The Lass with the Delicate Air	Arne
O, Rest Thee Babe	Terry

SONGS OF IRELAND

The Harp that Once
The Low-backed Car	Lover
Irish Spinning Song	Boulton
Kathleen Mavourneen	Crouch
When Love is Kind	Moore
Irish Lullaby	Fay-Needham

SONGS OF SCOTLAND

Scots Wha' Hae	Burns
The Spinning Wheel	Anon
Loch Lamond	Traditional
Caller Herrin'	Neils
Flowers of the Forest	Cockburn
Hush-a-ba-Birdie	Chambers

Tea was served after the completion of Mrs. Weeks' paper. Mrs. Franklin K. Hooper was hostess for the afternoon and she was assisted by Misses Nellie Leonard, Alice J. Haraden, Eleanor Morgan, Mrs. W. W. Joseph, Mrs. F. A. Rowe, Mrs. Frank Bullock and Mrs. J. A. Lodge. Mrs. Henrietta Price and Miss Sarah T. Brown poured.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson III. The First of Its Two Laws.

Luke 10:25-27; Mark 12:28-30; Deut. 6:5.

1. How much does the average man who is healthy and prosperous think of God? Has he usually a speaking acquaintance with Him? Does he need to have?

2. Can one love the unseen God?

3. How does one learn to love? Can one love God by trying? Notice that we are commanded to love God.

4. In what respects if any will love for God differ from love for men?

5. Does love influence conduct? What will genuine love for God do for a man's morals? For his faith?

6. What relation does love bear to duty? Can one live the eternal life without love for God? Do we try to?

NOTE.—Next week we shall discuss the second of the two laws of life.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dreslane, whose marriage took place last week, have moved into the Lineham cottage on West street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Sawyer of Hudson have spent the past week at the Farms the guests of friends. They returned home yesterday.

James A. Dolan of Roxbury, who has been at Daniels-Gleason's the past summer, is running the market at present, Mr. Daniels having gone to the Brookline store of the company.

Mary Zampbell the Italian 15-year old girl who has recently developed an idea of making her home wherever she took a notion, was yesterday sent to a Boston home for six months.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving day and many of the Farms family are planning for their usual family gathering an important feature of which is the dissecting of the National Bird. There will also be a number who will help make up family reunions out of town.

James R. L. Wiseman of Haskell st., a well known and popular Farms young man, has taken out nomination papers for the common council.

Edward C. Martell, who has for some time been chauffeur for the Frank Seaburys, has given up that position and has gone to Boston to take up electrical engineering.

Inspection of Preston W. R. corps was held on last Tuesday evening, the inspecting official being Mrs. J. S. Reed of Manchester. There were present, besides nearly every member of the corps, visitors from Beverly and Manchester.

After a Rip Van Winkle slumber about a dozen members responded to the call of the meeting of the Municipal club in Marshall's hall Wednesday evening, when it was decided to continue the club and to make an effort to increase the interest. A committee was appointed to look into the matter of securing suitable permanent quarters, that the members may be enabled to meet more often in a social way. Several questions of public interest especially that of the Farms playground were discussed at length.

The flag at the West street engine house has been displayed at half-mast out of respect for the late Levi K. Goodhue, for 41 years chief of the Beverly Fire department, a record unexcelled by all but one fire chief in the state. Death occurred yesterday morning.

Mrs. William Erwin and two children have returned to their home at Westerly, R. I., after spending the past week at the Farms visiting friends.

Wouldn't it be a grand plan for the Park Commissioners to cut the grass, bushes, etc., and also level off the hummocks at the playgrounds, so-called, before it gets too wet there, so that when the time comes for turning this place into a skating park ("park" we repeat it, for it sounds good) this very necessary work will be done. It can be done to good advantage now. A little later it cannot be done to advantage.

Registration for city election closed Wednesday, ten names from this ward being added, making a total for Ward 6 of 348.

There are several cases of diphtheria in mild form in town.

Organ Recital Tonight.

The initial entertainment in the exceptionally well laid out program of the Lyceum Committee for the winter, will be given at the Baptist church this evening, at 8 o'clock and will be an organ and piano recital by the organist, Miss Annie Kemp Holmes. The program to be presented follows:

PIANO

Les Rameau de J. Faure	J. Leybach
Le Dernier Sourire in F sharp major	Wollenhaut
Witches' Dane	Paganini
Robin Adair transcription	Fox

ORGAN

Grand Fantasia on Handel theme	Lux
Hymn transcription	Wely
Chorus of Angels	Leybach
Grand March in A flat	Saint-Sæns

Mrs. David Weir, a former resident of Pride's Crossing, died at her home in Brookline, Wednesday and she was buried today at Jamaica Plain. Mrs. Weir was well known here, her husband being for several years in charge of the Gardner estate. He accepted a similar position on the Brandagee estate, Brookline, and removed there about the time the estate here was purchased by Mr. Robbins, the place having since become the property of Mr. Ayer.

Members of the Post and Associates met in G. A. R. hall last evening and spent a couple of hours very pleasantly at their favorite Thursday evening pastime, playing pitch, etc.

Several of the Farms young boys who on Hallowe'n night as a prank, pulled in a false alarm, were before the juvenile court in Salem yesterday. They were given a good talking to and the judge let them off on their good behavior for the next six months.

Candidate for Mayor Charles H. Trowt's Ward 6 papers were filed this week and contained about 180 names.

Miss Honora O'Brien, teacher of the 8th grade at the Farms school was called to her home in Lanesville yesterday by the illness of her mother. Mrs. W. R. Brooks is substituting at the school.

The Sarah Wyman Whitman club were entertained at Beverly Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. M. E. Cullen, assisted by her daughter, Mrs Azor Howard (nee Mabel Cullen) at their home on Pierson street. The next meeting will be on Dec. 2

The best place in Beverly Farms to buy your Thanksgiving Dinner is at Wyatt's Market. We will have a big line of turkeys fresh from Vermont raisers, chickens, all kinds of fruit, nuts, vegetables, cranberries, celery, fancy groceries, etc.,—in short, everything that goes to make up a first-class dinner and all at lowest market prices. Wyatt's Market, Lindsay Emery, manager. *

Mrs. Edwin May of Hart street, is on this week's sick list.

If you are a regular reader of the Breeze why not have your name placed on our mailing list and have the paper sent to you every Friday by mail. The cost is only 2 cents a week, or $1.00 a year (in advance.) Send subscription by mail, or leave at Varney's Drug store. All subscriptions received now dated Jan. 1. *

Daniel Hallisey and family this week moved from the tenement over Standley's shoe store to the P. S. Sears estate on Common Lane for the winter.

James B. Dow is having his residence on Hale street wired for electric lights. Howard Preston is doing the work for G. A. Knoerr, electrician, of Manchester.

Bernard Jennings, who is employed at the Spaulding estate and Frank McDermitt, an employee at the Thomas estate, will sail on the "Campania" from New York on Dec. 2nd. Mr. Jennings will spend the winter at Conway, England, and Mr. McDermitt in Scotland, their former homes.

Mrs. E. J. Jordan returned last Sunday from an extended visit to her former home at Bridgewater, N. S., and vicinity.

The Farms friends of Candidate for Mayor Trowt are very much pleased over the splendid support which he is receiving from all parts of the city. In Ward 6 it is only a question of how many votes he will not get instead of visa versa. From present indications he will receive a big vote here.

The voters of the Centerville end of Ward 6 have united on a candidate and have named Benjamin I. Edwards for alderman from this ward to oppose Alderman Robt. E. Hodgkins who has in the past had very little opposition. It is claimed that the residents in Centerville feel that their section should be represented and in pushing Mr. Edwards' candidacy say that the understanding has been that their end of the ward should be represented in the upper branch once in four years, at least, but instead they have as yet been represented but once since Beverly became a city and then by George E. Cole in 1900 for one year. Mr. Edwards is a young man, of business ability, progressive and also conservative. He is very popular in the community and has many friends who will use their best efforts to elect him.

John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting this evening which will no doubt be an interesting one for the members as it is expected there will be some new members taken into the order. There will be some out of town guests.

John A. Morrison arrived at the Farms Wednesday and has since been renewing acquaintances. Mr. Morrison has for the past few months been located at New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Otis H. Luke, Charles H. Trowt and Thomas D. Connolly, the Farms members on the Board of Directors of the Beverly Deaf Mute School, are very much pleased over the recent gift of $50 to that institution from the will of the late Mrs. Julia M. Marsh.

George Dix, the popular clerk at the North Shore Fish Co., will conclude his seasons' work there tomorrow night.

Mrs. Peter Ward left the Farms yesterday and will spend the next few days visiting relatives in New York City.

James Warr, an employee at the Spaulding estate plans to spend the winter at his former home, Jersey Island, off the English Coast, and expects to sail from Boston on the Cymric, Dec. 9th.

Dr. F. W. Varney and family returned on Saturday last after a pleasant visit at South Wyndham, Me., the former home of Mr. Varney, and where his parents now reside.

Capt. Chas. Jones has practically given up, for this season, the operation of the fish wier off Chubb's Island and is putting his labors in the removal of that portion of the trap which would be injured by winter storms.

Edwin Barrett who has spent the past few months at the Farms, has accepted a position for the winter at Laconia, N. H., and went there to work on Wednesday.

The school physician on Tuesday made another visit to the Farms school and looked over the scholars not examined on his previous call. Some 25 or 30 of the children were found to have symptoms of "adenitis."

How Everything Will Centre Around That Turkey on Thanksgiving Day

How he looms up in yourmind's eye now, as you look forward to the dinner hour—and that chicken pie—and those mince pies—what a brown they will all have on. Well that's right, they ought to, but how about wife's being able to do all this in that old stove—suppose it all was a failure just because the oven wouldn't work right, as it often does, now that it is old and cranky? Wouldn't she feel badly and how much worse you ought to feel, when you have been teased for a new stove so many times, and knew you really ought to have one.

Well now don't risk any such chances as this, get the new range this week so that wife will understand it for this big annual affair and get one that you are sure will produce a dinner fit for a queen. Get

The Crawford Range

The range with the single damper. With the asbestos lined oven. With the cup joint flues. With the Titus applied low price and you get the range endorsed by all the leading cooking schools in New England. And 'twill work so perfect as soon as you get it, that you'll want to endorse it as well.

Commander Enoch Crombie of the post was introduced to the gathering and was given three rousing cheers. He expressed his pleasure at being present.

Past Div. Com. Stevens gave a rousing good talk on some of the reasons why the "sons" should join the camp. "You can buy membership in most any order" he said, "if you have enough of the 'filthy lucre,' but you can't buy membership in the S. of V. You can't join this order unless you can show that your ancestors sprung to the aid of their country when needed."

Past Chief Mustering Officer Hunt gave a fine talk on "Why should we join the Organization," in which he laid emphasis on the sentiments already expressed. "In building up the organization," he said, "you are honoring your fathers. They can take care of themselves now, we'll take care of them later. We want them to feel that when they go that their country is safe in the hands of their sons." The new ritual he said would greatly benefit the order. It was putting the order more on the line of a secret order. They were doing away with tin soldier business and were getting down to hard pan.

About ten o'clock the gathering broke up and, headed by the drum corps again, marched to the station where the visitors boarded to 10.09 train for home.

"PROSPERITY",—SUBJECT OF SERMON

Preached on Thanksgiving Day by Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost Pastor of Baptist Church, Manchester.

The union Thanksgiving service at Manchester was held at the Baptist church this year, and Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon. He took for his subject "Prosperity," and found his text in Deut. 8:18. "But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God, for it is He that giveth the power to get wealth." Mr. Frost said in part:

"The words of our text were spoken to the Children of Israel at the close of the wandering in the wilderness. Soon they were to pass into the Promised Land. The poverty of the wilderness days would give place to plenty. In the midst of their prosperity there might be a temptation to forget God, and this chapter of Deuteronomy is Moses' warning to the people to remember the Lord in their prosperty. Perhaps we need the same advice which Moses gave to his people. Our theme this morning is Prosperity.

1. The Source of Prosperity.

"In spite of the financial crisis we have been passing through, we are in the midst of abounding wealth. From 1870 to 1890 the wealth of our country doubled, and reached the amount of over sixty-five billion dollars. It has probably doubled since that time. It has been stated that the South is increasing in wealth at the rate of $7,300,000 a day, or seven times as fast as Great Britain. Massachusetts, too, with other parts of the country has been increasing in wealth.

"Whence cometh all this prosperity? It comes from God. Many men have been humble servants of God when they had little of the material things to take up their minds, but when they became rich they forgot God. In the rush after money they imagined that it was their own power that caused the riches to accumulate so fast. They forgot that it was God's wealth that was coming to them, and it was God's hand which was bestowing the prosperity.

2. Christianity and Prosperity.

"Some of the Jews tried to make Christianity a Jewish sect, and they failed. Greek culture failed to make it a mere philosophy. Roman ecclesiasticism succeeded for a time in suppressing individuality in its Roman Church system, but it could not be bound in such a way. The Reformation emancipated the individual. From individualism there has come competition and the survival of the strongest. Out of individualism there has sprung enforced collectivism, with the trust and the trade union.

"Christianity has to deal with this situation as it now exists. How can Christianity deal with capitalism which is really a development of its doctrine of freedom for the individual? It must deal with it by inculcating the great principle of Christian stewardship. Men everywhere must realize that their fellow men are brothers; that they are of infinite value to God; and that God's wealth is for all men and must be administered by His stewards so that it will do the most good for all the race.

"God has given a great commission to His church to give the gospel of salvation to all the earth. Much of the capital of the world is in the hands of Christians. Will they realize the opportunity and their responsibility and use their money as a trust from God of which they must give an account?

3. Prosperity and Responsibility.

"The more God has given us of this world's goods, the more we are required to use them for His glory. We are held responsible for so using them. The pages of history abound with illustrations of the misuse of prosperity. There was a great Pre-Semitic Empire in Messopotamia before the days of Abraham. It had a wonderful civilization. It invented writing, had an elaborate code of laws, and a carefully wrought out social system. The people made great discoveries in the sciences of mathematics and astronomy; built great cities; anticipated much of the refinement and art of modern times. Yet who knows anything of them today? He only who is interested in the study of archaeology or ethnology.

"The religious life and morals of this people were extremely low. They made bad use of the prosperty and enlightenment they had, and they perished. Prosperity could not save them. True they existed a thousand years as a nation, but Divine patience was at last exhausted and the mills of God ground them exceeding small.

"Our Pilgrim Fathers set posterity a good example by instituting a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer. It is only as we acknowledge God in the midst of the good things that are showered upon us that there is any safety for us as a nation, a state, or as individuals. How can a man hope to be faithful in administering the things of God unless his life is brought in harmony with God, and his interests become identified with God's interests? If you are thankful to God for His goodness to you, you cannot fail to make it manifest by surrendering your life to Jesus Christ."

THE AMERICAN LIVES ONLY IN THE PRESENT.

By Gifford Pinchot, National Forester.

THE situation with regard to the country at large on the question of forests is not rose colored. The total stand of timber in the country today is only twenty times the annual consumption. We depend more upon timber in this country than any other country in the world, and we are nearer the end of our resources than any other great nation of the world. And the timber situation is duplicated by many other of our great resources.

It is the result of the great American tendency to use what we have at once without any regard to the future. Our wood is as indispensable to us as our steel and coal, and even these are giving out.

We have enough anthracite coal for fifty years, enough bituminous for a hundred years, our oil and gas are being frightfully wasted, our water ways are being ruined and our water powers impaired and agriculture is suffering in many ways from the deforesting of the country.

The American for some reason has a lack of confidence in the future and lives only in the present. He thinks no further than the lives of his children.

Well, unless there is a change in the point of view the progress of the country will stop before those who are now living have all passed away. As a nation we are acting like a man in an open boat ten days from land, with three days water and provisions, who does not husband his supplies, but takes what he wants at once. The future actually and literally depends upon our changing our point of view.

Manchester

The schools closed at noon Wednesday for the Thanksgiving recess and will open as usual Monday morning.

Miss Agnes Oddman of Boston, who attends Posse gymnasium, spent Thanksgiving at Manchester, a guest of Miss Marion Kitfield.

A chafing dish party is planned for this evening at the Chapel under the direction of the Y. P. S. C. E., given especially for the young people who are home from schools and colleges for the Thanksgiving holidays.

A party of sixteen young people, members of the local Y. P. S. C. E., went to Beverly Tuesday evening to a social at the Dane street church, a return party for the one given a few weeks ago at the Chapel for the young people of the Beverly society. The trip was made by train. A very pleasing entertainment program was carried out by the hosts, a most delightful evening resulting.

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

John Bennett, Manchester's veteran fisherman, who has had so many close calls the past few years in his fishing dory, is quite a humanist if people but knew it. Mr. Bennett wouldn't harm a dumb animal any more than he would cut off a finger, to use his comparison. Very often he goes to his dory at the town wharf early mornings and finds huge wharf rats in the boat making a meal off some of the fish in the bottom of the boat. Far be it from him to kill those rats, as some would do, but he lets them make their escape unmolested. A few days ago he went to his hen yard and saw a skunk. The animal, frightened, tried to make its escape by crawling under the hen coop, and in so doing became caught. Mr. Bennett caught hold of it and intended to help it out of its predicament, when the animal turned about and bit its would-be malefactor in the finger, which, by the way, is healing without giving the old gentleman any undue pain. Mr. Bennett says he hasn't killed a hen for 23 years though he says he has killed a young rooster occasionally.

Otto L. Derrick, formerly at Allen's, has a position in a Gloucester drug store.

Mrs. J. A. Lodge has been spending the week with her parents at Peterboro, N. H. Mr. Lodge joined in the family reunion there yesterday also.

James Widger and family are to move into the tenement in the Miss Clara Godsoe house, Summer street, soon to be vacated by George Woodbury and mother.

N. P. Meldrum and family, and Webster L. Putnam and family spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. John Knight, in Essex. Mrs. Abigail Gentlee, Mrs. Knight's mother went over from Manchester some days ago and has been spending the week there.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Crombie held their customary family gathering at the Rockwell cottage, Smith's Point, yesterday, having with them their two married daughters, Mrs. Seddie Follett and Mrs. R. A. Mitchell and their respective families, and Mrs. Crombie's brother, Andrew Lee, 2d, and Mrs. Lee.

Manchester friends of Dr. Robert S. Catheron of Needham, formerly of Manchester, will be interested to learn that he has given up his office in Needham and is associated with Dr. Samuel A. Hopkins at 235 Marlboro street, Boston, one of the finest dental offices in the fashionable Back Bay. Dr. Catheron spent the week-end in town with his sister, Mrs. Benj. L. Bullock, and family, School street.

T. Fred Young and family have moved from the Tappan house on Sea street to Salem. Mr. Young has been night operator at the Manchester Electric Co. station the past six months, but his berth has been done away with under the new management, aud thus Manchester loses a good citizen. Mr. Young's family lived in Manchester in his boy-hood days, moving away from here to Salem 27 years ago.

Joseph Taverly, the Beach street crossing tender, left Wednesday on an extended vacation, most of which he will spend with his sister at Hudson, with occasional visits to the Mass General Hospital in Boston for treatment. Mr. Taverly has been a faithful attendant at the crossing the past six years and has not had a vacation. He is troubled considerable with rheumatism and he intends to prolong his vacation until he recovers his health. A man from Gloucester has taken his place as crossing tender.

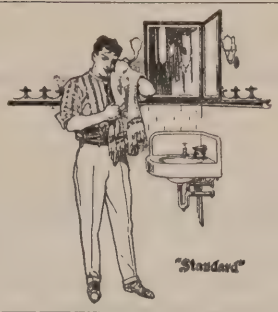

Mr. and Mrs. George Kimball spent Thanksgiving Day with their daughter, Mrs. Chas. H. Fleming and family, in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. George Forster Allen left Tuesday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Leach and family, Danvers.

Miss Amy Crombie is home from Dwight, Mass., where she teaches, and Miss Ada Crombie from Russell to spend Thanksgiving with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Crombie, Beach street.

Arthur S. Dow is the latest to join the ranks of the auto enthusiasts. He has just bought a Maxwell touring car, which he will probably make use of next season to a more or less degree in connection with his fish business.

D. Milton Knight, of the Salem-Manchester express, reported to the Beverly police Monday evening that as he was passing through Bridge street, Salem, a dog jumped at his horse and grabbed him by the nose tearing the flesh quite badly. The Salem police were notified.

Road-Building.

Town and city governments throughout New England will welcome any aid that can come from the New England conference relative to the problem of road building. The construction and maintainance of good roads over hills and through unruly soil has been a problem that has defied the financial resources of many towns and has been responsible for a considerable part of the debt burden of cities. The result has been neglect to the very limit of safety in some communities and wasteful expenditure in the majority of towns and cities. To only a limited extent has there been scientific treatment of the question. In Massachusetts the state highway commission has done excellent work and has been responsible for much similar effort by towns and cities. Other New England states have followed Massachusetts' example to some extent. But there is still a general lack of scientific handling of the road problem on the part of local authorities. There is now more general recognition of the duty of the state in the construction and maintenance of main lines of travel, and that phase of the matter is less perplexing. But it is equally important that local streets and roads should be improved. The road problem of the towns and of the cities, as well, is difficult. This is beyond the jurisdiction of state governments, but by example and demonstration, by education and encouragement, the state may prove a helpful factor in local undertakings. New England needs interstate highways of the best kind.---Boston Herald.

Series of Letters in Transcript.

Don't you want to go around the world with Albert Bushnell Hart, Prof. of History at Harvard University? He will begin a series of thirty or more letters next Saturday, Nov. 28, in the Transcript for "Tarry at Home" travellers. By means of these letters Prof. Hart will take every reader of the Transcript to those regions and countries whose present day activities and struggles are the focus of the world's attention. It will be an education as well as vitally interesting to read these letters. The first will describe the wonderful development by Americans and others of the great Canadian Northwest and will tell why our citizens are deserting their own country to build homes there. Subsequent articles will describe those new conditions and striking movements in the states of Washington and Oregon and in Alaska territory, regarding which well posted Americans should be informed. Crossing the Pacific he will visit Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, and will return home by way of Egypt, the Balkan States and other interesting parts of Europe.

Merits of the John Hancock.

Realizing that the John Hancock Mutual Life Ins. Co. has many policy holders in this vicinty and that any statements pertaining to the standing of the company will interest many such people, we publish the following statement of the "Merits of the John Hancock as viewed by the Massachusetts Department" from "The Spectator," in a recent issue.

"The Massachusetts Insurance Department has completed the regular examination of the John Hancock Mutual Life. The report shows the company to have had on December 31, 1907, admitted assets of $48,164,927; liabilities, $43,409,092; surplus to policyholders, $4,755,833. The bond holdings of the company, amounting to about $25,000,000, were listed by the examiners at their market value on December 31, 1907, a sum much below their present and real value. The examiners conclude their report as follows:

"The remarkable and steady progress of the company can be appreciated only by comparison, the premium income having increased during the past ten years from $5,773,144 in 1897 to $17,410,728 in 1907. The surplus to policyholders increased during the same period from $901,718 to $4,755,835, while the number of policyholders increased from 916,368 to 1,805,277.

"This examination has not only included an investigation of the transactions of the company during the year and its financial standing of December 31 last, but has covered the general condition of the corporation, the method of transacting business and a consideration of the interests and treatment of policyholders. We find that the finances of the corporation are administered with fidelity; that the business is conservatively conducted with commendable ability; that the millions of policyholders and beneficiaries are fairly and equitably treated and their policy contracts amply protected. To conserve the best interests of the present and prospective policyholders and their beneficiaries is the one object which the officers of the corporation appear to have always in view."

Society Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denegre are leaving Manchester after the Christmas holidays and will spend a short season at Washington.

Mrs. Nathaniel Simpkins, who recently returned to Washington from Europe, is to bring out her daughter, Miss Faith Simpkins this season.

The annual Master of the Hounds' dinner at the Myopia Hunt club will be given tomorrow evening at 7.30. This is always quite the fashionable event of the late autumn on the North Shore.

Mrs. Russell Sturgis and family have closed their cottage at Manchester and left today week for Boston. They are at 260 Clarendon street for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs Andrew Carnegie, 2d, and two little daughters, left Manchester Monday and have gone to their winter home in Fernandina, Fla. Mr. Carnegie's mother left a week or two ago and went South. Mrs. Carnegie, 2d's, sister, Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell, and Mr. Mitchell will join them at Fernandina a little later for the Christmas holidays.

The Pride's Crossing colony has now dwindled down to the following, who are still at their cottages: The A. P. Loring, the Misses Loring, Mrs. Daniel Ahl, the Clay Arthur Pierces, Mrs. E. C. Swift, John Caswell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Tibbetts, who have been spending the delightful autumn at their West Manchester cottage, are returning to their town house, 96 Bay State Road, Boston, next Thursday, the 3rd. They are entertaining a house party over the week-end, their guests arriving this afternoon. The party includes Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dann of New Haven, Starr Burlingham of New York and Mrs. Nichols of New York.

A Thanksgiving engagement which is of much interest to North Shore people is that of Miss Helen Thomas, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas of Pride's Crossing and Boston, to Samuel D. Warren, jr. The engagement was announced Wednesday afternoon at a tea at the Thomas home on Gloucester street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pratt McKean were on from Philadelphia and spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denegre, at Villa Crest, West Manchester. They left yesterday for a short visit with Mrs. McKean's mother, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, in Boston. Mr. Denegre was of those following the hunt at the Myopia Hunt club on Thanksgiving Day and participated in the breakfast served at the club house after the hunt.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Work is being pushed along on the alterations and improvements on the John S. Curtis property, on Storrow Hill, Beverly Farms. The foundations for the renovated and enlarged stable, and for the alterations on the house are well nigh completed and the work on the garage has been started. D. Linehan & Son are doing the mason and stone work and R. L. Wilson of Concord, Mass., is doing the carpenter work.

The barn owned by Judge Moore, on Hale street, Pride's Crossing, and used for his work horses in summer and for other horses in winter, is being raised some 6 inches from the ground. J. Albert Mayberry is doing the work.

H. C. Pierce is making considerable improvements at his estate at Pride's. The gardener's cottage is being moved from its present location, nearer the vegetable garden. A four-inch water main is being run from the street to the gardener's cottage and for the new stable and garage to be built. D. Linehan & Son are doing the work.

S. D. Edwards is in charge of many improvements being made at the Gardner cottage, at Mingo Beach hill, including a new avenue and the building of foundations on a knoll back from the highway upon which the white cottage is to be moved. He is also building a wall along Hale street, at the Robert Saltonstall (former Cabot) estate.

Connolly Bros. of Beverly Farms, were awarded a contract the past week for a large amount of work at the Dr. Carroll Dunham estate, Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y. The work consists in part of the building of drive ways, paths, grading and stone work. They also have considerable work there in connection with the construction of the St. Barnabas church.

Morley, Flatley & Co. are doing the mason work on the gardener's cottage being built on Mrs. W. Scott Fitz's estate, at Manchester.

Work was commenced Monday on Mrs. H. M. Curry's estate, at Magnolia, rebuilding tennis court wall and improving the grounds. Morley, Flatley & Co. are doing the work.

The dancing school under the management of Jos. W. Cawthorne, jr., and T. W. Long will be conducted on Friday evening, Dec. 4, with a new instructor, Mr. Harry Barber of Gloucester, who has been engaged in that capacity. He will take charge from 8 to 10 o'clock. Public dancing after 10.

Among the legacies left by the will of the late R. C. Hooper are the following: William J. Creed, the butler, $1000; William Swan, gardener, $1000; Dennis Healy, coachman, $1000; Michael Hickey at Mr. Hooper's estate at Readville, $1000. Everybody else employed on the estate in any capacity received $100. This bespeaks in no uncertain way the kindness of Mr. Hooper toward his help.

James, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Crowley, was taken to the Beverly Hospital Sunday and was operated upon that night by Dr. Johnson of Beverly. It was a very serious operation, but the little chap is getting along nicely now.

Sportsmen's Show.

Out from the heart of the vast, silent woods and from the shores of the great silver lakes of the north have daily come stories of extraordinary luck by the sportsmen with gun and rod. There seems to be unusual interest this year in all that pertains to true sport which fact holds out brilliant promise for the success of the Sportsmen's Show soon to be established at Mechanics building on Huntington avenue. Everybody concerned is working almost night and day for the triumph of this colossal educational enterprise particularly Mr. Richard E. Follett, the general manager and the second vice president of the New England Forest, Fish and Game Association under whose auspices this immense show is to be established and controlled.

Ferncroft Inn.

Ferncroft Inn at Middleton, the famous resort of automobilists, for some years conducted by Harry K. Mansfield of Salem, is now being conducted by A. L. Rowell, manager of the Cliff club, Marblehead, having been leased by him for one year. Mr. Rowell managed the North Shore Grill at Magnolia in 1907.

Agent Cawthorne of the American Exp. Co., is returning to his duties next week after a fortnight's vacation.

There was considerable of a rumpus at the railroad station last Saturday night, or rather, the trouble took place in the smoking car of the 10.09 train from Gloucester. A free for all fight started on the way between Gloucester and Manchester and those who were on the train say it was a fierce affair. We do not care to chronicle the disgraceful occurrence. The court records of the affair gives sufficient notoriety to the town. The police boarded the train and arrested two of the principal disturbers—one a Manchester and the other a Pride's Crossing man—and locked them up over Sunday. In court Monday both were fined $25.

Allen Relief corps, No. 119, will hold a public whist party in G. A. R. hall, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 2. Tickets for sale by members of executive committee, and at the door. Price, two for 25 cts.

Another surprise party occurred at Mt. Pleasant Farm last Saturday evening, this time in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker's twentieth wedding anniversary, some forty-five of their friends and relatives being present. Mrs. Baker received many beautiful presents of linen, cut glass, and silver. The evening was passed most enjoyably, refreshments being served, after which the party adjourned, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Baker many happy returns.

First 1909 Calendar.

The first 1909 calendar to reach our sanctum arrived a few days ago from the Holyoke Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Salem, of which Walter L. Harris is treasurer and manager. Each of the twelve calendar sheets contains a scene in our foreign possessions, such as "Quarters of Canal Workers, Panama," "A City Home, San Juan, Porto Rico," "The Government Palace, Hawaii," etc., the whole being set in a sort of frame formed by the attractive old granite towers and granite-arched entrance to the Salem railroad station.

"NINETY per cent. of the passengers from Gloucester to Manchester or the Farms every Saturday night are drunk."

The above statement was made in court at Salem last Monday in connection with the cases of two men arrested as a result of the drunken row on the train last Saturday night. The statement was given wide circulation through the daily papers and we regret to say it reflects badly on our two towns,—Manchester and Beverly Farms.

While the statement is greatly exaggerated we do not pretend to defend the towns, for anyone who has had occasion to ride in the smoking car on the last train Saturday nights know all too well how near the truth the statement is. It is a shameful disgrace. The number of young men who take their week's wages Saturday nights and go to Gloucester, it is safe to say figures over two score, and there are not many of them who bring much of their wages home. They don't spend it all in drink, necessarily. They make other purchases, and our merchants loose thereby.

Now, there is food for thought is this. Conditions have always been bad enough. They have been worse the past six months than ever before, claim those who are in a position to know. What is the best remedy? We believe in enforcing our laws. Does a "strict" enforcement of laws always bring about the best results?

The newspapers have talked about the B. & N. buying the Manchester electric plant because they wanted additional power for the Beverly, Gloucester & Essex branch.

This must be an error, as Manchester does not make electricity. It buys the current wholesale of Beverly and retails it to consumers. The plant consists of a transformer and distributing wires. The current is sent through underground cables —Beverly Citizen.

FURTHERMORE quite the reverse is nearer the truth. They have the capacity for furnishing more power at their power station in Essex now than they need, and it may be their ultimate intention to send some of their spare "juice" over through Essex woods to Manchester. It is very likely this is what will be done, if the company buys the plant.

A considerable number of $3 bills seem to have shown up lately in one place and another, none of them, however, of very recent date. Charles F. Evans of Peabody has one dated 1861, drawn on a Lynn bank; Victor E. Durgin of Salem one of 1854 on a bank of that city, and another Salem man a Danvers banknote of 1849.

It is noticeable that most editors continue to call it "that $29,000,000 fine," although in fact the amount of the fine was $29,240,000. What's $240,000 to an editor?—Boston Globe.

Not much, as long as ciphers hold out.

An Old-Time Thanksgiving.

In 1714, Rev. Lawrence Conant, of the Old South parish in Danvers, wrote a letter giving an account of a Thanksgiving church service and dinner. It is quaint enough to form interesting reading at this time. The following will serve as extracts, to give the flavor of the original.

"Ye governor was in ye house and her majesty's commissioners of ye customs, and they sat together in a high seat by ye pulpit stairs. Ye governor appears very devout and attentive, although he favors Episcopacy and tolerates ye Quakers and Baptists. He was dressed in a black-velvet coat, bordered with gold lace, and buff breeches with gold buckles at ye knees, and white-silk stockings.

"When ye services at ye meeting-house were ended ye council and other dignitaries were entertained at ye house of Mr. Epes, on ye hill near by, and we had a bountiful Tnanksgiving dinner, with bear's meat and venison, the last of which was a fine buck shot in ye woods near by. Ye bear was killed in Lynn woods near Reading. After ye blessing was craved by Mr. Garrish of Wrentham, word came that ye buck was shot on ye Lord's day by Pequot, an Indian, who came to Mr. Epes with a lye in his mouth like Ananias of old. Ye council thereupon refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward agreed that Pequot should receive forty stripes save one for lyeing and profaning ye Lord's day, and restore Mr. Epes ye cost of ye deer; and considering this a just and righteous sentence on ye sinful heathen, and that a blessing had been craved on ye meat, ye council all partook of it, but Mr. Shepard, whose conscience was tender on ye joint of venison."

The last sentence is a delightful bit of unconscious humor, perfectly in keeping with the spirit of the time; it shows what a strange mingling of devout and scrupulous piety and of worldly sagacity and prudence there often was in the character and acts of our fathers of New England, especially in their dealings with the Red men. D. F. L.

Automobile Fire Truck for Manchester.

An automobile fire truck came down to Manchester Monday and was given a test for the benefit of the officers of the town and the fire engineers. The auto was on its way to Hamilton to be inspected by the officials there, and at Salem it was seen by Selectman George Lockhart Allen, who suggested that it make a side trip to Manchester, and in the meanwhile he telephoned to Selectman Knight and others to be on the lookout for it.

These cars are being installed in city departments now more or less, and the town of Chicopee has just bought one. Springfield has a number of them.

On its arrival at Manchester the car was met by Selectmen Knight and Bell and Chief Hoare and Engineer Clarence Morgan of the fire department and Town Treasurer Stanley, who afterwards rode on the car. An interesting group of citizens was also on hand and looked over the machine.

It was a combination chemical engine and hose wagon, and carried two 30-gallon tanks and 200 feet of chemical hose, two ladders and also has capacity for 1000 feet of hydrant hose. It is equipped with a 40-h.p. motor and weighs 6500 pounds. The car is listed at $5500. It is a Knox make.

The agent of the company took the above mentioned persons on a test trip from the fire station, around Smith's Point, and back again. The round trip was made in 14 minutes. The speed of the car is 30 miles an hour, which means that it could reach any house in town, except in the Coolidge Point section, in from two to five minutes.

One of the chief essentials in case of fire, of course, is to get to the fire as quickly as possible. In a town like Manchester where there is only one set of fire apparatus it is difficult to reach outlying sections quickly and as most of our valuable property, summer houses, etc., is in the "outlying districts," so to speak, anything which would bring the fire apparatus to the scene of the fire quickly would be a great benefit. No one would dispute the usefulness of an auto in this connection.

We understand that the fire commissioners and the officials who saw the outfit were much impressed with it. While there is no intention at present, so far as we know, on the part of the officials to recommend the purchase of this up-to-date fire truck, it appears to us that Manchester ought not to be backward in applying itself to up-to-date methods and it would not be an unwise move to look into this particular matter before town meeting. It must be remembered that the cost of running one of these trucks is practically nothing after the first cost, while the expense of keeping two horses is some $400 a year. In either case a man is required at the station day and night.

Two Directors of Proposed Sanitarium At Manchester This Noon.

Two directors of the corporation just formed for starting a sanitarium at Manchester, at the famous Masconomo House property, adjoining Singing Beach, were in Manchester this noon looking over the property. One of them was Dr. Riggs of St. Louis, and the other was Mr. Norman of Chicago. Mr. Lovejoy, the promoter of the proposition, accompanied them. They came on the 11.40 train and returned on the 12.43.

Mr. Lovejoy told the Breeze man, who chanced to see him at the station, that the charter had been obtained, and work would be started soon on changes at the building toward turning it into proper condition for a sanitarium.

If you are a regular reader of the Breeze why not have your name placed on our mailing list and have the paper sent to you every Friday by mail. Pulsifer's block has changed hands the past week and is now the property of Allen H. Bennett, cashier of the Beverly National Bank, who has appointed Wm. W. Hoare his agent in affairs pertaining to the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Nichols spent Thanksgiving at a family reunion of the former, with Mr. Nichols' sister in Wakefield.

Horace Standley and family and Edwin F. Preston and family spent Thanksgiving with their respective families in Beverly Farms.

Martin Olsen, for many years one of Roberts & Hoare's trusted employees, left Tuesday morning and sailed from New York Wednesday on one of the five day boats for Liverpool, whence he goes to his home in Norway for a few weeks' visit at his old home. At Liverpool he will meet his brother, who is returning from Australia and together they will pay a visit to their native home.

The next graphophone concert in the Town hall will be given next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The public are cordially invited. Free admission.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Culbert had the former's daughters, Misses Effie, Lillian and Mamie Culbert and Mrs. Churchill of Beverly Farms, with them for Thanksgiving Day.

In point of service as caretaker of a summer estate on the North Shore Philemon R. Sanborn probably holds first as second record. He has been at the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge estate, at Coolide's Point, for 30 years. It is thus of much interest to learn that Mr. Sanborn is to retire from active service on Dec. 1, and will remove from the estate to the Kitfield homestead at the Cove. Mr. Sanborn has been in very poor health for some months, due to an injury received while crossing Crescent Beach, at Magnolia, last summer.

Mrs. Oakes Elden and three young sons of Dorchester have been spending Thanksgiving week with Mrs. Elden's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Hoyt, Union st.

Edgar Varney of Camden, Me., has been spending the week with his uncle, Chas. A. Mason and family, School st.

A number of the young people attending schools and colleges are home for the Thanksgiving holidays. These include: Miss Annie L. Lane, Smith, '09; Harry Floyd, Dartmouth, '09; Chas. A. Lodge, jr., Mass. Agric. College, '11; Lewis Hooper, Worcester Polytecnical school, '09; Samuel Knight, Exeter; Talbot Hoare, Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wing and daughter spent Thanksgiving at Wareham.

Thanksgiving Concert.

At the Manchester Town hall last evening an excellent concert was presented under the direction of W. W. Hoare and F. G. Cheever by the Lucile McConville Recital company, assisted by Flavel R. Jordan, baritone.

The personnel of the company was Miss Lucile McConville, violincellist; Miss Helen Fiske Westgate, soprano; Maud Huntington Benjamin, reader; Flavel R. Jordan, baritone; Harris Shaw, pianist. The following program was presented:

Duet, "The Passage Bird's Farewell" Hildach
Miss Westgate and Mr. Jordan.
Monologue, "Summer Boarders" Original
Miss Benjamin.
Concerto, A minor Goltermann
Lucile McConville.
Solo, "Adoration" Thelma
Mr. Jordan.
Reading, "Lady Geraldine's Courtship," Elizabeth Barrett Browning
Miss Benjamin.
'Cello, "Musette" Offenback
Miss McConville.
Waltz Song, "Il Bacio" (The Kiss) Arditi
Miss Westgate.
Recitations, Group of Poems by T. A. Dailey
Miss Benjamin.
'Cello, "The Swan" St. Saens
Miss McConville.

Every number was excellently given, especially the readings by Miss Benjamin and the violin-cello selections by Miss Lucile McConville, who, by the way, is yet in her 'teens. Miss Benjamin gave as her first encores, "I'd Like to be a Cowboy," and "If I Dared, but I Darsn't." Her rendition of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Lady Geraldine's Courtship," showed marked ability. Her articulation was excellent. The group of poems by Dailey included: Almost, The Spoiled Child, The Blue Devil, Humpy Jim and Leetle Georgio Washington.

Miss McConville played "Annie Laurie" as an encore. Mr. Jordan sang a pretty air, "Leethe," by Boot-Sargent, as an encore, and Miss Westgate sang as an encore to her operatic selection, which was in Italian, "The Little Irish Girl," by Lohr.

The concert as a whole was of high order and was greatly enjoyed by the fair sized audience. It is to be regretted that Manchester people do not show their appreciation of high class talent, and lend their support to enterprizing young men who bring them here.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson IV. The Second of its Two Laws.

Mark 12:13, 34; Luke 10:27-37; Levit. 19:18.

1. In what way does our Father want us to express our love for him? Compare John 21:15-17. Can love for God exist without love for men?

2. Do you know of instances in which a person has shown more love for another than for himself? Can one increase his capacity to love? How?

3. Who is your neighbor? Does he live in Hong Kong? Does he live next door to you?

4. Can you enjoy equally the companionship of all? Did Jesus? Is there a distinction between liking and loving?

5. How will love for your neighbor find expression? Compare Matt. 25: 31-46. Apply this principle to the employer of labor; to the laborer; to the rich; to the poor; to tradesmen; soldiers; nations.

6. What substitute is there for love of your neighbor? Compare 1 Cor. 13:1-3. Discuss each of the substitutes there suggested.

NOTE. Next week we shall consider the problem of loving enemies.

"Capt." Wm. Douglass started Tuesday morning on a trip to Jacksonville, Fla., where he intends to spend the winter.

Miss Josie Wells of Gloucester was the guest of Mrs. E. F. Butler Sunday.

Miss Maud E. Butler has accepted a position with the Gloucester Electric Co. as stenographer. She commenced her duties Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy French and family were down over the holiday guests of Mrs. French's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Symonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Gloucester were the guests of their daughter Mrs. Fred Dunbar Sunday.

Miss Higginson has removed from her cottage at the Cove to the Dr. Newton cottage on Western avenue.

Miss Lillian Dennett of Gloucester was the guest of Miss Mattie J. Burke the first of the week.

Mrs. D. C. Ballou was in Boston guest of Mrs. Smith on Tuesday.

Mrs. John B. Knowlton was in Beverly visiting friends the latter part of the week.

The Men's Club House is to be built by the day rather than by contract, with William L. Wilkins as foreman. He gave a bond of $1000 that the cost of the building will not exceed the lowest estimate offered by the contractors. In return he is to receive 10 per cent. of what he saves the Club House on that lowest estimate.

After thirty years faithful service in the employ of T. Jefferson Coolidge as caretaker Philemon R. Sanborn has retired from active service and is about to remove with his family to the old Kitfield homestead at the Cove. Mr. Sanborn has been in very poor health due to an injury received while crossing the beach last summer.

On Monday afternoon, Henry W. Butler, jr., met with a painful accident. While at work he was hit in the hand with a pitch fork one of the prongs nearly passing through his hand. Dr. Glendenning dressed the wound. Although the wound is very painful it is not dangerous and he will be about his work again in a few days.

On Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 2 o'clock there will be held at Mrs. Henry Brown's residence a sale of fancy articles, aprons, etc. These articles were left over from the church fair and will be sold at cost as money is needed for new material. This is a good chance to buy your Christmas gifts ready made.

Breeze advertising pays.

"Christain Socialism" will be the subject in the People's Forum next Sunday evening and the speaker will be the Rev. T. C. Cleveland of the Methodist church in Gloucester. Mr. Cleveland is a forceful speaker, who says what he thinks and will give an opportunity for questions ofter his address.

The Bible Class will meet next Tuesday evening with Mrs. Elbridge Foster. The lesson will be found in another column.

Miss Frank Miller who spoke in the Village church last Sunday evening, gave a clever and interesting address on the "Social Unrest." She said that the social spirit must prevail first among men before they will be ready for a socialistic state.

As Others See It.

Ideas not Essentially Our Own.

The question of the establishment of public playgrounds will be brought before the people of the city at the coming election on December 8th, when the question will be placed on the ballot for a referendum vote, and those desiring the acceptance of the act will vote Yes and those who do not desire it will vote No.

Already a strong sentiment in favor of the act has been found in the city and it is expected that a large vote will be cast in its favor on election day.

Of the 31 Massachusetts cities that have local elections in December at least twenty will vote on the question "Shall chapter 513 of the acts of the year 1908, requiring certain towns and cities to provide public playgrounds, be accepted by this city?" The application of the referendum principle makes Massachusetts a pioneer, this being the first state in the country to take such official action on the national playground movement.

The law passed by the last legislature provides that every city and town of 10-,000 inhabitants accepting the act shall provide and maintain at least one public playground conveniently located and suitably equipped, "for the recreation and physical education of the minors of such city or town."—Beverly Times.

Miss Nancy Mitchell went to her home in Pawtucket, R. I., for Thanksgiving, and will remain there for the balance of the week.

The Men's club connected with the Baptist church held a social in the Chapel last Monday evening and listened to a patriotic lecture given by Rev. Howard A. Pease of Natick, after which a light lunch was served and an hour was spent in a social way.

Miss Beatrice Allen came home from Springfield, where she is teaching, to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Station Agent and Mrs. W. L. Allen, on Greenwood ave.

John A. Campbell has accepted a position with an automobile concern on Columbus ave., Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Pike, jr., are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a little girl in their home on Hart street, last Sunday. Mr. Pike is passing around the cigars.

Harry Guinnivan of Beverly, chauffeur for the Gerard Bements, and Miss Cummings of Salem, were united in marriage at the home of the bride in Salem Wednesday evening. After a short wedding trip the young people will live at the Mrs. Rose McCoy cottage on High street.

A rally will be held at Centerville this (Friday) evening in the interest of Charles H. Trowt for Mayor. A number from this section of the ward will attend.

The whist party given at G. A. R. hall Monday evening under the auspices of the Associates proved a very pleasant occasion. The first prize for ladies, a jewel case, was won by Mrs. George P. Grayer; the 2d, a pocket book, by Miss Sylvia Bushen; consolation, bric-a-brac ornament, by Mrs. Elmer Standley. The gentlemen's prizes were won by George P. Grayer, 1st, an umbrella; Dennis Kelliher, 2d, small piece statuary (lion); Willis Marshall, consolation, a bric-a-brac ornament.

On and after Dec. 1, Saturdays excepted, the Standley shoe store will close evenings at 8 o'clock during the winter months.

The grounds about the new residence of Mrs Abbie Marshall have been very artistically laid out and bespeaks a very picturesque spot next season when the flowers and shrubs will be in bloom.

Daniels-Gleason Co. are closing evenings at 6.30 through the winter. Saturdays at 10 p. m.

The interior of Varney's drug store, Central square, has been in the hands of painters the past week.

J. M. Publicover and family spent Thanksgiving at Gloucester.

John L. Chapman and family have vacated their cottage on Haskell street and have moved to the Swift estate at Pride's for the winter.

There will be a rally in the interest of Charles H. Trowt for mayor in Neighbor's hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Everybody invited.

Mrs. John Holtman, Miss Lillian Holtman and Arthur Holtman, former Farms residents, but now of Barnstable, were guests the early part of the week of Mr. and Mrs. Mattis Hansen.

A public whist party will be held in Marshall's hall on Friday evening, Dec. 4, under the management of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers. Good prizes will be given. Tickets 20 cents.

The Beverly-Salem football game at Salem yesterday morning attracted a large number of Farms enthusiasts. The Beverly team won 12 to 0.

HANDSOME PIANO OFFERED AS PRIZE.

A handsome piano in the display window of Daniels-Gleason Co., Central square, Beverly Farms, has been attracting considerable attention the past week. The piano is offered as a prize to the holder of the largest amount of cash sales certificates on May 1, 1909.

It is a Cote piano, the list price of which is $400, and it would make a handsome addition to any home. The contest is open to all, and is very simple. With every cash purchase of five cents or over a certificate of the amonnt of the purchase will be given the customer. When the contest closes May 1, the holder of the largest amount of certificates will be entitled to the piano, absolutely free of cost.

It must be understood that it is not the NUMBFR of certificates that count, but the VALUE represented. The coupons are transferrable, so that those who save their coupons may give them to some friend, or the coupons may be accumulated with the idea of winning the piano for a club or lodge room. There are absolutely no restrictions.

In most cases where such contests are conducted "cash" sale means what the word implies, but Mr. Daniels says that bills settled weekly, if they are paid strictly "weekly," will count as "cash" and the certificates will be presented.

Watch the Breeze from time to time for further announcements about the contest. The contest closes May 1, 1909.

Walter H. Brewer is closing his market tomorrow night after a highly successful season, to re-open again early the coming spring. Mr. Brewer has some of the highest class trade on the North Shore and he caters especially to that class.

A dory belonging to a man named Ross was stolen from its moorings at Haven's beach, some time during Sunday.

The local team, Burchsted and Day, took part in the hose coupling tournament at Ipswich last Sarurday evening under the auspices of the Ipswich fire department. Their time was 16 4-5 seconds. The winning team did the trick in 13 2-5 seconds. Stanley and Plummer of Beverly won third prize.

Lyceum Course Program.

The program for the season 1908-09, of the Young Men's Lyceum Course of the Beverly Farms Baptist church, parts of which have been announced heretofore, is as follows:

Dec. 14. Waltham Watch Co. lecture.
Dec. 29. Stereopticon lecture on Italy by Miss Katharine P. Loring.
Jan. 22. Mr. Levine and orchestra.
Feb. 12. With the G. A. R.
Mar. 12. Quartette.

The first in the series was given last Friday evening, when Miss Annie Kemp Holmes gave a piano and organ recital, the program of which we printed last week. Every number on the program was splendidly rendered and was enjoyed by a good size audience.

"The Third Degree," a New Play, Coming to the Hollis Street Theatre.

On Monday, November, 30, Henry B. Harris will bring to the Hollis Street Theatre, Charles Klein's latest play, "The Third Degree." Any announcement of a new play by the author of "The Lion and the Mouse," should attract more than ordinaty attention of the theatre-goers, who are acquainted with the stirring situations which composed this dramatic sensation. The tensity of the situations begins with the discovery by the police of the body of Robert Underwood in his art store and the arrest of Howard Jeffries, jr., who is found on the premises sleeping off a drunken stupor. Until the final scene in the play in a powerful dramatic climax where evidence is adduced which clearly proves the boy innocent of the crime, is there a let-up in the rapid action of the drama. The thrilling situation of the police putting a man through the ordeal of the third degree, is one of the cleverest bits of stage craft seen in years. Another point of vast importance is the fight made by the young wife, for the life of her husband, alone and unaided, against the powerful influence of the police backed up by all the strength of the office of the prosecuting attorney.

Among those prominent in the cast are Edmund Breese, Helen Ware, Wallace Eddinger, Catherine Countiss, John Flood and Ralph Delmore.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1908.

$75,000 NEEDED FOR MOTH WORK ON NORH SHORE

This Winter and Coming Months. Past Work will Have Been in Vain if not Continued Along Practically the Same Lines as Last Winter and Spring.

That work must be done in the woods along the North Shore again this winter and the coming spring months is shown by a report just issued by Supt. A. H. Kirkland of the state moth commission. The report says:

"I have personally looked over the infestations in this section in company with Messrs. Worthley, Hatch and Phillips, and Mr. Phillips has supplied me with quite accurate data concerning the acreage of the various colonies which he has measured by pacing. These estimates include the necessary work in all the important woodland colonies. There are certain minor infestations known and probably more will be discovered as the work progresses, and an allowance has been made for their treatment.

"The success which has attended the spraying operations of last summer indicates the desirability of making use of this method of work so far as possible in future operations. Where a year ago the trees bore egg clusters literally by thousands, today they can be found only by dozens. It is apparent that the spraying of last season reduced the number of the moths in the areas treated from 80 to 90 per cent.

"It will be desirable to spray again all the areas which were thinned out last winter, and if this is done but little creosoting or banding will be required, although the latter method can be used to advantage in a few sections.

"It is desirable, to protect the work already done as well as to suppress the important colonies, to considerably extend the thinning of the woodlands during the coming winter and spring, and for this purpose a force of fifty to seventy-five choppers can be well employed throughout the entire winter.

"It will be desirable also to purchase four more large power sprayers in order to do the necessary spraying quickly and economically when the season arrives."

What Col. Sohier Says.

In commenting on this report Col. Wm. D. Sohier of Beverly, who has taken a great interest in the suppression of the moth in this district, says:

"In the woods directly back of West Beach Hill, Beverly Farms, and West Manchester, covering territory in Beverly, Wenham and Manchester, are very large colonies which will inevitably destroy all that section of woods if not treated this year. Over six hundred acres of territory in that section must be cared for this year if those woods and the trees between them and the North Shore estates are to be saved. Some of this has already been cleared for spraying. But it must be sprayed next season if the work done is to amount to anything. There are about 385 acres to be cleared, and about 350 which should be sprayed. According to the estimates of Superintendent Kirkland, about $15,000 is needed for clearing and spraying, and about $4000 for spraying on land already cleared. If the $4000 is not raised for the land cleared we will not attempt to do anything, feeling that it would be a waste of money.

"It is essential that the whole work be done under one contract by some recognized authority, regardless of town lines. To do this the cooperation of the state, towns and the summer residents is necessary. It might be said that all the money raised is to go through the office of the state auditor. The committee in charge of the work is doubtful what to do this year, because from the point of view of spending the state's money and in justice to the subscribers to the fund, there is no use in going ahead with halfway measures. The work must be done not to benefit individual owners of North Shore property, but to benefit the community as a whole. Last year, when we had $30,000 to spend, and made it do the work of $50,000, we suffered under the disadvantage of not knowing the territory as we know it now, scouts and experts having gone over most of the area last season.

"If a thousand acres are not taken care of this season the moths will spread over more than five times that space in another season. The colonies thinned out in condition for spraying should be extended. This work can be done in the winter. The surrounding of scattered egg clusters will prevent their spreading. There are on the North Shore about 1420 acres so thickly infested that they should be prepared this winter for spraying next spring.

"Some time ago we asked Superintendent Kirkland to prepare estimates of the amount of work to be done, and the probable cost, through the woods in Hamilton, Wenham, Beverly, Manchester and Essex. His statement gives details of the location of each colony of gypsy moths, and the cost of suppression. It is estimated that for cutting and clearing and spraying next season about $55,000 will be required. Then about $20,000 more will be required for new plant and work on lands already sprayed, making the total cost about $75,000. One thing is certain: that if the forests back of the North Shore are not taken care of, it will be impossible to save the forests on the fine estates and the lands along the shore, and the owners of this property, who are taking care of their own trees, will find that they have spent a great deal of money uselessly. The preservation of the whole North Shore forest area is at stake and not only this, but the value of the work already done is to be made apparent by keeping on in the lines in which we have already started."

Asst. Supt. Worthley Says.

Assistant Supt. L. H. Worthley, who was in charge of the work on the North Shore during the present year, says that the colonies spread so rapidly that if nothing is done this year it will be almost impossible to save the trees except within small confined areas. The large estates will be overrun by moths from the woods back of them if they are left alone, and the general defoliation of the North Shore will be only a question of time. There is a bad colony of about 15 acres around Chebacco lake, and there are other areas equally infested which ought to be prepared this winter for spraying next season. There are fifteen located colonies in Manchester alone which require treatment. In Hamilton there are eight colonies, comprising some forty-one acres which ought to be treated. In Wenham there are 128 acres to be cut and sprayed. In Essex there are sixty acres requiring treatment and sixteen acres of old work to be cared for. In Gloucester the total new work is about sixty acres. In Beverly, which is the largest area, there are 759 acres of old work to be sprayed, and there are 718 acres which ought to be cut this winter and prepared for spraying next season.

The First Annual Boys' Conference and Third Annual County Convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Essex County will be held at Groveland, Mass., December 5 and 6. A very interesting program has been prepared. All sessions are open to the public.

THE MORE SENSIBLE FOOL.

Text: Luke 16:19—Now there was a certain rich man, and he was clothed in purple and fine linen, faring sumptuously every day.

These were the words from which Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost preached Sunday evening at the First Baptist church, in Manchester. He said in part:

"The biggest fool is not the imbecile. Those with the greatest brain capacity and the highest mental endowments may act more foolishly than an idiot. Last Sunday evening we saw how the wisest man in the world played the fool. This evening another type of fool will interest us, one not so foolish in many respects as Solomon, but one who may well be styled a fool.

A. THE ANCIENT MORE SENSIBLE FOOL.

"The one whom I shall select for our picture of the more sensible fool is the rich man in the parable of Dives and Lazarus. Here we have the type of a so-called 'good moral man.' Dives is not one of those vulgar, low, riotous kind of men who sometimes have great riches. He is not one of those 'get rich quick' kind of well-to-do people so often characterized by their vulgarity of display and courseness of taste. He does not belong to what we call 'the codfish aristocracy.' He is a refined, rich man of the world. His house is beautiful. There is nothing in it that would jar on the most refined taste. Nothing is lacking which will add to comfort or enjoyment. Thoughts of death are kept far off. The friends who throng to the rich man's table and who adorn his reception rooms all conspire to make him happy. Honor after honor is heaped upon him. How could any one so refined, so wealthy, so prominent in society keep from being honored?

HIS FOLLY.

"Godliness was the first element in his folly. God had no part in his life. What religion he had consisted simply in forms.

"The second element was prayerlessness. He felt no need of God in his life. He had all he wanted and did not see the need of prayer. The only supplication he is recorded to have uttered was in hell.

"Another element in his folly was worldliness. All his interests were centered in the things of time. The present life was good enough for him. What need he care for the future? The future could care for itself.

"He was also inhuman. Do you mean to say that such a rich refined man was inhuman? Yes, for he could allow a beggar to lie neglected at the gate to his palatial residence.

HIS FATE.

"Misery was his fate, eternal anguish his portion. The brilliant clothing of earth gave place to the clothing of flame. Instead of the delightful occupations which made time slide by so pleasantly, he was consumed by the pangs of conscience, and the undying memory of an ill-spent life."

B. THE MODERN MORE SENSIBLE FOOL.

Mr. Frost drew three pictures: One of a clean, moral educated man who keeps from thinking of anything that is unlovely or disagreeable; another of a comfortably well-to-do man with a fine home, wife and children, but whose sole interest is in his home and his family; another picture of a refined woman whose religion is but a form and who never thinks of death or eternity. Speaking of the folly of this fool Mr. Frost said:

"Low aim is a crime, but the more sensible fool does not believe this, or at least does not practioe it. God alone can satisfy, and godlikeness is the only aim worthy of an immortal soul.

"This type of fool has wrong ideas of morality. A man does wrong when he wrongs his family. He is equally bad when he wrongs God. Some think that sin is a necessitv in the Universe, but sin is not a necessity. Some of this tpye think sin is good in the making. If it is, the good seems to be making pretty slowly.

"Another element in this fool's folly is inhumanity. A few crumbs given to a beggar at the door will not show a heart of compassion. Giving away old clothing which is so shabby that a tramp would not want to wear it does not make one humane or generous. Men need more than bread crumbs or old clothing. Men need brotherly love, yea more than this, the love Christ can give them. It is your duty to give men Christ.

C. CONSEQUENCES.

"There is no starry diadem of eternal life for the fool. Instead there is the fiery clothing of flame. No fellowship with the saints in glory awaits the fool. There will be no communion and companionship with the King of Kings and Lords of Lords for the fool. In hell the lost soul is associated with the lost, and the cries and wails of lost souls is constantly ringing in the ears.

"A cap and bells are not worth the price men are willing to pay for them. Better to miss earthly happiness and success, yes better never to have lived than to have lived and missed Christ. What will you do with Christ tonight? Can you deprive your life of its greatest joy and greatest blessing by depriving it of Jesus?"

Mr. and Mrs. Everett S. Andrews announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Ruth, to Franklin Wallace Dunbar of Magnolia.

A private (subscription) party is to be held at the Town hall on Friday evening, Dec. 18, under the auspices of the Manchester Crickets. Long's orchestra will furnish the music.

William Henry Tyler of Holliston is visiting his son Dr. Waldo H. Tyler on North street Pearley A. Rice of Somerville also spent the latter part of last week with his cousin Bernard O. Tyler.

Thomas A. Baker has completed his season's work at Bullock's bakery, and is starting next Monday for Jacksonville, Fla., where he has been for several winters past, in charge of a large fruit stand.

Mrs. H. W. Clark returned to her home at Southampton, L. I., Wednesday after a visit of several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. L. W. Carter, School street. Her daughter, Miss Alice Clark, will probably come on to Manchester to spend the Christmas holidays.

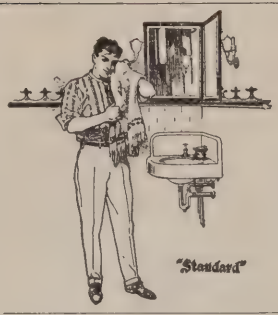

"Captain" John O'Brien, otherwise known as "Dewey," lost his bearings last Sunday as he was beating into port with a full load from Gloucester, and was towed in by Officer Lee. "I'll take it," said John next morning in court when the judge sent him up for two months.

A vigorous campaign is being waged at Gloucester this year for No-license, and more united work is being done than ever before. The paper published each year by the No-licence workers,—"The People's Cause,"—5500 in number, was printed the past week at the Breeze office on Beach street.

Nathan J. Dame, a veteran conductor on the B. & M., who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. L. Cushing, in Medford, Monday, was known in Manchester to some extent. He worked here in his younger days. For many years he ran between Salem, Boston and Gloucester, but for the last 15 years he had charge of a Salem and Lawrence train.

The Dillon house on Brook street, reported to have been bought by Edmund J. Rumrill, will be occupied about the first of the year by the purchaser and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Neill of Gloucester will probably occupy the upper tenement. Mr. O'Neill has been employed at the Breeze printing office the past two years. He was recently married.

Mrs. A. Lithgow Devens is spending a few days with Mrs. Charles Head at Manchester, prior to returning to Boston for the winter. Her house at Beverly Farms is being closed this week for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby and children were down to their cottage at West Manchester over the week-end, coming on Friday and returning to Boston on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan and Miss Dorothy Jordan are back to their Beacon street, Boston, residence, after a six weeks' visit at Hot Springs. Miss Jordan made a great success of her toy table at the Vincent fair last week.

At Boston, Monday afternoon the cornerstone of the foundation of Boston's new opera house was laid with impressive cermonies. Eben D. Jordan, president of the Boston Opera company, and through whom largely the new building is being brought about, officiated at the ceremonies. Mr. Jordon's son, Robert, is secretary of the company, and besides these two, on the board of directors of fourteen, are the following well known North Shore people: Gardiner M. Lane, Samuel Carr, Francis Peabody, jr., and George R. Fearing, jr. Wallace Goodrich is one of the two conductors. It is expected the building will be completed and ready for the opening of the season a year hence.

Some Beverly Farms and Pride's Crossing Tax-payers Who Pay Over $1000.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Dr. Edward C. Streeter of Boston has become the owner of the Robert Foss estate in Hamilton, which is the original home of the Myopia Hunt club. Dr. Streeter has bought with the intention of making important improvements on the place, and he will then occupy it for a summer residence.

The Foss estate at Hamilton is situated on what is called the old Topsfield road, and consists of a little more than 100 acres of land, including some beautiful shade and other trees and also more thickly wooded portions and several hills from which fine and widespread views may be had. It has a long frontage on the Ipswich river, back to which it extends from the highways. The place has been in the market and the owner's price has been $14,000, so it is understood. The estate is situated between "Green Meadow," that of George Burroughs, and the place owned by Mrs. Charles P. Hemenway.

Dr. Streeter will remodel the old farmhouse and make it modern, while retaining the old-time look. A pond near the house will be used as a feature of a water garden to be laid out.

An addition is being built to the Lester Leland greenhouses at West Manchester. The addition is 8 feet wide, and runs along the entire length of the main house,—100 feet. It is intended for orchids, etc. The mason work is being done by G. S. Sinnicks and the construction of glass work by Lord & Burnham.

Two more Farms' residents have purchased house lots at the Walker-Field park, Montserrat. They are Harold Bennett and Fred Jackson.

Society Notes

The Thomas M. McKees have closed "Selwood," their North Shore estate at Beverly Farms, and have gone to their winter home, Alleghaney, Pa., for the winter.

Mrs. E. C. Swift has closed her house at Pride's and is at New York for a week or so before sailing for Europe where she plans to spend the winter.

The Clay Arthur Pierces have closed the Longworth cottage at Mingo Beach hill the past week after a long season and have returned to St. Louis.

It is with deep regret we report the death in New York last week of Mr. Edward King, who has been a summer resident on the North Shore the past few years. Last summer he had the Edward Robinson house, off School street, Manchester. The family were delighted with the North Shore and Mr. King though some of buying a place here. The family were to return next season, but the death of Mr. King may cause a change in plans.

Real Estate And Improvements

S. Reed Anthony is planning to have some extensive alterations and improvements made to his house at Beverly Farms. The house is to be extended by the addition of new wing including new servants' dining room, bedroom and glazed piazza and an enlarged china closet and pantry, and new balcony and bedroom over. The present china closet and pantry outside walls are to be removed. The old covered piazza off the dining room is to be enlarged and enclosed as a new glazed piazza. The kitchen porch is to be enlarged. On the 3rd floor new dormers are to be built and a new bath and bedroom put in. In the basement a new trunk room is to be built.

The vacant store on Common Lane, next to the Pride's postoffice, has been sold by George Coburn to Mrs. Lawrence King. The new owner has moved the building to her property, and is considering several applicatsons to rent it for store purposes.

George H. Hobbs of Manchester to Fred K. Swett of Manchester et al., land on Pine street, Manchester, 15.56 by 5.81 feet.

Lenora F. Gorman to Dennis J. Moynihan of Manchester, land and buildings on Pine street, Manchester, 50 by 100 feet.

About a Former Manchester Boy.

From "The Johnstown (N. Y.) Daily Republic," we copy the following reference to a former Manchester man, William McCormack, whose "stage" name is Mackaye. The article was published in connection with an account of a banquet given by the Grand Opera House employees to the Knickerbocker Stock Co. of which Mr. McCormack is stage manager.

"One of the most pleasing things on the program was when Mr. Mackaye, the genial stage manager for the company, and the recognized 'wit' of the organization, gave an exhortation on 'The Art of Blowing a Bugle.' The story goes that some time during the week, Mr. Mackaye had boasted of his ability to blow a bugle, saying that that was his duty in the army, when Washington crossed the Delaware. The boys were prepared for him, and had filled the instrument about half full of flour and then had bored a hole near the mouth piece of the horn. Putting the bugle to his lips, just as if he knew how, Mr. Mackaye gave one mighty blow. There was no sound, for as there were ladies present, Mr. Mackaye could not say the things he wished, but there was a regular snow storm of the white flour, principally in the bugler's direction. Mr. Mackaye was a sight, and it is said that the shock was so sudden that his hair turned white on the spot."

An entertainment and sale of fancy articles and homemade candy will be held at the Chapel next Wednesday evening, Dec. 9, under the auspices of the Ladies Social circle. Admission 10 cents.

The annual meeting of the Orthodox Congregational church, Manchester, will be held at the Chapel next Thursday evening, Dec. 10, at 7.30 o'clock. There will be an election of chairman, election of church officers and committees, and reports of the various officers and committees will be presented.

The Ever Ready circle of King's Daughters will meet Monday evening, Dec. 7, at the home of Mrs. Levi Harvey. A large attendance is desired.

Entertainment and Sale of the Church Aid.

The entertainment and sale under the auspices of the Church Aid society was held in the Town hall, Wednesday evening, Dec. 2. The sale opened at 7 o'clock, and the tables were well filled with many articles which met with a ready sale. There were eight tables, the following persons being in charge:

Fancy, Mrs. G. A. Knoerr, Mrs. Albert Crowell.

Fancy apron, Mrs. E. H. Rogers, Mrs. Wm. Follett.

5 and 10c, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Cook.

Candy, Mrs. Edward Baker, Mrs. Jos. McNeil.

Cake, Mrs. Chas. E. Mason, Mrs. G. E. Hildreth.

Remembrance, Miss Caldon, Miss E. Prest.

Domestic, Mrs. Helen Willmonton, Mrs. E. Crombie, Mrs. G. H. Martin, Mrs. J. W. Lee.

Ice Cream, Mrs. Preston, Clarence Preston.

The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Follett, and a very interesting program was given which ran as follows:

Piano Duet, "Reine de Mai."
May Rogers and Annabel Lodge
Solo, Mrs. J. W. Lee
Pantomine representing twelve young couple who are thinking of matrimony and how they looked when married.
Cornet and Trombone Duet, "Alice, where art thou?" Byron Bullock, Lagory Wade
Cornet Solo, "Seems to me I've always loved you." Byron Bullock
Trombone Solo "Killarney," Lagory Wade
Duet, (encore) Byron Bullock, Lagory Wade

These selections were very pleasing, the encore lasting several minutes, after which the duet was repeated.

The proceeds of the sale will go towards the parsonage fund.

Well Known Lecturer.

Roderick D. Dundonald of Glen Levan, Loch Lomond, Scotland, a lecturer of world wide fame, was disappointed in not being able to come to Manchester last Sunday as announced. He came Tuesday and lectured at the Chapel that night. He will be here again on Sunday, Dec. 13, and will deliver one of his lectures.

Mr. Dundonald is no novice on the lecture platform, as he has delivered lectures in the principal cities of Canada and United States. His success as a lecturer lies in the fact that he speaks entirely free from manuscript or memorizing. His mind is stored with facts regarding his themes, and with natural flow of language and intense dramatic power, with a tall and commanding figure, he holds audiences spell-bound from the beginning to the close of his lecture.

ARTS AND CRAFTS.

Manchester Woman's Club Hold Very Interesting Meeting.

The meeting of the Manchester Woman's club Tuesday was devoted to the subject of "Arts and Crafts," and a feature of the occasion was a display of rare old laces, embroidery, variour articles of wearing apparel, cooking utensils, etc., to show something of the "Occupation of our Foremothers," which was the subject of the address given by Mrs. Mary W. Overholzer.

The collection was one of the finest ever seen in Manchester, even better in many details, than the display of historic things at the time of the 250th anniversary in 1895.

Following the usual business of the meeting Mrs. Overholzer, was introduced. She spoke in part as follows:

"It is a popular delusion that woman has drifted out of her sphere during the last generation or two. A comparison between ancient and modern housekeeping reveals the fact that most of the occupations which formerly engaged her time have been taken out of the home by the introduction of machinery and the development of the factory system, and she has followed in pursuit of them.

"Woman has always been a factor in the industrial world, but that world was once bounded by the borders of her own estate. Now when we find her in mill or shop it is the location of the business that has changed and not her relation to it.

"In colonial days the store afforded the opportunity of purchasing imported products as spices, tea, sugar, silks and crockery. Everything else that a family required was produced upon its own premises under the direction of the housewife. She raised the poultry, 'cured' the feathers, made the butter, grew the herbs for dressing meat and healing the family ills; she made the candles that prolonged her own working day; she spun and wove the home-grown flax, converting it into household linen; she took the fleece when the sheep could best spare it and at her will it became a bed blanket, or a Sunday gown; when its days of usefulness in either capacity were ended she transformed it into rug or carpet.

"In a home where so many occupations were carried on the children early learned to share the work. They learned many a lesson beside mastering the particular process in which they were engaged. They learned the value of time and of money, the necessity of cleanliness and thoroughness; they grew into an appreciation of art in seeking designs for their work which would satisfy them; they came to love and value the home which to so great an extent was the product of their own industry.

"Woman's ingenuity has enabled her to adapt herself to new conditions. Her inventive genius has led her to devise ways and means for uplifting humanity through club and church organizations.

"The study of art and especially of applied art encouraging the pupil to embody his own designs in thread, wood or metal, training the hand to give tangible expression to one's own ideals,—this comes nearer than anything else that has been devised to take the place of the old home industries, educating in its literary sense, leading out the individuality of the pupil, developing character."

After the address everybody was given an opportunity to look at the various articles which were displayed on tables and hung up around the room.

So many articles were displayed that it would be quite impossible in this article to give description of all. We mention a few that attracted particular attention:

A white spread owned by Mrs. William Hoare, spun and woven in her grandfather's house in Wells, Me., about 100 years ago.

An all-wool blanket, hand make, loaned by Mrs. Marianna, Cheever.

Counterpane, spun, woven and dyed by Sally Wheeler about 1800.

A homespun table cloth loaned by Mrs. William Johnson, jr.

A school copy book done by Mary E. Potter, mother of Miss H. P. Allen, in about 1836.

Picture tapestry, cross stitch, done by Mrs. E. S. Knight's mother.

Copy book dated 1786 done by Asa Woodberry, and containing a love letter and its answer. Loaned by Miss Annie Tappan.

A little shirt and hood done by the mother of Delucena L. Bingham 95 years ago.

A hooked in rug, 100 years old, loaned by Mrs. J. K. Pulsifer.

A German made jacket, hand embroidered, 60 years old, loaned by Miss Annie Tappan.

Pillow case done by Sally Dodge, the grandmother of Miss H. P. Allen, and also Miss Allen's mother's wedding handerkerchief, all hand made.

Spinning wheel 150 years old loaned by Mrs. J. K. Pulsifer.

Kerchief loaned by Mrs. Walter Harris of Salem, worked by Mrs. Sophy Parsons, mother of Mrs. Joseph A. Torrey, prior to 1827, owned and woven by the late Lydia Smith.

Watchfob made for the late Deacon Low when he was about 20 years old (nearly 80 years ago).

One of the curiosities shown was a mahogany veneered busk, loaned by Mrs. Raymond C. Allen. It was made by her grandfather about 1828 and was presented by him to her grandmother.

The first contribution box ever used in Manchester, by the Rev. Mr. Tappan, who was ordained to the ministry in 1745, was loaned by Miss Sarah T. Brown. Handmade nails were used in making it.

A patchwork quilt, made of old fashioned French calico, 133 years old, made of the wedding gowns of two sisters, by the great-great-great-grandmother of Mrs. Chester Cook (Hattie Baker).

Pewter tea-pot brought from France 150 years ago by the great-great-grandfather of A. C. Needham.

Several samplers, the oldest of which was loaned by Mrs. Hawkesworth, done about 1807.

Also quaint sampler about 100 years old, done by mother of late Miss C. E. Brown, and picturing a funeral procession, worked in silk. Piece of homespun cloth woven by grandmother of Bethiah Tappan for wedding dress, about 1763. Stamped in England.

Blanket, spun and wove by grandmother of Mrs. John Haskell, Mrs. Choate, 100 years ago.

Pewter Pitcher owned by great-great-grandmother of Mrs. F. C. Rand, Mollie Hill, over 100 years old.

Tin kitchen, dutch oven, nurse's lamp, over 100 years old, formerly at the old Osborne house, West Manchester, loaned by Miss Decker of Salem.

Steel and flint and tender box and old bag it was kept in, from the old Osborne house, West Manchester.

The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Raymond C. Allen, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Needham, Mrs. F. L. Decker, Mrs. F. C. Rand, Mrs. L. W. Carter, Mrs. F. P. Bullock and Mrs. W. W. Hoare.

That Thanksgiving Dinner.

Editor North Shore Breeze:

Our friend D. F. L. who furnished your columns, last week, the account of a Thanksgiving dinner at Danvers was deceived, as have been many others, in taking it for veritable history.

It is pure fiction. It was written many years ago as a hoax, by the late Fitch Poole, librarian of the Peabody Library and editor of a local paper.

Poole had a rare humor and a ready pen. He was fond of writing such skits, and sending them forth, usually on All Fools' Day. The article in question has been going the rounds of the press for many years as authentic. It is an annual that blossoms about Thanksgiving time. No amount of contradiction will kill it. The conscience of our Puritan fathers was queer enough, and their righteousness sufficiently bleak, as illustrated by the true chronicles, without being libelled by fiction however plausible. Still, the delicious humor of the story will be appreciated when its orgin is known. It will bear a second reading.

The Essex Institute.

The Essex Institute, 132-134 Essex street, Salem, is one of the points of interest in Salem which is well worth visiting. The Institute was organized in 1848, by the union of the Essex Historical Society (1821) and the Essex County Natural History Society, (1833) and was incorporated the same year. It has for its objects the promotion of history, science and art in Essex County, and is supported by an annual assessment upon its members and by the income from its funds.

In 1906, the Institute purchased from the Salem Athenaeum the adjoining Plummer Hall property. A staircase hall was built, giving access to both buildings, and extensive alterations provided a well-lighted picture gallery, a museum hall of fine architectural proportions, a bookstack accommodating 300,000 volumes, and modern conviences of heating and lighting. The museum hall was opened to the public on Sept. 9, 1907. A picture of the new home of the Institute is printed on our front page this week.

The attention of all persons interested in the preservation and exhibition of historical objects is called to the facilities offered by the new museum hall. All objects which show in any way the home life, the trades, professions, military and business life of the past will be gratefully received and carefully preserved and exhibited. Almost every house has something relating to the past and it is by bringing these separate objects together that large collections are formed and the history of the "by-gone day" is the more fully illustrated. Every article received will be marked with the name of the donor and, when desirable, with a short description of its use or association, thus preserving for all time the object and its history, both of which otherwise might be lost forever. The scope of the museum and the nature of the materail desired is especially called to the attention of those intending to remove from one house to another and to those having the settlement of estates, for many interesting objects are destroyed at such times which, if preserved in the museum of the Essex Institute, would help to make the collection what it is most desired to be—a complete record of the life of our forefathers.

"AIM high" is a noble aspiration, but the trouble is that most of us are so all-fired near-sighted.

A FABLE.

There lived a man, in days of old,
In a beautiful garden, I have been told.

But the fruits and flowers in their display
He never knew, for all the day

He was digging deep in the garden mold
In ardent quest for coveted gold.

And the bee and the bird and the passer-by Enjoyed the riches that 'scaped his eye.

When the day was done he had digged full deep,
And the time had come for his last long sleep.

His quest no longer could weary or worry him;
The gold he gained was enough to bury him.

—JOSEPH A. TORREY.

TO THOSE WHO ARE FOND OF TREES.

The bulletin on Shade Trees, in the publication of which the Massachusetts Forestry Association and the Agricultural Experient Station have united, will meet a long felt want. Every one loves trees and much time and money are spent in planting and caring for them. The results are not infrequently disappointing on account of injudicious selection, wrong methods in setting, or improper or insufficient care. This bulletin gives, first the substance of the laws pertaining to shade trees and tree wardens, and discusses the duties of the latter. The selection of varieties suited to different localities are considered. Statistic showing the rates of growth of different kinds and directions for setting, for transplanting and pruning are given. Methods of preventing or repairing damages to trees receive attention, and such topics as chaining and bolting, treating decayed cavities, filling, etc., are fully treated. Injuries to trees due to leaky gas mains, and contact with electric wires, and other electrical injuries are considered and the best methods of prevention described. The concluding section of the bulletin gives descriptions of the more serious insect enemies and explicit directions for destroying them or preventing their injuries.

This bulletin will be sent to members of the Massachusetts Forestry Association, to tree wardens in all parts of the state, and to public libraries. Other interested parties desiring copies should address, Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

A Few Conundrums.

At what time of the day was Adam born? A little before Eve.

Why is the world like music? Because it is full of sharps and flats.

What class of women are most apt to give tone to society? The belles.

Why is life the riddle of all riddles? Because we must all give it up.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY

Two Well Known Manchester Men Killed by Premature Explosion

One of the saddiest accidents in the history of the town occurred yesterday afternoon about 3.45 when John Baker and Deglan A. Walsh, two of Manchester's well known citizens were killed as the result of a premature explosion of dynamite, at the Dexter estate, off Forest street, where water mains are being laid through the new roads opened up recently.

The work has been in progress for some months and yesterday Mr. Baker and his men were preparing the last blast for the day. They had charged all but one hole, and were just completing that when the explosion occurred.

"Well, boys, this is the last hole," remarked Mr. Baker in his cheery manner. And it was the last. No sooner had he spoken the words then there was a terrific explosion. Mr. Baker was standing over the hole tamping in the charge and Mr. Walsh was bending over pouring in the sand from a shovel. The force of the explosion threw Mr. Baker high into the air, over the trees, over 100 feet. His body was terribly torn and mangled. Mr. Walsh was not killed outright, but he was thrown some feet, his chief injuries being about the head.

It was a terrible sight. The men came rushing around, but there was nothing they could do. Jacob Haskell was within six feet of the hole at the time, preparing the wires. He was thrown to the ground, and received a few minor bruises. His injuries were only slight, however.

Some men rushed for a telephone, one to Magnolia station and another to the cottage on the estate, and summoned the ambulance. The three doctors, too, were summoned. The ambulance made record time, in charge of Thomas Carroll, and Mr. Walsh was rushed off to the hospital in Beverly. The trip to the hospital was made in a little over half an hour, but the unfortunate man had expired just before reaching there.

The ambulance was stopped at the parochial residence to have the last rites of the church administered, but Fr. Powers was away, and the stop was made at Beverly Farms where Rev. Fr. Walsh pronounced the last rites of the church. Fr. McKenna of Beverly was on hand when the ambulance reached the hospital but his services were not needed as the end had come.

The news of the accident spread over town like wildfire and general gloom settled over all. The two men had left home in the morning in the full strength of manhood, and were about to return to their families again after their day's work, when in a twinkling their lives were snatched away.

The cases are all the more sad when it is realized that both leave large families of children, Mr. Baker being survived by five boys ranging in age from 13 years to 8 months, and Mr. Walsh leaving eight, the oldest being 23 and the youngest seven.

Just a few minutes before the accident Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dexter, who had been down from Boston to see the work being done, had left Mr. Baker to go to the station to take the 4.18 train for Boston. They heard of the accident at the station and after calling up the police station and asking the police to do everything they could in the emergency they were driven back to the estate. Mr. Dexter had just given Mr. Baker $600 to pay off the men, and bits of the bills were picked up around the scene of the accident after the explosion and again yesterday.

The sympathy of the entire town goes out to the grief stricken families in their hour of trouble.

Mr. Baker was a native of Manchester and had spent practically his whole life here. He was of an honest, ambitious nature, and it was this latter trait, no doubt, that lead to his death, for he insisted on attending to charging the blasts himself and personally attending to this part of the work.

He was born fifty years ago last Feb. 22. His parents were John and Nancy (Merrill) Baker. The latter survives him and is now in her 74th year. He came from old Puritan stock. He was always prominently connected with town affairs and was one who always wanted to see the business of the town conducted right.

He was twice married, his first wife being Mary B. Dade. His second wife was Miss Hattie F. Damon of Reading, a former teacher here. A daughter by his first wife, Mrs. Chester D. Cook, survives, and five sons, J. Irving, Harry D., Sydney D., Roger A. and Percy F.,---the oldest 13 years, and the youngest 8 months, by his second wife survive. Two brothers, Robert and Lorenzo, and one sister, Miss Lucy Baker, also survive him.

He was a member of Magnolia lodge, 149, I. O. O. F., of the Historical society and treasurer of the North Shore Horticultural society. He was also a member of the Appropriation committee of the town.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Crowell Memorial chapel. Rev. L. H. Ruge will officiate, and Rev. D. F. Lamson may also be present. The Odd Fellows will attend in a body.

Deglan Arthur Walsh was born in Ireland 50 years ago, but he came to this country when a boy. Prior to coming to Manchester fifteen years ago he lived in Gloucester. He was an honest and industrious citizen and a man highly respected by all who knew him. He was a member of Fr. Shahan court, 220, M. C. O. F., and of the Hibernians, of Beverly.

Besides a widow, he leaves five sons and three daughters: Edward F., 23, Theresa M., 21, Catharine F., 19, John J., 18, Louisa M., 16, Wm. H., 12, Thomas A., 9, and Stephen L., 7. Edward is a clerk at Allen's Drug store, Theresa recently graduated from the Salem Commercial school and is to start teaching in Everett next week and Catherine is a nurse in Boston.

All the other children but one are in school.

Mr. Walsh's remains were taken into the hospital morgue last night, where it remained until Medical Examiner Stickney viewed them, after which the body was taken in charge by Undertaker MacDonald of Salem. The body was brought to the grief stricken home at 3.30 o'clock this morning.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the late home of deceased on Pine street, followed by high Mass at the Sacred Heart church at 9.30. Burial will be at St. Mary's in Salem.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

Everything is Here to Make the Little Ones Happy

After all that's the ruling Christmas time spirit---the happiness of the little ones---a joyful Christmas to them makes a very important epoch in their lives, and it takes so little to make them happy---and it's the small gifts that give them their first lesson in generosity, and instill in them that noble spirit "Good Will to all Men." There's not a store on the North Shore better fitted to supply your wants than this store, a place where hurried shoppers can buy with confidence, because the name WEBBER serves as a guarantee that everything you purchase here is of the very highest standard.

The old Cheever barn on Bennett street is being torn down, thus removing another of the oldest landmarks in town.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Rachel Hadley of Somerville, formerly Miss Rachel Crombie of this town, in the loss of her husband, Fred Hadley, last Monday after a short illness. Death resulted from a complication of diseases. Besides a widow, Mr. Hadley leaves an infant child, and also a child by his first wife.

A daughter, Thursday, Dec. 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peters.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Richardson and daughter Helen, of Salem spent Thanksgiving last week with Mr. Richardson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac P. Richardson, Ashland avenue.

A speciel town meeting is to be called for Monday evening, Dec. 14, to appropriate money to pay Manchester's apportionment of the cost of the Cut bridge at Gloucester, $5400, and also money to carry on the moth work this winter. The town is authorized to spend $5000 for this work during the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1909. All above this amount the state will reimbuse 50 per cent. It is likely that only $2500 will be asked for at this meeting, sufficient to carry on the work until after the March meeting.

Work has been progressing quite favorably on laying the water mains for Manchester's additional water supply, thanks to the excellent weather this fall. The last car of pipes arrived this morning and practically all the pipes will be under ground this week, from the pumping station to the lake, with the exception of the line from the main pipe line to the new high service standpipe, which is being laid through solid rock for the most part. The commissioners are much gratified witd the progress made.

Mrs. Lester Morris and little son Richard of Chelsea have been spending a few days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Harding at West Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. Harding's little son, Wesley, had a party last Friday in celebration of his fifth birthday and the little chap entertained his young friends who spent the afternoon with him with the graphophone which he handled himself with a masterly hand.

School Children Make Thanksgiving Offering.

The Manchester school children made the usual Thanksgiving offering for the poor of the city last week and the following letter from Miss Abbie Hitchcock, a former Manchester girl, is self-explanatory:

WELCOME HOUSE
9 FLORENCE STREET,
BOSTON.

Nov. 25, '08.

To the School Children of Manchester.

I desire to thank the boys and girls and the teachers for their splendid Thanksgiving offering. The harvest truly must have been plentious with you. I wish I could express to you what your offering means to us and the poor girls in our care.

You who have always had homes cannot realize what it means to be homeless, penniless, and friendless. This is the case with many of the girls. One of the girls who helped unpack the barrels is a 17 year old girl, no home, no friends, inexperienced in any kind of work. Consequently she was out of money aimlessly walking the streets. She was arrested, has served her time in prison. Through the prison commissioners she was advised to come here for awhile and let us start her on the right path. How sad it is for a girl to begin her young womanhood with the taint of states prison upon her life. Had she only had a friend she might have been saved this experience. This is the story of but one girl out of hundreds in our cities.

Your offering has gone to help girls with similar experiences altho' the experiences of some are far sadder. Thank God as you never have before, for your home, your friends and the beautiful town in which you live.

I wish you could have seen the happy and eager faces of the girls as the barrels were opened. The chickens have made a delicious meal already and the squash with the boy's name grafted into it serves at present as an ornament.

Could you have been with us on this Thanksgiving Day I think that you would have felt repaid for the trouble which you must have taken in preparing this very generous donation for us, and I do hope that Thanksgiving Day has meant more to you for making it mean so much to us.

Thanking you most sincerely.

Very truly yours,
ABBIE C. HITCHCOCK,
Supt. Welcome House.

Train Order Signals.

A corps of workmen in special work train have been on the Gloucester branch the past week installing the new train order signals on the stations. Under the old arrangement train orders were given by the use of flags, which necessitated the operator or station agent leaving his desk to signal the train.

The new signal is built onto the station roof, and consists of the usual semaphore, with one arm for outward and one for inward track. These are operated by lever in the office.

Allen Relief Corps, 119, elected officers for the ensuing year, at their meeting last evening, as follows: Mrs. Rita Mitchell, president; Mrs. Jennie Walen, senior vice pres.; Mrs. Alice Salter, junior vice pres.; Mrs. Hannah Tappan, treasurer; Mrs. Augusta Martin, chaplain; Mrs. Jennie Dennis, conductor; Mrs. Anna Woodbury, guard; Mrs. Lucinda Baker, delegate.

Another graphophone concert was given in the Town hall Thursday evening, but the attendance was rather small, for various reasons. The concert was one that ought to have been appreciated, but the 60 or more people present did not show any undue pleasure or exultation as the various numbers were presented. It is safe to say, though, that what the parents lacked in this direction, the children made up at the last concert.

Debate—Resolved: This school should be in session from eight to one o'clock instead of from half past eight to half past one.

Affirmative, Archibald Cool, Agnes Edgecomb.

Negative, Frank Floyd, Anna Maslin.

Critic, Agnes Sjolund.

The debate was open to the school, many expressing their opinions. The affiirmative side was taken by the majority of those speaking.

Burglary at Magnolia

Yesterday morning as R. Davis was returning to his home in Magnolia, from his duties as night watchman at T. Jefferson Coolidge's, he noticed a light in the H. H. Stevens house on Summer street, near the Kettle Cove Golf club, Magnolia. He saw a man passing a bundle from the window to another man on the outside, and he walked up to the house and investigated. The burglars saw him coming and made their way back into the house. Mr. Davis fired one shot, but this did not seem to take effect. The two men made their escape through a back window and Mr. Davis, after entering the house, fired two more shots. The house was ransacked from top to bottom, but as far as could be seen nothing was taken, though two valises were packed ready to take away.

The police at Manchester were notified by t lephone and Chief Peabody and Officer Andrews went to the place about 5 o'clock.

Rev. F. J. Libby is chairman of the executive committee of the organization that is waging such a strong fight for the No-license cause this year. Geo. A. Upton is also a member of the organization. The feeling is so strong throughout the city this year and the work of the No-license organization so active and united, that it would not be at all surprising if the city voted "No" this year. Magnolia voters should give their united support to the No-license cause this year. Present conditions in the city are most disgraceful.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett S. Andrews, of Manchester, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Ruth, to Franklin Wallace Dunbar of Magnolia.

John W. Day, one of Gloucester's best known and most successful builders and contractors, who died at his home on Washington street, Friday of last week, was well known in this section of the city. BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson V. The Life Eternal and Enemies.

1. What is the general direction laid down for the treatment of enemies? Matt. 5:43-48. What do you think of this command? What relation does it bear to the two great laws of the life eternal?

2. Read Acts 7:54-60; Luke 23:20-34. How do these narratives illustrate the commandment? Do you think of other illustrations? Can you imagine yourself doing the same? Under what circumstances?

3. What is the opposite attitude to take towards enemies? Read in Judges 16:21-30 an illustration of this. How does Jesus regard hatred? Matt 5:21-24. How does hatred affect the man who hates? Can a man hate and be in heaven?

4. What is God's attitude towards them that hate him said to be? Will this attitude change? Does God expect us to be like him? How is this possible?

Miss Mamie Story of Swampscott has been renewing acquaintances here this week.

John Allyn and daughter of Boston were down enjoying the good weather on Tuesday.

Miss Fanny Faulkner and Mrs. A. R. Hayden of Boston were down Tuesday preparing Miss Faulkner's residence for improvements which are to be made in the near future.

TROWT AND DOW RALLIES.

Beverly Farms Has Been the Rallying Point the Past Week in City Politics.

An enthusiastic rally in the interest of of Charles H. Trowt of Pride's for Mayor of the city was held last Saturday evening at Neighbor's hall. Amid a glare of red fire and the brilliancy of fireworks the speakers, headed by the West Beach Tars, were escorted from the railroad station to the hall.

The presiding officers was Charles H. Day who presented Mr. Trowt as the the "next mayor" in brief but appropriate remarks. Mr. Trowt was greeted with cheers and applause and made one of his characteristic speeches in which he thanked his friends and neighbors for the reception they had given him, and said that it pleased him greatly to see so many of his friends present.

Ex-Mayor Parker S. Davis was the next speaker. He referred to the smooth pavements on Cabot street and told how Mayor Dow had flopped from one side to the other and that now, after saying that he did not believe in a third term for anybody else he was trying to get the voters to give him a third term.

Other speakers included Charles E. Ober, former alderman John H. Hinkley, ex-Mayor Cole, Dennis W. Quill, F. A. E. Hamilton, S. J. Connolly, William Galloupe, Lawrence A. Ford, James Shea, W. B. Publicover and W. R. Brooks.

Mr. Ober said that the election of Mr. Trowt meant that Beverly would be given a good, clean business administration. Mr. Hinkley said that Mayor Dow was only about $30,000 out of the way on his "guess" on the addition to the new school house. Ex-Mayor Cole spoke on the financial conditions of the city and said that he believed Mr. Trowt would be the best man that could be named this year.

On Monday evening a rally was held at Marshall's hall in the interest of Mayor S. Harvey Dow. The speakers arrived on the 7.15 train and were escorted from the station to the hall by a good-sized delegation. James J. Nugent was the presiding officer. The speakers included Guy Richards, A. J. Cheeney, City Solicitor U. G. Haskell and Mayor Dow.

Mr. Richards spoke of the fitness of the present mayor for the place of chief executive and said that his administration had been marked by faithful, efficient and honest service to the city.

Mr. Cheeney reiterated his statements about the schools and said that in four schools,—the Winslow, Washington, Prospect and Beverly Farms, there were seating accommodations for over 1700 and that the school registers showed an attendance of less than 900. He said that the much talked about Washington school had accommodations for 388 and that the registers never showed an attendance of over 322. He said that there was a call from the school committee for a new $130,000 building in the Washington district and that Mr. Trowt's environment as a member of the school committee was not of the sort to make him an economical mayor.

Mr. Haskell said that Mayor Dow had given the city good service and was deserving of re-election.

Mayor Dow said that if ex-Mayor Davis said that he flopped on the smooth reconstruction of Cabot street, he was telling what was untrue. He said that he always favored the reconstruction of Cabot street but he did not believe it should be done two years ago or the sort of smooth pavement put down it was then proposed.

THE election next Tuesday! It is the duty of every Ward 6 voter to get out to the polls next Tuesday and express his choice for the chief executive of the city. Our favorite citizen Charles H. Trowt should receive the solid backing of his home ward. We have talked with men all over the city and from the best we can draw out of these men it would seem that Mr. Trowt stands the best show. Now, we do not believe in drawing the ward lines when it comes to selecting our chief executive, but here is a chance to give Beverly a good, strong business administration. We believe in all sincerity that Mr. Trowt is the best man among the candidates. Here's to a solid Ward 6 vote for Mr. Trowt! [Editor].——(P. S. And vote "No!")

A song recital is to be given at the Farms school hall next Wednesday evening, Dec. 9, at 8 o'clock, by Leverett B. Merrill, assisted by the pupils of the Beverly Farms grammar school.

Governor A. M. Marshall of the local Pilgrim Fathers, and Mrs. Marshall, were guests of the Marblehead colony last Tuesday evening.

The Sarah Wyman Whitman club met on Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. William Choate Webster, Hale street. The next meeting will be held on Dec. 16, with Mrs. John L. Chapman.

John M. Publicover has been made a second assistant engineer of the fire department which is a promotion from third asst. This is brought about by the death of the late fire chief.

Election will be over next week and on Thursday evening the Associates will commence to meet regularly. In the past the member have been very much taken up with rallies and other affairs so that the full quota of members have been unable to get around to the meetings regularly.

Nicholas Lawlor and family moved from the Luke cottage on Hart street the past week and are now located at the McKeone house on Everett street.

Next Tuesday is Election Day. As usual the voting will be at G. A. R. hall and the polls will open at 6 o'clock and will close at 4. There are 345 names on the list besides a few women who are entitled to vote for school committee. If the day is a pleasant one there will undoubtedly be a large vote cast, as there is a contest on for about all the "jobs."

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Younger have been entertaining Mr. Younger's brother, William Younger, of Gloucester, the past week.

There will be a meeting at the Farms engine house this evening in the interest of George W. McNutt, candidate for alderman-at-large.

"Shall chapter 513 of the acts of the year 1908 requiring certain cities and towns to provide public play grounds, be accepted—by the city?" is a question that will be found on your ballot next Tuesday Every friend of the boys' and girls in Beverly should vote "Yes" on this question. Years ago in Beverly there was no necessity for a public play ground but conditions have changed and today the city is full of boys and girls who have no opportunity for the overflow of their spirits and a vote in the affirmative is surely in the right direction.

Rev. Mr. Phelps of East Gloucester officiated at the Farms Baptist church last Sunday in exchange with Rev. Mr. Pond.

Alexander Gregor, an employee at the Dalton estate, and a young man quite popular about the Farms, sailed for his native home in Sweden Tuesday, to remain until spring.

Martin O'Brien is planning to leave shortly, for a visit to his old home in Ireland, where his parents, and brothers and sisters are living. He has not been home for a number of years, and the visit will be all the more of interest to him. He will probably return in the spring.

Politics has been at "red hot" pitch at the Farms the past week and has naturally been the chief topic of conversation. The several candidates and their friends have been hustling to secure as good a vote as possible. Walter S. Flint, aspirant for alderman-at-large, visited the Farms engine house Tuesday evening; Sumner E. Glines, candidate for mayor, was here on Wednesday evening; Charles W. Trask, candidate for alderman-at-large, will hold a rally in Marshall's hall on Saturday evening. The engine house at Montserrat has also been visited by the various office seekers during the week.

Thomas O'Brien left here Monday for Southboro where he has a position for the winter.

Miss Margaret Walsh of Haskell street, has a position with a Boston concern as stenographer.

Charles E. Miller of Beverly is the new chauffeur for the L. C. Fennos, and will occupy the cottage on Hart street owned by Mr. Fenno. The cottage was recently rennovated and painted.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guinivan (nee Cummings) returned the first of this week from their honey-moon trip and are cosily located at the McCoy house on High street.

The Girls' club will give an entertainment in the Chapel of the Beverly Farms Baptist church next Tuesday evening. Local talent has been rehearsing the past week for the event.

Miss Hortense Harding of Lynn has been the guest of her cousin, Miss Ruth Hardy, the past week.

Miss Edith Marshall concluded her services as bookkeeper for Eli R. Hodgkins for the winter last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cross of Portsmouth, N. H., spent the past week at the Farms the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brigham. Mr. Cross was a former resident here and he found great pleasure in renewing acquaintances and talking over old times.

Frank McDermitt, an employee at the Thomas estate, Pride's, left this week for a visit, which will probably extend all winter, to his former home in Ireland.

Preston Post, G. A. R., held their annual election of officers Wednesday evening. Practically the same board of officers as the past year was re-elected, as follows: Chas. H. Day, commander; Theodore A. Holmes, senior vice; Joshua Younger, junior vice; Eben Day, adjutant; Benj. Osborne, quarter master; E. P. Williams, off. of the day; Geo. W. Larcom, chaplain; Wm. H. Blanchard off. of the guard; Geo. H. Wyatt, q. m. sergeant, Daniel W. Preston, sergeant; E. P. Williams. patriotic instructor. A pleasant surprise and one fully appreciated by the veterans, was the receiving of a check from Justice O. W. Holmes to be used in carrying on the work of the Post.

Charles H. Trowt, candidate for mayor has held rallies every night during the past week, in different parts of the city, and has met with large crowds and cordial receptions.

Miss Bessie Williams concluded her duties as bookkeeper for the season, with Smith's Exp. Co. last Saturday evening.

There will be a dance and social in Marshall's hall next Friday evening, Dec. 11. Long's orchestra will furnish the music.

Edwin Garsia of Chestnut Hill, representing some New York interests, is in charge of Misery Island. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Taylor of Huntington, L. I., are the caretakers and have several assistants. Changes are to be made so that the island and club will open in early spring for guests.

Mrs. Abbie Poole and Miss Edith Elliott entertained a party of friends and neighbors at their home on Haskell street last evening. Whist was played and dainty refreshments were served.

George Murray, one of the popular clerks at Varney's, has been laid up the past week with a sprained ankle.

Monday evening, Dec. 14, is the date of the next entertainment in the Lyceum committee course. A lecture on Watch Making, illustrated by stereopticon and motion pictures, by H. E. Duncan of the Waltham Watch Co., will be the feature.

The Coming Sportsmen's Show in Mechanic's Building to be Best Seen In New England.

The Sportsmen's Show, as it is popularly known, to be held in Mechanic's Building, Huntington avenue, Boston, from December 24 to January 5 inclusive, will undoubtedly be the best of its kind ever seen in New England. It is not intended to be, nor is it going to be a mere entertaining exhibition, but it is planned to be of vast educational value and a vital force in all movements for the conservation of the forests of the land and all that they contain. It will illustrate, as cannot be shown in any other way, not only the products of the woods and streams and deep seas, but how these creatures, which are of such tremendous importance to the happiness and health of humanity, are in many instances in danger of being exterminated; and also the plans now being and to be put in operation to save reckless, wasteful destruction.

The recent conservation conference held in Boston, attended by all the governors of the New England states, has given a tremendous impetus to the plans of the New England Forest, Fish and Game Association.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1908.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

Dryden, Swift and Pope form a great literary triumvirate who were much alike in their critical sagacity. They were not men to be loved. They contributed to the intellectual renown of their age, but they can hardly be said to have elevated the moral standard. Of the three, no doubt, the first place should be given to Alexander Pope, as critic, moralist and poet.

Pope was born in a literary atmosphere, in the times of Walton, Walker, Tillotson, Parnell, Prior, Gay, Johnson, Gray and Goldsmith. He could remember being carried when a child to see Dryden at Will's coffee-house, as the Nestor of the wits of his day sat in his arm-chair by the fire; and he may be said to have inherited in a sense Dryden's genius and place in English letters. The period of his life (1688—1744) was that which gave intellectual form and color to the age.

Pope and Dryden have often been compared, but a comparison between the two is difficult if not impossible. Pope has more nicety of phrase than Dryden; he is more finished and elegant; he labors more to bring every line and word to the severest test of perfection; but he has often less vigor and fire, he lacks the "long resounding march and energy divine." The question which is the greater poet is still a moot one, and depends less upon canons of literary excellence than upon individual judgment and taste.

It must be said that Pope was not a poet of the first order; but both as critic and poet he holds a high rank in English letters. After Dryden, he was an acknowledged master and dictator. The age of Queen Anne was one of literary art rather than originality or genius, and among the artists Pope was almost without a rival. He was not of the genus of poets that are born and not made, though from childhood he showed a talent for verse; he "lisped in numbers, and the numbers came." His productions are the result of painstaking labor and careful elaboration; he excelled in the perfection of style and polish. As Lowell says, "measured by any high standard of imagination, he will be found wanting; tried by any test of wit, he is unrivalled." He embodied the gay, artificial life of the age, the wit and satire of polite society, the commonsense, the hatred of sentiment and emotion, the refusal to go below the surface of things, which were characteristic of the times. The age was one favorable to verse-making, but not to poetry. Accordingly, we find that Pope's writings are cold and faultless in expression, with a glitter that is more of the iceberg than of the sunbeam. They are admirable in taste, but deficient in feeling. Among the great poets who preceded him, Chaucer represented actual life, Spenser imaginative life, Shakespeare ideal life, Milton the interior life; Pope as distinctly represented social and exterior, or artificial, life. But while Pope was the greatest, he was also the last, of the artificial school; already, in his day, people had begun to find something outside of Cheapside, and country and town were coming to more familiar terms; and in the next generation in Shenstone and Gray and Goldsmith and Cowper, the natural spirit began to assert itself

Nature.

Nature's fixed law is like the rail-road train
By which you may be carried or be slain,
Nor will regard our comfort or our pain.

Get on it and your journey will be rushed,
Get in its way aside you will be brushed,
Get under and you surely will be crushed.

Nature, impartial, has no least respect
For men or motives, ignorance or neglect—
A blessing or a ban as you elect.

Nature will not vicariously atone;
Grace or forgiveness are to her unknown—
Will punish for your sins, your own, your own.

Back we may reason from effect to cause.
Nature rewards obedience to her laws,
Carries our message or our burden draws,

Provided always we will go her way,
But will not swerve an inch nor make delay
However earnestly we plead or pray.

A faithful servant she, or cruel master,
Speeds o'er the wiry track than lightning faster;
She gives a helping hand or wreaks disaster.

Give her a proper steed on which to ride,
Remove all obstacle that would collide,
Direction also for her course provide,

She'll run your errands, here, there, anywhere,
By day or night, through earth or sea or air.
But have a care, good people, have a care;
To tamper or to trifle do not dare!

JOSEPH A. TORREY.

Nov. 1908.

which appeared full-grown in Wordsworth and Scott.

Of Pope's works, the best known are his Satires in which he closely followed his master, Horace; his Translation of the Iliad, which occupied him twelve years, which obtained the high commendation of Johnson and which is a work of great ingenuity and skill, whatever may be thought of its success; his Essay on Criticism; Essay on Man; and Rape of the Lock.

The first of these, one of his earliest works, is thought by some to be one of his greatest. Johnson gives it somewhat fulsome praise; "it exhibits every mode of excellence that can embellish or dignify didactic composition." Addison did much also to give it vogue. And it must be admitted that it is a remarkable production; but it has been praised above its merits. There is little in it that may not be found in Horace, Quintilian, and other writers; but for grace of expression, for sparkle and wit, of course it distances all rivals. The main contention is the perfectly just one, that critics should be bound by the rules of art in judging as well as poets in writing. And the poem may be considered as an Essay on the Art of Poetry, as well as of Criticism, the one being indeed inseparable from the other.

The Essay on Man is a much more labored performance. It is an attempt, like Butler's Analogy, to place religion on a rational basis, "to vindicate the ways of God to man." But Pope had not Butler's reasoning powers and was hardly equal to the task which he imposed upon himself; that the argument was not clearly worked out in his own mind is evident; in fact, he was given the subject by Lord Bolingbroke, a celebrated skeptic of the time, who also guided him no doubt in the elaboration of the work. The result is that the Essay is little more than a brilliant argument for Deism, and it is said that Pope was surprised and grieved when it was suggested to him that the poem was unfriendly to revealed religion. But the Essay is full of lines and passages of great merit, and often of much poetic force. It has furnished more familiar quotations, probably, than all of Paradise Lost. In estimating the poem rightly, we are to remember that its aim is not a high one, that it was intended only as a theistic argument, and that redemption at least did not come within its scope. Its view of nature is essentially artificial and unreal.

The Rape of the Lock, founded on a frolic of gallantry, the cutting off by a nobleman of a lady's lock of hair, has received praise as "the most airy, the most ingenious, and the most delightful of all his compositions;" as vers de societe it is perhaps unsurpassed, and it is a perfect mirror of the fashionable and frivolous life of the age. Its use of sylphs and gnomes in the machinery of the play is a novelty, and its general tone of banter and often ridicule of the follies of high life in the poet's time, show his powers of satire at their best. As a whole it is not a work to make a poet's reputation.

Of Pope as a man, we know but little; Johnson says, "he hardly drank tea without a stratagem;" and from his letters it appears that he was inordinately anxious for fame and not always straightforward in his attempts to obtain it. He was a good son, and often kind to those in distress; but he was peevish and irritable; in excuse it may be said that his life was one long disease, he was shrunken and deformed, and needed constant attendance, was the victim of almost perpetual headache and extremely sensitive to cold. Perhaps few literary men have worked under the burden of greater personal weakness and suffering.

Taxation Figures.

According to a statement issued from the office of the tax commissioner at the State House Saturday, the rate of taxation has been increased in 32 cities and 136 towns and remained unchanged in 44 towns.

The highest tax rate of the year is $25.60 on $1000 valuation, and was assessed in the town of Norwood, county of Norfolk; the lowest rate assessed was $3.72, in the town of Gosnold, Dukes county.

Rates from $4 to $9.80 were assessed in 12 towns; rates from $10 to $14.90 were assessed in 81 towns; rates from $15 to $19.80 were assessed in 23 cities and 161 towns; rates from $20 to $25 were assessed in 10 cities and 65 towns.

Manchester's rate this year was decreased and is $9.40, thus being one of the twelve towns having rates from $4 to $9.80.

Special Town Meeting Next Monday Evening.

A special Town meeting is called at Manchester for next Monday evening, Dec. 14, at 7.30 o'clock, to take action on the following articles in the warrant:

1. To choose a moderator.
2. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $2500 for the suppression of the gypsy and browntail moths in accordance with the requirements of Section 5, Chapter 381, Acts of 1905.
3. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $5400 to pay the assessment as made by the commissioners of Essex County for the construction of the bridge in the city of Gloucester as per Chapter 254, Acts of 1905, as amended by Chapter 279, Acts of 1906, R. L.
4. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of $3200 for the purpose of paying interest due March 1, 1909, on water bonds issued Sept. 1, 1908.
5. To see if the town will authorize the Treasurer under the direction of the Selectmen to hire such sums of money not exceeding $10,000 as may be needed to meet the current expenses of the town, giving a note or notes of the town, therefor, the same to be made payable within the next municipal year.

Mr. Kirkland Resigns.

Archie H. Kirkland, head of the gypsy moth commission, has sent his resignation to take effect immediately, to Gov. Guild, urging as his principal reason for resigning the fact of poor health due to an attack of typhoid fever over a year ago.

The resignation came as a surprise to Gov. Guild, but he accepted it in a communication in which Prof. Kirkland was commended for the successful work he has performed in suppressing the spread of the gypsy and brown-tail moths.

Special town meeting next Monday evening.

Selectman George Lockhart Allen is out of town for a few days.

Nobody is more interested in the weather this time of year than the iceman.

Members of the Manchester club are reminded that a lunch will be served at the club tomorrow night.

The little one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Elmer Butler, we regret to report, is quite ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. J. A. Torrey and sister Mrs. Parsons were in town Wednesday renewing acquaintances and calling on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mead are booked to sail from Boston on Dec. 14 on one of the White Star line steamers for the famous Mediterranean trip.

Austin B. Eldridge and family are moving to Dorchester this week. Mr. Eldridge is chauffeur for an attorney of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and moves from Manchester so as to be nearer his work.

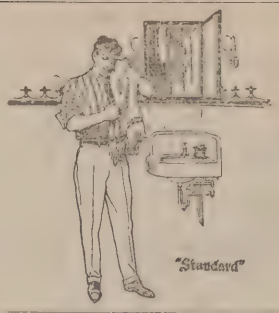

Albert Dodge, who passed away at his home in Gloucester Monday afternoon after a brief illness from pneumonia, at the age of 73 years, was the father of Chester P. Dodge, one of the clerks at Bullock's grocery.

It is reported that J. W. Cawthorne, who has been local agent of the American Express Co. for some years past, has resigned his position with a view to taking up another line of work. C. H. Russell of Salem is in charge of the local office at present.

The second annual dancing party under the auspices of the "vacationists," ---the young people who will soon be home from schools and colleges, will be given in the Town hall on Christmas night, Friday, Dec. 25. It will be an invitation party.

Misses Edith Northrup, Fannie Knight and Marion Scott of this town were members of the undergraduates of the Wheelock Kingdergarten Training school, acting as ushers at the grand opera given at Jordan hall, Boston, Monday and Tuesday evenings under the direction of the Wheelock Alumni.

On the sleep of Wednesday, Dec. 16, at 7.30 will occur the election of chiefs of Conomo Tribe, I. O. R. M., for the coming six moons, after which Benj. Huntoon of Beverly will give a long talk. Subject: "Personal Experiences Aboard a Sailing Vessel on a Trip Around the World." There will be a feast of corn and venison at the close.

Personal Attention Given to all Work. Estimates cheerfully given.

The Class of 1909, Manchester High school, are to have a private dancing party in the Town hall during vacation week,—on Wednesday evening, Dec. 30.

J. W. Cawthorne, jr., has been doing newsboy service on some of the long distance trains from Boston the past week and may take a permanent position with the G. W. Armstrong Co. He has been to Bellows Falls, Vt., and to Portland, Me., substituting.

Sewerage for Manchester will be discussed at the next meeting of the Manchester Woman's club,---Tuesday, Dec. 15. Mrs. W. L. Putnam, one of our best known summer residents, is to be the speaker. Her talk will be illustrated by lantern slides. Music was to have been a feature of the next meeting, but this will be given way to this most important subject of sewerage for the town, which will be one of the greatest moment to the citizens as a whole within a few years.

Another tug-of-war contest between the victorious K. of C. team of Manchester and the Yannigans of Beverly Farms is a possibility of the near future. Capt. Gaudreau says he is willing to meet the K. of C. team any time after Christmas and that he will match any purse they put up, to be taken by the winner, and names Neighbor's hall, Beverly Farms, as the place to hold the contest.

A former well known Manchester young man, Harry Roberts, was one of the successful candidates for councilmanic honors at Salem Tuesday. The Salem News observes that "Henry K. Roberts, Republican, better known as 'Zeus,' the famous Salem High school and Harvard football player of some years ago, goes into the Ward Five delegation in place of Councilman Dockman"

Former customers and patrons of Frank H. Dennis will be interested to know that Mr. Dennis has started in business again and will be around to take orders for groceries as usual. He will not open a store in the center of the town at present, but he will take orders and deliver goods. He may build a small store house and neighborhood store on his property on Lincoln street in the near future.

SAMUEL L. WHEATON, Postmaster.

Mrs. Mary Merrill of Manchester, N. H., and Mrs. Eunice Woodwell of Newburyport were guests of Mrs. Nancy A. Baker the first part of the week.

There was considerable excitement on School street near the Essex County Club, Sunday, when a horse belonging to and driven by Fred Sanford was frightened at an automobile and became uncontrolable. The animal then started for Essex at a high rate of speed. The wagon collided with a tree nearby, and was completely demolished. The horse continued on up Mill street and was finally captured on Forest street. Mr. Sanford was thrown but received only slight injuries.

Post 67 Election.

Although each year sees a thinning of the ranks of the Grand Army, there was a goodly attendance of the Allen Post, 67, G. A. R., Manchester, last Friday night, when the annual election of officers took place. The same board as served the past year, was re-elected as follows:

Enoch Crombie, commander; Gilman Goldsmith, senior vice com.; A. S. Jewett, junior vice com.; J. W. Widger, surgeon; John G. Haskell, quarter master; Henry T. Bringham, chaplain; Chas. H. Stone, officer of the day; Geo. A. Jones, officer of the guard; James H. Rivers, adjutant; Gilman Goldsmith, delegate; James H. Rivers, alternate.

Sportsmen's Show in Boston.

Experts with the rifle and pistol, and amateurs as well, will have excellent opportunities to make scores and secure valuable trophies during the time of the Sportsmen's Show at the Mechanics building, Boston, beginning the 24th instant and ending January 5, 1909. A long list of events for teams, clubs and individuals has been nearly completed, making a tournament which is certain to arouse widespread interest and the keenest competition. All New England is invited to participate and so far the response has been most encouraging to the committee in charge of this particular feature. The intention is to offer such an inviting program that novices, as well as experienced and most skillful shots, will enter the various contests with the result of a general uplifting of this phase of sportsmanship. In this, and many other respects the coming exhibition to be held under the auspices of the New England Forest, Fish and Game Association, is planned to be of great educational value.

Live moose, deer, fish and birds of various kinds are being received daily and a great tank is now being constructed for the aquatic events. Every indication points to the greatest and best sportsmen's show that New England has ever seen when the "show" of 1908 is fully installed in the vast Mechanic's building.

Mrs. A. C. Thornton is closing her cottage at Magnolia this week and after a week or two in Boston, at the Bellevue, she goes to Pine Tree Inn, Lakehurst, N. J., for the season there.

The R. C. Hooper residence at West Manchester is being closed and Miss Helen Hooper, daughter of the late R. C. Hooper, is leaving Monday or Tuesday for the Bermudas, to spend the winter.

The death of Henry W. Peabody the past week removes from Beverly a most prominent and public spirited citizen. His home, "Parramatta," was on Lake Shore avenue, near the Montserrat depot.

Whisperings

Gloucester went "No-License;" Salem went "License."

From our standpoint here in Manchester it's a jump from the frying pan into the fire. It costs only five cents more fare to go to Salem than to Gloucester, and the chances are that the "disgraceful scenes" on the late night trains from Gloucester to Manchester will be transferred after next May from Salem to Manchester.

There is one sad thing: Salem goes license, and Beverly will now expect to have the scenes of two years ago repeated, when several murders and numerous other crimes were committed as a result of Salem rum crossing the bridge into Beverly territory.---Beverly Column, Salem News.

"How about it, Mr. Mayor, is Salem going to be the cesspool of Essex county, now that this city has gone license and Lynn, Beverly and the other places around us have gone no?" was asked Mayor Hurley. "Not a bit of it," replied his honor. "I know a way to attend to that, and if any out-of-towners think they can come here and roughhouse the town, they will find themselves mightily mistaken."---Salem News.

Speaking of the increased number of no-license cities, Puck's joke at the expense of some of them is more or less apropos.

The stamp saving among the school children, started some weeks ago through the efforts of the Manchester Woman's club, has been quite successful. Already the children have saved $85.00.

The Phi Alpha Pi boys are planning to visit the Y. M. C. A. in Salem tonight.

Dr. Augustus S. Knight of New York was in town on a flying visit yesterday and lunched with his brother, Selectman E. S. Knight.

The stores in town are taking on their holiday dress. The Old Corner Store shows quite an array of Christmas goods. The store will be open evenings from now untill after Christmas.

Mrs. George A. Kitfield has been entertaining her friend, Mrs. Glover of Dorchester, the past week.

Dr. Blaisdell met with a mishap at Beverly Farms Wednesday. He was going up a hill in his auto when the rear axle broke. The car was going at a slow rate at the time and nobody was hurt.

Washington G. Tucker of Gloucester was a guest of his sister, Mrs. Robert Baker, Sunday.

Annual Business Meeting.

The annual business meeting of the Congregational church, Manchester, was held at the Chapel last evening. Frank P. Knight was chosen chairman and the following officers and committees were elected:

Albert Cunningham, clerk; George W. Jewett, treasurer; A. L. Saben, supt. S. S.; John Wiles, asst. supt. S. S.; Howard M. Stanley, secretary and treasurer S. S.; Miss Abbie F. Larcom, Miss Fannie S. Knight and Mrs. Eliza A. Rabardy, members of the standing committee; Mrs. Susan B. Knight, Mrs. Eliza E. Leach and Mrs. Anna A. Phillips, missionary committee; Mrs. Emily P. Jewett, Mrs. Hattie B. Kitfield, Miss Abbie F. Larcom, Mrs. Irene S. Peart and Mrs. Eliza A. Rabardy, deaconesses.

After eight years faithful service as superintendent of the junior S. S., Miss Eliza Goldsmith declined to serve another term. The church extended her a unanimous vote of thanks.

Very encouraging reports were submitted by the various church auxiliary societies and officers. The Ladies Social circle reported having 85 members and that the circle held a fund of $602.-17 for installing heating apparatus in the Chapel and that it had spent in various ways during the year $142.

The clerk reported that the total membership of the church was 207,---51 males, 129 females and 27 non-residents. Four had been admitted on confession of faith and three by letter. The pastor had baptised seven children during the year.

The Missionary Society of the church made a most encouraging report. They have more than met their appointment the past year. Besides sending $45 each to the Home and Foreign Mission offices, and $10 to other causes, the society has also sent two barrels away, one valued at $30 and the other at $50.

The matter of the annual roll call and church supper, to be held in January, was left in the hands of the standing committee.

Mrs. Geo. C. Needham Spoke at Manchester.

Mrs. Needham, wife of the well known evangelist, the late George C. Needham, was on from Philadelphia the past week, visiting her son, Alfred C. Needham and family, Manchester. Last Sunday evening Mrs. Needham preached the sermon at the Congregational church on invitation of the pastor, Rev. L. H. Ruge.

Mrs. Needham's remarks and her scriptural references were inspired in part by the recent catastrophe, which has shocked Manchester people. The scriptures, she said, pointed to a very soon and material coming of the kingdom and the glory of God, when we shall be eye witnesses of his majesty.

"The transfiguration," she said, "was spoken of only three times during the earthly life of our Lord Jesus Christ, and on those occasions it answered to the three offices which all believe Jesus Christ came to fulfil. He came as the beloved teacher, he came to die on the cross for our salvation, and when he ascended into heaven he went in our behalf.

"We have today knowledge of the Lord which covers the earth as the waters cover the sea. All shall know him from the least to the greatest and the wilderness and solitary places shall be made glad and the desert shall blossom as the rose.

"Under very sad circumstances you have buried two of your townspeople and the circumstances themselves have made it so sad. But, dear friends, because a body is blown to atoms, makes no difference to the soul. When the resurrection comes it is not atoms that will be necessary, but it is imperative that when we see Jesus we shall be like him. There is a spiritual body and a natural body. It is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; it is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption; it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body."

Congregational church, Dec. 13th, 10.45 a. m. The great Scotch lecturer will deliver his masterly address, entitled: "The Marriage of Isaac and Rebekah" which is perhaps the finest in his power, as he has said. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Do not fail to hear this wonderful imagery in the old Testament foretelling the new. The service in the evening as usual at 7 o'clock. L. H. Ruge, minister.

William S. Frost, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of Columbus, Tenn., says of Prof. Dundonald: "It gives us unqualified pleasure to indorse Professor Robert Dundonald, of Loch Lomond, Scotland, gifted Scotch Orator and Lecturer. We consider ourselves most fortunate in having him among us, and in listening to his beautiful portraits of Scottish life. But he is more than an entertainer. Attractive as is his entertainment, it is the medium through which he drives home with wonderful beauty and convincing force the great spiritual truths of the Bible; so humanizing the gospel, and linking the natural and supernatural that the hearer who does not get a new and clearer vision of the Divine must be dull indeed."

The First Baptist church, Manchester, Sunday, Dec. 13. The pastor, Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost, will preach in the morning on "Forgiveness;" in the evening on "The Scientific Fool." At the close of the evening service the ordinance of Baptism will be administered in the vestry.

The Philathea Class will meet with Miss Isabel Lee, Monday evening, Dec. 14, at 7.30. Topic, "Peter and John in the Temple". Lesson 5.

The Ladies' Social circle will meet next Wednesday evening, Dec. 16, with Mrs. George A. Kitfield, Ashland ave. As business of great importance is to be considered a large attendance is desired.

The sale and entertainment at the Town hall last week under the auspices of the Baptist Church Aid society netted some $170, which will go toward the parsonage debt.

The Baraca Junior organized at the home of E. S. Bradley on Pine street this week. The following officers were chosen to serve a year: Ralph Stearns, president; Raymond Purdy, vice pres.; Chester Andrews, secretary; Harry Haskell, treas.; Edward S. Bradley, teacher; Bernard Tyler, asst. teacher.

Rev. Theodore L. Frost, Clarence A. Preston, Robert M. Baker and Frazier Andrews attended the New England Baptist Conference at Boston Tuesday evening.

Social Circle's Entertainment and Sale

The Social Circle of the Congregational church held a sale and entertainment in the chapel Wednesday evening which proved a financial success.

Aprons and fancy articles were sold, as well as home made candies. What remained after the entertainment, was auctioned off by F. J. Merrill, who proved a very successful auctioneer.

As an entertainment feature Mrs. Frank G. Cheever sang "O Happy Day, O Day so Dear," by Gotze and for an encore she sang a coon song, 'My Cold Black Lady," by Jefferson. Some beautiful graphophone selections were given on Mrs. Wm. Hooper's instrument, under the direction of F. J. Merrill Mrs. G. A. Kitfield, president of the circle, was in charge of the affair, and she was ably assisted by a committee of ladies. A Chinese laundry booth conducted by Roland Knight, Frank Floyd and John Carter, dressed in Chinese costume, picked up a few spare dimes.

W. R. C. Social.

Mrs. Lou Stuart Wadsworth, president of the Massachusetts Department, W. R. C., paid a visit to Manchester Thursday evening on which occasion Allen Relief Corps held a social to which were invited the members of the Post and Associates and the S. of V.

The evening proved a very pleasant one for the large number that attended. Informal speechmaking was in order, the speakers being called upon by Mrs. J. S. Reed, the president.

Among those making remarks were Commander Crombie of the Post, Mrs. Crombie, John D. Morrison, representing the Camp, Mrs. Hannah Tappan, I. M. Marshall and E. F. Preston.

The entertainment feature of the evening consisted of solos by Mrs. F. G. Cheever, who sang "If I were a Violet," and as an encore she sang a coon song; and by Mrs. Jane Austin, who sang "The Maid of Argyle" and "Coming Thro' the Rye." Adjutant Rivers of the Post read "The Volunteer Organist," and Mrs. Seddie Follett read "His Point of View."

Mrs. Wadsworth's remarks were of a very interesting nature. She spoke of her work as president of the department and of the various duties she is called upon to perform and emphasized the necessity of support on the part of the different corps and the work of the members of the corps.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake, coffee and cocoa were served after the meeting closed.

MR. Torrey sends us his latest poem, written a few days before the appalling catastrophe which resulted in the death of two of our Manchester citizens. It meets the question, which arises in some minds, as to the benevolence of the Creator in the permission of evil and calamity in his world.

In an ordered universe there are no accidents. In the realm of Nature there is a cause for every effect. Every infraction of a law of Nature brings inevitably, unerringly, and necessarily its penalty. The mistakes we make are ours, the blame is ours,—not Nature's. By these mistakes we learn Nature's laws and methods.

In obedience to those laws is safety and prosperity. The millennium will arrive when Nature and human nature are fully reconciled, an event toward which mankind is moving.

CHRISTMAS only two weeks from today! Advice to Christmas shoppers would not be amiss. Do you believe in lightening the burdens of others? This you can do and at the same time make the task of buying Christmas presents less burdensome. Buy early. Don't wait until the last few days preceding before you do your Christmas shopping. This will make it easier for the clerks and for yourself. During the rush of the last week one cannot give the time or attention necessary to pick out suitable presents, and often the choicest of the stock is gone. At this time all of the stores have their holiday displays spread out, and everything is new and fresh. If Christmas shoppers would follow the rule of buying several weeks before the holiday, the overworked clerks would be deeply grateful, and the merchants, too, would have cause for rejoicing. It would be a cycle of blessings in which all concerned would reap the benefit. Isn't it worth trying?

Whisperings :: :: :: :: Of the Breezes

Everybody in Manchester has seen the donkey at the A. M. Merriam estate, West Manchester, for the animal has been a family pet for the past twenty years and it may be seen frolicing about almost daily as the train passes by the grounds on the way between Manchester and West Manchester. The donkey has extraordinary intelligence,—intelligence of the sort which suggests thought, despite the teachings of some philosophers that animals do not think, but that their acts are governed by instinct. The following clipping appeared recently in the "Listener" column of the Boston Transcript:

Rowdy is a burro brought from Colorado years ago. He fulfilled his mission in taking the children to ride on his back or in the cart and in helping them play wild Indian, etc. For some years now he has been a pensioner.

He is devoted to his mistress and whenever she gives him sugar and caresses him his eye is mild and his manner angelic, but let one of the horses come up to share the sugar and his manner at once changes to that of a very demon, his ears go back close to his neck, his eyes glare and he emits a bellow that has no relation to his melodious bray. He gives way, however, to the horse. His special chum is the cow; they stand side by side in the stable and play tag in the pasture and are good friends. The cow often licks his face with her rough tongue, but his tongue is too soft to effectively reciprocate the attention. He evidently gave the subject deep thought with the result that now he picks up a short stick between his teeth and with this by moving his head up and down scratches the cow all about the eyes, ears and horns. If at any time he is rude she gently admonishes him with her horns.

Rowdy seems to possess attributes man has claimed for himself only.

"A copy of the No-License paper, The People's Cause, has been mailed to every voter, and is a purely local product, having been edited entirely by local workers, and most of the matter has reference to local conditions; the paper presents a handsome and striking appearance. It is illustrated with cuts, and does credit to those responsible for it." —Gloucester Times.

Thanks, Brother Procter; the paper was printed at the Breeze office, in the little town of Manchester.

And, by the why, who printed that vituperative circular about Mayor Parsons, Monday,—the day before election. His Honor called us on the phone Monday afternoon and proceeded to rake us over the coals as we were never raked before, telling us about the law and what it could and would do with us for printing such things in the last minute, so he couldn't answer the "charges," etc., etc., etc., etc. We couldn't get a word in edge-ways to explain that we didn't print the circular. The wires were red hot, I tell you, and when our good friend, the mayor, was through up-braiding us, we patiently informed him we didn't print the circular about him at all.

That Thanksgiving Dinner, Again.

Editor North Shore Breeze:

That I had no thought of being accessory either before or after the fact, in passing a literary counterfeit, my esteemed friend J. A. T. and others will readily believe. But, really, the counterfeit is so skillfully executed, it would deceive if it were possible even the elect. It is a very clever "skit" indeed. And if the story will "bear a second reading," and its "delicious humor" is appreciated even "when its origin is known," perhaps the judgment of critics will be tempted with mercy. Anyway, it is comforting to know that "many others" have been deceived in "taking it for vevitable history." Thanks to J. A. T. for his courteous information.

OBITUARY.

John Baker.

The last sad rites over the remains of the late John Baker were held last Sunday afternoon at the Congregational church, the Rev. L. H. Ruge, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. T. L. Frost of the Baptist church.

The church was crowded by friends and relatives of the deceased, the Odd Fellows and the Horticultural society attending in a body. A quartet composed of Mrs. Raymond C. Allen, Mrs. F. C. Rand, F. J. Merrill and A. L. Saben sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide with Me." The prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Frost. Mr. Ruge's remarks were founded on a text taken from Job: "No man is sure of life."

"Nature has recalled these words with thundrous voice the past week," he said. "Men say 'this is an untimely end;' but was it untimely? It was sudden, but not untimely. The great chronometer of the universe never makes a mistake. There are sudden deaths in this high pressure age, but no untimely deaths. Every death is in perfect sequence in the wheel of life.

"Is this the end? As far as the eye and ear can measure it is the end, and as far as the mind of some measure this is the end, but I am sorry for the mind that can not measure beyond this. We go through many sorrows and much darkness before we come out into the sunlight of life. But we shall never see each other 'face to face' until we apply our hearts unto wisdom."

Following the services at the church the body was taken to Rosedale cemetery, where the Odd Fellows conducted their services.

The floral tributes were many and most beautiful. The pall-bearers were Frank P. Knight, Fred J. Merrill, D. T. Beaton, Raymond C. Allen, Horace Standley and S. A. Sinnicks, all members of Magnolia lodge, I. O. O. F.

Deglan A. Walsh.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Deglan A. Walsh were held last Saturday morning at his late residence on Pine street, followed by requiem high mass at the Sacred Heart church at 9.30. The church was well filled with relatives and friends of the deceased, the Holy Name society, the Foresters and the A. O. H. of Beverly attending in a body.

The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. William F. Powers, and was sung by Henry Sullivan of Natick. The ceremony was of a very impressive nature.

Fr. Powers, in his remarks, was very plainly affected. He spoke of the loss which the community had suffered and the gloom which was hovering over all, a gloom that it was hard to disperse because we think of those who are left behind to bear hardships of life without the strong arm of a father.

"We say to ourselves," he said, "why has God allowed this? Here was a man taken away in the very flower of manhood. God took him away just as he would take an old man. Old age is not to be computed by gray hairs, but by deeds. He was a man who loved his family, who worked hard for his family, and who worked every day and every hour for his family. He has completed his life well in the sight of God. Not one word has been said against him; not one shadow has been brought against his name. He lived as Almighty God would have him live."

Beside a widow and five sons and three daughters, Mr. Walsh is survived by a mother, Mrs. Katherine Walsh of Quincy, four brothers,—Edward Walsh of Quincy, who was in northern Vermont at the time of the accident, William Walsh of New York, Michael Walsh of Quincy, and John Walsh of Boston, and three sisters,—Mrs. Ovide Paquet of Milford, Mrs. Thomas Carey of Charlestown and Miss Katherine Walsh of Boston.

The body was taken to Salem for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

"Business Fools"

Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost preached the fourth of a series of Sunday evening sermons on "Fools" at the Baptist church, Manchester, last Sunday, his special subject for the evening being "Business Fools."

"In God's word," said Mr. Frost, "the business fool is a rich farmer, or, as we might call him, a gentleman farmer. He would tear down some of his barns and build larger ones, and prepare to store the tremendous harvest. All he seemed to care for was idleness and pleasure and mirth; a full stomach, light heart and still lighter head.

"He felt he was bigger in his own eyes than God. God spoke to him. 'Thou fool! This night thy soul is required of thee and who is to get all this that thou has stored up?'"

The preacher then pictured the modern business fool, first the rich man, second, the man who stays home Sundays and makes out bills, planning his work for the rest of the week, third, the man who would be religious but he loves money too well, and lastly the housewife who has a well stocked larder and likes to hear the rustle of silk skirts, etc., but who is too busy with these things to devote any time to God.

Beverly Savings Bank Teller in Trouble.

As we go to press this afternoon we learn of some difficulties at the Beverly Savings Bank. The teller, Albert S. Hoggs, is alleged to have taken $9300 from the bank and when he knew he was caught tried to commit suicide by taking arsenic at his rooms at The Highland, on Railroad avenue.

It is said that the inspectors have been at the bank for some days and they found several discrepancies in the books, though they had as yet made no charge against anyone. This morning it was found that Mr. Hoggs, the teller, had taken arsenic, though he is still living.

The directors of the banks made a statement this morning that the shortage would not effect the depositors in the least. The bond of the teller is good for $20,000, given by the American Surety Co.

Poll tax dodgers in Manchester may run into trouble if they do not attend to paying their tax soon. We understand that Town Treasurer Stanley has already issued some summonses and that he is about to issue more and if the bills are not paid promptly there will be more than one pulled into court. This is brought about largely through the work of the tax commissioner of the state. Deputy Tax Commissioner Patton paid a visit to Manchester Tuesday. One of the things he insists on is that all poll taxes be paid.

The second in the series of W. R. C. whist parties will be held in G. A. R. hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 16. Tickets two for 25 cents, for sale by committee and at the door.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson 6---The Blessed.

1. Consider thoughtfully Matthew 5:3 "Poor in spirit" means, probably, the simple and lowly folk. Compare Proverbs 16:19. Have such people always accepted Jesus as Master more readily than opposites?

Is the Kingdom of Heaven theirs?

Should men look up to them?

2. Consider next the third beatitude in Matthew 5:5. "Meek" means gentle and forebearing. Are meek people usually admired? Are they successful in business? Read in Matthew 5:38-42 the length to which meekness should go. Is this better than standing up for one's right? Which requires greater courage? Which brings peace? Matthew 11:28-32. Under what circumstances have you seen even proud spirited men and women meek when insulted? What is the secret of meekness? Is the prediction Jesus make as to their inheritance too optimistic?

3. Read Matthew 5:10-12. Are we in the habit of envying the persecuted? Are all persecuted people to be envied? In which class does Jesus have reference? Are business men persecuted for openly standing for principal? Give illustration. Are Christians persecuted in other ways? Is this to be regretted?

Next week we shall consider other blessed people.

Thomas E. Cudmore.

The many friends of Thomas E. Cudmore were shocked to learn of his death on Sunday, at the Gloucester Hospital, after a short illness from abscess on the brain, aged 19 years, 3 months, 20 days.

He was taken ill only a few days ago and was taken to the hospital where he was to undergo a surgical operation but he passed away before the specialist who was to perform the operation arrived.

He was the son of Thomas W. and Helen (Durant) Cudmore, and was born in Canton, Mass., removing to Magnolia when quite young. He was well known and well liked by all who knew him. About four years ago his parents removed to Gloucester where they now reside.

He was a graduate of St. Ann's parochial school. Besides his parents he leaves six brothers and three sisters to mourn his loss, to whom the community extend their sympathy in their bereavement.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from his home, rear 126 Washington street, Gloucester, followed by requiem high mass at St. Ann's church at 9 o'clock. Interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, Salem, Mass.

The voters of Ward 6 will meet in G. A. R. hall next Thursday evening, Dec. 17, to meet Mayor-elect Trowt and extend their congratulations. The meeting will be in the form of a reception, practically. Speech-making will be in order. All voters are cordially invited to attend.

The G. A. R. associates met last evening and held a business meeting. It was voted to start a pitch tournament on Thursday evening, Dec. 31. All members are requested to be present, and anyone who desires to become a member will be cordially received. Application may be made to any member of the post or associates.

Mayor-elect Trowt left Thursday evening for a short vacation and rest, to be spent principally with friends on Long Island, N. Y. He will return next Wednesday.

Mrs. Louis R. Gates and two children have spent the past week at the Farms visiting relatives. They returned to their home in Taunton yesterday.

Oliver Wendell Holmes council, K. of C., held their annual election of officers Wednesday evening.

Patrick O'Hearn and Nathan Hull, two well known and respected aged citizens have been on the sick list for some time past and were unable to get out to vote Tuesday.

William H. Blanchard has a number of men at work on the Brooks Adams estate cutting down trees and clearing up quite a piece of land.

Mrs. Robert Smith this week received the unwelcome news of the death of her father, at her former home in Manchester, England.

The Ladies' Sewing circle were guests of Mrs. Edwin Pride, at her home on Hale street, Thursday evening.

The Election in Ward 6.

The election in Ward 6, Tuesday, was certainly a warm one. The weather was ideal, after the rain of Monday, and every voter available was out. The vote was the largest ever cast here,—311 out of a total of 345. Many had a feeling that the Centerville district should be given a representation this year and as a result the candidate for alderman from that section was given a good vote, but not enough to win by 25 votes, while the candidate for the common council,---John W. Phillips, was elected.

The result of the election in this ward follows:

:: Beverly Farms ::

Henry J. Mitchell, who has spent the past eight or nine months at the Farms, left Tuesday for Providence, R. I., where he has a position for the winter.

On Tuesday evening the Girls' club of the Baptist church gave a pleasing entertainment, consisting of readings, music and tableaux. Refreshments were served. The affair was well attended.

F. P. Gaudreau, the Central square tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will keep his place of business open until 11 p. m. on December 24, to give all his customers an opportunity to get their work done, for his shop will be closed all day on Christmas, Dec. 25. *

John O'Brien was at the Farms on Tuesday renewing acquaintances after more than a year's absence, spent of late at Huntington, N. Y.

A good-sized delegation from John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, were guests of Francis Higginson colony at Salem, Wednesday evening, on the occasion of their anniversary.

A grand assortment of all the leading brands of cigars for Christmas in small quantities, 12 and 25 in a box, can be bought at the lowest prices at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, No. 9, West street, Beverly Farms. *

Benj. F. Hawkins and Arther R. Hawkins have sold their milk business to Guy C. Williams, the change taking place on Dec. 1. Mr. Williams has worked for the Hawkins brothers the past two summers, having charge of their Manchester route. Arthur Hawkins has not yet decided upon his future work, though he may go back into the printing business.

John Leahey and Homer Callahan, two of the Farms' popular young men, are at present located at Huntington, L. I., where they have secured good situations.

Varney's drug store was the center of attraction Tuesday night, the crowd gathering there to await the returns. When the good reports came in indicating that Mr. Trowt's chances were good the crowd felt pretty happy, and when the final count and his election were announced there was a grand old time in Central square, everybody joining in the celebration.

We are informed that something is to be done very soon toward completing the Farms playground, that it may be used by the children for the purpose for which it was bought. One plan has been made that seems to meet the approval of all who have seen it, the layout of which will give the young people about all the opportunity they wish for their various sports. It includes a baseball diamond, a six lap track, spaces for running races, etc. In order to carry out this plan a little more of the adjoining land will have to be secured. Besides a number of Farms citizens, and members of the Ward 6 city government, together with the Park Commissioners, there are also some summer residents who are interested and are willing to help to put this matter through which is certainly very much to be desired.

A sort of jollification meeting was planned to take place at the Farms this week over the election of Mr. Trowt, but the affair had to be deferred owing to there being no heat in Neighbor's hall, and Marshall's hall being engaged for every night until after Christmas, all of which emphasizes the need of a new and up-to-date assembly hall at the Farms where gatherings of this nature and other public meetings might be held.

An instructive and interesting lecture, no doubt, will be that on Watch Making, illustrated by the stereopticon and motion pictures, to be given at the Baptist church next Monday evening by H. E. Duncan of the Waltham Watch Co.

Daniel Gilmartin has the contract for the foundations for the new cottage house being built at Pride's for Joseph F. Fogg.

Mrs. Charles H. Trowt has come in for almost as many congratulations, since Tuesday's election, as has her husband. Her Farms friends and neighbors lost no time, as soon as the good news came, in performing this pleasant duty.

The members of Miss Connolly's gymnasium classes at the Farms are quite interested in the amusement which is to be provided for them at Christmas time, in addition to their regular routine, in the form of a sort of entertainment and tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Wilkins returned Thursday to their home in Rockland, Me., after spending the week with Farms friends.

James Powers and family moved into the Connolly house on Vine street this week. The place was formerly occupied by Mattis Hansen.

Miss Barbara Daniels is a student at the Conservatory of Music, Boston, going there twice a week.

For Christmas more than 60 patterns of meerschaum and gold mounted pipes at the very lowest prices at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, Beverly Farms. *

:: Beverly Farms ::

Miss Josie Mountain, of Gloucester, who has been a frequent visitor with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Publicover, left this week to spend the winter at her former home in Alberton, P. E. I.

Capt. Frank Gaudreau of the Yannigan tug-of-war team says he is ready to meet the K. of C. or any other Manchester team at any time after Christmas and to back up his statement he is willing to "plank down" as large a purse as any team accepting. He says the contest will be held in strict conformity with the rules of the sport and names Neighbor's hall, Beverly Farms, as the most convenient place for the match.

The whist party given in Marshall's hall last Friday evaning under the management of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, proved a very pleasant occasion. The prize winners were as follows: Mrs. Marshall T. Larcom, first lady's, mayonaise set; Mrs. Frank Gaudreau, second, Japanese hat pin stand; Mrs. Alex Carr, consolation, cup and saucer; W. C. Publicover, first gentleman's, beer stein; A. M. Marshall, second, fancy match and ash tray; Howard P. Willams, consolation, ornament.

The residents living along Hart street, near Greenwood avenue, are quite pleased over the newly established street light, which fills a need, as this spot in the past has been a particularly dark one.

The lovers of dancing should not forget the dance to be held this evening in Marshall's hall. The affair is in charge of two Farms' young men who intend to run other socials through the winter if they meet with the proper encouragement tonight.

The poultry show to be given at City hall next week, Dec. 15-18, will no doubt attract local poultry fanciers, a number of whom will have birds entered. C. Frank Trowt is one of the directors of the association.

Rev. Dennis J. Maguire of Canton, formerly assistant pastor of St. Margaret's church, was at the Farms Tuesday to vote.

John Cannon, following his usual custom at this time of year, left the Farms Tuesday for Jersey Heights, N. J., where he owns a house and where his family resides.

For the winter months F. P. Gaudreau tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will close his place of business at 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m. Saturdays at 11 p. m.

The young people are making inquiries about having their accustomed skating pond at the play grounds. As yet nothing has been done, apparently, in this direction.

Not Tied Down by Any Pledge Says Mayor-Elect.

"I am deeply appreciative of the honor the people have done me in electing me mayor of Beverly," said Mayor-elect Charles H. Trowt last Tuesday evening, in response to a request for a statement on the election.

"I have had some very good friends, friends from all walks of life and from every section of the city who have stood by me loyally through this contest, and I sincerely thank them.

"I will endeavor to live up to what I outlined in my platform. I am not tied down by any pledges, as I have said during the campaign and during the coming year I will try to administer the affairs of the office for the best interests of Beverly and for all the people."

SPLENDID VICTORY.

C. H. Trowt, Pride's Crossing Man, Beverly's New Mayor.

After one of the most closely contested contests since Beverly became a city Charles H. Trowt of Pride's Crossing was elected Mayor of the city last Tuesday. The largest vote in the history of the city was cast. There were five candidates in the field but nobody gave two of the candidates any show at all, so that in a way it was a three cornered fight. Mr. Trowt won out with 1394 of the total 3349 votes cast, leading Frederick A. Dodge, his closest contestant by 316 votes, and Mayor Dow by 734.

It was a grand victory. Mr. Trowt carried four of the six wards, winning over Mr. Dow in the latter's home ward 297 to 286, and in his own ward, at Beverly Farms, he had a most complimentary vote. Of the 311 votes cast he received 254, Mayor Dow 19 and Mr. Dodge 33.

The result of the vote for mayor follows:

Ward	1	2	3	4	5	6	Total
Dodge	191	148	212	293	201	33	1078
Dow	286	135	133	101	60	19	734
Glines	6	7	10	6	31	2	62
Norton	19	8	10	10	3	1	51
Trowt	297	262	229	233	119	254	1394
Blanks	12	4	5	7	0	2	30

For President of Council.

Councilman Augustus P. Loring, jr., was given a handsome endorsement at Tuesday's election. Not only did he win, but he received the largest vote given anyone in the ward, with the exception of Mr. Trowt's overwhelming vote of 254. Mr. Loring's vote was 232.

It is not at all improbable that Ward 6 will have further honor in this year's city government, for Mr. Loring is out for the presidency of the council.

The Farms playground may become more of a reality this year, too, for in a prior election statement Mr. Loring said that he would do some work on the playground proposition.

This is Mr. Loring's second term and we are not loathe to state at this early date that we hope to see this energetic young man---who, by the way, is a son of one of our best known summer residents,---seeking higher office ere many years, as our Beverly Farms representative,---perhaps alderman, next year.

The song recital given by Leverett B. Merrill, assisted by the pupils of the Farms' grammar school, at the school hall Wednesday evening was attended by an audience of Farms people that taxed the capacity of the hall---and the entertainment was certainly a pleasing one and fully appreciated. The recital was followed by a sale of articles,---the handiwork of the scholars.

Cold Cures

Doesn't make any difference where they are—whole house, off room, bath-room, or bedroom—we've the cure to fit the need, and a lot of very pleasure cures they are, too; pleasant to take, because they have no disagreeable taste as to price. And they look inviting, and I tell you looks goes a long ways.

We've a Full Base Heater

Stove that is made to almost drive you out. Flues so made that all the heat circles the base. Made with a solid cast iron plate running all the way up the front, and a regular oven on the top, that you can do baking in if you please. Heavy, very much so, which makes radiating surface to hold the heat, and plain quite to refinement with all the nickel lifting off, stove for a life time.

From $23.00.

Then we have the CYLINDERS, the sort of a stove that you likely know more or less about, the point about these that we want to call your attention to being the price.

We've a line of these, this fall, that commence at $4.50 and they have an ash pan, an anti-clinker door and a planished iron drum.

Then There Are the Wood Air Tights

These are the greatest stoves for the money, you ever saw. You can fill them up with wood and let them roar—can't harm them—they have double drums. Let them get red hot if you like—and my, if you don't get heat out of them! And for only $3.00.

Think of it!

Then There's the Oil Heaters

And here's the place to buy them this year above all years. Never were so fortunate before. Can sell you a full four-quart one, with a brass tank, and the patent Gregory smokeless burner, for only $3.25. Guarantee this is 25c better than can be done elsewhere.

A Beautiful Line of Fire Place Goods in Wrought Iron and Brass

There are Brass Andirons from $3.00 per pair to $24.00.
Brass Fire Sets from $8.00.
Brass Guards from $7.50.
Iron Andirons from $2.00 to $6.50.
Iron Fire Sets from $2.25.
Wood Baskets from 75¢ to $3.00.

We surely ought to be your heating stove providers this fall. Better prepared than ever.

SEWERAGE FOR MANCHESTER

Subject Discussed in Very Ably Prepared Paper by Mrs. Wm. L. Putnam, before Manchester Woman's Club, Tuesday.

BY MRS. W. L. PUTNAM.

Until a few years ago we had no sewerage problem in Manchester. Every house had to depend on its own water supply and consequently each householder could easily dispose of his sewage satisfactorily enough on his own premises. But the public water supply which we now have, and an exceptionally good one it is, has of itself thrust upon us the need of a sewerage system by enormously increasing our use of water and consequently our sewage.

The importance of the proper care of sewage has only been lately learned. In old times great cities like Houdon and Paris, were frequently devasted by some pestilence and even in ordinary times, the death rate was frightfully large. In 1844, a Commission on the Health of Towns made a report, which aroused England to vigorous action.

It was then indeed realized that filth was unhealthy, but it was not known why, nor was it appreciated how much more dangerous some kinds of filth are than others. Sewage is mostly made up of the waste and excrement of the bodies of human beings and other animals, therefore of all the impurities which the body is trying to get rid of, a large part is organic matter, which if not properly destroyed, will putrify and lead to foul smells and generally unhealthy conditions; but mixed with this organic matter is something much more dangerous—the germs of all sorts of diseases. We now know that typhoid fever, diphtheria and many of our worst diseases are caused by minute living creatures, which get inside of our bodies and flourish themselves while they poison us. And a very curious thing about this, is that without being ill ourselves we can carry about with us and discharge from our bodies the germs of disease, notably typhoid, from which others may sicken although we ourselves are well.

It is because these bad bacteria are terribly apt to be in filth that filth is dangerous, and when we know more about their habits we may hope to stamp out germ diseases.

Fortunately there are more harmless germs than harmful ones. It is a germ in the yeast that works and breeds and makes bread light and healthy. It is a germ, or rather millions of them, that turn apple juice into cider, and cider into vinegar, and one of the most efficient ways of killing off bad germs in sewage is to let the good ones eat them. This is called purifying sewage. Prof. Winslow, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in speaking of the importance of the proper disposal of sewage, says:

"In Berlin, when a pure water supply was introduced, the typhoid death rate dropped, but when a sewerage system followed some years later, another decrease in the death rate occurred almost as striking as the first."

There are various ways of dealing with sewage today. Some purify it much better than others, and some, alas! not at all. The commonest is by dilution—letting the waste flow into the nearest water, as has always been done here along the brook and the pond, but unless there is a great volume of this pure water, preferably still and cold, this is a dangerous practice, for the foul matter collects on the bottom and the sides, so that often after the practice is discontinued, dredging has to be resorted to in order to get rid of the foul smells and bad conditions. "In Massachusetts alone there are at least seven rivers so polluted as to become a public nuisance for a part of their course," (Winslow, page 6.) and this is what we are doing on a small scale. After our sewage leaves the pond our conditions are somewhat like those of Lynn, where the sewage is discharged over tidal flats, and as Prof. Sedgwick says, "a serious nuisance is created."

Discharging our sewage through the channel makes it settle on the flats, pollutes the shellfish and renders all bathing in the neighborhood of the outflow, whether the tide be on the flood or on the ebb—very objectionable. In saying this I have been quoting the greatest authority we have in such matters, Prof. Sedgwick.

The habit of disposing of sewage by dilution is being gradually supplanted by processes of purification, much more complete and rapid. They are, I. Chemical Precipitation. II. Sewage Farming---pouring the sewage on to land. III. Contact Beds. IV. Trickling Filters. V. Intermittent Sand Filtration.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

Held at Manchester Monday Evening. Money Appropriated for Moth Work.

The special town meeting called for Monday evening, in Manchester, called forth no undue excitement, though there was a flurry over the moth expenditures, what became of the money received for work done on private estates, etc., and the reason why Manchester should be called upon to pay so much of the expense on the new "Cut Bridge" at Gloucester.

Nobody could answer the latter question. Selectman George Lockhart Allen represented the selectmen at the hearing on the matter some weeks ago, and is, presumably, versed on the whys and wherefores, but he was not at the meeting Monday night and therefore could not answer the questions brought up on this point.

The meeting was called to order at 7.35 by Town Clerk Jewett, who read the warrant. Raymond C. Allen was elected moderator by a unanimous vote, on motion of W. C. Rust.

Art. 2. Moth appropriation. This was reported upon favorably by the Finance Committee

Chairman Knight of the selectmen read a letter from Supt. A. H. Kirkland of the moth commission, authorizing the town to spend $5000 for moth destruction before Nov. 30, 1909. He stated, further, that the moth appropriation had been overdrawn thus far, $55, and that the selectmen recommended that the town appropriate $2500 to carry on the work, this being a sufficient sum to carry on the work until the next town meeting in March.

A short discussion followed as to where the money went to that is assessed to private estates. The question was asked by W. C. Rust. E. S. Knight said that the receipts as assessed went directly into the town treasury.

Mr. Rust asked if the money could be drawn on for moth appropriation, or did it go into the general treasury.

Mr. Knight replied that the town had voted against using this money for moth work and that the money goes into the treasury for general expenses.

F. J. Merrill said that this assessment, as he understood, went into the treasury just as money assessed for concrete work on private property went into the treasury.

F. K. Swett said that the town should appropriate $5000 and above that the private owners could be assessed ½ of 1 per cent. of the valuation of the property.

He said the town must spend that amount before the state reimburses.

E. P. Stanley said that if the town spent $5000 to do this work and the assessors assessed private owners $300 that sum ($300) comes back to the treasurer, but does not go back to the moth fund.

F. K. Hooper: The town gets back no part of this $2500 we appropriate tonight.

The motion to appropriate $2500 was then put and carried.

Art. 3. To appropriate $5400 to pay Manchester's apportionment of the cost of the Cut bridge at Gloucester.

F. K. Hooper stated, on behalf of the Finance committee, that the committee felt that the assessment was more than the town should pay, but as the selectmen felt that the apportionment as asked for be paid they recommended it.

E. S. Knight read the warrant from the County Commissioners which gave the cost of the bridge as $72,000 and the expense to be paid by the county, Gloucester and three adjoining towns. E. P. Stanley moved $5400 be appropriated. Carried.

Art. 4. The Finance committee recommended the appropriation of $3200 for interest on water bonds. E. S. Knight explained that the financial year closes Feb. 1. He did not care so much for the appropriation being made as to being ready to pay the bill when it was due on March 1.

On motion of F. J. Merrill $3200 was appropriated to pay the interest on the water bonds when due.

Art. 5. E. S. Knight said this article was inserted because the town was called upon to pay out $11,000 not counted upon. He did not think it would be necessary to hire any more money, but he wanted authority intrusted in the treasurer to hire the money in case it was needed. On motion of E. P. Stanley the town treasurer was authorized to hire not exceeding $10,000 if it was found necessary.

A vote of thanks was extended the moderator for his services.

The meeting dissolved at 8.02. $11,100 had been appropriated.

THE SCIENTIFIC FOOL.

At the Baptist church, Manchester, last Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost, preached on "The Scientific Fool," the last in his series of evening sermons on "Fools." He took for his text Psalm 14:1—"The fool hath said in his heart: No God." He said in part:

"The type of character designated by 'Scientific Fool' is hard to find in the Scriptures. The reason for this is evident. The modern discoveries had not taken place and the modern spirit of scientific investigation was lacking. Indeed the modern spirit of investigation does not come until the Reformation, although its first traces are seen among those called in history the 'Humanists.'

"As a great deal of the new theology and new thought is practically the stale musty herisies which vexed the early church revamped, so we may look for traces of the scientific fool even in the Old Testament.

"There were men as seen from our text even in Bible times who denied in their hearts the existence of God's moral government. God might exist but they believed He had no part in the morals of men. To deny God's moral government is but a step towards denying His exisence, and in the time of Jeroboam the Second the processes of nature were practically defied and the worship of God was nearly extinct. To this nation of fools God sent His prophet Hosea."

Mr. Frost drew three pictures of this type of character: one of the scientist so enraptured over his scientific discoveries and the laws of nature that he does not see anything beyond the laws themselves; another of a man who is interested in what is new and who sees that there is a very complete system of law in the universe and thinks that law is practically the only God; and another picture of a man who accepts all that the scientists say and believes science is sure and religion uncertain, and who laughs at those who believe in God and religion.

Speaking of the fool's folly Mr. Frost said: "This fool denies the first cause, God. The nebular hypothesis of La Place is good, but who set the mass of nebulous matter spinning which caused the different solar systems? How do you account for the regularity and system in the universe? How do you explain the knowledge and intelligence we possess. Human intelligence is unaccountable apart from God.

"This fool also disbelieves the Bible and believes that science is certain. What is science? It is 'accumulated and established knowledge which has been systematized and formulated with reference to the discovery of general truths, or the operation of general laws.' Yet science is by no means certain. The astronomers do not know the distance of the sun from the earth within 250,000 miles. Life is just as far from analysis of the surgeon's knife today as it was from the crude observations of the ancients. Chemistry tells us that mental activity is connected with the production of phosphorus in the brain. But why does phosphorus in one man's brain produce good thoughts and in another man's brain produce evil thoughts? You cannot forecast the weather more than three times out of four.

"Turn to religion. Is not religion as accurate as science and even more so. It begins in God. It continues in God and it ends in God."

The preacher in speaking of the fool's end told the parable of the pins who reasoned in meta physics and even came to disbelieve in an inventor. "But the inventor smiled and dealt with each generation of pins as he saw fit. Men may be so pin-headed, so dull in their perceptions, that they may deny God, but God will deal with men in their folly. Their end is terrible, for it is written: 'But for the fearful, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and fornicators and idolators, and all liars, their part shall be in the lake that burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death.'

"Not satisfied with the revelation of Himself in nature, God has revealed Himself to man in His Holy Scriptures. Yes He has even done still more: He has revealed Himself in His Son Jesus Christ who can speak to us with a human voice, and died for us on the Cross. The voice of Jesus bids you follow in the paths of purity, peace and power. Play not the fool and turn from Him who seeks to save you!"

Miss Helen Hooper sailed from New York Wednesday to spend the winter in the Bermudas. Her residence at West Manchester has been closed.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dexter have been on a short trip to the South the past week.

Mrs. Russell Sturgis and family are planning to come to Manchester next Tuesday to remain over the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Sturgis is stopping at the Hamilton, 260 Claradon st., Boston. this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis H. Luke have closed their residence at Beverly Farms and have gone to Nassau, N. P., for the winter. Mrs. Luke and daughter Annarette sailed a week ago today and Mr. Luke and other daughter Pauline are sailing from New York today.

Judge William H. Moore of the Pride's Crossing summer colony, who headed the list of winning owners at the Chicago horse show last week, has one of the finest stables of heavy harness horses in America. After completely ignoring the opportunity offered him to exhibit his champions at the national show in New York, it is a noteworthy fact that Mr. Moore shipped six carloads of horses, wagons and appointments 1000 miles to exhibit them in Chicago at the old Dexter park trotting track, now the Union stock yards. With forty-eight horses and ponies he carried off the lion's share of ribbons, winning 23 blues and the championship prize. When compared with the winnings of exhibitors in other shows this is a remarkable record.

Van der Hoven—Smoot.

At "Undercliff," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Head, at Manchester, Tuesday noon, an informal home wedding took place, when Mr. Head's neice, Miss Margaret Smoot, of Boston, was wedded to Jan Van der Hoven of Rotterdam, Holland.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, and was attended by about fifty relatives and close friends. The ceremony took place at 12.30, the officiating clergyman being Rev. W. B. Geoghehan of New Bedford, stepfather of the bride.

The large drawing room in which the ceremony took place was decorated with Christmas greens, laurel and cut flowers, Killarney roses being used. The wedding party stood in front of a bank of palms.

Miss Sadie Smoot, a sister, was the bride's only attendant. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Head. The Unitarian service was used.

The bride wore a white satin gown cut empire style, trimmed with a lace yoke and lace in the sleeves, and she wore a long veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The wedding march and music for the reception was furnished by an orchestra.

After a wedding breakfast the couple left for Boston by automobile and from there they went to Woodstock, Vt., to spend their honeymoon. They will sail for Holland about Jan. 1 and will take up their residence at Rotterdam.

Hollis Street Theatre.

It was to be expected that Charles Klein's new play The Third Degree would meet with more or less favor on the occasion of its first metropolitan presentation at the Hollis Street Theatre in Boston, but that it should have proved such an enormous success that other attractions should be cancelled in its favor was more than even the most sanguine manager could hope for. This however has been the case and instead of remaining but two weeks at the Hollis Street as was the original plan, the time has been extended to five weeks in all, the engagement to end on January 2nd when the piece will leave Boston to fulfill its contracts in several other cities before the beginning of its run in New York city.

Some minor improvements are being made at the J. Warren Merrill homestead, Smith's Point. Chester L. Crafts is doing the work.

Real Estate And Improvements

Confirming our announcement of some weeks ago that the Oceanside hotel property at Magnolia had changed hands again, the transfer was placed on record last week. According to the transfer records the title to the property is now in the name of J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling of Boston.

This property was purchased from Mr. Upton, by the late Charles H. Bond, a year ago. Mr. Phenix was in charge of the hotel last season and is instrumental in organizing the syndicate which has taken the property over from the Bond estate.

Included in the sale were eight up-to-date cottages, which, with the hotel, occupy about 400,000 sq. ft. of land. The price paid is said to have been $500,000.

The Hesperus Hotel at Magnolia has not yet been leased for next season.

No move has yet been made toward the erection of a new hotel at Magnolia to take the place of the New Magnolia, destroyed by fire a year ago.

We are informed that the project to build an attractive group of stores at Magnolia to be ready for use by next season has been given up for this year, at least. It was planned to build the stores around a hollow square on the land on the easterly end of the Hesperus Hotel, formerly used as tennis courts. The promoter of the plan was at Magnolia Tuesday and "called off" the deal.

SEWERAGE FOR MANCHESTER

1. As to Chemical Precipitation. This method, which is still in use in London, consists in precipitating the solid matter in the sewage by the use of different chemicals, but the expense is great and the results not satisfactory, as the sludge (the precipitated solids) has to be disposed of afterwards, and the sewage is not thoroughly purified, therefore I will not dwell on it.

The four other methods depend for their efficiency on using the good germs to eat up the bad ones.

II. Sewage Farming has been and still is very extensively carried on in Europe and works very well. We know what a wonderfully purifying effect earth has. We have all seen fields heavily manured in the autumn and found all of it practically absorbed in the spring. This principle has been made use of by the world for hundreds of years, but it is only comparatively recently that we have known that the reason the earth is such a great purifier is because all the little spaces between the particles of soil are filled with hungry bacteria, which eagerly eat up any food given them, and happily for us these bad germs serve as their food. Berlin has the largest sewage farms in the world, but the process is a slow one and the amount of land required to purify the sewage is very large. In some communities, like our dry West, this system may be very desirable; here in the East the saving of the value of the organic materials in the waste by using them in this way as manure, seems to be more than offset by the expense of the method. (S. R. L., page 29.)

The remaining three methods are attempts to improve on the old sewage farming and to adapt the principle to thickly settled communities, giving the good bacteria a better chance to get at the sewage, and making a small amount of land able to do not only the same work but to do it better.

Although many experiments were made in Europe the true nature of sewage purification as a bacterial oxidation was really proved by the work of the Massachusetts State Board of Health—work which has become classic—at its Experiment Station in Lawrence, established in 1887.

A very interesting discovery about the sewage devouring organisms is that there is another class of virtuous bacteria which live in water, they are called anærobic bacteria, and those that live in dry earth are called ærobic. By letting sewage stand for a time in a tight cesspool, or septic tank, as it is called, before it is otherwise treated, these anærobic bacteria are given a chance to do their work, and many experimenters have thought that sewage which has stood in this way can be more quickly purified and on a smaller area than sewage treated only by means of the ærobic bacteria. It is certain, however, that it should not stand too long. The anærobic bacteria, however, never do more than a part of the work of purification and therefore, sewage can never be properly purified in wet soil. The tight cesspool, or septic tank, can be used with any of the three methods left to consider.

III. Contact Beds are water tight compartments, where the sewage can be held and kept in contact with the bacteria long enough to allow them time to eat this objectionable matter. The beds are made of small pieces of coke, stone, brick, slate, clinker, or of any hard substance, and the particles vary in size from $\frac{1}{4}$ of an inch to several inches—the important thing being to allow surfaces on which the bacteria can collect and cracks through which the sewage can pass, the bacteria gobbling it up as it goes by.

They have been tried with and without the septic tank and in what is called singe and double contact, which means putting the sewage through only one bed or through a second one after the first. Many experiments have been made with them and the best treatment would seem to be to keep the sewage a short time either in a septic tank, or merely to allow it to settle and form a sediment; and then subject it to double contact—the second bed being of smaller material than the first. They must be used intermittently to allow the bacteria time to muster their forces for their next meal. In England and our own West they will doubtless be of much use, because sand is there scarce and therefore expensive, but though they partly purify the sewage very quickly, it is not done so completely as by sand filters of the glacial drift sand, which we have so abundantly here in New England.

IV. The Trickling Filter is a system of disposing of sewage over beds of somewhat the same material as the Contact Beds, either continuously or at very frequent intervals without allowing it to stand on the beds, and seems to be dedecidedly better than the contact bed, as it is more rapid and purifies the sewage better. It also can be used with or without the septic tank. As yet tried it does not work as well, however, as the remaining method we have to consider.

V. This system of Intermittent Sand Filtration seems to be the most satisfactory yet discovered where the soil is suitable---sand of not too fine quality---with or without the septic tank. The recent investigations made by the Institute of Technology point to the fact that with this system the sewage is better purified without the use of a septic tank, but that the care of the surface of the beds is greater, yet with regard to its desirability the Report of the Experiment Station says that "with a small plant, receiving very fresh sewage from a small town or institution, it is of great use in breaking up masses of fecal matter."

At Lawrence they tried tanks filled with all kinds of soil and found that whereas the heavy soil, (loam, clay or peat) clogged badly, the "beds of sands worked to admiration, yielding a clear, bright spring water below," (Winslow, page 7) and those same tanks have operated from the dates of their installation to the present time---17 years. The results of these experiments have been that first Framingham, then Stockbridge, Worcester, Brockton, and many other towns have followed with sand filter beds, until now 23 plants are in operation in the state. The report of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts on the work, says (S. R. L., page 39) "The ready availability of sand and gravel areas, naturally adapted for the purification of sewage, the simplicity of the process, and the small cost of maintenance, have made this method of purification the most advantageous for adoption in practically all the cases in which sewage-purification works have been found necessary, and the resulting effluents turned into the stream have been satisfactory in all cases where the works are of sufficient capacity and have received proper care." The beds as a rule are one acre in area, and where the soil is suitable they are very simple to make. It is only necessary to remove the soil and sub-soil, which can be used for making the divisions between the beds, to dig up the sand at intervals in order to lay the under-drains to carry off the effluent (the purified water) to level the surface of the beds again and to put on them some simple distributer like branched wooden carriers or troughs of sizes so varied as to secure approximately uniform distribution. This latter is of much importance, as too much sewage in any one place produces poor results. It seems from the investigations of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that sewage could be applied to sand filter beds in four daily doses, greatly increasing the efficiency of the beds over what had been previously been thought possible. These experiments have gone to prove that beds work best if dosed sufficiently often, but not with too great frequency for, as we have already seen, their efficiency being due to bacteria, good bacteria, the beds must have rest to allow the germs to accumulate, but not too much, or some will die of starvation. No other method so far as I can find out, purifies the sewage so completely as this of Intermittent Sand Filtration, nor do I believe that for us could any other system be so cheap.

There would have to be in any method of purification an enclosed basin to collect the sewage in some central place; from there it would be pumped to the clearing at the entrance to the Chebacco woods and poured on to the filter beds. These beds could be covered with soil, or not, as in the Waring system and if properly taken care of there is no reason why there should be any annoyance from them. Many of us dispose of our own sewage in this way and find it most satisfactory. But the important thing is to have some well planned system. As Prof. Winslow says: "When your community reaches the point when sewage disposal should be attempted, have your local situation studied and your plant carefully designed and place it under conscientious and intelligent supervision. A sewage disposal project so carried out will prove one of the soundest investments any community can make, for its dividend will be paid by the saving of human lives." Do not let us wait until a serious epidemic comes; let us prevent its coming.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Dec. 11, 1908.

Commander and Comrades of Allen Post, No. 67, G. A. R.

Your committee appointed to draft Resolutions on the death of our late Associate, John Baker, respectfully present the following report.

WHEREAS, we have been called to mourn the loss of our most highly esteemed and valued Associate, and with the desire to place on record our appreciation of his many excellent qualities as a man, and also as a public spirited patriotic citizen, the following resolutions are hereby submitted.

RESOLVED, that the members of Allen Post, No. 67, G. A. R., realize how inadequate language is to convey the intensity of grief which swept through this community when the news was rapidly spread that our dear friend and associate, Mr. John Baker, had been suddenly snatched from our midst.

In the full vigor of manhood, enjoying that exuberance of health to which so many are strangers, he reflected in his daily life and conduct, the beneficent influence of a manly life. As a citizen he was always ready to do his part, never declining laborious service to advance the best interests of his native town.

Faithful in every duty, he never faltered.

Active, vigilant and energetic, he was an inspiring force to the timid and doubting.

His work is finished, but his influence remains.

RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions be spread on our records and a copy of the same be sent to the widow and family of our late associate.

ALFRED S. JEWETT,
EDWIN P. STANLEY,
HENRY T. BINGHAM,
Committee on Resolutions.

SUNDAY will be the shortest day of the year,—9 hours, 4 minutes. After a few days the length of the day will increase about a minute daily for a month, when the increase will be more perceptible.

THE next issue of the Breeze will appear on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 24, owing to the fact that our regular publication day comes on Christmas Day.

Will advertisers and those who are accustomed to send notices to the paper for publication please take notice. All items must be in one day early. Absolutely nothing can be used after Thursday noon.

The new 2-cent postage stamps with the Washington head in profile from the Houdon bust, in shape and size like the series of 1902, made their appearance Monday. The head is in an elipse, which stands end-down, with laurel leaves at either side. Above the head is "U. S. Postage" and below is the denomination.

When the present supply of the $2 and $5 stamps is exhausted these denominations will be discontinued. The stamps of the new series are 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 13, 15, 50 cents and $1. The 1-cent stamp bears the head of Benjamin Franklin.

WE call the attention of our readers, especially our Manchester readers, to the paper in this week's issue on Sewerage for Manchester. The paper, read by Mrs. W. L. Putnam of our summer colony, before the Manchester Woman's club, deals with the question in a most practical manner. This question of sewerage is staring Manchester in the face and sooner or later the problem will have to be solved. The board of health calls attention to it every year in their report. Our citizens should wake up to the necessity of acting on this matter before it is too late. A committee ought to be appointed at our next annual Town meeting to look into the matter. It takes time to solve a problem as large in its scope as this. We should make a beginning this coming year.

Gloucester Times Changes Hands.

A change is soon to take place in the management of the Gloucester Daily Times, by which Fred E. Smith and James H. Higgins of the Newburyport News take an active interest in the business which has been conducted for so many years by Proctor Bros. While the Procter Bros. will retain their interest in the paper, it will be part interest only. The newly formed corporation will be known as Gloucester Times Company. Other details of the corporation follows:

"Gloucester Times Company, Certificate filed December 4, 1908. Capital stock, $50,000, 500 shares at $100 each. Directors, Francis Procter, president, George H. Procter, vice president, James H. Higgins of Newburyport, treasurer and general manager, Fred E. Smith of Newburyport managing editor, George H. Procter, associate editor, William A. Procter, clerk. Purpose: newspaper proprietors, general publishers, printing business, etc."

No Successor to Kirkland.

Gov. Guild has decided to appoint no successor to Mr. Kirkland in the superintendency of the work for suppressing the gypsy and brown-tail moths. The governor is of the belief aterf thorough and careful investigation, that though this department has been managed with every regard for economy and efficiency, a still further saving could be made by the consolidation of the department with that of the state forester, under the direction of the latter. It unfortunately happens that the present state forester is also an entomologist.

At the Manchester Postoffice.

Tuesday of last week marked the closing of the period of 105 days during which mail records were kept in every postoffice in the country, in order that the department may be posted upon conditions in order to adequately provide to meet all emergencies and facilitate the work of the department and make the service as good as possible.

The work of keeping the record commenced Aug. 26, and Postmaster Wheaton kept the records at the local postoffice with his customary accuracy. During that time 25,977 pounds, or a few pounds less than 13 tons, were received, and 15,746 pounds, or a little less than 8 tons were despatched from this office. It will be noticed that much more comes into the office than goes out, and it is only what goes out that is credited to the office.

The following table will show the amount of matter received and the amount sent out each week for the 15 weeks. Note how the figures fall off as the summer season closed, up the present:

Joseph J. Gorman, who recently moved to Salem, has gone into business there for himself. He has established a cut flower and plant supply store on Essex St. near Whelton's market. Mr. Gorman will also take contracts for decorations, in which line he has already displayed an excellent taste and exceptionally good talent.

Levi A. Dunn is advertising his Salem, Beverly and Manchester Express business for sale, giving as the reason poor health. For 24 years, nearly a quarter of a century, Mr. Dunn has run an express business between Manchester and Salem, and in that time he has come to know a great many people. The announcement that he is trying to sell his business will therefore be read with great interest. Mr. Dunn's health has not been of the best for years. In the 24 years he has traveled between Manchester and Salem Mr. Dunn has carried millions of dollars to the Banks at Beverly and Salem for patrons along this section. The sum is conservatively estimated at from 12 to 15 millions. He has also travelled in that period more than 150,000 miles,—which represents the distance of about 7 times around the globe.

High School Students in Drama.

At the Manchester High school this morning, under the auspices of the Literary Society, a very interesting program was carried out, a feature of which was the presentation of Act II from Jeanne d'Arc. The young people taking part were in costume. Following is the program:

These One-clasp Cape Outseam Gloves are the Best Gloves $1.00 Will Buy Anywhere

Gloves are one of the most favored of Christmas Gifts, and $1.00 is a popular price. Our Cape Gloves are made from soft, firm, pliable leather and we unhesitatingly say that these are the strongest and best-wearing Gloves made. They are warm and heavy, yet neat and stylish; outseam finish; the correct shades of tan. We have styles and sizes for men, women, boys and girls---$1.00 a pair. Wouldn't a pair make a splendid, practical gift for somebody whom you must remember this Christmas? They come packed in a very attractive, holly-covered Christmas box---an ideal present.

In ordering, be sure to state whether the Gloves are for a man, woman, boy or girl, and give sizes; also say whether you want a light or dark tan. In case you do not know the size, send measurement of the right hand around the knuckles of the fingers.

N. B.—We sell Glove certificates for any price you wish to pay.

Manchester Winners at the Poultry Show

Manchester poultry fanciers have been very much in evidence at the Essex County Poultry Association's 13th annual exhibition in Beverly City hall the past four days. Walter R. Bell, secretary of the association, has done very creditable work in his office and has been kept on the hustle all the week. The show has been one of the most successful yet held. E. J. Semons had one of the finest collection of birds ever shown hereabouts. The Manchester winners were as follows:

Silver laced Wyandottes. E. J. Semons, 1st and 2d pen, 1st and 2d hen, 2d and 3d pullet, 1st and 3d cock, shape special and color special on 1st cock, also Association Silver cup for largest entry in this class, and North Shore Breeze cup for largest exhibitor from Manchester, Beverly Farms or Magnolia.

White Wyandottes. Henry Menken, 5th pen, and Walter R. Bell, 2d hen.

Salmon Faverolle. D. A. McKinnon, 1st and 2d pullet.

Buff Cochin Bantams. F. F. Brasch, 1st hen and 2d pullet.

Single Comb White Leghorns. Geo. H. Hobbs, 1st cockerel; A. B. Dunn, 2d and 3d cockerel and shape special on 2d, also 1st pen; C. E. Bell, 1st hen and shape special on hen, 1st cock, shape and color special; Wm. F. Roberts, 1st pullet.

Rose Comb White Leghorn. Fred Sanford 1st pen.

Light Brahma. C. T. Loomis, 3d pullet and 4th cockerel.

White Plymouth Rocks. Austin C. Jones, 1st pullet, 2d cockerel, 3d cock, 3d pen, and shape special on 2d cockerel, 5th pullet.

Manchester Woman's Club.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon. The address of the afternoon was by Mrs. W. L. Putnam, whose subject was "Sewerage for Manchester." Her paper will be found on pages 3 and 10 of this issue.

Prior to the address Fred K. Swett sang two solos: "The Rosary," by Nevins, and "Ah, Let Me Dream," by Taylor. Mrs. Alfred Hooper played the accompaniment. After the address some stereopticon views were cast on the screen showing some of the forms of germs and bacteria, and also some of the sewerage plants in use in Brockton and other places.

The hostess of the afternoon was Mrs. Ellery H. Rogers. The next meeting of the club will be on Jan. 5. "Art" will be the subject, and Miss Martha A. S. Shannon will speak on "How to Tell a Good Picture."

Manchester

Assessor Fred K. Swett and Mrs. Swett are planning to spend a few weeks in Florida this winter, probably in January.

By a peculiar chain of circumstances last week we announced the death of the father of Chester Dodge, one of the clerks at Bullock's grocery. The paper from which we copied the item reported that the deceased Mr. Dodge left a son, Chester, living at Manchester. We naturally supposed it to be the Chester Dodge above referred to. As a matter of fact the item should have read "Winchester" instead of "Manchester."

Dr. Charles T. Hoit, the only clergyman in the incoming Massachusetts legislature, was ordained a minister in 1881 at Manchester.

The Rebekahs are preparing for a gala time this evening, when they expect the grand officers down for an official visit. A turkey supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Two or three candidates will be initiated at the meeting afterward.

Harry J. Gay, who has been housed for several weeks with rheumatism, got out yesterday for the first time and had the misfortune to slip on the ice and hurt himself quite badly.

The stores about town are in gala holiday dress for the Christmas season. The most striking of the window decorations is at Cheever's where two large Xmas bells, with electric lights in center, light up the two windows. One of the windows is filled with stationery, etc., attractively arranged, and with red and green as the color scheme, while the other is filled with cigars, pipes, etc., and green and white are the predominating colors. Allen's drug store, too, presents a decidedly pretty appearance, and colored streamers grace the store from one end to the other, while numerous articles, suitable for holiday gifts, are effectively displayed. The Old Corner store is filled with articles suitable for Xmas gifts, too numerous to mention, and Floyd's, as ususal, is packed full of the holiday goods, both the main store and the branch opened in the handicraft shop next to the church.

Invitations have been sent out the past week for two private dancing parties within the next two weeks,—during the holiday season, one by the "vacationists" on Christmas evening, Dec. 25, and the other on Thursday evening, Dec. 30, by the senior class at the High school. The school authorities have granted a special permission for the latter. Mrs. Geo. W. Blaisdell, Mrs. L. W. Floyd, Mrs. F. J. Merrill and Mrs. J. A. Lodge will serve as matrons for the party.

Otis W. Stanley, who has been in Brockton employed at his trade as carpenter, has left there and is now at Worcester at work for Norcross Bros., the well known contractors.

A suitable Xmas gift:—100 calling cards printed in attractive old English type, for ladies, misses or gentlemen. 100 for 50c at the Breeze office. *

Conomo tribe of Red Men elected the following officers at the meeting Wednesday evening: Fred C. Dougherty, prophet; Henry A. Moulton, sachem; Harry S. Tappan, senior sagamore; John D. Morrison, junior sagamore; Leonard Andrews, keeper of wampum; Geo. Gould, collector; E. T. Preston, chief of records; W. R. Bell, trustee, 3 years. The officers will be raised to their respective stumps on the third Wednesday in January.

Standard Diaries and Old Farmer Almanacs for 1909 now ready at Floyd's. *

Frank W. Fleming was home from Chelsea over Sunday. Mr. Fleming has a position as cost analysis engineer with the Frank B. Gilbreth Construction Co., of New York, which is putting up a group of six buildings for the Atwood-McManus Box Co., burnt out by the recent fire in Chelsea.

Private writing paper and envelopes, suitable for Christmas gifts, at the Breeze office. *

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Mead are to sail on their Mediterranean trip about the middle of January, instead of December as we unintentionally stated last week.

Suitable Xmas or New Year's gift: the Breeze sent to some distant or nearby friend for one year, $1.00. *

K. of C. Election.

Masconomo council, 1232, Knights of Columbus, of Manchester, have chosen officers for the ensuing year as follows:

Dr. William J. Dougherty, grand knight; Lawrence Watson, deputy grand knight; John Reilly, chancellor; J. J. Connors, warden; Austin Morley, treasurer; Patrick Mulvey, financial secretary; Fred C. Dougherty, recording secretary; James Washbrook, inside guard; Daniel Meaney, outside guard; Edward Flynn, lecturer; James McElhaney, trustee three years.

The installation of officers will take place on the second Monday evening of January, probably.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson VII. More Blessed Folk.

1. Consider the meaning of Matt. 5: 4. Read Luke 6: 20-26. Is mourning a joyous experience or grievous? How does it become blessed? When and how will comfort come?

2. Matt. 5: 6. How do men become good? Is it by trying hard? Does the wise mother keep urging her child to "be good?" Prof. James says that we learn to skate in summer and to swim in winter. May we become good while we sleep? Compare the larger promise in Matt. 7: 7-11.

3. Matt. 5: 8. How much is meant by "pure in heart?" Does sin blind the spiritual vision? Compare Matt. 23: 24-26. Is God concealed or are men's eyes holden? When will the pure in heart see him?

There are still other blessed people and we shall study of them next week.

Mrs. C. C. G. Thornton has organized a sewing Club for the young people of the village to be called "The Junior." The committee consists of the president, Miss Frances L. Libby, and secretary, Miss Edna Symonds. Miss Amy Lycett will teach embroidery, and other fancy work will be under the instruction of Mrs. Harvey of Gloucester. Each member of the club was presented by Mrs. Thornton with a work basket supplied with all necessary articles. A sale of all articles made will be held at Mrs. Thornton's residence next spring.

Mrs. A. M. Lycett spent Monday in Boston guest of her sister.

D. C. Ballou & Co. lost a valuable horse last Saturday afternoon.

A. M. Lycett returned home Monday evening after a very pleasant trip to Moosehead Lake, Me.

Susan Lycett met with a painful accident the first of the week. While coasting she fell from her sled breaking her collar-bone.

Miss Helen Lycett was the guest of Miss Katherine McAuley of Dorchester over Sunday.

Mrs. Wilson Richardson and Mrs H. W. Butler spent Wednesday in Salem visiting friends.

Miss Frances L. Libby returned to Magnolia Monday evening after a very pleasant tour of Italy and Sicily.

Lyman Butler returned home from New York City the first of the week, where he has been spending a short vacation.

Mrs. Harry Hannaford has been confined to her home the past week with a bad case of tonsilitis.

Mrs. James Wolff and daughter Ada were renewing acquaintances in Gloucester the latter part of the week.

Police officer Martin J. Burke has been confined to his home the past week with a bad cold. Clarence Wilkinson is taking his place.

The Bible class will meet next Tuesday evening with Mrs. Elbridge Foster.

A Christmas sermon will be preached next Sunday morning at the Village Church and the Christmas carols will be sung by the congregation.

The annual Christmas tree exercises will be held in the church on Thursday, Christmas Eve., at 7 o'clock. The children are practicing under the direction of Mrs. Fred. Lycett, superintendent of the Sunday School and Miss Amy Lycett, organist.

Mrs. Loud is reported as being very ill at her home on Magnolia avenue.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Miss White's store is in holiday dress. She has a fine line of holiday goods.

Miss Florence Thallon of Boston has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly, Oak street, the past week.

Councilman A. P. Loring, jr., at a meeting of the common council elect last evening, lost the presidency of the board by a vote of 7 to 9. The successful candidate was Councilman Lamb of Ward 5.

Reception Tendered Beverly's Mayor-Elect.

The Ward 6 voters tendered a reception to Mayor-elect Trowt in Marshall's hall, Beverly Farms, last evening. The hall was crowded to its capacity and was prettily decorated with flags, bunting and colored paper and potted plants set off the platform. Prior to calling the meeting to order the gathering was entertained by a graphophone concert, given by Jeremiah F. Linehan.

When the mayor-elect entered he was greeted with applause and congratulatory hand-shaking. Commander Charles H. Day of Preston post opened the meeting with a few remarks, introducing ex-Rept. W. R. Brooks, who presided in an able and pleasing manner, introducing each speaker with appropriate remarks. Leo C. Demack of Beverly presided at the piano.

W. B. Publicover and Stephen J. Connolly, members of Mr. Trowt's campaign committee, acted as a committee to escort "the next chief executive of the city" to the platform. The toastmaster, after congratulating Mr. Trowt in behalf of an almost unanimous backing from the voters of his home ward, presented him with a beautiful ebony gavel, gold mounted and suitably inscribed.

Mr. Trowt was taken completely by surprise, but overcame his feelings of gratitude by making a splendid address in which he thanked all for their cordial support and confidence, not alone the Ward 6 voters, but the voters of the entire city. He then spoke along general lines, his remarks being received with much enthusiasm. Later in the evening he was entrusted with a beautiful bouquet which he was to take home and present to Mrs. Trowt.

Among those who followed in short congratulatory speeches were Alderman Hodgkins, Councilmen A. P. Loring, jr., Charles H. Hull and John W. Phillips, also Stephen J. Connolly, James B. Dow, John S. Crowley, D. W. Hardy, T. D. Connolly, Rev. Clarence S. Pond, Theodore A. Tufts, Alfred E. Lunt, John H. Linehan, N. S. Horton and James J. Nugent.

The last speaker, Mr. Nugent, said that while he was interested in one of the other candidates and did all he could to elect him, he was now glad that the Ward 6 man had won out, upon which three cheers were given for "Sunny Jim," who, to show his good feeling and best wishes toward the Mayor-elect, had sent his carriage to Mr. Trowt's home to bring the honored guest to the hall.

The meeting then adjourned to the lower hall where a long table had been set, upon which a bounteous lunch was spread. The meeting broke up with three hearty cheers for Beverly's next mayor, Charles H. Trowt of Ward 6.

Mlle. L'Etourneau's store in Central square has an attractive display of Christmas goods and her show windows are prettily decorated.

The dancing party held last week was such a success that the young men who conducted it are planning to give another in the near future.

Michael Dennigan has entered the service of his former employee, Thomas M. McKee, and is busily engaged painting the garage on Everett street.

For Christmas more than 60 patterns of meerschaum and gold mounted pipes at the very lowest prices at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, Beverly Farms. *

Special efforts are being made to have the Christmas observance one of great pleasure for the younger members of St. Margaret's church. The usual Christmas tree and entertainment will be given.

Miss Ruth Hardy leaves today for a three weeks' visit at Bangor, Me., with her uncle, Mr. Harding, and family.

Miss Jane Watson's dancing class last evening was held in G. A. R. hall. This change was made in order that the much larger Marshall's hall could be used for the Ward 6 voters' reception to Mayor-elect Trowt.

F. P. Gaudreau, the Central square tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will keep his place of business open until 11 p. m. on December 24, to give all his customers an opportunity to get their work done, for his shop will be closed all day on Christmas, Dec. 25. *

Nathan W. Hull.

Nathan W. Hull, one of the oldest and best known residents of Beverly Farms, passed away at the home ot his daughter, Mrs. Winthrop F. Low, Valley street, last Saturday night at 12.45. His age was 75 years, 3 months, 10 days.

Mr. Hull was a native of Beverly where he always lived until coming to the Farms about eight years ago to live with his daughter. For a number of years he was with the late Asa O. Marshall at the Farms assisting in various capacities both in and out of the drug store.

He was a member of the Royal Arcanum of Beverly and of Bass River lodge, I. O. O. F., of Beverly.

Mr. Hull was the last of his family and is survived by only one child, Mrs. Low. Two sons died some years ago. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 at the First Baptist church, the Rev. C. S. Pond officiating.

In connection with the possibility of another tug-of-war contest between the Yannigans and the Manchester K. of C. team, and in reply to the semi-official challenge for another contest printed in last week's Breeze the following reply from the K. of C. team, will be of interest: "The champion K. of C. tug-of-war team are delighted to see that Capt. Gaudreau has finally recovered his wits and has summoned enough courage to challenge them after their (the Yannigans) recent defeat. The K. of C. team agree in all details as to time and money, but under no consideration will they stand for the defeated team to name the place of contest. This is a right in which any victor has the say and it looks rather queer that any place should be specified. We hope the next defeat they will take more like men, than like school boys."

George F. Wood, while driving toward Manchester a few days ago, was struck by an automobile, at Malt Hill, which demolished the carriage and threw him to the ground. While he was not badly hurt he was considerably shaken up and received a number of bruises and cuts to the extent that medical attendance was necessary. The horse ran away, but was stopped before any further damage was done. The auto was owned by a Beverly business man.

Mr. Dolan, the clerk at Daniel-Gleason Co.'s, is wearing a smile that won't come off, due to the arrival of a 12-lb baby girl which arrived in his home in Roxbury the first of the week.

For the winter months F. P. Gaudreau tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will close his place of business at 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m. Saturdays at 11 p. m. *

The community deeply sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Benj. F. Hawkins over the death of their two-year-old child, John, who passed away suddenly early Thursday morning almost without any warning, as the child had been sick only a couple of days, and it was considered an illness not at all serious. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Miss Dorothy Larcom is making a try for the piano at the Daniels-Gleason Co., and her many friend are saving their coupons to assist her in securing the much desired prize.

A full line of Victor Leon Toilet Water,—Violet, Rose de France, Hiawatha, Azalea, Persian Lilac, and also Colgate's Toilet goods for Christmas can be found at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop. *

On Thursday evening, Dec. 31, the G. A. R. and Associates will start a pitch tournament to run for 12 nights, at the end of which suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. All members are requested to be present. Anyone desiring to join the Associates may do so by making application and paying the dues, $1.50, which will pay for a year's membership.

The members of the Farms fire department are going to make a try for the Daniels-Gleason Co. piano, believing that this particular article would be a splendid addition to their quarters in Central square. A committee is in charge, to solicit and collect the necessary coupons.

John Pier has gone to New York city for a week or two and then he will go to Paris, France, to visit his old home, returning to the Farms in early spring.

The members of Miss Connolly's senior gymnasium classes are looking forward with much interest to their coming Christmas tree, and to the costume party in which every member of the class will participate. The affair is to be held Monday evening, Dec. 21. Owing to the size of the classes it will be strictly private. Prizes will be awarded.

A grand assortment of all the leading brands of cigars for Christmas in small quantities, 12 and 25 in a box, can be bought at the lowest prices at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, No. 9, Wes street, Beverly Farms. *

The men's class in gymnastics and physical culture met for the first time last Tuesday evening in Marshall's hall, there being a good attendance, and much interest in the work being shown. The class will meet Tuesday evenings. The number will be limited, though there is yet room for a few more.

It is very likely that the Farms young folk will soon have a skating pond at the play grounds as the objections by some of the abuttors have been practically overcome. The trouble was caused by the water flowing over onto other land. This can be prevented by making the area covered by water more level by the close cutting of the glass and the leveling of the hummocks.

Miss Edith Marshall is at Wm. G. Webber Co.'s over the holiday rush.

Alexander Southerland is at New York city for the next fortnight.

Councilman John C. McCarthy has been quoted as being candidate for the board of park commissioners to succeed Edmund Putnam, whose term expires. Mr. McCarthy's position in the matter is this: if Mr. Putnam desires re-election and has no opposition from other sections of the city Mr. McCarthy will not oppose him, but should others enter the field then the councilman from Ward 6 will also become a candidate.

A large audience was out last Monday evening to the lecture on "Watchmaking," at the Baptist church, by H. E. Duncan of the Waltham Watch Co. The lecture proved very interesting and instructive, the speaker being aided in his address by stereopticon and moving pictures.

"Chappie," the pet spaniel dog belonging to Mrs. James B. Dow is no more,---having passed away the early part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Naylor of Hart street had their family circle enlarged the latter part of last week by the arrival of a daughter.

Mrs. Martin J. Hayes and two children returned to their home in Milford Thursday after spending the past week with Farms relatives.

Business at the Farms is very quiet and the various contractors have practically settled down to routine work, with only the regular list of workmen. Consequently there are at present quite a number out of employment.

Capt. Charles Jones this week hauled up his boats and has given up his fishing until early next spring.

Miss Connolly's children's gymnasium class will have their Christmas tree in Marshall's hall tomorrow evening.

Mrs. Victor Borden and child of Boston have been visiting Mrs. Borden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Preston, the past week.

Leonard Fowle, who has been a Farms' resident for about a year past, has gone to Chicago, where he has accepted a position in the shipping department of a large business concern.

Mayor-elect Trowt arrived home late Tuesday evening from a few days' rest spent among friends in New York City and on Long Island. His Honor to be was certainly entitled to a few days' vacation after the strenuous campaign. He will have many appointments to make and will therefore no doubt, be beseiged by the many who would like to serve the city in some of these positions.

Leon Pierce, owing to the greater part of the work at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., being done by Connolly Bros., being finished, has concluded his duties there as time-keeper and has spent the past few days taking in the sights in New York City.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1908.

RANDOM THOUGHTS.

BY D. F. LAMSON.

No. XXX.

At this Christmas-tide we may be thankful that peace on earth seems nearer realization than often in the past. The day may be distant when it will be universal and complete, but we can at least behold the vision of it, and the world seems moving in the direction of it.

Progress is the watchword of the hour; it is blasoned on banners, proclaimed from platforms, taught by the schools, passed along the ranks of the combatants. The question of moment is, What is the nature of the progress, under what guidance, and in what direction? Is it on a right line, or on a tangent.?

Thought transference, mind reading, sub-liminal consciousness, hypnotism, and various other mental phenomena, some of which are no new thing under the sun but simply parading with new names, show us that Hamlet was right when he said, "there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy." At the present stage of both physical and mental knowledge, the withholding of hasty and positive opinions and judgments would seem to be the part of wisdom and modesty.

Many who seem to enjoy perfect serenity of mind purchase it by shutting the eyes to the world's sore misery and pain. One who has to bear the burdens of humanity, a Howard, a Wilburforce, a Lincoln, a Florence Nightingale, cannot always be at ease and hilarious; but they who are called to bear the infirmities of the weak, and who share the griefs of the Man of sorrows, have a joy beside which mere smug content with one's own favored enviroment, or jaunty indifference to the world's sorrow, is not worthy of mention.

The spacious times of the great Elizabeth were times of great adventure, great bravery, and great achievement; as we read of them in the pages of historians, we are amazed at their splendor; but on the whole they must have been sad times to live in, they lacked many of the comforts and amenities of our modern times, their rudeness and cruelty were poorly compensated for by their half-barbaric magnificence.

A certain system of theology known by the name of a noted reformer is stigmatized by many as wanting in all justice and reason and humanity; at the same time these very critics eulogize it as the source of all that is best in our modern life and civilization. Are not these men bound to show how such an evil tree can bring forth such good fruit? "Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?"

A new year brings with it many memories of the past, among them those of mistakes and failures; but it should also awaken new hopes and purposes, and be to us an incentive and stimulus to high endeavor; it is not what we are, but what we are aiming at, that is the real test of character. "Not as though I were already perfect . . . . but I press toward the mark."

A great deal often depends on the view-point; teachers sometimes think some things important that pupils do not; parents and children do not always see things alike; and it is by no means surprising if God's thoughts are not as our thoughts, though many seem to think they ought to be. What then? Shall we give over the management of our schools to the pupils, or let children rule over us, or deny God his authority? Shall the greater submit to the less, or the less to the greater? Shall we overturn the whole system of the universe? Common sense would give but one answer.

THE EPIC BIRTH.

The above was the theme of a Christmas sermon by L. H. Ruge, pastor of the Congregational church, at Manchester, last Sunday morning. Mr. Ruge began by saying:—

Latin, Epicus; Greek, Epikos; Epos, Word. "The word was made flesh." This incarnate Word of God, this incarnate Truth of God, this incarnate Life of God makes the birth of Christ the Epic birth of man.

The epic tale, art, poem, or drama is forever outclassed by this epic life. The book of Job, Das Nibelungenlied, Homer's Iliad, Virgil's Ænied, Milton's Paradise Lost, Tasso's Jerusalem, Klopstock's Messiah,—Ah, these are epics that set times apart in the history of the world; but they are academic figures, the mere copies of the visions of genius; here is the living, divine Epic man of all ages.

"She brought forth her firstborn son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, an laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn."

The glory of geography is Palestine, not Europe, not America; not Boston, but Bethlehem of Judea.

Turn back the pages of this century's old story of the Christ. A humble man and woman have made a long journey of eighty miles. How it wore upon the woman down the valley of the Jordan and across the desert of Judea, until they arrive at the inn. But there is no room, no privacy for the virgin mother. This is easily understood, this couple were poor. We may be quite sure there was room for rich publicans and pharisees. It was a course and unfeeling thing to thrust Mary that night into a stall. Let us not forget that Jesus taught this world gentleness and the finer feelings, but at his birth there was not a gentle man or a gentle woman to give place to Mary.

The epic hour of the ages has come. "In the fullness of time Christ came." The very ages travelled in birth with this child. The epic hour of empire has come for "the Kingdom of heaven is at hand." The epic hour of fulfillment of prophecy has come and the vision of Isaiah is realized. The heavens travelled in birth when the Son of God was born. The epic hour of sin's fatal fever has come. Some time in your life you were held in the grip of a dread fever and the crisis came, but you slept with a health dew on your brow. That was the epic hour in your span of years. In the morn when the Christ child opened its eyes to the light of day all the world awoke convalescent.

The story looks intensely human when we look at the thirty odd years of this life, but it is strangely divine when we look at the sweep of that life through the centuries. You may look at the extremeties of the Christ life in the flesh and say it was merely human, but you cannot look at the extremities of the Christ spirit in the vast reaches of Christian civilization and human salvation and say it was merely human.

Oh, the deep and high reaches of that life! Some of the old masters have plainted the beasts as kneeling at the manger, and well they might kneel to him who came to them for shelter that they might some day come to him for shelter. As you ride past Boston's massive hospital for animals reverently remember that the suffering brutes have felt the Savior's power. There is not a bird that flys, not a horse that strains along the highway, not a steer in the slaughter pen, not even a rodent in the agonies of vivisection but has its rights of appeal at the high court of Christian humanity today. He who bears the burden of the world's woe, has he nothing in common with these burden bearers of the marts?

The situations in the inn were strangely ordained in wisdom. The lowest need not hesitate to come to the manger and none are so exalted as to demean themselves by kneeling where the Magi cast their gifts. Beside this rude crib and the cross of Christ all cast and conditions of society come to an equality.

Is there no boast of heraldry here, Joseph?—no social rank, no scholastic standing, no political prestige, no monied power, thou Galilean? Then there is no room for thee. The King came but the Kingdom was not ready, and yet they boasted of his coming. The Messiah came but no reception awaited him. And yet these very learned doctors boasted of prophetic understanding. And what is forever the fundamental risk? That we are not ready for his coming; that we, like those priests and pharisees, shall go our placid way of prejudice and not know that he is here.

"He came unto his own and his own received him not." Stereotype that truth of every age. Oh, these dying millions of a chosen race, looking for the hope of all ages who yet troop the centuries with eyes unblessed in seeing his day, beaten and baffled by their problems in the dark with the Christ agonizing still over the city!

No room for the Christ in Judaism, no room in the constitutions of state, no room in commerce, no room in classic training, no room in congressional halls, no room in the church. This is the tragic sin of the world that they will not have this man to reign over them.

Oh, the subtle, soothing, seraphic spell Christmas casts over Christendom, until our senses are dazzled and our sentiments stirred and we say: The Christ child has found room at last. But has he? No, yonder he goes forever with no place where he may lay his head. Nor pealing chimes, nor chanting choirs can still the voice of him who says, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these ye did it not to me." Within a stone's throw of our gorgeous yuletide praise, where worshippers inventory many millions, the tax ridden multitudes suffer and starve and the social problem, that the Christ solves, reaches still monumental to the skies beyond the highest spire.

And how is it with us personally? What room do we give him? Sleeps he in the manger of the mind? Is he simply the child of an obscure couple to us or is he to us Immanuel of prophetic fire? What holy interior throne in our soul does he possess?

"Oh, my brother, are we wiser,
Are we better now than they?
Do we give full room to Jesus
In the life we live today?

"Room for pleasure,—doors wide open,
And for business,—but for Jesus
Only here and there a manger
Like to that at Bethlehem."

Leave him in the manger no more. Lift him from the lowly place and enthrone him on high forevermore. He comes to us not in the obscurity of a Galilean couple, he comes to us with the matchless record of the Christian centuries to endorse his claim to our homage. If he came today and entered our humble homes he would change them into palaces beyond compare, and if he seated himself a common chair would turn into the throne of the universe.

Then "Swing the heart's door widely open." Let this festal season in spirit and in truth ring in the coming of our King. Open every avenue of the soul, for if hope and heaven ever came to human hearts it came through the Epic life of the Son of God.

"Allelujah! Christ is born!
And the world rolls past its dawn,
Up into the eternal morn!"

"Villa-al-Mare," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee at Beverly Farms, is the subject of the leading article in this month's House and Garden. The article is beautifully illustrated. Another North Shore house, that of Charles P. Searle, at Ipswich, also beautifully illustrated appears in this month's The House Beautiful. Both articles, we note, is written and illustrated, by Miss Mary H. Northend of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs Walter D. Denegre had as their week-end guests at Villa Crest, their West Manchester residence, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland, who closed their residence at West Manchester some weeks ago, prior to sailing for Europe the latter part of this month to spend the winter. Mr. Denegre is going south to New Orleans next week for a week or so and about the middle of the month the family goes to Washington for the season there. Mr. Denegre has taken a house at Washington.

Mrs. Robert C. Heaton comes down to her Beverly Farms cottage to spend the week-ends every week, and last week-end she had her brother, John Silsbee Curtis and Mrs. Curtis down as her guests. Mrs. Curtis' son, Robert G. Shaw, 2d, and Mrs. Shaw are still at their Beverly Farms cottage, though Mrs. Shaw will probably go south with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell the middle of January as last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell and their son, John, who attends St. Mark's school, are at Fernandina, Fla., to spend the holidays with Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, and family. Mrs. Mitchell will come north the first week in January with her son, and will come to her residence in Manchester for a fortnight. She will join Mr. Mitchell later and will spend the balance of the winter in the south.

Many rumors have been rife the past month as to where President-elect Taft would spend next summer. We have learned from a reliable source the past week that no place has yet been selected, but that the North Shore has been considered by Mr. Taft and that the chances are very favorable to his taking an estate either at Manchester or Beverly Farms. Definite inquiries have been made toward seeing what can be found as a suitable summer home for Mr. Taft and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, jr., arrived on the Celtic from Liverpool in New York last week in time for Christmas. Mrs. Morgan is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grew of Boston and Manchester.

A Taft Colony to be Established on the North Shore?

A despatch from Atlanta, Ga., appeared in all the papers last Monday to this affect:

That a Taft summer colony may be established somewhere on the New England coast is the earnest hope of President-elect W. H. Taft and there is a chance that some place along the North Shore from Nahant to Rockport may be the place selected for the summer capital.

He said last night at Atlanta that he had no intention of summering on Long Island; that while no active endeavors were being made at present, it was his desire and that of his brothers to find some place on the New England coast, as nearly as possible duplicating the very desirable conditions the family so long enjoyed during the summer months at Murray Bay, Canada. There each of the Taft brothers have cottages.

If the proper place can be found, and earnest efforts to this end will be made later, the four brothers—William H., Charles P., Henry W. and Horace D. —will locate together, so that their outdoor exercise and congenial family life and association may be carried on as it has been heretofore. Horace D. Taft owns a place at Wainscott, L. I., but the President-elect said last night, that this was not regarded as the desired situation for the plans contemplated, thus confirming what Horace Taft has said himself.

A TERRIBLE PRAYER.

Subject of Theodore L. Frost's Sermon Sunday Evening.

Mr. Frost took for his text Luke 14:18, "I pray thee have me excused." Following are a few excerpts from the sermon:

"The art of excusing is by no means an art of the past. We have our excuses for not going in a certain place; for not doing certain things. Now when it comes to religion we hear many different excuses. You ask an individual to to come to church or to stay to the Bible school. They always have an excuse.

"Are we always so particular in other things? The fact is, that these excuses we are constantly trotting out are very transparent affairs, just as if they were made of glass. Now Jesus was sitting at meat in the Pharisee's house, and he told the story of a man that had prepared a great supper and had invited many guests to dine with him. When the time came for the supper, there were a great many excuses for not coming. Each excuse was a terrible prayer.

"To be excused from God is simply a neglect of duty. To say I cannot come to God is a polite way of saying, 'I will not.' We blindfold our eyes by saying 'I cannot,' and we also blind ourselves from God's sight. If you accept your duty to God, the duty then becomes a privilege.

"People often make the excuse for not coming to church because they are not strong enough, but they can go into a ball-room and dance all night, probably many miles, and then wonder why they are all played out.

"Jesus said, 'Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.' You say, 'have me excused.' What do you mean? If you pray to be excused from God's mercy, are you not inviting his judgment upon you? Consider what it means. It is a prayer for the judgment."

George L. Knight was the purchaser of the Cheever field, so-called, off Friend's court last Saturday, when the property was sold at auction. The field is about an acre and a half in area and went at a surprisingly low figure,---$2175. There were only three other bidders. Mr. Knight bought for protection, as his own property adjoins this field. He may, however, develop the property next spring and sell part of it as house lots. The field is bounded on one side by the Baptist parsonage, the property of G. L. Knight and that of B. L. Bullock, on two sides by Burnham's court, and on the other side by Friend's court. Outside its poor drainage conditions the property is among the most desirably located in town for house lots.

The Ladies' Social circle will meet next Wednesday evening at Mrs. Edward Haraden's, Bridge street.

The Philathea class will meet with Miss Emma Prest, Monday evening, Dec. 28, at 7.30.

The Sacred Heart church is beautifully decorated for the Christmas season, the first time the new church will be used at Christmas time. The singing, too, at the High Mass tomorrow morning at 10.30 will be a feature well worth hearing.

The music at the High Mass at the Sacred Heart church tomorrow---Christmas morning, at 10.30, is expected to be of first class quality, as the chorus of 15 voices have put in much time and effort in practicing for the event. Rev. Fr. Powers extends an invitation to any of his non-Catholic friends who would like to hear the music to attend the services tomorrow morning. All will be welcome. There will be room for everybody.

Rev. David W. Hearn, S. J., vice president of Boston College, will sing the mass on Christmas morning and will preach the sermon.

The usual Christmas entertainment for the children of the Sacred Heart church Sunday School will be held at Parish hall on Saturday afternoon at 2.30. A Punch & Judy show by Prof. Mack of Boston will be provided for the children's entertainment, to be followed by a distribution of candy.

At the Baptist church next Friday evening, Jan 1, a missionary concert by the missionary workers will be given. A colleetion will be taken.

Assistant Appointed to Pastorate of Sacred Heart Church.

Rev. Joseph A. Brandley has been appointed by Most Reverend Archbishop Williams as assistant to Rev. Fr. Powers, at the Sacred Heart church, Manchester, and he will begin his duties here on New Year's Day.

Rev. Fr. Brandley is a graduate of the Brighton (St. John's) Seminary, and was ordained to the priesthood last Friday, at the cathedral in Boston. He is the first assistant to be appointed to the Manchester church.

After this program there will be the distribation of presents.

At the Congregational church something different in the line of entertainment will be given. The first part will be in the form of a tableau. The stage has been transformed into an old fashioned sitting room with a large fireplace in the center. The family is seen sitting around the fireplace, and the mother (Miss Edna Kitfield) is telling stories to her children (Pauline Semons and Mary Knight.) The children hear many wonderful stories about Christmas and Santa Claus, and after hanging up their stockings in the fire place they go to bed, with great expectations of the morrow.

In the next part we find Santa Claus (B. F. Merrill) with his pack of toys. He amuses the children by singing, "I am Santa Claus" and after telling them that he has just been to Rome, and that Mrs. William Hooper sent him to Manchester with his toys, he proceeds to distribute candy and presents to the children. The entertainment closes by a song from Santa entitled, "Good Night."

To our readers, one and all, we wish a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Commenting on Col. Sohier's remarks at Gloucester last week the Gloucester Daily Times says under the caption, "Preserve the Forests of the City:"

"The remarks of Col. William D. Sohier, before the Cape Ann Scientific and Literary Association, relative to the ravages of the gypsy and brown-tail moths among the woodland of our city and the desirability of developing seashore property by the construction of good roads through these forest preserves, was certainly in the nature of a revelation to the majority of his hearers, who while they may have formed some ideas of the menace to the forests by the damage to their own trees, had no adequate conception of the vast and far reaching destructiveness of the moth is liable to cause unless vigilant, energetic and systematic methods of checking the ravages is entered upon immediately.

"The moth situation is divided into two classes, infested and colonization, the former designation being for few and scattered nests, the latter where the pests have spread out over acres of land, developing and increasing with such rapidity that when they start upon their usual movements, it is impossible to stop them, so vast are they in numbers.

"The colonel citied many instances where attempts had been made to check them, only to meet with failure. The danger to the forests at West Gloucester, Magnolia and other sections of the city were pointed out clearly and concisely and remedies suggested.

"Col. Sohier spoke with the conviction of a man thoroughly conversant with his subject, carrying with it all the more weight from the practical experience he has gleaned.

"It is certain that the people of this city, if they would preserve those beautiful woods, must act and act promptly. Some public spirited citizens should organize a committe immediately and plan a campaign of extermination, which must be kept up until the pests are exterminated or controlled. The quicker the work is entered upon the better."

Gloucester Backward in Developing its Seashore and Adjacent Woodland Property, Says Col. Sohier.

In an address at Gloucester recently Col. Wm. D. Sohier, who has done so much in opening up woodland property along the Manchester and Beverly shore, pointed out that Gloucester was backward in developing its seashore and adjacent woodland property, speaking particularly of the property on the Magnolia-Freshwater Cove shore, and backward from it. He said in part:

Gloucester has done very little to develop her advantages in seashore property. The shore property of Beverly is its greatest asset, the taxes from that equalling the tax of the other portions of the city, while the expenses are in no way commensurate with the receipts. Realizing the advantages of woods and shore roads, the people of Beverly put in water works in 1871 and extended them to points where they were available to this property. Manchester did the same at Smith's Point. Mr. Payne went to Beverly and purchased an old farm house which had almost gone to rack and ruin and now that estate is worth $3,500,000 for taxable purposes. You have splendid shore and woods property; no better can be found anywhere else. Along Magnolia this property has been allowed to remain undeveloped.

You have one and a half miles of shore which any reasonable person would develop by the building of roads and thus bring the land into the market. There is opportunity for beautiful drives. Yet I have not seen any great interest in this direction in Gloucester. I have been here twice before the city council and urged them to appropriate money to develop that shore property and I did not find a Magnolia person present although I notified 20 of them of the meeting.

Another point which can be developed at a slight expense is Magnolia avenue, leading to West Gloucester, which is narrow, crooked and dangerous and I never ventured through it with an automobile for fear of danger, which is apparent, to people driving in carriages. The Boston and Maine railroad offered an agreement for a road around Wallace pond and thus eliminate the grade crossing besides affording a delightful woods drive of about 6000 feet, but the prosition was rejected by the city. A new proposition was made, however, which has been accepted and will carry the road away from the railroad track. The cost to the city will not be more than 15 per cent of the total cost and possibly less than that.

The woods road movement in Beverly was started five years ago, and since that time 24 miles of woods roads have been constructed and they are utilized as driveways by women and children, and are free from automobiles. Splendid opportunities for delightful woods roads are offered at Haskell's pond, Wallace's pond, Fernwood lake and Dike's meadow, and three miles have already been constructed between Essex avenue and Manchester, passing by Haskell's pond, through permission granted by the water board. We will try and continue that road and build out towards Essex next year. It is very short sighted on the part of Gloucester to sit down all these years and not take steps to develop such splendid opportunities.

Men from this section go to Maine and New Hampshire ponds to see the beautiful scenery and spend their days fishing, never getting a bite, while they leave better ponds right here at their very door.

MANCHESTERITES IN OKLAHOMA.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Lutz Write of Their New Home in the Middle West.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Lutz and family, who recently moved away from Manchester and went to Oklahoma City, Okla., for the benefit of Mr. Lutz's health, will be interested in reading of their new home in the middle west. Mr. Lutz was formerly of the force of employees at Standley's blacksmith shop and he has engaged in this line of business in his new home. The letter follows:

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.,
Dec. 13, 1908.

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear Mr. Lodge:

As we promised before leaving Manchester, we will write through you to all our friends in the east.

We have located in Oklahoma City for the present at least. Everything is so strange and so entirely different than the east. One sees quite a lot of Texans and Mexicans here and colored people without number. They keep the poor "niggers" down; can't travel in the same car, nor come in the same waiting room, nor attend the same schools nor churches; they think nothing of calling them "black niggers;" but the colored people are so used so it they don't mind what the white folks say to them.

Convicts work on the roads here and they work very hard, too. The dirt is very red and some very black and while it is dry weather it is alright, but when it rains it is very bad and sticky. They try to keep the city in good condition, but it is not as clean a city as either Salem or Boston.

They have some very fine buildings here; fine hotels and bank buildings. Business seems to be quiet, but real estate is booming. The city is really land mad. One hears nothing but buying or selling land, and houses are going up like hot cakes. The streets in the center and for quite a way out are paved, and this year there is a contract for $600,000 more paving to be done. I have forgotten, but I wish I could remember the amount of money to be put in buildings after the first of the year. One has to get a permit to build a house here.

The people are very sociable and pleasant and make one feel right at home. They have that broad southern dialect which sounds so strange to us. The houses are low,—one story mostly, with no cellar, and with well at the back door. They have the city water, but it is seldom carried into the houses. It seems so strange to see the water outside. They do not have faucets, but it is a long curved pipe standing about 18 inches from the ground with a shut on and off attached. Of course, they have two-story houses, but these are very few. The new houses going up now have all the modern conveniences, water, etc., but, my, you have to pay for them. Rents are something terrible; little three or four room tenements are $15 to $20 a month. There are lots of two-room houses that let for $15. The houses with improvements run from $30 to $50 and $60.

The 'phone is used here all the time; there is hardly a family, no matter what their circumstances are, but has a 'phone. This city is laid out very nicely. The streets are all wide with a nice wide alley running in between the blocks giving a fine back entrance. The streets run east and west, north and south, and house lots run from the street back to the alley north and south and are about 50 feet wide.

There are four railroads entering the city, at four different depots. Three are in the east side and one in the west. There are four principal thoroughfares, ---Main street, Grand avenue, California avenue and Reno avenue, running east and west, and Broadway running north and south. Main street separates north and south and Broadway east and west.

There is very little winter here. The ground never freezes enough to hinder farmers from ploughing all winter. There is never more than a flurry of snow once or twice in a winter, and often no snow at all.

Canadian River runs through this state and it is from this they get the water supply. The water is very impure and has to be filtered before it is fit to drink. A great many buy spring water. We buy five gallons of Puritas Spring water a week. A new filtering plant is being built now and when that is ready no doubt the water will be better. We have very heavy rain storms and after a storm the water is as red as a brick.

We are all very well just now, but our little girl was very sick for six weeks after coming here. The doctor claimed it was the changed water. She had a hard time of it. Mr. Lutz's health is much improved; he has a hard time when he takes cold, but he seems to be able to shake off a cold here better than he ever could anywhere in the east.

The weather is beautiful. The nights are cool and frosty, but one can do without a fire in the day time.

There are four newspapers here: The Times, daily and weekly; News and Oklahoman, daily and weekly, and The Pointer, given free every night but Saturday, and another given free every Sunday morning to every house in town.

The cost of living is about the same as in Boston with the exception of meats, which are very reasonable. Pork and beef are the principle kinds, and a few places carry lamb and veal. All poultry is bought alive. One has to dress all poultry himself. It seems so funny to see the crates of all kinds of live poultry setting out on the sidewalk,---12½ to 16 cents a pound is the price just now, the highest of the year.

The walnut is the most common tree here and there is also a bean tree that is very common. These are the usual street trees and the long beans,—16 to 18 inches—hang down so that one's hat almost touches them.

The women dress in grand style. They seem very fond of dress. They dress as warm in winter here as they do in the east.

This is a wicked city. Everything is in full swing on Sunday, theatres, dance halls, some stores, the captenters work, in fact one would never know it was Sunday; but at the same time there is a large attendance at the churches. They say they are always crowded to the doors, so we are glad to say there must be some good people, or rather some churchgoers.

Now we will quit, as they say here, for this time. Give our best regards and extend the c mpliments of the season to all our friends in Manchester.

Very cordially yours,
MR. and MRS. STANLEY A. LUTZ.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Knight were called to Haverhill last Sunday by the serious illness of Mrs. Knight's nephew, Bryce Barnett Hayden, whose death early Monday morning brings sadness into a large family circle. The young man was in his 20th year, and was just entering upon a business career, after completing his education, having a bright future before him, which makes his untimely death all the more sad. Death resulted from Bright's disease. His remains were taken to Maine for burial. Mr. Hayden was well known here, having been a frequent visitor at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Knight.

The Beach Street Cafe was the scene of a merry gathering Wednesday evening when Mrs. J. S. Reed, president of the Allen Relief corps, entertained the various officers who have served under her the past year, some sixteen in all. The party assembled about 8 o'clock and at 8.30 all went to the dining room, where a long table had been spread with covers for eighteen and a turkey supper was served. The table was effectively decorated and the room was aglow with Christmas colors. In the center, suspended from the ceiling, and directly over the table. hung a little flaxen haired angel which was the center of no little comment. The evening passed all too quickly, but it brought to a most pleasing close a year's faithful service and one in which there was much delight for Mrs. Reed as president of the corps.

Mrs. Hattie F. Baker and family and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cook and daughter will spend the Christmas holidays at Reading with Mrs. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Damon.

John Cool returned to Manchester Thursday after a year's absence, during which he was at his former home in Newfoundland. His wife and infant child will join him here next spring.

Mrs. Fred Harvey and three little children are guests over Christmas of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Rose, Bennett street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McEachern of Pine street lost their son, born on the 15th, on Wednesday.

There were suspicions of a burgalry at Old Neck Monday night when a rear door in the Dr. Brown house, occupied summers by Mrs. W. H. Lewis, was found open. John Wade, caretaker at the Pickering place, saw the door open and notified Maynard Gilman, who went to the house with officers Lee and Sheehan. A careful search of the house was made but nothing was found to indicate that the place had been entered.

Wednesday evening, February 10, has been decided upon as the date of the annual banquet of the North Shore Horticultural society. At the meeting of the society last Friday evening it was decided to hold the banquet as usual and the matter was left in the hands of a committee composed of Dr. Waldo H. Tyler, Robert A. Mitchell, John D. Morrison, Eric Wetterlow, Herbert Shaw and James Salter. These gentlemen met last evening at Dr. Tyler's and decided upon the date. Other details will be announced later.

At the meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society last Friday evening a nomination of officers was held. The annual election will be at the next meeting, Friday evening, Jan. 1.

J. F. Rabardy has been passing around some new calendars the past week.

A little daughter arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Rumrill Saturday, the 19th. Mr. Rumrill and family expect to move in their new home recently purchased,---the Dillon house, on Brook street, within a fortnight.

Mrs. Martha Gallagher of Dorchester is spending Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Lorenzo Baker at Mt. Pleasant Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Wheaton are spending Christmas with Mrs. Wheaton's parents, Supt. and Mrs. C. E. Fish in Amesbury.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller Ropes are on from Albany, N. Y , to spend Christmas with Mrs. Ropes' mother, Mrs. Samuel Knight, Central street.

Miss Alice Knight is home from Boston, where she attends the Posse gymnasium, and is spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. A. C. Needham, Union street. Carleton Knight is also spending Christmas with his sister.

Last night was the coldest of the year, thus far, the thermoneter dropping to 7 degrees above zero. No Christmas gift could be more pleasing to the icemen than cold, snappy weather at this season. The ice at Bennett's pond Wednesday was about seven inches thick. Last year the first ice was cut on Feb. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rand spent Sunday in Portsmouth, N. H.

Mrs. Arthur Toppon is on from Hanover, Mass., to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rowe, Central square. Mr. Toppon will be here over Christmas also.

BIBLE STUDY.

Theme of the Course: Life Eternal.

Lesson 8. More Blessed Folks Still.

1. The merciful, Matthew 5:7.

(a) Why do the merciful obtain mercy from men? From God? Why do the merciless receive no mercy from men? Do they from God?

(b) Study Matthew 9:14, 15 and Matthew 18:21-35. Why will not God forgive the unforgiving? Does God harbor a grudge against them? What is meant by forgiveness? Will God forgive us if we "forgive without forgetting?"

(c) Study Matthew 7:1-5. Can we help judging acts as right or wrong? Does this involve condemnation of the sinner? What is wrong about judging our neighbor?

2. The Peacemakers. Matthew 5:9. Why are the peacemakers called God's children? What name is given Christ in Isaiah 9:6? Read the picture of the Kingdom of God in Isaiah 11. Now read Matthew 10:34-36. Is all warfare wrong? May warriors really be peacemakers?

Next week we shall consider communion with the unseen God?

There will be sermons next Sunday both morning and evening at the church.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. Hunt next week on Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursday.

Invitations are out for the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge G. Foster on Thursday, December 31st. There will be a reception from 3 until 5 in the afternoon and from 8 until 10 in the evening.

The Christmas tree at the church tonight (Thursday) bids fair to be well laden with gifts that the children love. Practice for the Christmas program has gone on steadily and a general good time may be expected.

The Christmas tree program at Fresh Water Cove Chapel will occur Friday evening.

The workers in the recent No-License campaign in Gloucester met last Monday evening and voted unanimously to make the organization permanent. The object will be two-fold: to support the authorities in the enforcement of the law during the coming year and to hold Gloucester henceforth for No-License. All who voted "No" will be eligible for membership in the League.

We are sorry to report that Charles Brown has been confined to the house the past few days with rheumatism. He is well on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Fred Staples and son Frederick Clarence, returned home from Gloucester Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philemon Sanborn left the first of the week for Nashua, N. H., where they intend to spend some weeks with their son, Everett Sanborn.

Mrs. John B. Knowlton arrived home the last of the week from Greenbush on the South Shore where she has been the guest of her brother Clarence Allen.

Ernest Dunbar of Dorchester, met with a very serious and painful accident the last of the week, while at work. A bolt passed through his hand making a very ugly wound.

Miss Bessie Gray of Gloucester was the guest of Miss Amy Lycett over Sunday.

Miss Clara L. Butler spent Sunday in Gloucester guest of her sister Miss Maud E. Butler.

The village school closed Wednesday for the Christmas vacation, it will open again, Jan. 4.

Mrs. Edw. Foster, Mrs. Henry Brown and daughters Lizzie and Jennie spent Saturday in Salem.

Louis Zampbell, the Italian boy, who was sent to a Boston home some three months ago, through a misrepresentation of facts, it is alleged, has been returned to his parents much to the boy's joy, and to the gratification of all concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ward will spend Christmas in New York City, with relatives, Mrs. Ward going over the latter part of last week, and Mr. Ward joining her Thursday of this week.

Miss Kennison of Beverly concluded her duties as bookkeeper at the coal office of James B. Dow & Co. last Saturday evening and will become a student in shorthand and typewriting. A Miss Brown of Beverly is her successor.

A bob-o-link hawk was shot on Misery Island one day the first of the week and Captain Blaney brought it ashore and presented it to James E. McDonnell. The bird was a fine specimen and will later adorn Mr. McDonnell's home.

F. P. Gaudreau, the Central square tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will keep his place of business open until 11 p. m. on December 24, to give all his customers an opportunity to get their work done, for his shop will be closed all day on Christmas, Dec. 25. *

The gymnasium classes are planning to present a play in the near future in which will be introduced some of the excellent costumes worn at last night's private masquerade party.

Coasting has been exceptionally good the past few days and the young folk have made use of the nearby hills, enjoying this pastime to their heart's content.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Macklin of Concord, N. H., have spent the past week at the Farms the guests of friends. They returned home yesterday.

Mayor-elect Trowt has resigned from the school board and the vacancy will be filled by a joint convention of the aldermen and the school committee. James B. Dow is the most prominently mentioned for the position.

News has recently been received from "Johnnie" Woodbury, from California, that he has taken up mining upon a claim in which he is interested in a financial way, and while it is somewhat early to predict the outcome, the claim has the appearance of being a good paying investment.

Marshall Woodbury has purchased an Indian motor cycle and during the past week he has had considerable pleasure riding it about town.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pride are to spend most of the winter with their son, Edwin L. and family, at Winter Hill. They will go in time to spend the Christmas holidays and help make up a family gathering.

An attempt was made this week to level off the playground prior to flooding it for a skating pond, but it was found that the job would be much larger and more expensive than anticipated and it was therefore given up. The place will soon be flooded, however, to a height that is possible without doing too much damage to the adjoining property owners.

A fine specimen of a water witch has recently been making its feeding ground in the near vicinity of West Beach pier and has been the envy of a number of local sportsmen, who have, however, been unable to make the bird their victim to date.

The G. A. R. and Associates' pitch tournament will commence next week on Thursday evening, Dec. 31, and all who desire to enter should be present. The prizes for the winners of the last tournament will be awarded that evening.

A full line of Victor Leon Toilet Water,—Violet, Rose de France, Hiawatha, Azalea, Persian Lilac, and also Colgate's Toilet goods for Christmas can be found at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop. *

John L. Eaton, who for the past year or more, has been making his home at 135 Essex street, Salem, has recently moved to Plymouth street, South Salem, which is not quite so conveniently located as his former home, when his Farms friends went to call on him.

A grand assortment of all the leading brands of cigars for Christmas in small quantities, 12 and 25 in a box, can be bought at the lowest prices at F. P. Gaudreau's barber shop, No. 9, West street, Beverly Farms. *

The masquerade party and Christmas tree held Monday evening by the senior and junior gymnasium classes was certainly a banner occasion for the members. While the party was limited to the members of the classes enough about it has leaked out for the scribe to report that the costumes were exceedingly fine, ---by far the best ever seen here. There were many of a funny make up and take offs on all kinds of burlesque characters, made the more comical by the appropriate antics of the wearers. While each costume was worthy of a prize the winners were Miss Sophia Bennett and Mrs. D. T. Smith. Presents were distributed from the tree to each member of the classes.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mason left the Farms Monday for Winchester, N. H., their former home, where they will spend the holiday with relatives, and may extend their visit for several weeks.

The school vacation started Wednesday afternoon, and will extend to Jan. 4. The teachers have gone to their respective homes,---Miss O'Brien to Lanesville, Miss Williams to Orange, Miss Carpenter to Foxboro, Miss Swett to Amesbury and Miss Whitcomb to Newton.

A party of Farms young peoole went on a hayrack ride, with two horse sled, Monday night and had a most enjoyable time of it.

The Pilgrim Wanderers were guests Tuesday evening of the De Sota colony at Lynn and a good-size delegation went from here. A Christmas tree, with presents for all, was an interesting feature.

Frank McDonald has accepted a position in a Boston hotel for the winter and commenced his work Monday.

Thomas Naylor and C. Frank Trowt were prize winners in the poultry show at Beverly last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Publicover have with them over Christmas the former's aunt, Mrs. Mackie of Melrose, and Mrs. Smith of Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Barlow of Bangor, Me., arrived at the Farms Tuesday to spend Christmas with relatives.

Herbert L. Phillips who spent the past summer at the Farms left the first of the week having secured a position for the winter at Westerly, R. I.

Micha-l Nilan fell on the ice Tuesday and as a result he broke two bones in one leg. He was taken to the Beverly Hospital for treatment.

Dr. John J. Riordan is always in the best of good humor when he is holding the ribbons over one of his fast trotters. The tune of "jingle bells" of his racing cutter and the good sleighing of the past few days has lots to do with making the Dr. look pleasant. At the speedway at Idlewood "Dr. Jack" has been in several good brushes and has thus far been able to give the rest of the fast ones a go for their money.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Pierce will spend Christmas in Manchester with Mrs. Pierce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hoffman.

The children's gymnasium class costume party held in Marshall's hall last Saturday evening was a pretty affair. Each member was dressed to represent some feature or character. Miss Rosemary McLaughlin, representing one of the "gold dust tiwns," was awarded first prize, a doll; Miss Eleanor Hull, representing "an old fashioned lady," was awarded second prize, an umbrella. Each member also received a gift from the Christmas tree.

Preston Relief Corps, No. 93, has extended to Preston post and Associates, their wives and lady friends, an invitation to visit them on Monday evening, Dec. 28. It is said that the members of the corps have made special effort to make the evening's entertainment an exceptionally pleasant one.

The Beverly Farms school netted about $50.00 on its recent entertainment and also received about $30.00 from the sale of the manual training work articles, many of which were exceptionally good and went like "hot cakes," bringing good prices.

John A. Morrison spends Christmas and the balance of the week in New York City with friends.

Miss Beatrice Allen arrived home from Springfield Wednesday for the holidays and, with her parents, Station agent and Mrs. W. L. Allen, left Thursday to spend Christmas and the rest of the week with relatives at North Berwick and Portland, Me.

Miss Gertrude Connolly at last Saturday night's meeting of the children's gymnasium class, was presented with a bag, and at the session of the older ones on Monday night Miss May D. Connolly was presented with a bag. Both young ladies were completely surprised and warmly thanked the classes for the gifts.

:: Beverly Farms ::

In answer to an article in last week's Breeze in connection with another tug-of-war contest between the Yannigans of the Farms and the K. of C. team of Manchester, the Yannigans made the following reply in Monday's Beverly Times: "Where did the K. of C. team get their title of Champion from? Did the K. of C. team ever win a contest and if so from whom? The last time the K. of C. team pulled against the Yannigans, the referee (and rightly according to authority from several sources) declared no contest and all bets off. The Yannigans were never defeated and they pulled against the best team in Essex county. Consequently they claim the title of champions and have a right to name the place where the next contest is to take place. The K. of C. team of Manchester as they call themselves, had men from Gloucester and Boston to help them out in their contests in the past and they never won. The Yannigans are all Beverly Farms men, and they never brought in any ringers from outside to help them, as the K. of C. team did. The crowd that interferred with the Farms team in the last contest were sympathizers with K. of C. team and everybody who was present that night knows it. This statement will hold the K. of C. team for a while."

In reply to the above the K. of C. captain says further: "In reply to the captain of the Yannigans, the K. of C. champion tug-of-war team met and defeated teams from Newburyport, Lynn and Gloucester, and have defeated the so-called Yannigans twice. And some of those same men are still member of the same K. of C. champion tug-of-war team of the North Shore, and would like to arrange for a match with some good team."

The next entertainment in the series being given at the Baptist church, after Miss Loring's lecture on Italy next Tuesday evening, will be a musicale on Jan. 22, by Habern's Quartet, assisted by Percy Leveen, violinist, and Aurian Vila Chevers, whistling soloist. Master Leveen is well known at the Farms, as he lives here summers.

The meetings of the gymnasium classes held usually on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings, are to be omitted until the first week in January.

For the winter months F. P. Gaudreau tonsorial artist, Beverly Farms, will close his place of business at 8 p. m. instead of 9 p. m. Saturdays at 11 p. m. *
